

The Bystander

MUCH ADD ABOUT NOTHING. The Bystander was somewhat surprised by certain statements in an editorial entitled "The Price of Fame" which appeared in last week's edition of our esteemed contemporary.

The above mentioned editorial contained the following: "The Morehead State Teachers College summer session just being held at the Jayne Stadium. This point cost $12.00."

On a regulation sent to the state purchasing agent by the college, $245 worth of blue and white uniforms was bought by the state purchasing agent from the N. E. Kennard Hardware Company of this city.

WE THINK CHANDLER IS A nice, right guy (especially after shaking hands with him at the American Folk Song Festival Sunday afternoon) but we doubt whether we would stomach that Warren county woman did. According to the Salersville Independent: "Charged with drunkenness, a woman prisoner at the Warren county jail, Bowling Green, complained of a stomach ache. Doctor came, found no cause, resorted to an X-ray. He discovered in her stomach two coins, five shoe eyes and a Chandler-for-Senator button!"

Ordinance Passed Limiting Number Of Liquor Stores To 5

No Action Taken On Question Of Incorporating Amendments

Further consideration will be given the question of incorporating additional amendments to the City of Morehead, according to the action of the city council Tuesday night when they met in regular session.

Two petitions, one from the Swift addition asking annexation, the other from the Flemingsburg road and Route 60 area objecting were presented. The latter said the city had burdens enough without adding any more.

An ordinance limiting the number of liquor stores to five, which was ordered filed with City Clerk Roy Holbrook for further consideration. Jim Jacy presented the petition to the council objecting to the annexation.

AN EDITORIAL

In last week's issue of the Rowan County News, under the caption, "First Summer Term Opens Monday," the following statement was made: "A steady decrease in enrollment during the last three years has been recorded."

The records of the registrar's office of the college show that the peak enrollment for the school year 1935-36 was 847 students; for 1936-37, 881 students, and for 1937-38, 912 students. There is, therefore, no truth in the statement that the enrollment has decreased at the college during the last three years.

We feel that the people of this community and this state are entitled to know the truth concerning the progress of Morehead State Teachers College under the present progressive administration and we feel constrained to correct our colleague, the editor of the "News," in this erroneous statement and to suggest that, in the interests of community welfare, he seek more reliable sources of information.

Kentucky's Walk Of Fame To Honor Fleming Pioneer

Founder Of Stockton's Station Will Receive That County

Flemingsburg—Major George Stockton, founder of Stockton's Station, and whose name is linked with Fleming county's earliest history, has been chosen to represent this county in "Kentucky's Walk of Fame" to be laid in Kentucky Memorial Park at Harrodsburg, in the near future. Stockton was elected by the Kentucky Pioneer Memorial association from names of pioneers who have been chosen by the association.

The reasons given for Stockton's selection were that he had lived longer in the county and that his name, which has been found recorded by the early writers.

Stockton's name along with the names of other counties of the state, will be inscribed upon a native stone and placed along a walk leading from the object of a monument dedicated by President Roosevelt a few years ago. The stone for Fleming county has already been set at Harrodsburg. A bronze tablet will be placed at the beginning of the walk, setting forth the object of the association in its continuance; that a committee be appointed to investigate the feasibility of such a project; that they be spread upon the minute book of the Association and, that a copy of each of these resolutions, to be each of the following: The Board of Regents, President Harvey A. Babb, Coaches Johnson, Miller and Laughlin, and to the press.

These Resolutions voted unanimously by the members of the Association in an executive session at their regular business meeting, June 1st, 1938, at Morehead, Kentucky.

ABOUT OUR POPULATION AGAIN

The Carter County Herald praises Morehead in an editorial for the possession of red street lights and in the same breath asserts that the population here is less than one-third that of Olive Hill.

This city is growing! If the new census will be the corporation limits are made soon we will be willing to wager that in 1940 when the U. S. census is taken that Morehead will be larger than Olive Hill and we aren't just saying it.

HOW ABOUT STREET LIGHTS HERE

We know there was a lot of objections and they was in the right, when the one red light was used in the city because it did not serve its purpose. A child was struck Memorial Day, accidentally killed by a car which drove a light at Mill street in the east end of the city and the Scott and Tabor Corner to be one of the best and safest ways of preventing fast driving through our city.

All you have to do is ask the pedestrians and they will tell you the lights are the things they look for and failing to see them they think the city is open for fast driving. Morehead with less than 1-3 the people we have here and they have their lights and it has been wondered and we must be something done here, and we just mention this as a reminder and for you to study over and talk about.

COURT OF APPEALS SUSTAINS THE PURGATION LAW

The registration law for purgation law was held valid by the Kentucky court of appeals last week. This decision disproves charges that the act had as its purpose the disfranchisement of any legal voter. Had there been anything in the law which would have deprived a single citizen of the right to vote the highest court in the state would have declared it invalid.

In any state where a general registration of voters is required by law, a plan by which names of voters be stricken off who are no longer entitled to vote. In the course of a year scores of voters die, others move out of the county. It is plain to be seen that it is necessary to remove such names from the registration books.

There have been known to be instances in which illegal, fictitious names of voters find their way onto registration lists. The only way by which the honesty and integrity of elections may be preserved is to provide a plan of clearing from the list of registered voters from time to time, those not entitled to vote. That is the purpose of the purgation law. Rights of voters are preserved thereunder as is indicated by decision of the court. Provision is made for a purging of registration records if there be a request from a candidate that it be done.

HOW BRITAIN PLANS TO SETTLE HER DEBT WITH THE U. S.

A recent report suggests that England may devalue the 240,000,000 pound sterling of gold now held by the Bank of England and offer the resulting profit, some $700,000,000 to the United States as a lump payment of the British debt.

two ways for a nation to pay a debt, either with gold or goods. Do we want more gold? Obviously, no. Statesmen have been saying that they are now fearful that our great holdings may be the potential source of serious inflation.

But England wants to pay with goods, we would still be reluctant; because we already have over-production. We don't need more goods. We need a way to distribute the large stocks we have.

However, someone suggested that England pay us off by building battlehips for us. We can use them. But that solution, very likely, would be outlawed if actually proposed because it would heighten our militaristic power and England wants to be Queen of the Seas.

THE NEW POLITICAL PARTY
The new "National Progressive" party which Governor Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin and his brother Senator Bob LaFollette, recently launched, may or may not prove to be an important factor in national politics.

Whether the National Progressive party can gain seats in Congress and carry enough votes in the next Presidential election to establish itself as a permanent "Centrist" party remains to be seen. The history of American politics has been that whenever a new third party has shown such strength its principles have been adopted by the two older parties and its voting strength absorbed by the party which is most popular of those principles.—Flamingburg Gazette.

CLEAR DEFINITION

It is doubtless true that a misconception has sprung up about freedom of the press, to the effect that it is a special right granted for the benefit of publishers. The American Society of Newspaper Editors, in convention at Washington, did an excellent thing in adopting a resolution that places this constitutional guaranty in its proper setting.

TAXI

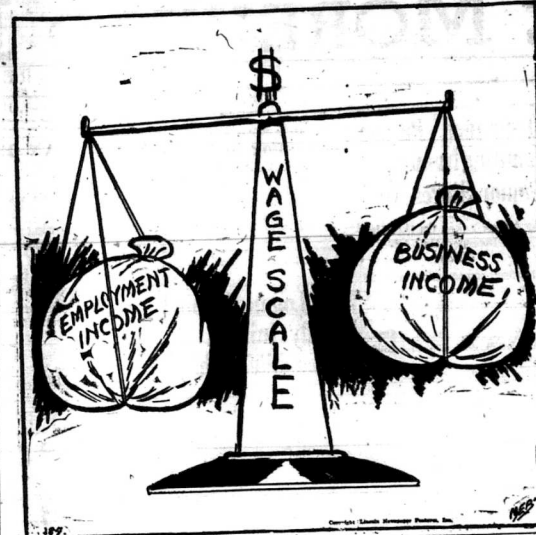

One day these IQ tests were bound to go too far. The limit seems to have been reached when a taxi company employed a professor of psychology to prepare a series of questions which were supposed to help "backward drivers" to overcome their "deficiencies." They found the backward drivers but the result was most emphatically not the one expected.

One of the questions was: "At four cents each, how many pencils can be purchased for 36 cents?" It was after this, admitted Charles A. Pirolli, president of the Taxi Drivers Union, that the strike sentiment spread rapidly. These gentlemen, it seems, were just "not amused." They considered such questions as whether: "a finger is to a hand as a toe is to a heel, shoe, knee, foot, toenail," were parts of "a slick scheme for finding excuses to fire drivers the boss didn't like."

MERCHANTS IN CAMPAIGN DO COMMUNITY SERVICE

The Morehead Merchants who are supporting the Merchants Trade-at-Home campaign are doing their community a service. Some of them, of course, receive direct monetary returns; the others "go along" because they think it is the thing to do. Merchants who do not get a quick financial benefit will eventually receive their rewards because a trade-building campaign is the same as an investment.

A Christian with a dying

Christ is a dying Christian. History shows us that the expansion and elevated power of the Gospel depend upon the prominence given to the sacrifice of the Cross. An old father says that the only thing that merits admittance is the blood of a lamb. The Gospel reveals the precious blood of Jesus Christ, His death for us as a ransom, His death for us as a substitute, His death for us as a sacrifice of the Cross.

New Project For Gigantic Valley

The Great Central Valley of California, where one of the newest and largest Federal conservation projects is under construction by the Bureau of Reclamation, embraces ten million acres of tillable lands. It includes twenty counties dotted by 83 cities and towns and populated by 1,000,000 persons — an agricultural empire supported by producing lands which represent an investment of approximately two billion dollars.

COULEE PROGRESS DISMANTLES SPAN

A suspension bridge 3,400 feet long has just been dismantled at the Grand Coulee Dam. During its short life of 23 and a half years it has carried across the Columbia river 80,000 carloads of sand and gravel on a belt conveyor and 10,000 carloads of cement through a steel pipe to the concrete mixing plants, one on each side of the dam now spans the river channel, and the bridge is superfluous.

THE BRIDE WORE RED

BEATRICE FABER

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Wade Rawlins, novelist, romancing it on the Pacific Coast, is stranded when his car falls into a ravine. He goes to the Kilbourne house to ask if he may use the phone. He is mistaken for a tramp and as Mrs. Kilbourne has a hobby for taking strange men in and the chauffeur has disappeared that morning, he is engaged against his will. But after a few exciting and humorous situations, he wants to stay in the strange household. It will be good copy.

CHAPTER FOUR

Jerry, despite her forceful manner, had doubts as to her wisdom in insisting that Wade should remain with them. Perhaps it would have been better if she had not intervened when Grosvonor had tried to "tramp" him out. There was something unusual about him and it disturbed her. He did not talk as if he were a tramp, for one thing. Of course she had heard of hoboes who read Homer in the original and wrote the morning newspaper, but no tramp who had ever come to them seemed at ease with the English language as this young man did.

What worried her was her mother's saying as they drove of that it was wonderful Wade had come to them because he knew all about "tramp." She must let him to know at once that she, for one, would stand for no nonsense. "Will you kindly tell me what tramp may be," she demanded. "Your mother is of the opinion it is a disease to which roses are subject."

him in such a way that a collision was unavoidable. Wade and the other man jumped from their cars to see what damage had been done.

"I'm a member of this club and I shall protest against allowing drivers who can't drive, being allowed on the club grounds," the young man said haughtily to Wade.

"I assure you that it was unavoidable," Wade answered quietly. "But I think that since you say me trying to back out you might have waited a minute before trying to edge in."

"Do you know to whom you are speaking in this insolent fashion?" I am Herbert Wheeler and I won't stand--"

"Two or three club members had been attracted to the altercation and were trying to soothe Herbert. One of them was asking him not to be a fool. He was still angry but suddenly his voice changed as Jerry came up to ask what the trouble was.

"The other fellow's fault again, wasn't it Herbert? Strange how it's always the same story."

"But Jerry, if you'll only let me explain, I can make it all clear."

"Don't waste your breath now my time. I'm hurrying on."

"I'll call you at home."

"Please do, Herbert. I won't be there."

They drove for a few minutes in silence and when it was broken it was by Wade. He said the damage was slight; he thought he would be able to repair it himself without going to a service station, he regretted the unpleasant incident.

"Oh, it's part of your education to learn that Herbert has a positive genius for creating unpleasant situations."

"It wasn't wholly his fault," said Wade.

"Now, don't try to become noble," she said. "I know, without knowing, all about it. Who better than I?" She hesitated a moment and then said: "Herbert and I have known each other ever since I can remember. Sometimes I can stand him—in fact everybody takes it for granted that we are engaged. But I won't be that as it may. I want you to know that I admire you for trying to let Herbert off easy."

"Shall we wipe all this incident off the record?" asked Wade.

"O. K.," she answered.

The car evidently had been damaged, so Jerry decided to forego her other stops and go directly home. It might take a long time to repair the car and Wade must get her father on the afternoon train. As she left the car, she opened her purse and took from it a bill.

"Better take this," she said. "The work may be beyond you and we can't have my car out of commission."

"I don't want to seem too inquisitive, Miss Kilbourne," Wade said. "But would you mind telling me what your father looks like?"

"Why—he's about the size of a conductor on a local train and the only other thing I can think of this minute is that he shouldn't eat strawberries because he adores them but only when they are out of season and besides they always give him a rash. Perhaps, if you see mother, you'd better tell her probably she can think of other things—you see she has known him longer than I have."

Wade did not ask Mrs. Kilbourne or anyone else to add to the description of his new employer. He felt anything any of them said might be misleading. It was much simpler to wait in the car. He did not know Mr. Kilbourne but surely Mr. Kilbourne would know his own car. Or would he? One could not count on anything in this strange household.

Fortunately Mr. Kilbourne did know his car and evinced no surprise seeing at the wheel a man he had never seen before. Mr. Kilbourne settled himself in the car, took from his pocket a cigar and tried, without success, to get a spark from his lighter. Between attempts, he spoke.

"Tramp?" he asked nonchalantly.

"Not at present. I am the new chauffeur."

"Intend to stay long with us?"

"That depends—"

"On my family?"

"Yes, sir."

"Mrs. Kilbourne certainly didn't lose any time. Usually we have a little interim between tramps."

"This time it was Miss Kilbourne who really insisted."

"Heavens ho! She too?"

"It looks like it, doesn't it?"

"And here I've been kidding myself that Jerry was the only member of the family with any sense. Except myself, of course."

They rode for about a mile without further conversation. When Mr. Kilbourne broke the silence it was with a question asked in the most casual manner.

"Stolen anything yet?"

"No sir. I've been busy cleaning myself up, getting the car in condition and driving. I've been in the house only a few hours."

"Well, of course, you haven't had much chance in a few hours. Anyway, it's hardly worth your time trying to find anything Nearly everything of value has been carted off by your predecessors."

"Thank you, sir," said Wade.

When they had reached the house, Wade opened the door for Mr. Kilbourne and asked if he had any orders from him.

"Yes," said Mr. Kilbourne, "Put the car in the garage, take off that uniform and clear out of here."

"But if you will allow me to say so, Mrs. Kilbourne said—"

"I know what she probably said. What I say is that you take your orders from me. I will make one condition. As it is growing late, you may stay here tonight. The morning I will pay you for your day's work, a week's wages. Then you go—and don't come back ever."

Behind The Scenes In Business

BUSINESS: A better feeling prevailed last week in business at agricultural circles. Farmers, especially in the west, were cheered by the fact that the price of wheat which two weeks ago had dropped to 67 cents a bushel, was back to the 75 cent level. With America's wheat crop estimated at one billion bushels, this means $80,000,000 more for farmers. Cotton rose too, more than $2 a bale, on reports of heavy rains damaging the crop. Great Britain ordered 400 airplanes from U. S. firms, practically assuring capacity operations in this industry for at least two years. Auto manufacturers said that it may not be necessary to close Detroit plants for two months this summer, as previously expected. Renewal of confidence is seen in the fact that railroads last month ordered 6,114 new freight cars. In April only three were ordered.

WASHINGTON: While retail business promises to be dull this fall, there is good reason to look for a sharp expansion in the fall. President Roosevelt has asked the WPA to prepare a list of projects costing about $600,000,000 which can be begun by the end of this month. Once the government pump-priming ball gets rolling, it is believed that an average of $300,000,000 a month will be spent for the balance of 1938. Opinions differ as to the ultimate value of such a program for achieving lasting recovery, but there is little doubt that temporarily it will greatly stimulate mass buying power and therefore retail trade.

DRINK MILK: Doctors say that milk is a vital health beverage, but for American farmers it can be a source of wrinkled brows and business losses. The nation produces approximately 49 billion quarts of milk each year, equal to a quart a day for each man, woman and child in the country. This year, however, there is an unusually heavy supply of milk and so distributors and producers are conducting a nation-wide drive to boost the use of dairy products. The "drink more milk" campaign was launched last week. Practically all stores are cooperating with other retailers to maintain the flow of dairy products, to consumers at price levels which will boost sales and assure dairy products a stabilized market. It is estimated that 2,500,000 American farm families, dependent on milk for their income, will be benefited.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR: A new treatment for cloth which will enable designs to retain their sharpness and original luster on washings. An apparatus which permits a patient to administer anesthesia to himself without having a tooth filled, a bone set or while undergoing a minor operation; as long as he feels pain he squeezes on a bulb similar to those used on stonemasons. A vending machine that sells flashlight batteries. A new view vanity mirror for women interested in seeing what is going on behind their backs without being observed. A method of freezing bread so that it can be kept in storage six to eight months.

NO BOUNDS FOR POWER: Leaders of the electric power industry met last week in America's time-honored convention town, Atlantic City. Cool ocean breezes promoted the conciliatory spirit, and a sincere desire to cooperate with the government luster was expressed. Another boom seems to be on the way, for according to one spokesman, a $13,000,000,000 investment in new plant facilities will be required in the next decade to meet the growing demand for electricity. It was revealed that the end of 1937 Americans were using 2,100,000 more electric refrigerators, 325,000 more electric ranges, 2,000,000 additional radios, 750,000 washing machines, 1,200,000 electric clocks, 1,350,000 flatirons, 600,000 vacuum cleaners and

New Reservoirs Raise Federal Total To 74

Two irrigation storage reservoirs were put into service this month by the Bureau of Reclamation, bringing to 74 the total number of Federal reservoirs which will be used this summer in the work of irrigating farms of the arid and semiarid West.

The new reservoirs are those created by the Unity Dam on the Burnt River in Oregon and by the Caballo Dam on the Rio Grande, below the Elephant Butte Dam in New Mexico. Unity Dam is completed. Caballo Dam is more than 75 per cent completed and is expected to be finished this season. Because the river is controlled by Elephant Butte Dam, the unfinished Caballo Dam safely could be put to work this spring.

Lists Prepared For Conservation Study

Plans are under way for extending the services of the Office of Education, Department of the Interior, to include helpful materials on teaching conservation. A series of bibliographies for teachers and pupils have been prepared.

At least four units in the series will be ready for distribution within the next few months. Write for your copy or copies and your name will be placed on the mailing list to receive the bibliographies as soon as they are available.

NUDE DEER SEEN

A fawn, practically hairless and with definitely pink skin, is a freak of nature noted recently in the Lake McDonald district of Glacier National Park, Montana.

Farmers will often donate small trees to be transplanted.

Packhorse Library

The library celebrated last Wednesday with a book shower and party. One hundred seventy-nine guests were present. Music was furnished by Carl and Calvin Fugate and 3 girls, Oleta Fugate, Juanita Cramer, and Bladenia Myhner, all of Clearfield. Books were played and refreshments served. Everyone reported a nice time. Among the guests was the library sponsor and backer, Roy Corsette.
Children's books are being purchased this week with money donated by Mrs. Gertrude Snyder. One hundred thirty more books were donated to the library this week by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. This company has sent several shipments of books to the library.
The library has added to its collection an average of almost 600 books and 4,000 magazines each month since it was reopened in February. It now has many fine fiction books for your use.

And LOUISVILLE Has Some Attractions, Too!
When business or pleasure brings you to Louisville, fill your trip to the brim by seeing as much of the city as possible. Here are just a few suggestions:
Plan to— See Churchill Downs—and the Louisville and Portland Canal—and the Memorial Auditorium—and the U. S. Coast Guard Station—the only one on any river!
Drive leisurely through Louisville's many parks, said to be the most beautiful in America!
See a leading brand of automobile being assembled on a "production line"—go through a big cigarette factory—take a moonlight excursion trip up the Ohio!
And when you're in the Brown Hotel itself, there's still a lot to do! Dine and dance in the Brown Hotel's smart Bluegrass Room—the brightest "spot" in town!... Eat the fine food in the Brown Grill—and in the Coffee Shop!... Go through Radio Station WAVE, up on our fifteenth floor!... In other words, make it a weekend you'll talk about for a long time! We'll gladly help you plan it!

Kentucky Briefs

Millersburg — Noel Horseman brought to the Courier office a double egg that well carries a place among the archives of Bob Ripley's Odditorium.

The "Siamese" chicken egg (or eggs) has two bulbous ends which are joined together by a neck a quarter-inch in length. Each bulb is about the size of a ping-pong ball, and, believe it or not, the yolk is in one bulb and the "white" in the other. Local would-be biologists have prognosticated that if the egg hatched a male part of a "pullet" that it would hatch a pair out of one end and a rooster out of the other. (NOTE: We will not allow our office to become a laboratory for the experiment.)

Owingsville — J. Sidney Caudel, prominent attorney of Owingsville, was elected Commander of Bath Post No. 42, American Legion, at the regular monthly meeting held Friday night. Mr. Caudel succeeds Frank C. Hart, of Sharpshooter. Other officers elected at the same time are: C. S. Swartz, 1st Vice Commander; W. F. Wells, 2nd Vice Commander; Claude Young, 3rd Vice Commander; W. S. Thomas, Adjutant; W. C. Gandy, Finance Officer; Herman Sneed, Sergeant at Arms; Rev. Harrison Howard, Chaplain; and Dr. J. W. Lester, Service Officer.

The new officers will be installed at the next meeting, which will be held July 7.

Delegates to the district convention, who were instructed to vote for Earl A. Thompson, of Sharpshooter, for Ninth district commander were J. S. Caudel, Frank C. Hart and W. S. Thomas.

Training for forest rangers—that is the specialty of the New York State Ranger School directed by the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University. Since 1912 this school has educated those wanting to fill the gap between the lumber jack and the professional forester, according to the Office of Education, Department of the Interior.

Fifty-three students enrolled to take the 1938-39 course in this school which is located in the Adirondacks on the shores of Cranberry Lake. Young men who have had a high school education or the equivalent but who are unable to take a regular four-year course in forestry, take this intensive study of fundamentals every year for rangers show.

Many graduates of this school have risen to important jobs in the profession of forestry, it is reported.

Quart of Charcoal Survey Is Mark For Section Corners

Puzzled by the performance of a party of geologists and Reclamation engineers in sifting soil taken from a location apparently determined with great care, a visiting journalist has been led to learn that 72.70 they were hoping to find charcoal mixed with the soil.

On the sessed and abandoned dry-farm across on the Columbia Basin Project, section corners and quarter-section corners were originally located for the Government 35 to 75 years ago by contract surveyors, who were expected to bury a quart of charcoal at a quarter-section corner. Engineers of the Bureau of Reclamation are now retracing the original surveys, as a basis not only for ownership maps but for the basis of the topographic maps of the area, in which the selection of irrigable land will be based.

The number of miles of track laid underground in Pennsylvania mines is greater than the mileage of railroad tracks spread over the surface of that state.
