Eight members of the speech department of Rockbridge Training School participated in a tournament at Elizabethton on Saturday, November 20 and won in every event in which they participated.

The following honors were won by Breck: 1st place -- prose reading; 2nd place -- interpretation; 1st place -- Debate.

Breck also captured first place in two events -- "The greatest number of points in entire speech tournament."

The following students made the trip: Max Anderson, Nicholas Roberts, Mike Carr, Tom Bowne, Mike Greene, Vernon Whitaker, and Alan Hackney.

Three Sentenced To Serve One Year Terms

No cases have been tried at the November term of Rowan Circuit Court which convened on Monday of last week, and sessions have been recessed [Thanksgiving Holiday] until next Monday.

After entering pleas of guilty three were sentenced to serve one year terms in the L. G. Grange Reformatory.

Two Louisville negroes, in their late 20's, pled guilty to an attempt to rob the C. C. Clark Motor Store of Morehead's Main Street and each was given a year's sentence by Judge John J. Winn. The two who were sentenced are Lavern Wilson and Larry Alexander, Jr.

The almost complete looting of the store was thwarted when the thieves, their truck partially loaded at the rear entrance, were spotted by a business tenant in an adjoining building.

Elmer Riddle was also given a year after his guilty plea of breaking into the Morehead Drive-In Theatre concession and box office. The theatre is owned by L.D. Fanner.

The grand jury has brought to light a number of robberies allegedly by juveniles. All names haven't been released for publication because they have either not been apprehended, or the charges were pending.

Death And Illness In Sanders Family Leads To Reports

Peristone, day-by-day, reports that the sprawling Morehead Tobacco Warehouses have been sold to North Carolina interests was denied somewhat emphatically today by one of the owners.

But, the possibility exists that ownership of the majority of the stock may change hands. This may not come until after the end of the almost-at-hand selling (auction) season which ends in January and, North Carolina investors may not be involved.

About 80 percent of total goes under the auctioneer's chant before Christmas. Sales start Monday, Nov. 29, and there are 15 selling dates before Christmas.

It is known that several "prospective" purchasers have been at Morehead, but apparently nothing is "official" yet. The huge warehouses are operating as in the past -- and have been receiving tobacco (in large quantity) for the first sale.

Two circumstances -- both health-wise -- caused the widespread reports, "inevitably" of some kind of major part, of the stock in Morehead Tobacco Warehouses changing hands.

First, was a major stroke suffered about three months ago by A.T. Sanders, 80, of Lancaster. However, physicians reported he had shown remarkable and considerable improvement.

About a month ago his brother, Jim Sanders, 77, died of a heart attack.

Own Controlling Interest

The Sanders brothers own controlling interest in the warehouses. Other listed stockholders are J.B. Cox and his son Jim Cox of Richmond, and Matt Dykes of Winchester.

If the controlling interest changes ownership it will undoubtedly be the biggest stock, or real estate, transaction in Rowan County's 110 year history.

The "burley" auction houses on U.S. 60 at the east and west ends of Morehead approach a half-million floor feet of selling space.

There are four warehouses, or selling floors, but they go under three names -- Morehead Tobacco Warehouse, the parlor house; East Kentucky Tobacco Warehouse; and Farmers Tobacco Warehouse. The latter encompasses two of the buildings.

In tobacco men circles Morehead is classed as a "10 million pound" operation. This means the floors handle this much tobacco during the selling season.

Morehead has grown to be one of the "tabletop" markets in the burley belt. In 1963 about 10 1/2 million pounds were sold at Morehead. This dropped slightly last year because the poundage went down throughout the six state burley belt because of a poor growing season and reduced acreages. Actually, Morehead gained [percentage-wise and based on total belt poundage] in 1964.

They Played The Long Shot

History of the company is unique, revealing a "considerable gamble on the part of the Sanders brothers, and their associates, which eventually led to the writing of new regulations and procedures in the 'gold row' tobacco auction field.

The chronological recitation is like a "financial fairy story" with a happy ending.

The Sanders brothers, the Cox family and Dykes (an auctioneer) announced early in the spring of 1957 they would erect a tobacco warehouse at Morehead.

The proposal met "behind the door" skepticism within the powerful and "closed" burley warehouse circles.

The Sanders, Cox's, and Dykes not only built a warehouse, but they put up the largest under one roof in Kentucky.

As the nails were driven and skylights installed, a bitter battle, much of it unpublished, developed within the industry.

The Warehouse Association, led by long established Mayeville interests,

MIKE WON'T HIDE AGAIN... V.D. Flood, Morehead's first and oldest (in years of service) rural mail carrier, retired as of today. This newspaper will be among the last mail he will deliver to the over 2,000 people who reside on Morehead's RFD 2. (Story on page 2) protected. Primarily, they based their objection on the grounds that too many tobacco markets would ruin those in existence... and more than enough were in operation to serve all growers, particularly as quotas were being slashed.

Morehead counter-claimed: [1] The mountain farmer was being discriminated against in that he often had to wait several days before his small crop got on the floor; [2] Existing warehouses catered to growers with large acreages; and [3] Unnecessary delays resulted in mailing of checks etc. to the growers.

They also claimed that the counties in the Morehead area were too far removed from the nearest markets at Mayeville, Ky., Sterling, Ky., and W. Va., and norther Kentucky had no markets.

Another factor was that mountain tobacco formerly classified as "tropical" was bringing as good a price as the from the "lowland" because it was in demand for the ever-growing filter-tip market.

A battle waged behind the scenes in Washington.

Some Burley - No Grades

The Morehead market opened that year - 1957 - the Monday before Thanksgiving.

But, the powerful warehouse industry had been successful. The United States Department of Agriculture did not assign graders to Morehead. An auction floor without graders was deemed fatal.

However, area farmers brought their tobacco to Morehead - not in quantity as today, but enough to almost fill the floor.

Sales started at Morehead without government graders. Pin-hookers, vying a good thing, were prevalent.

The Sanders Brothers, and some of their associates, bid much of the tobacco themselves realizing it was selling too low. American, Reynolds, Lillard etc. did not send buyers.

The Warehouse Association almost openly speculated "down" for the Morehead market.

But, they failed to take three things into consideration.

1. The Sanders Brothers have long been leaders of the republican party in Kentucky and later published reports showed they were among the generous contributors during the election campaign for Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had been President.

2. Ezra Telf Benson was Secretary of Agriculture. [Benson was almost a fanatic against whiskey drinking and use of tobacco and never did "see-eye" with the leaders of the tobacco selling or manufacturing industries.]

3. The tenacity and individualism of

THIS IS THE PROBLEM... Among the pictures taken during the week by the Department of Health at the Kingsford Charcoal Company Plant in Haldeman, east Rowan County (near-soldier in Carter County) shows smoke belching from the stacks. Residents of the area (as far as seven or eight miles away) have led an unrelenting fight for two years to force the company to install controls eliminating the smoke. The company has some experimental equipment on Kiln No. 1 which, if effect, is supposed to 'eat up' some of the smoke, chemicals etc. Pictures like this are expected to be presented at a public hearing before Rowan Fiscal Court on Thursday of next week (Dec. 2, 10 a.m.) at the courthouse in Morehead. The Court has under consideration creation of an air pollution district for the entire county.

SMOKE IS NOT ALL... When County, State and U.S. Department of Health authorities started checking the charcoal plant at Haldeman in Rowan County for air pollution they found (and photographed as above) this violation - steam pollution, dumping of refuse in the watershed. Health authorities said this was the 'refuse dump' of the Haldeman Grade and High School. A 'citation' is expected.

INFALLIBLE... The United States Department of Health has set up mechanical devices, as shown above, to test air pollution in the Haldeman area. Operating around the clock these computers record the density, kind and amount of chemicals in the air etc. Air pollution is one of the 'prime targets' of legislation already enacted, or under study, by the Congress.

Rowan County Moves Toward Constructing Own Water System

The Rowan County Water District today announced an 'open to the public meeting' in the courthouse at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 3, urging 'town and rural citizens' to attend. A district (about 18 counties) rural water meeting will be held at Morehead (all day) Dec. 7. The financial statement of the Morehead Utility Plant Board from July 1, 1964 to June 30, 1965 appears in this issue of The Morehead News.

Mayor Eldon T. Evans called a special meeting of council Monday afternoon and a delegation went sent (and is in) Washington pursuing a federal grant.

Keep your water off our land! That, in effect, is what Rowan County Judge Wilford Flannery, probably with the blessing of his all new Fiscal Court, said today. Reference was to the City of Morehead municipally owned water system spreading its facilities outside the city limits.

Flannery said:

"1. Rowan County will build its own water system, supplying 80 percent of the rural population.

"2. The main lines will extend from Licking River up the North and South Forks of Triplet to the Holly area and the Hayes section, both near the Carter County line; and, laterals are provided for the Clearfield, Charley Creek and Elizabethton parts of the county.

"3. In case anyone overlooked it in all this water gab-fest, the Fiscal Court has already pre-empted the rural sections with creation of water districts all of which are legally filed and on record.

"4. One of the nation's leading engineers and consultants on rural water districts - Socco Company has already been employed, and the representatives are in Morehead this week to expedite the rural water system.

"5. Proper facilities have been made in the county. We are submitting an application for a federal grant, and, under the Farm Home Administration there is definitely earmarked money for rural water districts both in grants and long term financing. [The Judge said that during the last election in Morehead folks may have become confused about these federal grants. He emphasized that Congress had spelled out money for rural water systems in plain language like Rowan, probably had provided money for facilities if MSC wanted to expand its colleges as recently developed at Palmyra, and left hanging anything else. Flannery thought voters had overlooked 'the big item' in that the county had proceeded much further than the City of Morehead on its water program.]

"6. We're going to have our [Rowan County] water system in operation sooner than most think, and the City of Morehead has no more right to sell water outside the city limits of Rowan County than we [Fiscal Court and Water District] have to sell water inside Morehead corporate limits. [Flannery did not specify the time element except to say it would be done before his term expires. He was elected in November on a second term of four years as County Judge.]

"7. I will, after consulting with the new members of the Fiscal Court, appoint the Rowan County Water District, which has already been duly created. In the meantime Socco Engineers have been instructed to proceed immediately, and ours will be among the first applications under the new federal [grant and loan] program.

"8. The Judge said he would prefer not to elaborate on a 'long runned' plan whereby one pumping station at Farmers would supply both the Rowan and Bath counties rural water systems. He said that was up to the engineers and the government. [Bath County is probably as far along. Maybe further, than Rowan for a rural water district extending from the river to the Owensville hill with four laterals, and both, Bath and Rowan might be served from one purification plant.]

About two months ago Rowan County started taking applications for rural water consumers. The plan provided: [1] Applicants deposit $10 but this was to be refunded if the plans did not materialize; [2] Opened offices with Farmers May in charge on Main Street, across from the courthouse, for applications; and [3] Published a proposed rate schedule. This was on a graduated scale with a minimum of $6.30 per month

CONTROLLING INTEREST COULD CHANGE

This is a partial view of the sprawling tobacco warehouses (10 million pound classification) at Morehead, all owned by the same interests. Most of the stock in this market which had a 'fairy tale' beginning and has grown beyond the wildest expectations, may be sold because of the death of Jimmy Sanders, 77, and a stroke suffered by A.T. Sanders, 80, the pioneering founders (in 1957) and owners of the controlling interest.

Warehouses —

The 'mountain farmer' and determination of Morehead, and area, businessmen, metropolitan newspapers, although ignored the Morehead market, except in a 'drawing to an inside strategic feature fashion.

Franklin called went from Morehead to Washington, from the warehouse owners, businessmen and farmers. Local feeling was high.

Benson sent his top assistant to Morehead to see "what this is all about." Therein lies another story.

Those planning for graders at Morehead thought, and still claim, that the warehouse group advised Benson's aid in train for graders as "this is closest to Morehead."

Benson had wired his assistant would be on the train that then arrived at Morehead about Morehead.

The Morehead Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to meet the train. C. C. "George" Washington, Chairman, May, Chairman of the Board, was to just about everybody in these parts, advised the at-the-Morehead-railroad-station group the "warehouse" car that "might be who you are looking for."

He had a ticket for Lexington, 71 miles from Morehead.

Huffman held up the train for 15 minutes until the Assistant Secretary could be awakened. Huffman was later awarded commendation by the Morehead Chamber of Commerce.

Benson's Assistant hurriedly dressed and taken to Morehead, and later in the morning to the Morehead warehouse.

Farmers Orderly But Incensed

Everywhere he turned rice farmers reacted "past poor treatment" at Bluegrass auction floors. They even told of having to wait at the auction for days to be sold that "we spent all our money on whiskey and loose women."

Morehead's Chamber of Commerce rounded up farmers, and some businessmen, to meet with the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for lunch.

This turned into a "testimonial meeting" for "Mr. Benson." "You think we're a bunch of hill-billies."

The Assistant Secretary left with the two men. "You're people from the (grass-roots) case which will be brought immediately to the attention of Secretary Benson," but promised nothing.

He sent from Morehead to Lexington where the incensed opposing the Morehead market were "spicy sales" and "no U.S. graders" eligible for farmers.

Another day of "spicy sales" and "no U.S. graders" eligible for farmers were urged to not pull their tobacco off the floor, but feeling among them were high.

The day before Thanksgiving Secretary Benson issued the order, assigning graders to Morehead, overruling some of his aides but not the one he had named Morehead.

That year's sale was around a half-million pounds, but the tobacco from the extensive farms owned by the Sanders Brothers, the Gots, Dykes and their associates.

Morehead fought that year for even the smallest crop, even the half-tens of an acre farmer, even a half-hack.

Advised "your tobacco sold as on other markets as the 'big S' in the cigarette industry—assigned buyers to Morehead following the order."

They advertised "your tobacco sold same day" and "your check 30 minutes after it is sold."

From that year Morehead grew as a tobacco market to its present four large auction floors.

But, Benson's ruling had some repercussions, and resulted in revisions within the warehouse industry, including:

— Investors in many county seats through the night.

— They advertised "your tobacco sold same day" and "your check 30 minutes after it is sold."

Water —

[2,000 gallons] for small users, but far below this for large and/or commercial customers.

Flannery said the applications were not pushed because of "the election, and all this time in Morehead."

May, Chairman of the Board, was a candidate for Magistrate and won. This year he called for plans to have to be filed, along with the other two water board members. Flannery said this newspaper, "I'm not ready to say who I will support, but I will support the water to work with the new Fiscal Court and will follow their recommendations."

He added, "Make no mistake about it. We are in a water system, while others were doing a lot of talking, newsprint advertising and radio speaking, we were working on the plans and they are in good shape. He re-emphasized, "We are almost assured of our federal grant."

Butler, called for plans to have to be filed, along with the other two water board members. Flannery said this newspaper, "I'm not ready to say who I will support, but I will support the water to work with the new Fiscal Court and will follow their recommendations."

He added, "Make no mistake about it. We are in a water system, while others were doing a lot of talking, newsprint advertising and radio speaking, we were working on the plans and they are in good shape. He re-emphasized, "We are almost assured of our federal grant."

The week following another "water" development, also on the rural plan. Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler, called for plans to have to be filed, along with the other two water board members. Flannery said this newspaper, "I'm not ready to say who I will support, but I will support the water to work with the new Fiscal Court and will follow their recommendations."

V. D. Flood, Dean Of Morehead RFD Carriers, Retires Today

If you are one of the 2,000 people whose address is RFD 2, Morehead, you are about to read... and just about all [you] will read this since you have a long [and paid up] record as Morehead News subscriber. That something that has been happening almost every day for going on three decades or so, but probably won't ever happen again. It is something you have appreciated and come to depend on for almost 30 years.

This issue of The Morehead News, along with your other mail matter, was placed in your RFD 2 mail box.

Of course, that isn't news because Mike Flood has been delivering your mail every since RFD 2 was established. That was when Big Perry and Cranston roads, gravel, Holly and Flank... Clearfork and Rock Fork were dusty, but passable, in summer, and a sea of mud in winter. That was before the 30 mile RFD 2 was extended into Haldeman and western Carter County.

That was when "Mike" Flood used an automobile and horse to deliver your mail, and sell you two cent stamps for your first class letters and penny postal cards.

When Mr. Flood brought [and picked up] your mail this morning - Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 24, 1965 - it was his last.

He retired as of about 3 a.m. this [Wednesday] afternoon after dispatching the last paper he picked up this morning. He will then turn over the contents of that familiar mail cash box to Postmaster Claude Clayton.

Mr. Flood is voluntarily retiring at age 70, after 30 years of service, or until reaching 70. But, Mike made the final decision to retire now after many consultations with his wife, Mary. Really, she thought he would wait until he was 70 because Mr. Flood is in perfect health.

No Story In Advance

This newspaper learned three weeks ago that Mr. Flood would officially cease carrying the mail as of Nov. 30. But, he has four days of cumulative leave, and will make his "farewell" at the Post Office this [Wednesday] afternoon.

Mr. Flood requested that the Publisher not print the story of his retirement until this issue. He didn't give any reason for his request, but one doesn't leave a job after 30 years without musing.

He doesn't care to know, all by their first name, the names of the business men who hand the mail to a lady with children tugging at her dress when he did the job. But he does remember the names of those who were born with some thoughts of the past.

Every mile will be long for Mike today.

Every patron will somehow be different because Mike knows he will be missing something that will give him regret long "our mail carrier."

Most of the over 500 families served by RFD 2 won't know this is Mike's last day. He will be probably be leaving his job after 30 years without musing.

Mike's family and friends, question the statement about "just pitting around," because Mr. Flood is the "aggressive type" instead of an "under a gun" type. They think he will soon be in some kind of business, or undertaking, even though it might be a sideline.

He is expected to spend a lot of his "earned retirement" in the woodworking shop at his 348 Bay Avenue home. He will be doing a lot of work, and can fabricate almost anything from wood.

From Family Of Longevity

Retirement at age 68 for Mike Flood probably comes a long time before his health fails because he is from a family of longevity. His father [William Henry Flood] died Oct. 15, 1957 at age 91... his mother, Lydia [Warren] Flood passed away less than two months later (Dec. 9, 1957). She was 86. The paternal and maternal grandparents also lived long, full lives.

RFD carriers are subject to regular inspections and Mr. Flood always came off with a high grade.

But, there was one incident during the depression days which typifies Mike's service and regard for the people on his route.

An elderly lady resided on Flat Flat, then mud road, and part of Mike's first RFD. She had no way of getting in, or out. Every few days she would humbly, almost prayerfully, ask Mike to pick her up some groceries... a sack of flour, a pound of butter, etc. Mr. Flood always delivered the supplies the next day.

One wintry morning Mr. Flood was visited by a Post Office inspector as he neared his home.

The inspector told Mike that he was violating the law by carrying supplies to the elderly lady. He would have to pay postage on the sack of groceries that was in the mail car... must deliver from this "practice in the future."

Mike said that he would wait until he was 70 because Mr. Flood is in perfect health.

Let Us Return Thanks

On Thanksgiving Day many reverent Americans, looking with thanks to God, will give testimony to their belief in a supreme being, interested in the welfare of men and the development of saints.

Thanksgiving Day will be observed with deep emotion by many others, however, who, despite a supreme being and a ready acknowledgment of divine blessings, will set to work themselves with the special services held in the churches of the land.

The United States, across all the nations on earth, and the American people, apparently above all other living groups, have been abundantly blessed. Surely, if a benign providence has a hand in the affairs of man, there is occasion for reverent appreciation and grateful thanks.

There will be some to return thanks for their worldly goods, others for their sound health and others for the general good that has come to them in life.

The original Thanksgiving Day was designed to commemorate bountiful harvests, which assured early Americans sufficient food for the sustenance of life. The day represents, by proclamations of the President and the Governors of the American states, a special occasion set aside for a public expression of thanks to Almighty God.

1st Negro Cabinet Officer?

President Johnson's plan to wait until January to appoint a Secretary for the new Cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Affairs has puzzled many.

This agency, a cornerstone of the Great Society, opened shop early this month, and most observers were sure LBJ would have a permanent seat at its helm from the beginning.

But a Secretary was not selected, and the department is being headed temporarily by former Housing and Home Finance Agency Director Robert Weaver himself a contender for the secretarial position, and thus far it has followed the organizational setup of the old HUD.

The most plausible of many explanations for the delay is that President Johnson's gall bladder operation deprived him of the time and energy needed to make a selection, and is awaiting results of a task-force study which is due before Christmas.

But another theory gaining credence is that President Johnson would like to appoint Weaver, a Negro, and is giving him a two-month trial as temporary head to prove he can capably direct the department.

President Johnson would be appointing the first Negro to a Cabinet post, and this is an opportunity he is not likely to miss.

The Ray Gun

Today's scientists—spurred by technological competition with the Communists—are catching up with Buck Rogers and Flash Gordon.

A top space expert predicts development soon of that awesome weapon—the ray gun.

Such a gun, according to Doctor Arthur Koenig, would be able to fire deadly beams of radiation powerful enough to vaporize missiles in flight. He foresees guns capable of split-second destruction of flying missiles as far away as 6,200 miles.

Doctor Koenig, director of the AVCO-Everett Research Laboratory in Everett, Massachusetts, a leading center for missile work, believes these weapons will protect this country's vital satellites from possible enemy attack.

He does not explain, however, how we would defend our security if hostile forces possessed such a weapon. "No doubt, would eventually be the case. As we seen with the atom bomb, no country can monopolize a new development.

Each invention of war is in the name of self-defense, and sooner or later it becomes a Frankenstein's monster.

Death In A Storm

The Civil Aeronautics Board has been investigating the recent crash of a Boeing 727 jet airliner near Cincinnati and though a final report has not been issued, it is known a severe storm was in progress in the area when the aircraft crashed.

Whether the aircraft encountered a turbulent thunderstorm or an electrical storm, the weather was not good. This is the old story—concerning so many air disasters.

The official explanation generally sounds logical. The cause is listed as pilot error or mechanical failure. But pilot error (even mechanical failure) can be caused by severe weather.

In other words, pilots flying without visibility, in heavy turbulence, are more likely to make an error than they would be under more favorable conditions. It is not fair to attribute crashes to pilot error when too much has been demanded of the pilot.

And there are strong indications too much is often asked of pilots—considering the number of bad-weather crashes. Understandably, there is an urge on the part of many, including pilots themselves, to keep on schedule. And most of the time a chance is taken, everything turns out all right.

One cannot single out any one crash and prove conclusively that bad weather was the main cause, but the very fact that so many fatal crashes occur in such weather is indication enough to warrant more caution and restraint on the part of tower officials and dispatchers.

Christmas Toys

This is the year of Christmas war games, in which toy makers have devised an extraordinary variety of implements for make-believe carnage with blast, burp, and wheeze.

For example, the stores are offering a "Paratrooper Jump Master" described as a "one-man junior army" and enables Junior to "knock out snipers with a rapid-firing toy gun! Whip out bunker with practice hand grenades!"

And one catalogue advertises "Hold Your Ears!" when you fire your "Screaming MEE mee-E" with the "sound of the century. Pow! Pow! Pow! Pow!"

Other combat choices include a gun that shoots around corners, the Aero M. Sonic Blaster, the Golden Arrow Pistol Set, the Secret Sam Snooper Gun, the Napoleon Solo Gun Secret Agent 007 attack case, battlefield "bamboosh" sets, etc.

Wagons, scooters, roller skates, etc. are not quite "in" this year—a reflection of what is happening for years in Vietnam, and on the human race in general.

It's an understandable, but nevertheless ironic, emphasis on our children's Christmas in 1965.

Remember the time when everybody rushed out of doors to see a lone airplane flying overhead?

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C.—President Lyndon Johnson's domestic job has been enhanced as a result of his recent victory over the leaders of the aluminum industry.

The President now has achieved three major jobs. He has won the popular vote, he has won the electoral college, and he has won the support of the aluminum industry.

Had a steel strike occurred in the 1968 election, if nothing happens in the aluminum to match it.

So important to LBJ's future, the steel industry has been estranged from the aluminum industry's leaders—as was the case with the President John Kennedy and steel unions.

John Kennedy allowed himself to be overruled by the steel industry's leaders, who were the main force behind his defeat.

Each invention of war is in the name of self-defense, and sooner or later it becomes a Frankenstein's monster.

WASHINGTON NOTES

CANCELS PRICE HIKE

The top steel industry producers canceled price increases which the Johnson Administration had labeled "inflationary."

Defense Secretary McNamara hailed the cancellation of the price increase "a patriotic act."

Miss Lewis Is Married

The wedding of Miss Sue Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lewis of Morehead, and Allen Hagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garber Hagen of South Elgin, Ill., took place Nov. 6 in the chapel of First Congregational Church in Elgin, Ill. The Rev. Dr. Kerr performed the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

Escorted by her brother, Denver Lewis, the bride wore a gown of Pease de sole fashioned with a fitted bodice, Sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and bell-shaped skirt. The detachable train was accented with a bow at the waistline. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a pée de sole pillow and she carried a cascade of white carnations and dracaena foliage.

Attendees were the bridegroom's sister, Miss Sharon Hagen, and the bride's brother, Clayton Lewis, both of Elgin.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the Elks Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Jerry Pryde and Mr. Robert O. Warriner.

The bride is a graduate of Morehead High School and was employed in Elgin before her marriage. Mr. Hagen is a graduate of Elgin High School and is serving with the U.S. Army at Fort Hood, Tex., where the couple will make their home for the next ten months.

Birth Control Pills Can Be Dangerous

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has acknowledged that as long as a month ago it had requested the manufacturers of oral contraceptives to circulate to doctors and pharmacists "a warning about visual hazards" of the drugs.

But in a statement, Dr. Joseph F. Sadusk Jr., medical director of the agency, stressed by repetition and by the use of understating—that reports by medical researchers indicating a possible link between the use of contraceptive pills and hazards to vision, cases of stroke, and other conditions involving blood clotting, had not as yet established a "cause and effect relationship" between the drugs and "adverse experiences" in women patients.

"These are naturally occurring conditions which have appeared in women as long back as medical experience goes," Dr. Sadusk said.

The FDA and its estimate of the number of women in the United States taking the contraceptive drugs was "in the millions." Many more millions overseas have received "the pill," as it is generally known, through government and private population-control programs.

Success of 'Get Smart' Helps Don Adams Adjust

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood (UPI)—Don Adams, the bright new star of the "Get Smart" comedy series, is still making the adjustment to California living after having spent his life in New York City.

Adams is a diminutive man with sharp features, deep-set eyes and a rollicking sense of humor. For the first time in his life he is a star, and is enjoying every minute of it.

His new NBC-TV show is one of the few hits of the season. The comedian and his wife, Dorothy, have been married five years and have a daughter, Susan Noel, 2. They immigrated to Hollywood a year ago when "Get Smart" began filming.

"We came by train," says Adams, "because I hate to fly. I've flown all over the world, but I don't like it. I don't like flying. I don't like flying. I don't like flying."

Train travel doesn't set well with him either. He embarked on a 10-city promotional tour earlier this year and wound up in a hospital suffering from exhaustion.

Billie Hume

Adams' dislike of flying doesn't apply to altitude, however. He lives in a Hollywood hilltop house of modern design with a breathtaking view of the Los Angeles basin.

"The house itself combines glass, stone and wood in living with California modern architecture. It has three bedrooms, a sunroom and a den. Dorothy's decorative tastes run to contemporary furniture with color schemes of white, blue and green."

While their property is not large, it does include a swimming pool.

"I never have much time to swim, but Dorothy lives in the pool," Don says. "Whenever I have a few hours off I play pool."

Don is a member of the Riviera Country Club, which boasts an all-star membership. He plays 18 holes in the mid-80s and complains that his game isn't what it used to be.

There is a nurse at home to look after little Stacy, but no other servants. Dorothy does the cooking, and, according to her husband, is endowed with a special genius for making peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

"She's also pretty good at steak and potatoes," Adams adds. "But she spends most of her time shopping at the expensive shops—that is when she's not playing tennis or taking golf lessons."

Don's day begins at 7 a.m. at Paramount's Sunset studios—a five-minute drive down the hills—three days a week. On Mondays and Tuesdays he doesn't have to report until nine. However, most evenings he's busy on the sound stage until 8 or 9 p.m.

Water Pollution Is Under Study

The Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission has adopted a resolution reminding State agencies they, too, are restricted from polluting water in the state.

The Commission said it would take the same action it takes against private firms and municipalities if State agencies are found in violation of the Water Pollution Control Law.

"The general public, private industry, or municipalities should not be required to meet a higher standard than the Commonwealth itself," the resolution stated.

The commission also studied the results of an air and ground survey that indicated the Kentucky portion of the Ohio River was in pretty good shape.

"Our aim is to spot anything that comes from a city, an industry or a creek into the Ohio River," commission director Ralph Pickard said of the survey. "It alerts us to problems and we can react quickly."

He said the survey turned up little the commission was not aware of already.

Morehead Baptist Church Seeking 200 As 'Tithers'

A goal of 200 tithers has been set by the First Baptist church, located on Main Street, as its objective during the stewardship enlistment program which began November 15th.

A tither is a person who gives one-tenth of his income to the church, Rev. Kenneth Cole pastor, said.

Rev. Cole explained that the program is planned to emphasize the importance of Christian stewardship and at the same time provide funds for all phases of the church's activities.

"We want to maintain a high percentage basis in mission giving," he pointed out, "and increase the building fund for a new sanctuary."

To carry out these objectives, the church will seek to enlist 200 new tithers during the campaign, he said.

About 150 of the church members already are tithers.

The church budget of $53,000 will be the largest in the church's history. The campaign concludes Dec. 12th with a "Victory Parade" as each church member will be given an opportunity to pledge his support to the cause of Christ.

Governor Plans For '63 Session

Governor Edward T. Breathitt is expected to present a general preview of his 1966 legislative program at a pre-legislative conference of members of the new General Assembly December 5-7 at Kentucky Dam Village State Park.

James T. Fleming, director of the Legislative Research Commission, said practically all 138 members of the 1966 legislature have indicated they will attend.

County May Plan A Rural Water System

A water system to supply almost every rural home in this, and other Kentucky counties, is approaching a reality in the minds of qualified experts, and government subsidies.

The rural water systems are, a survey shows, much like electricity (REA and REIC) and rural telephone, possible through government assistance. They supply purified water (PH standard) to homes and industry.

Wendell P. Butler, Commissioner of Agriculture, has called seven meetings in Kentucky to present the possibilities and potentialities.

The one for this part of the Commonwealth will be held Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 10 a.m. in the Doran Student House at Morehead State College. Officials, and many citizens from this county, including local farm organization representatives, are expected to attend.

In calling the seven "most important" regional gatherings Butler said:

"After conferring with a number of leaders, vitally concerned with the development of rural water systems, and calling a series of seven district meetings to deal with this subject, I hope you will make a special effort to be in attendance and we urge you to invite other community leaders that play a vital role in promoting community water systems in your county."

"In view of the expanding interest in community water systems for agriculture and rural industry, and the realization of a new federal program to establish these projects, it is our feeling that the program should be promoted more effectively in most rural counties."

Advance news releases recite the following eight purposes of the meeting at Morehead on Dec. 7:

"To review legislative developments for community water systems recently approved by Congress to be administered by the Farmers Home Administration - Community Facilities Administration and federal water programs."

"To bring about a better understanding of the problems experienced by community leaders and water districts in developing community water systems."

"To study ways and means of improving communications between districts and with related agencies and organizations."

"To investigate the opportunity that districts may realize to share certain opportunities and responsibilities that may reduce costs of operation and provide better service for members."

"To develop a state organization for water districts to advise state and federal officials on legislation and program changes for the promotion of community water systems."

"To select a representative on the district basis to advise with water districts and other interested groups on the development of such projects."

"To advise the Department of Agriculture on ways and means for improving the State's promotional and service

Program for community water systems.

"To investigate the need for State Legislation to facilitate the promotion, organization, construction or expansion, and operation of community water systems."

"What is the Contribution of Community Water Districts and the Status of the Development in Kentucky?" Presented by - Mancill J. Vinson, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, Kentucky Department of Agriculture

"What are the Problems of Community Water Districts?" Presented by - Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation, Phil Palmer, Assistant Manager, Warren Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation

"Open discussion of problems as observed by Commissioners and community leaders - Panel

After lunch at the student Doran House representatives from this and other northeastern Kentucky counties, which are expected to attend in number, will hear the following discussions:

"What is the Role of the Commissioner for a Rural Community Water System?" Presented by - Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation; Robert Cleveland, Director, Administrative Services

"What Type of Cooperation between Districts will Improve these Developments in Kentucky?" Presented by - Mancill J. Vinson, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, Kentucky Department of Agriculture, and an official of the District Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation

"Open forum concerning opportunities for improving this development in Kentucky."

Wins Promotion

James D. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hamilton of Rt. 4, Morehead, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Hamilton is a communications equipment repairman at Mendenhall AFB Station, England. He is a member of the Air Force Communications Service which operates five million miles of communications channels and more than 1,000 air traffic control facilities around the globe.

The airman is a graduate of Rowan County High School.

SACRED WATER—Little Eagle Falls where a mountain creek tumbles 125 feet down a hill into the Cumberland River, in Cumberland Falls State Park in Kentucky. Once considered sacred by Indian tribes, Little Eagle Falls was the site of many battles for its possession.

GOING SKYWARD... Another six-story women's residence hall—East Mignon Hall—is nearing completion on the Morehead State College campus. The air-conditioned structure, costing $240,000, will house 204 women in 51 suites which include a bedroom, living-study room and private bath. The structure, the third of four high-rise buildings in the Mignon Hall Complex named for Mrs. Mignon Doran, will be ready for occupancy in January. MSC plans to spend $20 million for new buildings by 1970 and is expected to gain "University" status next year.

Money Is Key Against Poverty

"For the poor who are very old, there is really only one weapon to overcome their poverty, and that is money," Mrs. Barbara Coughlan said this week at a Kentucky Welfare Association Conference.

Mrs. Coughlan, assistant to Dr. Ellen Winston, U.S. Commissioner of Welfare, delivered an address written for the occasion by Dr. Winston on "Preparing for the Years of Maturity."

Dr. Winston was unable to attend the three-day conference which had a record registration in Lexington of more than 350 members.

Mrs. Coughlan, an authority on the Economic Opportunity Act, prefaced the talk with a recognition of the increasing number of opportunities for the old in this country, and of the war on poverty in which the nation is presently engaged.

"There are two basic ways in which we prepare for maturity," she said. "One is the individual approach, what we do to plan ahead and adjust our own patterns of living as we progress from young adulthood to middle age, to late maturity."

"The second approach is what we do as citizens and members of the helping professions, to create programs, services and facilities which take into account the fact that more and more of us are living longer."

Citing the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act as an outstanding example of the social approach, Mrs. Coughlan told her audience that some of the other provisions of the "landmark legislation" were of even more immediate concern, because they will mean as much, or as little, as you in the states and communities make them mean.

Mrs. Coughlan stressed the fact that as the states move forward towards the adoption of the "highly important" provision, Title XIX, a bill authorizing a new federal-state program of medical assistance, "which, by 1970, should replace all of the present methods of vendor payments for medical care of needy persons, we can expect substantial improvements in the health and medical care available to low income people in all age groups."

Quits After 61 Year's Barbering

Flemingburg's barbering profession lost a genial associate when Clarence King retired after 61 years at the shaving-and-hair-cutting business.

Small in stature, but usually putting away a BIG cigar, King paid "no long" to his partners, Julian Story and Bob Gardner, who whose he has been working for the past several years, and went home. He is 79.

ITEM: Shave shavers are now available in house. It's important to protect them against the harmful effects of overexposure by keeping them in porous clay pots, which both cool and water.

Holiday Treat

Little cream puffs with cranberry filling make an unusual and delicious holiday dessert. Heat 1 cup of water and 1/2 cup of butter or margarine to boiling point in saucepan. Add 1 cup of sifted all-purpose flour all at once. Stir over low heat until mixture forms a ball in center of pot. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Drop mixture by teaspoonful, about 2 inches apart, on greased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven 30-35 minutes or until well-browned and crisp. Cool on a rack. For filling, mix together 1 cup each of bottled cranberry-orange relish and dairy sour cream. Chill. Just before serving, remove tops from puffs, fill with berry cream, and replace tops. Makes 18 puffs.

To remove accumulations of old, discolored wax on furniture, rub it with a piece of terrycloth toweling, wring out of a hot solution of salt soda concentrated. Use about three tablespoons of the salt to a quart of water. Rub, wipe, and let thoroughly dry before treating.

Put in electric heating, and they'll treat you like a king

Your family will crown you "King for a Day" every day when you put electric heating in that new home. And it's not surprising. With modern electric heat they can all regulate their own rooms to the temperature they want—no more cold rooms too far from the furnace or hot rooms too close.

Your wife will appreciate the cleanliness and quiet of flameless, ductless electric heat, and you can forget all those furnace and heat-pipe maintenance worries. You don't have that excessive dryness either that's so irritating to nose, throat, and skin.

It may cost a little more but its comfort and convenience make it more valuable. Why not join the hundreds of new homes served by KU that are switching to electric heating? Remember—electric heating is one of the basic joys of total electric living.

Three Sentenced —

may be decided in the special juvenile court.

Before the Circuit Court are the cases of Mike Porter, Darrell Combs, Ernest Green and Jimmy Combs. The grand jury charged them with attempted burglary of Hutchinson Shoe Shop on Main Street. The other juvenile true bills involve several boys, all for robbery or attempted break-ins.

Three cases against Joe Greene and two against his wife, Isabel, are set for trial Monday. They entered a plea of "not guilty" Monday afternoon, and are free on bond, after the grand jury returned the true bills.

All the complaints were by the Peoples Bank of Morehead. The indictments charge that: [1] Greene forged a $160 check on Clinton Porter, Carter County horse fancier, drawn on Grayson's 1st National Bank; [2] cashed a $400 check and a $500 check, both drawn on the Salt Lick Deposit Bank, and signed by his wife. The latter checks were returned "not sufficient funds."

Before entering pleas of "not guilty" Greene told Judge Winn, in open court, that Porter had given him permission to sign his [Porter's] name to the check; and that his wife, Isabel, had signed two checks in blank for him to pay "small local" bills. He said he filled out the checks in $400 and $500 amounts and received cash at the Peoples Bank.

Mrs. Greene disclaimed any knowledge of the transactions other than signing two checks "for grocery or utility bills" without filling in the amount, payer or date.

Winn told the couple they should either plead "guilty" or "not guilty" after which they "small local" bills, agreed to Monday as the trial date, and said they had legal counsel.

The bank is holding $1,060 in the worthless checks, but Greene said, "We'll pay them off."

Donald Jones is charged with two counts of passing worthless checks. Child desertion is contained in a true bill against James V. Cornett.

The jury charged Jack Lehnauer with destroying public property. The indictment alleges that he tried to "saw" his way out of the Rowan jail.

The grand jury met until late Monday afternoon and then recessed until next Monday.

Building Quality Raised

NEW YORK (UPI)—Building materials for remodeling or for an entire home building project can be tricky business for an amateur, but new guidelines for the purchase of such items hold promise that much of the confusion can be eliminated.

Anyone who has ever shopped for a new floor or ceiling, for example, has realized that the home building materials market offers long variety of goods, many carrying unfamiliar brand or manufacturer names. Confusing programs, however, are giving a long way toward helping the purchaser.

Meaningful grades of quality, an attribute too often ascribed to a material by laymen because it "looks" good, are increasingly being assigned to products by independent trade groups.

For example, the Tile Council of America, trade association of domestic ceramic tile manufacturers, last April started a quality certification program that permits use of a triangular trademark only on portions of tile made in the U.S.A. that meet the high standards of the U.S. Government.

One of the standards which govern the association's name, is strictly supervised and is subject to the passing of right tests conducted by an independent laboratory.

Other trade associations of building materials manufacturers that have grading programs include the American Plywood Association, the National Concrete Masonry Association, the Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association, the National Ready-Mix Concrete Association and many others.

Each quality certification gives consumers an easy means of being sure they're getting top quality products.

Grade Counts

The use of quality seals as guidelines by purchasers may seem complicated at first, because practically every type of product is graded by someone, and there are thousands of grades. The crux of the matter, however, is the certainty of grading.

Trade associations do not regard ratings as simply promotional and sales gimmicks, but as setting specific standards of excellence for products.

Nowadays, competition in the building business is between industries manufacturing products that have the same use, as well as between individual companies of the same industry.

Quality levels of competition spur manufacturers to offer better products.
