FISH AND GAME ASK SHERIFF TO STOP DYNAMITING AND GIGGING FOR FISH IN ROWAN COUNTY

Hold Regular Meeting On Monday Night Of This Week.

The Licking Valley Fish and Game Protective Association met last night in the City Hall with a very large attendance. Dr. W. J. Collins spoke on the preservation of game, in which talk he brought some very interesting ideas. All forms of animal and insect life remain constant in supply, according to Dr. Welter, because any increase is offset by the natural agency of destruction. "For instance," said he, "bull frogs multiply until they would become a plague, if it were not for the fact that the natural agencies of destruction interested in bull frogs keep their supply limited so that only a few of the many frogs produced mature. The same is true, he said, with regard to fish and birds. Of these two, as well as some other man is an unnatural agency of destruction, and must hold in check his taking of game until the supply is adequate." Dr. Welter stated that there was no need to talk about restocking game and fish until we have effected some cure for the illegal taking of game.

In the general discussion that followed, it seemed that during this present period of closed season on fishing it was known that there is much illegal fishing going on. Members of the Club indicated their knowledge of such and sentiment against this practice ran high. To aid in curbing fishing the following resolution was unanimously adopted and directed to be forwarded to Sheriff Mort May:

From: Licking Valley Fish and Game Protective Association, Morehead, Kentucky.

Whereas it is the purpose of the Licking Valley Fish and Game Protective Association to do all that it can to protect the wild life of Rowan County and

Whereas fishing of all kinds is prohibited by law in any of the streams of the state during the month of May and

Whereas gigning, seining, dynamiting and shooting fish are always illegal

It is resolved that the Sheriff of Rowan County and his deputies be respectfully asked to use all the power to see that all of the laws pertaining to fishing be rigidly enforced.

ROWAN COUNTY NEWS SPECIAL EDITION SETS NEW MARK IN MANY WAYS

The special Inaugural edition of the Rowan County News, is out. And since it is gone, it might be of interest to our readers to know just what an edition of that size and sort means in extra cost and labor.

Forty-four pages of home print in a shop that has five working men is an small undertaking, especially when it is remembered that the regular work of the shop went on as usual and all the extra work had to be crowded into spare time. It was a special edition. Actually five thousand copies of the forty-four pages were printed. That means that forty thousand sheets of paper were used, as one thousand sheets of paper weigh one hundred pounds, it is evident that over two tons of paper were used in the edition. Two or three thousand times the old press turned over to make the impression for the special. Each

Flemers Win In Rally As Morehead Weakens In Ninth; Have Game Sunday

Scoring eleven runs in the ninth inning Flemingsburg overcame a 6-0 lead held by Morehead and defeated the Pirates by a 7-6 score. The eleven runs were scored on four hits and many errors by the agitated Moreheadians.

Keatley, who started the game for Flemingsburg, was forced to leave the game in the seventh inning when Morehead tallied four runs. Lou Gavin who replaced him, received credit for the victory. Woodson Dale pitched nice ball for the locals but was wild at times and his team mates made miscues in the crucial moments of the game. When the Flemers started their rally in the ninth, the Pirates blew up completely and committed nine errors. David Leslie replaced Dale on the mound in the ninth but the latter was given credit for the defeat.

Flemingsburg opened the scoring in the second inning on two singles and a sacrifice. Both teams made one in the third and the Flemers held their lead until the sixth when four by Ison gave the Pirates three bases on balls, an error, and a triple marker. Morehead made two runs in the eighth to conclude their marker in the eight, Vinson tripling and scoring on Carter's single and Dave Leslie tallying on a home run.

The Flemers got eleven runs in the ninth, with a triple and a home run. The game will start at 2:30 p. m. Central Standard Time.

Many Farmers Sign For New Projects

One hundred and fifty three farmers had signed worksheets covering their farms so that they may participate in the Agricultural Conservation Program. This number had filed worksheets at the County Agent's office by closing hours May 5th. The worksheet is the only form necessary to file at the present time. It is, briefly, an outline of 1935 operation of the farm and provides a standard by which future operations may be measured. The program is an effort to encourage farmers to plant fewer acres of soil d planting crops and to increase their acreages of soil conserving crops. Group 1, payments are due for this shift from depleting crops to conserving crops. Group 2 payments are paid for carrying out certain approved farm practices. These payments are sufficient to pay for about 75 per cent of the cash outlay for improving soil.

A goal has been placed for final sign-up of worksheets at 800 farms in Rowan County. This number of farms should be reached within the next few weeks. A final date has not been placed but farmers are urged to file their worksheets at once so that they may make their plans for 1936 operations in order to gain the greatest benefit possible from the program.

The County Agent's office is filing worksheets as rapidly as possible. A temporary committee has been appointed to handle applicants for filing worksheets as rapidly as possible.

OUR SPECIAL EDITION

The Rowan County News is again only four pages. As a matter of fact the management feels that they are entitled to a brief rest after the effort of last week, which was undoubtedly the largest issue of any paper that has ever been issued in Morehead or Rowan county.

The News is proud of last week's issue of forty-four pages of home print, together with a twelve page rotogravure section. Apparently the citizens of the community were also proud of the paper, judging from the many requests for extra copies. Never before has this office been so swamped with congratulatory messages, delivered in person and by telephone All day Friday and Saturday the telephone was busy answering calls from subscribers, complimenting the management of the News on the special inaugural issue of the News.

To repeat these compliments would have the appearance of boasting, a thing which we do not do.

The News realizes that without the close and complete cooperation of the business men of the community the special edition could not have been the success it was. We realize that the assistance of various members of the college faculty and administrative force it would have been more or less of a failure. Without the fine spirit of cooperation betrayed by President Babb, we could not have printed the picture of the community life of Morehead in the manner in which we did.

Let it be said that the entire purpose of the edition was to give our readers and friends in neighboring communities a glimpse of the life, the present, the past, and a vision of the future of this college and this community. Re-reading the work of last week, we believe that we accomplished that object more nearly than it has ever been done in the past.

That the business men as well as the subscribers were pleased with our efforts is evidenced by the number of congratulatory messages we have received from those who made the edition possible. Practically every advertiser in the edition has expressed his pleasure with the Special Inaugural Edition of the Rowan County News. We the management and the force wish to extend our thanks to all those who have so expressed themselves, as they have made us feel that our labor has not been in vain and that we have been fully justified in the extra work and time that we have expended.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazee, Pastor of Baptist Church.

Rev. B. H. Kazee,

SUBJECT: Effectual Prayer, Luke 18:1-14.
GOLDEN TEXT: "God be merciful to me a sinner." Luke 18:13.
Space forbids our full treatment of this lesson. Read the text and then follow our ideas.

We have here the contrast in prayer: one the prayer of the Pharisee, and the other the prayer of the publican. The publican was to the pharisee what we would call "low down humanity," poor, sinful, irreligious. We must not believe the frequent comments that the Pharisee as represented here is a vicious, hypocritical, subtle sinner, wearing only a cloak of righteousness. While that was often true, Jesus did not mean to present such a character here. He is a man of fine qualities. To bring out the truth Jesus wished to present here He must use a character that is fine.

So, the Pharisee is a man who is not an extortioner, not unjust, not an adulterer, fasts twice a week—he is, his appetite is controlled—he gives tithes of all that he possesses (a good thing for any Christian to do). Now, putting all these together, we have a splendid character. He is not a Judas, but a genuine character with high attainments. There is but one thing wrong, and that is what Jesus wants to bring out in this parable. And that fine character is spoiled, not by what is present, but by what is lacking, as is the character of so many. And what is wanting? THE SENSE OF NEED! Our Lord does not condemn his possessions, but his satisfaction in them. "Here is the fatal flaw, the deadly rot among the fruit; there is no maturity to come; life has reached its culmination; he wants nothing, he has no sense of need, and aspiration is dead.

In contrast, the publican, with all the lack in his character, has this one redeeming quality, The Sense of Need. When that is absent, nothing can be done for any man, no matter how fine a character he is; when it is present, anything may be done for any man, no matter how low down he is.
This was a real petition, a direct personal prayer. He did not speak of his neighbors but of himself. To get out of us, our, and us, into I, MY, and ME, is a great step toward Heaven. There was humility in this prayer, which put self in its place. He confessed plainly that he was a sinner, and the recognition of this great fact is the beginning of redemption working in us. Until we see this we can never become better. Mercy was the chief thing desired, and mercy is the hope of humanity. We cannot put our goodness up to righteous God and expect Him to honor it. He has already declared it to be "as filthy rags in His sight." God recognizes only the righteousness of His Son in our stead, and that is the righteousness of mercy.

The prayer of the publican was

... and a contrite heart poured out before God, uttering a deep sense of need. All the world knows that Jesus here gave the right answer to the self-righteous man.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO END DRIVE MOTHERS DAY

Sunday will be an unusually important and big day at the First Christian Church, Mother's day will be observed: the eleven weeks campaign will close with its final report; a picture will be taken of the assembly Sunday morning; and at night two one act plays will be given.

Mother's day services will open at 9:45 A. M. with the Bible School hour. A service will follow especially honoring mothers. During the morning service a picture will be taken of the assemblage. Every member of the church is urged to be present for this important souvenir picture. All friends of the church are heartily invited to be present and appear in this picture.

During the morning service the five division leaders will make their final report for the campaign. Every one is given the opportunity to make a memorial Mother's Day special offering which will be credited to the division to which the donor belongs. This, however, is a free-will gift as any one may like.

By unanimous and popular request the two one act plays that the young people gave at the gymnasium of the Consolidated School last Monday night will be repeated Sunday night in the church. No admission will be charged but a silver offering will be taken. The general public is invited to come and enjoy these plays. The song and music service will begin at 7:30 and the plays will start at 8:00 P. M.

A special Gospel invitation will be given at the morning service, and it is expected that several will respond in this annual Mother's Day service.

BRECK WINS

The other singing groups also gave good accounts of themselves. Listed as "Good" were the Junior High School Girls Glee Club, directed by Keith F. Davis, and the Senior High School Mixed Chorus and Girls Glee Club, directed by Lewis H. Horton. While the Senior High School Boys Glee Club did not place it is the determination of the boys to stage a strong "come-back" next year.

It will be remembered that Breckbridge received honors also in the instrumental contests held last February when Billie Black was named the only "Superior" in bass horn. Marion Louise Oppenheimer was "Excellent" in cello and the string quartet, consisting of Frances Peratt, Pauline Butcher, Cherry Falls and Marian Louise Oppenheimer were pronounced "Good."

WIFE VS. SECRETARY

CHAPTER TWO

The bedroom door swung open and Van walked in. He caught Linda in a light embrace. "Gwendolyn," he said solemnly, "if I went for the wife I love..."

His voice was soft. "Some day I'm going to put us in the same wheel chair, and whenever my luggage isn't bothering me, say, you look out."

Whitey sat beside Finney in the Sanford car, for Linda had graciously insisted that the chauffeur drive her home.

The car came to a stop and she climbed out. She was about to mount the steps of her house when she noticed Davis's roadster at the curb. He was curled up on the front seat, fast asleep.

Opening the car door, she stepped in and gently awakened him. He drew her hand into his and relaxed languidly against the back of the seat.

Then, as Whitey apologized for not meeting him and breathlessly described Linda's party, he listened to her in attentive silence.

Neither reproach nor envy was in his face—only the honest love he had for Whitey shone in his eyes.

Suddenly she noticed the small envelope he was fingering.

"That," he grinned, "was the surprise." There had been no time to tell her when she had hurried on to the Sanford's.

Her mouth rounded into a pink oval. "Seventy-five dollars a week! A twenty-dollar raise! O, Dave, how wonderful!"

"Honey," he said in weighted tones, "tomorrow you better hand in your two week's notice."

She swallowed hard. "We could have a servant Dave, I wouldn't have to give up my job."

His face clouded. "We've gone over that." There was an uncomfortable pause. "It's not like being married. It's..."

Whitey clasped his hand with desperate sympathy. "Darling, we'll work it out." Then she offered her lips to him and their kiss was long and fervent.

The next afternoon Van's car was gliding smoothly through the gateway of the underwood estate and into the beautifully landscaped grounds.

Whitey snapped down the cover of his dictation notebook and as Van hopped out of the car she laid up two fingers, crossed for luck. "Watch him in the clinches."

He returned the gesture grimly. "Anything goes." (Continued Next Week)

"These Three" Is College Feature

College Theatre brings to the screen Friday "THESE THREE" with such outstanding stars as Marie Oberon, Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea.

Karen Wright and Martha Dobn graduates from college together and set out to find an old house Karen owns in Connecticut which they plan to convert into a school.

With the help of Joe Cardin, a young doctor practicing at the local hospital, they effect an amazing transformation in the dilapidated old mansion.

Mrs. Tilford, a pillar of the local community, sends her grand daughter Mary as their first pupil and recommends the school to all her friends. Fourteen young girls are enrolled when Mrs. Lily Mortar, Martha's silly, sporting aunt sweeps in and insists upon establishing herself as elocution instructor.

Karen and Joe fall in love and plan to be married. Martha conceals her love for Joe.

One night Joe calls on Karen, and finds her absent. Martha is painting furniture in her room and invites him to help her. Exhausted after a trying day at the hospital, he falls asleep on the couch. Mrs. Mortar sees him there, and of course misconstrues his presence.

Gross, Union; Dr. Rex L. Hoke, Chicago; Dean W. C. Jones, Dr. W. J. Moore, Eastern; Dean Finley C. Grise, Western; President John P. McConnell, State Teachers, East Bedford Va.; Dean J. W. A free movie in the College theatre and an inaugural ball in the Collegiumnasium in the evening, closed the day's festivities. Earl King Senff and his King's Jesters orchestra furnished music for the ball and it was sponsored by the Campus Club.

Simply ask your druggist for an original treasure bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed. Write for a generous sample write International Laboratories Inc., Dept. AMZ, Rochester, N. Y.
