FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--This winter Morehead State University will offer its Adult Fitness Program in the early morning.

The program will be conducted from 6:45 to 7:45 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays by Dr. Michael Brown, associate professor of health, physical education and recreation.

Open to residents of the community as well as MSU faculty and staff, the program is designed for persons who are either just beginning an exercise regimen or who have a health problem, according to Dr. Brown.

After extensive medical and fitness evaluation, participants will have a three-phase exercise program prescribed which will be tailored to their individual needs and physical capabilities.

The phases include warm-up with exercises for flexibility, endurance and aerobics, strength training and cardiovascular fitness. Dressing and shower facilities will be available.

For participants new to the program, the cost will be $175, while past participants may enroll for $35. The cost to MSU faculty and staff members will be discounted.

Interested participants may enroll and schedule physical exams as well as other tests through Dr. Brown after Jan. 8 by calling him at (606) 783-2120. Registrations will be accepted through Jan. 13.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Ernest M. Franks, Morehead State University graduate from Sandy Hook, has received the prestigious Army ROTC Top Five Percent Fellowship Award.

The award, based on academic standing, demonstrated leadership, advanced camp performance and reports, is given to graduates who are in the top five percent of their class.

Following a minimum of four years of active service, the award provides for a full scholarship for graduate school in a program and school of the recipient's choice, while receiving a full salary from the army.

Franks, a four-year member of MSU's ROTC program, was assigned to the aviation branch and is currently attending Flight Training School at Fort Rucker, Ala. The son of Sue Bang of Sandy Hook, he majored in radio-television at MSU and received a bachelor's degree in May 1988.

While attending MSU, he served as cadet battalion commander and graduated first in his class in ROTC standings.

To be selected for the award, Franks competed against all ROTC cadets in the nation. Final selection is based on the individual's standing and competitive ability during the actual year of scheduled schooling.

In the letter of notification to MSU, Thomas N. Kuhn, personnel proponent director for the U.S. Army, stated: "We would like to congratulate both your school and your cadet for this outstanding performance and well deserved honor."

This is the second time an MSU graduate has been chosen for such an honor. Donna Cecil of Louisville received the award in 1986.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--There are only six more opportunities to see the Morehead State University theatre production of "First Shots of Rage" at the old Rowan County Courthouse in Morehead.

Showtimes are set for 8 p.m. on Jan. 13-14 and 20-21, with 2 p.m. matinees on Jan. 15 and 22.

The play, which dramatizes the historical Martin/Tolliver feud in Rowan County, was written by Dr. William J. Layne, MSU associate professor of theatre, and two students--L. Michael Breeze, Morehead junior, and Karen J. O'Baker, Geneva, Ohio, senior.

"It is an experimental production which follows the actors through the numerous scenes as they move about the courthouse," Dr. Layne said. While kerosene heaters will be used to heat the building, he recommends warm clothing and comfortable walking shoes for those attending the performances.

The idea is based on a Los Angeles production of "Tamara" which is currently being performed in a 1920's Italian villa, according to Dr. Layne. While this is the first time such a production has been presented in this section of the country, similar shows have opened in the New York area, and audiences have been very receptive, he noted.

Reservations are required for the production and can be made by calling the Theatre Box Office between the hours of noon and 5 p.m., after Jan. 9. Tickets need to be picked up 24 hours before showtime in 119 Combs Building.

Ticket prices, which include "soup beans and cornbread" during intermission, are $6 for adults, $3 for high school students and senior citizens, and $1 for MSU students with a valid I.D. card. Because of the nature of the presentation, children will not be permitted to attend.

Reservations and additional information are available by calling (606) 783-2170.

'FIRST SHOTS' WILL CONCLUDE IN JANUARY

Final showings of the Morehead State University theatre production of "First Shots of Rage," an original play depicting the historical Martin/Tolliver feud in Rowan County, will be held in early January. Production dates are Jan. 13-14 and 20-21 at 8 p.m., with 2 p.m. matinees set for Jan. 15 and 22. This emotional scene includes, from left, Janelle McIntosh, Cynthiana freshman, and Dr. Ron Fiel, MSU professor of physical science, comforting the dying Solomon Bradley as portrayed by Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU associate professor of theatre. Holly Catanzaro, right, Park Hills sophomore, watches in shock. Ticket information and reservations are available from the Theatre Box Office at (606) 783-2170.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Academy of Arts is registering students now for the spring semester which begins Jan. 23 and includes two new classes in its schedule.

A class in ballroom dancing and the Italian language will be offered in addition to instruction in painting, dance and music, according to Yvonne Baldwin, Academy director.

Instruction in ballroom dancing for beginning couples will be provided by Mike Hinchey of Lexington. The class includes six lessons, each lasting one and one-half hours. The cost is $90 per couple.

Dr. John Secor, MSU assistant professor of romance languages, will teach conversational Italian. Designed for beginners or those who need to brush up on their skills, the class will run for 12 weeks. The cost is $40.

Two classes in painting will be taught on four consecutive Saturdays for beginning and intermediate students. Beginning March 4, Baldwin will instruct painting of still life. Students will produce two works in the old masters style, using glazing techniques to produce richness of color. The cost is $100 and materials are extra.

Local artist Christine Barker of Pine Grove Art Gallery will teach a class in portrait painting, beginning April 1. The cost is $125 and materials are extra.

Instruction is available for most musical instruments at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels with fees ranging from $5 to $11 per half hour lesson. The Academy offers private instruction in voice and most instruments including flute with Barbara Leach, guitar with Martin Lane, trumpet with Jack Stetler, and saxophone with Gene Norden.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The study's author, Dr. Bernard Davis, may be contacted for additional information on MSU's impact on the region's economy. His office number is (606) 783-2039.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's 1987-88 state appropriation of $26 million yielded a $78.5 million return to the commonwealth's economy, according to a recent economic impact study.

For every state dollar received, Morehead State returned at least $3 to the region's economy, the study showed.

"This figure reflects direct and indirect spending--the respending of the original amount--by the University, its employees and students," explained the study's author, Dr. Bernard Davis.

Currently acting dean of graduate and special academic programs, Dr. Davis has been on the School of Business and Economics faculty since 1978 and has served as the Kilpatrick professor of banking.

According to the study's author, MSU by virtue of its location spends a higher percentage of dollars within the state than some of her sister institutions.

In determining MSU's economic impact on the region, Dr. Davis used only the appropriation from general revenue funds, while spending reflects that state appropriation combined with other sources of income, including grants/contracts and student tuition/fees.

The four areas of spending examined were: In-State purchases by MSU; faculty/staff spending of net wages for goods and services; student spending, and out-of-state visitor spending.

Economic Impact
2-2-2-2-2

Each dollar spent by the University has an indirect or secondary impact on the economy as it is spent again. That turnover is figured by a multiplier to determine the impact. Multipliers for MSU's study varied with the service purchased from a low of $1.78 to a high of $2.36 and were determined by a U.S. Department of Commerce study for Kentucky.

Faculty/staff spending was based on a statewide average determined by the federal government, while the student spending average came from local figures for study costs at MSU.

MSU faculty and staff spending--direct and indirect--put $28.8 million into the region's economy and student spending yielded another $19.5 million.

Institutional spending by MSU on goods and services within the state pumped more than $23.9 million into the economy. With more than 40,000 out-of-state visitors coming into the Morehead area for University-related activities spending an average of $30 per day, the region's economy received another $2.1 million in direct and indirect dollars.

"This study doesn't cover the whole picture," Dr. Davis noted. "We didn't calculate any of the dollars represented in bank deposits or loan demands and property taxes," he added.

"We often talk about Morehead State's impact on the region's economy in general terms, but this data is proof in actual dollars and cents of the importance of this institution to its service area," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "And it doesn't take into consideration the impact of our primary mission--education."

"If these figures reported by Dr. Davis for 1987-88 seem impressive, consider what that impact might be from this year's 13.7 percent student increase and the additional new faculty and staff members. I don't think anyone would question that the recent economic resurgence in the Morehead area is linked to the University's growth."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Dr. Michelle Boisseau, a Morehead State University faculty member, has received a $20,000 creative writing fellowship grant from the National Endowment of the Arts.

The grant was announced by a representative of U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford's office in Washington.

"I'm absolutely thrilled, I'm speechless," Dr. Boisseau said when notified of her award.

She said she plans to request a leave of absence from MSU and use the money to supplement her salary while she devotes a full year to writing.

Dr. Ron Dobler, chairman of MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, said, "I'm overjoyed that she has been chosen to receive this award. I'm very confident of her ability as a writer and this is certainly a recognition from others on a national level."

Last year, Boisseau received the Al Smith Fellowship from the Kentucky Arts Council.

An associate professor of English at MSU since 1987, Boisseau serves as adviser for Inscape, the university's student literary magazine.

Boisseau's writings--both fiction and poetry--have appeared in such literary journals as Poetry, The Georgia Review, The New England Review, the Missouri Review and others.

She also was the 1988 recipient of the Cecil Hemley Award from the Poetry Society of America and took first place in the 1985 National Poetry Competition.

A former member of the humanities faculty at Virginia Intermont College, she holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Houston, and an M.A. and B.S. (summa cum laude) from Ohio University.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two workshops for potential business owners have been scheduled by Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center for the last week in the month.

Both sessions will be held in the Bath County Courthouse Annex Multi-purpose Room on Main Street in Owingsville. The two-hour programs will begin at 6 p.m.

The pitfalls of going into business will be covered in a workshop on Tuesday, Jan. 24, entitled "Doing Your Homework." Step-by-step procedures will be discussed to allow those planning to open a business to make objective decisions.

Information and documentation for organizing a loan package will be discussed at the Thursday, Jan. 26, workshop "Going After Business Loans."

Agencies sponsoring the workshops include Citizens Deposit Bank in Sharpsburg, County Judge Executive's Office in Owingsville, Gateway Area Development Center, Owingsville Banking in Owingsville, Salt Lick Deposit Bank in Salt Lick, Small Business Administration and MSU's School of Business and Economics.

The workshops are available to all individuals without regard to race, color, sex, creed, or national origin. Arrangements will be made to accommodate handicapped persons when request is made in advance.

There is a $3 per person charge for each workshop. Registration is necessary and should be made prior to Jan. 23.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A three-way partnership designed to bring the computer age to high school English classrooms in the 7th Congressional District was announced Thursday morning at Morehead State University.

State School Supt. John H. Brock, MSU President C. Nelson Grote and James Jackson, state education adviser for IBM Corp., unveiled plans to train about 150 educators in an MSU computer laboratory over the next several weeks to return to their local districts. Soon thereafter, 23 districts each will receive the loan of an average of 20 IBM microcomputers to create writing labs at their high schools.

"Students will find out more about computers because of this commitment by IBM to put 462 units in the school district," Dr. Brock said. "It's a real pleasure to be part of this true partnership," he added.

The 30 computers in use at MSU's Lappin Hall also are on loan and have a commercial value in excess of $40,000. Once the public school group has been trained, the "personal" computers will become available to MSU students.

Dr. Grote said the project was the result of Dr. Brock's "enlightened leadership" in the Kentucky Department of Education and pledged to continue involving MSU in the search for "creative solutions" to educational problems at all levels.

Spearheading the project at MSU are Dr. Larry W. Jones, dean of the College of Professional Studies; Dr. John C. Philley, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; and Dr. Rodger Hammons, acting chair of the Department of Mathematical Sciences.

In addition to the writing labs, an average of five computers will be loaned to each district for administrative purposes and teacher training.

Assisting MSU and IBM in the training phase is the Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (KEDC).

The districts to receive computers are: Ashland Independent, Bath County, Breathitt County, Elliott County, Fleming County, Greenup County, Jackson Independent, Jenkins Independent, Lawrence County, Letcher County, Lewis County, Magoffin County, Martin County, Mason County, Maysville Independent, Morgan County, Paintsville Independent, Perry County, Pike County, Pikeville Independent, Rowan County, Russell Independent and Wolfe County.

7th DISTRICT GETS COMPUTERIZED

A partnership between Morehead State University, State Department of Education and IBM Corp., will provide high school students in the 7th Congressional District with computers for writing labs. Making the announcement at a press conference on the MSU campus were from left, Mark Nicolay of Lexington, account marketing representative for IBM; Jim Jackson of Louisville, state education adviser for IBM; MSU President C. Nelson Grote, and Dr. John H. Brock, state school superintendent. IBM has committed an average of 20 computers to 23 school districts for classroom use and an additional five computers for faculty training and administrative purposes. IBM has loaned MSU 30 "personal" computers which will be available for student use following the training of approximately 150 public school educators.

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.--The MSU-Morgan Center is accepting applications for its Correctional Officer Pre-Employment/Work Maturity Training Program, now through Jan. 26.

There are 30 positions available and the screening process is scheduled to begin on Jan. 27, according to Jonell Tobin, coordinator of the Center.

"It is our hope to prepare trainees to be competitive for correctional officers within the state and especially at the prison being constructed in Morgan County," Tobin said.

The program is free to qualified residents of Breathitt, Elliott, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Menifee, Morgan and Wolfe Counties who are undereducated and unemployed, according to Tobin. Applicants must be 21 years of age and JTPA eligible; have a high school diploma or be willing to take the GED test during the program; willing to participate in interest inventory and aptitude tests, and willing to relocate.

The program schedule includes 35 hours per week for 12 weeks. "Training will include such topics as work ethics, interviewing, job applications and resume writing," Tobin said. "After completing the training at the Center, some participants will serve a minimum of six months of probationary employment time at a facility within the Kentucky Correctional System," she noted.

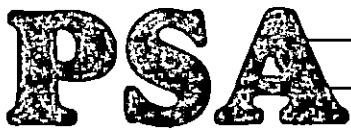

To be considered for the program, applicants must complete an application at the Center. Included in the initial screening is the Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE) test which requires three hours to complete.

The new program at the Center is being made possible by grants from the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP).

Additional information is available from the MSU-Morgan Center at (606) 743-1500.

Jan. 18, 1989

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Fourteen Morehead State University faculty members will share in institutionally funded research grants totaling $33,389.

The awards made on the basis of proposals for research and creative production submitted during the fall semester were announced by Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, MSU vice president for academic affairs.

The 11 research and three creative grants which ranged from $600 to $5,000 are designed to encourage faculty research and creativity as well as to defray project costs, Dr. Taylor said. "The awards are a means of stimulating the professional growth that is so vital to any academic community," the vice president said.

MSU President C. Nelson Grote noted that through the generosity of the Ashland Oil Foundation, MSU this year had doubled the amount of funding available for such grants.

"We were able to match the University's $40,000 allocation with an equal amount from Ashland Oil's three-year pledge," Dr. Grote said. "It is private dollars such as these from Ashland Oil that enable MSU to demonstrate more fully its commitment to the ideals of applied research which, in turn, contribute to professional development of our faculty and quality education for our students," the president added.

Recipients of MSU Research Grants include:

Dr. Mike Cass, associate professor, and Dr. Barbara Niemeyer, assistant professor, in Elementary, Reading and Special Education, $1,376 for a study, "A Comparison of Progressive Time Delay and Most to Least Prompting Procedures."

Dr. Wally Flint, assistant professor of education, $2,261 for a study, "University Students as Models in Dropout Prevention."

Richard Froman, assistant professor of psychology, $874 for a study, "A Cross-Validation Study of the Froman Assesses Risibility Classification Exam with Other Humor Measures."

(MORE)

Dr. William Green, associate professor of government, $846 for a study, "State Government Recruitment of Japanese Automobile Manufacturers: A Comparative Constitutional Analysis of the Six State Mid-American Experience."

Charles Mason, assistant professor of geoscience, $5,000 for a study, "A New Species of the Lower Carboniferous Cephalopod Genus Eurites from Madison County Kentucky and Its First Report Outside the U.S.S.R."

Dr. Bruce Mattingly, professor of psychology, $4,962 for a study, "Chronic Dopaminergic Receptor Stimulation: Receptors, Biochemistry, and Behavior."

Dr. Frank Osborne, professor of psychology, $3,625 for a study, "Piagetian Development and PSI."

Dr. Ted Pass, professor of biology, $4,946 for a study, "An Evaluation of Demodialysis Water Treatment Systems to Prevent Endotoxemia and Bacteremia in Dialysis Patients."

Dr. Barbara Quigley, assistant professor of psychology, $3,730 for a study, "Effects of Environmental Cues in Persuasion."

Dr. Sharon Stewart, assistant professor of education, $1,040 for a study, "Students' Ability to Access and Utilize Topic Knowledge and Text Structures During Expository Writing."

Dr. Jean Wilson and Dr. Richard Daniel, professors of education, $950 for a study, "An Investigation of the Marital Communication of Students in Rural and Urban Settings."

Those awarded Creative Productions Grants were:

David Bartlett, associate professor of art, $1,844 for a project entitled, "Large Format (8x10) Photography."

Robert Franzini, associate professor of art, $1,335 for a project entitled, "A Series of Large Scale Original Prints--Presentation and Exhibition."

Joe Sartor, associate professor of art, $600 for a project entitled, "Painting with Alkyd Colors."

Proposals for the institutional awards are solicited each semester by the University's Research and Patent Committee, which is chaired by Carole Morella, director of the Office of Research, Grants and Contracts. The committee reviews the proposals and makes funding recommendations to the vice president for academic affairs.

Some high schools in the state's 7th Congressional District will receive computers for their writing labs as a result of a partnership between the State Department of Education, IBM Corp., and Morehead State University. IBM is loaning the computers to the schools and the Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (KEDC) and MSU are assisting in training the educators. Getting hands-on computer experience was Erin Combs of Jackson Independent Schools, who received some personal instructions from Alex Marshall of IBM, while attending the training sessions on MSU's campus.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Two nationally-acclaimed performing arts groups will appear on the stage of Morehead State University's Button Auditorium in early February as part of the 1988-89 Arts in Morehead (AIM) series.

The Joffrey II Dancers will present an evening of classical and contemporary ballet on Monday, Feb. 6, while Jomandi Productions returns on Wednesday, Feb. 8, with a performance of "Do Lord Remember Me."

Curtain for both productions will be at 8 p.m. Admission will be by season membership or single admission tickets at $5 for adults and $2.50 for non-MSU students. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

Since its inception in 1969, the Joffrey II Dancers have performed before audiences from New York to California and from Canada to Hong Kong, bringing their eclectic program to concert halls and outdoor festivals.

Aged 16 to 22, the young dancers are handpicked by the Joffrey Ballet directors to perform with the company for approximately two years. Many move up into the Joffrey Ballet while others may be found in the ranks of other leading national companies.

Joffrey II is designed not only as a training ground for young dancers, but also provides opportunities for new choreographers, composers, costumers and lighting designers to display their talents.

Adapted from actual narratives by James de Jongh, "Do Lord Remember Me" recreates the days preceeding the Emancipation as six former slaves recount their remembrances of slavery, their relatives lost to history, and their triumphs over odds posed in one of the most crucial periods in American history.

This production by the Atlanta-based theatre group is co-sponsored by MSU's Office of Minority Affairs as part of Black History Month and was made possible in part by a grant from Alternate ROOTs and the NEA Theatre Program.

Jomandi, Georgia's oldest existing black-owned and produced theatre company, has won national and international accolades for its work. Critics have said that Jomandi "offers one of the most exciting theatres in town."

The Morehead appearances of both Joffrey II and Jomandi have been made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts Federation of which the Kentucky Arts Council is a member.

Additional information on single ticket or group rates for either of these two performances is available by calling MSU's Academy of Arts, (606) 783-2659. AIM is a cooperative effort of Morehead State and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Kentucky leads the nation in high school dropouts, but Morehead State University, working in partnership with area school systems hopes to alter that statistic.

With a nearly $67,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education administered through the Council on Higher Education, MSU's School of Education has launched "Destination Graduation;" a unique dropout prevention program, in partnership with four high schools in the region.

The student dropout rate is a major problem in Eastern Kentucky, according to Dr. Derek Whordley, chairman of the Department of Educational Services. "We believe this program will help turn this around. The school officials in the target counties have been most enthusiastic about developing the project," Dr. Whordley said.

The project calls for 24 MSU students to serve as mentors and role models for selected ninth graders from West Carter High School, Bath County, Menifee County and Rowan County high schools.

"Ninety-six students who are considered dropout risks by their teachers will be matched with college students in a buddy system," explained Dr. Wallace Flint, MSU assistant professor of education, who is coordinating "Destination Graduation."

Each of the high schools involved has assigned a mathematics and an English teacher to serve as local coordinators.

The college students will do case studies of the students they are assigned, get to know them, their families, their teachers and counselors. They will also tutor the students for an hour twice each week.

"Another aspect designed to strengthen the bond between the ninth graders and their college buddies will be an exchange of letters--a pen pal relationship," Dr. Flint said.

"The MSU students can offer encouragement to these youngsters. They've been where these ninth graders are and have graduated and continued their education. They are close enough in age to be able to relate to their new friends and understand their problems," Dr. Flint added.

"We think this role modeling approach will have a very positive effect on the students and their families, leading to the ultimate destination of graduating some students who might not have otherwise," said George Steele, West Carter High School principal.

"In fact, the students we've already talked to about participating are excited about it. The whole concept has been so well thought out and planned that that in itself should go a long way in insuring its success," Steele added.

The MSU students working in the program will undergo special training before meeting with their young friends. Every Friday, there will be "feedback" sessions with School of Education faculty along with other training sessions.

Another aspect of "Destination Graduation" is the summer residential program whereby 48 students from across the 7th Congressional District will spend time on MSU's campus and receive a $100 stipend.

"This component is designed as a reward for those who've shown significant improvement during the regular school year," Dr. Flint explained.

MSU is cooperating with the Council on Higher Education in networking with colleges and universities in the 5th and 7th Congressional Districts, who have similar dropout prevention programs.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Fourteen Morehead State University ROTC students have received their branch assignments and selection for initial duty.

Selection in a branch depends on class standing, advanced camp performance, and the needs of the Army, according to Capt. Andrew Raymond, assistant professor of military science. "Students may request reserve forces duty in the Army Reserve, the National Guard, or active duty as either a reserve officer or a regular Army Officer," he said.

The students, with second lieutenant commissions, who received branch assignments, include:

*Derek S. Flaughter of Grayson, has been assigned to the engineer branch and will attend officer basic course at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. A member of the National Guard and a two-year member of the ROTC program, he will graduate in May.

*Billy V. Hall II of Mayking, will attend officer basic course at Fort Lee, Va., and then proceed on to an active duty assignment in the Quartermaster Branch following his graduation in May. A member of the Army Reserve, he has been in the ROTC program for three years.

*Steven W. Henderson of Morehead, will attend training at Fort Knox and then return to his National Guard unit as an armor officer. He has been in the ROTC program for two years and will graduate in May.

*Darren S. Holbrook of Mayking, will receive armor officer basic course at Fort Knox and return to his National Guard unit. He has been a member of the ROTC program for three years and graduated in December.

*Joseph A. Johnson of Carlisle, has received active duty and will attend training in the Chemical Corps at Fort McClellan, Ala., before proceeding on to his duty station. A member of the National Guard, he is a two-year member of the ROTC program and will graduate in December of this year.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A two-member team from Morehead State University is developing a comprehensive market analysis of the hardwood industry which is expected to be submitted to the state Department of Local Government by March 31.

MSU, working closely with the state Economic Development Cabinet, is part of a task force established by the General Assembly to develop a comprehensive plan to expand Kentucky's forest products industry.

An outgrowth of the 1987 Governor's Conference on Forest Products Industry, the study is funded by a $25,000 Appalachian Regional Commission grant and is headed by Dr. William Whitaker, associate dean for the School of Business and Economics, a division of the College of Professional Studies. Assisting him is Dr. Bernard Davis, acting dean of graduate and special academic programs.

According to Dr. Whitaker, the grant funding period is from Dec. 1, 1988, to June 10, 1989, although he began working on the hardwood project in November.

The study focuses on the national market for hardwood products and projected growth, he continued. This is translated into the effect on the state and regional markets, including the 49 ARC counties in Eastern Kentucky.

One of the main aspects, Dr. Whitaker explained, is to identify existing wood related firms in the ARC counties, and potential opportunities for development of hardwood sources.

There are no dimensional processing mills in Eastern Kentucky to facilitate production of furniture. Currently there are only sawmills, which are basic to the industry's needs. Dr. Whitaker is hopeful that the study will recommend a furniture plant.

Another focal point is on why the furniture industry has avoided Kentucky for manufacturing. Historically, plants from New York relocated in Michigan and then later in North Carolina.

Dr. Whitaker stressed that Kentucky could surpass North Carolina in furniture production for several reasons: accessibility of materials, abundance of labor, transportation and work ethic of the population.

Kentucky, Dr. Whitaker pointed out, because of accessibility could serve the eastern United States, plus cater to the international market which has become a fertile source for U.S. lumber products.

Dr. Whitaker expects to visit North Carolina furniture industrial hubs in High Point and Lenore to discuss the national and world marketing situation.

Dr. Davis is collecting data on the international situation.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Poet and native Eastern Kentuckian Mark Jarman will be featured during a week long "Poet-in-Residence" program at Morehead State University, Feb. 27-March 3.

Supported with a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, the residency is the second of two scheduled by the University to bring young writers of the national writing scene to the region, according to Dr. Michelle Boisseau, associate professor of English and residency project director.

During his residency, Jarman will present three poetry readings and hold roundtable discussions with students, writers, educators and residents of the region. The topics for discussion will be "The Line and the Story: Narrative in Contemporary Poetry" and "Narrative Poetics: Writing Narrative Poems."

Mark Jarman was born in Mt. Sterling in 1952 while his father was serving a church in Sharpsburg. However his childhood was spent primarily in Southern California except for three years the family spent in Scotland. Jarman has published three books with Carnegie Mellon University Press: "North Sea," "The Rote Walker," and "Far and Away." A fourth book "The Black Riviera" is due out from Wesleyan in the Spring of 1990. In 1978 and again in 1984 he was awarded grants from the National Endowment for the Arts. He is the co-editor of The Reaper, a literary journal which advocates narrative poetry, and is advisory editor of the Story Line Press.

A graduate of the University of Iowa Writers Workshop, Jarman has taught at the University of Southern Indiana, University of California, Irvine and Murray State University. Currently he is associate professor of English at Vanderbilt University.

On Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 3 p.m. Jarman will conduct a roundtable discussion of "The Line and the Story: Narrative in Contemporary Poetry" in East Room A, Adron Doran University Center. Designed particularly for librarians and teachers, the discussion will look at how the narrative impulse (which is central to much Appalachian literature) appears in the work of poets of national reputations.

Poet-in-Residence
2-2-2-2-2-2

Later in the evening Jarman will present a public reading of his poems at 7:30 p.m. in the gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building. A question and answer session will follow, along with sales and signing of his books, and a public reception for the poet.

Wednesday's schedule includes a discussion session entitled "Narrative Poetics: Writing Narrative Poems," an examination of how poets in the region can apply the narrative techniques that national poets use so that their poems might gain a wider audience without losing the originality and intensity typical of narratives based on the region. This session will be geared particularly for writers and writing teachers.

The activities on campus will be video taped and made available to area teachers through MSU's Learning Resources Center in Camden-Carroll Library.

On Thursday, March 2, the program will move to Vanceburg where Jarman will present one reading at Lewis County High School at 1 p.m. and another at Vanceburg Public Library at 2:30. Both readings will be followed by a question and answer session and sales and signing of Jarman's books. Lewis County residents can contact Mike Holder at Lewis County High School, 796-2823, or Helen Rayburn or Marilyn Conway at the Vanceburg Public Library, 796-2823.

Jarman's books are available at the University Store on the Morehead campus. More information is available from Dr. Boisseau, Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, 783-2185. A signer can be made available for the hearing impaired; please notify Dr. Boisseau if you or anyone you know would desire a signer.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Powell County Middle School of Stanton was the winning team in the Morehead Regional for the 12th Annual Junior High Math Bowl held at Morehead State University recently.

To win the event, sponsored by the Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Powell County defeated teams from Model Laboratory School of Richmond, Simons Middle School of Flemingsburg, and Verity Middle School of Ashland.

The Powell County team, which earned the title of regional winner from among nine competing teams, and runner-up Verity Middle School will compete for the state title of 1989 Junior High Math Bowl Champion on Jan. 28. Regional winners and runner-ups across the state will gather in Frankfort to vie for the crown on that date.

Also competing in the Morehead region, with teams members from grades 6, 7, and 8, were Paintsville Middle School, Menifee County Elementary of Frenchburg, Rowan County Middle School of Morehead, Mason County Middle School of Maysville, and Conkwright Junior High School of Winchester.

Dr. Ben Flora, MSU professor of mathematics, was the regional bowl director. Dr. Flora was assisted in managing the contest by all faculty members of the MSU Department of Mathematics.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Cynthia Shelton of Grayson has been awarded a $1,100 scholarship by Morehead State University's Department of Mathematical Sciences.

The scholarship may be used to defray college expenses during the current school year, at the rate of $550 per semester, according to Dr. Rodger Hammons, acting chair of the department.

Shelton was selected by the Awards Committee from the qualified applicants based on the following criteria: grade point average of at least 2.5 based on a 4.0 scale; preferably an Eastern Kentucky resident, and majoring in math.

An honors student, Shelton is a junior math major with a history minor. She is the daughter of J.T. and Bernice Holbrook of Denton. She and her husband, John Shelton, have a son, 20-month old Derrick.

She plans to be a high school math teacher upon graduation.

Additional information on MSU's scholarship and grant program is available from the Office of Financial Aid at (606) 783-2011.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University is seeking nominations for its 1989 Founders Day Award for University Service.

"Individuals who have served this institution in superior fashion over the years are eligible and we invite our alumni and other friends to nominate deserving candidates," said Buford Crager, chairperson of MSU's Founders Day Committee.

The award is to be presented during the annual observance on Friday, March 31, as MSU celebrates its 67th birthday as a public institution of higher education.

Nominations should be submitted in writing to Mr. Buford Crager, Morehead State University, UPO Box 724, Morehead, KY 40351-1689.

Current, full-time employees of MSU are not eligible. Nominees must have gained extended service as an employee and/or volunteer and be previously unrecognized with a major award.

The nomination deadline is Friday, March 3.

The Founders Day Award for University Service was established by MSU's Board of Regents in 1978. Recipients have included W. E. Crutcher, 1978; Linus A. Fair, 1979; U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, 1980; Dr. Warren C. Lappin, 1981; Ted L. Crosthwait, 1982; Monroe Wicker, 1983; Lloyd Cassity, 1984; Grace Crosthwaite, 1985; Boone Logan, 1986; Dr. Rondal D. Hart, 1987; and George T. Young, 1988.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will be a host site for a videoconference seminar on "Acquaintance/Date Rape Prevention" on Thursday, Feb. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. in Breckinridge Auditorium.

"Anyone dealing with college or high school students today would benefit from this program on one of the crucial issues of our time," said Madonna Huffman, director of residence education.

"We've extended special invitations to student leaders, MSU administrators and faculty, area high school counselors and teachers as well as other personnel from health and social service agencies in the region," Huffman said.

Sponsored by the National University Teleconference Network, the seminar originates from the Georgia Continuing Education Center at the University of Georgia, Athens.

The interactive videoconference features two prominent authorities: Dr. Barry R. Burkhart, professor of psychology at Auburn University who chairs Auburn's Rape Awareness Committee, and Dr. Claire Walsh, director of the University of Florida's Sexual Assault Recovery Service and consultant to numerous national rape prevention organizations.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Eight Morehead State University students recently had the opportunity to apply radio-television techniques learned in the classroom to a real life situation.

The students served as production assistants for the Kentucky Sports Television Network's broadcast of the MSU-Murray State basketball game on Jan. 14.

Running camera were John Stevens, Catlettsburg junior, and Thom Goodfellow, Springfield, Ohio, senior.

Assisting with the audio portion were John Higginbotham, Morehead senior, and Clarence Grigsby, Garrison freshman.

Paul Hunt, Greenup senior, was audiotape operator for the broadcast, while Kelley Robinson, Morehead senior, served as floor director.

Regina Gail Stephens, Sandy Hook freshman, and Wayne Manning, Flemingsburg senior, were production assistants.

"It was an excellent experience for the students who were afforded an opportunity to work with a professional sports production team and adapt the techniques learned in classes and labs to an actual production," said Autumn Grubb-Swetnam, coordinator of MSU's Office of Television Production.
