MOREHEAD, Ky.--An industrial technology educator and a sociologist whose research focuses on behavior patterns have been selected by their colleagues as the 1987-88 recipients of Morehead State University's most prestigious awards.

Dennis Karwatka, associate professor of industrial education and technology, received MSU's Distinguished Faculty Award which was established in 1964 by the Alumni Association.

Honored with the Distinguished Researcher Award was Dr. David R. Rudy, professor and chair of the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections. The award, sponsored by MSU's Research and Patent Committee, has been given annually since 1979.

The awards were presented at the University's fourth annual Academic Awards Convocation held May 1 in Button Auditorium which launched a week-long tribute to scholastic achievements campuswide.

A member of MSU's faculty since 1970, Karwatka has distinguished himself as a teacher not only inside the classroom but outside as well, having been involved with youth for more than a decade as a scout leader.

The senior author of two textbooks, Karwatka also designed a series of laboratory procedures for high school students, entitled "Power Mechanics...Experiments for the 70's," under an MSU faculty research grant.

Since 1980, he has written a monthly column for School Shop, a journal read by approximately 70,000 industrial technology teachers and students nationwide. He also contributes technical articles to other publications.

A prolific researcher/writer, Dr. Rudy came to Morehead State in 1980 and was named department chair in 1980. He previously taught at Alfred University and Colorado Women's College.

He has presented more than 30 papers--primarily on various aspects of alcoholism and drug abuse--at professional meetings and is the author of a book, "Becoming Alcoholic: Alcoholics Anonymous and the Reality of Alcoholism," published by Southern Illinois University Press. His research also deals with other areas of identity change and identity change organizations.

A frequent contributor to sociological journals and a reader/reviewer for numerous professional periodicals, Dr. Rudy has been the recipient of several research grants. His most recent grant was for a study entitled, Adult Children of Alcoholics.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Charles H. Morgan Jr., associate professor of psychology, has been named director of the Honors Program at Morehead State University, succeeding Dr. John Kleber, who headed the program for the past 15 years.

"During his tenure as director, Dr. Kleber has worked hard to mold the Honors Program into a strong, viable enrichment experience to challenge outstanding students," said Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, acting vice president for academic affairs.

"We regret that he is stepping down, but are pleased to find such an enthusiastic leader to continue the high standards set by Dr. Kleber and his predecessors," Dr. Taylor noted.

A member of the faculty since 1979, Dr. Morgan has been a consultant to the state Bureau of Rehabilitation Services and is licensed as a clinical psychologist. He also practices and consults with St. Claire Medical Center and the Morehead Clinic.

"John Kleber has done a real yeoman's job in developing the Honors Program and that will make my role a little easier," said Dr. Morgan. "I hope that we can expand the program even more with additional student and faculty involvement as well as by increasing the academic offerings," Dr. Morgan said.

Dr. Morgan, a native of New York, earned his bachelor's degree from Columbia University and his master's degree from the New School for Social Research. He holds the Ph.D. degree in clinical psychology from the University of Florida at Gainesville.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--National Public Radio's newsmagazine Weekend Edition, which airs Saturday mornings at 8 o'clock on WMKY, public radio from Morehead State University, has won two prestigious awards for its news reporting.

NPR reporter John Hockenberry and former Weekend Edition producer Jay Kernis received the 1987 Peabody Award and the 1988 Unity Award in Media for a series they put together entitled "Ryan Martin."

The winning entry focused on the changed life of a 13-year-old boy who was shot in the back and paralyzed from the waist down.

Commenting on the emotion that the series evoked, National Public Radio president Douglas J. Bennet related, "This was compelling, humane reporting in NPR's finest tradition."

WMKY News Director Mistie Cook believes that Weekend Edition is a one of a kind program.

"There are not that many radio news shows around that offer that kind of coverage," Cook commented. "For people who want to know what's going on in the world, Weekend Edition provides a broad coverage of the news and events that shape our lives," she added.

This month Hockenberry began a new full-time assignment as NPR's reporter based in Jerusalem. Kernis is now a producer at CBS.

The Peabody Awards, initiated in 1940, recognize outstanding achievements in radio and television broadcasting, while the Unity Awards recognize contributions to excellence in media that reflect accurate exposure of minorities and disabled persons.

MSU'S AWARDS CONVOCATION: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Describing Sunday, May 1, as a "beautiful day," Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote said the day's beauty was not only reflected in the "countryside but also in our purpose: recognition of academic achievement."

Dr. Grote was speaking to faculty, staff, students and the friends and families who gathered in Button Auditorium for MSU's fourth annual Academic Awards Convocation, launching a week dedicated to recognizing scholastic excellence.

Graduating senior James K. Rowlett of New Bern, N.C., formerly of Worthington, was the convocation speaker. "Learning should be a basic need," the psychology major said.

Noting that the world is changing society's ideas about education, Rowlett, an Honors Program student, told the audience that "application may be needed today, but knowledge and how to use it is needed for tomorrow."

Rowlett has presented several papers at scientific meetings and has had one accepted for the fall meeting of the International Society of Neuroscience to be held in Toronto, Canada. He also was the second place winner last year in the Kentucky Academy of Science's William Griffith Memorial Research Competition which is open to faculty and students.

Following Rowlett's address, Dr. Christopher Gallaher presented the winner of the first A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music competition, Etusyo Tsuchiya, a junior from Japan, who then played on oboe a work by Saint Saens. The Gallaher Award not only carries the honor of performing at the convocation, but also a $1,000 prize.

While recognition of student achievements was the primary focus of the convocation, tributes to excellence on the part of the faculty also were emphasized as recipients of MSU's Distinguished Faculty and Distinguished Researcher Awards were honored.

(MORE)

Dennis Karwatka, associate professor of industrial education and technology, received the faculty award, while Dr. David Rudy, professor and Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections chair, received the Distinguished Researcher medallion.

Calling the occasion a "humbling experience," Karwatka, an 18-year veteran educator in MSU's classrooms, told his colleagues that in "recognizing my minor efforts, we are in fact honoring the efforts of all of you."

Reminding his listeners of the importance to a university of research and researchers, Dr. Rudy noted that the "reason for the university's existence is knowledge production."

Certificates of achievement were awarded to outstanding departmental graduate and undergraduate students, students who had a 4.0 grade point average last semester and graduating seniors in MSU's Honors Program.

- 2----"Students are a reflection of the quality of their institution," James Rowlett, a New Bern, N.C., senior and Honors Program member, who served as convocation speaker, told the audience. Attention: Sports Editors

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will formally dedicate the William J. Mack Diving Well in a public ceremony at 2 p.m. Tuesday, May 17, at the Academic-Athletic Center.

At its last meeting, MSU's Board of Regents approved naming this area of the Russell McClure Pool to honor the former swimming coach who retired in 1979 with 22 years of service on the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation faculty.

The ceremony and the reception which follows are open to the public.

In addition to coaching swimming for nearly 20 years, Mack also served on the University's football and wrestling coaching staffs and had been director of the Doran Student House (University Center).

"It is really most appropriate that we honor Coach Mack in this special way--even more so since he played a major role in the design of this swimming facility which is one of the most functional in the Southeastern United States," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

"An example of sportsmanship for hundreds of students during his coaching years, he brought distinction to the University's sports program," Dr. Grote added.

Mack, who in his competitive years was an accomplished diver, is an alumnus of Morehead State and has maintained a strong interest in the athletics program since retirement.

Among those scheduled to present remarks prior to the unveiling of a plaque marking the site are Dr. Grote, Steve Hamilton, acting athletic director; Dr. Earl Bentley, Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation chair, and Mike Mincey, vice president for student development.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Art works from Morehead State University will be a part of the "Prints of the Midwest" exhibition at the South Australian School of the Arts in Adelaide, Australia.

"Prints of the Midwest," an exhibition of original prints by students and their instructors will be on display May 26 to June 19.

Among the 48 pieces of the exhibit will be the original printmaking works of Robert Franzini, associate professor of art; Brenda Ray, Morehead senior; and MSU graduates Todd Flaming of Morehead; Glenda Hardeman, formerly of Olive Hill; and Sandra Ray of Dillon, S.C., formerly of Morehead.

The works were originally sent to Louisville where they were in competition with the submissions from other institutions in the Midwest, according to Franzini.

"The quality of the work submitted represented MSU very well. Only the strongest student work of recent years was submitted for judging," he said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Nell Mahaney, Morehead State University assistant professor of mathematics, has received the Delta Gamma National Fraternity Cable Award for 1988.

The award goes yearly to approximately 40 persons nationwide to recognize those alumnae who have accorded personal devotion and continued service to the fraternity.

Mahaney was the adviser to the campus group CAPA Tridents when it pledged with the Delta Gamma National Fraternity in 1970. She has participated in the group's activities through the years and served as president of Delta Gamma's House Corporation Board for the past 10 years.

"Being a member of this type of organization is wonderful leadership training," Mahaney said. "After the experience of working with the group, an alumna is ready to accept positions of responsibility in civic organizations, church committees or other commanding roles."

A member of MSU's faculty since 1963, Mahaney is described by her students as having "mother qualities." "We need to provide math skills to all students," she said. "It's a joy to teach when they are interested in learning. We need to teach problem solving techniques and help the students develop their skills in logical reasoning," she added.

Calling math fun, she strives to get her students to a level where it will be fun for them. "If you don't have enthusiasm for it, you don't get the full meaning," she noted.

Dr. Glenn Johnston, Department of Mathematics chair, considers Mahaney an asset to the department. "Nell will spend the extra time to work with students," he said. "She is always very agreeable, conscientious and extremely understanding of the student's position," Dr. Johnston commented.

Mahaney has the same enthusiasm for students as she does for math. Her schedule includes teaching a full load and advising as many as 15 math majors in one semester.

A heart attack last year forced Mahaney to take life a bit easier for a time. "While I was recovering, I had time to think and read," she said. "It was then that I realized that I am not ready to retire." Now almost back to par, she is teaching again, and taking a class in word processing just because she wants to do it.

Mahaney said she has known since the fifth grade that teaching math was what she wanted to do. She credits her father--former math teacher and registrar at MSU, Linus A. Fair--for cultivating her interest in the subject.

"We all need some math ability," she said. "If we can just teach students those skills, then it will be easier for them to get through life."

A Morehead native, Mahaney received a bachelor's degree in math and music in 1950 and a master's degree in 1960 from MSU. She has done graduate work at the Colorado State College of Education and the University of Kentucky.

She has served on the College of Arts and Sciences Promotion and Tenure Committee for the past three years; was an official for the Morehead Regional Math Bowl (1986, 1987, 1988), and the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase (1987, 1988) and an FBLA Competition Judge (1986 and 1987). She served as the faculty representative on the Who's Who Selection Committee for her college and was a member of the Advisory Committee for MSU 101 during 1987.

An active participant in church activities, she also enjoys reading, sewing, crafts and studying family genealogy.

She is married to William R. Mahaney, a member of MSU's Computing Services staff, and the mother of four sons--three are MSU graduates and the youngest is currently a senior.

1988 SPRING COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University awarded its 1,000th music degree and its first Bachelor of Science in Nursing degrees during 1988 Spring Commencement ceremonies held Saturday (May 14) in Ellis T. Johnson Arena.

More than 580 undergraduate and graduate degrees were conferred by MSU President C. Nelson Grote with 482 candidates participating in the ceremony while nearly 6,000 family members and friends watched.

MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn, one of three speakers, framed his remarks around the letters found in the word "teacher" and reminded his listeners that all of us are teachers whether or not we teach in a classroom.

The former governor noted that "T" stood for truth, "E" for enthusiasm in teaching the truth, "A" for advancing the truth with enthusiasm and "C" for caring.

"What would we have here at Morehead State, if we did not have teachers who care enough to advance with enthusiasm the truth?" he asked.

Continuing with his list, he said that "H" was for hearing the inner voices of students and their needs with "E" standing for "evidence of concern for those needs." The last letter, "R", according to Nunn, stood for rejoice--that teachers can rejoice in what they have done.

Calling commencement often a "time of emotional turmoil," student speaker Nina Marie Goecke of Georgetown, Ohio, shared memories which to her proved that Morehead State University "is indeed an institution that offers vast learning experiences."

Noting that at MSU students were more than numbers and professors were "far from unapproachable figures," she paid tribute to her adviser, the late Jessie Mangrum, who urged her to enter the Honors Program.

(MORE)

"MSU will always hold a special place in our heart," said Goecke, who received her B.A. degree in elementary education. "We have come here and we have grown. This university has prepared us for yet the next stage of our lives," she told her classmates.

Dr. Grote, in his remarks, reminded the soon-to-be graduates that everything they did henceforth would reflect on MSU. "You will either add or subtract to our reputation as an academic institution by what you do with your lives," he said, adding that actions of the University also would reflect on their degrees.

"MSU is a proud University; proud of the region it serves, proud of its heritage and proud of its graduates," the president said.

Later at the reception for the new graduates and their families which followed on the lawn of the Academic-Athletic Center, Dr. Grote and Dr. Christopher Gallaher, Department of Music chair, presented a plaque to Melody Ann Hood of Mt. Sterling, who received the B.M.E. degree. She was the department's 1,000th graduate.

Cutlines:

- 1----Platform guests led the crowd of nearly 6,000 people in applause to congratulate MSU's spring graduates. Rising to the occasion were, from left, Nina Goecke, student speaker; Porter Dailey, vice president for administrative and fiscal services; Greg Ramey, student regent who received his B.A. degree; Walter Carr, a member of the Board of Regents; Dr. Alban Wheeler, faculty regent; Gov. Louie B. Nunn, board chairman; Charles Wheeler of Ashland, a member of the Board of Regents, and Dr. Stephen Taylor, acting vice president for academic affairs.
- 2----Signs of the times such as these two were prevalent atop the graduates' mortar boards. Other exuberant graduates paid homage to their parents or used the space to proclaim their greek affiliation.
- 3----Commencement is a special time for all graduates, but for Morehead resident Melissa L. Philley it became even more special with a bit of extra attention from President Grote.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) has announced the appointment of David L. (Dutch) Ishamel as Morehead's representative to the state Small Business Development Centers Advisory Committee, according to Ernest Begley, Morehead's SBDC regional director.

The East Kentucky Small Business Development Center's district office, housed at MSU in the School of Business and Economics with Wilson Grier as district director, covers a 25-county area of Eastern Kentucky. Of these 25 counties, Morehead's regional office covers the following 10 counties: Bath, Bracken, Fleming, Mason, Montgomery, Menifee, Morgan, Robertson, Rowan and Lewis. Ishamel will represent these counties when he meets quarterly with the state SBDC director and other representatives throughout the state at the University of Kentucky's Control Center. He will help review and direct policies of the Kentucky SBDC Program.

Ishamel graduated from Montgomery County High School, Mt. Sterling, and the University of Kentucky with a B.A. degree. He was head football coach at Anderson County High School for five years, manager of office and staff services for the Rural Electric Co-op for 13 years, vice president and co-owner of Crawford Chevrolet in Lawrenceburg for two years, and has just recently moved back to his boyhood home purchasing the Chevrolet-Oldsmobile dealership of Mt. Sterling.

"Because of his small business experience, being active in community activities, his positive support of our small business efforts at MSU, and a very strong willingness to serve this area and the state of Kentucky, we feel he will be a big asset, as our representative, on the Kentucky SBDC Advisory Committee," said Begley.

Ishamel resides in Mt. Sterling with his wife Pam, who is also very active in the business as secretary and treasurer. They have one son, David.

SANDY HOOK, Ky.--The Peoples Bank of Sandy Hook today announced a $20,000 commitment to Elliott County students enrolling at Morehead State University.

B. Proctor Caudill Jr., the bank's vice president and cashier, said the new program would be known as the Jane E. Caudill Scholarship and would provide direct assistance to 10 students each year.

"The Peoples Bank of Sandy Hook is proud to make this major investment in the young people of Elliott County and to enter into a new educational partnership with MSU," said Caudill. "Our purpose, pure and simple, is to help those who are trying to help themselves achieve a better life through higher education."

MSU President C. Nelson Grote said of the four-year pledge:

"The University is pleased to accept this generous gift on behalf of the Elliott County students who will benefit in such meaningful fashion. It is particularly fitting that the program bear the name of such a wonderful lady who has 50 years of personal service to the people of Elliott County."

The program will begin this fall and will be administered totally by MSU, according to Caudill. It will be open to full-time students and be renewable through four years of study if recipients make satisfactory academic progress.

Approximately 40 fifth and sixth graders from Willard Elementary School recently visited Morehead State University's campus as part of the Ashland Oil, Inc., sponsored program, "A Day on Campus." The program is designed to encourage students to begin thinking about a college education at an early age so they will better prepare themselves to attend college. In addition to touring the campus, the youngsters visited various academic departments where they saw exhibits and had an opportunity to talk with students as well as faculty members.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Sheridan Martin of Drift has been elected as the 1988-89 student representative to Morehead State University's Board of Regents.

Martin said that he views this as an opportunity to give something back to the University and the people of Eastern Kentucky for the opportunities he has been presented.

"I want to help in any way I can to further the cause of education in Eastern Kentucky," said the Floyd County native. "I want others to be able to realize their dreams."

Martin, who recently completed a legislative internship with the Kentucky General Assembly, sees finding new revenue alternatives for financial aid and scholarships as a big problem for MSU. "If we are to continue to make the quality of education a priority, it will take the resources of all of us," Martin said.

"As the representative of the students, I want the Board and all of Kentucky to know we are concerned about our future," he said. "It is my goal to voice the concerns and issues of my fellow students while fulfilling a personal obligation to myself," Martin continued.

A graduate of McDowell High School, Martin is the son of Sherman and Jacqueline Martin. A junior government major, he plans to continue his education and make a career of law and public service.

A Dean's List student, he is president of the MSU chapter of the Kentucky Young Democrats and Phi Sigma Alpha political science honor society. He is a member of Blue Key, the Student Alumni Ambassadors and the Executive Committee of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He has served as a student representative to the Student Government Association for three years.

Martin will assume his role as student regent on July 1. The new Student Government Association president, Andy Parker of Fairborn, Ohio, is ineligible to serve on the Board because he is a nonresident of Kentucky.

Timothy Durbin, who also directs the University Symphony and heads the Suzuki program for MSU's Academy of the Arts, directed and performed in the violin portion of the concert which featured some 800 young musicians from the D.C. area who study the Suzuki method in violin, viola and cello. MOREHEAD, Ky.--Radio was part of daily life for the American troops in Vietnam. GI's fighting in the jungles one day would be in their bunkers the next, listening to the American Top 40, or upbeat news from home.

For Memorial Day, WMKY, member supported radio from Morehead State University, will present National Public Radio's "Vietnam: Radio First Termer," the first radio documentary exploring radio in Vietnam during the war. Scott Simon, host of NPR's Weekend Edition on Saturdays, narrates the two-part special which will air at 6:30 p.m. Monday, May 30, and Tuesday, May 31.

Providing rare insights into the sound and use of radio in Vietnam, the documentary incorporates archival recordings released for the first time, descriptions from Vietnam veterans, and interviews with deejays, pilots, journalists, ex-CIA agents, and government spokesmen.

The documentary also includes an interview with former deejay Adrian Cronauer, who is portrayed by actor Robin Williams in the recently-released motion picture "Good Morning Vietnam."

WMKY's program director Susan Westfall said 90.3 FM is broadcasting "Vietnam" to recognize the "importance of the seriousness of Memorial Day." "It's appropriate to broadcast two half-hour specials dealing with Vietnam war issues, in addition to airing two musical specials. There is a very serious side to Memorial Day," Westfall added.

Information on WMKY's programming, or on how to become a WMKY member is available by calling (606) 783-2001.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--For Memorial Day weekend, WMKY, member supported radio from Morehead State University, will present two distinctly different musical programs highlighting two fashions of Texas.

"Willie Nelson's Lone Star Saturday Night" will air Saturday, May 28, at 9 p.m. Country superstar Nelson will head an all-star group of Texas musicians for a 90-minute jam featuring some of Nelson's own materials, some old country music "standards" by performers such as Lefty Frizzel, and a special tribute to country legend Bob Wills.

Musicians who will perform on stage with Nelson include Johnny Gimble on fiddle, Paul Buskirk on mandolin, Freddy Powers on guitar, Dean Reynolds on bass, Buddy Emmons on pedal steel guitar, and Johnny Bush on drums.

Texas will also be represented in a totally different fashion on WMKY on Memorial Day with "The 1988 Texas Jazz Festival." The festival will be broadcast live from El Paso, Texas, Saturday, May 28, at 11 p.m., and May 29 and 30, beginning at 10 p.m.

Some of the world's greatest jazz legends will take the stage for this occasion. Poncho Sanchez and the Count Basie Orchestra with vocalist Diane Schuur will start off the festival on Saturday night. Sunday night's lineup features the rhythms of Paquito de Rivera and contemporary jazz artists the Yellow Jackets. Maynard Ferguson and others will perform Monday night.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Art lovers, mark your calendars for Morehead State University's 12th annual Appalachian Celebration, June 19-25.

The Celebration, MSU's summer festival, coordinated by the Office of Regional Development Services, features traditional music, dance, storytelling, poetry, arts and crafts of Appalachia.

Celebration '88 kicks off with an opening reception, Sunday, June 19, 6:30-8:30 p.m., in the gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building, co-sponsored by MSU's Department of Art and Alumni Association.

The evening includes a special presentation of the first annual "Appalachian Treasure" award. The award was created to recognize unique individuals whose dedication to preserving and promoting Appalachian culture typifies the spirit of the region. The first recipient of the award will be presented a handcrafted rocking chair.

The MSU Folk Art Collection is another highlight for opening reception guests and Celebration-goers to see and enjoy. The Collection, a permanent display that showcases the work being created by today's regional folk artists, features quilts, carvings, pottery, paintings and more, illustrating the inventiveness of Appalachian culture. An art exhibition entitled "Images from the Mountains" includes works by established and emerging Appalachian artists and is on display in the lower level gallery. A biblical quilt exhibit will be featured in the Strider Gallery. Opening reception guests can also enjoy catered hors d'oeuvres with an Appalachian flair and mountain music by the White Horse String Band.

Other Celebration '88 activities presented by MSU's Department of Art are workshops in basket making and watercolor painting, Wednesday-Friday, June 22-24, 1:30-3:30 p.m. at a cost of $10 per day. Celebration Artists-in-Residence will demonstrate weaving and spinning, wood carving, furniture making and more each weekday in front of the art building.

More information regarding Appalachian Celebration art activities or to register for workshops is available by contacting Tom Sternal, Department of Art, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351, (606) 783-2766.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Academic Services Center has received a $264,179 grant from the U.S. Department of Education to fund its Upward Bound Program for the 1988-89 academic year.

Upward Bound, part of MSU's Trio Programs, is an educational enrichment program designed to encourage students to complete high school and prepare them for post-secondary education.

In the program, MSU counselors visit each of the 13 high schools in the 11-county service region on a monthly basis. Additionally, qualified high school students come to the MSU campus once a month during the school year for a special enrichment program. During the summer, the students live on campus for six weeks where they attend basic skills classes and participate in extracurricular activities.

After their senior year in high school, students take part in the "Bridge" program. This allows each participant to take six hours of college level courses during MSU's summer sessions.

Upward Bound at MSU serves Bath, Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Fleming, Lewis, Johnson, Mason, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan Counties.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A Morehead State University jazz duo won the gold medal at the national finals in the electronic jazz combo division of Musicfest, held recently at Stouffer's Resort in Orlando, Fla.

The duo is composed of Chuck Archard, Daytona Beach, Fla., graduate student and Jeff Kazee, Lima, Ohio, junior.

The music festival, which included Downbeat Magazine and Yamaha among the sponsors, featured participants from high schools and colleges across the nation. Competitors were adjudicated by top jazz musicians and/or administrators.

The winners will be featured in Downbeat Magazine, recognized nationally as the last word on jazz by contemporary musicians.

Dr. Christopher Gallaher, Department of Music chair, spoke of the importance of this competition. "Both are fine musicians who are very talented," he said. "This demonstrates that our program is competitive on a national level."

The combo, billed as "Influences" for the competition, was invited to perform after submitting an audition tape. For the appearance, the two performed two jazz standards, "Juicy Lucy" by Horace Silver and "Anthropology" by Charlie Parker; and also two original compositions which they wrote together, "Family" and "They Still Talk."

"The experience was wonderful," said Archard. "There is no way to describe the connections we made," he added.

Archard, the son of David and Patricia Archard, first came to MSU on the advice of his high school band director. After receiving a B.M.E. degree in 1982, he and his band went on the road for a year before he decided to return to graduate school. Majoring in writing music and journalism, he received his M.M.E. degree in mid-May. He plans to return to his home state and teach in the public school system and continue his musical performances on the electric bass.

Kazee hopes to continue his education and attend Musicfest next year. "We just want to play for the love of jazz," he said. "It's American music and we want to push it."

Kazee, the son of Lewis and Lillian Kazee, came to MSU particularly to study with Jay Flippin, associate professor of music. "You have many opportunities to perform while still in school," he said. While he plays the piano for private parties, he also enjoys composing his own music. He is not a newcomer to the performance circuit having worked two summers at Kings Island and one at Cedar Point.

"The toughest part of performing is doing an original work," said Kazee. "When you do that, its your music the audience is being asked to accept."

The duo has only practiced together for six months. While the future of "Influences" is uncertain, additional performances by the two have not been ruled out. Both musicians have been free lancing in the Lexington and Cincinnati areas for some time.

Robert F. Howerton, formerly with the Baptist Medical Centers of Birmingham, Ala., recently assumed responsibility for MSU's private giving efforts, according to a joint announcement by MSU President C. Nelson Grote and Terry S. Jacobs of Cincinnati, Ohio, president of the MSU Foundation.

"All of higher education currently is facing critical budgetary needs and as MSU intensifies its fund raising efforts in the private sector to meet these challenges, we are most fortunate to add an individual with such depth of experience to our advancement team," Dr. Grote said.
