MOREHEAD, Ky.--Looking for that special gift this holiday season? Morehead State University's Charity Auction may just be the right place to shop.

Co-sponsored by MSU's Departments of Communications and Art, the auction is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21, in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

Proceeds will benefit both departments' scholarship programs, according to Harlen Hamm, MSU associate professor of communications and member of the auction's organizational committee.

With more than 500 original prints already donated, the auction will feature arts, crafts, antiques, gift certificates from area merchants, pottery and new items from local businesses. These items will be displayed prior to the start of the bidding by auctioneer Steve Lewis of Morehead.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the MSU Classical Guitar Ensemble and light refreshments will be served.

"In addition to auctioned items, there will be items for sale by silent bidding and cash-and-carry due to this year's overwhelming response by area citizens," Hamm said.

Other members of the organizational committee include Tom Sternal, Department of Art chair; Dr. Richard Dandeneau, Department of Communications chair, and Don Young, MSU assistant professor of art.

"This auction is a fund raiser for our scholarship programs. After the auction, both departments will share the proceeds; award amounts will be decided upon by the individual department, Dr. Dandeneau said.

"The public is encouraged to attend and will be helping students further their education while finding great gift ideas at the same time," Dr. Dandeneau added.

Communication scholarships are awarded to journalism, radio/television, speech and theatre majors. Art scholarships are awarded to art history, art education, studio art and art majors.

Nov. 2, 1987
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Pledging to dedicate the balance of his professional life to fulfilling his dream of making Morehead State University a great place to work and to learn, Dr. C. Nelson Grote was inaugurated as the school's 11th president Friday (Oct. 30).

In a blending of the past, present and future, the ceremony was rich in color from the autumnal-hued hillsides outside to the jewel-toned academic regalia inside Button Auditorium.

Among the dignitaries sharing the inaugural stage were three former MSU presidents, the Governor of the Commonwealth and two former governors, who were almost upstaged by a figure from Dr. Grote's past.

It was Leona Schafer of Pana, Ill., the president's first through third grade teacher, who presented him with the Presidential Medallion, the symbol of authority of the office. Assisting were former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, Gov. Martha Layne Collins and another former governor, Edward T. Breathitt.

Also on stage were former MSU presidents, Dr. A.D. Albright, Dr. Morris Norfleet, and Dr. Adron Doran, who delivered the inaugural prayer.

Bringing greetings from the citizens of Kentucky, Gov. Collins told the crowd of more than 1,100 that the University "is on sound footing" and had entered a "new era of progress and prosperity."

Commending his leadership, the governor said that since Dr. Grote's arrival on July 1, he had brought a renewed sense of pride to the University and had won the respect of the campus and community.

"You have successfully balanced the need for immediate action with long range planning and made it clear that a strong, healthy Morehead State is critical to developing the full potential of Eastern Kentucky and its people," she noted.

"Dr. Grote will take this institution to new heights and under his leadership, the 'Morehead Eagle' will soar as it has never soared before," said Breathitt, MSU Board of Regents vice chairman, who brought greetings from the Search Committee and University Community.

The new president was invested with the oath of office by Nunn, chairman of MSU's Board of Regents. "Dr. Grote will be a good leader, but we don't need a leader unless we have followers," he said. "We look to you--we look unto these hills from which cometh our help--the citizens of the Commonwealth to be good and faithful followers."

Dr. Glenn Terrell, president emeritus of Washington State University and close friend of Dr. Grote during his six years as chief executive officer of the Community Colleges of Spokane, delivered the inaugural address, in which he urged the audience to examine the University's past and see what had changed. "Change is inevitable, so take the changes and make the most of them. You are as good as anyone else. You can shape the future any way you want," he said.

Urging the University to set goals without worrying about obstacles such as money, Dr. Terrell said that by continuing to practice Dr. Grote's slogan, Together We Can, there "are no limits to the things we can do."

In his response, Dr. Grote unveiled portions of a proposed Vision Statement, an initial draft which will be circulated among faculty and staff members for their ideas. The Vision Statement, according to Dr. Grote, attempts to describe what a University "should be" as opposed to the traditional Mission Statement which describes what it "should do."

Dr. Grote said the statement called for the University to be "sensitive and responsive to the unique needs" of Eastern Kentucky and its people. "Programs should be designed to enhance success rather than to insure failure," he said, adding that quality should be the strength of the University. "The central component of quality at MSU has been--and shall continue to be--its people," he said, pledging to involve faculty, staff and students in the decision-making process. "MSU needs to be recognized as the University that cares," he noted.

He urged MSU and its friends not to let past problems serve as road blocks, but rather as stepping stones to the future. "We cannot let limited financial resources limit our vision. But rather, let our vision for this University justify additional resources," he said.

Dr. Grote began his career in higher education administration in 1960 at MSU as an associate professor and chair of the then-Division of Applied Arts. A member of the graduate faculty, he later attained full professor rank and became dean of the College of Applied Sciences and Technology.

The 59 year-old Illinois native left MSU in 1971 to become president of Schoolcraft College, Livonia, Mich. In 1981 he became head of the Community Colleges of Spokane.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Home Economics will host its second annual Personal Enrichment Program (PEP) for outstanding high school home economics students on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 12-13.

More than 50 Eastern Kentucky students and their teachers are expected to participate in the program which includes an overnight campus stay in a residence hall with MSU students as hosts and a banquet in their honor.

Speakers for the banquet will be Dr. Charles Derrickson, dean of MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology, and Dr. Marilyn Sampley, Department of Home Economics chair.

Departmental programs will be showcased on Friday with presentations by the various units and mini-classes, including one on personal development, will be offered. Students also will have an opportunity to tour the campus.

PEP is designed to give students and their teachers an inside look at the different aspects and employment opportunities in home economics, while providing them information on MSU's program, according to Carolyn Flatt, MSU's Personal Development Institute director and PEP planning committee chair.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--New York City Opera soprano Faith Esham will present a mini-recital and master's class at Morehead State University Thursday, Nov. 12, at 3 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

Her Morehead appearance is free and open to the public and several MSU students will perform for Ms. Esham during the master's class.

A native of Vanceburg, Esham studied under Vasile Venttozzi, MSU associate professor of music, for several years. She has performed at several leading opera houses in the United States and Europe and most recently appeared as Pamina for a new production of "Die Zauberflote," which aired on PBS's "Live from Lincoln Center."

Having performed in many lead roles for various opera companies throughout the United States, Esham is most well-known for her role of Micaela in "Carmen" and appeared in this role opposite Placido Domingo with Julia Mignes-Johnson in a Gaumont film version of the opera.

In addition, she has become widely known as one of the most impressive interpreters of the great roles in French literature. At the Theatre de Nancy, France, she sang her first Maguerite in "Faust" and has performed the lead roles in "Cendrillon," "The Pearl Fishers" and as Maguerite in "Faust" for the French Opera Festival. She is frequently invited to two of the world's most prestigious summer festivals, Santa Fe and Glyndebourne.

Esham is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Esham and the late Dr. Ellwood Esham of Vanceburg.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Woody Herman's Young Thundering Herd Orchestra will perform in concert Monday, Nov. 16, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall on the Morehead State University campus.

Tickets are $10 and are available in Baird Music Hall Room 212 or from any member of the MSU Jazz Ensemble. Tickets will also be on sale at the door the day of the show.

Herman, who died in late October, had not toured with the Young Thundering Herd for almost a year due to health problems, but his tradition has been carried on during this 50th anniversary tour. His orchestra still plays to standing room only crowds and continues to receive Grammy Award nominations and trophies.

Under the direction of veteran saxophonist Frank Tiberi, the 15-member band will lead a trip down memory lane with selections such as "Woodchopper's Ball," "Battle Royal," "Early Autumn" and "Four Brothers," a reflection of the very first days of the Woody Herman Orchestra. In addition, popular tunes including the Miami Sound Machine's "Conga" and Chick Corea's "Samba Song" round out the repertoire.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Saturday, Nov. 7, has been declared Public Broadcasting Day in Kentucky.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Public Broadcasting Act, which brought into existence the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB).

In commemoration of the day locally, Rowan County Judge Executive Ottis Caldwell, Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote and Morehead Mayor, Don Greenhill signed an accompanying declaration making it also Public Broadcasting Day in Rowan County, Morehead and at MSU.

"The Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 was the dawn of a new era with the provision to fund public radio on a national scale. Subsequently, the CPB Community Service Grants received annually by WMKY-FM 90, public radio from Morehead State University, have been instrumental in providing a significant broadcast service to Northeast Kentucky," said WMKY General Manager Larry Netherton.

WMKY began as a 10-watt campus station in June 1965. With the help of CPB funding and support, WMKY has grown steadily. In 1970, WMKY became a 50,000-watt regional station. It now reaches 12 northeastern Kentucky counties, as well as southeastern Ohio and western West Virginia. WMKY will continue to expand services in news, public affairs and entertainment, Netherton said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"We're taking our show on the road again."

Morehead State University is doing a repeat performance of its Senior Opportunity Night (SON) program which began last year, taking it to the Ramada Inn in Maysville on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

The SON programs, sponsored by MSU's Office of Student Development and Alumni Association, are designed to provide information about the University to high school seniors, their parents and potential transfer students.

Students in Bracken, Mason, Nicholas, and Robertson Counties and from the southern Ohio counties of Adams, Brown and Highland have received a special invitation to attend.

When MSU experienced a 10.1 percent enrollment increase this year, University officials decided to repeat those recruiting efforts that were most successful.

"We think the SON programs give potential students a good look at college life, both from the social and the academic sides," said Tim Rhodes, University Enrollment Services director.

Beginning at 7 p.m., the evening's activities include a video presentation on campus life and special door prizes. Representatives from admissions, housing, student development, various campus organizations, and faculty members from MSU's colleges and academic departments will be on hand to discuss their programs.

Additional information on the SON programs is available from Rhodes at (606) 783-2011 or by calling MSU's Office of Admissions toll-free, 1-800-262-7474.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Vicente Cano and Mary Jo Netherton, members of Morehead State University's Department of English, Foreign Languages, and Philosophy, have been invited to teach abroad with the Kentucky Institute of European Studies (KIES) during the summer of 1988.

Dr. Cano, a native of Valencia, Spain, is coordinator of foreign languages and associate professor of romance languages at MSU. He will teach two courses in Spanish, one of them a Spanish for Business and Commerce class. The courses will be taught at the Colegio Mayor "Marques de la Ensenada" on the campus of the University of Madrid during the KIES five-week academic program beginning July 1. This will be his third consecutive summer with KIES.

Netherton, associate professor of french, will teach Basic French Conversation, Advanced Conversation and Composition in the six weeks KIES academic program beginning May 30. Netherton also taught with KIES in 1985. The French program occupies dual sites, beginning in Paris and ending in Nimes. In addition to the six-week academic term, the French program is followed by two weeks of independent travel.

The Kentucky Institute of European Studies is a consortium of Kentucky universities offering American students summer foreign study programs in Austria, Germany, France, Spain, and Italy.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University Theatre students will present John Pielmeir's "Agnes of God," in Kibbey Theatre, Nov. 17-21.

"In this powerful drama, a postulate is accused of unspeakable crimes against God and the Catholic Church," said Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU's coordinator of theatre. "This is a thrilling mystery and a moving complex examination of the meaning of faith."

The Tony Award-winning play, beginning at 8 o'clock nightly, will feature three cast members:

Julie F. Jones will portray Dr. Martha Livingston, the psychiatrist. A senior speech and theatre major, Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Florieta F. Jones of Cynthiana. She is a member of Gamma Beta Phi, Delta Gamma sorority, Theta Alpha Phi and the MSU Players.

Kelli D. Whitt Callahan will portray Mother Miriam Ruth, the Mother Superior. A junior speech and theatre major, Callahan is the daughter of Gayle and Stephen Jones of Cynthiana. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and the MSU Players.

Karen J. O'Baker will portray Agnes, the postulate. A senior theatre major, O'Baker is the daughter of C. Robert and Margaret O'Baker of Geneva, Ohio. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, Chamber Singers, MSU Players and Phi Kappa Phi Honor Fraternity.

Crew members for the production will include Van Edward Wilburn, Grahn junior, as stage manager; Ralph Wall, Cedar Island, N.C., senior, as scenic designer; Edward E. Figgins, Brooksville graduate student, as costume designer; David Dunaway, Harrison, Ohio, freshman, as properties designer, and Richard Blanton, Bloomfield sophomore, as sound designer.

Directing the production is Dr. Thomas Van Brunt, MSU lecturer in speech.

The first professional production of "Agnes of God" opened on March 7, 1980, at the Actors Theatre in Louisville. For MSU's production, the stage will be in the center of the theatre and the audience will surround the stage.

Reserved tickets are available by calling the Theatre Box Office, (606) 783-2170, from 1-4 p.m. weekdays. The cost will be $5 for adults, $2 for non-MSU students and senior citizens, and free to MSU students with a valid I.D. card.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be the site for fashion and flair Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 7:30 p.m. as two MSU senior clothing and textiles students host a fashion and style show in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

Phillip Gray of Lexington and Sheila Bradford of Cincinnati have developed the show as part of an independent study class.

"We've tried to include a style for everyone and all tastes. All our models are MSU students and faculty or staff members, so it is a campus sponsored show," Gray said.

Featuring fashions from personal collections and Martin's Department Store, the show will present fashions for business wear, active/swim wear, formal and evening wear. In addition, a section entitled "Express Yourself!" will feature MSU student models in their own fashions, portraying their own tastes and personalities. Campus wear, night club wear and classic suits and dresses will be modeled, Gray added.

Another highlight will include the modeling of a wedding gown, complete with train and veil.

The fashion show is free and open to the public.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

On Monday, October 19, 1987, the Morehead State University Foundation, Inc., issued a statement that the annual audit of the financial records of the Foundation revealed apparent unauthorized disbursements of funds.

Morehead State University Foundation President Terry S. Jacobs today reported that all funds disbursed to Elmer D. Anderson have been fully restored, with interest, to the Morehead State University Foundation, Inc.

"All monies given to the Morehead State University Foundation, Inc., are properly accounted for and are being used for their intended purpose," Mr. Jacobs said. "As far as the Foundation is concerned, the matter is now resolved."

He added:

"Because the accounting and auditing procedures revealed the apparent unauthorized disbursement of funds, the Morehead State University Foundation, Inc. has decided, based upon the recommendations of the auditors, to further improve our accounting and control procedures. We are doing this to provide greater assurance to our contributors that their donations are being properly handled."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"We're taking our show on the road again."

Morehead State University is doing a repeat performance of its Senior Opportunity Night (SON) program which began last year, taking it to the Quality Inn in Ashland on Tuesday, Nov. 17.

The SON programs, sponsored by MSU's Office of Student Development and Alumni Association, are designed to provide information about the University to high school seniors, their parents and potential transfer students.

Boyd and Greenup County students attending Boyd County, Paul Blazer, Fairview, Greenup County, Russell, and Raceland Independent High Schools have received a special invitation to attend.

When MSU experienced a 10.1 percent enrollment increase this year, University officials decided to repeat those recruiting efforts that were most successful.

"We think the SON programs give potential students a good look at college life, both from the social and the academic sides," said Tim Rhodes, University Enrollment Services director.

Beginning at 7 p.m., the evening's activities include a video presentation on campus life and special door prizes. Representatives from admissions, housing, student development, various campus organizations, and faculty members from MSU's colleges and academic departments will be on hand to discuss their programs.

Additional information on the SON programs is available from Rhodes at (606) 783-2011 or by calling MSU's Office of Admissions toll-free, 1-800-262-7474.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Social Work Program, part of the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections, will sponsor a workshop on court procedures Thursday and Friday, Nov. 19-20.

Entitled "Forensic Practice for Helping Professionals," the workshop is designed for persons who must deal with the courts, such as social workers, registered nurses, mental health counselors, and psychologists.

The workshop will be held in the Red Room, Adron Doran University Center on the MSU campus. Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m. each day.

The instructor for the workshop will be Lane Veltcamp, professor of clinical social work in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Kentucky. He also directs the family meditation clinic and the family violence/child abuse clinic at UK's Chandler Medical Center.

The cost for the workshop for nurses will be $60 for two days, $40 for one day; for other professionals, $55 for two days, $35 for one day. Each participant will receive six hours of contact credit for each day of full attendance.

The program for the first day will include child custody litigation and disputes, and dealing with adult criminal court cases while day two will prepare the witness for the court appearance and cross-examination.

"The University and its Social Work Program tries to respond to the needs of the region," said Ted Marshall, associate professor of sociology. "We feel this workshop will help in accomplishing this goal."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Planetarium will present its annual Christmas program "The Star of Bethlehem" on Tuesdays and Thursdays from Nov. 24 through Dec. 10, except for Thanksgiving Day.

There will be two presentations each day, starting at 4:10 p.m. and 7 p.m., each lasting about 50 minutes.

"The Star of Bethlehem" briefly surveys the beautiful starry sky of late autumn and early winter, then turns to the Christmas story in an attempt to understand the mystery of the Christmas star seen by the wise men. The program concludes with a look at the traditions of the season, and Christmas scenes from our area.

All programs are free and open to the public. Because seating is limited, reservations are recommended. They may be made by calling (606) 783-2919 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Any reservations not claimed by five minutes before showtime will be released to those waiting. Due to the nature of this program children under 6 years of age will not be permitted and latecomers will not be seated.

The University Planetarium is located in Lappin Hall 212 on the MSU campus.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be the place for early holiday shopping and gift ideas as the MSU Departments of Communications and Art host a charity auction Saturday, Nov. 21, at 5:30 p.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

With more than 500 gift ideas including original prints from regional artists, "there will be something for everyone," said Dr. Richard Dandeneau, MSU Department of Communications chair. Local merchants will offer gift certificates and other new items for the auction block, as well.

In addition to auctioned items, there will be items for sale by silent bidding and cash-and-carry, according to Harlen Hamm, MSU associate professor of speech and a member of the auction's organizational committee.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit both departments scholarship programs.

Some area artists donating items include: craftsman Jack Johnson of Morehead whose shaker boxes have served as gift ideas for Gov. Martha Layne Collins and other United States government officials; former MSU art department faculty member Doug Adams whose prints are displayed in the Claypool-Young gallery, and artist Christine Barker whose landscape paintings are housed in many regional galleries.

The public is encouraged to stop by and look at the many arts, crafts, antiques and pottery items which will be on display following the MSU-Eastern Kentucky University football game.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Music and the MSU Marching Percussion will host a "Day of Marching Percussion" on Saturday, Nov. 14, in Wetherby Gymnasium.

The event, a festival competition for high school marching percussion sections, has drawn 23 schools from Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and South Carolina, according to Frank Oddis, MSU assistant professor of music. "This is the fifth year we've hosted the clinic/competition," Oddis said.

Directing the clinic sessions will be Ralph Hardiman, head percussion instructor and arranger for Santa Clara Vanguard; Harold Jones, percussion instructor and Wind Ensemble director at East Carolina University; MSU alumnus Kim Lloyd, corps director and percussion arranger for Suncoast Sound, who also is an adjudicator with Drum Corps South, and Diaz Clark, cymbal instructor for several well known drum corps.

The public is invited to watch the competition which begins at 9:30 a.m. and will feature a performance by the MSU Marching Percussion at 3:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door at $3 for students and $5 for adults.

Additional information is available from Oddis at (606) 783-2487.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"The Empire Strikes Back" is back.

WMKY, public radio from Morehead State University, will present National Public Radio's exclusive radio adaptation of George Lucas' Academy Award-winning film, "The Empire Strikes Back," on 90.3 FM each Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

"The Empire Strikes Back" chronicles continuing conflicts in a galaxy far, far away. On the ice planet Hoth, a rebel alliance struggles to resist Imperial Forces led by the evil Darth Vader. Seeking to turn the tide, Rebel Commander Luke Skywalker journeys to a distant swamp world to learn the Way of the Jedi. There, under the instruction of Jedi Master Yoda, Skywalker begins to learn the secret behind The Force.

The radio series features many of the original film stars: Mark Hamill as Luke Skywalker, Anthony Daniels as Seethreepio, and Billy Dee Williams as Lando Calrissian. John Lithgow is Yoda, the Jedi Master.

Mark Hamill, who gained fame for his portrayal of Skywalker in the motion pictures "Star Wars" and "The Empire Strikes Back," enjoys the challenge of radio drama. "It's nice to head for the stars again," said Hamill. "Radio drama goes to the roots of what an actor really does--it involves total concentration and imagination."

WMKY General Manager Larry Netherton commenting on the challenge for the listener said, "Listeners will be intrigued with the vivid images of this aural experience. Radio theatre invites personal involvement limited only by one's imagination. "The Empire Strikes Back" helps expand those limits."

More information on WMKY's programming or on how to become a WMKY member is available by calling (606) 783-2001.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University junior psychology student Jamison Graff presented a paper at the Kentucky Academy of Science's 73rd annual meeting held recently at Western Kentucky University.

The paper was entitled "Behavioral Sensitivity to Apomorphine Following Chronic Sulpiride Treatments."

Graff, the son of Gary and Connie Graff of Covington, is an environmental psychology and biology major. The 17-year-old plans to earn his Ph.D. in psychology and is currently employed through the MSU Student Work-Study Program in the psychology department.

He is a graduate of Covington Latin High School.

The annual meeting, which included representatives from each of Kentucky's colleges and universities, brought together the minds and theories of professors, graduate and undergraduate students, as well as science professionals, according to Dr. George Tapp, MSU Department of Psychology chair.

"It is highly unusual for an undergraduate student to present research papers at the annual meeting. This was a great privilege and opportunity for Jamison and for MSU," Dr. Tapp said.

MORHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University administrator/educator has been honored by the Kentucky Community Education Association for his work with the state's community education programs.

George W. Eyster, director of MSU's extended campus programs and an associate professor of education, was presented a plaque recognizing "his outstanding contributions" by Dr. William Chandler, assistant superintendent of the Owensboro Independent School District.

In presenting the award earlier this month at KCEA's 10th annual conference in Louisville, Dr. Chandler noted that Eyster had initiated the first Kentucky community school programs and provided the initial leadership for the state's community school movement.

Also speaking was Dr. John Brock, who served as superintendent of schools in Montgomery and Rowan counties. Dr. Brock said that Morehead State had strengthened community education programs in both Rowan and Montgomery counties and pledged support of community education concepts in his new role as state superintendent of public instruction.

Eyster, a member of the MSU campus since 1967, holds the Ed.S. degree from Michigan State University where he also earned his bachelor's and master's degrees. He also received the M.A. degree from Eastern Michigan University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--WMKY radio is looking for listener response to a sneak preview of "Good Evening," Minnesota Public Radio's new variety show. The preview will air Saturday, Nov. 21, at 6 p.m. on 90.3 FM.

"Good Evening," broadcast live from the World Theater in St. Paul, Minnesota, has been billed as a replacement of sorts for the popular "A Prairie Home Companion" radio show which recently halted live production due to the exit of host Garrison Keillor.

For MPR's new program, "Good Evening" host Noah Adams, long time co-host of public radio's "All Things Considered," will present a wide range of musical guests, from swing to folk, pop to classical. He'll chat with guests and regular "characters," and will read from letters, books, stories, and poems. The show also features a unique blend of storytellers and humorists.

The Nov. 21 sneak preview will feature vocal and acoustic group Metamora, humorist Stan Freberg, storyteller Kevin Kling, Tom Keith and Steve Barnett and the Band.

WMKY encourages listeners to call or write with comments on the new variety show. The decision whether or not to air "Good Evening" regularly beginning in January will be affected by comments of 90.3 FM listeners.

To comment on "Good Evening" call WMKY at (606) 783-2001 or write WMKY, UPO Box 903, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Headstart Program will benefit in all operational areas as a result of a $42,533 grant awarded to Headstart Director Shirley Blair from the Gateway Community Service Organization of West Liberty.

MSU's program serves as the Rowan County representative to the Gateway program and is the only such program to be based at a university.

With this grant, a new instructor, a handicapped children's aide, a teacher's aide and a social service worker have been hired.

In addition, medical, dental and educational services are provided for each of the 40 students currently enrolled, according to Blair.

"We require a complete physical and dental examination of each student prior to the start of the year. If the expenses are a concern, Headstart pays for that care," said Connie McGhee, Headstart teacher.

The grant will be used to further curriculum ideas as well. "Future projects include learning sign language, exposure to basic computer skills and cooking experiences," McGhee said.

Headstart is for four-year-old students and is designed to develop motor skills and hand-eye coordination in preparation for kindergarten and elementary school.

Further information is available through the Headstart Program at (606) 783-2256. Each half-day session includes a meal prepared by MSU Food Services and a snack. Transportation is available as needed.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University President and Mrs. C. Nelson Grote will host two holiday events for the campus community and friends of the University.

An informal "Holiday Gathering" for faculty, staff and students is scheduled Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building.

"We hope all our campus friends will take time out from the routine that day to enjoy a bit of holiday fellowship with us," said Dr. Grote. "This gives Wilma and me a chance to say thank you and visit informally with all of you who help make MSU such a special place," he added.

Assisting with arrangements for the reception are Ruth Davis, committee chair; Bonnie Bailey, Robert Prickett, Brenda Whitt, Melissa Gardner and Eric Woods.

On Friday, Dec. 11, the Grotes will host an Old-Fashioned Christmas Dinner at 7:30 p.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

Tickets for the dinner, which is open not only to faculty, staff and students but also to friends in the community, are $10 per person. Tables for groups of four or more persons may be reserved by calling Anna Mae Riggle at 783-2071 before 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 8.

Tickets will be available at the door, but reservations are encouraged, according to Harlen Hamm, planning committee chairman.

"The committee has planned a very festive evening from decorations of the season and an outstanding menu to special music by faculty and community musicians," Hamm said.

The menu will include hot apple cider and cheese fondue with breadsticks, crab meat salad, Cornish game hen, wild rice with Mandarin oranges, bouquettiere vegetables, hot rolls, beverages, and upside-down apple walnut pie with whipped cinnamon topping.

Serving on the dinner planning committee in addition to Hamm and Riggle are Carrie Back, Shirley Hamilton, Larry Keenan, Dr. Bill Layne, Carole Morella and Don Young.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Harold Rose, a Morehead State University professor of education, has been awarded two grants totaling $78,817 from the Kentucky Department of Education. The grants provide for the establishment of an adult education evaluation program and training for para-professionals tutoring in adult education programs.

The evaluation program is part of a state contract designed to review 30 adult education programs in Kentucky and to provide training for instructors. In addition, the grant provides funds for on-site visits of such programs.

In an effort to train para-professionals for tutoring in adult education, Dr. Rose conducted a conference in Morehead recently for local school teachers and tutors from the Morehead region. Guest speakers were featured throughout the weekend.

Another training session will be held in Bowling Green, December 18-20.

MSU's program is an extension of a state-wide outreach sponsored through Frankfort.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Registration is under way for three classes being offered by Morehead State University's Job Training Center which are scheduled to begin in January.

The 18-week courses will include training in several medical and clerical skill areas.

"The courses are geared for adults who are unemployed and are seeking to train in specific fields," said Jacquelyn H. Scott, Job Training Program coordinator.

The laboratory secretary/clinical assistant program will allow participants to learn basic laboratory procedures as well as secretarial functions. The medical tri-aide course will train individuals for positions as physical therapy aides, central supply aides and clerical aides. In both these programs, trainees will participate in on-site training at local and area hospitals and clinics.

The banking-clerical course will offer training in clerical and secretarial duties plus basic banking functions that would be marketable in a wide variety of situations.

The courses, funded by the TEN-CO Private Industry Council under the Job Training Partnership Act, are open to residents of Bath, Boyd, Bracken, Fleming, Greenup, Lewis, Montgomery, Mason, Robertson and Rowan Counties. There is no charge to eligible participants.

Additional information and registration is available from area Kentucky Department of Employment Services, in Rowan County at (606) 784-7538 or Montgomery County at (606) 498-4415, or Scott at MSU's Job Training Center, (606) 783-2379.

MOREHEAD, KY.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for Nursing and Allied Health Sciences will offer a workshop for nurses and support staff who work with home care and hospice patients on Thursday, Dec. 3, on the MSU campus.

MSU is co-sponsoring this workshop, entitled "Home and Hospice Care: Patient and Family," with the McDowell Cancer Network of the University of Kentucky.

The faculty for the one-day workshop will be Linda Lindville of the Lucille Parker Markey Cancer Center of Lexington; Dr. Hunter Black of the Morehead Clinic; Judy Sandler, registered nurse, and Jeanette Lucas, chaplain, of Lexington's Community Hospice of the Bluegrass, and Dr. Dan Thomas, MSU professor of education.

The workshop will identify the roles of the hospice team, discuss spiritual and emotional needs of the patient and family and discuss methods of alleviating caregivers stress.

All participants attending the workshop will receive continuing education units from MSU. Nurses will receive six contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Eagle Room, Adron Doran University Center. The cost is $36 which includes refreshments and handouts.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Six Morehead State University faculty members will share nearly $16,000 in institutional grants during the 1987-88 academic year.

The awards for research and creative productions, designed to encourage faculty research and creativity as well as to defray project costs, were announced by Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, MSU's acting vice president for academic affairs.

"Funding of these special research and creative projects is just one way of stimulating professional growth among the faculty and the University is pleased to have this opportunity," Dr. Taylor added.

The recipients included:

Robert Franzini, associate professor of art, who received an MSU Creative Production Grant of $1,998 for a project entitled "A Series of Large Scale Original Prints."

Receiving 1987-88 MSU Research Grants were:

Dr. Steven G. Cody, assistant professor of psychology, $3,151 for a study, "A Laboratory for Studies in Neuropsychology and Health Psychology."

Dr. George Hiller, assistant professor of psychology, $2,458 for a study, "Stereotypy of a Spatial Operant."

Dr. Victor B. Howard, professor emeritus of history, $544 for a study, "The Influence of Religion on the Radical Republican Movement, 1860-1870."

Dr. Bruce A. Mattingly, professor of psychology, $4,906 for a study, "Dopamine Receptors and Behavioral Sensitization."

Dr. Stuart Seely Sprague, professor of history, $2,808 for a study, "The Civil War in Kentucky."

Proposals for specific projects are solicited by MSU's Research and Patent Committee, which reviews them under the University's guidelines and makes funding recommendations to the vice president for academic affairs.

The committee is soliciting additional proposals for awards to be made during the current fiscal year, according to Carole Morella, the committee chairperson.

Creative Production Grant projects should have potential for contributing to the professional growth of the faculty member. Proposals for Research Grants should involve studies that have potential for contributing to the current pool of knowledge.

The committee includes six faculty members--two from each college--elected annually by the Faculty Senate, three full-time graduate students--one from each college--and the director of the Office of Research, Grants and Contracts, who serves as committee chairperson.

Additional information on institutional grants may be obtained from Morella in the Office of Research and Contracts, Ginger Hall 901.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--WMKY, public radio from the Morehead State University campus, will present a musical feast for the mind with "The Lonesome Pine Special," a weekly radio series featuring a wide variety of music recorded live at Kentucky's own Center for the Arts in Louisville.

The series will air on 90.3 FM each Saturday evening at 8 and Sunday at 2 p.m.

"The Lonesome Pine Special" offers a myriad of traditional and popular music including blues, Cajun and jazz, as well as bluegrass, country, rockabilly and folk. Each program is a live concert recording. Featured artists in the series include the Bobs, File, Metropolitan Blues Allstars, New Grass Revival, Battlefield Band, Nanci Griffith and many others.

"Recorded live at the Kentucky Center for the Arts and produced by Louisville station WFPL, 'The Lonesome Pine Specials' are an asset to the WMKY musical lineup," said WMKY Program Director Susan Westfall. "WMKY is pleased to be able to present this regional show to its listeners," she added.

Featured artists and weekly details for "The Lonesome Pine Special" are published in WMKY's monthly program guide, "Radio Variety." A complimentary copy of "Radio Variety" is available by calling WMKY at (606) 783-2001.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Social work professionals in Eastern Kentucky will have the opportunity to earn a master's degree from the University of Kentucky by taking classes at Morehead State University beginning next fall.

UK's current degree program will be brought to the MSU campus and taught in the evenings by the UK social work faculty.

"Morehead State University is pleased to have a part in providing increased opportunities for professional development of Eastern Kentucky social workers," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

"This program makes graduate education easily accessible to these professionals and helps MSU strengthen its own undergraduate program. Partnerships such as this aid in controlling the cost of higher education," Dr. Grote said.

"This is a great step for Morehead because we are establishing another bond between the social work professionals and our MSU students, as well as an additional linkage with UK," said Mike Seelig, MSU associate professor of social work and program coordinator.

"With courses being taught during evenings, students will be able to work at their agencies during the day and not lose any work time for classes. MSU will be the only university in the area to offer the courses at night," Seelig added.

Under the program, students register with UK and attend classes at MSU. All applications and details concerning courses are available through the MSU Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections.

"The program is a two-year cycle and classes are offered on a sequential basis. Students may take some of their elective courses from MSU and transfer them to the UK master's program," Seelig said.

Location and need are what both universities view as main reasons for offering the program at MSU.

There are only a few master's degree programs in this field available nationwide. Kentucky has three which are located some distance from the Morehead area. These are at UK, University of Louisville and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, also in Louisville.

"But Eastern Kentucky has a need to be met and Morehead's location allows for that," Seelig said. Not only is location a plus, but the master's program will serve as a training program for further development of social service agencies and their staffs.

"All our undergraduate students must complete a practicum under the direction of a professional. With access to a master's degree, these professionals can further supervise and advise our students and help them become better prepared for the work force," Seelig said.

An informational meeting will be held on the MSU campus in March and faculty members will be on hand to answer questions concerning the master's degree program.

Registrations are being accepted for Fall 1988 through the MSU Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections, (606) 783-2452.

MSU-UK LINK HANDS

A newly-formed partnership between Morehead State University and the University of Kentucky will bring a graduate degree program in social work to MSU's campus, making it accessible to social work professionals in Eastern Kentucky. The Master of Social Work degree will be offered through UK, but the classes will be held at MSU. While UK faculty members will teach the required professional courses, electives in the program may be taken from MSU faculty members. Finalizing the partnership recently were, from left, Dr. Larry Jones, dean of MSU's College of Professional Studies; Dr. John Landon, associate dean of UK's College of Social Work; MSU President C. Nelson Grote; Dr. Zafar Hasan, dean of UK's College of Social Work, and Dr. David Rudy, chair of MSU's Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--If a challenging and rewarding career in the hospitality industry appeals to you, Morehead State University's Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management program may be what you are looking for.

The program, begun this semester, is a revision of the Food Service Administration program formerly offered by MSU's Department of Home Economics in the College of Applied Sciences and Technology.

With 15 students currently enrolled, the new bachelor of science degree program is formatted to train students for a wider variety of job opportunities, according to Dr. Marilyn Sampley, Department of Home Economics chair. The program was revised to include the management training necessary in today's food service operations.

"Because the hospitality industry is expanding rapidly both nationally and internationally, job opportunities are abundant and the potential for advancement is phenomenal," Dr. Sampley said. "The ability to move up the career ladder is only limited by one's drive and ambition."

Graduates from the program will serve the food, lodging, tourism, health care and recreational industries, according to Dr. Sampley. "They also will be qualified to coordinate catering, convention and banquet activities," she added. Currently only two other universities in the state offer similar programs.

Educational training in the program focuses on the development and managerial skills necessary for professional managers, with emphasis placed on managing hotels, restaurants and related operations.

Students enrolled in the program will receive hands-on experience through cooperative education courses. Experience in food service may be obtained through MSU's food service laboratory while the tourism aspect may be achieved with the Hilton, Radisson, Marriott, Hyatt-Regency or other national hotel and motel chains.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Home Economics or Dr. Sampley, (606) 783-2967.
