FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Job Training Center is now registering students for its fall classes.

Training programs in five medical aide career areas, scheduled to begin the week of Aug. 15, will include:

*Pharmacy technician. Graduates will be training to assist the pharmacist in the non-professional aspect of filling prescriptions in the hospital, clinic or retail pharmacy.

*Clinical laboratory assistant. Trainees perform laboratory procedures, such as venipuncture and dipstick urinalysis, in hospital or clinic settings.

*Medical aide. The students will be trained in medical terminology, word processing, medical transcription, typing, and medical billing with on-site training at local hospitals and clinics.

*Unit secretary/telemetry aide. This program will train individuals to be monitor watchers and fulfill secretarial duties in the hospital unit.

*Computerized office procedures. Graduates will become knowledgeable in word processing, general office accounting, bookkeeping, filing and interpersonal relations skills.

The programs will run for 18 weeks, with the exception of the pharmacy technician which continues for 20 weeks.

To be eligible, applicants must be 18 years of age, certified by the Kentucky Department for Employment Services and live in Bath, Boyd, Bracken, Fleming, Greenup, Lewis, Montgomery, Mason, Robertson, or Rowan County.

The program, funded by the TENCO Private Industry Council, Cabinet for Human Resources, and the Department for Employment Services, is free to qualified individuals. Mileage and child care expenses are reimbursable.

Additional information is available from the Kentucky Department for Employment Services or MSU's Job Training Center, (606) 783-2370.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Extended Campus Programs has received a $129,463 grant from Kentucky Educational Television to fund its KET's GED on TV program.

The grant provides support services for those students preparing for their high school equivalency examinations, according to Sharon Jackson, program director.

The state-wide project, housed at MSU, has helped approximately 2,500 people earn their GED certificates in its three years of existence.

The GED on TV project provides 43 half-hour programs on KET, pre-tests, workbooks covering the five areas--reading, writing, math, science and social studies--over which the students will be tested, as well as the actual GED test. According to Jackson, a student enrolled in the program receives $150 worth of services for $15.

The grant also will provide Jackson with five full-time employees to interview and screen prospective students for the three programs offered each year. She estimated that 8,000 Kentucky adults called her office for registration information last year.

"This program serves as a supplement to existing GED programs in Kentucky," Jackson said. "Thousands of adults in the state who didn't get a chance to finish high school for whatever reason and can't attend traditional adult education classes find this program invaluable," she added.

Aug. 2, 1988
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Although most patrons of the Stadttheater in Bielefeld, Germany, have neither been to Kentucky nor ever heard of Morehead State University, they are well acquainted with an MSU graduate.

John Pflieger, a native of South Whitley, Ind., is an European opera star with an A.B. degree in music and mathematics from Morehead State.

A 1964 MSU graduate, Pflieger taught math in the Milwaukee, Wis., school systems before a one-year stint teaching voice at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. During his time at UWM, Pflieger entered and won an American Opera audition, earning him a debut in Paris singing the role of Marcello in Puccini's "La Boheme." Following this debut, Pflieger had a performance tour of Germany, the country he has called home since 1972.

Pflieger has performed in most of the major cities in Western Europe and on radio and television in Belgium, Italy and Germany. He estimates that during the course of his career, he has sung approximately 80 roles. Among those Escamillo in "Carmen," the lead in Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Count Almaviva in "The Marriage of Figaro" and Figaro in "The Barber of Seville."

European opera seasons run from September to July unlike the shorter operatic seasons in the United States, Pflieger said. During the past year, he has sung five major roles in almost 80 performances.

According to Pflieger, the main difference in European and American opera is that in Europe, opera is a tradition with theatres dating to the 1600s. Approximately 45 cities in Germany have full-time theatre subsidized by the city or state, he noted. In Bielefeld, a city of 300,000 where he lives and works, Pflieger, along with 400 other theatre professionals, are city employees.

"I am a city employee just like a garbage collector," Pflieger said. "I am paid with a monthly salary, unlike American performers who are paid for each performance," he added.

Pflieger said that in the future he hopes to develop a career in the United States and perhaps tour both the U.S. and Europe, though he believes that he would continue to live across the Atlantic.

Pflieger's recent visit to his home state of Indiana enables him to return to Morehead for the first time since his graduation in 1964.

"I was happy to see the expansion of the University," he said. "I hold a special place in my heart for Morehead State. It was here that I had my first operatic experience," he added.

His first taste of opera was gained in operatic workshops at the University, performing scenes from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" under the direction of James Ross Beane, associate professor of music.

While it is never really possible to tell whether or not a student will become as successful as Pflieger has, Beane said that he realized early in his collegiate career that Pflieger had promise.

"When John was a young student, I thought I heard something in his voice that might develop," Beane said. "Besides his voice, he had a musical background from high school and always strived to be better," he added.

"I'm very proud of the success that he has had and how he is so very down-to-earth despite that success," he said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Mari Dean Wojahn has been named acting director of publications at Morehead State University.

She has assumed the post vacated by John Holley who resigned last month to become sports information director at Norfolk State University.

Wojahn was a marketing consultant for MSU's 1988 Appalachian Celebration. She developed the marketing plan, supervised printing of brochures, prepared the advertising campaign and coordinated various activities for the celebration.

Wojahn served two years as senior account supervisor for Judi Lapin & Associates, a marketing consulting and public relations firm in Newport Beach, Calif., and four years as production coordinator for VPA, Inc. advertising agency, also in Newport Beach.

A magna cum laude graduate of the University of California-Irvine, Wojahn and her husband, Scott, have a daughter, Haley. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. Bill Pierce of Morehead.

SUMMER BAND CAMP: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--If you listened carefully around the campus of Morehead State University recently, it was possible to hear the sounds of trumpets and drums as several high school bands participated in summer band camp. For 74 members of the Adair County High School marching band, MSU was the site where blisters, sweat and tunes came together to form a competition-ready marching, playing machine.

Cutlines:

1----Flag corp member Carla Moss knows that it takes many hours of practice to synchronize flag spins.

2----Tony Grider does the "white-glove" test on his Sousaphone.

3----Sometimes it's difficult to learn the glide step and regular marching, but Leslie Johnson proves that even the marching strut can be perfected.

SUMMER BAND CAMP: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--If you listened carefully around the campus of Morehead State University recently, it was possible to hear the sounds of trumpets and drums as several high school bands participated in summer band camp. For 95 members of the Harrison County High School marching band, MSU was the site where blisters, sweat and tunes came together to form a competition-ready marching, playing machine.

Cutlines:

- 1----Perhaps Charity Richardson's sunglasses may help her jazz up her marching baritone horn.
- 2----Harrison County's percussion section works hard to "drum up" a little enthusiasm from the crowd.
- 3----Andrea Snapp finds the piccolo particularly pleasing to the ear.
- 4----From the looks of this crew, somebody must have yelled "Take five!"
- 5----Donald Jackson knows the omniturf football field is good for something--a place to snooze before the marching begins again.
- 6----Angie Florence literally reflects on the day's activities.

Aug. 5, 1988
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The folk music of the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s moved the people, expressed the nation's spirit, and chronicled the issues of the day. It was the music of Bob Dylan, Phil Ochs, Joan Baez, Woody Guthrie, Peter, Paul & Mary, and many more.

WMKY radio, 90.3 FM, is airing a new series of programs focusing on the popular folk music of that time. The series, entitled "Folk Remembered," airs Saturdays at 4 p.m.

Host and producer Paul Hitchcock said the series recaptures the spirited folk songs of the period. "From the late 1950s to the mid-1970s, the United States faced many adverse issues--the Cuban missile crisis, racial prejudice, the Vietnam war, and Watergate. These events helped touch off America's political and societal unrest," explained Hitchcock. "'Folk Remembered' will preserve the strong feelings of these troubled years," he added.

In the 13-part series of hour-long programs, Hitchcock focuses on various topics dealt with in the popular styles of folk music legends. With an emphasis on folk-related styles, "Folk Remembered" will feature the songs which have touched the lives of everyone.

"There is a very strong interest right now for the music of those years," explained Hitchcock. "Many who either lived through the 'psychedelic 60s' or who have heard of them are eager for information to ensure that their memories continue. I wanted to create a series which remembered the events of this time in American history. I think it's very important not to forget events such as Vietnam, Kent State or Woodstock, which marked a turning point in American music."

2-2-2-2

Scheduled feature artists include Bob Dylan, Pete Seeger and the Weavers, Joan Baez, Harry Chapin, Woody Guthrie, and Arlo Guthrie. Many of the songs are collectible classics from Hitchcock's personal library.

"Folk Remembered" listeners can obtain a detailed listing of music from the series simply by contacting Morehead State University's public radio station, 90.3 FM.

More information on WMKY's programming, or on how to become a WMKY member, is available by calling (606) 783-2001.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy has received a $2,606 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts for a writers-in-residence project.

The grant will enable the University to bring fiction writer Pam Durban and poet Mark Jarman to campus.

The purpose of the writers-in-residence project, according to Dr. Michelle Boisseau, MSU associate professor of English, is to expose Eastern Kentuckians to writers whose perspectives and interests are not solely regional.

"Our past writers-in-residence and visiting readers have in large measure been writers both from and about Appalachia," Dr. Boisseau said. "We realize that such support of regional writing is part of the University's mission. To enhance the Appalachian perspective though, we also need to look more closely at the world beyond," she added.

Each of the writers will conduct a public reading, a question-and-answer session and a book signing at MSU. In addition, the writers will meet with local writers and writing teachers to discuss trends in contemporary writing outside the region and ways to expand regional writing to address more general audiences without losing the sense of place in writing.

The writers will conduct a public reading and discussion with students, teachers and residents in another community in the region. The dates and sites of these meetings will be announced later.

Dr. Boisseau said that the funding from the National Endowment for the Arts for this special program is a very positive sign for the University.

NEA is an independent agency of the federal government, created in 1965 to encourage and assist the nation's cultural resources.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR VET TECH PROGRAM

Students enrolled in Morehead State University's veterinary technology program will have a new instructional aid when the fall semester begins. A Reichert Microstar IV teaching microscope has been purchased which will allow students and their instructor to view slides simultaneously. Becoming familiar with the new equipment are, from left, Barbie Collins, West Portsmouth, Ohio, sophomore; Amy Tucker, Cynthiana sophomore, and Barb Krakoff, veterinary technology instructor. The microscope has the capability of connecting a camera to take photographs of slides being shown, and utilizing a VCR to record and/or project on a television screen. At present, the microscope has two accessory dual viewing heads with a capacity for eight additional heads to be added.

1988 SUMMER COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, speaking at Morehead State University's 1988 Summer Commencement, Saturday, Aug. 6, urged the degree candidates to return to the communities and help in his mission to bring to all Kentuckians the message of education.

"You have the education and the ability, if you will only use it," said Nunn. "It behooves you to set about to eliminate functional illiteracy in the state of Kentucky," he added.

"An undereducated people cannot understand or appreciate the complexities of state and federal government" and therefore "their emotions replace reason," Nunn told the crowd of more than 1,200 attending the ceremony held in Button Auditorium.

"The opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is lost without education," Nunn said. "We have no guarantees of food, clothing, shelter, good health and happiness so we must seize the opportunities that are there through education," he added.

Approximately 320 undergraduate and graduate degrees were conferred by President C. Nelson Grote with more than half of the candidates participating in the ceremonies.

Among those receiving degrees was O. Leonard Press, executive director of the Kentucky Authority for Educational Television since 1963, who received an honorary Doctor of Public Service degree.

Press initiated the plans for the Kentucky Educational Television Network which became the largest state ETV network in the nation when it went on the air in 1968. A former faculty member and broadcasting services supervisor at the University of Kentucky, Press holds the B.S. and M.S. degrees from Boston University. He is a member of the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame.

A former consultant to National Educational Television, National Association of Educational Broadcasters and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, he is a recognized authority in educational television and has led KET to national prominence.

Upon receiving the degree, presented by Dr. Grote and Nunn, Press said it was an honor in more ways than one.

(MORE)

"I have enormous respect for Morehead State University and its illustrious president, Dr. Grote. Governor Nunn holds a special place in my heart because of his role in the inception of KET," Press said. "There are no individuals or institutions from which this degree would mean more," he added.

Student speaker Sharon Gabbard of Hazel Green urged her fellow graduates to "come to terms" with the person inside them.

"We can achieve anything that we set our minds to," Gabbard said, adding, "There is nothing that is greater than to realize your dreams."

Gabbard, the wife of Harvey Gabbard, the principal of Sebastian Middle School in Jackson, began her degree at MSU in 1967. After taking time off to raise her four children, she returned to the University in 1985. Receiving a B.A. degree in paralegal studies, Gabbard has begun graduate work at MSU and hopes to enter law school at UK.

In his remarks to the graduates, Dr. Grote said that now is an exciting new time for MSU, citing increased enrollment. Earlier in the day at a meeting of the University's Board of Regents, Dr. Grote announced that 1988 fall enrollment was projected at more than 7,000 students.

"MSU is poised for a new chapter in its history," the president said.

Dr. Grote challenged the new MSU alumni to continue their goals. "You dreamed a dream and it came true," he said. "Now, it is time for you to dream again," he added.

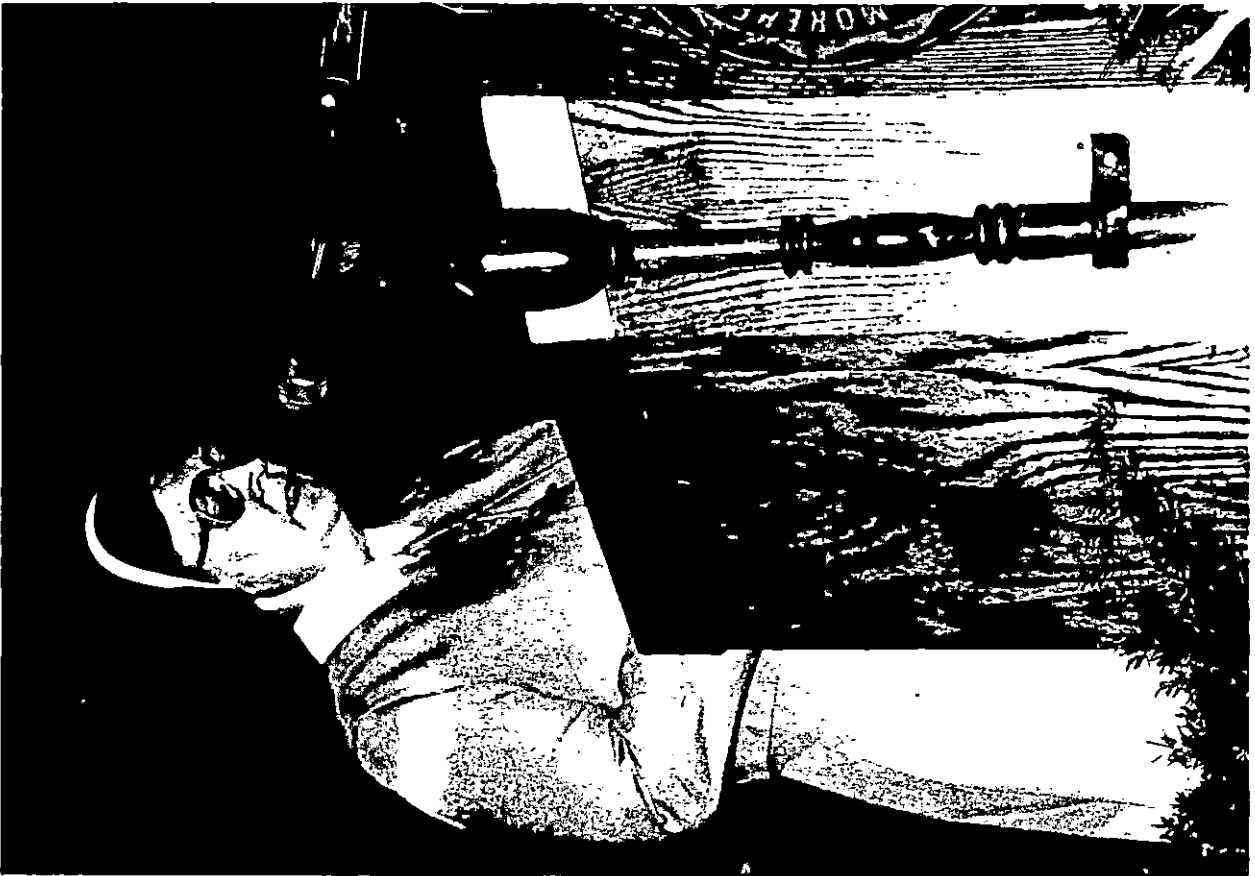

Following the degree presentation, Lisa Browning of Owingsville, president of the Alumni Association, welcomed the newest members of the Association. Afterwards the graduates and their families and friends were guests at a reception hosted by the president and his wife in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--WANTED: Minority teachers.

This is a concern not only for Kentucky, but also for the entire nation as the number of minority teachers--blacks in particular--dwindles while the proportion of black students increases.

Morehead State University, with financial assistance from the state Department of Education and the Council on Higher Education, has entered into an educational partnership with public schools to alter this trend.

Considered by education officials as a model for the nation, MSU's Minority Teacher Education Recruitment Project is aimed at encouraging blacks to become teachers, according to Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean of MSU's College of Professional Studies.

"All of us in higher education must make a concerted effort to recruit blacks into the teaching field or there won't be any minority teachers in our public school classrooms," said Dr. Jones. "Studies show that many of today's college bound blacks are looking at more financially rewarding careers than the teaching profession."

The project also is important to MSU's School of Education in that it helps to fulfill an NCATE requirement to provide more interaction for teacher education students in multi-ethnic and multi-cultural situations.

The project, a cooperative effort of MSU's School of Education and Office of Minority Student Affairs, evolved from discussions between MSU President C. Nelson Grote and Dr. Donald Ingwerson, Jefferson County Public Schools superintendent, about difficulties in locating black teachers for Louisville urban schools.

Recalling efforts employed in Michigan to assist business and industry to meet goals in areas where there was a lack of potential black employees, Dr. Grote wondered if similar approaches could be used to promote interest in teaching careers and challenged MSU administrators to design a program.

After the Lexington Herald-Leader reported Fayette school officials' problems in recruiting black teachers, Supt. Ronald Walton was asked by Dr. Jones if his school system would like to participate and the pilot project was expanded to include Fayette County in addition to Jefferson County. Maysville area school officials also have shown interest in the concept and are exploring participating.

Under the first phase of the project, 32 youths--May 1988 graduates as well as members of the class of 1989--from high schools in these areas were identified by local school officials as interested in exploring teaching as a career.

The students recently spent a week on campus for an orientation to University services, student life and academic programs in addition to three hours of classes daily dealing with basic and personal development skills. Assisting MSU officials in the classroom area were teachers from Jefferson County. Cultural enrichment experiences and side trips to historic areas were also provided.

Many of the participating students who graduated from high school in May are expected to attend MSU this fall.

"While much of the emphasis is placed on the rewards of a teaching career, that is not a mandate for the participants, but we hope that they will consider teaching and returning to the urban schools in their home areas," said Dr. Jim Bowman, associate dean of MSU's School of Education.

"The project really has two goals: encouraging blacks to obtain a college education and then to take that knowledge back to their community as teachers and role models for others," Dr. Bowman said.

"The enthusiasm this project has generated from the public schools and from within our own staff is encouraging," he noted.

Working closely with the project under the supervision of Dr. Derek Whordley, coordinator of MSU's educational services unit, are Linda Lucas, as project director, and Roscoe Linton, co-director. Lucas came to the University from the Baltimore, Md., area schools, and Linton, an MSU alumnus, is a former co-pastor of Caldwell Memorial AME Zion Church in Jeffersonville, Ind.

Once students in the project are on campus their progress will be monitored by the staff and academic support programs will be available. They also will join the staff in recruiting the next class, Dr. Bowman explained. The staff will visit during the year with those seniors who graduate next May and who were here this summer as well as screening the junior classes for new participants.

Project participants who enroll at MSU will receive residence hall grants and MSU's financial aid staff will assist them in determining eligibility for additional aid.

This phase--identification and summer orientation sessions for seniors-to-be and May graduates--will be repeated over the next three years. This spring, however, a second phase of the project will be implemented: identification of seventh graders with college potential and who show an interest in the teaching profession; providing them a summer campus experience, and nurturing them through high school.

3-3-3-3-3

The targeted students, after their summer experience, will be brought back to campus each spring for a weekend to support and maintain their interest in college.

Other components of the project include teacher mentoring and peer mentoring by targeted students working with newly-identified students.

"As with any educational partnership, the project's success will depend on the efforts of all the partners," said Dr. Bowman. "We've been pleased with the cooperation we've received from school officials. I'd like to think that four years from now we will be able to document just how successful our strategies have been--by seeing an increase in the number of black teachers available."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The MSU-Morgan Center has a new look thanks to the artistic talents of Larry Scott Evans II, a Morehead State University sophomore from West Liberty.

Evans, who thought the year-old center needed a lift, volunteered his time and paints to create a wall mural in the main lobby of the center.

What resulted from his three-day endeavor is a tribute to the University, Eastern Kentucky and its people. The painting shows the foothills of the Appalachians with two eagles soaring above them.

Evans, an art student at MSU, said that he chose the eagle not only because the bird is the symbol of Morehead State, but because of its other symbolic qualities.

"Eagles are probably the most symbolic of all birds," he said. "To me, the eagle is a sign of power," he added.

"It represents the people from this center who are now able to soar after coming here to get their GED or to take college classes. I thought an eagle in flight would be an inspiration to the people who study here," Evans said.

Evans is a member of the Foothill Artists, a West Liberty-based theatre group. He was selected as their artist-of-the-month earlier this year. He attended the University of Kentucky as a theatre student for one year before transferring to MSU. In addition, he is a staff cartoonist for the Trail Blazer, the university's collegiate newspaper.

Everyone who has seen the mural has commented on how nice it is, said Jonell Tobin, coordinator of the MSU-Morgan Center.

Although Evans said that he can paint in almost any style, his preference is surrealism. Evans will have an art exhibit of some of his recent works in the lobby of the MSU-Morgan Center from Aug. 22-Sept. 1.

SUMMER BAND CAMP: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--If you listened carefully around the campus of Morehead State University recently, it was possible to hear the sounds of trumpets and drums as several high school bands participated in summer band camp. For 133 members of the Lakota High School marching band, MSU was the site where blisters, sweat and tunes came together to form a competition-ready marching, playing machine.

Cutlines:

MSU'S RECORDS MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Staff members of Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library recently dumped out more than 15.75 cubic feet of records under the third phase of its records management program. The program, coordinated through the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives and the state Records and Archives Commission, has three phases: inventory, appraisal, and destruction or preservation. The records management program is designed to maintain records of importance which can be easily retrieved. Destruction of records must be done in compliance with the commission's Records Retention Schedule and with proper certification. MSU's Library is the first campus unit to complete its Record Destruction Certificates. Implementation of the system campuswide is 83 percent completed.

Aug. 12, 1988
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Registration for the 1988 Fall Semester will take place on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 22-23, on Morehead State University's campus.

The process will run from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with part-time students registering between 5 and 6 p.m. each day.

Undergraduate students who have not pre-registered will need to have a trial schedule card approved by their academic advisers before entering Wetherby Gymnasium where registration will take place. Students will register on an alphabetical system.

Students who have pre-registered will follow the same alphabetical system to pay their fees.

Schedule adjustments for all students will be processed in the student's academic major department, beginning on Wednesday, Aug. 24.

Classes on the MSU campus will begin at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 24. Off-campus and night classes will begin the following Monday, Aug. 29. An off-campus registration information night will be held at the regional campus sites on Monday, Aug. 22, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The MSU campus will open for the fall semester on Saturday, Aug. 20, at 8 a.m. when students begin to move into the residence halls. President and Mrs. C. Nelson Grote will host an informal reception for new students and their parents on Sunday afternoon, 2-4 p.m. on the lawn at Laughlin Health Building. In case of rain, the reception will be held in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

An Ice Cream Social/Street Dance will be held on University Boulevard from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. to allow all students time to get reacquainted or make new friends.

Additional information is available from MSU's Office of the Registrar, (606) 783-2008, for undergraduates, and the Office of Graduate and Special Academic Programs toll-free at 1-800-262-2044 for graduate students.

Totich, a two-time graduate of MSU, will coordinate the provisional studies program for the University in addition to her duties as a general studies adviser. Totich is responsible for aiding the 200 or so academically-poor students MSU enrolls annually in class schedule preparation, as well as supervising study-table sessions and monitoring sessions between students and instructors and tutors.

Totich received her B.S. degree and master's degree in adult and higher education from MSU. A former admissions counselor for the University, Totich also was sales manager for First Million Marketing of Louisville for two years before returning to Morehead State to become a general studies adviser in 1987. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority and adviser to the Fast Breaks Dance Team. She is the daughter of Frances Totich of Morehead.

"I am pleased to work with such dedicated professionals whose top priorities are student welfare and MSU's welfare," said Daniel Connell, director of the center.

Aug. 12, 1988
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University, in cooperation with the Morehead Clinic, will again offer the "Run for your Life" adult fitness program for the fall semester.

The program will be conducted Aug. 22-Dec. 9 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on a Monday, Wednesday and Friday schedule.

Registration is open to adults 21 years and older who pass the mandatory physical examination including a blood lipid analysis. There is a $175 fee for the class for first-time participants and $35 for repeat members. MSU faculty and staff fees also will be discounted.

The purpose of the program, coordinated by Dr. Mike Brown, associate professor of health, physical education and recreation at MSU, is to determine the physical capabilities and limitations of the participants and then to prepare a daily exercise program geared toward a new pattern of living.

According to Dr. Brown, participants will complete a fitness evaluation, including flexibility, strength and endurance in cardio-vascular fitness testing and measuring a person's percentage of body fat.

At the end of the semester, post-testing sessions will be held to determine each participant's progress and future guidelines for fitness.

Registration for the class will take place Aug. 21-26 in Room 159 of the Academic-Athletic Center. Additional information regarding the class or registration may be obtained by calling Dr. Brown at 783-2120.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--To meet the demand for additional literacy tutors in the area, Morehead State University will sponsor a third Laubach Tutor Workshop on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 1 and 2.

The day-long sessions will be held in the Adron Doran University Center with training being provided by Lois Gross, Liz Lyons and Susan Nimershine of the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives.

Based on a phonetic reading system, the workshops will allow those interested in becoming literacy tutors--and those who already are tutors--to increase their skills, according to Shirley Hamilton, coordinator of training in the Office of Extended Campus Programs.

Fifty-three residents of 10 Eastern Kentucky counties completed the last workshop held at MSU in April, Hamilton added.

Upon completion of the sessions, participants in the workshop will be certified Laubach Tutors and will receive continuing education units from MSU.

There is no charge for the workshops and registration is open to anyone interested in teaching someone to read. Registration is open until Aug. 29.

Additional information about the workshops or registration is available from Hamilton at 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Rowan County-Morehead State University Community Education Program is looking for a few good ideas.

Suggestions for classes, activities and instructors are currently being taken from area residents, said Shirley Hamilton, coordinator of training in MSU's Office of Extended Campus Programs.

According to Hamilton, new morning classes will be offered beginning Sept. 26 on a variety of subjects. In the past, classes in aerobics, basketmaking, horseback riding and clogging have been offered. Hamilton said the possibilities are almost limitless for class subjects.

The community education schedule will be distributed in early September, according to Hamilton.

Persons who have an idea for a class or would like to be a class instructor may call Ted Trent or Jenny Cox, Rowan County Schools, at 784-8928 or George Eyster or Hamilton at 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Eunice H. Brown, Lees College registrar, will serve as the local coordinator for Morehead State University's regional campus offerings in the Jackson area.

"Mrs. Brown not only will be the local contact person for prospective students in this region, but also will assist the University in assessing course offering needs specifically for the Jackson area," said Dr. Tony L. Williams, MSU's dean of Graduate and Special Academic Programs.

"Her role as registrar already gives her an overview of some of those needs. We are pleased that she has agreed to assume these additional responsibilities," Dr. Williams added. Area students interested in information on MSU's regional classes may call her office at (606) 666-7521.

A staff member at Lees for 14 years and registrar since 1983, Brown earned her baccalaureate degree from MSU. She is a member of the Southern Association of College Registrars and Admissions Officers and its state affiliate.

The daughter of Major and Mary Hall of Jackson, she and her husband, Dennis, are the parents of two children, Greg and Angie.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Top 40 group Exile will appear in concert at Morehead State University's Academic-Athletic Center on Friday, Sept. 16, at 9 p.m.

Sponsored by MSU's Student Government Association, the performance is being held in conjunction with the Kentucky Harvest and Hardwood Festival and Kentucky Logging Show taking place that same weekend in Morehead.

The group, which got its start working county fairs and private functions, has five albums to its credit. The latest, "Shelter From the Night," is a blend of southern rock, rhythm and blues, and all-American pop and country music.

Exile, formerly a pop group, came on the music scene in the seventies and received national recognition with "Kiss You All Over" which was a multimillion dollar seller. The latest album includes such hits as "I Can't Get Close Enough," and "She's Already Gone."

Providing the warm up for Exile will be Ethel and the Shameless Hussies, an all-female, country-pop group which released its first single earlier this year. Frequently performing on college campuses across the U.S., the group has appeared with Ronnie Milsap, Sawyer Brown, and T. Graham Brown.

Tickets are $2 for MSU students with valid I.D. cards, $5 for faculty and staff and $8 for general admission and are available at DJ Records in Grayson; Video Bank in Mt. Sterling; MSU-Ashland Center; UK Student Center in Lexington; Pee Wee Shop in West Liberty; Martin's Department Store in Vanceburg; Martin's Department Store in Jackson; NAPA in Inez; Gateway Plaza and Clyde's Super Valu in Maysville; and Peoples Store, Movie Warehouse and MSU's Student Government Office in Morehead.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Promoting teaching excellence is the charge of a newly-established faculty standing committee at Morehead State University.

"Teaching is the most important thing we do at MSU," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "It is imperative that we explore every available avenue for focusing attention on quality teaching. Morehead State University has an outstanding faculty, but we should never cease striving to be even better.

"The Committee on Teaching has been asked not only to seek ways to stimulate innovative teaching and keep our faculty abreast of trends in improving teaching effectiveness, but also to help recognize those faculty members who demonstrate excellence in their profession," Dr. Grote said.

While the committee will be looking at new ways to recognize such excellence, it also will assume the responsibility for selecting the University's Distinguished Faculty Award recipient, effective this spring.

The award, created in 1964 by the Alumni Association which has been responsible for selection of the honoree, includes a plaque and medallion. The recipient also serves as the University's grand marshal at major academic events.

"I personally believe that much more needs to be done to recognize the 'Distinguished Faculty' designee," Dr. Grote said, asking that the new committee address this concern.

The committee's composition will include two tenured faculty members from each college to be elected by the Faculty Senate, one student from each college to be appointed by the Student Government Association, the director of the Office of Research, Grants and Contracts and the vice president for academic affairs (non-voting).

OPENING CEREMONIES AT MSU: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--With Morehead State University expecting a dramatic increase in the number of students this semester, President C. Nelson Grote said he believes it's a compliment that so many students want to come to MSU's campus.

Beginning the new school year with the traditional address to faculty and staff members in Button Auditorium on Friday (Aug. 19), Dr. Grote emphasized the importance of the individual student and his needs.

"The maintenance of quality must be continued in and out of the classroom," he said. "We need to get the students involved; help them through the first few weeks."

Asking the group to imagine they were seated in a large living room atmosphere, Dr. Grote recalled some of the significant achievements of the past year. Noting increased enrollment during the past two semesters and the international recognition of some faculty members, he also mentioned the accomplishments of various student groups--Individual Events team, Bowling Team, and cheerleading squad.

Stating that MSU's greatest strength was the friendly, caring attitude of its faculty, staff and students, he quoted from correspondence he had received from visiting high school students, parents and public school officials.

Dr. Grote expressed his appreciation for the image projected by the entire campus community and the efforts put forth that say "We Care."

"Because we care, our relationship with the public schools is at an all-time high, as well as with business and industry in the area," he said. "It's because of this attitude, our theme will be 'We Care!' We care about students; we care about the University; we care about each other."

Dr. Grote encouraged everyone to wear the "We Care!" buttons in the weeks ahead to remind students on campus--those who are adjusting to life away from home--that they are among a group of people who care.

"Our greatest emphasis this year must be quality and integrity," Dr. Grote stated. "We must put forth every effort to insure that our students receive the best education possible."

Dr. Grote announced that 78 percent of last year's enrollment consisted of students from Eastern Kentucky and indicators were that the trend would be similar this year.

"This fact alone emphasizes the impact that MSU will have on the quality of the lives of the students and the economy of our region," he said. "This presents a great University with a great and awesome challenge."

Looking ahead to the year, Dr. Grote discussed the importance of the visit of NCATE and SACS personnel in the coming months. He complimented the various committees and its members for the time spent preparing for the evaluations. He expressed concern for a new look at the total curriculum area and his desire to see it expanded to include an increase in international students and faculty.

Dr. Grote expressed his pleasure that MSU would soon have an office for Institutional Research, Strategic Planning. "Someone said that if you don't know where you're going, any road will get you there," he added. "But at MSU, we don't want to be on just any road, we want to have chosen our path to where we're going in the 21st Century."

Discussing a recent newspaper article where he was quoted as talking "about the marvelous problems at MSU," Dr. Grote said he would use that concept to face the new year. "Because it's with that attitude that the problems we're having-- increased enrollment, shortage of housing, no parking--are a marvelous accomplishment for the University and will help all of us reach our goals and express to everyone that 'We really do Care!'"

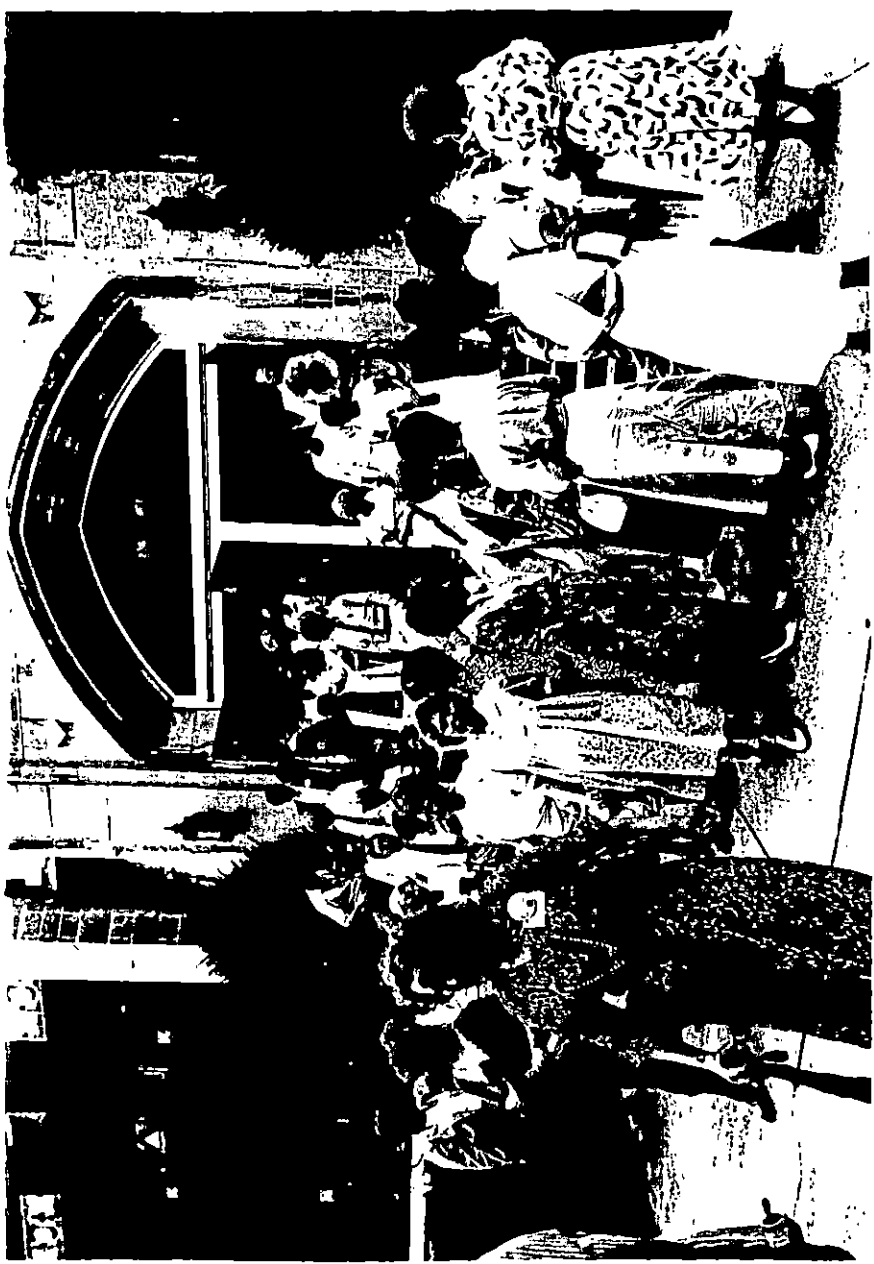

Earlier in the day, faculty and staff members were invited to a continental breakfast hosted by the Camden-Carroll Library staff. The afternoon consisted of meetings on the college, division and department levels with an old fashioned picnic concluding the day's activities.

Cutlines:

- 1----Faculty and staff members attended the traditional assembly in Button Auditorium, signifying the opening of a new school year. For many, this was their first opportunity to share summer experiences.
- 2----The continental breakfast hosted by the Camden-Carroll Library staff provided a comfortable setting for faculty and staff members to make new friends or enjoy a light snack. Partaking of the food, were from left, Dr. Judy Rogers, professor of English and assistant to the vice president for academic affairs; Yvonne Baldwin, Academy of Arts director, and Dr. John Philley, College of Arts and Sciences dean.
- 3----Bonita Lowe, Camden-Carroll Library staff member, gets some assistance with a "We Care!" button from MSU President C. Nelson Grote. Dr. Grote has asked all faculty and staff members to wear the buttons to make students feel more comfortable while they familiarize themselves with the campus.
- 4----It could be said that LaDonna Parsons, sophomore para-legal major from Betsy Layne, is waiting to call her room home. She came prepared for the increased enrollment--she brought her own hide-a-bed.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A variety of art works will be on display at Morehead State University's Department of Art during the month of September.

The "Sculptures and Works on Paper" of nationally-known artist Donald L. Van Horn can be seen in the gallery, Claypool-Young Art Building, now through Sept. 24. The exhibit includes works done in bronze as well as drawings and metal constructions.

Van Horn, an associate professor of art and Department of Art chairman at the University of Texas at Tyler, has exhibited works nationally and many are a part of permanent collections. His realm of expertise includes sculpture and drawings, and he has illustrated one book. He has received numerous grants to complete projects and frequently serves as a juror for art competitions.

Beginning on Sept. 1 and continuing throughout the month, Australia will come to the Strider Gallery, Claypool-Young Art Building, in "Prints from Adelaide." This exchange exhibit includes typical Australian printmaking coupled with landscapes and conceptual concerns of the country in lithography, silk screens and etchings.

The exhibit also will be displayed at Indiana University and Herron School of Art in Indianapolis. The counterpart of this show, "Prints of the Midwest," included works of five MSU students and their instructor and was on display in Australia earlier this year.

Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., weekdays. Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Art, (606) 783-2766.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be the site for the first in a series of public hearings held by the Council on Higher Education to review the funding formula for the state's public universities.

The hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29, in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center, and will be conducted by the CHE's finance committee which is chaired by David Denton of Paducah.

Similar hearings will be held at each of the state's four-year institutions between now and the end of September.

MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn will lead off the University's presentation to the council, followed by President C. Nelson Grote and other administrators. Also expressing their views will be representatives from the faculty and student leaders.

The council also encourages presentations from the general public and written testimony will be accepted at the council's office through Oct. 7. Those interested in presenting testimony at the public hearing will be asked to register upon arrival at the hearing site.

Testimony from the hearing will be used by the council in considering the formula used to make 1990-92 funding recommendations, according to Dr. Gary S. Cox, executive director of the CHE. "It is important that we hear from all parties affected--the campus community and those people higher education serves in the region--as we prepare to address this concern," Dr. Cox said.

"Presentations should address the funding of public higher education in Kentucky generally and not specific budgets," Dr. Cox added.

Formula funding was mandated by the 1982 General Assembly with the CHE responsible not only for devising the formula, but also for periodically reviewing it.

Other hearings are scheduled as follows:

Aug. 30, 9 a.m., Eastern Kentucky University;

Sept. 12, 3 p.m., University of Louisville;

Sept. 19, 2 p.m., Murray State University;

Sept. 20, 9 a.m., Western Kentucky University;

Sept. 29, 2 p.m., Kentucky State University;

Sept. 30, 9 a.m., University of Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals will sponsor a three-day workshop for district health nurses on Sept. 7-9, in the Adron Doran University Center.

Entitled Pediatric Assessment I, the workshop will focus on the nursing evaluation of respiratory and cardiovascular functions of toddler and preschool aged children.

Debra Lynch, pediatric nurse practitioner at Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, and Kimberly Nealis, registered nurse with the Gateway Health District, will serve as the program instructors.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. and the cost is $90, which includes handout materials and refreshments. All participants are encouraged to wear clothing suitable for laboratory practice.

Additional workshops scheduled for the MSU campus for the remainder of the year include:

Sept. 20, Nurse Satisfiers: Conditions for Recruitment and Retention

Sept. 27, AIDS: Impact on Health Care Workers

Sept. 29, Utilization of Special Blood Products

Oct. 5, Clinical Aspects of Pediatric Emergencies

Oct. 7, Quality Assurance for Long Term Facilities

Oct. 11, Documenting the Nursing Process

Oct. 27, Community Service and the Elderly

Oct. 28, Holistic Nursing Care in Appalachia

Nov. 3-4, Cardiac Care Emergencies

Nov. 11, Clinical Instruction and Evaluation: A Practical Approach

Nov. 17, Patient Nutrition and Nursing Care

Nov. 18, Adolescent Parenting

Dec. 2, The Greying of America: Nursing Challenge for 1990's

Additionally, the Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences will sponsor a respiratory nursing workshop at various locations in MSU's service region.

One-day sessions in this special program are scheduled for Sept. 14, Quality Inn in Ashland; Sept. 22, Breathitt County Library in Jackson, and Sept. 23, Hazard Medical Center ARH.

Participants attending any of the workshops will receive continuing education units from MSU. Nurses will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

RE: Audio tape news features from MSU

During football and basketball season last year, MSU's Office of Media Relations produced weekly radio news features for airing at game half-time over the Eagle Sports Network. The tapes also were offered to stations in our service area for airing at will and several stations took advantage of this free service.

We plan to produce these timely pieces again this year. The features will run approximately 2½ minutes and will deal with a variety of campus topics and personalities as well as special events.

If you would like to receive these features, please call the Office at 606-783-2030. (Stations who participated last year will automatically receive the tapes.) The first feature will be distributed Sept. 2.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Academy of Arts is now registering students for the fall semester which begins Sept. 12.

The schedule of classes includes:

*Suzuki violin with Terry Durbin and Suzuki piano with Vivian Flint. Weekly sessions are scheduled with private and group instruction. Cost is based on the level of participation.

*Instrumental and vocal. Three levels of instruction are offered in most categories with cost based on the level of instruction. The 12 weeks of classes include weekly, half-hour sessions with times to be arranged with the instructor.

*Dance. From creative movement to private instruction for advanced students, placement is based on the student's age and level of experience. Ballet will be taught by Carola Sprague with classes meeting twice weekly for 12 weeks. Instruction for creative movement will be provided by Se Layne and Tammy Lee will teach modern dance.

*Art experiences, with Brenda Ray. Students, ages 7-11, will be exposed to a variety of materials and techniques. Classes will meet from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. on Wednesdays for eight weeks. The cost is $50 for instruction and $15 for materials.

*Landscape painting in oils, with Christine Barker. Realism in depicting nature will be emphasized in the five weeks of instruction. Classes will meet from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturdays. The cost is $125 and materials are extra. The date for the class will be announced later.

*Still life painting in oils, with Yvonne Baldwin. Emphasis will be placed on value control and color harmony. The cost is $100 and materials are extra. The Saturday classes will run from 9 a.m. to noon, during the month of March.

Students may also register now for the 1989 Summer Arts Day Camp, July 24-28. Class sizes are limited for the Camp, with sessions running from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday-Friday. A $20 deposit is required when registering.

The Academy of Arts, a non-degree granting community school of the arts, is designed to provide sequential arts training to pre-school and school age children, young people, and adults of all ages and levels of ability. A member of the National Guild of Community Schools, the Academy is a non-profit education institution.

The Academy office, located at 206 Rader Hall, is open Monday thru Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Additional information and registration procedures also are available by calling (606) 783-2659.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --Helping Morehead State University students find jobs where they can receive pay, earn college credit and obtain job experience is the goal of Leslie McPeck Buck.

Since coming to MSU a few weeks ago as the cooperative education job developer, Buck has been busy familiarizing herself with the campus and the job market in the area.

"Cooperative education can assist students in almost any major and the job experience will help in future job searches," said Buck. "The on-the-job training allows students to utilize what they have learned in the classroom."

The amount of pay a student earns while participating in cooperative education is determined by the employer and MSU faculty members are responsible for grading and evaluating a student's performance, according to Buck.

Companies participating in MSU's 1988 summer co-op program included: IBM in Lexington; Quality Manufacturing in Winchester; Mazak in Florence; Ashland Petroleum in Ashland; A. O. Smith in Mt. Sterling; Browning Manufacturing in Maysville and others throughout Northeastern Kentucky.

Employers or students interested in participating in MSU's Cooperative Education Program may contact Buck at 321 Allie Young Hall or by calling the Career Planning and Placement Office, (606) 783-2233.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Kentucky Historical Tours (HIS 544), taught for more than a decade by the late George T. Young, will be offered again this fall by Morehead State University.

Led this semester by Appalachian scholar and author Stuart S. Sprague, the class begins on Saturday, Sept. 10, with subsequent meetings on Oct. 1, Oct. 8, Oct. 22 and Nov. 12.

Described as a "classroom on wheels," the course features bus trips to historical landmarks across the commonwealth.

Highlights will include visits to Shakertown, Perryville, Frankfort, Henry Clay's home, White Hall and Maysville, according to Dr. Sprague.

A noted genealogist, Dr. Sprague is the author of eight books including "Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History." A graduate of Yale University, the Kentucky historian has been on MSU's faculty since 1968.

Additional information is available by calling Dr. Sprague at (606) 784-7416.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Mark Twain is alive and returning to Morehead State University.

Ken Richters, with his one-man show, "Mark Twain on Tour," will appear in Button Auditorium on Friday, Sept. 9, during Parents Weekend.

Richters, who performed on MSU's campus last fall, will take the stage at 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the performance is free and open to the public.

In his early thirties, Richters devotes nearly three hours in makeup application to transfer into the elderly Twain. Having spent more than two years in preparation and research, he assumes the personality and mannerisms of Twain, complete with white linen suit, cigar and caustic wit.

The production, which begins its yearly National Tour in Los Angeles in early September, has been presented more than 700 times in the past 10 years. Richters has performed on television and in films, recently having completed a performance tour in Europe and a series of programs for the BBC-TV in England.

His recent credits include "The Dawn of Summer," "The Peacemaker and God's Fool," "Search for Tomorrow," and "Johnny We Hardly Knew Ye." He has appeared as Mark Twain for AT&T, on the Public Broadcasting System, and before members of the U.S. Congress. He is currently recording some of Twain's short stories on cassette tapes.

Additional information or details of other Parents Weekend activities are available from MSU's Office of Student Activities, (606) 783-2071.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Daniel A. Anderson has been named director of University Counseling and Health Services at Morehead State University.

"As an acting director for the past year, Dr. Anderson consistently demonstrated his administrative abilities, while showing a deep concern for the welfare of the students," said MSU's Vice President for Student Life Mike Mincey. "We are pleased to offer him the opportunity to continue directing this vital student service area."

Formerly a clinical psychologist with the University's student counseling program, Dr. Anderson came to MSU in 1984.

He earned his doctorate from Texas Tech University and holds a B.S. degree from the University of North Dakota. A published researcher, he currently is investigating the psycho-physiological aspects of primary dysmenorrhea.

Also joining the University Counseling and Health Services staff recently was Janet L. Belcher as staff psychologist.

A native of Letcher County, she earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from Morehead State. The daughter of Alfred and Margaret Belcher of Dorton, she is a member of the American Psychological Association and Psi Chi psychology honor society.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will roll out the red carpet for families of its students as the campus observes Parents Weekend '88, Sept. 9-11.

"This annual event is designed with parents in mind and offers the University the opportunity to host these very important people," said Susette Redwine, coordinator of University Center programs and special events.

On Friday, Sept. 9, a highlight of the evening will be "Mark Twain on Tour" with Ken Richters. Beginning at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium, Richters will "shuffle" across the stage in full makeup and dress, looking much the same as the 70-year-old Twain. Donations will be taken at the door to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund.

The annual meeting of the MSU Parents Association will be held at 10 a.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center, on Saturday, Sept. 10. This activity provides the opportunity for parents to ask questions and voice concerns as they meet with other parents. New officers for the Parents Association will be elected and installed.

Saturday afternoon offers a variety of adventures, depending on one's preference, according to Redwine. A golf tournament at the MSU Golf Course begins at noon, as well as an alumni baseball game at Allen Field. The MSU Equestrian Team will provide a riding demonstration at 1:30 p.m. at Richardson Arena on the University Farm.

An all-you-can-eat Fish Fry will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. on the lawn of Fields Hall. Tickets are $4 per person, payable at the event.

(MORE)

The day's activities will conclude with a football game as the MSU Eagles take on the Western Kentucky University Hilltoppers at 7 p.m. in Jayne Stadium. Students may purchase tickets for their family members at half-price rates if purchases are made prior to Sept. 9.

A boat ride on Cave Run Lake will round out the weekend on Sunday, Sept. 11. Space is limited and reservations will need to be made in advance. The 90-minute tour will begin at 2 p.m.

Student organizations and residence halls are sponsoring special activities throughout the weekend, Redwine noted. "Some groups will be hosting receptions and a competition between residence halls will yield an award to the one registering the largest percentage of parents," Redwine said.

Additional information and reservations are available from Redwine at the Office of Student Activities, (606) 783-2071.

MEMORANDUM

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY 40351

TO: Vice Presidents
Deans
Department Chairs
Directors

FROM: Judith Yancy
Director/Media Relations

DATE: August 31, 1988

RE: Radio Features

As you know during football and basketball season, the Office of Media Relations produces 2:30 minute radio tapes which air not only at half time over the Eagle Sports Network, but also are distributed to about a dozen Eastern Kentucky radio stations to use as news features.

We are looking for ideas on people or programs that may be of interest to the general public. With sufficient planning we can even promote an upcoming event; however, we really prefer undated material that can be repeated later in the season.

To give you an example, last year we highlighted MSU 101, the Morgan Center, the Forest Products Industry Task Force, the Honors Program, MSU Theatre, Student Counseling, Folk Art Collection, Sheep Project, SBDC, the Green philanthropic efforts, Academy of Arts and the Percussion Program. That's just a short list as we produced more than 30.

Do you know of someone who has special expertise in a specific area, maybe even unrelated to his academic field? Is there somebody in your department who could discuss the best way to interest a child in reading or science or how to make math fun? Do we have a special program that might be a little different than anyone else's?

Just send me a brief description of your radio feature idea and the name of the resource person for it. I don't promise to use every one we get, but if I know about it the chances are better.

Just one warning, in 2:30 minutes it is not possible to adequately cover nuclear physics! Thanks for your help.
