MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has received a "special commendation" from the NCAA's National Youth Sports Program Committee for "the outstanding manner" in which MSU conducted its 1987 NYSP camp.

In a letter to MSU President C. Nelson Grote, NCAA officials cited the University for increasing the camp enrollment, for accommodating handicapped participants, and for generating "tremendous financial support" from outside sources.

Dr. Grote was notified by NCAA Assistant Executive Director Ruth M. Berkey of the University's recognition.

"This summer camp offers area young people a unique opportunity to learn and enjoy fellowship through participation in a diversity of sports activities," Dr. Grote said. "We are proud of MSU's involvement in the NCAA-sponsored program. In fact, Morehead State's National Youth Sports Camp was the first of more than 150 of its kind to be held in rural areas," he noted.

The five-week day camp, funded by the federal government and co-sponsored by the Rowan County Board of Education, is open to eligible youth ages 10 through 16, without regard to race, color, sex, handicap or national origin.

MSU has conducted the camp for nine years, according to Dr. Earl Bentley, chair of MSU's Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, who directs the camp.

Last summer the program drew 403 participants, including visually-impaired and wheelchair-confined youngsters, according to Dr. Bentley.

"We really are indebted to the Rowan County school officials and area merchants for their assistance with this very special program," Dr. Grote said.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two Morehead State University faculty members are beginning their eighth year as editors of the Southern Social Studies Quarterly (SSSQ), the journal of the Kentucky Council for the Social Studies.

They are Dr. Charles E. Holt, professor of history and an MSU faculty member since 1968, and Dr. Kent Freeland, professor of education who joined the faculty in 1977.

Published twice yearly, the SSSQ is distributed to more than 300 subscribers nationwide, including various libraries. The editorial duo also are responsible for a twice a year newsletter for the Council.

In addition to the editorial duties, the MSU educators also present numerous regional and national workshops dealing with writing for publications, publishing newsletters and ways to be more effective in classroom situations.

"Obviously, this is a task that we find stimulating and enjoyable or we would not continue as editors," said Dr. Holt, the immediate past president of the Kentucky Council.

Designed primarily for social studies educators at the elementary, secondary and college levels, the journal draws manuscripts from all over the United States as well as Canada, with five or six articles published per issue. In addition to the editors, there are approximately 40 individuals across the nation who serve as manuscript reviewers.

"We are always looking for good articles, but we do reserve the right to ask the author to revise material or let us edit," Dr. Freeland said.

Social studies educators may submit manuscripts to: Editor, SSSQ, UPO 738, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

A DAY ON MSU'S CAMPUS: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Forty-three Russell Middle School students recently visited the Morehead State University campus as part of the Ashland Oil, Inc.-sponsored "A Day on Campus" program, which is designed to encourage students to begin thinking about a college education early on and to better prepare themselves to attend college. In addition to touring the campus, the sixth, seventh and eighth graders visited various academic departments where they saw displays and talked with faculty and students. Accompanying the group were Judy Justice, RMS counselor, and Carolyn Shelton, eighth grade teacher.

Cutlines:

- 1---Greeted by the MSU Eagle, the first stop for the Russell Middle School students was MSU's Academic-Athletic Center for a brief orientation program and picture taking session.
- 2---Rhonda Baldwin, far right, MSU's recruitment activities coordinator, chats with RMS students Christie Risner and Tara Carte.
- 3---Drafting caught the attention of Melissa Scarberry and Shawn Kimberlain as Keith Wheeler of Ashland, a freshman in MSU's Department of Industrial Education and Technology, presents a demonstration.
- 4---Barbara Barker, right, instructor in radiologic technology, explains how an x-ray is taken to Kim Corbin and Scott Sansom.

SPECIAL TO THE FALMOUTH OUTLOOK

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's varsity cheerleading team has won the Division I National College Cheerleading Championship.

The competition, sponsored by the Universal Cheerleading Association, was held at Sea World in San Diego, Calif., Jan. 8-10. The contest will be televised over ESPN on Feb. 14 at 2 p.m.

"We are extremely proud of these young people," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "They are a talented, hard working group and their dedication has paid off, not only for them, but in bringing national attention to Morehead State University," Dr. Grote added.

Ranked 11th in the nation last year, the MSU cheerleaders were one of five Division I squads selected from more than 150 squads in preliminary competition to vie for the division's national title, according to Myron Doan, assistant to the vice president for student development and squad adviser.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Morehead State University men's and women's bowling teams won the 1988 Southern Intercollegiate Bowling Conference Tournament (SIBC) in Savannah, Ga.

The women's team won the three-game team event by 374 pins over the University of Miami and defeated North Carolina State University in the nine-game team all-events contest by 779 pins.

Individual team members accomplishments were: Sharon Owen, Bowling Green junior, won the singles competition (score of 687) and the individual all-events with a score of 1,952 for nine games (average 216); Christine Gawlik, Rolling Meadows, Ill., freshman, won third place in the singles (619 score), and Lisa McGinnis, Huntington, W.Va., sophomore, finished sixth in the singles (607 score) and second place in the all-events with a score of 1,865 (207 average per game).

The men's team won the three-game team event competition with 3,377 pins, 93 pins over the University of Mississippi and the nine-game team all-events with 10,160 pins (an average of 225 per bowler, per game), which was 790 pins over North Carolina State University.

Steve Todd, Maverly, W.Va., junior, bowled a perfect 300 game in the doubles event. This is the second time an MSU bowler has rolled a perfect game in the SIBC Tournament. Todd came in fourth place in the singles event with a 714 series.

Lonnie Downs (718), Centerville, Ohio, freshman, and Scott Johnson (747), Dunbar, W.Va., sophomore, won the doubles event. In the nine-game individual all-events competition, Johnson finished in first place with a series of 2,124 (236 average) and Todd finished in second place with a 2,082 series.

Owen and Johnson were voted SIBC Bowlers of the Year--for their respective divisions. This award has been given to a male and a female bowler for three years and MSU has claimed the award five times out of six--three women and two men.

On the national level, the men's team is ranked 14th and the women's team is ranked sixth.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will join other colleges and universities nationwide in presenting the satellite videoconference "AIDS: Future Campus Crisis?" on Wednesday, Feb. 17.

The conference, dealing with all aspects of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), will be held in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center, from 2 to 4 p.m.

"We've made every effort to make the campus community aware of the conference and anticipate support from students, faculty and staff, as well as the general public," said Madonna Huffman, director of residence education. The event is free and all interested persons are invited to attend, she added.

The program, sponsored on MSU's campus by the Office of Student Development, will be as follows:

2 p.m.--Introduction and welcome by John Criswell, co-anchor at the ABC-TV affiliate in Dallas, Texas.

2:05 p.m.--"AIDS: The Facts" will include panel members Dr. Peter J. Fischinger, United States Public Health Service AIDS Coordinator; Dr. Richard P. Keeling, AIDS Task Force chairman, American College Health Association and Department of Student Health director at the University of Virginia, and Paula VanNess, director of the National AIDS Information/Education Program, Centers for Disease Control.

2:30-2:50 p.m.--Participants at MSU's program site may ask questions directly to the panel members in this live broadcast.

2:50 p.m.--"AIDS: The People" will feature representatives from such risk groups as intravenous drug users, recipients of blood transfusions, homosexuals and bisexuals, heterosexuals, and children of infected mothers.

3:10-3:30 p.m.--Live question and answer session with panel members.

3:30 p.m.--"AIDS: Focus on Education" will discuss strategies and education on the college campus with panel members Dr. Keeling, VanNess and Richard Wolitski, Campus Projects coordinator, AIDS Education Project at California State University. He is also founder/president of Students for AIDS Facts and Education (SAFE).

3:30-3:50 p.m.--Question and answer session with panel members.

3:50-4 p.m.--Closing remarks

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--When looking for that first job, college graduates often find experience can be the deciding factor in whether or not they get a job interview.

Thanks to a new cooperative education supplemental grant, Morehead State University students will have the opportunity to gain work experience in their field while still in school.

Dr. Michael Hopper, MSU's Career Planning and Placement director, has been awarded a $23,830 grant by the United States Department of Education to develop a working relationship with employers within and beyond MSU's service region.

"It is important that students obtain practical experience before accepting any job," Dr. Hopper said. "If we can give students this while they are still in school, then it's to their advantage."

The cooperative education program enables students to work in their field, receiving hands-on training while getting paid and receiving credit toward their degree.

In the past, the problem has been finding businesses willing to participate in the program, according to Dr. Hopper. "The hours a student can work don't always coincide with the time an employer needs work completed," he said.

To establish paying positions in the region, Salyersville native Paul Holbrook has been hired as a cooperative education job developer. He will visit prospective employers in the area, serve as liaison with MSU's faculty and administrators, inform students about the program and assist in the process of securing employment for them.

He also will coordinate the Commonwealth Work-Study Program, a financial aid assistance program sponsored by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority. Participating employers are reimbursed $1.50 per hour for each hour the student works. MSU currently has five students enrolled in this program.

"I am looking forward to going out into the region and meeting the employers," said Holbrook, a former manager with Maloney's, Inc. "I am enthusiastic about this opportunity to help students gain experience because a degree no longer gets you a job."

A former director of administration at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corp Center in Prestonsburg, Holbrook is a 1978 graduate of MSU. After attending college on an ROTC scholarship, he served four years in the U.S. Army and was discharged with the rank of captain. He currently is a member of the 100th division reserve unit in Louisville.

Holbrook and his wife Denise have three sons--Matthew, Joseph, and Brandon. He is the son of Bill Joseph of Royalton.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Eastern Kentucky must place a value on education and raise the level of expectation of its people, if it wants to have a brighter economic future.

It will take a unified level beginning at the local level and involving all constituencies to accomplish this.

That was the message coming out of the Seventh District Summit held Saturday (Feb. 6) at Morehead State University.

The day-long session brought approximately 250 business, civic, educational and political leaders together with other concerned citizens from all over the 23-county district to discuss priorities for the region's future.

"The flame of education, which burns within us all, must be stoked every so often and that is what we are going to attempt to do today with this educational initiative," U.S. Rep. Carl C. (Chris) Perkins said in his keynote address.

He urged the summit participants to take a bipartisan approach and to be open to new proposals. Reminding them that Eastern Kentucky faced "many unique problems and challenges," he said:

"Many of these problems have been with us for decades and alone we are not going to change much. But, as a group, in a joint effort based on a similar dream I know we all share, we have an unlimited amount of ability that we can either allow to continue untapped or we can channel it toward an overall goal of improvement."

Noting that such a summit had been needed for some time, Perkins said he believed "we have the potential to become a significant asset rather than an unwelcome burden on the system." He also admonished his listeners to be initiators who allow present systems to carry the ball.

"We can step in and be the grease on the wheel, but we can't replace the wheel itself," he said.

In his welcome to the group, MSU President C. Nelson Grote cited contributions made by other sectors--private and corporate--in creating an awareness in the region of education's importance. He also praised the leadership in the region's public schools and higher education institutions.

Noting the complexity and vastness of Eastern Kentucky's problems, Dr. Grote said, "None of us can solve them by ourselves. The magnitude of problems in the Seventh District will require massive intervention if we are to make any headway in my lifetime or yours."

He urged the group to set aside individual self-interest and demonstrate statesmanship and leadership. "We need to know what is being done to see what has been left undone or that needs further attention, and then to chart a course of action utilizing the resources that we can bring together, both individually and collectively," the president said.

Following the keynote address, a six-member panel whose members represented business, government and education presented priorities from their perspectives. Serving as moderator was Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government Mayor Scotty Baesler, who also chairs the Kentucky Economic Development Planning Commission.

Missing the industrial revolution because of poor roads and inadequate communications made the region a victim, whose people historically never had a chance to learn the value of education, according to Dr. John Brock, state superintendent of public instruction.

We need to teach the value of education from both an economic sense and from its importance to the overall quality of life, Brock said. He urged businesses to join in getting across the message that if you do not complete high school, you will not get a job. He also suggested raising the compulsory attendance age in the state to 18.

Dr. Gary Cox, executive director of the Council on Higher Education, said that higher education in its traditional role of educating young people and nontraditional students was doing a good job--witness the increased enrollments. Pointing to what he called its "emerging role," that of public service, Dr. Cox said higher education must become more a part of the solution, using its resources which are not available elsewhere to reach out and help solve problems.

"While maintaining and improving its traditional role, higher education must show leadership in fostering development of the region and convince the leadership that higher education is important," Dr. Cox said.

"Acceptance of our circumstances is deadly," Dr. Jack Foster, secretary of the Education and Humanities Cabinet, told the group. "It is important that we raise our aspirations. We must believe that it can be better," he said. Emphasizing the need for a unified effort, Dr. Foster added that leadership is the key to raising expectations and called for specific objectives, well-defined and well understood at the community level.

"We must know where we are going before we will know if we get there," he said.

Pike County Judge Executive Paul E. Patton told the group that enacting legislation to deter voter fraud is essential to any improvement in the region, including education and economic development. "We can't have any success in recruiting industry without responsible government," he said.

"Our greatest heritage, love and devotion of family, is also our greatest drawback," Patton said, adding that Eastern Kentucky voters too often pledge support to elected officials as a result of patronage rather than for leadership ability. "However, our elected officials are victims of the process rather than villains," he noted.

Backgrounding summit-goers on the development of the newly-established Kentucky Appalachian Foundation created to address economic development and other related issues in the region, foundation board member Robert Matthews re-emphasized the need for local initiatives. "It will take more than educators to succeed. Ordinary citizen involvement is needed. We must have a grassroots, broad-based effort," said Matthews, who is president of Kentucky Power Co.

Roger Recktenwald of Prestonsburg, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District, suggested that one way to create an awareness of education's value is for local government to set acceptable basic education levels for employees. He told the group that while completion of high school need not necessarily be required initially for employment attainment of a GED within a period of time should be. He urged an emphasis be placed on rewards for educational attainments.

After a report on the "Forward in the Fifth" movement from its board chairperson JoAnne James and a charge by Al Smith, former co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission and vice president of Park Newspapers of Kentucky, small group discussions were held.

Some of the specific priorities/concerns raised in these discussions were the issues of dropout prevention, getting parental involvement, and creation of jobs.

Addressing the question of where we go from here, Congressman Perkins urged the group to form an organization with district-wide representation and perhaps set up meetings in each county to determine specific goals.

"If we are going to get something concrete, we have to have the involvement of those people here and those not here," he said.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

MOREHEAD, Ky.--"Don't give anyone the opportunity to say that higher education automatically accepts the proposed budget," Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote told a gathering of the campus community on Tuesday (Feb. 9).

More than 250 students, faculty and staff members attending the meeting heard Dr. Grote urge a united front in letting the General Assembly members know what underfunding of higher education will mean.

"There is no question that the governor and his staff and the members of the General Assembly are facing significant problems as they address the shortfall in 1987-88 and as they develop a responsible budget for the next biennium," he said.

This also means a difficult time for higher education, the president told his audience. Saying it would be easy to become "discouraged or to be emotional in expressing our concerns and frustrations," he encouraged them to look at this as an opportunity to turn problems into opportunities.

Reviewing the appropriations for the 1986-88 biennium, the president explained that the figures were deceptive because after the nondiscretionary add-on costs were removed and budget cuts subtracted, MSU received little more than 2.5 percent increases in operating expenses for each year in the biennium.

The proposed 1988-90 biennium budget for all of higher education reflects only one-half of a percent increase in 1988-89 and 5 percent the following year.

For MSU, in particular, the proposed budget offers $409,600 for debt retirement of the tunnel and safety project and $1.4 million for the increase in Kentucky Teachers Retirement Fund. But, he pointed out, it actually means no additional new dollars which would normally be used for operating and salary increases during the first year.

"We must communicate with the General Assembly. We need to make the argument that higher education is an investment, not an expenditure. We need to quit talking about how much it costs and begin to talk about the return on the investment to the region and the commonwealth," Dr. Grote said.

He also suggested that comments to the legislators reflect the consequences that the proposed budget would have on the university, students and the ability to serve the commonwealth.

Dr. Grote also asked for campuswide participation in the March and Rally for Higher Education in Frankfort on Feb. 16, sponsored by the Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education.

"We should have a large reponse of faculty, staff and students, and in addition, we need to make sure that friends of the university in our immediate community and alumni throughout the region attend both the march and the rally," he said.

A caravan of buses, vans and cars is scheduled to leave from MSU's Academic-Athletic Center beginning at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 16, with the last group departing at 11:30 a.m. for the all-day rally.

'COMMUNICATE OUR COMMON CONCERNS'

Calling on all members of the campus community, their families and friends to voice their concerns about the proposed funding level for higher education to their legislators, Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote said, "We need to communicate our common concerns and conduct ourselves in a manner that will influence people to support higher education and Morehead State University."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Inscape, Morehead State University's student literary/art magazine, is sponsoring a contest for student writers and artists.

First place awards of $50 each and second place awards of $25 each will be given to winners in each division--Poetry, Short Story and Art Work. The awards are funded in part by the University Honors Program, the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy and the Department of Art.

Winning entries along with those gaining honorable mention status will be published in the Fall 1988 issue, according to Michelle Boisseau, associate professor of English and magazine sponsor.

All competitions will be judged by professionals and winners will be recognized at a Fine Arts Showcase in April.

The competition is open to all MSU students, whether full or part-time. "We also encourage entries from our students taking classes off-campus at our regional centers," Boisseau said.

Literary entries must be received by noon March 4. They may be mailed to Boisseau, UPO 779, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351 or hand-delivered to Combs 103.

Art works submissions should be delivered to MSU's Claypool-Young Art Building, Room 211, no later than noon March 4.

Additional information on the contests and submission procedures may be obtained by calling Boisseau, (606) 783-2201.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has scheduled two "Open House" programs for the spring semester.

The Saturday events, planned for Feb. 27 and March 26, are designed to familiarize prospective students with campus life.

"We encourage any student who is interested in attending college, and has not decided where to go, to come to our campus and discuss the opportunities MSU has to offer," said Tim Rhodes, University Enrollment Services director. "It's possible we may have a program that is just right for you."

The Feb. 27 event will begin with registration and refreshments at 2 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center. Making a few welcoming remarks will be MSU President C. Nelson Grote; Charlie Myers, associate director of admissions; Joyce Whiting, assistant professor of speech/communications; Steve Strathmann, Student Government Association president, and Rhodes.

Representatives from admissions, financial aid, housing, student development, campus organizations, and academic areas will be available. For those interested in particular areas of study, faculty members will be on hand to answer questions.

The day's agenda will conclude with a tour of the campus and visits to residence halls and athletics facilities.

The March 26 activities will follow a similar agenda but registration will begin at 9 a.m.

Additional information is available by calling toll-free 1-800-262-7474 (in Kentucky) or 1-800-354-2090 (from other states).

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be the host site for the Growth and Research Organization for Women (GROW) Conference on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 25-26.

The conference is designed to provide a network for support and direction for women and to allow women researchers to present their findings, according to Dr. Lynne Fitzgerald, MSU assistant professor of health, physical education and recreation.

"About 50 persons have already registered for the conference," said Dr. Fitzgerald, who along with Dr. Beverly McCormick, assistant professor of real estate, is coordinating the event.

While this is the seventh annual GROW Conference, this is the first time the event has been held on the MSU campus. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. in the third floor lobby, Adron Doran University Center.

Mrs. Wilma Grote, wife of MSU's president, will welcome the group at the opening session which begins at 9 a.m. in the Riggle Room. The hour-long sessions will begin at 9:10 and continue throughout the day. Various breaks will be provided.

Program presenters will include researchers from Kentucky and Ohio. Titles of some of the papers to be presented during the day-and-a-half conference will include, "Women Helping Women: Supportive Relationships," "Teacher Burnout," and "Alternative Media: Hope for a Woman's Reality."

"This will be an excellent opportunity for women to see what is being done in research," said Dr. McCormick. "It also gives the researchers a chance to find out what avenues are necessary for additional research."

Dr. Cathy Small will serve as the keynote speaker for the dinner to be held at 7 p.m. in the Red Room. She is the marketing director of Jubilee Crafts, a non-profit organization that imports and markets handicrafts from women's cooperatives throughout third world countries. A former United Nations consultant for the World Health Organization, Dr. Small has taught women's studies in anthropology at the university level. She received a Ph.D. degree in anthropology from Temple University.

"We are encouraging all women in the campus community to attend the conference," said Dr. Fitzgerald. "If you cannot attend the whole conference, then we hope you can attend the dinner," she said.

"Students will find the conference extremely helpful," Dr. Fitzgerald continued. "Where else could they find as vast a source of knowledge in their fields."

The fee for the conference is $35, if registering in advance, and $40 the day of the conference. Students may pre-register for $15, or $17 the day of the event. The cost is $10 for the dinner only.

Additional information is available from Dr. Fitzgerald, (606) 783-2469 or Dr. McCormick, (606) 783-2776.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University Theatre students will present "The Dining Room," Feb. 25-27, in Button Auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock nightly.

A.R. Gurney Jr.'s comedy features a number of diverse characters, according to Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU's coordinator of theatre. "It focuses on a room that was once the vital center of family life which is now neglected," he said.

The production will be directed by Julie F. Jones, Cynthiana senior, and Edward E. Figgins, Brooksville graduate student.

The technical crew will include Carl V. Curnutte III, Ashland senior, as stage manager, and Suzanne Hart, New Castle freshman, as assistant stage manager. Doug Salisbury will serve as lighting director and O'Baker will be the scenic designer. Costume designer will be Van Edward Wilburn, Grahn junior, and properties designer will be David Dunaway, Harrison, Ohio, freshman.

The technical director will be Dr. William J. Layne, associate professor of theatre.

Tickets for the production will be available at the door for $5 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and students, and free to MSU students with valid I.D. cards. Additional information is available from the MSU Theatre Box Office, (606) 783-2170.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Mitchell-Ruff Duo, featuring internationally-acclaimed jazz artists Dwiki Mitchell and Willie Ruff, will appear in concert at Morehead State University on Thursday, Feb. 25.

The performance, part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) Concert and Lecture Series, is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Baird Music Hall.

AIM is a cooperative cultural effort of Morehead State and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council, Inc..

Admission is by season membership in the series or individual tickets which will be sold at the door for $5 for adults and $2.50 for youth age 18 and under. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

Formed in 1955 when pianist Mitchell and bassist/French-horn player Ruff left the legendary Lionel Hampton's band to strike out on their own, the duo introduced American jazz to the Soviet Union in 1959 and to China in 1981.

Meeting in 1947 at Lockbourne Air Force Base, the pair separated after their military service. Mitchell studied at a conservatory in Philadelphia, while Ruff studied with Paul Hindemith at the Yale School of Music.

Reunited as musicians with Hampton's jazz group, Mitchell and Ruff bill the duo as "the oldest continuous group in jazz without personnel changes."

Music critics and jazz artists have praised the duo through the years dubbing them "jazz masters." In their early years, Ruff and Mitchell used to open club acts for such giants of jazz as Count Basie, Dizzy Gillespie and Miles Davis.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is seeking nominations for its 1988 Founders Day Award for University Service.

"Individuals who have served this institution in superior fashion over the years are eligible and we invite our alumni and other friends to nominate deserving candidates," said Buford Crager, chairperson of MSU's Founders Day Committee.

The award is to be presented during the annual observance on Thursday, March 31, as MSU celebrates its 66th birthday as a state institution of higher education.

Nominations should be submitted in writing to Mr. Buford Crager, Morehead State University, UPO Box 724, Morehead, KY 40351.

The nomination deadline is Friday, March 4.

The Founders Day Award for University Service was established by MSU's Board of Regents in 1978. Previous recipients have included W. E. Crutcher, 1978; Linus A. Fair, 1979; U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, 1980; Dr. Warren C. Lappin, 1981; Dr. Ted L. Crosthwait, 1982; Monroe Wicker, 1983; Lloyd Cassity, 1984; Grace Crosthwaite, 1985; Boone Logan, 1986; and Dr. Rondal D. Hart, 1987.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will celebrate the third annual National TRIO Day with an Open House in the office of the Academic Services Center located in Allie Young 220 on Friday, Feb. 26, from 2 to 4 p.m.

All University faculty, staff, and students, as well as members of the community are welcome.

The purpose of the celebration is to call attention to the important educational achievements of TRIO Programs.

"The goal of the TRIO Programs is to offer support services to enhance the chance of success for those individuals who have the potential to succeed in postsecondary education, but lack the academic preparation or financial resources to do so," said Betty M. Moran, director of MSU's Academic Services Center.

TRIO Programs have been part of the federal strategy aimed at advancing equal opportunity to all in postsecondary education for over two decades. Nationally, Educational Opportunity Centers, Special Services, Talent Search, and Upward Bound Programs presently offer assistance to more than 425,000 students each year with information, counseling, tutoring, academic instruction, encouragement, and support.

Included in that number are more than 10,000 individuals served by TRIO Programs in Kentucky; approximately 1,000 of which are served by the Special Services, Talent Search, and Upward Bound Programs sponsored by Morehead State University.

Additional information about TRIO Programs in the region is available from the Academic Services Center, Morehead State University, located in Allie Young 220 or by calling (606) 783-2005.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A film producer, writer and frequent lecturer on college campuses, Attallah Shabazz will speak at Morehead State University on Feb. 24 at 7 p.m. in Breckinridge Auditorium.

This lecture is sponsored by MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs as part of Black History Month.

The oldest daughter of El Hajj Malik Shabazz (Malcolm X), she will lecture on "Malcolm X, the man and father away from the podium."

Currently Shabazz's work includes being an assistant film director for the Lincoln Center Film Institute, the director of Indian Lore for the Girl's Vacation Fund, a fitness/health and hygiene instructor at the Ophelia DeVore School of Charm and part-time administrative assistant at both The Kinte Corporation (Alex Haley's office), and The Pacificia Radio Foundation of California.

Shabazz and Yolanda King are the co-founders of Nucleus, Inc., a national touring company of educational theatre designed to motivate today's youth.

A native of Westchester County, N.Y., she graduated from the United Nations International School at age 17. Continuing her education, she graduated from Briarcliff College where she majored in International Law and English. Her photo was featured on the cover of Essence Magazine's 16th anniversary issue.

The lecture is free and open to the public. Additional information is available from MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs, (606) 783-2668.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be the host site for the 15th annual Kentucky Philological Association (KPA) meeting March 4-5 in the Adron Doran University Center.

Nearly 200 language and literature teachers are expected to attend the two-day sessions which include reading of literary works, creative writings and research papers by 54 presenters.

The sessions, which begin at 9 a.m., will include "19th Century Women Writers," "Non-English Novels," "Language and Learning," and "Kentucky Writers." A special session on poetry reading--with authors reading their original works--will be held on Friday evening.

"The KPA serves as a forum for ideas of interest to language and literature professors," said Dr. Frances Helphinstine, MSU professor of English and outgoing president of KPA who is chair of the local arrangements. "Those attending will hear stimulating presentations by Kentucky professors on some area of research or special interest."

The incoming president of KPA, Frank Stallings, professor of English at Northern Kentucky University, will be the luncheon banquet speaker on March 5. Entertainment will be provided by MSU Chamber Singers, under the direction of James Ross Beane.

Attending the conference will be Dr. Ruth Barnes, MSU retired professor of English, an honorary member of KPA since its inception.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., March 4. The fee is $10.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Since 1979, the Morehead State University Water Testing Laboratory has been testing public and private water supplies in Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky for bacterial contamination.

According to Dr. Ted Pass, laboratory director, more than 20,000 samples have been examined. Before the MSU laboratory was established, water could only be tested in Frankfort or Madisonville. The MSU lab serves 46 counties and 55 public water systems as well as the Farmers Home Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and many health departments east of Lexington.

Since the MSU lab is located in the Eastern Kentucky area, results of the samples are normally available within 24 hours. The cost per test is $6.

Recently, the laboratory completed a five-year study of Eastern Kentucky water quality. Assisting Dr. Pass in the study were Rita Wright, water analyst, and two MSU students, Sandy Keener of Lexington and Sandy Williams of Paintsville.

"The study was done to heighten the awareness of residents in the laboratory's service area concerning the quality of ground and surface water," said Dr. Pass.

The Kentucky Division of Water reports that approximately one-third of the state's population (one million people) use self-supplied water. Rowan County alone averages 110,000 gallons daily.

According to Dr. Pass, approximately 50 percent of the 1,761 wells, 27 percent of the 468 cisterns and 43 percent of the 231 springs that were tested in the 67 county study tested positive for coliforms. Coliforms are bacteria native to the intestinal tract of mammals.

"This is an indication that the water supply may be contaminated with raw sewage from human or animals," he explained.

In Rowan County, for example, 54 percent of the wells, 33 percent of the cisterns and 100 percent of the springs that were tested were positive for coliforms.

"The lab meets both state and federal guidelines for water testing, and only certified personnel can conduct the tests on the water samples," said Dr. Pass.

"Students majoring in biology and environmental sciences at MSU receive practical and research experience while investigating water-related problems," he added.

Darrin DeMoss, Morehead junior majoring in biology, said, "I have been working in the lab for three years as Dr. Pass's workshop and the experience has provided me with an excellent understanding of the importance of the work being done there."

Additional information on the service is available from the MSU Water Testing Laboratory, UPO Box 804, MSU, Morehead, Kentucky 40351, or by calling Dr. Ted Pass, director, or Rita Wright, analyst, (606) 783-2961.

ADVOCATES MARCH/RALLY FOR HIGHER EDUCATION: A Picture Story

FRANKFORT, Ky.--From the march up Capitol Avenue to a rally later in Dudgeon Civic Center, thousands of representatives from campuses statewide put aside fierce athletic rivalries and joined in one voice to show support for higher education.

Converging on the state Capitol steps were nearly 3,000 marchers--mainly students but also faculty, staff, alumni and concerned citizens--who carried banners, balloons and signs to focus attention on higher education's plight under the proposed executive budget.

And that's just what the march/rally's sponsors, the Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education and Student Advocates for Higher Education, had in mind when they planned the Feb. 16 event.

Morehead State University was highly visible with a contingent of more than 700 supporters who came via a motorcade of 10 buses and some two dozen cars and vans.

"Part of your future has been choked...part of your future has been shackled," former MSU President A. D. Albright told the crowd at the Capitol, referring to the erosion of higher education due to budget cuts combined with increased enrollments.

"Anyone who is sensitive to the creation of jobs in Kentucky, anyone who is sensitive to economic development in the commonwealth, anyone who is sensitive to increasing the quality of living in the commonwealth must somehow remove this strangulation of your future and Kentucky's future," said Dr. Albright, a former executive director of the Council on Higher Education.

Predicting a mass exodus of talented faculty, increased tuition rates and further reductions in state financial aid programs if the governor's budget is passed, CHE member and MSU alumnus David Holton described the proposed budget as "not exactly good news for public schools" and "catastrophic" for higher education.

Following the program at the Capitol, the scene shifted to the Civic Center where more than 5,000 advocates rallied around the cause of higher education with mascots, cheerleaders and pep bands from the various institutions leading the chants.

During a "talent showcase" spotlighting student performing groups from the campuses, Gov. Wallace Wilkinson made an unexpected appearance at the Civic Center at the invitation of the student body leaders who had delivered resolutions calling for more state money for universities to the governor and the legislative leadership.

After visiting with students and talking with newsmen, the governor left before Louisville attorney and American Bar Association president-elect Stanley Chauvin told the audience that education couldn't take any more sacrifices.

"The belt can't be tightened. The belly is already against the backbone," said Chauvin, who represented the state's 500,000 alumni and parents.

Speaking for her 10,000 colleagues across the state, Dr. Beverly D. Sypher of the University of Kentucky warned of an impending "brain drain" with the best faculty members leaving the state. She asked, "What kind of economic development can we have without an educated workforce?"

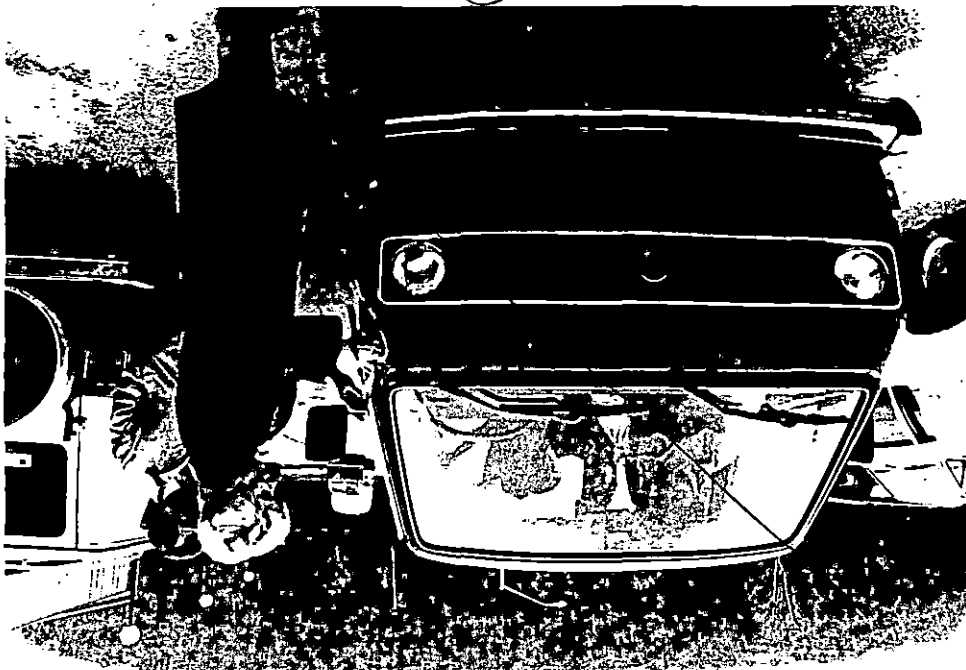

Sally McKenney of Murray, one of Kentucky's 120,000 students in universities and community colleges across the state, reminded her listeners that education is "not a special interest, but everybody's interest."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The first meeting of Morehead State University's Great Books Program, Adult Division, will be held March 1, 6:30 p.m. on the fifth floor of the Camden-Carroll Library.

The Great Books Program can serve as a preparation for students to improve scores on national tests and an improvement plan by public school teachers, according to Faye Belcher, MSU library consultant. It can also be used for continuing education and for the enjoyment of the participant.

High-school seniors, college students, citizens of Morehead and the surrounding area, and the faculty and staff of Morehead State University are encouraged to attend.

Additional information on the program is available from Betty Jo Peters, assistant professor of English, 783-2196 or Nancy Sartor, UPO 1293, Morehead State University or Belcher, 783-2251.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of Music will host its 16th annual Jazz Clinic on Feb. 26-27.

Open to high school jazz ensembles, the clinic will begin Friday at 9 a.m. at Baird Music Hall. More than 300 students from high schools in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana are expected to attend.

Headlining the list of guest clinicians will be jazz guitarist and MoPro Records recording artist Cal Collins, who has worked with Benny Goodman, Rosemary Clooney, Woody Herman and other jazz greats.

Other guest clinicians include:

Pat Harbison, trumpets, a faculty member with the University of Cincinnati's jazz program;

Tom Senff, trombones, freelance musician who has played in the big bands of Stan Kenton and Herman;

Jim Rupp, drums, big band veteran musician who toured the U.S. and Europe with the bands of Herman, Maynard Ferguson and Glenn Miller. He also has recorded for several television specials.

The MSU Jazz Ensemble II, directed by David Anderson, MSU assistant professor of music, will launch a series of host concerts with a performance at 10 a.m. on Friday in Duncan Recital Hall.

Other host concerts will include:

Friday 1 p.m. MSU PERCUSSION ENSEMBLE, under the direction of Frank Oddis, assistant professor of music.

4 p.m. MSU GUITAR ENSEMBLE, under the direction of Raymond Ross, assistant professor of music.

Saturday 10:30 a.m. MSU JAZZ FUSION ENSEMBLE, under the direction of Jay Flippin, associate professor of music.

3 p.m. MSU JAZZ ENSEMBLE I, directed by Anderson.

Jazz Clinic

The clinic's feature concert will be given by The Blue Wisp Big Band, a jazz group from Cincinnati, at 8 p.m. Friday in Duncan Recital Hall.

The host concerts are free and open to the public; however, there will be an admission fee for the public for the Blue Wisp performance. Tickets will be available at the door at $5 each.

During the two-day clinic, concerts also will be given by the participating high school ensembles. Awards for the most outstanding jazz ensemble, outstanding soloist will be presented at the final host concert on Saturday.

MSU music faculty assisting as clinicians will include Anderson, saxophones; Flippin, keyboards, and Chuck Archard, bass.

MOREHEAD, KY.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nurses and allied health professionals is sponsoring two workshops during the first week of March in the Adron Doran University Center.

The first workshop, entitled Pediatric Nursing Assessment I, will be held Wednesday through Friday, March 2-4. It will focus on the nursing evaluation of respiratory and cardiovascular functions of toddler and preschool aged children.

Sandra Gibson, nurse practitioner at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Cincinnati, Ohio, will provide the instruction.

The registration fee for this workshop is $90 and includes 15 contact hours of instruction as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing. Participants will need to wear clothes suitable for laboratory practice and bring a stethoscope and a small plastic ruler.

A one-day seminar for radiologic technologists will be held on Saturday, March 5. Topics to be covered will include radiographic artifacts, basics of ultrasound, in-injection techniques, infection control and human aspects of patient care.

The faculty will include radiologic technologists Ken Addington and Betty Addington, Highlands Regional Medical Center; Susan Enlow, St. Joseph's Hospital; Janet Gross, MSU's Baccalaureate Nursing Program coordinator, and Rae Smith, MSU's radiologic technology program coordinator.

The workshop fee is $42 and includes seven contact hours of instruction.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University graduate, Leslie Spradlin of Mt. Sterling, has been elected president of the Student Research Group, American Association for Dental Research.

Spradlin, now a third year dental student at the University of Louisville School of Dentistry, also has been selected to participate in her second international research meeting. She will present findings of her research in periodontal ligament cells (conducted with Dr. Russell Pough, U of L School of Medicine Biochemistry Department chairman) at the meeting in Montreal in March.

She also will represent U of L at the American Dental Association-sponsored national research competition next fall.

AADR's Student Research Group is composed of students working on research projects at the nation's 58 dental schools. Spradlin was instrumental in organizing the charter group of student researchers at U of L.

The daughter of Bob and Peggy Spradlin of Mt. Sterling, she earned her B.S. degree from MSU, majoring in biology with a chemistry minor.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. George Troutt, coordinator of regional in-service activities in the College of Professional Studies at Morehead State University, has been awarded a $144,401 grant to train personnel in the Kentucky Beginning Teacher Internship Program.

With the grant, funded by the Kentucky Department of education, MSU's training program will provide initial certification in the Florida Performance Measurement System (FPMS) as well as the latest information for those persons already in the program.

"Beginning observers will become trained and certified in the FPMS," said Dr. Troutt. "Public school personnel and university faculty already in the program will be recertified so they can continue to be accurate and provide up to date teaching methods."

The Beginning Teacher Internship Program, established in 1985, offers assistance in developing teacher behavior for first year teachers. The FPMS system is a proven observation measurement system that provides specifics rather than generalizations to be used as guidelines for new teachers, according to Dr. Troutt. "MSU will continue to use the Florida system for one more year," he said.

The grant runs through June 30, 1988.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--More than $10,600 in institutional research grants were awarded to eight Morehead State University educators recently.

The latest awards bring the number of research and creative production proposals funded during the 1987-88 academic year to 12 for a total amount in excess of $26,000 according to Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, MSU acting vice president for academic affairs.

"Designed to encourage research and creativity while defraying project costs, the grants help to stimulate the professional growth which is vital to an academic community," Dr. Taylor said.

Recipients of MSU Research Grants include:

Dr. Ted Pass, professor of biology, $3,184 for a study entitled "An Evaluation of Hemodialysis Water Treatment Systems to Prevent Endotoxemia and Bacteremia in Dialysis Patients."

Dr. Glenn Peterson, assistant professor of agriculture and natural resources, and Dr. Donald Applegate, Veterinary Technology Program coordinator, $2,785 for a study entitled "Evaluation of an Oral Escherichia Coli Bacterin-Vaccine in the Prevention of Edema Disease in Sheep."

Dr. C. Brent Rogers, assistant professor of agriculture, $2,000 for a project entitled "Evaluation of Herbicide Safeners on Forage Grass Species."

Dr. David R. Rudy, professor and chair of the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections, $1,548 for a study entitled "Adult Children of Alcoholics."

grants
2-2-2

Dr. Barbara Russell, assistant professor of education, $570 for a study entitled "Acquisition of Communicative Competence Among LD Children and Adolescents."

Calvin O. Lindell, instructor of speech, and Tom E. Scott, assistant professor of speech, $525 for a study entitled "Individual Differences in Sensation Seeking and Its Relationship to Drug Use."

MSU's Research and Patent Committee, chaired by Carole Morella, solicits proposals for specific projects; reviews them under the University's guidelines, and makes funding recommendations to the vice president for academic affairs.

Creative Production Grant projects should have potential for contributing to the professional growth of the faculty member, while Research Grant proposals should involve studies that will contribute to the current pool of knowledge.

Additional information on institutional grants may be obtained from Morella in the Office of Research, Grants and Contracts, Ginger Hall 901.

MOREHEAD, KY.--The Famous People Players will present the acclaimed Broadway hit, "A Little Like Magic," at Morehead State University's Button Auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 5.

Presented as part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) Concert and Lecture Series programming, "A Little Like Magic" features life-size puppets and colorful props which are brought to life through the technique of black light theatre.

Puppets of Barbra Streisand, Kenny Rogers, Liberace, Michael Jackson and others will sing and dance across the stage. Classic tales such as "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" will be recreated with music, color, skill and imagination.

"It's a wonderful evening of enchanting entertainment for children of all ages--from six to 60--full of spectacular theatrics," said Dr. Ron Fiel, series committee chairman.

Admission is by season membership or individual tickets which will be available at the door at $5 for adults and $2.50 for youth age 18 and younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

Founded by Diane Dupuy in 1974, The Famous People Players is unusual in that 10 of its 13 members are developmentally handicapped, demonstrating that, given the opportunity, anyone can do anything.

The Famous People Players have been the subject of numerous television programs including a CBS Movie-of-the-Week, "Special People," which starred Brooke Adams. Ann-Margaret narrated an Emmy Award-winning documentary of the company with the same name as its Broadway show. The company also has been featured on the Phil Donahue Show and CBS' "West 57th Street."

AIM is a cooperative effort of MSU and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council.
