FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Morehead State University Foundation and Dr. Franklin M. Mangrum, professor of philosophy at MSU, have announced the establishment of the Jessie R. Mangrum Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Named for Dr. Mangrum's wife who died March 18, the fund will provide scholarships for full-time students in MSU's reading program.

Family members, friends, colleagues and former students may make contributions to the fund through the MSU Foundation.

Funeral services for the 61-year-old Missouri native were held March 21 in Overland, Mo., near St. Louis. A memorial service at the First Baptist Church in Morehead is scheduled at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 10, with the Rev. Don Mantooth officiating.

An assistant professor of education at MSU at the time of her death, Mrs. Mangrum had been teaching at the University since 1968, beginning at the former University Breckinridge School. She had been teaching reading in the College of Professional Studies since 1982. She also taught elementary school in Fleming County and served as a substitute teacher in the Rowan County schools.

"While saddened by this loss, the University appreciates the thoughtful manner in which Dr. Mangrum has chosen to honor his wife's memory," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "It is a fitting tribute which will encourage future students to become teachers of reading, thus becoming living memorials," he added.

Active in community affairs, Mrs. Mangrum was a member of the Morehead Woman's Club; the MSU Woman's Club; Rowan County Chapter, American Cancer Society and St. Claire Medical Center Auxiliary. Her professional memberships included the Kentucky Education Association and International Reading Association.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A memorial service for Jessie R. Mangrum, wife of Dr. Franklin M. Mangrum of Morehead, will be conducted Sunday, April 10, at 3 p.m. at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Don Mantooth officiating.

Mrs. Mangrum, 61, died in Downers Grove, Ill., on March 18 and funeral services were held in Overland, Mo., near St. Louis.

An assistant professor of education at Morehead State University at the time of her death, Mrs. Mangrum had been on the faculty since 1968, beginning at University Breckinridge School. She had been teaching reading in the College of Professional Studies since 1982.

A scholarship fund to assist MSU students has been established by Dr. Mangrum, an MSU professor of philosophy, in memory of his wife.

The funds will be earmarked for full-time students in the University's reading program and potential recipients will be nominated by a committee designated by the associate dean for education with final selection determined by the University Scholarship Committee.

Family members, friends and colleagues may make contributions to the Jessie R. Mangrum Memorial Scholarship Fund through the MSU Foundation.

"While saddened by this loss, the University appreciates the thoughtful manner in which Dr. Mangrum has chosen to honor his wife's memory," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "It is a fitting tribute which will encourage future students to become teachers of reading, thus becoming living memorials," he added.

Prior to joining the MSU faculty, Mrs. Mangrum taught elementary school in Fleming County and served as a substitute teacher in the Rowan County schools. She earned her B.A., M.A. and Rank I degrees from MSU and also had studied at Northwestern University.

Active in community affairs, Mrs. Mangrum was a member of the Morehead Woman's Club; the MSU Woman's Club; Rowan County Chapter, American Cancer Society and St. Claire Medical Center Auxiliary. Her professional memberships included the Kentucky Education Association and International Reading Association.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals will sponsor a three-day workshop for registered nurses, April 6-8 in Reed Hall.

This workshop, entitled Pediatric Nursing Assessment II, is designed for nurses who practice in community health settings in Kentucky, such as local and district health departments. Sessions will provide an update on concepts and skills in the nursing assessment of infants, toddlers, and preschool-aged children.

The faculty will include Karen Parker, a nurse practitioner at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Michael Sheets, nurse practitioner with the Frenchburg Clinic, an outreach service of St. Claire Medical Center.

Sheets will provide assistance with a laboratory session on Thursday, from 1 to 4 p.m.

"It is through cooperative efforts such as this involving other area health professionals and health agencies working in conjunction with the University, that we can help increase the skills of health care professionals in the region," said Pauline Ramey, coordinator of the continuing education program.

All participants will receive continuing education units from MSU. Nurses will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

The cost of the training session is $90. Participants need to bring a Denver Kit, reflex hammer, and a tuning fork to the workshop. Learning activities will include lecture-discussion, demonstration and practice in peer pairs. It is suggested that all participants wear clothing suitable to participate in the laboratory practice.

On the last day of the workshop, there will be a practice session dealing with the preschool age child. Additional information and registration is available by calling (606) 783-2635.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The close ties between education and economic development were reemphasized at Morehead State University's Founders Day on Thursday, March 31, as MSU received checks totalling more than $92,000 from two Kentucky firms: Ashland Oil, Inc., and Mountain Rural Telephone Cooperative.

John R. Hall, AOI chairman of the board and chief executive officer, presented MSU President C. Nelson Grote with a $50,000 matching grant check as part of the Albright Challenge Grant announced by the firm last year. In order to receive the money, MSU had to match it with an additional $50,000 in new gifts.

Speaking at the Founders Day luncheon where he presented the check, Hall told the crowd of more than 200 that the nation needed the brightest and best students if it is going to compete.

"If we are to grow and prosper, we need to be more competitive," he said. "We need to see more of our students graduate from high school and go to college." He added that the only available jobs in the future would be high tech and require training and education.

Praising MSU for its thrust to educate the region's students, Hall said:

"Education has been treated with a degree of uncertainty in the state; but, without quality education, we cannot improve the economy in Kentucky." Hall also said that more than 200 of AOI's employees were MSU graduates and that the grant showed a continuation of the vote of confidence his company has in MSU.

Continuing the demonstration of support for education, Judge Otto Ingram, chairman of the board of Mountain Rural Telephone Cooperative, announced a co-sponsorship with MSU of a scholarship program and presented a check for $42,500 to fund 17 scholarships, beginning with the fall semester. The scholarships, valued at $2,500 each, will benefit students from high schools in Elliott, Morgan, Menifee, Wolfe and Bath counties.

Other awards presented at the luncheon included the Outstanding Faculty/Staff Support of Private Giving Award to Dr. Christopher Gallaher, MSU Department of Music chair, for helping to raise more than $80,000 for scholarships and equipment during the past year.

(MORE)

Also recognized was David Bolt, vice president of the MSU Foundation and assistant administrator at St. Claire Medical Center, as the 1988 Fund-Raising Volunteer of the Year. Hall was presented the Foundation's Most Valuable Giver Award as well.

The Founders Day Award for University Service was presented to Dr. George T. Young in absentia at the Convocation and Awards Ceremony in Button Auditorium earlier in the day. The MSU professor emeritus of government and history has devoted 56 years to teaching and serving the University. He is currently recuperating from surgery in Louisville.

Accepting the award on behalf of his brother, Louisville attorney Preston Young said: "My brother never taught a worthless student. There may have been some who were lazy, but it wasn't their fault; George always believed it was the role of the professor to find ways to motivate those students."

Preceding the awards presentation, Dr. Kenneth Mortimer, vice president/vice provost at Pennsylvania State University, told the audience that the United States must become a nation of educated people. "The three R's of the 80s have been described as reductions, reallocations and retrenchments," the convocation speaker said. "But we must do more than survive. "

He noted that a major problem on college and university campuses was a combination of "shrinking students and declining resources. Each college and university must establish and maintain high standards of student and institutional performance," he said, citing three keys to student learning: student involvement, making sure that policies insure that both student and institution share high expectations for what can be accomplished, and an assessment component for all participants.

"We need to improve the quality of education in the undergraduate experience and concentrate more on educating the whole person," he urged. In closing, Dr. Mortimer stressed that a college degree must be meaningful. "To be meaningful, one had to be involved; involvement increases student performance, and with performance, involvement and learning increases," Dr. Mortimer said.

Founders Day activities concluded with the annual Alumni Awards Dinner and the induction of three MSU graduates into the Alumni Hall of Fame by MSU Alumni Association President William L. (Bill) Phelps. The 1988 honorees were Dr. Wanda Bigham, president of Marycrest College, Davenport, Iowa; Dr. Gary S. Cox, executive director of the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, and J. Dan Lacy, vice president of corporate communications for Ashland Oil.

- 1----Morehead State University's 1988 Founders Day Award for University Service went to George T. Young, professor emeritus of government and history who served the University for more than half a century. Accepting the award from MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn, right, on behalf of his brother who recently underwent surgery was Preston Young of Louisville.
- 2----Suggesting that the three R's today stood for "reductions, reallocations and retrenchments," Dr. Kenneth Mortimer, the Founders Day Convocation and Awards Ceremony speaker, told the audience in Button Auditorium that higher education institutions "must do more than survive." Vice president and vice provost at Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Mortimer is recognized internationally for his efforts to increase quality in higher education.
- 3----John R. Hall, center, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Ashland Oil, Inc., received a standing ovation at the Founders Day luncheon. Named the MSU Foundation's Most Valuable Giver, Hall spoke at the luncheon and presented the University a check for $50,000 to match new private gifts raised by the Foundation over the past year as part of the Albright Challenge Grant initiated last year by Ashland Oil. Leading the acknowledgement were MSU President C. Nelson Grote, right, and BOR Chairman Louie B. Nunn.
- 4----Judge Otto Ingram, board chairman of the Mountain Rural Telephone Cooperative, announced the cooperative's co-sponsorship of a new scholarship program for students from Elliott, Morgan, Menifee, Wolfe and Bath counties. MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two Morehead State University faculty members--Dr. Charles Holt, professor of history, and Dr. Kent Freeland, professor of education--have been named to the Steering Committee for the Kentucky Council for the Social Studies (KCSS).

"The Steering Committee was set up to set direction for the future of social studies education in Kentucky," said Dr. Freeland.

Dr. Holt and Dr. Freeland are also editors of the Southern Social Studies Quarterly, the journal of the KCSS.

The National Council for the Social Studies (NCSS) have asked Steering Committee members to serve as curriculum folio readers for all Kentucky colleges and universities seeking accreditation from the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education and the Kentucky Department of Education.

The members will periodically travel to meeting sites where they will read and critique the curriculum folios to decide how the teacher education programs at various colleges and universities conform to NCSS guidelines.

"Our recommendation will then be relayed back to the NCSS headquarters in Washington, D.C., so that they can carry out their part in the accreditation process," Dr. Holt and Dr. Freeland explained.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Joyce LeMaster, a Morehead State University associate professor of English, has been appointed to the Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship Selection Committee for a one-year term.

She was one of seven members, one from each of Kentucky's congressional districts, named by the Kentucky Department of Education to select this year's scholarship recipients.

"Scholarships have been awarded to 78 Kentuckians this year," said LeMaster. "The challenge was to determine which students would receive the award when all applicants were proven leaders with high academic scores," she added. Scholarship recipients were awarded a $1,500 stipend to the college or university of their choice.

All the states participate in the Byrd Scholarship Program, LeMaster noted. The Program, originally the Federal Merit Scholarship Program, was named for Sen. Byrd because of his efforts to fund the program. This year, 700 Kentucky students applied for the scholarship, according to LeMaster.

An MSU faculty member since 1961, LeMaster holds two degrees from MSU and has done graduate and post graduate work at Indiana University.

She is a member of the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English, Kentucky Philological Association, Appalachian Writers Association and has done book reviews for the Kentucky Historical Society and the Filson Club Journal. She is a member of the MSU Alumni Association executive council, Phi Kappa Phi honor society and Delta Zeta sorority.

For several years, LeMaster has worked with the Jesse Stuart Foundation and is currently serving on the planning committee for the 1988 MSU Jesse Stuart Symposium. She is the College of Arts and Sciences representative to the Faculty Senate and a member of the MSU's Performing Arts Trio.

LeMaster is first vice president of the Morehead Woman's Club and the Rowan County Democratic Woman's Club.

RAIDERS INVADE FOREST

Morehead State University's Raider Company recently held a 30-mile hike through the Daniel Boone National Forest. Eleven members participated in the three-day event. They were given instruction in equipment use, meal preparation and other means of survival by Sgt. Ladislau Szilagyi and Capt. Kenneth Musser, both of the Department of Military Science. According to Sgt. Szilagyi, the exercise also was a community service effort to report any damage along the hike area to the National Forest Service. Above are Raider cadets preparing to leave for the hike.

MSU HOSTS CHINESE EDUCATORS: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University earlier this week played host to a delegation of educators from the Province of Xinjiang in the People's Republic of China.

The group is visiting campuses nationwide, under the auspices of the USA/China Teacher Education Consortium and its counterpart the Sino/American Teacher Education Consortium, to learn about higher education in America and promote the exchange of faculty and students.

Led by Zhi-Zhang Yuan, vice minister of education for Xinjiang Province, the delegation included Akimu Japar, president of Xinjiang University; Ablikim Ahji, president of Xinjiang Normal University; Mehersuti, president of Xinjiang Educational College and Qin Zhang, a staff member of the Ministry of Education, who served as interpreter. Accompanying the group was Jian-Liang Wang, executive director of the USA/China Teacher Education Consortium and a faculty member at Western Kentucky University.

Their visit to Morehead State was a result of a six-week visit to the northern provinces of China made by Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean of MSU's College of Professional Studies, as a 1987 Summer Fulbright-Hays Fellow.

The delegation met with MSU faculty and administrators as well as student leaders and honor students. Tours of campus facilities were provided, ranging from the robotics lab to Camden-Carroll Library and from the Claypool-Young Art Building to the Academic-Athletic Center. The group also visited Rowan County Senior High School and the Vocational School.

In addition to the official interpreters, four MSU foreign students assisted in breaking the language barrier. They were Clement Liew, Jeff Teh, "Mr." Alexander and Kok Ong.

Presented with mementos to remind them of MSU and Kentucky, including individual Kentucky Colonelcies, the visitors brought gifts to their hosts. One was a special jade-type stone carving of two birds with beaks intertwined for President and Mrs. C. Nelson Grote. The sculpture was done by a Xinjiang vocational school student.

Cutlines:

- 1----Posing for an "official" portrait were, from left, Qin Zhang of the Ministry of Education, President Ablikim Ahji, Vice Minister Zhi-Zhang Yuan, President Grote, Mrs. Grote, President Akimu Japar, President Mehersuti and Consortium Executive Director Jian-Liang Wang.
- 2----During the tours of various campus facilities, the group visited the robotics lab where MSU senior Steve Avery of Louisville explained and demonstrated some of the equipment.
- 3----Among the souvenirs the delegation will take back home are parchment scrolls imprinted with Jesse Stuart's "Kentucky Is My Land." Dr. John C. Philley, right, dean, College of Arts and Sciences, presents a scroll to Vice Minister Yuan, left, while Director Wang assists.
- 4----Interpreter Zhang tests her physical fitness on one of MSU's weight machines during a tour of the Academic-Athletic Center.
- 5----A trip to the Rowan County Senior High School provided the visitors an opportunity to talk with public school students. Sharing their views at the right are January Price, Clarissa Purnell and Claire Cain.
- 6----At the closing luncheon, Vice Minister Yuan presented Dr. Grote with a special gift, a sculpture of two birds with beaks intertwined carved from a jade-type stone.

MOREHEAD, KY.--Morehead State University's College of Professional Studies will offer a Workshop on Jesse Stuart (EDSE 599) at Paul Blazer High School Monday through Thursday (4 - 6 p.m.) May 2-26.

In addition to the afternoon class sessions, the Workshop on Jesse Stuart will feature a Saturday tour of Stuart's W-Hollow homeland conducted by the late author's brother and sisters.

Dr. James M. Gifford, executive director of the Jesse Stuart Foundation, will teach this class. Dr. Gifford, an authority on Southern and Appalachian history, has published extensively in educational, historical, and literary journals, including the South Atlantic Quarterly. He currently is editing Stuart's out-of-print works for republication, and he is a co-author of "Jesse Stuart, The Man and His Books," the class text.

According to Dr. Larry Jones, dean of MSU's College of Professional Studies, the workshop is carefully designed to acquaint teachers with Jesse Stuart's life and works within a regional studies context. While this three-hour course is designed primarily for teachers, upper-level undergraduate students and auditors are welcome too.

"Morehead state University has a mandate to serve the people and institutions of Eastern Kentucky," said Dr. Gifford, "and a course with regional studies focus will help many teachers to better understand their Eastern Kentucky homeland."

Class registration will take place on the first afternoon of class, May 2, at 4 p.m. at Paul Blazer High School. Additional information can be obtained by calling Dr. Gifford at (606) 329-5233.

April 8, 1988
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) has been selected to participate in a national pilot program designed to uncover and evaluate technological innovations being developed by individuals or small businesses, according to Ernest Begley, director of the MSU Center.

Under the pilot program, the Morehead SBDC will forward promising ideas for inventions to the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) to be evaluated under the Energy-Related Inventions Program, which has been conducted since 1975 by NBS and the Department of Energy (DOE). Inventions believed to have energy-saving potential will be recommended to DOE for possible support. DOE can provide financial support or help in marketing the inventor's idea.

Grants typically have ranged between $50,000 and $200,000 with an average of $80,000 per invention. If NBS finds the invention lacks the required energy-saving potential but nonetheless, has commercial promise, it will be referred back to the originating Small Business Development Center with suggestions for further development.

The Morehead SBDC is participating as part of the Kentucky SBDC and the Association of Small Business Development Centers (ASBDC). The ASBDC is a coalition of 49 state and regional SBDC's with a nationwide network of nearly 700 local offices. The centers provide training and guidance to small businesses and entrepreneurs.

"We deal with a great many people, and some of them have good ideas that could be commercially feasible," said Gregory Higgins, president of the Association and Director of the Florida SBDC. "But we don't have the expertise to properly evaluate those ideas or the funding to help get their ideas from the workshop to the marketplace. That's where the Energy-Related Inventions Program comes in. We believe the two programs fit hand in glove, and look forward to a long and fruitful collaboration."

Since the energy-related inventions program started 13 years ago, NBS has recommended more than 400 inventions to DOE for support out of 24,000 requests for evaluation. DOE has awarded grants totaling over $20 million.

SBDC
2-2-2

Says George Lewett of the National Bureau of Standards Office:

"The networks of small business development centers will greatly enhance our ability to find inventors with new ideas." He added, "Of course, the more inventions submitted for evaluation, the more are recommended for DOE support, and the more become successful in the marketplace."

Statistics show that only 15 or 20 inventions are recommended to DOE for every 1000 inventions submitted to NBS for evaluation. Of course, three to five become commercial successes.

The program will be assessed after a year by NBS and the ASBDC and may be expanded to include small business development centers in other states.

For further information, contact Begley at the Morehead Small Business Development Center at (606) 783-2077.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University Theatre students will present "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" on April 22-23 and 26-30 in Kibbey Theatre, beginning at 8 o'clock nightly.

"This production of Tennessee Williams Pulitzer Prize-winning drama unfolds in a plantation house where the family members are celebrating the 65th birthday of 'Big Daddy'," said Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU's coordinator of theatre.

"While the tone of the gathering is festive, the sins of the past, greedy hopes of the future, and desperate denial of the truth corrupt the occasion," he added.

The production features eight cast members in major roles. They are: Carl Curnutte III, Ashland senior; Thom Yancy, MSU assistant professor of radio-television; Edward E. Figgins, Brooksville graduate student; Ralph E. Wall, New Bern, N.C., senior; L. Michael Breeze, Morehead junior; Julie F. Jones, Cynthiana senior; Maria Rosen, Harrison, Ohio, senior, and Karen J. O'Baker, Geneva, Ohio, senior.

Tara Lail, Cynthiana senior, will serve as stage manager; Gary Hibbitts II, Ashcamp freshman, will be the assistant stage manager, and Van Edward Wilburn, Grahn junior, will be the assistant director.

Dr. William Layne, associate professor of theatre, is the scenic and costume designer and also will serve as technical director.

Tickets for the production are available by reservations only at $5 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and students, and free to MSU students with valid I.D. cards.

MOREHEAD, KY.--The Appalachian Celebration, Morehead State University's annual summer festival, will be held June 19-25.

The week-long Celebration features traditional music and dance, storytelling and poetry, and arts and crafts that focus on the rich cultural heritage of the region.

Appalachian Celebration '88 begins with an Opening Reception in the gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building, Sunday, June 19, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the first annual "Appalachian Treasure" award to an individual whose dedication to preserving and promoting Appalachian culture typifies the spirit of the region. MSU President C. Nelson Grote will present the award, a hand-crafted rocking chair.

Popular activities returning to the Celebration include: music, dance, folk art and craft workshops; the week-long Children's Workshop and the "Friends from the Farm" Animal Exhibit for kids (Wednesday, June 22); Scholars-in-Residence workshops with Appalachian scholar Loyal Jones and poet Albert Stewart; and the Jesse Stuart Symposium (Tuesday, June 21).

The entertainment line-up for Celebration '88 will feature popular musician and writer Billy Edd Wheeler who will sing, tell tales and conduct a songwriting workshop. The Celebration will include for the first time, Appalkids, a group of musical performers who present the stories and songs of Appalachia. Noon and evening concerts will also feature the White Horse String Band, the Rocky River Express, Bill Lowe and Cripple Creek, the La Grange Twirlers and more.

More information regarding MSU's Appalachian Celebration '88 is available from Pete McNeill, Office of Regional Development Services, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351, (606) 783-2077.

SPECIAL TO THE LOUISVILLE DEFENDER

JCPS OFFICIALS AT MSU: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, KY.--A group of Jefferson County Public School officials recently visited Morehead State University as part of an ongoing exploration of a partnership between the public school system and MSU's School of Education. The primary goal is to encourage minority youth from Jefferson County to become teachers.

Among those taking part in the discussions with MSU President C. Nelson Grote, Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean, College of Professional Studies, and other administrators, faculty members and students were: Montest L. Eaves, assistant superintendent for human resources; Carolyn Quire, guidance director; Edward Newman, personnel administration director; Thomas Johnson, an MSU alumnus who directs the JCPS Learning Choices Magnet Schools Project, and Joyce Paul, special projects coordinator.

Other Jefferson County schools personnel who have been working with the project have included Dr. Booker T. Rice, deputy superintendent of instruction; Rita Greer, personnel specialist, and Bonnie Marshall, an administrative intern.

In addition to talking with University personnel, the group toured campus facilities, including the reading center and microcomputer lab.

Cutlines:

- 1----Discussion of the program's potential was not limited to sessions with MSU officials, but student opinions also were sought. Sharing ideas were, from left, Thomas Johnson, Learning Choices Magnet Schools Project director; Penny Brocks, MSU student from Maysville; Assistant Superintendent Montest Eaves, and MSU students Rodney Gill, Venus Harris and Trey Runyon, all of Louisville.
- 2----Thomas Johnson, right, director of Jefferson County's Learning Choices Magnet Schools Project, is greeted by MSU President and Mrs. C. Nelson Grote. Johnson earned his undergraduate degree from MSU in 1966.
- 3----JCPS Assistant Supt. Montest Eaves, standing at right, shared his observances and expectations for the project with the team members during the closing luncheon.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has called off a horse show scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 15-16, because of a recent U.S. District Court decision.

"There are too many unanswered questions and too little time to reorganize the show," said Dr. Charles M. Derrickson, dean of MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology, who announced the cancellation.

An order by U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch brought new regulations from the U.S. Department of Agriculture governing the use of pads and chains used on the front feet of walking, racking and fox trotter horses.

"We really regret the cancellation, but under the circumstances we believe it to be the best course," Dr. Derrickson said. "Had we had a clearer interpretation of the new rulings or more time, we would have attempted to restructure the show classes offered," he explained.

Sponsored annually by MSU's Agriculture Club, the spring show normally draws more than 300 exhibitors from several states.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Arts in Morehead (AIM) will close its 1987-88 Concert and Lecture Series with a performance by one of the world's great chamber orchestras, the Masterplayers, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall on Monday, April 18.

Admission will be by season membership in the series or individual tickets available at the door at $5 for adults and $2.50 for youth age 18 and under. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

Founded by director Richard Schumacher more than 30 years ago, the Masterplayers is considered one of the truly great chamber orchestras today. The orchestra, based in Lugano, Switzerland, has toured Europe, Latin America, Canada and the United States receiving praise from music critics.

The New York Times described a recent concert as "the kind of playing that invited rather than demanded attention and that rewarded the listener with aural pleasures of a kind one does not often hear these days."

The Masterplayers returned to the United States in 1984 after a 10 year absence with a tour that extended over the east coast, followed by a national tour with concerts in Philadelphia, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other major cities.

"The aptly named Masterplayers," as the Washington Post calls them, is traditionally comprised of the best of Europe's instrumentalists, each enjoying a national reputation as a concert soloist. It is a long tradition, and the orchestra is proud to name among its former members some of the most famous soloists on the concert stage today, including Julian Bream, Charles Dutoit, Heinz Holliger, Wilhelm Kempff and Jean Pierre Rampal.

The group features a string section whose members play exclusively on instruments of the old famous Italian luteur school--Amati, Stradivarius, Guarnerius, and Grancico, among others. Their brilliant recordings, successful tours and impeccable musicianship have brought the Masterplayers world-wide acclaim.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University, in conjunction with the University of Kentucky, will offer an eight-day course and tour, "To Stratford for Shakespeare," May 22-29.

With tour hosts Dr. Frances Helphinstine, MSU professor of English, and Dr. Ken Davis, UK associate professor of history, participants will travel by bus to Stratford, Ontario, where they will see six Shakespearean plays, plus T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral" and the musical "My Fair Lady."

Members of the group will stay in private homes which have been opened for the Stratford Shakespearean Festival and will have time to shop as well as spending a day in Toronto.

The fee of $395 includes transportation, double occupancy rooms (singles are available for an extra $32), tickets to all performances and travel insurance. A nonrefundable deposit of $125 is due now and the balance on May 1.

"We are offering participants an opportunity to see some of the world's finest drama performed by some of the world's most acclaimed players," said Dr. Helphinstine.

To prepare for the trip, special discussions will be held at 7 p.m. May 17 and 19 and a post-trip lecture is scheduled on May 31. MSU students may arrange for three hours of credit by enrolling in ENG 599, "Workshop: Stratford (Ontario) Theatre Tour."

The festival's Shakespearean repertoire includes "Taming of the Shrew," "All's Well That Ends Well," "Two Gentlemen of Verona," "Twelfth Night," "Richard III" and "King Lear."

Reservations are being accepted now through MSU's Office of Extended Campus Programs. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2038.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center, in conjunction with the Maysville-Mason County Chamber of Commerce and Small Business Administration, will sponsor two workshops for potential business owners during the last week in April.

The two-hour sessions will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Building, 115 East Third Street, at the bridge in Maysville, beginning at 6 p.m.

The first workshop, entitled "Pre-Business Planning," will be held on Tuesday, April 26. This session will deal with whether or not to go into business and the pitfalls involved.

A workshop, "Applying for Business Loans," will be held on Thursday, April 28. The type of information/documentation required in putting together a good loan package to be presented to a lender and/or the Small Business Administration will be discussed at this workshop.

There will be a $3 charge per person, per workshop to cover materials cost.

The workshops are open to all individuals without regard to race, color, sex, creed, or national origin. Arrangements will be made to accommodate handicapped persons when request accompanies advance registration.

Additional information is available from MSU's Small Business Development Center, (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's School of Education will offer a new course, "Teaching Critical Thinking and Decision Making" (EDUC 674) during second summer term.

The course inadvertently was listed in the summer schedule under EDSE 599, according to Dr. Stephen Young, professor of education, who will teach the class. Offered at 10:10 a.m. daily during Summer II which begins Tuesday, July 12 and continues for four weeks, it carries three credit hours.

The class, designed for teachers and administrators, will emphasize activities to help define problems and issues; how to access, organize and draw conclusions from information as well as how to develop creative solution alternatives. Course content also will aid in making objective decisions and use of effective decision making in planning and taking action, Dr. Young said.

Sharon Owen, Bowling Green junior, and Lisa McGinnis, Huntington, W.Va., sophomore, were among 24 bowlers that competed in the tournament.

Owen placed second in the singles event and tied for third with Jackie Sellers from Pennsylvania State University in the all-events. She and her partner from West Texas State University placed third in the doubles event.

McGinnis placed eighth in the all-events. She and her partner from Temple University placed second in the doubles.

Owen finished in second place for "Bowler of the Year" behind Sellers and will receive a $500 scholarship.

Owen and McGinnis brought four medals back to Morehead, three silver and one bronze.

"This is the best finish for a Morehead bowler in the Individual National ACU-I all-events," said Larry Wilson, MSU bowling team coach.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University professor emeritus of art, Maurice W. Strider, will be recognized for his contributions to the University by naming a room in his honor.

Claypool-Young Art Building's Room 218, known as the alternative gallery, will be formally dedicated at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 23, as the "Strider Gallery."

"We are proud to be able to accord this honor to Professor Strider," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "He served this institution with distinction, but even more importantly has been a role model for minority youth both as an artist and as a human being. He has earned the respect of his colleagues in the art world nationally, but still found time to work for harmony among the races," Dr. Grote added.

"This is indeed an honor for Morehead to be among those schools recognizing the accomplishment of an Afro-American," said Jerry Gore, MSU's Minority Student Affairs director and coordinator of the dedication ceremonies.

"To recognize this professor who had the unique ability to interact with students and relate to all people is truly a memorable occasion," he added.

Strider was a member of the art faculty from 1966 until his retirement in 1979. He has remained a loyal supporter of the University and currently serves on the Advisory Board for WMKY 90.3 FM, MSU's public radio station.

A native of Lexington, Strider is the executive director of Lexington Citizens for Cultural Development, an organization formed to create a museum for Afro-American art. He is president of the Gold K Kiwanis Club and a member of the Humanities Council of Kentucky.

Recognized nationwide for his extensive research in black art, Afro-American art and culture, black history and race relations, Strider has been a frequent speaker on college campuses. His art works have received national acclaim as well as his photographic and journalistic accomplishments.

For his nearly 45 years of service and commitment to art and education, the Kentucky Art Education Association presented Strider with its Distinguished Service Award in 1981.

Strider is a graduate of Fisk University and the University of Kentucky. He received an honorary doctorate from Mauna Olu College in Maui, Hawaii.

Preceding the dedication, a noon luncheon will be held in the Red Room, Adron Doran University Center. Tickets are available at the door at $7.50 per person. Reservations may be made by calling (606) 783-2668 or (606) 783-2123.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A new version of the GED Test will go into effect statewide in Kentucky on Aug. 1.

The revised test includes a 200-word essay question designed to evaluate the examinee's ability to organize and present a written response to a topic of general interest.

By the end of 1988, the new test will be in use nationwide as well as in Canada and U.S. territories. Those taking the test will not need any specialized knowledge for the essay question and will have 45 minutes in which to write their essays.

Morehead State University offers GED testing daily on the main campus by appointment, according to Patty Eldridge, MSU testing coordinator. Eldridge's office is in Ginger Hall 501A and her telephone number is (606) 783-2526.

MSU also offers help in preparing for the GED, which is also known as the high school equivalency test, through its Adult Learning Center located on the corner of Tippet Avenue and Second Street, Morehead. Telephone: (606) 783-2871.

Preparation assistance also is available at the MSU-Morgan Center in West Liberty. Telephone: (606) 743-1500.

"We want to encourage anyone interested in taking the test this summer to begin preparing for it now," said Eldridge.

In 1986, more than 700,000 people took the test nationally and more than 480,000 of those passed, receiving high school equivalency credentials. Many of these furthered their education by enrolling in college.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Joy Stephanie Kinney, a freshman from Louisville, was crowned "Miss MSU 1988" at Morehead State University's "Miss MSU Scholarship Pageant" Tuesday night (April 19), in Button Auditorium.

An MSU cheerleader and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kinney, she was chosen from among 18 contestants in the two-night pageant and now advances to the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant in Louisville July 7-9.

The new "Miss MSU," a graduate of Southern High School, also received a $1,500 scholarship and trophy. She was crowned by Glenda Rene Haney, Miss MSU 1987.

First runner-up and the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship was Stacey Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson of Hindman. A junior majoring in English, she also is a member of the Mignon Tower Hall Council.

Marrialana Prince, a junior majoring in communications, was second runner-up. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zulus Prince of Grayson, she received a $750 scholarship. She is a member of Alpha Epsilon Rho national broadcasting society.

Cynthia Anne Patrick of West Union, Ohio, was named third runner-up. A junior majoring in elementary education, she received a $500 scholarship. She is a member of Gamma Beta Phi Society, a Dean's List Student and captain of the Fast Breaks Dance Team. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Patrick and vice president of Chi Omega Sorority.

Georgieana Lester of Morehead, a business finance major, received a $200 scholarship as fourth runner-up. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lester, she is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

Special guests for the pageant included Kaye Lani Ray Rafko, the reigning Miss America; Elizabeth Gray McDowell, the reigning Miss Kentucky and Laurie Keller, Miss Kentucky 1985.

The "Miss MSU Scholarship Pageant" is a preliminary event for the "Miss Kentucky" and "Miss America" pageants.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Pikeville High School senior Elaine Marie Webb has been named winner of Morehead State University's second U.S. Constitution Essay and Scholarship Competition sponsored by MSU's Committee on the Bicentennial Celebration of the U.S. Constitution.

Webb is the daughter of Paula Hampton and Roger Webb. She is editor of her school yearbook, president of the Speech and Drama Club, a member of the Honor Society, and was selected to attend the Governor's School of Arts Program. She also co-wrote the school's spring play "Time-Warp."

The theme for this year's competition was "The Founding Fathers: Why Did They Write the Constitution the Way They Did?" The essay competition is open to high school seniors in MSU's 22-county service region.

Webb will receive a $1,500 award for study at MSU as a full-time student for the 1988-89 academic year. The scholarship, renewable for three academic years, has a total value of $6,000.

She was selected by members of a sub-committee of the MSU Committee on the Bicentennial Celebration of the U.S. Constitution. The sub-committee was composed of Dr. Stuart Sprague, professor of history; Dr. John Kleber, professor of history, and Dr. William Green, associate professor of government and the committee chair.

The scholarship will be awarded to Webb at her high school graduation ceremonies on May 28. She will be recognized as the MSU Constitutional Scholar and will receive the U.S. Constitution Award Certificate and a copy of "The Constitution: That Delicate Balance," a study of classic controversies that shaped the Constitution.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Scholastic excellence will be recognized during Morehead State University's fourth annual Academic Excellence Week which will be observed May 1-6.

Presentation of awards for outstanding achievements by students, faculty and staff will highlight the week-long tribute to academic scholarship, according to Dr. Stephen Taylor, acting vice president for academic affairs.

The celebration will begin with a formal Academic Awards Convocation on Sunday, May 1, at 2 p.m. in Button Auditorium at which time the University's most prestigious faculty awards--the Distinguished Faculty and the Distinguished Researcher Awards--will be presented.

"We have many ways to recognize the scholarly achievements of our students, but not enough ways to give public recognition to the dedication to academic excellence demonstrated by those who teach these students," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

"These two awards are very significant in that they provide us the opportunity to recognize that commitment in a truly meaningful way," Dr. Grote added.

The Distinguished Faculty Award will be presented jointly by last year's recipient, Dr. Earle L. Louder, and MSU Alumni Association President William L. Phelps. Given annually since 1964, this award was created by the Alumni Association.

Dr. Taylor will present the Distinguished Researcher Award which was established in 1979 by MSU's Research and Patent Committee.

Also the winner of the first A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music Performance Competition will be presented and perform at the convocation.

In addition, awards will be presented to the outstanding graduate and undergraduate students in each department by Dr. James E. Gotsick, dean of Graduate and Special Programs. Recognition also will go to students with 4.00 grade point averages and Honors Program graduates.

James K. Rowlett, a graduating senior from New Bern, N. C., will be the Awards Convocation speaker. A member of the Honors Program, he is a psychology major and has presented several papers at scientific meetings. He also has been awarded a $6,000 scholarship to enroll in the University of Kentucky's graduate program in psychology.

Dr. John E. Kleber, Honors Program director, will preside and Dr. Grote will offer congratulations to the honorees. A reception will follow the convocation in the Red Room, Adron Doran University Center.

Throughout the week, the colleges and various departments will recognize outstanding achievements of their students. Also scheduled is a special "Scholars Luncheon," sponsored by the MSU Research and Patents Committee, on Monday, May 2, at noon.

The College of Arts and Sciences will honor its students at a breakfast on Tuesday, May 3, at 7 a.m. in the Crager Room, ADUC. Students in the College of Professional Studies will be recognized at a 7 a.m. breakfast on Wednesday, May 4, in the Red Room, ADUC. The College of Applied Sciences and Technology will recognize the outstanding achievements of its students at a luncheon on Thursday, May 5, at 11:30 a.m. in the Red Room.

At noon on Friday, May 6, the Office of Academic Affairs will host a reception for Dean's List students in the Crager Room.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is currently completing the first two phases of a records management program authorized by MSU's Board of Regents.

The records management program consists of three phases: 1) records survey; 2) scheduling of records; and 3) compliance and follow-up scheduling.

The program is coordinated through the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives and the Kentucky Records and Archives Commission to comply with Chapter 171 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes. It will be implemented by the Special Collections Department of the Camden-Carroll Library.

A weekly series of seminars have been conducted by Lena Jones Turner of the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives; Carrie Back, special collections librarian, and Faye Belcher, library consultant, with the various offices on MSU's campus.

The Office of the President was the first unit to be officially scheduled by the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives. Other units that have completed the initial schedule are the Department of Music, Office of Admissions, and the Faculty Senate.

Twenty-two units are being considered for scheduling in June 1988: College of Professional Studies; Department of Communications; Counseling Office; Extended Campus Programs; Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; Department of Mathematics; Department of Physical Sciences; Library and Instructional Media Office;

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Andy Parker of Fairborn, Ohio, has been elected president of Morehead State University's Student Government Association for the 1988-89 academic year.

"We ran a different type of campaign," the new president said of his victory. "It was a total group effort and the hard work of everyone really paid off."

Parker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Parker, is president of the Bowling Team, Blue Key and the Residence Hall Association. A senior management major, he is a member of the Student Alumni Ambassadors and Sigma Nu fraternity.

Also elected as members of the SGA Executive Board were:

Karen A. Franklin, senior physical education/health major and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Franklin of Wheelersburg, Ohio, vice president. She is president of Panhellenic Council and a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Buffie McCoy, freshman communications major and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellie McCoy of Belfry, secretary. She is a member of Blue Key and the Equestrian Club.

Bernard L. McKay, freshman accounting major and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McKay Jr., of Maysville, treasurer.

Dennis M. O'Hara, junior majoring in radio-television and journalism and the son of John F. and Julia O'Hara of Nesconset, N.Y., public relations director. He is vice president of the Interfraternity Council and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Christopher Hart, freshman management major and the son of Duane Hart and Barbara Tripp of Corbin, program director. He is a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

During the coming year, Parker plans to get as many students involved as possible in SGA. "We want to open all communications lines," he said. "We feel that increased student participation will help in student retention," he added.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--When Janie Fryman, Morehead State University graduate assistant from Flemingsburg, left for the Kentucky Home Economics Association's annual meeting, she did not know she would be bringing home the top award.

Fryman was awarded the 1988 Kentucky Home Economics Association "Outstanding Student Award" in recent ceremonies at Lake Barkley State Park.

"I sat there listening as the announcer read the accomplishments of this year's winner," Fryman said. "Although the identifying names and places were missing, I knew it was me she was referring to."

Department of Home Economics chair, Dr. Marilyn Sampley, believes the prestige Fryman has brought the department will encourage other students to get involved. "We are honored to have one of our students receive this award," Dr. Sampley said. "This proves that we can be competitive with students from other colleges and universities."

The KHEA has been giving an outstanding student award for three years and this is the first time the recipient has been an MSU graduate.

Fryman was selected from more than 10 students nominated from around the state. Selection was based on the student's participation in the Kentucky Home Economics Association, academic standing and activities on campus.

Being selected as the best in her field is nothing new for Fryman. When she graduated magna cum laude from MSU last May with a B.S. degree, she had received the Outstanding Undergraduate Award and the Outstanding Home Economics Senior Award.

A member of the MSU Student Home Economics Association for four years, Fryman served one year as vice president and one year as publicity chairman. She was state newsletter editor for the KHEA from 1986-87 and a member of AHEA for three years.

While working on her undergraduate degree, Fryman was a member of the Dean's List every semester. She plans to leave the University in May and pursue a teaching career, preferably in the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky area.

"I plan to complete my master's degree in the future," Fryman said. "I am just anxious to use what I have learned."

The daughter of Bill and Sue Fryman, she grew up on a tobacco/dairy farm in Fleming County. The only one in her family of two brothers and two sisters to attend college, Fryman knew she wanted a career in home economics.

While a senior at Fleming County High School, she was greatly influenced by her home economics teacher, Rita Dials. Participation in the Future Homemakers of America was also a deciding factor in her career choice.

"The home economics profession touches more lives every day than practically any other profession could even begin to," Fryman said. "My experiences with MSU and KHEA have both rewarded me well in all areas. They have made me a better person, ready to enter the world of work--prepared, willing to help and contribute, and determined."

Fryman believes the key to getting the most of the college experience is being involved. "You need to get as much as you can from your classes," she said. "But you also need to make friends, participate, and be a part of college life."

In addition to her duties as a member of the home economics association, both on the state and national level, Fryman joined Kappa Omicron Phi honor society in home economics, Cardinal Key Honor Society, Chi Omega Sorority, and was granted membership in the Order of Omega all-Greek honor society.

She was a member of Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society for three years, Residence Hall Association vice president one year and a member of the Student Government Association. Most recently she served on the Graduate-Teacher Education Committee for the College of Applied Sciences and Technology.

A DAY ON MSU'S CAMPUS: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Approximately 160 Mason County Middle School students recently visited the Morehead State University campus as part of the Ashland Oil, Inc., sponsored program known as "A Day on Campus." The program is designed to encourage students to begin thinking about a college education at an early age so that they will prepare themselves better to attend college. In addition to touring the campus, the youngsters visited various academic departments where they saw exhibits and had the opportunity to talk with students as well as faculty members.

Cutlines:

- 1----First stop for the Mason County Middle School students was MSU's Academic-Athletic Center for a group photograph as well as for a brief overview of what the day held in store.
- 2----Listening intently to a discussion of folk art during a visit to MSU's Folk Art Gallery were, foreground from left, Karena Hall, Angie Orme and Lisa Thomas.
- 3----Sharon Chapman, right an MSU student from Mt. Sterling, escorts Missy Martin, Artie Gibbs and Chris Smith through an exhibit of work by MSU art students. Here the group admires a ceramic pot.
- 4----Trailing the Mason County students as they toured the campus was Lisa York, left, who recorded the days events for the Kentucky Department of Education. Checking out the set for NewsCenter 12, MSU's student produced news show, are, from left, Natasha Warner, Hagen Kirk, Kashka Payne and Mark Cox.

STRIDER GALLERY DEDICATION: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A man described as having a "total commitment to education" was honored at Morehead State University on Saturday (April 23).

Maurice Strider of Lexington, professor emeritus of art, was the man of the hour. More than 100 former and current MSU faculty members, staff, students and friends were on hand for the formal dedication ceremony of Strider Gallery, in the Claypool-Young Art Building.

A portrait of Strider by Robert Franzini, MSU associate professor of art, will be permanently hung in the gallery.

Dr. John Philley, College of Arts and Sciences dean, discussed the historical significance of naming the gallery for someone who left a lasting impression on the University for the time he served. He described Strider as being nationally-known for his extensive research in black art, Afro-American culture and having one of the most extensive collections of Afro-American slides in existence.

Tom Sternal, Department of Art chair, said naming of the gallery was most appropriate. "This room is used for art exhibits, as a conference room, and by students--formally in class, informally out of class. Strider is remembered for having compassion for students; he was always there for them."

Strider, described as a role model at MSU, said he too had a role model: James Weldon Johnson. He credited Johnson for instilling in him the determination to never deter from one's goals and beliefs. Johnson, the first executive secretary of the NAACP, was responsible for getting Strider involved in research of Afro-American art.

Strider was also presented the national achievement award from Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc., and a plaque from MSU's Black Coalition for his support and guidance.

The dedication was held in conjunction with MSU's Black Awareness Week. "Our theme this year was 'Each One Teach One'," said Jerry Gore, Minority Student Affairs director. "There is no one who demonstrates this philosophy more than Maurice Strider," Gore noted.

Cutlines:

- 1----Friends came from near and far to share the day with the Striders. Among guests were these members of the Gold K Kiwanis Club of Lexington, from left, William Childress, Henry Lowe, Norman Passmore, Cecil Scott Sr., Strider, and Paul L. Gretchell. Strider is the club's president.
- 2----Robert Franzini, left, associate professor of art, unveiled the portrait of Strider as the Striders and Dr. John Philley, MSU College of Arts and Sciences dean, watches. The portrait will be permanently hung in the Strider Gallery.
- 3----Barbara Curry, commissioner of the Lexington-Fayette County Urban Government and an MSU regent, brought congratulations from the Board of Regents. "He is a man truly deserving of this honor," she said. "He has served as a role model--for today and the future." Behind the Striders is Dionne Franklin, MSU's Black Coalition president, who presided at the dedication ceremonies.
- 4----Maurice Strider, among the first black professors at MSU, expressed thanks to everyone who made the day possible. "Education should recognize the individual--not stereotypes of races," he said. "Together we must continue, by continuing together we will make America--'America the Beautiful'."

FAC SECRETARY WELLS VISITS MSU

L. Roger Wells Jr., center, state Finance and Administration Cabinet secretary, recently visited Morehead State University for a first-hand look at plans for renovating the University's utility tunnel system. The multi-phase renovation, expected to cost $7.5 million, was among the capital construction projects included in Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's budget request and funded during the 1988 General Assembly. Discussing the importance of the project with the secretary at one of the openings into the 11,000-foot tunnel are MSU President C. Nelson Grote, left, and Joe Planck, MSU's physical plant director. Wells said his visit was an effort to follow Gov. Wilkinson's request that major capital construction projects be closely monitored.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals has scheduled its final workshop for the spring semester.

Pediatric Assessment III, a program for nurses who practice in community health settings, will be held May 4-6 on the MSU campus.

Updating concepts and skills in the nursing assessment of skin, head, neck, lymph, eye, ear, abdominal, and genital systems of infants is the thrust of this workshop.

Roxane Anderson, nurse practitioner at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Cincinnati, will serve as the instructor for this two and one-half day session.

All participants will receive continuing education units from MSU. Nurses will receive 15 contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

The cost of the workshop is $90. Those attending are urged to wear comfortable clothing to participate in the laboratory practice.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences, (606) 783-2635.
