COUNCIL WILL MEET THURSDAY NIGHT TO SIGN CONTRACT WITH YOUNG FOR GAS CONSTRUCTION

Plan Calls For System Of Gas Lines Throughout City—Work To Be Started At Once—Brief Outline Of Contract Which Is Required To Be Self-Supporting—Will Pay Out From Monthly Income For Sale.

On Thursday night of this week, tonight to be exact, Morehead will take what is believed to be the last step toward making the installation of a gas distribution system a reality. Thursday night the council will meet with representatives of the Young Gas and Oil Company to sign a contract which will insure the building of the system, and the ultimate distribution of gas to citizens of Morehead.

It may seem that it has been a long time in coming to a head, but things of this description must be discussed and worked out from every angle. The final signing of the contracts will eventually mean much to the citizens of the community, in the opinion of the city council.

When the contracts are signed work is expected to begin on construction at once. Work will of course be under the direction of the WPA, since funds from that source are being used to build the system.

The council has been working since Monday night in three meetings to perfect a contract that will protect the city and insure a supply of gas at all times. One feature that has delayed the actual start of the work has been the fact that the WPA administration found it necessary to cut down the allotment of funds for the local project, with the result that the city was obliged to raise an additional fund to take care of the balance of the cost. This was met with an additional contract with the Young Company, by which the company furnishes the funds necessary to be paid as the city progresses of the work.

TEACHERS CHECKS READY

Roy Cornette told us Tuesday that the consolidated teachers sixth month's checks will be ready for distribution Friday.

SPRING HAS COME

Each year the first harbingers of warmer weather bring forth the time worn cry of "Spring has come," and this year in spite of the unusually cold weather that preceded it, has been no exception. Witness that on Monday of this week, with the snow scarcely off the ground and with some water pipes still frozen, a butterfly languidly fluttered into the home of Mr. Noah Hall and as languidly fluttered out again, with a flirt of its tail, as much as to say to Mr. Hall: "Chase me I'm a butterfly." Naturally Mr. Hall is now recovering from his injury sustained seven weeks ago, did not accept the invitation. He reported the event, however as the first sign of spring time.

And then — In further proof of the nearness, nay the arrival of spring, a busy bee reported to the News-Office Wednesday morning, Mr. Bee (not the carnival Bee) came in and sat himself down in front of the star reporter and buzzed, as much as to say, "Well here I am, just out of the hive." Yes, verily, spring has come and even though he may be forced to return to his home for a short time, we still have hopes that he will return.

Nickell Pledges $12 Per Capita

The administration's pledge of a per capita allowance of $12, a year for the next four years, for the carrying on of education, was assured by Senator Clarence E. Nickell, caucus chairman and administration spokesman on the senate floor, in chapel Monday.

"Where is Kentucky going?" he asked. Then he told how it had progressed since the legislature met in March, and explained what the educators and the people in general might expect in the future.

State Teacher's colleges, such as Morehead, may look for a more equal division of attention than formerly, he stated. Also they would cease to be "certificate machines" but must turn out teachers who would be "products of a high calibre and quality."

He asked that confidence be kept with the legislators who were to be adopting a tax program. "The tax will be a fair one," he stated, "I have faith in us and give us a chance."

LOCAL DEMOCRATS WILL ATTEND ASHLAND DINNER

A number of local Democrats are planning to attend the dinner to be held at the Henry Clay Hotel on Saturday night of this week, which will mark the opening of the 1936 campaign in the Eighth District. Prominent speakers have been invited and will be heard on the program.

Chorus Operetta To Be March 4

One of the funniest of the Gilbert-Sullivan operettas, in spite of being one of the shortest, "Trial by Jury," will be presented by the Foster Choral Club of Morehead State Teachers College in the College Auditorium, Wednesday, March 4, at 8:00 p. m. The tuneful libretto by Sullivan is the appropriately funny rhythms and situations created by Gilbert make a comedy and musical dish that promises to keep Morehead entertainment seekers laughing about it and discussing it for many months to come. This organization has a fine record for performances of this kind, as witness the Washington bi-centennial observance in 1932 and the splendid operatic production of "The Pied Piper" last year.

Council Adopts New Bookkeeping System

At the adjourned meeting of the Morehead City Council held on Monday night of this week chief among the items of interest to the citizens of the city was the adoption of a new and simplified system of bookkeeping which will be kept in detail. The keeping, whereby the records of the new system provides for the itemizing and classifying of all receipts and disbursements in complete forms. Heretofore the records have been kept in a more or less haphazard fashion with funds overlapping and all records kept in one book and all checks being written from the same book. With the new system, every fund will be kept separate and each will have its individual check book and record.

The city clerk was authorized to issue deposit permits to each depositing officer of the city.

Inaugural Plans Are Completed

Governor A. B. Chandler will make the first address on the program at the inaugural of Harvey A. Babbs as president of Lincoln State Teachers College, according to an announcement made this week. The ceremonies will take place on May 5, H. W. Peters, state superintendent of public instruction, will preside and Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, will make an address following the speech by Governor Chandler. Mr. Babbs will take the oath of office immediately after his inauguration address, which will close the program. The dignitary who will administer the oath has not as yet been selected.

Governor Chandler is without doubt the most prominent and nationally-known Kentuckian, and his appearance here will do much to make the occasion a success. Dr. McVey is internationally known in educational circles and is in constant demand for addresses and ceremonies of this type. Mr. Peters, the newly-elected superintendent of public instruction, will be the official representative of the state educational department.

The Board of Regents and the presidents of the other state teachers colleges will also be in attendance.

E. Allen Given Post With State Republicans

Elwood Allen, president of the Young Republican Club of Rowan County was given a place on the State Young Republican Committee today to draw plans for the state convention to be held in Louisville on March 28th. This is the first state wide appointment given to a Young Republican of Rowan County in many years.

Hon. Wm. David Becker, General Convention Chairman states that the Young Republican Convention will precede the Regular Convention by one day and that many of the Young Republican delegates will attend both conventions. John M. Robison Jr., present acting President of the Clubs will preside until a state president is elected. The Young Republican Club of Rowan County will hold their County Convention the last week of March and sponsor a Republican Rally for the Young Clubs of Eastern Kentucky a week prior to the State Convention.

Prizes Given At Ky. Power Cooking School

On Saturday, February 22, the Ky. Power and Light Company conducted a cooking school in the Midland Trail Hotel Dining Room. Miss Viola Decker, Home Economist for the Hot Point Company of Chicago, intelligently demonstrated the process of electric cooking on two 1936 models of the Hot Point Ranges. Miss Decker, explained the efficiency of the Hot Point Ranges and cooked a complete dinner during the school. Fifty guests from Morehead attended this demonstration and at the conclusion of the program the following prizes were drawn.

Mrs. K. B. Lykins — Westinghouse Iron; Mrs. Elmer Young Allen, Cake and Iceing; Mildred Cassell, Roast; Mary Hoggie Wilson, Rice Casserole; Garnett Campbell, Carton W.L. Lamps; Mrs. H. C. Haggan, Vegetable Dinner; Mrs. Lula Holbrook, Ham; Mrs. G. C. Ewing, Apple Pudding; Mary Gertrude Lykins, Indirect table lamp.

Three Break Out Of Rowan County Jail

Three men escaped from the county jail Sunday night, making a clean getaway after prying open a door on gaining entrance to the government building adjacent to the jail and breaking their way to freedom.

The three men, J. Harmon, Claude Hall, and Duck Conn were all being held on felony charges. Harmon was arrested for breaking out windows of Al Q. Casky's old Hall and Conn was charged with stealing a suitcase full of clothes from a truck belonging to Sherman Alley.

The break was discovered by Jailor Sam Stammer when he came to feed the prisoners their supper. Officers have not been able to gain any clues as to the whereabouts of the felons but they were reported to have been in town Monday night.

Third Farm Section Appears March 5

A spring short course in Kentucky farm practices, presented by extension specialists, outstanding agricultural authorities and staff workers is provided by the Rowan County News in our March State Farmer, all-rotogravure special supplement next week.

"One picture tells a story better than 1,000 words," says an old Chinese proverb, so next week we're bringing Rowan county readers a whole batch of timely informative and entertaining photographs, reproduced as is only possible through rotogravure. We'll have more pictures than usually found in the largest metropolitan newspapers.

Tobacco growers should be keenly interested in a summarization of 300 years of tobacco growing in the United States by E. S. Wraether of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. These "suggestions" are also provided in information supplied by Prof. E. J. Kinney of the State College, on planting tobacco, seed beds and other data. L. E. Gooch, president of the county growers' association.

COUNTY'S HIGHWAYS ARE INJURED BY WEATHER

Evidence of the damage done to highways by the recent cold is offset when motorists drive over the highway from Morehead to Olive Hill. The surface, which is black top, has been almost destroyed in places, which will necessitate considerable repair work before the road is put back in good condition. The Sandy Hook road is also in bad shape since it was impossible to do any maintenance work during the past two months.

Art Exhibit At College On Display This Week

An exhibition of oil and water color paintings, lithograph crayon and charcoal drawings, etchings, pottery and modeling is now on display in the first floor lobby of the college library. Most of the paintings are by members of the Kentucky Art Teachers Association and have been on display at the University of Kentucky. They will be sent to the Westinghouse Art Association meeting in Nashville in April. Paintings, etchings, and ceramic works by Naomi Claypool and Ralph Hudson of the art department and Robert Alfrey, Hubert Webb, and Georgia Martin, art students of the college have been included in the exhibits that will be on view this week and next week. A number of townspeople have visited the exhibit since it was placed on view last week.

Taxes Payable Saturday Night

Interest and penalty on county and state taxes will be assessed after Saturday, according to a report from the sheriff's office. Although a fair percentage of the taxes have been paid, a rush of those who have not paid, is expected on Friday and Saturday.

City taxes are also due, according to a notice in this issue of the News and must be paid on or before February 29, or the usual penalty will be added.

The time for final payment of taxes, it will be remembered was advanced by the 1934 legislature from January 1 to March 1, and the date for final settlement of the Sheriff to June 1.

DRUNK—JAILED

Cecil Jay Clearfield was lodged in the county jail Tuesday afternoon on a charge of being publicly drunk. He was arrested in Clearfield where he was reported to be making quite a disturbance.

Hamlet To Be Played Here Saturday Night

Several young people will assist in the production of "Hamlet" and "The Merchant of Venice," to be given by James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their company in the College auditorium Saturday afternoon and night.

It is the custom of the company to invite a limited number of students from the dramatic and English classes to appear with them in certain scenes requiring group acting. These students will wear the period costumes of the time.

Several members of the Revelers Dramatic Club which is sponsoring the appearance of the plays here, will take part in the productions. The "Merchant of Venice" will be given in a matinee performance Saturday afternoon at 2:30, "Hamlet" will be given in an evening performance at eight o'clock.

The Licking Valley Fish and Game Conservation League became an established fact on Tuesday evening of this week, when about fifty members met at the city hall here, paid their dues, voted to make the temporary organization permanent; and appointed committees to draw up a constitution and by-laws and to promote permanent officers, who will be elected at the next meeting to be held in the city hall on Tuesday of next week.

In addition to perfecting the organization and making it permanent, the League unanimously endorsed Mr. L. A. Goodpastor of Bath county for appointment to the position of director of the Fish and Game Commission, soon to be appointed by Governor Chandler, and appointed a delegate to attend the meeting of the State Sportsmen's League being held at Frankfort today.

Under the direction of W. D. Scrogg, fish commission coach, Morehead State Teachers College, acting as temporary chairman of the organization, Mr. Warren C. Fletcher, superintendent at the local CCC camp discussed the work of the national government in developing the Cumberland National Forest area, and the possibilities of developing it into a game reserve, well stocked with game of various sorts. He impressed on his hearers the fact that the entire program is a program of education. People must be educated to protect the game of the region before the national government will stock the area with game. This section has not been educated to watch a deer cross the road without taking a pop shot at him he said and until they can do that the forest will not be stocked. The big

County N.Y.A. To Give Work To 80

Approximately eighty high school children of Rowan County are at work under the National Youth Administration, according to an announcement made by Roy Cornette, county superintendent. The four high schools of the county have approximately the following number of students working: Morehead 30, Haldeman 20, Farmers 13.

The students assist in work around the school and work about 20 hours per month for a stipulation of six dollars.

The work in the county is under the direction of the Rowan County Youth Council which is composed of Warren Lappin chairman; Dean W. H. Vaughan, D. B. Caudill, Sarah Price, and Roy Cornette. This council has been at work since last November and has planned the youth program for the county.

Amateur Hour At Court House Saturday Night

Amateur Night under the auspices of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Morehead will be held at the court house in Morehead on Saturday night February 29, at 7:30 o'clock, according to announcements. A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

At a meeting of the Morehead Men's Club held last Wednesday night President Harvey A. Babb, president of Morehead State Teachers College made the first step in the right direction, in his address which was heard by the majority of the business men of Morehead. Mr. Babb advocated and stated definitely that he intended to work toward the end of a closer cooperation between the faculty and students of the college and the citizens of the town and the school, since he took the position that as soon as anyone became a part of the school, he automatically became a part of the community and insisted that they take their place in the community life and become community builders as well as school builders.

It proved to be rather a welcome idea to every man present. It has long been felt that to a certain extent a barrier was being erected, intentionally or otherwise between the town and the school. There has been developed for some unknown reason a separateness of interest that should not exist. This feeling and this barrier, President Babb intends to do his utmost to sweep away. He urged that all school men and faculty members participate the local merchants in making their purchases. He urged the growth of a feeling of fellowship and mutual interest and helpfulness between the two, which he holds should be but one. It is to the interest of the school to have the town grow and it is to the interest of the town to have the school grow. The interests are one and the work should be as one.

There are of course obligations on both sides. The business men have a close-knit feeling of friendship and co-operation between them. There are a number of ways, some of which Mr. Babb stated, in which the citizens of the town may and should cooperate with the college in carrying out the plans and activities.

Mr. Babb is right. There should be and there must be, before either the town or the college accomplish what they should, a close-knit feeling of friendship and co-operation between the two, which in the end should not be a "but," but one. Thus, and thus only will the desired goal of a great school in a great little city be reached.

Business men and citizens of Morehead cannot give this discussion of President Babb's too great consideration. He stated his position clearly. He became, when he moved to Morehead a citizen of Morehead. He buys everything he can buy here. He patronizes home industry and home town stores. He shops in Morehead. He is determined to work with Morehead and in building Morehead. He demands that his faculty members do likewise.

Morehead's other citizens cannot do otherwise than follow the lead of President Babb in his determination to build not only the Morehead State Teachers College, but the city of Morehead as well, realizing as they must, that by that method only can the great good to both be accomplished.

FDA SAVES AGED NEGRO'S HOME

"I am 76 years old. I borrowed $2,200 in 1934, for which I paid 12 per cent. interest up until three year ago when I just couldn't pay it. Now the man I got the loan from claims I owe him $2,200 and is about to foreclose and sell my farm where I was born and raised three children, all of whom are able to help me now. My two girls are school teachers and my boy is a fair mechanic."

This was the story of a gray-haired colored man, related to the Farm-Debt Adjustment advisory in Mercer County, Kentucky, according to a report received by W. Kerr Scott, FDA chief, Rostertown Administration, Raleigh, N. C. The sympathy of the committee for the aged Negro was aroused, the report stated. The group called in the creditor and did a little plain talking. The colored farmer had a loan commitment from the Federal Land Bank for $900, of which $390 was to be used for repairing buildings. The creditor was advised to withdraw the foreclosure proceedings and accept the balance of $600 from the Land Bank loan as settlement in full on the $2,200 note. The creditor accepted the proposition and the colored man's home was thus saved.

David S. Martin, district FDA supervisor, who reported the case, was strong in his praise of the advisory committee. One of the commitments, he stated, was a banker, whose bank held a large deposit of the creditor who was attempting to foreclose on the aged colored man. Despite this fact, the banker took a leading hand in obtaining justice for the farmer by firm treatment of the creditor.

NATIONAL FOREST GROWS

The Cumberland National Forest in eastern Kentucky, now has a purchased acreage of 365,000. C. L. Graham, federal supervisor of the area has announced. The objective is more than a million acres, located in seventeen counties, extending in a semi-circle from Elliott City, in northeastern Kentucky to the Tennessee border in southern Kentucky.

The area already purchased includes some of the greatest natural attractions in Kentucky. During the work of the CCC and the Forest Corps in clearing up the land bought in the eastern part of the state, three natural bridges, heretofore unknown to the public, were discovered. A natural bridge was discovered also in the vicinity of Cumberland Falls state park, which the federal forest completely encompasses.

When the entire acreage is acquired and the present program of road building, dead timber clearance and recreational equipment installation is completed, the forest will be opened to the public, and will attract thousands of tourists from northern states where forests are a thing of the past.

"Save Kentucky Driveway Forest League," is endeavoring to secure for a national monument, is located adjacent to the National Forest.

TOWNSEND WILL NOT SUPPORT THIRD PARTY

Washington — One third of a third party movement failed Friday with announcement of Dr. F. E. Townsend that his old-age pension organization will not back any proposal.

Townsend declared that neither will his group movements in any state that would mean a conflict in presidential primaries of either party.

The co-founder of the 1930 old-age pension plan referred to a proposal to enter a delegation in the California primary.

DOGS IN TRUCK ENABLED TO OUTRUN COYOTES

With his motorized "doghouse," Charles Gross, trapper is warning of dog coyotes but in Colorado.

The "doghouse" is a truck which will travel 50 to 55 miles per hour. It contains three dog compartments, each carries three dogs. One dog in each group is a "killer," the others are "backers."

Gross roams the fields. When he jumps a coyote, he opens one compartment by pleasing an automobile gate. If he jumps two coyotes, he releases two sets of traps. If there are more, all dogs are freed.

Gross said his speed meter showed most coyotes can run 45 miles per hour.

In the past two months Gross, who lives at Karval, Colo., has killed and skinned 150 coyotes. He received from $4 to $5 for each pelt.

AAA SUBSTITUTE CARRYING 200,000,000 DEAL

Washington. — Voting down reportedly all amendments except that approved by administration leaders, the House late Friday passed the New Deal $500,000,000 AAA substitute bill by a 257-46-91 record ballot.

The action retraced the measures to the Senate. Since that branch already has enacted an almost identical bill, leaders in both houses predict a prompt conference adjustment of differences that would speed the legislation to the White House.

Despite Republican cries of "un-constitutional and contention that it would carry on the 'policy of scarcity of the AAA,' the outcome of Friday's balloting was never in doubt.

ANOTHER QUEEN ELIZABETH MAY RULE BRITANIA

London. — Britainers are talking seriously about the kind of queen little Elizabeth will be if called to reign over them as Elizabeth II.

The public concern is centered more than ever upon this 9 year old girl who by the death of King George has been raised to a significant position in contemporary history.

NO SECOND REPRIEVE FOR HAUPTMANN

Trenton, N. J. — A one-man national campaign to rally the Lutheran ministry to the moral support of the man who holds the fate of Bruno Hauptmann in his hands was disclosed Friday.

But even as ministers in various parts of the country were scanning the printed appeal sent out in the name of Hauptmann's spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Matthieson, word came from the governor's office for the second time in 2 hours that he has no intention of granting a second reprieve.

CROW HUNTERS EAT CORN ENEMY AT 'DINNER IN OHIO

Columbus, Ohio. — Old Black Crow, the robber of the cornfield, appeared in a new role Friday cooked to a perfect brown and served on a silver platter to forty members of the Ohio Crow Hunter's Association during their annual banquet here.

Members snatched their lips in apparent anticipation of eating crow for the first time but they waited until Mrs. Chalmer Burns of Versailles, Ohio, the only woman present, tasted the meat and pronounced it "swell" before they fell to and polished off the platter.

WALTER JOHNSON HURLS DOLLAR OVER RAPPANHANNOK

Fredericksburg, Va. — Regardless of that George Washington may have done, Walter Johnson converted legend into actuality Saturday and threw a dollar across the Rappahannock.

With a motion easier than that with which he used to send his old speed ball steaming down the groove to batter the former stinkout champion sailed two coins across the river.

"Cash," exclaimed Johnson, "I didn't think I'd do it."

The official toss cleared the ice-chunked river by thirty feet, Chief Judge Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, a Virginia historian, estimated the throw at 317 feet.

From The State Capital

(From The Courier-Journal) (By Edward Henderson)

Frankfort, Ky. — Close on the heels of the Legislature's adjournment, the United States Supreme Court upheld the T. V. A., without legislative enactment many thought necessary in Kentucky to permit its political sub-divisions to deal with T. V. A. for power.

Had the Supreme Court acted a week earlier the Kentucky General Assembly probably would have passed some form of enabling legislation. There was lots of sentiment for legislation to give the State and its sub-divisions authority to deal with T. V. A. for power.

The just-was puzzle of utility regulation is slowly taking shape in the National-Kentucky citizens, mind full of the cost of utility service, are watching to see if the Federal "yard stick" offers to Kentucky more power at cheaper rates. If it does and State "leg" stand in the way there will be a quick adjustment by the legislative bodies. Some enabling legislation likely would be thrown into one of the coming special sessions and quickly enacted.

As it is, Tennessee cities, towns and rural sections are much more alert than Kentucky to power possibilities. Even Cincinnati, which T. V. A. lines must cross Kentucky to reach, is more T. V. A. conscious than Kentucky urban centers.

But the Supreme Court decision will give impetus to cheap power regulation. Already in Lexington, where Neville Miller has had to do for the telephone, some of the charges for two years ago. Frankfort, a State utility regulating body exists, charged with the duty of studying rates and making adjustments.

The Kentucky Public Service Commission was set up two years ago with the backing of the utility companies. Its major cases before the advent of the Chandler Administration resulted in increasing rates to the utility companies. In Lexington water rates were increased about 50 per cent. Heavy increases were allowed against gas consumers in Frankfort, Midway and Versailles.

The gas case went to court, where Circuit Judge W. B. Anderson laid the order for increased rates, entered by the Laffoon commission, was void. The case is to be appealed. The Chandler commission, topped by Force or Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, has indicated the Lexington Water Company must agree to reductions in rates or have the whole case reopened.

Activities at the Public Service Commission have largely since the Chandler appointees took charge, because the commission members, Mr. Beckham and James W. Cammack, Jr., have devoted their major efforts to the Governor's Reorganization

Commission work. With much of the reorganization study passing in the next few weeks to empty experts, the two commissioners and Thomas B. McGregor, added to the commission this week, will be free to turn to utility regulation problems. Popular interest in the utility problem was indicated during the session by a number of bills designed to strengthen the regulation of utilities. (Continued on Page Seven.)

In man gardens all over Kentucky annual failures in growing cabbage and tomatoes to maturity are the rule, the cause being the wilt disease.

In the instance of cabbage, these are the symptoms. For a week or two after the plants are set, they seem to be making fair progress and the wilting sets in, followed by brown or drooping-off of the leaves...

The cause of the trouble is a disease organism that lives over in the soil, nobody knows how long. Moving the cabbage plot about in the soil for when the difficulty appears in any part of the garden, the probability is that the trouble has been spread throughout the garden...

The case of tomatoes is much similar, except that occasionally a few fruits may ripen before the plants die. Such fruit is always under size and quite below par in flavor...

To go into detail of making and managing a hotbed is beyond the scope of this space. A good hotbed can be found in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 276, a copy of which will be sent from the Kentucky College of Agriculture, Lexington, to any person who makes request.

While the circular is on its way, the gardener may occupy his time in securing the manure he will need, and in getting it ready. It should be fresh horse manure, of which not more than one-third is litter.

In a statement urging farmers to test seed corn this spring, the College of Agriculture, notes that much of the 1935 crop contained a large percentage of seed corn that germinated and their germination has undoubtedly been seriously injured by the severe cold weather.

Farmers who are depending upon getting corn from the crib and by all means make a test this year. To make a preliminary test, it is suggested that 8 or 10 grains be shelled from each of 40 to 50 ears selected at random...

Everyone who has old corn on hand ought to keep this for seed, as it is likely to be a serious shortage of good seed corn this year, it is believed

Goodman Reports W. P. A. Program

Louisville, Ky. Feb. 20. — Praising the ingenuity with which WPA project supervisors have kept work going during recent cold weather, George H. Goodman, Administrator for Kentucky, today declared that Works Program critics who have "set up a hue and cry about the wages paid for last time, haven't the slightest understanding of the program's security wages."

"Our current reports from the cold weather reveal a high degree of ingenuity and determination in carrying on hundreds of projects in the face of bitter weather," Mr. Goodman said. "Wherever possible, supervisors have had scaffolding erected around buildings under construction to shield the workmen from the elements. Sand, water and cement have been heated so that concrete work may go on. On many out-door projects, part of the men have been assigned to cutting wood and keeping fires burning in temporary shelters with stoves have provided others with a chance to warm up from time to time."

"We are getting a substantial percentage of productive time, considering the weather. It isn't high. No outside job is showing anything but the usual cold weather production. Whether it is under the WPA or private construction work."

"Security wages for the workers go on as usual. That is a basic principle of the whole security-wage system under the WPA. "I have seen some critical comments about the 'loss' of the wages paid to workers who worked only half time. Of course they get full amount of their security wage, whether they work or not, so long as the reason for not working is no fault of their own. The WPA program does not hold the workers responsible for the weather. Regardless of weather, they have to eat."

"These security wages are not lost. The Works Program, it must be remembered, is operating first to provide a security of income for the men and women who were on relief. It is being provided until such time as private employment in commerce, industry, and agriculture is able to take back the workers if released from its payrolls."

"We have wiped out the dole for approximately 65,000 needy unemployed Kentuckians by providing the Works Program. The security wages wipe out the dole and the system of direct relief. We pay the wages for work when the weather permits work. We pay the wages, anyway, of weather prevents work. "Having scaled the security wage as a steady income during the period the worker is under the Works Program, it would be impossible to stop wages when foremen have to send the workers home because of inclement conditions. The wages are not scaled to permit savings to tide over workless periods."

"The security wage is a new principle. I am not surprised that critics who are used to thinking from the point of view of the prevailing wage scale take a crack at it. It is in sharp contrast with the usual practices in construction work. Two construction industries, as carried on by private employers, is noted for its irregularity of employment. During the course of a year, if a worker is able to get in half his time at work, he is lucky. If he gets in two thirds, he is a marked exception."

"The worker under private industry is up and down in his income ity campaigns and give wider scope to municipally-owned light and water plants. These bills were passed last week Gov. A. B. Chandler signed them."

Before Governor Chandler is through with his reorganization work he will have to strengthen the power of the Public Service Commission if he expects that unit to give any third service to the utility consumers of the State. No change in the utility body set-up is proposed in the present reorganization bill because the measure is limited to administrative functions of the Government.

For one thing the Public Service Commission is without ample funds to carry on investigations into utility rate structures. Louisville, spending more than $100,000 in its fight for lower telephone rates for Louisville citizens, will spend twice as much in that fight as the State body will have annually for investigating into light, water and gas rates all over the State.

The present Public Service Commission law, backed two years ago by utility companies, does not clearly give the Public Service Commission power to go into various phases of utility company organization. This authority, if it would become necessary in any thorough investigation of rate structures.

The Governor's reorganization plan is the best of a series of attempts reaching back to 1922 when the late Henry Clay, newspaper editor and State representative from Trigg County, persuaded the General Assembly to undertake a study of the State and county government to perfect economies and better service to the people.

Various reorganizations plans were advanced in the following years, usually distorted in the end to serve some monetary purpose, as the Legislature has done in the past.

"We have said to approximately 65,000 able-bodied Kentucky workers who are broke and are working can earn your own needs by working on useful public projects for security wages. You will be paid regularly until you get a job in private industry. This job isn't an attractive job in private industry. It isn't supposed to be, but you don't have to live on a dole and a dole is a paper when you can work."

"This principle of security wages is a new thing. It hasn't been done before. It means that we pay wages for work instead of relief. So when the mercury goes down to a point where men can't work outside, or where men can't work outside, or materials when it rains over needs by working on useful public projects for security wages. You will be paid regularly until you get a job in private industry. This job isn't an attractive job in private industry. It isn't supposed to be, but you don't have to live on a dole and a dole is a paper when you can work."

"Under the security wage policy the worker gets credit for a day's work and a day's pay, if he shows up on the job. Whether the job goes or that day or not, so long as it isn't his fault. He is assured of a much more stable income than under ordinary construction customs. The security wage is worked out with lost time taken into consideration."

"The people under the Works Program, with very few exceptions, are from the relief rolls. They have no savings and no reserves of credit. Stop their security-wage income, and they are destitute. Someone has to feed them, clothe them, pay their rent."

The ripper reorganization plan of 1934. The proposed bill has little of the ripper in it, but suggests broad, sweeping changes in the management of the State's affairs. If you were writing about it to folks who were not interested in details you would say that it proposes to give to the people the people always held responsible—the Governor—though authority actually to make him responsible for what happens at Frankfort."

In its essential change the State would be run from management by commissions to management by one central certainly fixes responsibility. The people, and the Governor, too, can see easily enough who is to blame for failure in government when the new plan is put in operation.

The reorganization bill is not put a fortnight expression of Governor Chandler's belief in "fixed responsibility." It contains many compromises, such as the six-man advisory Highway Commission or the five-man Advisory Welfare Board, without any semblance of power or authority. Various considerations, such as political expediency, prior commitments, public opinion, entered into the acceptance of the compromise features of the bill.

On one point that may bob up in future months to plague the Governor the bill postpones until September 1 the application of provisions for personnel standards among State employees. By then all State offices, positions and jobs will be filled. If minimum standards of efficiency are not to be imposed until then, actually in practice they will be imposed a part of government for four years.

That would mean four more years of typists writing twenty words a minute. Persons have been employed as typists at Frankfort who type out the present official family in completely made up next September indicates advance knowledge that many now employed or who will be put on before that time could not meet the minimum standards in the State and that would reflect itself in poorer Government than the Governor hopes for, and would make his job harder for him to do.

Obviously the reorganization bill that is limited to administrative reorganization is but one step. Another step would be to reorganize the courts, which spend millions of the taxpayer's money annually. County Governments are as profligate with public funds as the State Government ever was, and the proposed reorganization does not touch that field.

Governor Chandler said last week he would sign "rate legislation" under which merchants could recover from the Auditor $309,000 paid in under the 1930 Chain Store Tax, which was held unconstitutional. If legal rulings prohibit the Auditor from paying the money to the merchants direct, the Governor said he immediately would amend his call so the General Assembly could prepare a legal method of repaying the merchants without the necessity of litigation.

SPORTS SPLURGES

Morehead High made a great showing against the Olive Hill Comets in their game last Monday night. The Comets have had only one defeat this season and are the winners of the Eastern Kentucky Conference yet they only beat the locals by fourteen points. Coach Combs had done wonders with his team since his took over the job at the Morehead school.

Wesleyan's upset of the Eagles is nothing to be worried about. With two regulars out, the Eagles would naturally play a ragged game. Although the losers kept Morehead from gaining a 500 per cent win in the K. I. A. C. rate book, it should not affect them in tournament play. Both Carter and Rosson should be hailed and hearty in plenty of time for the tourney and this writer picks them to dub the Union Bulldogs when they meet in the first round of the K. I. A. C. Friday.

Breck has shown that they can beat Soldier and they did it with two regulars out of line. This makes us feel about that game with Soldier in the first round of the district tourney at Olive Hill. We may be wrong but we feel that Breck has a good chance to take the district.

Kentucky's win over Vanderbilt Monday night gave them the South-eastern Conference crown and they will be the favored team in the conference tourney which starts at Knoxville Friday.

The Morehead Merchants, local independent team, will play Allen in the first round of the Ashland Independent tourney this week. This club is sponsored by various businessmen of Morehead and they should have a good chance to duplicate

Breck Wins Games Over Flemingsburg

The Breckinridge Training School won a double header from Flemingsburg here Tuesday night, the first string men winning 29 to 21 and the seconds winning 28 to 17. Coach Bob Laughlin used ten men in each game.

In the preliminary the Breck seconds were behind 8 to 5 at the end of the first quarter but got four fielders and five foul shots during the period. Daugherty made three field goals in a row as the second half started and with a 24 to 11 lead, the seconds won going away. Daugherty was high scorer for Breck with 10 points while Spencer was best for Flemingsburg with six.

The first team game was a rough and tumble affair and each team made only one field goal in the first quarter. Flemingsburg made two foul shots to Breck's one to lead 4 to 3. Long scored two trips. Pritchard a fielder and Bab made two foul shots while Flemingsburg was making one fielder and three foul shots. Breck had a 11 to 9 lead at the half. Breck drew away in the next quarter and led 20 to 13 at the end of the third period. Laughlin substituted freely but his team continued to pile up the score until final whistle.

Pritchard and Long led the junior Eagle scoring with 9 and 7 points respectively. Cottrell was best for Flemingsburg with seven points. Substitutes: Breck: Holbrook 2, Daugherty 3, Fraley 1, Crosswhite Allen Flemingsburg: Kendall 3, Spencer Cox 4, Grannis.

Officials: Combs and Lewis. Their win of last year. The team is managed by Mose Combs and has on its roster: Ismael, Horton, Arnsen, Kiser Smith and Jones.

Eaglets Drop Title to Kittens Friday

The Morehead Eaglets lost a heart breaker 34 to 29 decision to the University of Kentucky Kittens in Lexington last Friday night. The Morehead front played good ball and were out on top 17 to 15 at the half time but could not stop Thompson, high-scoring kitten center and despite a rally late in the final canto were unable to catch the Kentucky froth. Hodge scored first for the Kittens when he was fouled by Arnsen. Tiec made it 3 to 0 with one from the field. Ismael tallied from the field and Horton made a foul shot to make the count 3 all. Thompson made a field goal and then Morehead scored two fielders and two foul shots to take a 9 to 7 lead. The Eaglets held on to their lead and were on top by 17 to 15 at the half.

Garland evened the score at 17 all early in the second half and the count was tied at 21 all with 10 minutes left to play. The Kittens then tallied three fielders and a foul shot and held the Eaglets scoreless to take a 28 to 21 lead. With the Kittens in the lead 34 to 22 and only three minutes left to play the Eaglets made a determined rally and scored seven points but the game was over before they could catch up with the Kittens.

Thompson led the Kittens with fourteen points, while Ismael was best for the Eaglets with twelve.

Break Defeats Soldier, 23 to 20

Bobby Laughlin's Breckinridge Training School basketball team scored an upset victory over the Soldier High five at Soldier last Friday night, winning by 23 to 20. The Breck team gained revenge for a defeat handed them by Soldier here earlier in the season when the Soldier team won by a three point margin.

The Laughlin team was minus the services of two players who did not make the trip because of an epidemic of mumps at Soldier but the reserves played a bang-up game.

Breckinridge meets Soldier in the first round of the district tourney at Olive Hill next week and the game should be a toss-up since they have divided honors in their two games.

Vikings Lose 36-22 to Olive Hill Team

Morehead High lost a 36 to 22 decision to Olive Hill High at Olive Hill Monday night. This was the tenth win for the Olive Hill team. They have lost only one game. The victory also gave the Comets the Eastern Kentucky Conference championship.

Morehead played the winner on even terms early in the game but their defense weakened and the Comets started hitting one-handed from all points on the floor. The Comets led 8 to 4 in the first stanza 21 to 7 at the half and were in the van 34 to 13 at the start of the fourth canto. Morehead made a good showing in the final frame, scoring nine points while their opponents were making two points.

Pultz and McClave each tallied nine points for Olive Hill while Hayes and Tatum led Morehead with six points each. Caudill played a good defensive game for Morehead.

that they had led during the recent cold spell, over forty copies of quail from one sack of feed. He stressed the work that may be done by members of the league, each a self-appointed game warden to protect the game and to help enforce the game laws.

Prof. Henry C. Hagan, long recognized as one of the outstanding sportsmen of this section discussed the possibilities of developing the tourists trade in this section through cooperation and through developing a healthy respect for the laws protecting fish and game in this section. Mr. Hagan, told of catching a pile 56 inches long and weighing almost nine pounds out of Licking River near Farmers. He said that during the past year, sportsmen had over $300,000,000 in Michigan and over 900,000 tourists had visited the state for the purpose of fishing and hunting. The reason that is possible in Michigan he said, is because the game laws have been enforced, and the people have been educated to realize that their greatest assets are in a rigid compliance with the laws.

Mr. Goodpaster was present at the meeting and joined the local league in a rigid compliance with the laws which he expected to embrace Rowan, Elliott, Bath, and Morgan counties.

Eagles Lose 35-23 to Wesleyan At Winchester

Minus the services of Rosson and Carter, who were both on the sick list, Morehead dropped a 35 to 23 decision to Kentucky Wesleyan in Winchester last Saturday night. The Morehead team was crippled badly with the star forward and high scoring center out of the game and let the Panthers get away from them in the last half after holding them to a 13 to 12 lead in the first canto. This was the last game for both teams before the tournament in Bowling Green.

The first period was played on fairly even terms, but the second half was all Wesleyan, with the Panthers running wild.

The Panthers tallied fourteen lines from the field and made seven of sixteen free throws. The Eagles were held to seven field goals but made good nine of fifteen attempts from the foul line.

Taylor, Wesleyan forward, led the scoring with twelve while Leslie, substituting at center for Carter was high for the Eagles with eight points.

In a preliminary to the varsity on court the Morehead Eaglets had the Eagles smattering under their little trouble in smothering the Panther yearlings by a 32 to 18 count, five point defeat at the hands of the University of Kentucky Kittens, play of vicious ball and led the situation well in hand from the starting whistle.

Russell Takes Game From Viking Five

The cagers from Russell High defeated the Morehead High five by a 21 to 14 count here last Saturday night. The game was the last one at home for the locals.

Both teams played good defensive games and the score at the half time was 10 to 8 in favor of Russell. The Russell offense had a little better luck in the second half and scored eleven points while the locals were making six.

Caudill and Brown were best for Morehead, scoring 6 and 4 points respectively.

Debate Teams Will Enter Transy Meet

Morehead will take part in fifteen debates in one day, when Dr. A. Y. Lloyd takes five teams to Lexington, February 26, for the Transylvania Tournament to be held at Transylvania.

The five teams to be taken are Harman and Blevins, Hodge and Dean, Eckles and Payne, Burton and Utterback, and Rogers and Clark.

None of the debates will be decisions but individual members will select by vote the best team and the best individual debater in the meet.

The Round Robin Tournament has been held for the past three years. Its main purpose is to acquaint the different teams of the state with the question being discussed.

Approximately fifty teams will contend. Four states will be represented: Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

MEN DOING GOOD JOB

It is the occasional mountain-top experience of our religion that gives us the faith to toll on through the weary years for the Lord.

Moses and Elijah are two of God's children who had mountain-top experiences while they were serving Him here on earth. It was very fitting that they should come to be in the company with Jesus and His three disciples when they were in the Mount of Transfiguration. It was Mount of Transfiguration. It was Mount of Transfiguration. It was Mount of Transfiguration.

The four men now on Gilead were doing a good job of covering the district for the Technical Service. At the completion of their job they will have contacted an estimated fifteen-hundred families in the district comprising Rowan, Morgan, Elliott and Bath counties. Starting at 6:00 a. m. on Wednesday morning a two week test will be given the radio set-up of this forest. A twenty-four hour a day schedule will be maintained throughout this time and it is expected that this test will show whether the radio will be a benefit during the coming spring fire season. Starting at 6:00 p. m. every morning messages will be broadcast from the towers in the southern part of this unit and will be relayed from tower to tower until it reaches Enix Tower. During the rest of the day, other messages will be broadcast and tower lookout men and dispatchers will be on continual duty for two weeks. This test is sure to show the stability of the radio system in the Cumberland National Forest.

Business Census To Be Taken

Wm. H. Craycraft, who has been named Local Supervisor of the Census of Business, has announced that enumeration work started in Rowan County on February 11. He said that four (4) enumerators will be named within the next few days to make the canvass in this district, which includes Rowan, Carter and Elliott counties.

CHAPTER SIX

At the first crash of the falling tunnel, Reilly and Hastings muttered their men and drove them to the task of rescue. Kiva, a fleet-footed, was dispatched for a doctor. The others wielded their picks and shovels with a frenzy to clear a path to the entombed men. Dr. Frawley was waiting when, at last, willing hands carried the men to the soft piles of mats he had prepared for them. Defity, he worked over Brannon. Presently, the Commandant opened his eyes and looked about in a daze.

He'll be all right now, Frawley announced. A few bruises—that's all. He turned his attention to Mala. He shook his head gravely. Bad! he muttered to himself. Here, Reilly! We'd better get him back to the office right away.

But, Dr. Frawley's first fears of internal injuries proved groundless. Bruised and battered, drove the crushing weight of the coral, Mala recovered quickly, however, under the physician's expert care. His pain ceased after a day of intense agony, he rested comfortably on the soft kapok mattress prepared for him in the doctor's office.

Yes! he'll be all right, Frawley assured Brannon.

Isn't he the man who gave them so much trouble on the ship?

The doctor nodded. The same old story, he said, fighting to get back to his woman.

Well, I owe him something for my life, you know, Brannon replied. He will have his women. I guess you'd better tell him Doctor! I'm afraid it wouldn't do for me to get sentimental before a native.

With the news that Lillio was to join him, Mala looked forward with new hope to his life on Patua. And each evening, he sped eagerly down the dusty road to the office to ask the white chief for some news of Lillio.

Fatience, Mala! Brannon would say. She will soon be here.

But, when Captain Buckley's schooner dropped anchor in Patua, Taru refused to release Lillio, but Lillio had heard the news that the poopas has come to take her to Mala and she was not to be denied. When the ship weighed anchor at midnight, Lillio lay hidden in the hold.

When the ship docked at Patua, Lillio watched her chance and dove over the side. An old woman, sitting before a fire in the shore, directed her to the phosphate quarries, and she set out to find Mala. But, their reunion was brief. Buckley, fearing Taru's wrath, explained the situation to Brannon, and the Commandant agreed that Lillio must be returned to the Type chief. Mala pleaded pitifully. Brannon was adamant. Mala returned to his quarters determined to make one last desperate effort for his vahine under the cover of darkness. The night favored him. Thunder boomed. The wind howled. Buckley's schooner groaned and tossed at its mooring against the jets.

Mala fought his way down the jetty and onto the deck.

Lillio! Lillio! The pounding of the ship against the wharf and the roar of the storm answered him.

Then, through the noise and uproar of the storm he faintly heard a thin, shrill cry, Mala!

Mala leaped furiously against the door of Lillio's cabin. Finally it broke from its hinges, and he was catapulted into the room. Lillio lay limp in a pile of wreckage on the floor.

Mala pulled her to her feet. Half-carrying her, half dragging her, he made his way to the deck. Fighting down the jet to the shore.

The hurricane sped its fury in the night, and a peaceful sun climbed out of the horizon. A badly battered cutter floated towards a near-by island. Mala stood stilly at the stern post, holding the tiller in his strong grasp. His eyes rested fondly in the sleeping Lillio.

Lillio! Mala's wife was tired, but tired. Wake up, new island—our island! There we shall make our home. Mala's strong arms held her fast, and she murmured to him, the glory of youth, forever, free to live and love.

THE END

The eighth grade presented a musical chapel program on Wednesday. Thirteen of the nineteen boys in the class play in the band, Joe Marshall directed.

The rest of the program consisted of a drum duet by Buddy Judd and George McCullough, and tap dancing by Floella Evans. Both the boy's and girl's double quartets sang several songs. Other instrumental duets were played by Harry Boggs and Windell Brown, Mary Lykins and Mary Lewis sang 'Moon Over Miami'. The program was announced by Elvira Caudill and Arthur Stewart.

President Harvey A. Babb left yesterday for St. Louis, Mo., where he will attend the Department of Superintendence meeting of the National Education Association which holds its sixty-sixth annual meeting February 22 to 27. The convention theme is "The Function of the Schools in the Democracy."

Among the leading educators who are scheduled for addresses at the convention are Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; J. W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education; Thomas H. Briggs, Teachers College, Columbia University; Charles A. Beard, author and historian; Arthur G. Crane, president of the University of Wyoming; Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard University; Agnes Samuelson, president of the National Educational Association, and Will Durant, philosopher and lecturer.

A. J. Stoddard, superintendent of schools, Providence, R. I., and president of the Department of Superintendence, will preside.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A FELLOW was to be initiated into a secret organization, and after being kidded for days by his family and friends about riding the goat, he told his wife that on account of the possibility of being out just take the spare room when he come in late that night as he would not want to wake up everybody. So after the initiation he went with a bunch of the boys to a place where they had a lot to drink and very body was smoking, and some all kinds of free lunch, including Opium. His clothes were saturated with the odor of Tobacco. He got home finally. The next morning his wife went to see how he was. She asked if he was in. He replied, "Yes." After she got an whiff of the air in the room, she said "Have you got the goat in bed with you?"

TO PARIS TEACHERS

Dr. Rex Livingston Hoke, professor of education, spoke before the Paris Teachers Association, Thursday evening. The meeting was held in the interests of improving the study techniques of the Paris school children.

Dr. Hoke pointed out the reading skills are maintaining a critical attitude, anticipating the author's meaning, seeing the relationship of the part to the whole, recognizing points of major importance, making a survey before detailed reading, reciting to one's self the gist of the material read, supplementing the author's meaning, and rapid reading.

News From The Training School

By Pauline Batcher

The senior high school has organized a B. T. S. Hop Club in order to teach the male students the art of dancing. Ralph Holbrook was elected president and Marion Louise Oppenheimer the chief instructor.

Marion Louise Oppenheimer is the only training school student who is going to Paintsville and Louisville with the College Orchestra.

The third grade invited a college class in nature study over Friday for a program based on their museum.

The senior high students are driving the teachers mad. After every class at noon and after school they are dancing. They have been cautioned by the teachers to take it slow so they won't abuse the privilege, but to no avail. At every extra second they are learning new steps.

The seniors are feeling more important than ever before, because Mr. Mays said he would try to get a page for them in the College Annual, if they would pay for their pictures and help sell the annuals. All of them have agreed to do their best.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Cromolium. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Cromolium, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Cromolium and to refund your money if you are not relieved from your cough in very few bottles. Get Cromolium right now. (Adv.)

IT'S TRUE!

New York, N. Y.—"IT'S TRUE!" that Ronald Colman told a magazine interviewer in 1928 that he believed the finest possible role for talking pictures was that of Sydney Carton in 'A Tale of Two Cities', and that he hoped some day to play it, says 'It's True' Magazine. "Now, after seven years, he plays that very role, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

COZY THEATRE

Climaxing her rapid film advance during the past year, Rochelle Hudson has been awarded the only lifetime role of importance in 20th Century's gripping anti-crime picture, "Show Them No Mercy" which comes Friday and Saturday, February 28 and 29 to the Cozy Theatre.

Miss Rochelle and Edward Norris enact the young couple trapped in the cabin of a gang of murderous abductors, while a nationwide search is being carried on for their captors.

The picture, produced under the personal supervision of Darryl F. Zanuck, is a stirring, enthralling epic, a visual argument to the effect that those who live by violence must come to a violent end.

The principal gangster roles are enacted by Cesar Romero and Bruce Cabot, who made his debut as a "heavy" in "Let 'Em Have It."

COLLEGE THEATRE

For Friday the college theatre announces a special return engagement of the lovely musical comedy success of last season, "ROBERTA" featuring the lovely Irene Dunn with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. If you saw this show last season you will be thrilled again with the gorgeous scenes, the lilting melodies, the rhythmic enchanting dances of this great production while those who have not seen it will have the enviable opportunity. An excellent selection of short subjects is provided.

For Sunday, March 1st, the college features Charles (Buddy) Rogers and June Clyde in "Dance Band" a story that will tickle your blue jeans! Here's a merry musical that will brighten the corner where you are! Packed with pep, glorious girls and tantalizing tunes, it will give you an evening full of entertainment and send you away singing. Buddy Rogers and June Clyde are it the top-nots and what a swell couple they make! Buddy plays every instrument in the band and when it comes to romance, he's Mr. Romeo himself! The story's about two rival bands—one a girl's—is the greatest, giddiest muskemongery of errors you've ever seen.

Sold Up The River

The first slave trade to be participated in by a British settler of America occurred a decade before Negroes from Africa were landed at Jamestown. The English participant was Captain John Smith, who may thus be accredited with initiating the traffic here, and the slave was a white boy.

We are likely to think of Captain Smith as a romantic figure, because of the glamorous story of his rescue from death by the Indian Princess Matoaka, or Pocahontas. All the world may love a lover, but Smith and the girl were not lovers. She was much younger than he and in rescuing him was very likely actuated by her general friendliness toward the English colonist.

Although clever and brave, Smith was after all a soldier of fortune in a day when military adventures still roamed Europe, sophisticated and ruthless, ready to take orders from the highest bidder. Hence, it was not out of character that he should have been the first European to sell a slave on our soil.

The story of the first slave trade by a British colonist was found among old documents by writers who are preparing articles for the American Guide: the Government's forthcoming 5-volume travel handbook. Jamestown was founded in 1607. One of the early supply ships sent to the colony from England carried a lad named Henry Spelman. He was an adventurous as Smith whom he probably looked upon as his model. Perhaps it was with the desire of keeping close to his leader that he joined the party which took Smith on an expedition to the falls of the James river in 1608.

At the falls Smith found an Indian village governed by the Taux (Little) Powhatan son of the Emperor Powhatan and brother of Pocahontas. He thought that the site would be excellent for a white settlement and asked the chief to sell it to him. For the purpose of barter, Smith had brought with him a supply of beads and other inexpensive gifts which the Indians usually were glad to get. Taux Powhatan, however, refused to sell his village site for such knick knacks. Pressed to say what he would accept, he demanded the boy, Henry. The thought of selling into slavery to uncivilized Indians a fellow-Englishman, a motherless boy under his care at that, might have been expected to fill Smith with repugnance. Quite the contrary. He accepted the chief's proposition with alacrity and delivered young Spelman to his owner.

In a way, the Indian paid the boy a tribute by purchasing him. But Henry did not appreciate the compliment. Soon after Smith and his party left, the youngster escaped from the village and a week later climbed aboard the expedition's ship, probably anchored in the James River.

Taux Powhatan complained to his father and an Indian runner was dispatched to Jamestown to demand the boy's return. The colonists were forced to consent or face disagreeable consequences.

Henry remained with Powhatan for six months. At the emperor's court, he met the vassal king of the Potomac, who took a great fancy to him and, in this instance, the boy returned the liking. When the king started back to Pas-patan-zie his town on Potomac Creek shortly below Quantico, Henry contrived to leave without him. Powhatan sent a force to capture or kill the run-a-way, but they could not catch him.

Several years later, Captain Argall found Spelman at Pas-patan-zie and bought him from the king for a quantity of copper. At the time of Argall's visit, Pocahontas was also stopping with the king of the Potomac. Emperor Powhatan was expecting hostilities with the English and had sent her to stay where she thought she would be safe. Dreaming of winning a big ransom of corn, Captain Argall enticed the princess aboard his ship, "Treasurer," and carried her off to Jamestown.

Powhatan refused to pay for her release, so she remained among the settlers. She seemed not to have found her captivity altogether unpleasant, for it brought her into close contact with John Rolfe. They fell in love, as everyone knows, and were married in April 1614.

Captain Smith, his hero and nemesis, had gone back to England and Henry Spelman attended the wedding free at last.

Getting a Job and Getting Ahead

By Floyd B. Foster, Vocational Counselor, International Correspondence Schools

Difficulties Provide the Opportunities for Success

A PROMINENT business executive has said that if he had to name the one quality most important for success in business, he would say that it is the ability to find genuine pleasure in overcoming difficulties. A tendency to shrink from or avoid difficulties can be a wretched handicap to the young man starting his business career. Every responsible job in every line of work presents difficulties. The more responsible and better paid the job, the more it abounds with them. It is this very fact that accounts for the fascination of business, and that assures the successful in successful in overcoming difficulties an ample reward for his labors. It is safe to say that the standard measurement of the number of difficulties situations he must surmount in the course of a day's work.

There are millions of people who can fill the routine job which business provides. Their reward is the reward the rank and file always receives. The opportunities for success lie in doing the difficult job. The man who finds himself in a job where there do not seem to be any difficulties can be sure there is no future in that job for him. If your goal is a successful business career, you cannot do better than hunt for difficulties. Never try to avoid them or pass them on for someone else to worry about. Learn to discover and cope with them better than the men around you, and your success is assured.

helpers. Each division has a goal of at least $100 to raise. Reports will be made each Sunday morning between the Bible school and church hour. At the meeting Tuesday and Wednesday a flying start was reported. Many entertainments and events are being planned. A happy good time is to be enjoyed while raising the money to pay the paving bills for the church and the parsonage. Dr. Fern is the chairman and general leader of the teams.

The joint night service and young peoples service coming at 8:30 is proving to be very popular. The service last Sunday night was unusually good and the service Sunday night promises to be as good or better. The general public is invited to these and all services.

GAS FOR MOREHEAD

(Continued From Page One) gas. Without going into details, the contract when signed will pledge the city to install the system and to purchase gas from the Young Company at a flat rate of 24 cents per thousand feet. This gas will then be retailed to consumers at the rates established in the franchise sold to the Young Company two years ago. The Young Company agrees to put up the sum necessary to the WPA to complete the system and to bring the gas through pipe lines to the city limit; where it is delivered to the city. The city then agrees to pay back to the Young Company the money loaned for construction of the system at the rate of 14 cents per thousand feet of gas consumed. The contract is so worded that if the company fails to fulfill its agreement of delivering the gas, the city is protected from mortgage proceedings.

In plain English the WPA puts up about $16,000 of the funds necessary for the construction of the system, as an outright gift to the city. The balance of the funds necessary is being advanced by the Young Company under the contract. The city pays out of the sale of gas, at the rate of 14 cents per thousand feet. In other words, the loan from the Young Company will be repaid out of the receipts from the sale of gas. As the scale of retail price for gas has already been established in the franchise the city should be able to make a nice profit from the sale after paying their quota on their debt each month.

The system will be built in circuits, each circuit being completed before the new one is started. This will permit the section of the town located in a certain circuit to begin using the gas as soon as that circuit is completed. It is not the plan to complete the entire system before any one is permitted to use the gas.
