THE PRESIDENT HELPS US OUT

President Roosevelt's spending-lending program presented to Congress last week is heartily endorsed as a whole by most citizens of Kentucky. Although it is complex as well as gigantic, it is compounded of several constructive proposals to assist business.

The program falls into three categories. One group involves lending operations to business and municipalities. Another group calls for changes of policies, with the objective of freeing banks and business corporations for the expansion of credit and production.

The Morehead Independent makes no attempt to survey the various proposals individually, but it can be said in general terms that the lending operation has much merit and is not a serious threat to the nation's credit.

One suggestion the President has made deserves particular mention—the proposal to simplify the procedure of the Security Exchange Commission to facilitate security issues by all business and particularly smaller firms.

THE BUSY FARMER Our main and most essential industry is agriculture. City people are so busy about their various tasks that they do not often think of that. But were it not for the farmer they would starve.

NO PENALTY FOR PILOTS A valiant effort has been made by America's airlines to repair the damage done by last winter's accidents by several tragic incidents of last winter, especially in the western mountain area.

AN END IN VIEW FOR MEGALOPOLITANISM

City planners meeting in Chicago have predicted that the skyscraper's supremacy in metropolitan architecture is a thing of the past. H. G. Wells' megalopolis of fantastically tall buildings and scaffolding of aerial roads may prove only a colorful prospect for skyscraper and riveters and pie-piecers get busy and refute these planners.

That is a consummation devoutly to be wished, but from the first floor of a downtown New York skyscraper there is a lovely view of the yard—New York's own thundering, river-thrashed, sea-girt, canyon-grooved yard, all tumbled and tossed in its bloody, wonderful disorder.

A DEMOCRATIC FRONT

As the world watches the back-to-the-wall stand of the Spanish Loyalists, the death in any of the fascist General Franco's forces must lie? We believe there is no doubt.

With all these Old World capitals eagerly or reluctantly accepting—but in any case accepting—evidence of the international character of the Spanish war, Washington embargoes arms shipments to Spain under a provision of the American neutrality laws which prohibits such shipments to countries engaged in civil war.

A WHOLE LOT OF "BAD MONEY"

It is disturbing to learn that last year the banks and circulation of the United States picked up about $500,000,000 worth of "bad money." There has been less of it lately and the $21,773 withdrawn from circulation in February was the lowest monthly amount since January, 1932.

Efforts of the Secret Service to break up counterfeiters are to be intensified. First in New York City being areas all over the country there are to be "schools" for merchants and others who handle much currency. More important, perhaps, will be instruction in what to do when a bill is discovered. Every piece of counterfeit that is promptly reported to the proper authorities is a clue to its source.

IN TUNE AND OUT

No wit can be told: Those long-haired symphony tooter, sawyer all and bangers—even as you and I—don't play in tune. One of nature's science's latest inventions is a device which enables you to determine when you twang, bow or blow, whether you are making music or just a noise. It's called a chromatone stroboscope and was shown to the Music Educators National Conference in St. Louis recently.

THE FARMER'S SALVATION

"If there ever was a time when farmers needed to stick to the organization which they have, and to support and stand by their own tried and true leaders," it is right now in the year of 1938. The farmer's only safe and sure protection is found in his own well established organization.—The Dairy-men's League News.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON... CAPITOL COMMENTS...

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-10. GOLDEN TEXT— This is my beloved Son: hear Him.—Mark 9:7. "I am Jesus"—Mark 9:7.—With Jesus on a Mountain-top.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Worship Prepares Us for Service

Where there is no vision the people shall perish.—Prov. 29:18. For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His will, and a God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service.

But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily mission to the needs of their fellow men. And there will be songs of salvation.

I KNOW CHRISTIAN TRUTH

Christianity is not a mere religious life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. The Christian is one who knows little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into the Christian life with a meagre knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible.

THE SPIRITUAL POWER

One experience of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They are not reserved for outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul, but they come to the surface when the heart is turned to God.

THU'S SERVING HUMANITY

Dr. Moore beautifully suggests that Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, kneeling and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence. Much confusion exists in our churches because those who have foolishly abandoned their interest in the truth of God's Word and have substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power, have been most diligent in service to humanity, while those who know the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life, neglect to serve their needy neighbors.

It's Spring in Kentucky — the thundering hoofs of the thoroughbreds are a symphony of the sweetest music to all Kentuckians. In the early morning on these soft spring days, the stable boys gallop sleek horses over blue grass pastures, preparing them for future battles on the track.

Last week, "Keenland" model race track of the world opened its spring racing season, and the Derby is not far off—This gala event of the country, early indications show, will be run over the fastest and most scintillating field a record breaking crowd, with the ever entered in the Derby.

Governor Chandler put aside his executive duties last week to welcome big league baseball to the Capitol city and throw the first ball of the game past Joe Moore for a strike. The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians played an exhibition game here, sponsored by the Lions Club, for their milk fund drive.

The Kentucky State Council met here, in Frankfort, and heard a proposal from Major W. H. Hansen, Council secretary, that the State Highway Patrol, should be put under a merit system and kept out of politics.

The deadline for filing income tax reports was passed last Friday, with almost 100,000 tax returns in the treasury from this source. A new law permitting the tax to be paid on the installment plan was a life saver to many who are taking advantage of it. For this reason the exact income tax revenue for the past fiscal year is yet uncertain.

Frank D. Peterson, director of accounts and control in the Department of Finance, warned some of the departments of state government, that they are making expenditures that will exceed legislation of the legislature.

Twenty purebred Jersey heifers were distributed to 4-12 club members in Anderson county. The heifers are in the hands of George H. Hoopes, says County Agent George Insko, of developing interest among farmers in well bred dairy cattle. The calves were purchased from outstanding dairy herds, the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese Corporation, the county agent in making the selections. The cheese company is planning to provide an outstanding sire of developing good herds. George Harris field agent for the College of Agriculture, will be in Anderson county to advise club members in the proper care of dairy stock.

H. H. Hooser of Marshall county is obtaining premium prices for strawberry plants from his nursery.

SET OUT PRINCIPLES OF NEW FARM PROGRAM

Discussing the new farm act, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace says it supplies the basis for the new six-point program designed to give farmers with adequate facilities and with stability of income needed to enable them to go on producing abundantly and to maintain ample reserves of farm commodities for use of the nation.

Continuance of the AAA soil conservation program and establishment of its objectives as a part of permanent farm policy represents a national investment in soil fertility and insurance for the nation of future abundance of food and fiber.

National agriculture allotments are established at levels designed to give production export for domestic consumption, exports, and reserve supplies, and payments are made to encourage farmers to produce up to these national allotments.

Three-Low provisions in the law encourage systematic storage of surpluses of big crop years in a program designed to hold surpluses. The government is authorized to advance money as loans to enable farmers to hold surpluses until they are needed.

Marketing quotas backed by penalties on sales in excess of the quotas can be used, subject to approval of a two-thirds vote of the producers voting, to secure general participation of farmers in a program designed to hold surpluses. The program is authorized to advance money as loans to enable farmers to hold surpluses until they are needed.

Marketing quotas of corn supplies from storage under marketing quotas is provided to meet any shortage that develops either on the farm, in the county, or in the case of national insurance.

Retention of corn supplies from storage under marketing quotas is provided to meet any shortage that develops either on the farm, in the county, or in the case of national insurance.

Twenty-four Boys and Girls in the community in Pulaski county attended a school in which they were taught to do root grafting. Five hundred grafts were made from choice varieties of locally grown apples and sold to farmers for establishing home orchards.

S. R. Reeves and Cord Blakeman, Greene county, have raised outstanding corn crop.

LOCAL FIRMS THAT HAVE HELPED BUILD ROWAN COUNTY

WEL-KUM-INN

Morehead We have lunches for light lunches. You'll find good things put up in new ways that will tempt your appetite even though you are not hungry at the Wel-Kum-Inn. We'll even furnish the appetite by making you hungry when you see our delicious food and pies and small that fine coffee. Come in and see for yourself if we're kidding.

This cafe, opened January 10th, 1937, by Miss Nancy Caudill and Miss Adeline Moore, serves complete meals, short orders, and sandwiches, and sell cold drinks, candy and tobacco. They have a seating capacity for twenty-four guests, and have table and counter service.

W. M. PARKER

Morehead Mr. W. M. Parker has spent most of his life in Rowan county and has been actively identified with its various activities. When a movement meant a bigger and better Rowan County, he was always there urging and working for its adoption. He has always tried to make his general merchandise business a better one too with the same thought in mind—a bigger and better Rowan County.

For 19 years he has been serving the people of Farmers. He handles general merchandise and International and Oliver farm implements.

M. SHELTON

Christon Back in October 4, 1935, Mr. Shelton started this general merchandise business in a rather small way. But he started it right, with the right merchandise, the right principles and the right idea of treating people right. Naturally the business grew. Any business carried on as this one has been would grow and as the M. Shelton Store is continuing along the same lines to begin with, it no doubt, will continue to grow. You'll always get real values and real service at the general merchandise store of M. Shelton's.

TABOR SHOE SHOP

Morehead There are three important essentials to good shoe and harness repairing. They are fine leathers, skilled workmanship and Modern Machinery, each one closely related to the other in turning out good work. For five months residents of Rowan County have been getting all three at the Tabor Shoe Shop, because Mr. Kenneth Tabor, the owner, has had several years experience, uses only modern equipment and the best of materials, and in addition has already earned a name for his courteous service and excellent work.

IMPERIAL CLEANERS

Morehead Mr. John Will Holbrock started this cleaning and dyeing establishment at Morehead on January 1, 1936.

Since that time he has proved his ability as a reputable cleaner. Bring your cleaning, dyeing, pressing and repairing here and you will get prompt service—a good job at a reasonable price.

The Imperial Cleaners are agents for the Cityside Laundry in Ashland and makes three trips, there a week. Phone 203 for their prompt pick-up and delivery service. All work guaranteed.

BLUE MOON CAFE

Morehead The Blue Moon Cafe is too well known in Morehead for me to add much to its lustre by telling you anything about it, so all I can do is to repeat what has so often been told before and what you already know. However, a good story, if it gains nothing, loses nothing in the re-telling.

Mr. Graydon Taubee, owner of this cafe since April 10th, 1937, has this time added a fountain and many other modern fixtures. The cafe now has a seating capacity for forty guests and serves complete meals, short orders and sandwiches. Mr. Taubee is also agent for the Greyhound Bus lines.

MOREHEAD SHOE SHOP

Morehead An old shoe is like an old friend and the Morehead Shoe Shop makes the friendship last. There's lots of wear in those old shoes if you let L. B. Ellis and R. B. Ellington repair them. They will feel good and so will you when you know how little the cost is. Take your boots and shoes to the Morehead Shoe Shop and you are sure to get REAL satisfaction.

THE ECONOMY STORE

Morehead This general merchandise store, The Economy Store, founded in 1934 by J. Earl McBrayer, fastidiously values for every type of shopper and it isn't a prejudice of bygone years that leads so

THE BACKBONE OF ROWAN COUNTY

The merchants and other business people listed in this commercial review of Rowan County are local people, a part of this community. Their interests and yours are one. They pay taxes here, contribute to churches, schools, charities and other local institutions that are requisite to the welfare of any community—not for any selfish gain or reason, but because these local institutions are their own as well as yours and they are glad to do their share. Do mail order houses do that? Do peddlers or out of town business interests of any nature do it? No, they don't. They take but never put and you can't keep on taking from something without eventually impoverishing it and having nothing left from which to take for either you or the merchant.

Isn't it good logic and common sense then for you to patronize these local merchants who have helped and will continue to help make this a finer community for you and your children and their children also?

These local merchants do not ask charity. They offer a full measure of value for every dollar received. Their goods are priced fairly, all of them. You don't pay fifty cents for one dollar article and then turn around and pay a dollar and fifty cents for another dollar article. They don't resort to such subterfuge. You get sixteen ounces to every pound, thirty-six inches to every yard, a hundred cents of value and service for every dollar, with a smile wrapped in every bundle. LOCAL MERCHANTS ARE LOCAL ASSETS. HELP THEM THAT THEY MAY HELP YOU.

One must remember that successful business houses are an absolute essential to the progress of any town. In fact a community cannot exist without them. Though they are dependent on your support, you and your community are in turn dependent upon them and a perfect spirit of co-operation between you makes for the ideal community.

many patrons to keep on trading there. These old patrons are only retained and new ones added through the eras of business cycles, by giving a full measure of value and service for every dollar spent. You can do as well here at home. Why go there, away from home and further away? Buy at home. If you don't save money you will at least save energy.

Mr. and Mrs. McBrayer are participating in the Merchants Prize Drawing here. They wish to express their appreciation to thousands of friends and acquaintances for their patronage. They hope to continue serving you.

COOPER BLACK GENERAL STORE

Hilda People of Hilda and vicinity, since 1927, have been buying their groceries, drugs, clothing, floor coverings, oil and gas, at the general store of Cooper Black's and with good reason too. Hilda is a mighty good clean, little town and the Cooper Black General Store is mighty clean and good, too.

for two years, gives you merchandise and service and consideration that only a home town merchant can give you. Your other home town merchants do the same. Patronize them. They'll patronize you. Keep the cycle of prosperity turning all the time, continuously.

Try Mr. Lytle's own brand of "Blue Grass Dew" flour, every bag of business effort have resulted in the fine oil distributing business that stands today, a credit to both of them and the fine little town in which it is located. It must give them pride as they view this fine place of business to know that it is the result of their own work and your patronage. A deep sense of obligation to you, their patrons, is felt, for they will always welcome such obligation and strive to discharge it in the form of even better service in the future.

WILLIAMS-NICKELL OIL CO.

Morehead It must afford Ed Williams and J. L. Nickell considerable pleasure to know that their five years of business effort have resulted in the fine oil distributing business that stands today, a credit to both of them and the fine little town in which it is located. It must give them pride as they view this fine place of business to know that it is the result of their own work and your patronage. A deep sense of obligation to you, their patrons, is felt, for they will always welcome such obligation and strive to discharge it in the form of even better service in the future.

Mr. Williams and Mr. Nickell realize the obligation and acknowledge it. May they adopt this medium to thank you for that patronage, and assure you that they will always welcome such obligation and strive to discharge it in the form of even better service in the future.

THE REGAL STORE

Morehead Morehead is growing. Help it grow. Keep it growing. If you live here, buy here. Your home town merchant is as good as any. Abraham Lincoln once said that he didn't know much about theories concerning trade, but he did know that when America bought a ton of steel in England for twenty dollars, America had the steel but England had the twenty dollars. But when America bought a ton of steel from an American firm, then America had the steel and also the twenty dollars. If you, remember, Abraham Lincoln was a very intelligent person. But it doesn't require any keen intellect to fathom such plain logic. Any one can see the good sense in it.

All of which means if you use your money to buy Morehead products; if you patronize Morehead merchants, you will contribute at the same time toward keeping Morehead on the upgrade and you and our town will prosper accordingly.

The Regal Store of Ray Lytle, in the growing meat business here undertaken and discharged to the best of our ability. Bigger stores make for better towns. Think it over. It's worth while.

Mr. J. W. Hogge, the owner of this store for fifteen years, invites your patronage.

SILVER KEY CAFE

Morehead Undoubtedly one of the finest confectioneries in Morehead is that of Mr. W. P. Myers. Here is a business conducted by a man who apparently has been endowed with a keen sense of appreciation of the traits of human beings. I think he understands them and knows what they want.

You don't ever see dead stock of cigarette and candy on the shelves of the Silver Key Cafe. The stock is always new and fresh. That's because they buy the kind of merchandise people want; displays it to advantage and price it fairly. That's what I call good business sense, and that's what Mr. Myers has plenty of.

This cafe specializes in home-made Freezer-Fresh ice cream, has complete outstanding service and serves regular meals. Attractively decorated, with white walls and furniture of varnished white oak, it has booths and tables with a seating capacity for forty persons. Dancing space is provided for the enjoyment of college boys and girls.

Wholesale distributors for the Shell Oil products in Rowan and Elliott counties, the Williams-Nickell Oil Co. operates three trucks in their extensive business. Telephone 119 if you are in need of gas or oil and want good, dependable products.

J. W. HOGGE GENERAL MERCHANDISE Morehead Not only is the quality and price of all merchandise in this general merchandise store fully guaranteed, but each article is tastefully displayed so that patrons may make their selections, governed by their own desires and needs, for this is a store of a new era, built and arranged to serve you better with better merchandise at better prices. Courtesy and personal service add nothing to the cost of our goods. It is merely an extra inducement that the independent merchant has to offer.

We are interested in this community. With us it is a pleasure to help, build, it. It is a privilege, not an obligation. It is a duty gladly

SHADY REST SERVICE STATION

Morehead Motorists are rapidly becoming better—or perhaps there is that better word or phrase than that to use. That is not quite what I meant to say. Rather, might I say, motorists are from Missouri—show them. That's better. When a motorist sees something with his eyes he does not always believe it, for he's a pretty shrewd bird, is that motorist?

For instance, he sees many signs that read Service Station but he does not believe them, for he's a materialist too, is that motorist? When he sees a sign that reads Service Station, that's what he expects it to be—a Service Station, where you get Service. Note the capital S. You might fool him in once but you won't get him back again, for he's a sensitive bird too, is that motorist? and he doesn't like a lie. Of course he knows all Service Sta-

COOPERATIVES MAKE BIG GAINS IN SWITZERLAND

The importance of cooperatives in the Swiss economic structure is reflected in the annual report of the Affiliated Swiss Cooperatives.

At the end of 1937 the Affiliated Swiss Cooperatives sold 40,000 car-loads of 10 tons each of various kinds of commodities, notably roadstuffs, household goods, manufactured articles and fuel.

The Affiliated Swiss Cooperatives operate their own printing shop, an establishment for raising coffee, and other similar enterprises, as well as several recreational homes.

BLUE MOLD DISEASE MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

If the blue mold disease of tobacco, which was prevalent in plant beds last year, becomes established in Kentucky because of overwintering, it may be necessary to combat it in the near future.

Ordinarily, severe injury occurs in states north of Georgia only when the disease gets an early start in Georgia and gradually spreads north.

BELGIUM SEEKS TO EXTEND ITS MARKETS

Belgium is planning to establish a special organization to assist agriculture in finding or maintaining outlets for its products and to facilitate the clearance of these products in connection with the regulations and restrictions in trade with other countries.

It is pointed out that the restrictions on importations in foreign countries have made it necessary to consider means whereby existing markets for agricultural products may be maintained or possibly extended.

Reds To Meet Gas House Baseballers

Open Series in Rhineland With St. Louis Monday

Following their opening series against the Chicago Cubs at Crosley Field Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, the Reds will take to the road for three days, visiting the den of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The final game of the St. Louis series on Wednesday will be occasion for the first ladies' day of the season. Women again will be admitted to the pavilions for 25 cents, which includes tax.

Twelve ladies' days are on the Reds' home schedule this season, an increase of one over 1937. Critics who have watched the Gas House Gang in action this spring predict great things for them providing some of their experiments pan out.

There have been several changes made at Crosley Field since the close of last season. Two new club rooms and an umpire's room have been constructed under the third base section of the grandstand.

State Delegates Are Picked By 4-H Club

The College of Agriculture at Lexington announced the selection of two girls and two boys to represent Kentucky at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C., in June.

Clay is president of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs, which has an active membership of nearly 40,000 farm boys and girls. In seven years of 4-H club work he has produced livestock and crops selling for $4,125.

Miss Gulley was state champion in clothing last year, has done outstanding work in canning and has been on five county demonstration teams. She also has raised beef calves.

A member of the state championship demonstration team and also of the state dairy cattle judging team, Miss Johnson has completed 35 4-H club projects in 10 years.

Stokes has produced farm products worth $2,736 in the 4-H club work. He has showed sheep and beef cattle in district and state fairs, fed and exhibited the state champion Shorthorn in the state beef show, and owns a flock of purebred sheep and a herd of purebred cattle.

Walt Disney Is Skin To 'Old Woman In Shoe'

Walt Disney, Mickey Mouse's papa, is like the old woman who lived in a shoe. He has so many children he doesn't know what to do.

While other film studios are cutting out jobs and discharging production men, Mr. Disney's plant employs more than 700 workers—a record number.

Mickey, who made his first big ten years ago, is still the No. 1 star. Mr. Disney says so. But Mickey was almost as big a star as the Disney family grew. It's strictly on his creator's orders that he's making a comeback this year.

Donald and other upstarts have been getting the best of him. They had a fresh stimulus and unintentionally the animators slighted Mickey.

Donald is an established star, almost as well known as the little rascal whom the Japanese call Mik. He's got the Spanish Miguel, Raton, the Germans Michael Maus and the French Michel Souris.

Pluto and Goofy, the dogs, have more popularity. Wilbur, the grasshopper, Gus, the Goose, and Donald's three duckling nephews, Huey, Dewey, and Louey, are on the upswing.

The three little pigs, after an absence of five years, are coming back with the crowd and wolf. This time they will use a lie detector to fool the wolf, who by now has three little wives.

Eighteen short cartoons a year is the studio schedule. All are in technicolor. They cost $50,000 each and earn about $15,000 profit. Mickey still has the same voice, Walt Disney's, but his ears are modified, his hands and face smaller.

Minnie Mouse has a different voice. The girl who spoke for her retired last winter. Some day Mr. Disney hopes to put Mickey in a full-length picture like "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," but he's far down on the waiting list.

"Snow White" finished only last December after three years of work, is regarded by Mr. Disney as an experiment which taught him how to make a better picture next time. He is expected to earn about $7,000,000.

One long feature a year is planned. For 1938, it is "Bambi," the story of a deer. Next year it may be "Pinocchio."

Another Disney ambition is to imitate cartoons in fine music. He had Leopold Stokowski record "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," recently, but the story has yet to be drawn.

Eighty-five Utopia club members from eight counties attended a district conference at Cave City. The Cave City club sponsored a banquet, followed by a recreational program. J. R. Spencer and H. H. Barlow Jr. received medals for their swine production.

All-Star Football Game Is Approved

Representatives of Eastern and Western Kentucky Meet For Charity

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association, holding its annual meeting today, approved a post-season football game between all-star teams of the eastern and western sections of the state for the benefit of the Shrine's crippled childrens home in Lexington.

An officials' association was established to coordinate the game and basketball players, coaches and arbiters set up by the 64 district delegates chosen by the 600 member schools to conduct the association's affairs.

All members of the athletic board of control were re-elected and a sixth member added, and the following other action taken: The one-semester rule was replaced by a one-year residence rule.

A new district and regional tournament arrangement was effected to end vote swapping. A plan to have representation of the annual meeting of the national federation of High School Athletic associations was approved.

A suggestion that teams be seeded in districts where the majority favors the plan was approved. A by-law permitting persons not members of the school faculty to coach athletic teams was eliminated. The proposal submitted by W. J. Foster of Newport, would directly affect Louisville St. Xavier's coaches, Clyde Grone, football, and Bob Schumann, basketball.

The re-elected control board members are: President W. F. O'Donnell, Richmond; Vice President Russell Bridges, Ft. Thomas; Secretary Ted Sanford, Carrollton and W. B. Owen of Horse Cave, and John A. Dotson, Benham. Matt Sparkman, Benton, is the newly added member.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fannin entertained with a family dinner Sunday at their home, back of their daughter, Mrs. Ray Evans, and Mr. Evans and little daughter, Wilma, of Flat Gap. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Fannin and children, Dorothy and Lionel Edward, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farmer and children, Ruthless and Johnny, and Miss Patty Crotcher, all of Morehead.

More than 30,000 black locust seedlings have been ordered by Graves county farmers for immediate planting.

GERMANS ARE MAKING FISH SKIN LEATHER

A factory for the manufacture of leather from fish skins has been started at Bremerhaven, one of Germany's most important fishing ports.

The factory, which is part of the German Government's Four-Year Plan to gain self-sufficiency, has submitted inner soles and machinery belting made of fish skins for extensive tests and belting made of this material is reported to be in use in the factory.

In the manufacture of leather from fish skins, every type of fish skin is used, but cod, garfish, perch, and salmon predominate. According to the report, fish skins converted into leather hand bags and similar articles need only be tanned for a maximum of one and one-half days while skins converted into leather for industrial purposes require only from four to twelve hours tanning.

A lime spreader has been bought by William Short, Owingsville, to be used cooperatively by nearby farmers.

Lincoln county banks are cooperating in plans for a 4-H club and Future Farmers of America show next fall. Club exhibits will include corn, tobacco, poultry and home products. Five Future Farmer organizations will cooperate.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT New conditions today call for new and higher standards of bank management and safety, and in our desire to give good service on which we can receive adequate compensation, where we have heretofore sustained a loss, the banks of Morehead, Kentucky, will in keeping with the policies adopted by nearby banks and those throughout the State and Nation, institute moderate service charges on May 1, 1938. These charges are made necessary by additional taxes that have come about in recent years, high cost of burglar and robbery insurance, surety bonds that are required for all bank employes, costs of insuring your deposits and many other burdens imposed on the banks. Measured Service Charges will be as follows: On all checking accounts averaging below $50.00 per month, 50 cents per month where any checks are drawn against the account during the month. For this charge the customer will be entitled to draw five checks during the month; for each additional check there is to be a charge of 3 cents each. On accounts having an average balance of $50.00 or over, one check will be allowed for each $10.00 average balance for the month, for each check in excess of this allowable number, 3 cents each. Charges for issuing bank drafts, cashier checks, certified checks and for cashing out-of-town checks for non-depositors are as follows: Amount Charge $ 1.00 to $ 10.00 $.05 10.00 to 25.00 10 25.00 to 75.00 15 75.00 to 100.00 20 And 10 cents for each additional $100.00 or fraction thereof. No charge will be made for cashing Government Checks. Charge of 25 cents for issuing a stop payment order against a check. Charge of 25 cents for handling each insufficient funds check. A minimum charge of 5 cents per day for notes after maturity. Please understand that there will be no charge made against any account showing no activity other than deposits during the month, in other words, if no checks are charged against the account, no charge will be made. We would have our customers know that any business entrusted to us is appreciated and we believe this new plan will be welcomed by the small depositor, for he will know that his account, regardless of size, is paying his way and is a welcome account. We want you to feel free to ask for any information with reference to this plan and it will be cheerfully given. Anything not made clear herein will be explained in detail at the bank. CANADA INCREASING TOBACCO PRODUCTION

The increasing economic importance of the tobacco industry of Canada is evidenced in a report to the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce, which shows the value of the 1937 crop will approximate $17,000,000 as compared with a recorded value of $6,000,000 a decade ago.
The area adapted to the growth of tobacco in Canada has been increased from 40,000 acres in 1929 to 50,000 acres in 1937 and it is considered probable that the acreage may be increased to 100,000.

Only 15 per cent of the tobacco crop in Canada is exported at the present time. Canadian authorities are hopeful of being able to further improve the position of the industry by working toward the eventual production of earlier varieties of leaf tobacco with higher color and suitable taste and aroma, better culture, maturity of crops, and improved curing.

STAR FISH MEAL A LIVE STOCK FEED

Chesapeake Bay oystermen have found a way of making profits from the star-fish, an important enemy of the oyster. Fishermen are dredging for starfish to be converted into fish meal for feeding live stock.

Oystermen, anxious to get rid of this threat to valuable plantings, found the stars could be converted into meal at a profit. The only complaint this year is that the scarcity of these oyster pests keep the starfish meal industry from becoming a big business.

In New England, where starfish do annual damage estimated at perhaps a million dollars' worth of oysters, dredging is difficult in many sections because of the rocky bottom. Studies last year showed that starfish in Long Island Sound destroyed almost the entire early season crop of seed oysters.

GARDNER WRITES ON SWEETPOTATOES

John S. Gardner, who for years has been writing an annual series of garden articles for Kentucky newspapers, has written a circular for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture on sweet-potato growing. Kentucky is a ranking fifth in value of crops produced in the state.

The most widely grown variety in Kentucky is Nancy Hall, according to Mr. Gardner. Its golden flesh and bright skin color have made it a favorite in the markets in which Kentucky sweet-potatoes move.

The circular, copies of which may be had from county agents or by writing to the College of Agriculture, deals with plant or "slip" production, seed treatment, plant beds, field preparation, cultivation, curing, storage and disease and insect pest control.

THE BRIDE WORE RED

BEATRICE FABER

THE STORY THUS FAR: Anni, formerly a singer in a waterfront cafe in Trieste, is in fashionable Terrento, posing as a woman of position. Her two weeks' adventure is the result of Count Armalia's drunken whim. She finds herself desperately in love with Giulio, the village postman but wanting luxury, she resolves to win Rudi Pal from his fiancée Maddelena. The wine festa is just a few days off and she hopes that Rudi will choose that night to propose. But Annie is afraid.

for Giulio knows her secret, having read the telegram which Armalia has sent to Maddelena's friend, the Countess. It reveals Anni's true identity and Giulio has only to deliver it to ruin her.

CHAPTER EIGHT

The night of the Festa had come and Anni stood at the open window, gathering up her courage. She fingered the course stuff of her dermide and looked sadly at the nest in the tree below. The birds were gone and it seemed as if she had lost her nest.

dearest friends. Borne on a breeze, came the peasant music, Giulio would be there, Giulio in whose arms she had found joy and love. But she was putting that away from her, avoiding even the memory of it as she would even Giulio himself since that day.

As if she thought had driven her to action she spun around and made for the stairs. At the very head, she was confronted by Nobili, the proprietor.

In utter distress, he spoke to her. "You see, Signorina, Count Armalia engaged you suite for only two weeks. This is three and I have guests waiting to hear about accommodations. If you could let me know when the suite will be available—"

Anni drew herself up. "Soon, Signor Nobili. You'll know very soon. In the meantime, please send me another bill. I've mislaid the other." Brushing past him she descended the stairs to where Rudi awaited her.

"No one but you, Anni, could be the loveliest lady and the most beautiful peasant at the Festa," he said to her with a tantalizing smile. "Perhaps your memories of me will be like this. His words came low and fervent. "I don't intend to have any memories of you. You're not leaving tomorrow Anni."

Her color heightened but as the others joined them, she gave no sign that she had heard.

It was a night of gaiety and love and new wine. The music was varied, now brisk and rhythmic for the peasant dances, now dreamy and soft for those couples who had hidden themselves away in secluded nooks. There was a weight lifting contest, vendors selling homemade dolls and lace. Then suddenly Anni's pulse began to race as Giulio came swinging along the path. There was a sprig of flowers in his hand. "And so beautiful, Giulio."

Eagerly, Giulio stepped up to Anni. "You can have it if you like, Signorina."

His eyes held hers but she did not move. A flash of anger went through her. How dared he single her out like this.

"That's quite a tribute," the Countess observed. "Edelweiss grows on the very highest peaks. He must have risked his life for those few blossoms."

Anni stiffened. Her enemy again. Well, let the Countess hate her, let her imply that her attraction was the kind that appealed to a peasant. Tomorrow morning she might be forced to accept her as Rudi's future wife.

"I don't like to wear flowers," she said slowly. "They look so pretty for a little while and then they die and look so ugly. No, thank you very much, postman."

And so our love would die, Giulio, her eyes silently pleaded. There's a hunger in me, Giulio, a hunger for all the things I've never had and want. Please please, don't stand in my way.

And as they walked past, he was left there with the Edelweiss dangling awkwardly from his hand. All the fun of the night was gone for him. Slowly, he swung around and left.

Anni turned abruptly to Rudi. "Oh, there's a fortune teller's tent. I want my fortune told. Come, Rudi."

Rudi had pulled back the flap of the Gypsy tent when suddenly he drew back. "Wait, I'm—I'm not sure that I want to be told my fortune. It might be very bad."

He took her hand. "Are you happy this minute?" She nodded. "This very minute."

He made a wide, professional gesture. "Then this minute, stretched into infinity, shall be your future." His voice was deep and husky. "Anne, come over here where no one can hear." They moved to a little tree-shaded grove but Anni's voice was tremulous as she stopped and leaned against a tree. "You'd better talk to me back now, Rudi. I've enjoyed hearing about my future but it—the break in her voice was nicely calculated.

"No, Anne." "We'd better go, Maddelena will be wondering."

"I can't help that." His arms held her before him. "You can't either. You can't go back now don't want to marry me." "Marry me, Anne." "And Maddelena. What about Maddelena?" He seemed to be dazed, comprehending his own words and yet not knowing how they had come about. And with it all, he held her fiercely as if no one could ever separate them. She'll have to understand, I'll tell her."

"When?" His mouth twisted and he hesitated for the mere fraction of a second. "I couldn't tonight. Tomorrow."

"Tomorrow," she repeated and then, her purpose accomplished, knowing she had succeeded, her body relaxed. Slowly she took his face in her hands and brushed her lips to his. Then, his arm around her, they started back to the trail. Her gentle triumphant smile was one the world might have known had it seen Cleopatra look upon Anthony as he slept.

But as they walked in sentimental bliss with the music of the Festa growing louder a voice came to them out of the dark—a voice that was mixed with wine and mockery.

The figure emerged from the shrouded gloom. It was Giulio. "All the world has come to our Festa tonight," he said, blocking their way.

Anni stood there in fear. It was clear that Giulio had looked well upon some new wine, enough wine to anaesthetize the hurt in his heart, and worse—enough to let his tongue. She waited, her heart pounding furiously.

and you can't leave me tomorrow. "You love Maddelena," she prodded.

"I love you."

"But you're going to marry Maddelena," she walked a few steps away. A breeze whispered in her ear and a low hanging branch caressed her but she would have to answer her. He must.

"Anne," he said, very softly. "Why must my marrying Maddelena be a problem—to us?" She looked at him, stupefied. It was if he had slapped her. Then, "I wish you hadn't said that, Rudi."

"Forgive me, Anne." "Forgive you." It was her last stand and she would make it gloriously. "That's all you can think of yourself. But what about me? Haven't I felt the touch of your hand when it touched mine, haven't I looked into your eyes, too?"

"I tried to take her in his arms but she broke away from him like a wild thing."

"No Rudi, I can't see it just your way," she cried. "Maybe I want what Maddelena wants, to wear my love in the open, to be proud and happy with it. It's too bad you never thought of me like that. Or maybe you did. Maybe there's just not enough of you to go around."

"Anne, Anne," he groaned, "you're not being fair."

She came very close to him and her eyes were blazing. "But I want you to love me. And I want you to marry her. And I want my love to haunt you Rudi, to make you lie awake at night, to burn your heart and make you sick with pain. I want you to think of me and ache for me. I want never to see you again."

She turned away then, all a-tremble. Already, she knew, she was flame in his breast. How powerful, how consuming that flame was she didn't know. But if she meant to him what she had divined, then victory lay within her grasp.

"You can't leave me, Anne," he said harshly. His fingers were pressing into one bare shoulder, bruising the delicate flesh.

Her voice was tense. "You can't hold me."

"As my wife, you'd stay." A madness of triumph ran over her. His wife. So finally he knew that this was the only way.

Her voice was thin and expressionless. "Careful, Rudi, I might think you meant that."

"I've never meant anything more in my life before." Her lids dropped and she swayed close to him. "Rudi, think you

TO HAVE FULL EGG BASKET NEXT FALL

Prepare now for a full egg basket next fall by getting good chicks early, feeding them properly and keeping down disease, suggests the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Much depends upon the quality of chicks secured. This may have no relation to the price paid for them. Cheap chicks are said often to be expensive chicks.

Good chicks are from flocks that have been tested for pullorum disease, flocks that have been tested for egg production and egg size, and flocks that have low adult mortality.

Failures in brooding can be traced to one of the following: Over-crowding. This often results in stunted growth, cannibalism and spread of disease. Insufficient feeding space. Allow one inch per chick and then increase this amount as the chicks grow older. Tracking disease into the brooder house by going directly from the range and houses used by the older birds to the brooder house.

Allowing chicks to get on ground contaminated with disease germs and parasite eggs. A sun porch or clean range helps solve this problem.

Hesson-Cumberworth Nuptials Performed

A marriage which came as a surprise was that of Miss Dorothy Hesson to Mr. William A. Cumberworth, on Thursday morning April 14, 1938, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Black.

The simple ring ceremony was performed by Rev. B. H. Kazek, pastor of the Morehead Baptist Church, in front of the living-room mantle which was banked with sprays of spirea and interspersed with candelabra holding white candles.

The bride was lovely in a blue dress with a shoulder corsage of yellow rose buds. Her only attendant was her cousin, Miss Hazel Esham, of Maysville, Ky. The groom was attended by Mr. Steve Adams, of Lexington, Ky.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was given for the guests which included: Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hall and son, Land, of Lorain, Ohio; Miss Hazel Esham, of Maysville, Ky.; Miss Iva Esham, of Vanceburg, Ky.
