

FISCAL COURT APPROVES OF ROAD PROGRAM

Designates Rural Highways Where Fund Of $11,000 Is To Be Spent.

At the last meeting of the Rowan Fiscal Court orders were entered on the books covering the expenditure of the $11,242.00 allotted to Rowan county by the state out of the two million dollars appropriated for that purpose. The fund, according to the plan of the fiscal court will be divided in the various roads of the county so as to put them in passable condition. No attempt will be made to build good roads, since the sum, according to the county officials is too small to carry on any extended program of permanent improvement.

The action of the federal court in limiting the expenditure of Rowan County to $100,000 for road purposes has put a definite curb on maintenance work in the county, with the result that the hands of the officials are definitely tied until the matter is finally settled in the federal courts. As a result of that action the rural roads are in sad shape, and repair, many of them being at present almost impassable.

The road program as laid down by the fiscal court follows:

- Rock Fork Road $500.00
Big Branch Road $400.00
Main North Fork of Triplet Creek, $1,600.00
Farmers-Sharky Road $600.00
Open Fork Road 700.00
Bangor Creek to Bangor Post Office 600.00
Trent Bridge Road 500.00
Stratton Branch Road 500.00
Slab Camp Road 400.00
Jones Ridge Road 600.00
McBryer Road 100.00
Dry Creek Road 400.00
Oxley Branch Road 500.00

The recommendations above were forwarded to Cecil Williams, commissioner of Rural Highways, together with the following letter: Commissioner of Rural Roads Frankfort, Kentucky Dear Sirs: I herewith enclose copy of an order made by the Rowan Fiscal Court at its last meeting, wherein it is specifically set out the sums requested to be expended by you up-

Rowan Citizens Miss Thrilling Experience By Failing To Take Trip Through Forests

Occasionally we get a new experience that is worth while relating. One of these experiences came last Friday when we had the pleasure of taking a motoring trip through the Cumberland National Forest or that section of it that lies in Rowan County. It was truly an eye-opener, and it was every citizen of Rowan county should by all means take it.

It is still true that their sights and scenes that lie closest to us are usually the ones that we overlook in our efforts to fare forth and see the world. Thus Kentuckians take the trip west and visit the Rocky Mountains, Grand Canyon and Yellowstone National Park and have never visited Mammoth Cave National Park, Thus Rowan continues to go to Mammoth Cave and Harrodsburg and Bardonia and forget that they have scenery equally as worth while, right at their very door step. Few citizens of Rowan know or realize, except those who live in that section that Rowan county has some of the most beautiful scenery in

MEETING OF FAIR BOARD IS CALLED FOR TONIGHT

Largest Class Will Graduate In August

Forty students have listed their names as candidates for degrees at the summer commencement on August 14, according to figures received by Mrs. Page Milton, registrar. This will be the largest class in the history of the institution. Sixty-eight received their degrees during the whole of last year. Adding the number of those receiving degrees last semester to those anticipated in the coming month will swell this year's total to the eighties. Still more are expected to apply during the second summer session which starts July 13.

Those who have applied thus far include: W. J. Adams, major in biology; minors in history and government.

Roosevelt Garner Are Nominated

While no Morehead or Rowan county citizens attended the national Democratic convention held in Philadelphia last week, which closed Saturday, many of them took part in the meeting through a medium of radio. Particularly was this true of the closing acting at Franklin Field, when both President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner were nominated for their position at what is said to have been an extremely spirited gathering over held. It is estimated that well over one hundred thousand were present at the meeting that turned to be an ovation for the present incumbent.

Rain Brings Relief To Suffering Farms

Rain Tuesday broke the drought that has lasted since early in May and that has turned pastures brown and practically ruined gardens and fields. The damage done by the drought has not been estimated, but it is certain that it was extensive. Tuesday's showers which were scattered throughout the day, brought smiles to the faces of the farmers and others as well. The showers were preceded by a wetting sweetering night in which sleep was practically impossible and which ran the temperature

Wilburn Freed Of Rape Charge In Last Day Of June Circuit Court Session

The June term of the Rowan Circuit Court closed last Friday, although a special term was called by agreement of attorneys to try a criminal in Tuesday of this week. The trial of Arthur Hicks which resulted in a hung jury last week was set down for Wednesday of this week, but was then continued to the third day of the next or October term.

Perhaps the case which aroused the most interest of any held in Rowan county of late years was that of Dennis Wilburn who was brought to trial charged with the rape of his 13 year old daughter, Ruby Wilburn. The trial resulted in an acquittal verdict, due to lack of evidence. The child herself denied that her father was responsible in the case.

The final report of the Grand Jury which follows, resulted in the returning of $2 indictments. One of the condition of the court house and Grand Jury reported particularly recommended strongly that definite

C. C. C. Camp To Go To Rodburn

About one thousand feet from the Midland Trail to the left as you leave Morehead, will be the new location of the C. C. C. Camp which is being moved from Clearfield this summer, according to an announcement by Warren Fletcher superintendent of the camp. The new location is regarded as much more accessible and convenient, as well as having more protection from high winds.

The present camp located at Clearfield, on land belonging to the Leo Clay Products Company, was built in 1933 and was expected to be used for a period of only 18 months. It has already seen service for over two and one half years, and the buildings are almost ready to fall.

Ministers Ask Local Option Election Held

Petitions circulated here last week and this calling for an election to decide the question of local option, have obtained up to the present time almost enough signatures to call the election.

According to the law passed at the last session of the General Assembly, an election to decide whether liquor may be legally sold in a county may be called at the request of twenty-five percent of the voters who cast ballots in the last general election. The petitions being circulated by the ministers of the local churches will require a total of about 1,200 signatures in order to make it a legal call, since there were approximately 4,800 votes cast at the general election in 1935. The signing of the petition to call the election does not obligate a signer to vote either way. The petition is merely for the sake of calling the election, so that the majority may decide whether they want the county wet or dry.

action be taken to cure the evil resulting from the emptying of sewage into Triplet Creek. The Grand Jury report follows: The Grand Jury for final report say: We have been in session nine days and presented in open court 52 indictments. We have endeavored to investigate conditions generally throughout the county, and when evidence authorized, we have reported true bills. We have a few recommendations to make affecting the county welfare and its property. 1. That roof on public school buildings be repaired immediately and that the gutters be patched before the next session of school as it is now seemingly ready to drop which would endanger the lives of the children. 2. That the jail be cleaned up and

LOT SALE LAST WEEK FAILS TO COME UP

Due to a number of causes, most particularly that an important case was being tried in Circuit Court at that time, the lot sale in the Tolliver addition was not as successful as it would otherwise have been. However, since the sale was held the managers have disposed of a great many of the lots and baby farms at private sale, and are hoping of disposing of the entire subdivision within a short time.

Second Summer Term To Open Here July 13

Registration for the second summer term will be held on Monday, July 13. Classes begin on Tuesday, July 14, at 7 a. m. A fee of $1.00 per day will be charged for late entrance, beginning Tuesday. Wednesday is the last day that one can register for a full load. Saturday, July 18, is the last day to register for credit. The term will close on Friday, August 14, on which day the summer commencement exercises will be held.

A large enrollment is expected for this second five weeks summer term, the last five weeks term that will be held. Beginning next summer only one term of eight weeks will be held. Tuition will be higher next summer than it is this summer. Morehead has extensive summer recreation facilities—new tennis, tennis courts, soft ball diamond, scenic hiking trails and cool picnic groves, to name only a few. Morehead is also noted over the state for its cool nights during the hot summer months. Various sports in all fields will be offered during the second summer term.

John Y. Brown Opens Campaign

The 1936 campaign for the nomination of United States Senator was officially opened here last Wednesday night when John Y. Brown fired the opening gun of his campaign. Mr. Brown is opposed for the Democratic nomination by former Senator J. C. W. Beckham and by Senator M. M. Logan.

Mr. Brown stated that it was difficult for him to make a speech under the circumstances, since neither Governor Beckham nor Senator Logan had made a fight for the passage of legislation during either incumbency. He based his campaign on the fact that he was a young man who was just starting in the political field, while both the other men were older and ready to retire. He made a comparison between himself and Governor Beckham at the time the Governor was running for the Senate, stating that at that time Governor Beckham was running on the platform of electing a young man for the Senate.

A fair sized crowd, considering that it was the opening speech in Morehead was in attendance at the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Taylor Young.

ROWAN COUNTY'S WEALTH

Millions of dollars of potential wealth are being built in Rowan County, and Rowan county citizens are apparently asleep to the great movement that is being carried on in their back yard. This fact was driven home to us last week when with Mr. Warren Fletcher, superintendent of the C. C. C. Camp we were privileged to drive over the forest trails about Clearfield, up to the tower, and around by Licking River. Unless you have taken that trip, you are completely in ignorance of the value of the work that is being done by the boys of the C.C.C.

Thirty five miles of road have been built in that section of Rowan county, without a dollar expense to the county. Thirty five miles of road where before there was not a mile, scarcely an inch. These roads in themselves, reaching as they do to practically every part of that section, are worth untold amounts to residents of that section. For the first time in history these people are able to reach Morehead without wading or driving through mud, on good surfaced roads. Perhaps one of the most interesting items in the development of the Licking River district, through the advent of good roads is the number of new and modern homes that are being erected in that section, a movement that is also further increasing the value of the farm homes there.

But more than roads, and highways, more than any material gain is the work of keeping these young men employed in a useful occupation.

Speaking of material gain, it would be impossible to place too high an estimate on the value to Rowan county of the work that is being done here to build and maintain the national forest. The land which is included in the forest was purchased for a few dollars an acre. The camp at Clearfield has been in operation about two and on half years. In that time while no estimate has been placed on the value of the land at present, it is an estimated fact that it would at the present time bring several times its purchase price, if it were offered for sale at present. The reason for this is obvious. Since the Forestry Department took over the land it has been cleaned, fires have been kept out to permit the trees to make natural growth, and over twenty-six thousand trees have been planted. This natural increase and growth unretarded, has brought about the increased values.

Whatever else they may say about President Roosevelt, there is one thing that he has done that is certainly paying its way and leaving a balance in the treasury. That is the development of the national forests, the establishment of the C. C. C. camps and the saving and increasing of the growing trees.

If there is any citizen of Morehead who has not made the trip through the forest, not only to the tower but over the other trails, he owes it to himself to see for himself just what this camp at Clearfield means to Rowan county. He should do his bit to help the authorities make this section what is justifiably should be, a beauty spot in the Kentucky mountains, attractive to tourists, and a spot that at the same time is one of potential wealth to the future citizens of America.

SAFER DRIVING IN KENTUCKY

A plea for safer driving by motorists on Kentucky's highways during the summer months and early fall is now being made throughout the State by E. O. Huey, Superintendent, Department of Safety who in his official capacity is also head of the State's Highway Patrol and Police Department.

The larger number of tourists that will be in the State during the next few months and their lack of knowledge of established regulations as well as of the roads themselves is given as one of the principal reasons by Mr. Huey for his plea for safer driving on the State's highways.

"The presence of a large number of tourists and out-of-state visitors in Kentucky during the summer months constitute an additional hazard to ordinary motoring," Superintendent Huey declared. "And it is the sincere desire of Department of Safety officials that all Kentucky motorists will aid in the attempt to keep automobile accidents to a minimum this summer."

"Members of the State Police and the Highway Patrol have been instructed to be particularly diligent in their efforts to maintain a high standard of safety on the State's highways" said Adj. Gen. G. Lee McClain, "but their efforts will be severely handicapped without the cooperation of the general public themselves."

"I am asking all civic clubs, automobile organizations and local police and peace officers to join the State officers in making travel over our state highways safer. All motorists are urged to exercise more than ordinary caution in their driving during the next few months, have a regard for all traffic rules and display a consideration for the rights of the other fellow on the road."

State News

BY HOWARD HENDERSON
 From The Courier-Journal

Those persons who are disposed to measure the success or failure of the Administration on the condition of the State Treasury can find nothing but satisfaction in the financial showing that Governor Chandler Administration made at the end of the first six-months' period on Tuesday.

The State debt, it can be said, is represented by the total of the outstanding warrants has fallen more than $5,000,000. There has been a decrease in both general and road fund warrants.

Cash on hand has decreased nearly $1,000,000. That means merely that the surplus of several million dollars was being utilized to some extent to pay off outstanding warrants and reduce the interest charges.

On paper it looks as if the Administration had made a net saving of more than $4,000,000 in the six-months' period. But those figures are deceptive.

World's Mightiest Circus Coming To Lexington Soon

With the most impressive and brilliant seven-ring-and-stage program in its history, the Ringling Bros and Barnum and Bailey Combined Circus, which will exhibit in Lexington, Saturday July 11 offers this season, as a sensational super-lecture, a herd of African pigmy elephants, the first to ever set foot on this continent. These tiny tuskers are not babies, but full-grown, middle-aged midget elephants, the rarest animals on the face of the earth. Accompanying them is a herd of miniature African ponies, the world's smallest beasts of burden. The pigmy elephants have proven the greatest attraction the Big Show has ever placed before the public, not even excepting its presentation in the past of the disc-lipped Ubarings, the giraff-necked women from Burma, the sacred white elephant of Siam, Jumbo, Tom thumb and Goliath, the sea elephant.

Among the scores of new features, to say nothing of the new importations from Europe and Asia, including the incredible Naitte troupe, the Royal Bokara troupe, the Imperial Viennese equestrian troupe, the great Frederico and a free running horse, pony and elephant liberty act of sixty members, is Col. Tim McCoy the screen's most outstanding star, at the head of his congress of rough riders of the world—Cossacks, cowboys, cow-girls, vaqueros, Sioux and Blackfeet warriors and Austrian bus-hangers. Col. McCoy, first man, cavalry officer in the U. S. Army Reserve and friend of the Indian, is the idol of American boys and girls, and he will be seen in both the main performances and the wild west.

The Greatest Show on Earth heads into this territory in four long railroad trains of 100 cars, with 1600 people, 7 herds of full-sized elephant actors, 1009 menagerie animals and 700 horses. Its tented city covers 14 acres of ground. There are 31 large tents, including the world's largest big top, seating 16,000 persons.

This is the peak season for youth and beauty among the 800 world famous arena artists with the show. In the air, in the quarter-mile hippodrome track will be seen hundreds of pretty girls. In the 60-girl aerial ballet, the most beautiful mid-air beauties that evoke columns of newspaper comment wherever the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Combined ever produced, there are bined Circus exhibits.

ANNOUNCING MODERN REFRIGERATION FOR FARM HOMES AT LOW COST

Needs no electric current... no water... no daily attention.

READ WHAT MRS. OLE DANIELSON OF ELLSWORTH, IOWA, WRITES:

"We have a family of six children. We usually have from one to three hired men. This means an enormous amount of cooking and baking. With my Electrolux I can prepare enough pie crust, frozen desserts and other foods for several days' use at one time. We keep meat fresh for weeks. My Electrolux actually saves more than the running expense in food savings."

Its amazingly simple refrigerating principle. Electrolux has no moving parts. A wickless glow-type kerosene burner does all the work. This not only insures continued low operating cost, but also fullest food protection at all times... plenty of ice cubes. Music Department Presents Extensive Summer Program

Concert Tuesday; Stephen Foster Program Friday; WLW Broadcast July 12.

The music department of the college plays an important part in school activities this summer. The college orchestra, under the direction of Keith P. Davis, violin instructor, will present a concert, Tuesday, June 30, during which Lewis Henry Horton, music department head, will sing a group of vocal selections.

On Sunday, July 12, Mr. Davis will take his string quartette to Cincinnati to broadcast from station W. L. W. Mr. Horton will have charge of the regular chapel exercises on Friday, July 3, at which time he will direct his chorus in a group of Stephen Collins Foster's songs, in celebration of his birthday. Community singing will also be featured at this time.

Mr. Horton presented an organ concert at the M. E. Church, Thursday, June 25. On Friday, June 26, he went to Louisville where he attended a meeting called by R. E. Jagers of the state department of certification. This meeting was called for the benefit of state music supervisors.

During the second summer session members of the music faculty plan to present a group of recitals. Messrs. Horton, George, and Davis will be soloists upon these occasions. One of the musical bright spots of the first summer session was the organ recital presented in the college auditorium, June 11, by Mr. Pat Gillick, who is well known over W. L. W. air lanes, and was brought here through the efforts of Mr. Horton.

No Temptation For Alligators

When motion picture fans see John Boles and Wallace Berry wading through alligator infested swamps in "A Message to Garcia," the 20th-Century Fox picture which is coming to the Cozy Theatre Fri. and Sat., they are likely to shudder with fear for their favorites, or just dismiss the incident as a cleverly contrived Hollywood illusion.

REPUBLICANS

The introduction of Judge King Swepe brought the entire crowd to its feet whooping and yelling for the standard bearer of the party in Kentucky. Unlike most of the speeches on occasions of the past, Judge Swepe paced his speech on economics with humorous side remarks that drew the crowd cheering almost continuously. It was a new and vastly different Swepe to Eastern Kentuckians and the climax of the Convention was the demonstration of Swepe affection in Eastern Kentucky.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Kazer, Pastor of Baptist Church.
Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazer.

SUBJECT: The coming of the Holy Spirit in power, Acts 1:6-9; 2:1-11, 32-28.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Spirit is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the utmost part of the world." Acts 1:8.

We now come to a delightful study in the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistles and Revelation. This study is to be devoted to the study of the early Christians, covering a period of about sixty years following the ascension. Let us be careful to note the part played by the Holy Spirit. Jesus has come in His atonement, and is now in Heaven, and it is to dwell in, motivate, and empower the disciples in their work. The work is to be the work of God in man, thus the power is God's.

In the first passage we have the promised power. The Spirit came upon them on a mission by themselves, for he had said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." So, the Holy Spirit is to come, and accompany the disciples wherever they go in the work of the Lord. "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Spirit is come upon you." But he had carefully warned them to tarry at Jerusalem until they had received the promise, knowing that with them, it would be helpless. So they did his bidding and waited.

In the second passage we have the promised fulfilled. It was the day of Pentecost, fifty days after the Crucifixion, when the promised Spirit came upon them. They were all together, and all agreed, "Of one accord and in one place." That is the prerequisite for the work of the Holy Spirit in the church. The Lord does not fling his power upon a wayward, restless congregation. What might not be the power of the churches if we could get them together in their respective congregations, and have them all agree willingly to do the will of God. Then the Spirit will work. That is what took place here. They fulfilled the conditions, and God met them with the fulfillment of his promise. Furthermore, while they were waiting, they were praying. There is another thing the Church must do. Christians must pray if they would live spiritually, just as they must breathe if they would live naturally. Weak prayer lungs is the curse of the average Christian.

In the third passage we have the promised fulfilled. The Spirit came as the Lord had said, bringing miraculous signs of his presence, making the disciples able to speak the language of God to the souls who rushed in to hear. People were amazed because the disciples spoke in other languages which they had not known. There were different nations represented there, and the Spirit caused the disciples to speak so that every one could understand in his own language. Marvellous manifestation of the Spirit.

The result was that thousands were convicted for sin, just as Jesus had said they would be, and begged to know what they could do to free themselves from the condemnation now revealed to them. Peter, under the power of the Spirit, told them how to be saved, and three thousand souls came to know the experience of the Holy Ghost.

Charles Richardson and William Triplett are conducting a tent meeting at Ewington, Ky., three miles east of Mt. Sterling on U. S. Highway 60. The meeting began Saturday June 27. It will continue each evening at 7:45 for an indefinite period of time.

Rev. Richardson and Rev. Triplett invite their many friends in Rowan and surrounding counties to attend the services.

An Appreciation

I am glad to have this public opportunity to express my appreciation and gratitude to the Republican youth and old in Rowan County for their solid support at the Eight Congressional District Convention of Young Republican Clubs at Ashland last Saturday. Am indeed proud to bring the chairmanship of the twenty-one counties to Rowan County and the high office in the district for a period of two years. I specifically want to thank the officers of the Young Republican Club of Rowan County: their work here and at the convention; Mr. Robert Bishop for his masterly introduction and nominating speech; Mrs. Ethel Ellington; Mrs. Nadine Adams, Mr. Paul Felley, and Art Hubert Counts for their active work in my behalf.

Sincerely, Elwood Allen, Chairman, Young Republican Clubs of Eighth Congressional District.

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

Always A Business Man By IRVIN S. COBB

THERE used to be a man in New York's East Side who had a friend who, back in the early part of 1916, arrived from Russia with tale of having served as color-bearer in a Russian regiment in the campaign against the Germans in Eastern Prussia.

When the newcomer reached the congenial atmosphere of a Yiddish cab on Allen Street he was a large medal on his breast, which he explained had been given to him by the express command of the Czar. Shortly after receiving the decoration he had been disabled by illness and was mustered out of service; hence his appearance in America.

"What did you do to win the medal?" inquired one of his audience. "I brought in a German battle flag," said the ex-soldier with becoming honesty.

"No wonder you got a medal!" said a resident East Sider. "How did you get the flag?" "I was in the Russian trenches with my regiment, and in the trenches just in front of us was a German regiment; and I saw the man who was carrying their battle flag, and he looked like a good business man. So I fired at him that evening until everything was quiet and then I went over, all by myself, when nobody was looking—and we traded flags."

Rowan County is defendant in a case in the U. S. Eastern District Court, wherein judgement has been rendered against the county and the approximate sum of $10,000.00 and we are now appealing said case to the district court of Appeals and while this appeal is being perfected and heard out, the plaintiff has obtained an order from the Federal Judge restricting us in making any expenditures for road purposes and therefore we are unable to give very much co-operation to your department in the work to be done in Rowan County at this time.

Furthermore, we are obligated to the Federal Government upon four road projects for the use of what little road machinery that we have. However, these four roads are not included in the request to you by the Fiscal Court.

Due to the fact that we have had very little money with which to work our roads and it appearing that we will still have less for the new Fiscal Year, it is my opinion that it would be better to attempt to grade and drain our roads with the use of tractors and graders and the replacement of broken-down bridges and worn-out culverts rather than to attempt grading, draining, and surfacing.

At this time the Rowan Fiscal Court is unanimously opposed to the use of convict labor in this County. However, after ascertaining the opinion of the Court in this matter; did not bring the question before them for a vote, hoping that later they might change their opinion; therefore the matter is still open.

Assuring you of my desire to cooperate with you at all times, Very truly yours, Chas. E. Jennings

Great Lakes Exposition Opened Saturday June 27

WITH bands playing, thousands of gay-colored pennants whipping in the lake breeze, and with massive exhibit structures shimmering in the sunlight, countless numbers of eager spectators will pass through the towering pylon-entrances of the Great Lakes Exposition when that gigantic 150-acre fair opens its doors on Cleveland's lakefront next Saturday.

This shows the decorative Main Entrance of the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland, which will open on June 27 for 100 days.

Opening day activities of the fair, which celebrates Cleveland's hundredth birthday and one hundred years of progress in the vast trade center of the Great Lakes area, will be given over to a panorama of colorful festivities and special events. Radio broadcasts in the afternoon and evening will bring to the nation the news of the opening.

At night, the huge Exposition will be a gorgeous fantasy of illumination. The "main show" will be turned on by the "main show" moon. As the rays of the moon flash on the "eye" of a powerful telescope, an impact of light will strike a photo-electric cell, which in turn transmits the impulse to switches controlling the lights.

For visitors to the Great Lakes Exposition there is a vast variety of free entertainment. From the huge orchestra shell directly north of the fair's main entrance on St. Clair avenue, will come the melodious strains of concert music played by the Great Lakes Symphonic orchestra of 100 pieces.

Opposite the Plaza and inside Cleveland's beautiful Public Hall, scene of the recent Republican National Convention, will be the Exposition's Radioland. Here, in the largest broadcasting studio in the world, visitors will see and hear the greatest acts and acts on the radio networks.

In the Municipal Stadium, the gorgeous Marine Theater built on

There is the Parade of the Years, a stirring pictorial drama of transportation, the beauty of the quarter-million dollar Florida State exhibit, the lure and excitement of the 40-acre amusement zone crammed and jammed with arcade, sides shows, rides and marine concessions.

Further eastward and terminating the colorful Exposition Mid-way is the Streets of the World, a complete international settlement of thirty-six separate villages housing more than 168 buildings.

STATE HOLSTEINS

HIGH PRODUCERS

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America reports that during the 219 days of the current herd test year, the herd of registered Holsteins at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station maintained a daily average of 1.3 pounds of butterfat per cow.

High honors for the period went to Lyons Adoration with 8,699 pounds of milk and 340 pounds of butterfat to her credit. U. K. Lass Louise led the herd for the last reported test period, with 1,814 pounds of milk and 67 pounds of butterfat.

Two cows have completed their lactation periods: U. K. Beth, with 13,696 pounds of milk and 521 pounds of butterfat to her credit, and U. K. Glen, with 11,736 pounds of milk and 428 pounds of butterfat as her record.

LESS CROP LAND; MORE IN PASTURE

Practices which would make possible the present production of harvested crops on two-thirds to one-half of the present acreage, are discussed in the recently published annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

With good management practices, two-thirds of the farm land of Kentucky could be kept in grass and legumes for hay and pasture, the report declares, permitting a great extension of soil fields of the Experiment Station for pasture.

The result of experiments on the Experiment Station continue to emphasize the fundamental importance of the use of lime and phosphate and legumes in economically increasing productivity.

Eating on a screened porch, especially in the evening, is one of the joys of summer living. In remodeling a house or building a new one, don't forget a deep porch fully screened where the family can spend many happy hours.

Late lambs that must be carried through the hot dry weather of mid-summer need special care. Nearly always they require drenching to prevent stomach worm injury. Plenty of good drinking water is important, and feed other than grass may be necessary.

Many ton-litter feeders found the self-feeder plan satisfactory. Tests indicate that pigs gain fast when self-fed, if the ration is well-balanced. Farmers also report that self-feeders save both grain and labor.

MOths GIVE UP TO VAPOR, NOT SMELLS

The saddest thing about fighting moths is that smells don't kill the pests, or even discourage them so anyone would notice it. Vapor is effective only if enough of it is kept in a tight container to kill the insects, according to the Kentucky College of Agriculture. A pound of a chemical such as naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene or gum camphor will protect a whole trunkful of winter woollens. As the chemical evaporates, it makes a gas that causes the moth to feel that life is no longer worth the fight.

Workers to be employed on forty-one Works Progress Administration projects in Kentucky will receive slightly higher wages and will work fewer hours than the schedules in force during the program just being completed, George H. Goodman, administrator, said Saturday.

CHICKS THRIVE ON CORN WH AT-RATION

Farmers inspecting a feeding test recently at the West-in Kentucky Experiment Station said that at the age of three months had done practically as well on corn and wheat as they had on a mash feed.

One pen of leghorns received a mash composed of 70 pounds of ground yellow corn, 25 pounds of middlings, 10 pounds of oat scrap, and salt. The other pen consumed equal parts of cracked corn and wheat, and meat scrap and salt. Both pens received cod liver oil the first four weeks, and milk for the three months.

The mash-fed pen weighed only a pound more than the corn-wheat pen.

PATTERNS OF WOLFPEN

By Harlan Hatcher

Funny how a man's mind jumps around on a soft night after a day's work and his spirit feels young and twisted about in his tired bones."

Julia came into the room after a little while, and lay beside him under the soft warmth of the sea-str, blue and white coverlet.

"You're not asleep, Sparrel?"

"No, Julia. It's quiet this time of night. I've been listening to it. I used to wonder if we'd be any better off to have stayed in Virginia, I don't any more. Sometimes it seems to me like this is what everything before it has been aiming at and now it's here and I'm looking at it and listening to it. That don't hardly sound sensible, does it?"

"We've got about all a body could want here."

It ain't things, exactly, Julia, it's... it's... well, something inside, like the drum of a banjo... It's... like going around the hill in the evening to hunt up the cows and when you think you won't find them before dark you hear a bell and there they come out of a hollow along the path around the hill at the edge of the cleared line, one behind the other, and not a bit of hurry in them and that look in their eyes while they flick their tails and chew and ease along to the shed to be milked.

They went on again without words. They could hear Cynthia in the next room.

"Sparrel."

"Yes."

"I was thinking about Cynthia. She's eighteen. I'd just turned seven when you rode up to the gate and stared at me with my dress full of chips."

"You were taller, than Cynthia."

"I didn't know much about books, Sparrel, like you did."

"There are better things for a woman than books, Julia. You know the way of a house and a family."

"A body can know both, Sparrel; and not be hurt by it. Cynthia's done all the books at the school and yours lots of times, and I reckon she knows as much about a house and family as I do myself. She ought to have a enter at books over at the Pikeville Institute."

"The Pikeville Institute, Julia?"

"Yes, Sparrel. She ought to go over there a winter. It'd do a sight for her."

"I don't know if I favor that much. Julia. It might take her away from the place here and spoil her content with things. They look to town ways and make young folks want to go off someplace instead of living better at home. Cynthia's getting the lessoning she needs right here with you. It takes the kind of schooling to make a good woman on a big place like this and she's going to be a good one, like her mother. Anyway it takes ready money, and how'd you be able to spare her?"

"I don't take much money, Sparrel. And one of the Wootton girls could come over and help along if I needed anybody."

Did Cynthia have this notion herself?

No, she never said, and I didn't speak of it to her. You read and know a great deal, Sparrel, and you know how it is to not take right in the meaning of words in learning books. She ought to go."

I don't favor it much. Julia's head touched Sparrel's shoulder, and she touched her face with his hand.

She's a fine girl, Julia. She takes a right smart after her mother. Julia lay by his side feeling the old joy in his way of speaking to her and seeing in Cynthia herself projected into the books she had misadvised. They did not communicate any more in words but in a harmonious silence which united their separate bodies. Before the late moon could get through the window, they and all their household were fallen asleep in the night quiet of Wolfpen.

CHAPTER III

The simple pattern of life designed so long ago on Wolfpen was again carrying the family easily into the work of the new season. There was a sense of peace and certainty which came from this yearly repetition of an old routine established by successive generations of men.

Cynthia sat in the sun-floored loom which Trivis had made and Sparrel had improved, weaving her unworried thoughts into the blue cashmere twill growing into dress goods and the beating sley.

"Shed, pick, beat; step two threads right; shed, pick, beat. Yellow in the harness, blue in the shuttle. Shed, pick, beat. Plying to the left, plung to the right—Planting time is a good time, even when a body sits at a loom. You can look out over the long porch where the honeysuckle twining will arch above the steps, and across the grass palling at the corner of the wood-lot and Mother's garden and over the roof of the corn-crisp and the cider mill and tan-bark shed above the sea of green tree buds and the spring-tangled green of the willows, and then a little way up the hill is Jesse plowing. Maybe by tomorrow I can help with the planting. Daddy and the boys out in the bottoms and on the cleared edges of the hills with the mules turning over the rich soil, getting ready for me to drop the thick seed into the hills of corn and watch them lie there pink and lavender and purple striped beads by the side of the yellow grains of corn. Covering them over with a brown blanket of earth and saying to them: "That year, you and me, for a short spell, but don't fail to wake up with the sun when it is morning."

"There'll be sugar cane growing up like hearth brooms for thick brown sorghum and big potatoes in Barn Hollow, and long yellow sweet potatoes in House field, and peaches and apples for drying and to make butter of, and pears for preserving in Mother's spiced earthenware jars, and each bottom and hollow will be full of its own special crop, all because of the fine soil in the Spring, and the earth is alive."

Outside, the hollow was full of life and sound as it always was, as it always had been in the spring: the chickens in the barnyard, the scream of the hawks darting across the hot sun, the liquid notes of nesting cardinals, the dolorous cooing of doves in the tulip trees—all the sound meant for death stretching back through the years her family had been here, back into the past when the Indians camped on the Pinnacle and deer came to sicken salt below the orchard in Wolfpen Bottoms.

"There's Mother going into her garden. She loves to pull a hoe into beds of parsnips and radishes and peas and lettuce, and build up little mounds exactly a hoe handle height in the sun and its shadow's apart for muskmelons, and arranging everything according to its length and decorating all the edges with flowers. It's like weaving a 'patterned Market'."

Passing slowly along a row, Julia framed herself in the window before, bending to the hoe. Cynthia waved to her out of the bubble of joy Cynthia. She stooped in a graceful that was within her.

"She keeps breaking up the clouds and pounding at them until she has out every one that's bigger than a swallow's egg. She is pretty. Mother is."

"She was a whole lot purtier when she was eighteen than I am. She was taller, and straighter and her hair was brown and her teeth whiter. Will I be standing in the wood-lot with a dress full of pinpoints when a man comes riding on 'nappies'?"

"I'll know him the minute I set eyes on him, just like Mother knew Daddy. I just stood, there, Cynthia, and gawked right at him with my mouth gaping open, I reckon. He had ridden all the way from Wolfpen down to Scioto to see his sister, your aunt Rachel. He was tall and straight, and his beard was silky and flax-colored. I just stared like an owl surprised by a light. He pulled up his horse right in front of the gate and his blue eyes were looking right in my born days. Then I looked down, reddening to the roots of my hair, and saw me holding my dress up full of chips."

In a pinhole I dropped the chips and ran like a scared rabbit back to the kitchen and looked back from the curtained window. He sat there on his big bay horse in a trance, and then rode on at a gallop to your Aunt Rachel's. And that's the first time I ever saw Sparrel Pattern."

"Some day he'll come riding up Wolfpen here on a bay mare that's fifteen hands or better, and I'll be there by the pear tree in my blue cashmere dress with one hand lifted to a branch of blossoms like this, and he'll stop his mare and look and look at me, and then say, 'Lady, you're the prettiest sight I ever saw in my life.'"

"Some day I'm going to go down the creek and down the Big Sandy to the great world and see the steam boats and railroad trains and the brick roads in the towns. I could ride the Fine mare, and be down there in about three days. Jesse said that I wouldn't want to stay anywhere else. I'd rather be here on Wolfpen to live, I think I would, and see Mother making her garden with poppies all around it, and then after a while the big-holly-hocks standing up straight like ladies and adorned with proud colored buttons on their dresses and bright medals on their breasts, looking clean up and over everything, over the palling and over the corn, and over the blue larkspurs along the road and the red and white and blue 'weed' in the white garden nor a clod bigger than a swallow's egg. Would you better be a white holly-hock standing up straight in a corner by a brave red stall, and when the wind comes down the hollow in the evening

tive for several reasons. In the first place the Government has just placed through its lean spending program. Beginning next month the common schools will open throughout the State for several months the monthly outlay of the State Government will be far ahead of expenditures of the last three or four months.

But, all in all, there is no doubt that Governor Chandler has managed the fiscal policy of the State, as represented in the State Treasury, most successfully. None can deny that he has made a better record in that respect than any governor in the last twenty-five years. At least it will be conceded that he has stopped the steady growth of the State debt. Not only has he stopped it, but also actually has made some progress toward paying it off.

There is an interesting story behind this accomplishment. It has been brought about through much fact-finding on the part of the method, which commanded wide attention were his drastic cuts in payrolls last December, and his lapping off of sales tax revenue last January. Government has gone along with little change that was perceptible to the average citizen.

The Governor kept many of the departments working for more than six months with skeleton organization. He dropped more than 8,000 employees from the highway payrolls. The severe winter with its extreme freezes played havoc with the low type highways of the State, rendering several thousand miles of traffic impassable. But for this condition, which necessitated large outlays in the spring, the spring, the Governor's showing would have been approximately $1,000,000 better.

When the State Administration gave up the sales tax early in January it deprived itself of approximately $700,000 income monthly. For four months the State was without any of this revenue, a loss in the face of this revenue loss the Administration bought up more warrants in the first six months than had been bought in any full year in the last ten years.

When the revenue began to come in on May 1. Most of the other revenue which replaced the general sales tax started nearly a month ago. The omnibus bill, including taxes on cosmetics, ice cream, chewing gum, and candy, will not become effective until next Wednesday. The income tax will not begin to add money to the State Treasury until next year.

The tax-collecting machinery under Dr. J. W. Meakin, head of the Department of Revenue, has been completely revamped. This organization this month will exceed its previous production records. It is obvious, however, that the governor has the problem of matching expenditures with income well in hand.

The Administration has no announced its plan for refinancing the outstanding war debt obligation. The method of refunding the outstanding debt could be devised the Governor could effect a saving of approximately $400,000 annually on the scheme. This savings, might run to $2,000,000 for his four-year term.

The problem is not one of refinancing the debt but one of adjusting any refinancing plan to the involved legal interpretations which the Court of Appeals has thrown around the entire debt situation.

Twenty years ago the Appellate Court studied a Constitution Amendment which said that the State could have a floating debt of more than $500,000, and ruled that the State's war debt consisted of a debt. Official Frankfurt, with that ruling immediately set out on a wide policy of warrant issuing until when Governor Chandler took office the outstanding road and general fund warrant amount to approximately $25,000,000. These warrants represented a debt regardless of the Appellate Court's decision.

through the garden he'd lean over and touch you with the top blossom? Or would you better be a hawk sailing over the Pinnacle on the wind? Or a dove maybe?"

While her fingers tossed delicately the shuttle of blue wool between the net of golden thread in the harness, and the bolt of twill by the width of each strand, the smell of the pines on Cranenest Mountain was gathered up and blown lightly on the wind into her thought through the open window by the loom.

College Features Comedy Romance

Studded with a star-bright cast including Melvyn Douglas, Mary Astor, Edith Fellows and Jackie Moran, Columbia's liltng comedy romance, "And So They Were Married," will make its local bow at the College Theatre, Friday, July 3. The film is based on Sarah Addison's widely read "Good Housekeeping" magazine story, "Bless The Heart." It recounts the uproarious experiences of a renegade male and his woman-hating, 11-year-old son who are marooned in a mountain resort in the company of a lovely lady who believes men are not only annoying but totally unnecessary. Also included in the woman's 9-year-old daughter, a fiery brat who is more spirited than her mother in her aversion to the male species.

Both mother and daughter and father and son have not only a joyous but totally unnecessary. Also included in the woman's 9-year-old daughter, a fiery brat who is more spirited than her mother in her aversion to the male species.

Both mother and daughter and father and son have not only a joyous but totally unnecessary. Also included in the woman's 9-year-old daughter, a fiery brat who is more spirited than her mother in her aversion to the male species.

A snow-slide closes the road leading to the resort and Miss Astor, Douglas, and their respective offspring, are the only guests at the gala opening of the mountain lodge. High in the magnificent mountains, romance blooms and finally Douglas proposes to Mary. However, the children determine to break up the affair. They are unsuccessful until Douglas happens to speak Mary's young daughter by mistake. Furious, Mary breaks the engagement, feeling that she could not tolerate a husband given to spanking her child.

At home again in town, the children discover their parents are unhappy. They realize finally that there is only one thing to do; bring their parents together again. "And So They Were Married" then sweeps to a fast and frothy conclusion. The entire picture was photographed in the high Sierra Nevada mountains and the majestic beauty of the snow-covered mountains provides a grand background for the comedy.
