John P. Martin Riddled with Bullets at Farmers by a Mob-His Crime.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Dep. 10 .- [Special.]-John P. Martin of Morebead, Ky., during a recent riot shot and killed Floyd Tolliver. For this ho was brought to Winchester for safekeeping, where he remained until last night, when three men came from Morehead and presented an order from the Magistrate of Rowan County to the jailer, and the prisoner was delivered to thom. They left here on the midnight train and arrived at Farmers at about 8 o'clock this morning. Here a mob selzed the train, secured the engineer, conductor, and brakeman, and thon, going to where the prisoner was, a number of them emptied their pistols and guns into his body. Martin fell to the floor, bleeding from afteen wounds, and the mob thinking him dead left him on the car floor. Martin survived six hours. The victim of mob violence. is a relative of the Underwoods, who caused the famous feud in Carter County some years ago. Another fould is expected to ensue over this affair, as Martin and Tolliver bave plenty of triends of undoubted courage. It is charged that the guards were taking Martin to Morehead on a forged order.

[Martin bad a quarrel with Floyd Tolliver at Morehead, Ky., last August, in which shots were exchange, a bystander killed, and Martin seriously wounded. The parties mot in Morehead the 2d inst., and the quarrel was renewed. Tolliver drew a pistol, but Martin got the drop, and fired and killed him.
