Next Issue Of Farm Section Next Week

Easter's the theme of women's features in our April all-rotogravure STATE FARMER SECTION which comes to you next week as a part of THE ROWAN COUNTY NEWS. But with the flowers, Easter bonnets and the general holiday trend of things, you'll find plenty of good common sense farm facts and figures.

This privilege of getting an advance look at the ROWAN COUNTY NEWS "picture paper" convinces us that every member of the farm family will just about reveal in our April issue. One story that should prove rather amazing to many readers, by John S. Gardner of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, shows the gigantic part the simple potato has played in world's history. "Golden fleece tarnishes unless bars are removed" warns Prof. L. J. Horcher in suggesting methods for shearing sheep. Another colorful feature, profusely illustrated, tells how old fables now sweeten the Bluegrass they guarded for over a century. Lennie Holland Land reveals how farm women in 24 Kentucky counties

A. B. McKinney To Build Apartments

When the new post office building, which is scheduled to be built some time in the future is completed, it will face, according to present plans, a new and modern store building and apartment house on the opposite corner, making that particular section of Morehead one of the best in the city. Plans are being made by A. B. McKinney to not only improve his present building, by a brick veneer, but to entirely remodel the interior into a really modern store building. He is planning at the same time to erect on the lot next to it a two story modern apartment house which will connect with the present building. The plans for the remodeling and for the new building are being drawn by J. T. Heffner of Lexington.

Mr. McKinney has what is unquestionably one of the best business lots in Morehead and the erection of the new post office on the lot opposite, will enhance the value of his holdings to a considerable extent, making the McKinney lot and building all the more desirable.

McKinney has long felt that Morehead needed a modern apartment house which would furnish modern conveniences and homes to the families who wish to make their homes in this city temporarily while

Work On Buildings To Start Monday

Work on the new science building for the College will start officially on April 6 when ground will be broken on the Arthur Hogg lot just off the College boulevard. Approximately thirty men will be employed in the digging of the excavation and more will be added as the work progresses. Walter J. Pouchou of the Stock Construction Company will be in charge of the work.

All the labor used will be supplied by the National Reemployment Service and all unskilled labor will be supplied from "relief" rolls. The Federal District Reemployment office here was moved to Ashland yesterday and officials stated that men who are to be granted work on the new building will receive notification cards from the Ashland office. Clifford T. Stafford, who is in charge of the local office, warned that no cards will be issued in Ashland and that men who expect work must wait until they receive their cards. He also said that if a man had ever registered with the service, it would not be necessary for him to register again.

The job will be rushed to completion but experts agree that there is little possibility of the building being completed before November or December. Work on the dormitory will also start in the next few days.

Hammmons and Fair are doing good work in the kicking department and have been getting off some long punts. Hofstetter who will probably be in line for some of the punt next year, is unable to put out on account of a foot injury, but should be able to don his togs next week.

Louman and Reynolds, both stars on last year's hot freshman aggregation, are also looking plenty good and turning in some neat jobs of broken-field running.

Two Held In Death Of John Springer

John Springer was shot and killed near North Fork at a little before noon last Thursday morning and Arthur Plank and Ted Stone are in the county jail charged with the crime. The killing occurred at the home of Harlan Stone who was holding a sale of his property before moving out of the place.

It is alleged that there had been trouble between Harlan Stone and Springer. Witnesses say that Springer threatened to knock Stone down and then did knock him down. Troy Jennings, county patrolman, grabbed Springer, and it is alleged that Ted Stone then turned a gun on him and shot him twice. Springer broke away from Jennings and ran. Then both Plank and Stone fired at him several times and he fell at about fourteen paces distance, according to several eye witnesses. It is also alleged that Plank went up to him and fired into his body four or five times after he was on the ground.

Troy Jennings and Moody Aldeman arrested Plank and placed him in jail. Stone who came in at the same time, was examined the same day, denied all complicity in the slaying and was released to appear in court again Friday morning. When he did not appear, Sheriff Mort May and Deputy J. J. Caudill

Had HomeSteaded On Triplett At Close Of War; Has Many Descendants

One of the few remaining veterans of the Civil War was lost to Rowan county on Thursday of last week, in the death of Henderson Whisman, Confederate soldier, who died at his home in Waltz at the age of 92 years, two months and four days.

Mr. Whisman was perhaps the only remaining soldier of the Civil War who fought on the side of the South. He entered the Southern army when he was 18 years of age and saw continuous service to the end of the War between the states. Returning home he was united in marriage to Miss DeRayna Fannin - Sandy Hook, in Elliott county. He then homesteaded on the Island Fork of Triplett shortly after his marriage. To this union fourteen children were born, nine of them preceding him in death. His wife passed away eleven years ago, since then Mr. Whisman has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Alpha Bradley of Waltz.

Mr. Whisman is survived by five children, who are: Mrs. Delphia Riley, Knightstown, Indiana, Mrs. Mary Plank, Shirley, Indiana, Robert and James Whisman and Mrs. Alpha Bradley, of Waltz, Ky. His wife is also survived by thirty-six grandchildren and by seventy three great-grandchildren and by two great-great-grandchildren.

He was a faithful member of the Regular Baptist Church, in which faith he lived and died.

Mr. Whisman was not only a soldier in the war between the states, he was a pioneer in every sense of the word. His life and experiences would be of vital interest to the young people of today. Rowan county has few citizens of a ripe age than he was at the time of his death.

DEATH ON THE HIGHWAY

The Travelers Insurance Company has issued a book entitled "Live and Let Live." It deals through statistics and graphic illustrations, with the traffic accident record in 1935.

What caused serious accidents last year? As in the past, excessive speed was the motorist's best friend, accounting for 31 per cent of all accidents in which persons were killed and injured.

Next came driving on the wrong side of the road, the cause of 17 per cent of the accidents. "Keep to the right" seems to be a laugh to many drivers.

Cars not having the right of way caused 15 per cent of the accidents. Their drivers saved a second or two—at the expense of life and health.

Fourteen per cent of the accidents occurred when cars drove off the roadway. Many causes may enter into this type of accident—and drunken driving, which seems to be on the increase, is among them.

Reckless driving caused 13 per cent of the accidents, with the remaining 10 per cent laid to miscellaneous causes. "Think over this list. How often have you been guilty of one or more of the violations listed? Sure, you got away with it last time—but remember that next time you may not be so lucky."

PLEAS SENT OUT TO BRUSH BURNERS

Form letters were sent out this past week to practically all the brush burners in this part of the Cumberland National Forest.

These letters were a plea to the people to let the Forest Service know at what time and place they were going to burn and what the burning would consist of. Postal cards were enclosed in the letters so that the residents of the forest can fill them out, and drop them in the mail, thus saving quite a bit of trouble, worry and expense for the government.

The five contact men are still doing their part to prevent outbreaking of fires.

HOPE FOR NEW

PEACE PROPOSALS

London.—Ambassadors sources expressed the hope Saturday for continued peace proposals from Adolph Hitler to the new European peace negotiations.

than $190,000 could be spent for Confederate pensions. But it doesn't work out that way. Four years ago former Gov. Ruby Laffoon made his budget totals indicate huge budget reductions by whitening at a group of appropriations of which "Confederate pensions" is a fair sample.

The trouble then, which may bob up to unbalance Governor Chandler's budget unless he raises a surplus was that actually the State paid out many thousands of dollars for Confederate pensions above the budget appropriation.

It happened this way: A law, separate and apart from the budget law, authorized each Confederate veteran or his wife to draw a fixed monthly pension. After the budget had been passed and the General Assembly adjourned, the Attorney General ruled that the monthly allotment controlled over the appropriation item. The budget allotment, obviously too low from the start, was exceeded.

There are numerous other budget entries where specific figures are fixed in the budget, but are not controlled. Jurors draws $3 a day when their services are certified, and if the total exceeds the $15,000 year appropriation set up in the budget, the payment goes on just the same.

That is how an administration can deceive itself when it is in office by underestimating these uncontrolled expenditures, failing for that reason to provide enough revenue to absorb the excess expenditures. Or that is how an administration can attempt to deceive the public, making budget reductions on paper, knowing at the time that the reductions will not control.

Governor Chandler sought to avoid these pitfalls, for the most part increasing slightly the appropriation for these items above previous costs and increasing the contingent fund under his control to $150,000 so it could absorb a lot of unexpected expenditures.

There is ample provision in the new reorganization bill for a sort of general utility clerical and stenographic force, under the personnel director. From this organization filing clerks, clerks, and stenographer could be sent to this and that department as work piles up and extra help is needed during extended periods.

One of the unwritten stories about the work Governor Chandler did on the budget touches on the State Teachers' Colleges. In recent years, two or three of the schools had added graduate work to the college work of the institutions. Governor Chandler got some data on how few graduates returned to the schools after completing the four-year course to pursue specialized studies. He got some data on the cost of that type of work, and the quality being done at the teachers' colleges.

He got the heads of the institutions together for some straight talking. He expressed his belief that the State could not afford to carry the work in four schools, and that the university was best prepared to offer the work to the relatively few teachers' colleges agree to drop

But the impressive majorities were built up in some cases represented in dollars at more than 700,000. The budget, approved almost with unanimity, had jumped up almost three-quarters of a million dollars from the figure Governor Chandler first adopted.

Since the size of his budget inevitably controls his revenue needs, his revenue problem jumped up $700,000 when he agreed to the increased appropriations. But for that the size of his "victory" was complete enough.

A state Government budget is distinctly different from a budget prepared by a business concern, or an individual who seriously prepares and lives by a budget. For one thing, a State budget is not a forthright document. Furthermore, mingling of purely State affairs with local Government which the State finances makes State budgeting a difficult problem.

Few voters or taxpayers realize how big a slice these "local" expenditures take out of State taxes. Generally accepted as problems of State-wide scope, though often supplemented by local tax aid, are such endeavors as building roads, maintaining common schools and institutions of higher education, management of state and charitable institutions, and in later days widespread relief activities.

Each of these are in the State budget. But the State budget contains provisions for other expenditures not so clearly State problems. For instance, criminal prosecutions carried on in the 120 counties will cost the State during the next two years, $1,000,000. This is roughly one dollar out of every forty-eight, excepting road expenditures, which the State will spend in the next two years.

Clerks' services is an item that relates to payments the State will make to a circuit and county clerk during the next two years. The State will pay out $548,000 in the next two years to circuit judges and Common wealth's attorneys in salary checks. Citizens who serve on grand and petit juries will draw $1,030,000. The items represent nearly $5,000,000 in the State budget, used largely for payment of local services. In addition, county tax commissioners will draw $500,000 from the State for the State's part of the assessment work. There are, besides various other similar items in this State budget.

Apart from the mingled county and State financial obligations, all State budgets are deceptive in other particulars. The Chandler budget, for instance, carries an item called "Confederate pensions" with an estimated appropriation of $190,000.

A layman might think

In a week or two the Assembly and the Governor will be in the midst of their hardest task, revenue raising. Approximately $14,000,000 will be needed. The only inkling of the Governor's plan is the whisky tax. It is generally understood in Frankfort that the Governor has agreed with the distillers to support

Terrid Love Scene Chills Picture Star

Gloria Stuart recently participated in what she nominates for the coldest love scene ever filmed in Hollywood.

What Miss Stuart refers to was the temperature at which the love scene was photographed and not the actor that went into it.

It came about because of Director Tay Garnett's determination to photograph throughout the night during the production of the Victor McLaglen - Freddie Bartholme starring picture, "Professional Soldier," at the Cozy Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Garnett wanted to catch a particular phase of the moon for the love scene between Miss Stuart and Michael Whalen, which was to take place in an open garden.

As the moon came up," explains Miss Stuart, the thermometer went down. I wore an evening gown, and, because the scene was supposed to take place in mid-summer, I could not wear the coat I had brought along to keep myself warm.

In "Professional Soldier," Miss Stuart and Michael Whalen enact the romantic leads in the adventure tale based on a Damon Runyon story.

BOARD THROUGH NYA TO IMPROVE FRONT LAWN

With the aid of the NYA boys, the county board has planned to remodel the front lawn of the Public School Grounds. A fence will be placed temporarily around the area from the corner of the building to the street on both sides of the walk.

This will be spaced and sown in Kentucky bluegrass with flower beds in the center. You are urged to cooperate to the fullest to give this growth of grass a good start.

When he returns to America, he finds her and performs an operation which restores her sight.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. B. H. Kazee, Pastor
SUBJECT: Jesus Invites All People. Luke 14:15-24.
GOLDEN TEXT — "Come; for all things are now ready." Luke 14:17.

In the lesson before us Jesus gives us another view of the working of God's kingdom among men. Somebody, likely anticipated the joys of the kingdom, said, "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God!" But he was to learn that this distinguished privilege would be opened not to the Jew only, but to the despised Gentile. Hence the parable of the wedding feast.

1. The invitation. Jesus says, "A certain man made a great supper, and bade many." This is God making a great feast of blessed things, such as salvation from sin, eternal life, victory over sin, fellowship with the Heavenly citizenship, comfort of the Spirit, and all such blessings as attend our hope in Christ. The supper is made by the Father in honor of His Son, Jesus Christ, who is to be married to the church, His Bride. The invitation was at first formal, and sent out the children of Abraham. He sent out children announcing "to them that were bidden" that all things were ready.

2. The response. What follows is so familiar to every preacher. "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." I believe that if there is any one thing above another that tries my patience in the ministry, it is to listen to the lies of church members and others as well, who make this or that excuse for not coming to church, or for not indulging in spiritual work. We have to smile and be good-natured, when we find him pouring out the judgement of God on their wicked sham of lying hypocrisy. Excuses are not reasons. There are few good reasons why anyone should not go to church at the invitation of God's servants. Excuses are plentiful, but nonetheless thin and transparent lies.

One Jew seemed to fear that that piece of ground might slip away before he got there to see it. What? No! He was just like our Sunday car-riding, hunting, fishing, golf-playing pleasure-seeking citizens. Pre-

Soldier Panthers, 24-22 Breck Drops Game To

Soldier High School, runner-up to Russell in the Fourteenth Regional Breckinridge Training School 24 to 22 in an exhibition basketball game in the College gymnasium Saturday night. The game was sponsored by the Christian Church of Morehead. The Soldiers started off with a bang and nailed the hoop for eleven points in the first half while they were keeping the Breck crew from scoring anything. Trailers 11 to 0, the Training School team opened up in the third canto and scored sixteen points while Soldier was making five points, to tie the score at sixteen as the third period ended. Breck led by a two point margin in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter but the Soldiers eased in two baskets to clinch the game as the gun sounded.

Ely and Kelly led the Soldier attack, earning nine and six points respectively. Fraley and Allen were best for Breckinridge, tallying eight and six points respectively. Failure to tally on their four foul shots cost the Breck aggregation the game. They missed seven out of seven attempts. Soldier did much better and made four out of seven.

ferred his own pursuits to that of the precious feast of spiritual life provided at the cost of Jesus' Blood. So was the cattle trader! And so the fellow who had just married. He would have done his wife a favor to have taken her to the feast. Many a man walks off with an ungodly wife at the sacrifice of his own convictions of righteousness. So many a wife does with an ungodly husband.

3. The Master's insistence. He was determined that His son should not be disappointed. So he opened the invitation to the public, including that poor and maimed, and halt and blind people. Mercy went out to the uninvited Gentile when the Jew kingdom. When these were gathered, spared the invitation of God to the

"yet there was room." Then the Master said, "Go out and compel them to come in." This is said to mean the work of the Holy Spirit, who by insistence and persuasion, urges men to accept the Lord's invitation.

So, the Lord will furnish guests at the wedding supper of His Son, when He is finally united to the church, and every guest will be clothed in the garment of the righteousness of Jesus Christ; yea, even the children of Abraham must wear it, if they are to sit at that table. But the invitation still goes on to any weary heart who is hungry for a deeper life, and "whosoever will," yea, even you, my reader, may take the feast of the after life, by believing that God has paid for your sin in Jesus Christ, and will pardon them at your willingness to believe it.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Last Sunday was another big day at First Christian Church. The five divisions of the church turned in fine reports. The total cash reported Sunday was a little short of one hundred dollars. Last Sunday marked the fifth week and the total amount raised was $429.12. Division No. 3, Mrs. Larkin, leader, was in the lead Sunday with a total of $112. Division No. 4, Mrs. Ernest Jayne, leader, came second with a total of $87.92. The other two divisions were still far behind.

A large attendance was present for both the Bible school hour and the preaching service. The night service at 6:30 was largely attended by the young people. Next Sunday if plans are being made for a great day on Easter Sunday.

Information Bulletin

Mr. Caudill is preparing a general information bulletin for students use next year. The need for such a bulletin has been felt for some time as transferred students, and students promoted from the eighth to the high school must acquaint themselves with the customs, rules, and rules which have been set for this school. This bulletin is a source of definite information to answer student questions.

Mary Atkins and Lucile Alley had been chosen to enter the State Latin Contest when a letter was re-released stating that there would be no contest this year.

The fourth grade is studying old wool, how it is washed, carded, dyed, etc. They have washed it in cold, warm and hot water to see which is best for it. Frances Peratt demonstrated how a loom is worked. They have several rugs of old-fashioned patterns. Their room boasts two large spinning wheels.

The ninth grade has earned $15.01 selling magazines. They hope to buy a radio when they earn more money.

The ninth grade students who have been out of school with the measles are: Robert Barnes, Charles Flood, Lee McClurg, Mortie Rayburn, Mildred Randall, Beatrice Van Hook, and Emerson Winder. The senior play is progressing nicely under the capable direction of Lucille Caudill and Juanita Mink. Several members from the tenth and eleventh grades are participating in it. Every homeroom is selecting one of its members to do an act in between scenes, as the seniors want the whole school to back it and make it successful.

The fifth grade is making product and news maps of the United States.

Mary Sue Purvis was the only student from the seventh grade to make the honor roll.

Thirty children and four teachers from the first grade went to Spring Grove dairy Wednesday. The children composed the following after they returned:

If a feller has a store or a mill or something he can keep books and tell how he is coming out—big end or little end of the horn—but that's hard to do on the farm.

There were two farmers in out-of-the-county—pretty well to do fellers with good farms and getting along better than the average, and say of about equal education and intelligence—one never would raise any colts—figgers'd by the time he foaled and worried with em' and fed em' long enough to sell every year...

Still there can be more bookkeeping on the farm than is generally done. Some feller said once that "when you can measure what you've speakin' about and show it in numbers, you know something about it, but when you can't measure it, when you can't express it in numbers, your knowledge is of a meagre and a lot of truth in that."

While figures may lie a little and not always balance up to cases like the two fellers with and without the colts—yet all of us here in the country could get along better if we'd figure more.

And there's one more thing a good farmer must be — "farming is a business that requires more shrewdness than law, more technical training brains than teachin'."

The trouble with figures and arithmetic on the farm is to get the feller to believe the figures right before his eyes.

We know a professor at an agricultural college who had a farm and would tell you a farm man what to do—how to cultivate and amounts of fertilizer to use—but gettin' in FOR SALE — Baled Timothy—hay Mrs. Sallie Pogue Darnall, Phone, Mays Lick, 2395.

A delegation of South Carolina farmers recently visited Kentucky in search of jack stock. One animal was purchased from Caywood & Cook, North Middletown. Many inquiries for jack stock are being received at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

The 12th annual poultry short course will be given at the College of Agriculture, Lexington, June 23-26. Prof. J. R. Smyth, formerly of Kentucky, now head of the poultry department at the University of Maine, will be one of the speakers.

It is estimated that the grower cost fruit and berry growers of McCracken county approximately $100,000 last year. W. W. Magill of the Kentucky College of Agriculture is holding a series of community meetings to suggest control measures.

Among soil conservation measures to be adopted by Boyle county farmers is the reduction of corn acreage to 5,000 or 10,000 acres, which is felt to be adequate for livestock uses. In 1919, 22,900 acres were grown, and in 1935, 11,400.

Christian county homemakers recently held an exhibit showing balanced and unbalanced meals, improved methods of cooking, etc. Posters showed pictorially that it is safe to drink milk and orange or tomato juice at the same meal, or use cream with acid fruit.

In Breathitt county, 4-H club members will be encouraged by the visit of an interested business man or woman, when project work will be on display. Following the visit, the result of a suggestion "of the county council, membership cards will be presented."

Madison county homemakers are insisting upon the planting of many vegetables in their spring gardens. Broccoli, cauliflower, greens, lettuce, peas, beans, cabbage, and carrots are among those used.

No work on the farm will pay more in proportion to the time spent than will castrating and docking lambs. These operations may be performed any time from the age of a few days until the lambs are six weeks to two months old. The best time is between one and two weeks of age.

Farmers who fail to castrate their lambs may expect to have a larger percentage in the lower grades and, if sold on a competitive market, to receive a lower price for them.

Stable manure is an effective tobacco fertilizer, especially supplemented with superphosphate. If it is too coarse, or filled with straw it probably is more effective if used as a top-dressing after the plants are well advanced.

A poor disposition in a child may indicate improper diet. As a rule, a healthy child receiving an abundance of good food grows normally and is cheerful, bright, happy and contented. Spring, sun-shine and the good play often helps to correct wrong living practices.

If possible, the garden should be located near the house. Especially is this true of the vegetable garden. It is important that the garden be located during the growing season. Lower growing crops that are not ready for use until late summer or fall may well be placed in a separate field away from the early vegetables.

Other States Seek Kentucky Market For Quality Lambs

The keen competition of packers for Kentucky lambs comes from the fact that this state has been producing the best lambs that go to market.

For many years packers have demanded lambs for which they pay top price. These operations may be performed any time from the age of a few days until the lambs are six weeks to two months old.

For those gardeners who plan to produce the sweetpotatoes they will set, the time is at hand to prepare beds in which to produce them.

Sweetpotatoes are of three general types. The best is a glass-covered hotbed, heated by steam or hot water or by warm gas or smoke from coal or wood fires.

The Garden SWEETPOTATOES

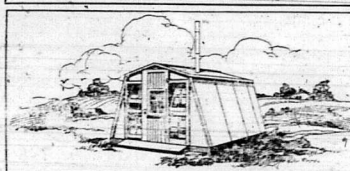

For those gardeners who plan to produce the sweetpotatoes they will set, the time is at hand to prepare beds in which to produce them.

The next best type of sweetpotato bed is merely a canvas-covered cold-frame, though there is advantage in having from 6 to 10 inches of manure to offset the low temperatures of a late spring.

Brooder House Easy to Build

LIGHT and easy to move, warm and yet low in cost, the brooder house illustrated above, was erected on his farm near New Lisbon, Wisconsin, by C. O. Smith. It offers a practical suggestion to all raisers of baby chicks. The same house can also be used for growing pullets or laying hens.

Space for 250 Chicks The house is 10 x 12 and has 12 double doors, which extend down to the floor, providing 120 square feet of floor space. The builder estimates that this is large enough to provide adequate space for 250 to 300 baby chicks until approximately six weeks of age.

Flavor, but, from a standpoint of egg storage, as for a home supply of potatoes for the winter, Southern Queen or Poplar Root, the variety so popular in the mountains, are better.
