VETERANS BONUS INFORMATION IS INTERESTING SOLDIER WHO GET BONUS; MORE RULES ARE GIVEN

Method Of Obtaining Cash For Bonds Discussed In This Issue.

It will be my privilege on June 13, from 7 to 7:15 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, over a Nation-wide radio broadcast (Blue Network, National Broadcasting Company), to bring to the men and women who participated in the World War a special message explaining the final preparations for the payment of the Adjusted Service Bonds.

James A. Farley,
Postmaster General
Last week the article in the News discussed the manner in which the Bonus Bonds will be delivered to the veterans who have them coming. An effort was made to make clear to the veterans first that the bonds must be delivered to them personally and that they must sign for their selves; second that they will be delivered at their central post office and not along star routes.

This week an effort will be made to explain the manner in which the bonds may be cashed by the veteran. Bonds cannot be cashed at Morehead. Two hundred forty one post offices throughout the United States have been designated as paying offices. Bonds of Kentucky veterans will be paid out of Louisville. After you receive your bonds, if you wish to cash them, take them to the Morehead Post Office. The local post master will take them and forward them to the Louisville office where United States Treasury checks will be issued and returned. The check will be made payable to the veteran only.

Local postmasters will be required to identify the veteran. In this case that will not be difficult, if the veteran and is a stranger to the post master, he must produce witnesses who can prove his identity.

Forest Department Try Local Man

For the past two and one half years, the United States Government Forestry department, through the local C. C. Camp, and its contact men has issued warnings to property owners in this section against the setting of fires within the Cumberland National Forest on either public or private land. On Monday of this week, the first evidence of the strong arm of the Federal law was visible, where Mitchell Black was tried before Judge J. W. Riley, United States Commissioner for the district. Mr. Black was released, since his arrest was intended to serve as a deterrent warning to others to take care and where they set fire and how they take care of them. The forest Service, according to Mr. Soliday, district ranger, for this division, stated definitely that no leniency will be shown in the future, as the govern-

Dr. Jamison Attends Reunion in Ohio City

Dr. Joe Jamison returned last Wednesday from what has been an annual pilgrimage to him, the annual reunion of the 120 Ohio Volunteers. It was used to be a joyful reunion of hale and hearty men, men who fought together during the War Between the States. But of late years Doc has returned not with a feeling of elation, but rather with a sad face. For of late years the ranks have thinned to a pitiful few, and the forms which were once straight and strong, have bent with age. Only three of the gallant band are left, according to Doc, and the three are all over ninety years. One George Bricker is 96, William Dehart is 94 and Doc himself is 92. Only three out of 125 remain to hold their annual reunion.

Yes, Doc enjoyed the reunion, but mixed with his pleasure was a definite feeling of loss and of grief for the comrades that are gone.

He immediately appointed a committee on resolutions who returned after a ten minute session with a unanimous adoption, together with a list of delegates selected.

The entire session lasted a scant thirty minutes, Lester Hogew, Taylor Young, V. D. Hodges, Howard Spruck and D. B. Candell served on the resolutions committee.

New Cases Coming Up Make Prospects For Long Term Certain.

With a fairly heavy docket already booked, and with other numerous cases ready for submission to the Grand Jury, there appears to be but little doubt that the June term of the Rowan Circuit Court will be one of the most important terms in recent years. A number of cases held over from previous terms, which include two murder trials, and a number of other cases for first appearances, will apparently give the Juries plenty of work for the next two weeks, when court opens on Monday of next week.

The following is a brief summary of the cases of any importance on the docket at present.

ONWARD KENTUCKY EXPOSITION

The Onward Exposition—intended to provide a market for hand-made Kentucky articles...

The opening ceremonies consisted of a fifteen-minute program broadcast over WHAS...

The hundreds who attended inspected the many works of art, handicraft, foodstuffs and other evidences of the latent of Kentuckians.

The following editorial, taken from the Courier-Journal gives some of the possibilities of the movement.

It is a gratifying response to a high ideal and a worthy practical purpose that exhibits at the "Onward Kentucky" Exposition exceeded as well as exceeded the expectations of the promoters.

If paradoxically the handicraft display seems to present a perspective of backward Kentucky, the apparent paradox can be attributed to a lack of artistic perception and a machine age complex.

When political economists are posing the question whether the machine is to dominate civilization or civilization subordinate the machine to its services...

The genius of Kentucky's people is adapted to the movement. Perhaps that is why this ambitious idea burgeoned here.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Kaze, Pastor of Baptist Church. Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kaze.

Subject: The Meeting of the Cross, Luke 23:33-46.

Golden Text: "God commendeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Romans 5:8.

If we are to say something about the meaning of the Cross we will have to ask our readers to read the story in Luke 23. Read it over again and again, that you may fix every detail in your mind.

Jesus, tired and worn from the Garden, is led through six trials, three by the Sanhedrin (the church authority) and three by the civic courts. During these trials He received His scourging (whipping) and other insults from the crowd, to exhaustion. He tried to bear a cross, weighing about 150 pounds, up the hill to Golgotha (skull-hill), where the account says, "they crucified him." This they did by driving nails in His hands and lifting the cross to a standing position they dropped it in the hole prepared for it. He pleads with the father to forgive His enemies, they part His clothes and gamble for His garments: The people stood beholding. The rulers derided Him, the soldiers mocked Him, and Pilate put a superscription over Him reading THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS. A thief on one side of Him scolded Him and said, "If thou be the Christ, save thyself and us." The other thief on the other side rebuked the one who scolded, then pleaded, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Jesus replies, "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise." Then followed darkness over the earth for three hours, the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was torn apart in the middle. Jesus then died.

What can all this mean? It means that God is perfect, and sin is an offense to Him. He cannot remain perfect and take this offense. Sin must be punished. But man is the sinner, and God cannot punish sin without punishing the sinner, for He cannot separate the sinner and his sin. Yet, God loves the sinner, and does not want to punish him. So, "God loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." And, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so much the son of man be lifted up."

up, that he might not perish, but have everlasting life."

The law demanded that the sinner die. God went outside the realm of law, prepared His own sacrifice for sin, and Jesus, the "lamb slain for the sins of the world" because the substitute sinner, received the just punishment of the law, met all the demands of righteousness, came forth from the grave with the victory, eternal life, for that all men might have it.

It means that all men might escape death, The Lord is now willing to accept all those who come to Him by believing that Jesus is an acceptable substitute for them, and putting their trust in Him to save. It means that the penalty of sin is paid and that we who believe it have received freedom in Christ Jesus.

This was the event that divided the nations, that united a world. All men were before Christ crucified, through sacrifice, to the Cross of Calvary. All men who have been saved since Christ have looked back to the Cross for salvation.

At the Cross were present representatives of every class of people. Ruthless, churchmen, soldiers, mothers, fathers, children, officers, murderers, poor men, good men, bad men, friends, enemies, sinners, righteous men, thieves, robbers, gamblers, this was truly a cross section of the heart of mankind. But Christ was there dying for them all! All men have had a part in that death. Whosoever will live it, and put their hope for forever, need and life in Christ of the Cross, to him, no matter how sinful, God will give eternal life and forgiveness. That is the meaning of the Cross.

M. E. CHURCH SUNDAY

This will be a unique service at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, June 14. The preacher expected to be in the pew while the layman of the church will be in the pulpit. An excellent program has been planned with talks by C. P. Gaudill, J. D. Falls, and Mr. Dudley Gaudill. Special music has also been arranged. Come and see how the layman of the church would conduct a service and hear what they have to say about the Kingdom of God and its purpose.

During the next three months there will be no evening service at the Methodist Church. We want every Methodist and friend of our Church to unite with us and make the morning service the big service of the day. Put your right foot forward each Sunday and start to attend the morning worship program. We can make this service very worthwhile in our lives. Bring yourself a few times and then you will be able to bring others.

Some boasting that they dwell in the City of God when they only live in the Suburbs. The Church in this community is striving to serve, but unless man gives it a place in his life it will fall short of its mission. Let us manifest our loyalty by attending some church in the city and then we can rightfully make our boast in the Lord.

College Friday

[NAME OF THEATRE]

[Story adapted by Peter E. Kyle, Illustrated by Herbert M. Sloope]

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS -- In 1848, in California, Joaquin Murietta, having avenged the murder of his wife and brother by drunken Americans, is now an outlaw and bandit leader. Raising a meeting of rich Spaniards, he suddenly sees Juanita who has always loved him.

Left--Joaquin dismisses his men and forces them to return the Spaniards' valuables. He and Juanita walk to the Mission nearby. Juanita reproaches him for attacking his own people. Then she suggests that Joaquin organize his men so that they can regain California for the Spaniards and drive out the Americans forever. Joaquin now takes Juanita in his arms and tells her that he loves her. Then they discuss plans for the revolt.

Center--But when they leave the Mission, Juanita decides to go with Joaquin and become a member of his band. At the camp, Joaquin daily trains more and more recruits. But at Sutter's Fort the Sheriff is gathering men to capture Joaquin. This is difficult however, for there are few who know him by sight and Joaquin's friends, Johnny and Bill Warren refuse to aid the Sheriff.

Right--One day Joaquin holds up a stagecoach, heavily laden with gold. He knows that Louise, Johnny's bride, is aboard the coach and warns his men not to shoot. The driver however, reaches for his gun and Joaquin's lieutenant shoots him. The bullet goes wild and kills Louise. Joaquin and Juanita are horrified. Will the Warrens now join the Sheriff's posse? See the conclusion in the next issue.

LOSS IN COUNTY

(Continued From Page One) We wish to state that at the time the present administration took charge of the county's business, in January 1934, there was outstanding $5,500 in claims against the county for county officials salaries, election officers salaries and other legal claims and expenses. The present county officials were obliged to accept these claims and to pay them out of the current receipts. In as much as these claims have all been paid it is our contention that the present county administration shows instead of a loss of $3,110.05, an actual gain of over $4,500. In other words if we have not been required to pay off claims against the past administration, Rowan county would have a balance in the bank of over $4,500."

A séance is featured in "Among the Spirits" which is to be presented at the College Auditorium on June 12 at 11:00 a. m. The public is invited.

FOREST CASE

(Continued From Page One) ment property must and will be protected. According to evidence introduced, Mr. Black started the fire to burn over about two acres of new ground. He had notified the CCC Camp of his intentions to burn this new ground and had raked a ring around the territory to be burned. During the night, he left this fire unattended, it got out and into the woods. When the lookout at the Triangle Tower saw this fire had spread to the wood he notified the camp office and crew were sent to extinguish the fire when it began to endanger government property at a cost to the government of approximately $150.00. In the meantime over 250 acres of private property were burned. The Forest Service maintains that they intend to deal firmly with all infringements of the fire regulations in the future. Following at some of the more important provisions of the Kentucky Forest News. Sec. 7. If any person, unlawfully set fire to any weeds, fence, grass, straw or other thing capable of spreading fire on land, he shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100, or imprisoned not less than ten days, nor more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the court. Sec. 8. If any person intentionally or negligently set any woods on fire, whereby damage is done to lands or property of another, he shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100, or imprisoned not less than ten days nor more than six months, at the discretion of the court. And in addition Federal laws provide the following with respect to National Forests. Sec. 52: Criminal Code provides a penalty of not more than $5,000 or not more than two years imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment, for wilfully setting on fire or causing to be set on fire any timber, underbrush or grass upon the National Forest or for leaving or suffering a fire to burn unattended near any timber or other inflammable material. Sec. 53: Criminal Code provides a fine of not more than $1,000 or more than one year imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment for failure to totally extinguish a fire built in or near any forest timber or other inflammable material upon the National Forest before leaving it.

Acres and Men

Drought, soil erosion, floods and dust storms take their toll dramatically, and make it plain that in some areas farming ought to be effectively discouraged and efforts made to conserve soil resources, as well as mineral, oil and timber resources, while in other areas families should be assisted in relocating in more fertile sections.

Less dramatic, but equally productive of suffering, is the heavy burden of debt which the long year of farm depression have piled upon the farmer's back. Millions of American farmers need some kind of aid and guidance if they are to survive. They must be given help toward the development of efficient farm management practices, and where necessary, financial assistance to offset losses and debts incurred in recent years, so that they may be taken off and kept off the relief rolls and made self-supporting.

To meet this need is the aim of the rehabilitation phase of the Resettlement Administration program. An effort is made to reestablish the credit of the impoverished farmer by extending him small loans ranging anywhere from $50 to $600. Such loans are made for the purchase of necessary farm supplies, livestock, or for payment of rent, taxes, and for food, and are adequately secured.

But the work of the Resettlement Administration does not stop with the making of the loan. The farmer can also get help and advice in managing his farm. The county agricultural agent and the county rehabilitation supervisor meet with him to talk over the problems on his particular farm. Together they decide which crops to plant, and how many acres of each will make the best ratio. They work out a program for the year's work and plan a budget so that no money will be foolishly wasted.

At the same time plans for the house and home are worked out jointly by the farm wife and a woman representative of the Resettlement Administration. Advice and counsel through this branch of the home will in many instances prove of great importance to the future welfare of the family.

At this point it may be asked what can be done for a farmer already heavily in debt. Voluntary committees, called Farm Debt Adjustment Committees have been organized for this very purpose. The committee arranges a meeting between debtor and creditor and tries to have the debt scaled down, or to secure more time for the debtor to meet his obligation, or to reduce the interest rate. This service is available in every county of the United States for those farmers who are in debt and threatened with foreclosure.

With this program for helping destitute farmers to become re-established on their own farms by lending them money, working out farm management plans, and helping them scale down their debts, the Resettlement Administration reaches a large number of families who are thus added to the growing number of prudent, self-supporting farmers. More than 600,000 farm families, or 3,000,000 people are now being under the rehabilitation program.

Explains Lack Of Adjustment Pay For Burley Tobacco

Last year's burley tobacco crop sold more than 2 cents a pound above its fair exchange or parity value, which is the reason the A. A. A. made no adjustment payment on the 1935 crop this spring, according to a letter from W. G. Finn, assistant director of the agricultural conservation program for the East-Central region. Copies of the letter have been sent from the College of Agriculture to county agents and county committees.

"The determination of adjustment payments is not an arbitrary decision," says Mr. Finn, "but has been made in accordance with provisions of the burley contract for 1935. The contract provides that the rates of the adjustment payments shall be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture and shall be such as will tend to give producers a fair exchange value for that portion of their 1935 production which is equal to domestic consumption."

"Figures to date indicate that the prices paid by farmers for commodities bought by them during the current year 1935-36 are only 48.57 percent as high as they were in the average during the base period, specified in the Act, 1919-1928. In other words, to buy the same amount of goods with the proceeds of the sale of 100 pounds of burley tobacco of the 1935 crop, tobacco prices would have to be 76.87 percent as high as in the base period."

"The average price of burley tobacco during the 10-year base period was 22.3 cents a pound, and 76.87 percent of 22.3 cents equals 17.1 cents. Therefore, the fair exchange value as defined in the Act for the 1935 crop of burley tobacco is 17.1 cents a pound. The average net sale price of the 1935 crop as computed from the official record of sales is 19.2 cents a pound, which is 2.1 cents a pound higher than the fair exchange value."

"Careful consideration has been given to the possibility of making an adjustment payment in regard to burley tobacco in 1935, but we have been informed that, according to the terms of the contract, and the provisions of the supplemental appropriation act, fiscal year 1936, it is legally impossible to make any such payment."

Annual Poultry Course June 22

Prof. J. R. Smyth, head of the poultry department at the University of Maine, and Dr. A. J. Durant, head of the department of veterinary science at the University of Missouri are among the speakers on the programs of the 12th annual poultry short course to be held at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture June 22-26.

The course, which usually attracts 100 or more farmers and poultrymen and women, gives an opportunity to learn about the essential principles in the proper care of poultry, and is offered primarily for the practical man who is unable to attend the regular college courses. Scientific facts are stated in simple terms, and scientific taught that are applicable to both small farm flocks and large commercial hatcheries. Many hatchery operators as well as poultry raisers attend.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THE Scotch jokes ain't all gone yet. This one's about Angus Cameron and how he sent a telegram. He says to the girl at the counter, "How many words can I send, and how much will it cost? I want to telegraph my wife in Chicago to stay in the house because there's going to be a lot of shooting tonight.

"I'll cost seventy-two cents for ten words. The signature costs nothing."

"Yes."

"The Scotchman from Chicago thought it over a long time, and then he came back with a telegram blank. It had on it: 'Stay-In-After-Dark.'"

"That'll be seventy-two cents," says the girl. "You could send six more words if you want to for the same money."

"But you don't understand," says Angus. "That's my signature, and it goes for nothing, you said. You see, I'm a Sioux Indian, just playing I'm Scotch. I sign my real Indian name to telegrams, and I couldn't think of anything to say to my wife, so you just send my name for nothing."

GIVES TREATMENT FOR CHICK DISEASES

If chicks stand around half asleep and appear in a generally run-down condition, with sharp, thin breast-bones and drooping wings, the trouble is usually coccidiosis, says J. E. Humphrey. Sometimes blood is found in the droppings.

The first thing to do, says Mr. Humphrey, is to remove all hopeless birds from the flock. Dry clean the brooded house at the same time every morning. Give liquid milk, but no water to drink at all times for a week to 10 days, along with grain. If liquid milk is not to be had, add 40 pounds of dried buttermilk or skim milk to 60 pounds of mash and feed for a week or ten days. Give copper salts after the milk treatment at the rate of a tablespoonful to a gallon of water to chicks up to 4 weeks of age. After this age give according to maturity. A chicken is considered mature when 24 weeks old, at which time a pound of salt is given per 100 birds.

Some people have used blackstrap or sorghum molasses instead of the milk treatment, with good results. A pint of molasses is used in each gallon of water for three consecutive days. One day is then missed and the treatment used again for three more consecutive days.
