ROWAN FARMERS AWAKE TO COOPERATION

Beginning operation of the first combine in Rowan county last week, a large farm machine for threshing wheat stationary, is an example of the awakening of farmers in this county to the value of cooperation with their neighbors.

This combine, which also combines Korean, soybeans, cow peas, and other grasses, was purchased with a loan from the Farm Security Administration by a group of farmers.

More examples of cooperating this year was the group purchase of two bulls, three line spreaders and a saw mill.

A NEW ATTRACTION FOR ROWAN COUNTY A new and interesting attraction for the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair has been suggested—A Soap Box Derby.

All over the United States this comparatively new and healthy sport has aroused the enthusiasm of children and adults alike.

The derby could be held on the Flemingsburg road leading into the city of Morehead, where the hill would make an ideal location.

WHOSE ADVERTISING BILL DO YOU PAY? The store that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does.

You have, perhaps, wondered how some stores can afford to spend such enormous sums for advertising. That's easy to figure.

USE MORE MILK At the request of producers, a nationwide drive for moving huge quantities of surplus dairy products has been started.

The 200,000 stores cooperating in this great voluntary effort to avert an agricultural crisis make up a virtual "What Wagon" of American merchandise.

The figures afford ample proof of the need for such a campaign. In the typical month of April, dairy products were nearly 12 per cent above a year ago, and more than 12 per cent above the rising surplus which must be disposed of by the creation of unusually large consumer demand if the nation's dairy farmers are to be saved ruinous losses.

The benefits from this campaign, if it is successful and all present in the consumer-producer campaigns initiated by a group of stores two years ago indicates that it will be—beyond calculation.

You reduce your overhead when you bring more customers into your store.

The moment you turn the key in the door of your place of business each morning you automatically switch on the overhead. There is no plan wherein you can get away from it.

a few hundred dollars added to your newspaper advertising doesn't raise the overhead. It lowers it, because it brings more buying customers into your store and reduces your overhead.

CHANDLER IN PROSE AND POETRY

It is with regret that the meagre ability of this writer limits him in his praise of our great governor, A. B. "Happy" Chandler. However, this does not bind the enthusiasm with which (after a very careful study of both candidates) he is endowed.

You may be assured that it is with sincere admiration that he offers interested readers this humble attempt at poetry writing.

In the most remote parts, the governor's voice reaches. Telling us facts, he denounces the leeches, A la Chandler.

Into Kentuckians' homes he is carrying the race, Assuring all of us he is the man for the place. And showing us why we have a "Senate disgrace." Bravo, Chandler!

He has built institutions, aided the schools, Reduced our taxes, made a set of good rules; In the face of opposition, he has fought many duels, This Chandler!

Let's all of us, now, climb in with the band, Support "Happy" Chandler, and be strong in our stand, Carry high his banner, and shout all over the land, "We want Chandler!" —TMRH

MODEL COMMUNITY

Speaking of experimentation, news comes of a civic experiment in the industrial town of Dowagiac, Mich., which ought to be worth watching.

What is to be done? The state department of public instruction and the University of Michigan will develop a "planned living" program with city officials, civic organizations, merchants and representatives of industrial employers and employees.

Features of the "unique experiment are a planned study of the community's economic, social and cultural needs; planned civic recreation; classes in employer-employee relationships; the employment of an industrial adviser; agricultural instruction for factory workers with small farms; night school for farmers; a community attack on housing problems.

What is unique about this community's experiment is the strength of the community spirit behind it. If Dowagiac makes itself into "the nation's model community," it's to be hoped that other communities throughout the country take the cue.

UNNECESSARY ADVICE

Some time ago there was published, in a Nova Scotia newspaper, certain advice for those people of the Province who wished to accommodate what is known as the Tourist Trade during the summer months.

Such advice seems entirely unnecessary. Seldom does one meet with such unfeeling politeness and interested helpfulness as in this beautiful market town. The water is in a long peninsula between two bodies of water, the Atlantic Ocean and the Bay of Fundy.

All this seems somehow to be reflected in the manners and speech of those bright and transient guests with Nova Scotians on country roads, in small towns, or city streets—Christian Science Monitor.

At the request of producers, a nationwide drive for moving huge quantities of surplus dairy products has been started.

The 200,000 stores cooperating in this great voluntary effort to avert an agricultural crisis make up a virtual "What Wagon" of American merchandise.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JULY 10

CALEB: LIFE-TIME DEVOTION

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 14:6-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it. Numbers 13:30.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Brave Caleb.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Caleb the Brave.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Hero's Reward.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Courage for Difficult Tasks.

"We need to know more about good men who are occasionally great, and less about great men who are occasionally good," says the Lesson Commentary, in pointing out that Caleb is one of the characters about whom the Bible does not say much, but in every case the word is one revealing high and noble character.

The background for our study of today, and in fact, an integral part of the lesson itself, is the story of Caleb's courageous stand with Joshua when the spies returned from their visit to Canaan, which is related in Numbers 13. He was then a comparatively young man, but demonstrated by his every word and deed that he had from his youth learned to know and obey God.

Note first of all Caleb's "I Fear Obedience" (vv. 6-8).

"I wholly followed the Lord my God." Such a testimony from a man of God is worth more than an effort to parade his faith and piety before others. In saying it he was repeating what God and in fact, the integral part of the lesson itself, is the story of Caleb's courageous stand with Joshua when the spies returned from their visit to Canaan, which is related in Numbers 13.

It is God's will for each of His children that they should come to such a place of simple trust and complete obedience that in every circumstance of life they need know only one thing—God's will, and then in faith to go and do it. It is a life beautiful in its transparent simplicity and power that is the strength of God Himself!

"I Promised Inheritance (v. 9). "Surely the land whither I have brought you is a good land; the land has yielded strength to the heart of His children. Learn then God's promises and cherish them in your heart, expect God to fulfill them."

Such also are the promises of God which keep the heart singing in our hours of trial and sorrow, which light up the dark ways, and strengthen the heart of His children. Learn then God's promises and cherish them in your heart, expect God to fulfill them."

III. Preserved Strength (vv. 10, 11).

"The Lord hath kept me alive and I am strong." Here was a man kept of God, in full vigor in his eighty-fifth year, and in a land that had been laid waste like a snow-covered peak in a change of cloud and storm an sun" (Meyer). No doubt there was what we mean when we call "the longevity of the antedeluvians," but even apart from that let us recognize that life and strength come from God and those who walk with God in holy living may count on Him for the renewed strength of Psalm 138.

An incidental, but extremely important lesson, we should learn is that God has no age deadline. The church has frequently sinned against Him and against His faithful servants by "shelving them" for younger men. When the writer of these lines is asked how he has brought blessing to himself and to the church by encouraging and using them, he writes of these lines as follows: "I would speak here a word of loving admonition regarding his honored brethren who have gone before to bear the brunt of the battle."

IV. Powerful Assurance (vv. 12-15).

"The Lord will be with me then I shall be able." Caleb asked for no easy task. He went to go up against the giants of Hebron. Read Deuteronomy 3:11, and you find that there were men in those days who needed thirteen-foot boots, but Caleb was not afraid. He counted not on his own strength, but on the power of God. It is significant that while the other sections of Canaan were only partially conquered Caleb brought his formidable adversaries entirely under control, so that "the land was brought under" (v. 15). The spiritual application to our day is evident and appropriate. There are giants in the land in this year of our Lord 1938. Corruption—social and political—raises its brazen head. Drunkenness and vice lead us with the impudent suggestion that we cannot control them.

OVER NIAGARA

control them. There are giants within us—greed, selfishness, love of ease, lust, passion, cruelty (Blakie). Are we to do nothing about them in the strength of the Lord? We must almost as well do nothing. But in the power of God, we are like Caleb—able to hear the address to be made by Governor Chandler to the rally in his honor to be held at Bardstow Thursday, July 7. The governor is scheduled to go on the air from 2:45 to 3:45 that afternoon and his speech will be carried by WHAS, Louisville; WPAD, Paducah; WCKY, Covington; WCMJ, Ashland; and WLAP, Lexington. Sponsored by the women voters of Bardstow and the fourth district, the rally will mark the launching of Governor Chandler's senatorial campaign tour in the district. Arrangements for a record crowd are being made by those in charge of the program. The state-wide radio hook-up will afford every citizen of the Commonwealth an opportunity to hear Governor Chandler discuss the issues of the campaign.

MERELY WE LIVE

ADAPTED FROM THE HUMAN GARDEN
BY

PRECEDING CHAPTERS
Wade Rawlins, a novelist, who is roughing it on the Pacific Coast and stranded when his rickety old car falls into a ravine, is mistaken for a tramp at the Kibbourne home. Mrs. Kibbourne has a habit of taking in tramps, so before he can explain matters, he is engaged as chauffeur. The family is so scientific that it decides to stay for the copy they will furnish him. His first night he has to assist Mr. Kibbourne, who has celebrated too much, into the house and discovers the son Kane is lying threatened by card-sharks who have fleeced him. Wade tells him to go to bed, as he thinks he can arrange matters.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Only the duffest side of the Kibbourne household seemed to be in accord with the glorious spring morning when they gathered at the breakfast table the next morning. Jerry was in high spirits, Marian despite a twinkle in her eyes did not try to annoy her sisters with any of her tom-boy tricks and Mrs. Kibbourne—well, she was just her usual self. Kane made a manful but not altogether successful effort to hide the fact that his nerves were not under control. Mr. Kibbourne may have made an effort if it was not apparent in the results. And he must say something in ex-planation. "That man's a whiz," he said. "He's got that kid bus of mine fixed—you should like it, Dad, as much as I do." "I'll have to stop bounding you for a new one." "You wouldn't have got it?" said Mr. Kibbourne, firmly, "not with things as they are today. And that brings me to what I want to say again to all of you. For reasons, which I will not go into, this dinner party to-night I want to be perfect. I want to say again to all of you. Do you understand?" "Not altogether," said Jerry, "as

"Did you have a bad night, Henry," asked his wife tenderly. "No! Stop bothering me, all of you and don't 'Henry' me." He swallowed the aspirin which Grosvener brought him and took a drink from the steaming cup of coffee. Marian opened her eyes wide as she looked across the room. "Dad," she said, "see those mice waiting under the mantelpiece?" He turned quickly and announced in a strangely cheerful voice that of course there were no mice there. But he took another drink of coffee and, trying to be casual, stared at the mantle again. As he still saw no mice there he felt a little better. "Grosvener," said Kane, "I don't want any more eggs, if you don't mind." "By pardon, sir, these must be for some one else. And begging pardon again, I forgot to tell you that this new person who is driving gave me a message for you." "What is it?" asked Kane tensely. "He said to tell you, as he thought, it was only a minor thing. He adjusted it, quite easily." Kane sank back in his chair from relief and his face was radiant. He felt the gimlet-like eyes of his sister on him and his father and Jerry looking at him in surprise. His mother, as always, seemed oblivious to what was going on. He knew it was not apparent in the ex-planation. "That man's a whiz," he said. "He's got that kid bus of mine fixed—you should like it, Dad, as much as I do." "I'll have to stop bounding you for a new one." "You wouldn't have got it?" said Mr. Kibbourne, firmly, "not with things as they are today. And that brings me to what I want to say again to all of you. For reasons, which I will not go into, this dinner party to-night I want to be perfect. I want to say again to all of you. Do you understand?" "Not altogether," said Jerry, "as you won't let us in on the secret. But something tells me Senator Harlan—" "I'm not interested in what something tells you," he said, interrupted her father. "What I am interested in is having one party in this house run smoothly. They do other places. Why are ours always so cockeyed?" Jerry with a smile looked around the table and then turned and nodded her head at the back of Grosvener, who was going through the door. Her father saw and understood. But he did not understand the backing he got from his younger daughter. Why, he asked, did Marian look so different? Her mother and current enough to satisfy Emily Post, just as if she had happened to be among those invited. "Why, Dad, you haven't forgotten, have you, that I'm to be at the table? My first party with grown-ups! I just yearn to be elegant for once." Mr. Kibbourne shook his head sadly. He had not forgotten Marian was to be at the party. He could not have done that, for he had never known it. Marian insisted that her mother had promised her and when Mrs. Kibbourne was appealed to, she said characteristically that probably she had if the dear child said so for her, she couldn't remember who was coming nor how many. Kane, who was feeling loving toward the world since he had received Wade's message, championed Marian. They checked off the guests who had accepted and the decision was that Marian must have been included elsewhere there would be thirteen at the table. "All right, dear," said Mr. Kibbourne, turning to Marian, "you win. But please remember to be elegant, yourself!" "None of your sneezing powders," said Jerry. "If you pull any funny stuff after this," said Kane, "I'll—I'll—" "Why, Marian will be her own dear self, of course. Won't you, darling?" asked Mrs. Kibbourne, thereby scaring the others so much that it was a wonder Marian's invitation was not recalled and a substitute found for her. Jerry and Marian were both right. "Dad and Marian are both right," she said. "She was promised and I know she will make us all proud of her tonight. And I think we all owe it to Dad to try to be like other people just for tonight anyway. Is it agreed? There, Dad, don't worry, any more." "You are a decent lot," said Mrs. Kibbourne. "Of course you are, but sometimes—well why go into that?" "Yes, why?" said Mrs. Kibbourne. "I'm going to do my best to be the perfect hostess. That makes me think I must ask Wade if—" "Well be snappy about it, whatever it is. He's leaving just as soon—" "Leaving?" the other four at the table seemed to be ranged as a chorus as the word rang out. "Yes, leaving and I'll tell you why. I am not going to have any more tramps in this house. He gets a week's wages—I'll make a month's if you want me to—for one day's work, and today I get a chauffeur not a made-over tramp." "He drives like a real chauffeur," said Jerry, "if he weren't an expert, my car would be ruined after Herbert Wheeler almost ran into him yesterday. And although it was Herbert's fault he tried to blame Wade and Wade was almost disgustingly noble to me in trying to make me believe it was the fault of both of them. His manners, as well as his driving, beat Herbert's." Mr. Kibbourne said Herbert's manners were no standard but Kane was breaking in. "And see how he can fix things—just think what he did for me." Mr. Kibbourne said he would buy Kane a new car he had wanted, rather than keep another disgraced tramp around the place. It was Marian, who spoke next. "There's another thing he's good for. He's a good watchman. Last night I heard a terrible commotion—it woke me out of a deep, childish sleep. Some drunk was trying to get into the house and—Mr. Kibbourne said sharply that Marian must have dreamed it. Of course there had been no drunks around making a lot of noise. It would have wakened him. They all knew he was a light sleeper. But Mrs. Kibbourne had something to say. "The dear child was not dreaming," she said. "I not only heard it. I got up and went to the window and asked Wade what it was. He said everything was all right—just some drunk had insisted he lived here. But he attended to it, all right." "For a minute Mr. Kibbourne said nothing. When he spoke, it was as a dotting husband and father and a noble one. "You have all been so generous, so helpful to me this morning, that if you feel so deeply on this matter of Wade's staying, I'll respect your wishes. Grosvener, tell Wade to have the car ready for me in five minutes." "The dear child was not dreaming," she said. "I not only heard it. I got up and went to the window and asked Wade what it was. He said everything was all right—just some drunk had insisted he lived here. But he attended to it, all right." "For a minute Mr. Kibbourne said nothing. When he spoke, it was as a dotting husband and father and a noble one. "You have all been so generous, so helpful to me this morning, that if you feel so deeply on this matter of Wade's staying, I'll respect your wishes. Grosvener, tell Wade to have the car ready for me in five minutes."

Mr. Kibbourne placed a gentile kiss on Marian's head, and promised his family that Wade would remain.

Late Potatoes

At this writing, there is good prospect of heavy crops of early potatoes, and many families will have enough potatoes for the year. Early potatoes, particularly of the Irish Cobbler and Bliss Triumph varieties are not good potatoes to store for the winter because they begin sprouting, certainly by Christmas and likely before, and decline in quality, even though they may remain usable. Good practice is to make another planting, of a late variety, and to dispose of enough of the early potatoes to pay for the seed and the fertilizer used in producing potatoes that will stay in prime condition until next year's spring crop comes.

As deep as possible, to make the moisture reservoir as large as possible. With the soil deeply broken and deeply prepared, deep planting can be done. Thus the seed, and later the roots of the potato find conditions comparatively cool, and at least part of the hot season hazard is evaded. Further to help as to both moisture-holding ability and friendly soil temperature, for the two go together, a generous amount of vegetable matter should be turned under. This may be stable manure in which straw predominates and of which horse manure is only a small part or entirely lacking, or it may be "green manure," a coat of clover or grass or even weeds.

EATERS

The Steak Eater
I see him in the restaurant crowd. His suit's wide-checked, his socks striped loud. Mixed with his cheerful curving grin. A chuckle from his double chin. And as his arm sweeps out to take The menu card, I'm sure he'll make His choice of a noisy sizzling steak.

The Salad Eater
She nibbles a bit of lettuce leaf.

And she twitches her nose at her carrots. With an eye on the hat at the table in front. And she leans toward the talking because. And I think of the garden on Aunt Kitty's farm. And the trouble she has with the rabbits.

The Pie-Eater
Indeed, at his firm tread might dictators grow pale, and tremble. Financial kings gulp their bicarb and try their fears dissemble. A mighty man is he who thus at midnight's stroke strolls by. Climbs on a stool and with a cool unflinching steely eye, States calmly he'll have coffee with a slice of cold mince pie—Kansas City Star.

Tomato growers in Carlisle county have ordered 7 tons of fertilizer. Hickman county farmers are having ponds dug with the county's terracing machine. A Fulton county homemaker found that changing her living room paper from a floral to a plaid design made an improvement.

Unusual Exhibit Coming To Morehead

Heralded as the greatest educational exhibit of all times, the Mammoth Marine Hippodrome, will exhibit in Morehead for one day only, Monday, July 18. 'Colossus' a 60-ton sea monster, over 55 feet long, is one of the feature attractions. This monster of the deep has created a furor throughout the United States and Canada, where it has been exhibited. The country's leading educators have proclaimed the exhibit of surpassed educational value and every student of biology and natural history should attend the exhibit.

tinny insects are really incredible-looking tiny footballs, riding tiny bicycles, pushing little carts, fan dancers, tight wire walkers, and many other astonishing feats. 'Sea-Tiny' natures, strangest living engima, known the world over as the living 'mermaid,' has become one of the most interesting attractions with the exhibit train. She is one of life's tragedies and it will be up to the public to decide whether she is fish or a human being. Many other features with the exhibit includes, a family of live penguins from the Byrd south pole expedition, Freida Puschnik, the living ball girl, and over 100 deep sea terrars. From the time you enter the exhibition train until you leave you will be thrilled, and amazed by the many sights. The exhibit on a specially constructed railroad train will be located on a side track near the C. and O. Depot and will be open to the public from noon until 11 p. m. Admission ten cents.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society will be held Thursday, July 7, at the home of Mrs. Jack Helwig, at 7:30 p. m. An interesting program has been planned.

Meeting of the official board on Friday evening, July 8, at 7:30. All the children of the Intermediate and Junior department of the Sunday school are invited to attend a picnic, Friday, July 8, at 4:30 in the afternoon. The crowd will meet at the church at that time, and transportation will be provided to the picnic ground.

At the meeting of the Young People on Sunday evening, at 6:45, Frank Miller will lead a round table discussion and Bobby Hogue will lead the devotions. All young people are invited. At 4:30, Monday afternoon, July 11, on the terrace of Mrs. G. C. Banks, the Junior Mission Band will have its message. Children are urged to attend; an enjoyable time is in store for them.

Next week, Wednesday, July 13, the Woman's Council will meet at the home of Mrs. C. O. Peratt. On Sunday, July 17, an interesting discussion will be led by Ellis Johnson at the meeting of the Young People. The subject of his talk will be, "Morals and Athletics." Preceding his talk a light lunch will be served.

Tennessee Valley Boys Will Appear At Trail Theatre

When Herald Goodman's Tennessee Valley Boys appear at the Trail Theatre in person you will have the pleasure of seeing a really funny comedian, Huckleberry in his name and he has more tricks, funny songs and stunts than can be mentioned. Huckleberry has been making people laugh for a great number of years and has always confined his entertainment to the wholesome and age type which pleases all. The children will especially like Huckleberry. He'll throw them a kiss they can take home.

In addition to this great funster you will see Herald Goodman, one of radio's outstanding singers of old time songs, and all the Tennessee Valley Boys, featuring The Fortreger Brothers, Ben Hurt, and Buck Fulton, in a riot of fast fiddlin' Kuttak picking and rip-rarin' comedy. Be sure to see Herald Goodman's Tennessee Valley Boys when they appear in person at the Trail Theatre in Morehead on Thursday, July 7, 1938.

Chandler Gets Increase of $10 Per Month For WPA WORKERS

George H. Goodman recently announced an increase of $10 per month for WPA workers, taking Kentucky out of the third class and placing it in second paid class.

It seems that the standard of living in Kentucky has suddenly risen, as the only explanation given by Barkley's friends as to why WPA workers in Kentucky were only receiving 20 cents per hour while those north of the Ohio river received 40 cents and more, was that the "standard of living" in Kentucky is not as high as in the Yankee states. In other words, the people of Kentucky are not as good and do not require as "good a things" as people in northern states.

But Governor Chandler proclaimed to the world and is proclaiming that Kentucky men and women are just as good, if not better, as can be found anywhere in the world. And inasmuch as Kentucky is the fifth largest taxpayer to the federal government it seems only fair that federal employees in this state should receive higher wages.

Governor Chandler had to force Mr. Barkley to give you this additional increase in wages and if he can do that now, before he goes to the Senate, just think what he can do for you after he gets there!

It looks like by August 6 WPA will pay Kentucky as much as other states.

Vote for "Happy" Chandler, who has proven to be your friend and you'll be happier and happier.

He is a man of action and not a man of words, so let's go for Chandler!

Flemingsburg—Representatives from ten counties, other than Fleming, and two other states made up one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Fleming county for a similar occasion last June 26 at the annual home coming of the Hamm family held at Wallenford. Estimates ran as high as one thousand persons in attendance at the all day meeting.

Following are those who attended from outside Fleming: From Rowan county—Vernie Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fannin, Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Moore, Mrs. and Mrs. Isaiah Masters, Mrs. Fanny Easton, Emerson Easton, Lester Lewis, Clester Caudill, Sabra Caudill, Owen Hinton, Clester Hinton, Mrs. Lizzie Hamm Whisman, Mrs. Pearl Hamm Lewman, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Whisman, Frank Whisman, Claude Whisman, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Jace Riquie, Earl Lewman, Elsie McDowell, Maxine McDowell, Gussie Hyatt, Junior Hyatt, Mrs. Alice Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hinton, Luella Ham, Oval Ham, Early Masters, Bessie Cooper, J. Albin Sloan, George Sloan, Ethel Sloan, William Hamm, Harlan Hamm.—Fleming Gazette.

Mt. Sterling—Charles G. Pangburn, one of Montgomery county's best loved citizens, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital at the night Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, following a heart attack which he suffered at his home here last Saturday. Mr. Pangburn had been in poor health for several years prior to which time he was recognized as one of the leading tobacco men in the section. He was an influential Republican and, while never holding political office, he had his life taken a deep interest in politics. Born in Ohio, he moved to Mt. Sterling when a young man and had spent practically all his life in this city, where he is loved and admired as few men are.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

Flemingsburg—Mrs. Mary Ann Sausley 97, widow of the late James Sausley, died at 11:40 o'clock Sunday night at the home of her niece Miss Lutie Lay Dornall, of Lexington, after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Sausley was the daughter of the late William H. and Mary Howe Dornall and was born and reared in Fleming county. For over fifty years she had been a faithful member of the Broadway Christian church at Lexington.—Fleming Gazette.

West Liberty—At a meeting of the Town Board of Trustees on Monday evening of this week certain residents just outside of the eastern border of town asked to have the town border extended in that section so as to include a number of residents in that section. The board instructed these people to draw up a petition and secure the signature of those in that section who wished to be included within the town borders and thus secure the rights and benefits of regular residents and present same at some future meeting of the board.—Licking Valley Courier.

West Liberty—The Norman Rea, owner of Whitehart on Monday sold at public auction a tract of about 500 acres of farm and timber land owned by Joe M. Kendall. The bid belonged to Mr. Kendall's only heir, Mr. Vivian Salyer. The price realized was just a trifle short of $5,000. There is said to be considerable timber on the property.

The Cole Hotel which has been offered for sale for some time on account of Mr. Cole's health was bid up to $9,950 but was not sold, as the owners considered the price too low. The same company went to the Susan Wells farm Tuesday where it was generally expected a sale would be made of that place. Sam D. Geill was the auctioneer at both sales.—Licking Valley Courier.

Mt. Sterling—Mr. Welch and Miss Carter of the Lexington district officers of WPA met a local committee of the boys' work here Monday night and discussed the possibility of obtaining a full time recreational department for the city and county. This work will be for adults as well as well as children. The full time department requires one man and one woman director.

Mr. Welch stated that they were wishing to cooperate with the local club if a broader program of leisure activities could be inaugurated. Many of the neighboring towns that have recently organized such programs are now going strong. Mr. Welch and Miss Carter expressed their willingness to return soon to address a mass meeting of citizens if same could be arranged.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

Maysville—Maysville city commission Monday heard first reading of a drastic liquor ordinance since the repeal of prohibition.

The ordinance provides for a zone in the business section, from Wall to Bridge streets, on Front, Second, and Third streets, where liquor and beer may be sold. Licenses are increased for the package sale to $500, present $300; drink, $600, present $350; distribution of beer, $200, present $100; retail of beer, $100, present $50.

A combination license also is provided for the sale of liquor by the drink or package and by the annual fee of $1,000. There is at present no license covering this.

Owingsville—Miss Louise Tinscher and Mr. Harold Fanning were married in Lexington Sunday evening, June 28. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Tinscher of Owingsville and the groom the son of the late Aaron Fanning, former county road engineer, of Bath county, and Mrs. Mamie Fanning of Salt Lick. Mr. Fanning is connected with headquarters department with headquarters at Greenup.—Bath County News Outlook.

Mt. Sterling—Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer and family will move to Morehead the last of July, where they will make their home. Mr. Palmer holds a position with the Lee Products Co. These are excellent people, and during their many years of residence here have made many friends and are admired and esteemed for their many fine attributes of character and personality. Their daughters, Miss Kay and Mary Palmer, will enter Transylvania College this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer are building a nice residence in Morehead where they will reside.—Ht. Sterling Gazette.

TO HUNT AGAIN FOR FAMOUS SUNKEN SHIP A license for salvage operations on the site of the wreck of the H. M. S. Lutine, which has lain for approximately 138 years on the shifting sands at the entrance to the Zuider Zee, a gulf in the North Sea extending southward into the Netherlands has just been granted to a company of the Hague by the Committee of Lloyd's, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. Salvage attempts began almost immediately after the vessel was reported lost and during the following two years gold and silver bullion valued at approximately $275,000 was recovered by fishermen and boatmen. The Lutine bell which now hangs in the University Room at Lloyd's, was recovered in 1859 and is generally considered to be one of the best known objects in the world.

ORDINANCE

It appearing to the City Council of the City of Morehead that owing to the restricted area of the corporate limits of the said city that the growth of same has been retarded, that densely populated areas outside of the corporate limits are desirous of obtaining the advantages of the city as to gas, water, street lights, that the citizens living within the corporate limits now enjoy; that the said city has already extended some of its gas and water line beyond its corporate limits and are now furnishing water and gas to citizens outside its corporate limits and that in order to continue to do so legally, said territory must be included within the limits of the city, that petitions from some of the citizens living outside the corporate limits have been filed with the City Council seeking to have the territory in which they live incorporated in its limits; THEREFORE Be it resolved that the following ordinance be enacted:

"An ordinance extending the City limits of the City of Morehead, annexing certain territory and defining accurately the boundary of the territory proposed to be annexed."

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, as follows: Section 1: That in order to promote and encourage the growth of the city that the boundary of the city that the boundary of corporate limits of the City of Morehead be and the same are hereby extended so as to include all of the territory described and defined as follows: Beginning at a point in center-line of the Spoke-Factory Lane and in line with north line of C. & O. Railroad, being the city of Morehead; thence, with center-line of Spoke-Factory Lane, N. 85 degrees 22' W. 784 1/2 ft. to intersection of Spoke-Factory Lane with U. S. Highway No. 60; thence with center-line of U. S. Highway No. 60, S. 19 degrees 47' W. 530 1/2 feet to cut square in center of concrete bridge over small branch; thence, with said small branch as it meanders N. 77 degrees 01' W. 114 1/2 feet; N. 18 degrees 55' W. 203 feet; N. 57 degrees' W. 249 1/2 ft.; N. 28 degrees 00' W. 88 ft.; N. 42 degrees 22' W. 271 ft.; N. 8 degrees 30' W. 295 1-3 ft.; N. 26 degrees 01' W. 326 1/2 feet; N. 23 degrees 06' W. 206 1/2 ft.; N. 50 degrees 23' W. 420 1/2 ft.; N. 47 degrees 23' W. 212 1/2 feet to cut square in center of concrete bridge over said branch and on the Flemingsburg Road; thence N. 4 degrees 41' E. 320 1-6 ft. to a set stone in field of John Barber; thence a straight line, N. 42 degrees 19' E. 2,810 1-6 ft. to a set stone on the property line of Wilfred Waltz and Morehead State Teachers College, on east side of Wiley Avenue Road and near the gas meter station; thence a straight line N. 46 degrees 04' E. 3,167 ft. to a set stone in property line of Morehead State Teachers College and Proctor estate, which stone is several hundred yards east of Evans Branch; thence with center line of Morehead State Teachers College and Proctor Estate, S. 34 degrees 47' E. 1,427 feet to center of U. S. Highway No. 60 right of way.

Cowboy, 100 Years Old, Still Cares For Own Herd Of Cattle

One hundred years old and still colored rancher in Pomerene, Arizona, is rated by his neighbors to be one of the best cowboys in the state. He is a staunch advocate of practical conservation in the southwest.

In applying for grazing privileges on public domain under the jurisdiction of the General Land Office, Department of the Interior, the picturesque veteran of the range assured officials he would fence in the area, if given a long-term lease.

Before offering him lease No. 2,000, authorizing the Pomerene rancher to graze 68 cattle, 6 horses, and 2 mules on the public land during the next three years, the General Land Office conducted an official investigation into Mr. Hilliard's history, which revealed the fact that in 1919 he was struck and stunned by a bolt of lightning that killed the horse he was riding.

"The applicant is colored, and according to old-time residents is at least 100 years old," the investigator's report declared. "In spite of his advanced years, he is considered as yet one of the best cowboys in the state. He was alone at his ranch at the date of my examination, and was engaged in breaking a bucking colt. He is remarkably active, and I can see no reason for refusing him a lease for a few years at least."

thence with center line of said Highway No. 60, S. 54 degrees 58' W. 782 1/2 feet to point in line of present City of Morehead at east end of Main Street and near drive way to A. M. Day estate; thence bearing right with present City limits and running with the various courses and distances of said present city limits, bounding the north, west and south-west portions of the City, to the intersection of said present city boundary with the northwest right of way, said point of intersection being on the south-west side of the City of Morehead; thence bearing right with boundary of the C. & O. Railroad right of way to the beginning.

Section 2: That the City Clerk be and he is hereby directed to insert a copy of this ordinance in the Morehead Independent, a weekly paper of Morehead, Rowan County, Kentucky, for four consecutive issues, and after due advertisement of said ordinance this will become fixed as above described.

This ordinance duly passed June 16, 1938.

Academy Secretary Sends Appreciation

Letter Says MC Contributed Generously To Success Of Convention

Speaking for the Kentucky Academy of Science, which met at the College May 12-14, Alfred Brauer, who is secretary of the Academy Association, conveyed to Morehead College an expression of appreciation in a letter, June 9, 1938.

"The expression of appreciation is as follows: 'Be it resolved that, the Academy hereby spreads upon the minutes of the meeting, and sends a copy of this minute to the President of the Morehead State Teachers College its heartfelt appreciation of the friendly hospitality and numerous courtesies which have made the meeting both pleasurable and successful.'"

Mr. Brauer added a word of personal appreciation for himself and the Executive Committee of the Academy for the well-organized and efficient manner in which the numerous details of the meetings were handled by our local committees.

WONDERS Abound In KENTUCKY!

What you haven't seen of Kentucky's wonders probably fill weeks of pleasure! When you go to see things that are not in Louisville, it means, of course, that we'll miss seeing you at the Brown. But still we say: Alive all, see ALL of Kentucky! . . . Doubless you've been to Mammoth Cave . . . and Harrodsburg's Fort Harrod . . . and Hodgenville's Lincoln Memorial. Have you also seen Pine Mountain State Park near Pineville, and the ancient buried city at Wickliffe? . . . Wonders never cease in Kentucky! First and foremost, let's all know and be proud of our own wonderful State!

Plan to See:—Fulton County—Reelfoot Lake, formed by earthquake—sportsman's paradise.

Harrison County—Some of two Civil War battles at Crab Orchard.

Madison County—Bonesboro, first established by Daniel Boone in 1775, the Boone College.

McCrory and Whitley Counties—Cumberland Falls, comparable only to Niagara Falls in the United States. It has a drop of 75 feet in one a State Park through the gift of the late Colman deFoss, a native Kentuckian.

Jesse County—High Bridge, one of the most scenic points in the State. Camp Nelson and National Cemetery, 4 1/2 miles from Nicholasville.

World Wide Tobacco And Commerce News

The tobacco import and export trade of the Union of South Africa during the year 1937 registered a substantial increase over that of 1936.

The strong demand for Virginia-type tobacco there has risen from the great increase in the sale of cigarettes in the last few years, from about 250,000,000 a month five years ago to 400,000,000 a month now. Production in the Union did not increase materially during this period. During the last two years the crop was actually somewhat below normal, although the quality of Union blue-cured tobacco has improved each year.

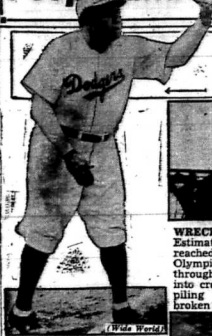

The consumption of Cuban cigarettes has shown a substantial increase during the past five years advancing seventy-seven per cent since 1933.

Harvesting of the 1938 tobacco crop in Sumatra, is practically completed. The crop is poor, due to the rain shortage. Dry conditions still prevail and rain is badly needed.

The German demand for cigarettes is growing slowly, but steadily, in view of the decrease in unemployment. There has been little shift noted from cigar to cigarette smoking, the curves of increased consumption of both kinds of smokers apparently being parallel. Nor does there seem to be a trend away from chewing to cigarettes—at least to German Oriental cigarettes. The American-type cigarette (heavier) has attracted some attention and in and Cigarette manufacturers reported that imports of American Virginia leaf in 1937 were appreciably above those of 1936, and that the tendency is continuing. During the first quarter of 1938 the Union import trade in several brands of American cigarettes noted a material increase, it was stated. The demand for Virginia type tobacco in the Union has been improved by the great increase in the sale of cigarettes in the last few years from about 250,000,000 cigarettes a month five years ago to 400,000,000 a month at the present time.

PUERTO RICANS CAN'T SHOOT THEIR CROWS

Don't shoot the crows! This is not advice to mainland United States' farmers but a warning issued by the insular government in the American island of Puerto Rico. In applies equally to small boys with slingshots and to scientists searching for museum specimens.

It is estimated that there is only about a score of crows in the whole island of Puerto Rico. As they are not the usual marauding type which pillages crops, their lives are largely protected by law.

IS LOVELY LADY REAL LIVING MERMAID?

Is "Sea-Tiny" pictured above, the answer to that old question "Do mermaids really exist?" Of all the countless curiosities that have ever been presented from time to time, there has been absolutely nothing to equal Sea-Tiny, from an anatomical standpoint. Sea-Tiny is one of the feature attractions with the Mammoth Marine Hippodrome that will exhibit in Morehead for one day only, Monday, July 18. The exhibit, on a specially constructed day after a visit in Tennessee and Bowling Green.

Dangerous To Know

Do You Know -

- THAT Kentucky is admittedly the best governed state in the Union?
- THAT Kentucky farmers have the lowest state land taxes, lowest farm truck licenses, best rural highways, highest school per capita, and best farm legislation in Kentucky history?
- THAT labor disputes are at a minimum in Kentucky because A. B. Chandler is for the laborer?
- THAT A. B. Chandler has stood by and fought for the FARMER, LABORER, BUSINESS MAN, MERCHANT, VETERAN, AGED, NEEDY, and all the people of Kentucky?
- THAT the payment of the state debt, the balancing of the budget, the building of new institutions, hospitals, roads and still living within the State's income are the envy of all other states? AND - THAT A. B. Chandler made all of this possible along with being responsible for hundreds of other state improvements?
- THAT A. B. Chandler has never discriminated against any group or straddled any legislation?
- THAT A. B. Chandler has kept ALL of his promises?

WHAT DOES THIS RECORD DESERVE?

Do You Know -

- THAT Alben W. Barkley forgot the farmers?
- THAT Barkley forgot the veterans?
- THAT Barkley is playing politics with human misery? (WPA)
- THAT Barkley is straddling labor?
- THAT Barkley has never written a farm bill helpful to Kentucky farmers?
- THAT Barkley was shown Kentucky's needs by President Roosevelt?
- THAT Barkley takes credit for writing such bills as the Old Age Pension act? AND
- THAT the Congressional Records shows that Barkley DID NOT write a single line of that bill?
- THAT the old bi-partisan sales tax crowd is trying to regain control of Kentucky through Barkley?
- THAT Tom Rhea, who bolted in 1935; Selden Glenn, Ruby Laffoon and a city lawyer are Alben W. Barkley's backers?
- THAT Barkley has straddled every piece of major legislation since he has been in Congress 26 years? AND
- THAT Barkley forgot all about Kentucky and Kentuckians until he came back here to run again?
