Thirteen May Be Unlucky To Some But To Ellis Johnson It Realizes Dream

Thirteen years is a long time to cherish an ambition. But if, after thirteen years you see that ambition realized, there is a certain amount of satisfaction that nothing and nobody can take away from you.

MOREHEAD CHURCHES BEING CLEANED, PAINTED

The Methodist Church is being cleaned and the interior entirely redecorated and renewed. The work is being done by the members of the church.

Recently the members of the Christian Church completed the work of redecorating the interior of the Christian Church and of painting the woodwork.

First Pension Checks Are Given

First Old Age Pension checks were given out at Frankfort on Monday of this week to fifty of the aged Kentuckians who had qualified.

The first checks were presented to the receivers by Governor A. B. Chandler, in a ceremony held inside the House of Representatives in the Capital building, Dr. A. Y. Lloyd was present at the ceremony.

From one to ten field workers are now at work in office space secured through the cooperation of the county judge in each of Kentucky's 120 counties, according to Dr. Lloyd and applications for aid from all parts of the State are being given equal consideration.

"People who have applied for aid and who do not receive checks this week need not feel that their applications have been rejected," Dr. Lloyd pointed out. "The program is a very large one and there necessarily must be a small beginning. To insure the available money going where it will do the most good, to protect the taxpayers' money and to fulfill Federal requirements each application must be officially investigated as the applicant's home and be considered carefully," Dr. Lloyd explained.

Brown Makes Record In Life Saving Act

Bob Brown of the CCC Camp at Clearfield is well known as the official life saver of the camp. Bob has two lives to his credit, according to an article published in the current issue of the camp newspaper.

Peratt Family Is In Auto Accident

A vacation trip through the South was rudely interrupted last Saturday, when the car of Dr. T. M. Smith of New York City was overturned and wrecked, the occupants, including Mrs. C. O. Peratt of this city being seriously injured.

Orchardists To Meet At Farmers

An orchard field meeting for eastern Kentucky will be held at Dr. H. Van Antwerp's fruit farm, Farmers, Ky. Rowan County on U. S. Highway 60, 6 miles west of Morehead, 1:30 p. m. Thursday, August 27.

This orchard is carrying a splendid crop of clean apples estimated at 5,000 bushels, mostly of Rome Beauty, York Imperial and Stayman varieties. The orchard is equipped with a modern stationary outfit which makes it possible to cover the entire forty acres in three days spraying, which normally took from seven to eight days to cover the orchard with a portable spray outfit.

Visitors will be interested in seeing a simple, modern economical cool storage of 7,000 bushel capacity.

A short program as follows, will be given: "Recovery of apple and peach orchards following a severe cold winter and the drought of 1926," W. W. Magill, Fruit Specialist, College of Agriculture.

"Diversifying our orchard program," Ben E. Niles, Sec. State Horticultural Society, Henderson, Ky.

Cox, Shelby, Ohio; Bess Cox, Chillicothe, Ohio; Mrs. Liddle Goodman, Morehead, Ky.; Mrs. Sibbie Coker, Lexington, Ky.

Floyd Reeves Gains Big Wheat Crop Yield

Twenty-five bushel of wheat to the acre is a record for wheat production in Rowan County, and there are people who will claim it can't be done.

But it has been done, says Floyd Reeves, and the proof of the pudding is in the number of bushels produced.

Mr. Reeves harvested an average of twenty-five bushels of wheat off one field. Off the same land this year, he harvested seventeen and one half bushels.

He says there is a secret attached to it. He uses Price's Tobacco Base fertilizer which is advertised in this issue. Mr. Reeves is agent for Price's products and he is ready to prove that the fertilizer is better than he says it is. Read his advertisement in this issue of the News.

BATTSON DRUG STORE IS BEING REDECORATED

Mrs. W. H. Hamm Dies At Clearfield Home

Mrs. Virginia Hamm, wife of W. H. Hamm of Clearfield died last Thursday at 12:45. Funeral services were conducted on Saturday at 2:00 o'clock at the home by Rev. H. L. Moore and Rev. T. F. Lyons of the local church.

Mrs. Hamm, whose death was not expected, had been ill for three months. She was taken to the hospital at Ashland sometime ago but was brought home last Tuesday.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, W. H. Hamm and three sons, Carlo, John and Arthur of Clearfield, and two daughters, Mrs. Orville Armstrong of Ashland and Miss Irene Hamm of Clearfield; also two sisters, Mrs. Julia Johnson of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Lucy Baldrige of McRoberts, Ky., and two brothers, B. E. Ekmeyer of Minnesota and Gus Flannery of Portsmouth and nine grandchildren.

Because of illness, her sister Mrs. Johnson and her two sons were the only ones able to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Hamm was born in Elliott county January 23, 1883.

Attendance In Schools Shows Well

Rowan county's rural schools which have been in session for a month are making a record for attendance, according to the record published below. In spite of the extreme heat of the past month, the attendance records for the entire county show a surprisingly small rate of absences. The record follows:

Table with 2 columns: School and Attendance. Includes Old House Creek (99), Hartman (98.6), Ditney (98.7), M. Hope (98.5), Grant (98.4), Park Fork (97.8), Sharkey (98.4), Perkins (98), Rock Fork (98), New Home (97), Minor (97), Pine Grove (97), Seas Branch (97), McKenzie (96.7), Thre Lick (96.3), Bradley (96), Sam's Gap (96), Little Craney (95.5).

Health Department Inoculates 600

For the next three weeks the schedule of the Rowan County Health Department will be as follows:

Monday, August 31: Perkins, Slab Camp, Wes Cox, and Rosedale.

Tuesday, Sept. 1: Island Fork, Rock Fork, Walta and Pine Grove.

Wednesday, Sept. 2: Popular Grove, Oak Grove and Ditney.

Thursday, Sept. 3: Paragon.

During the past three weeks the Health Department has been busy visiting schools on a schedule just finished. In that period they have given over 600 hundred complete inoculations against typhoid fever. This means that 1800 shots have been given as each complete inoculation requires three shots.

Patrons of the schools listed above are urged to be present on the date and at the time set, so that there will be no delay in giving the inoculations, both for typhoid and for diphtheria, among the children.

Landon Leads In Straw Vote In Nation, Roosevelt Ahead In Rowan County Poll

Each day sees more ballots returned to the News in the Straw Vote recently instituted by this Newspaper in connection with a national straw vote being conducted by over 4,000 other newspapers under the auspices of the American Press Association. Rowan County people are just beginning to show their interest in the first county wide poll ever conducted in this county.

From the ballots returned up to the present Roosevelt leads in the county by better than two to one. However there might be several reasons for the difference. In the first place it takes time to arrive the interest. As a result it is possible that the Republican vote will not take full advantage of the opportunity to cast their votes.

Replacing Dr. Lloyd as head of the history department is Dr. James Holtzclaw has taught here two springs.

Thomas B. Young of Frankfort was elected to the position in the art department replacing Mr. Ralph M. Hudson who accepted a position as head of the Art Department in the University of Arkansas.

San Denny, M. A. from the University of Kentucky will have charge of the English department in the training school during the absence of Mrs. Mildred Silver who is on leave of absence.

Wm. Winland will take the place of Mrs. Blessing in the mathematics department.

Clarence E. Nickell has been elected Dean of Men and will teach (Continued On Page Five)

Bridge Across River Is Under Construction

Construction on the new bridge built by the CCC camp across Licking River has been under way for the past month. The bridge which is expected to be completed next spring will connect the trail in Rowan county with the Frenchburg CCC road, giving this county direct connection with southern Kentucky and Tennessee.

At present the construction work is experiencing difficulty with quick sand, and the abutment hole will have to go down at least forty feet to reach solid rock.

The ballot will be published each week in the Rowan County News. Voters are urged to cast their vote purpose of the poll is not to show up either the Democratic candidate or the Republican candidate as leader, but to obtain an accurate picture of what Rowan County will do in November.

The News is anxious that the vote be representative of the final November results. This can only be done in a fair proportion of both Republicans and Democrats cast their votes in straw vote contest. The News has no interest in attempting to pile up a vote for either candidate that does not furnish a true picture of the conditions in Rowan County.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD

The waning of the summer season revealed enlivened consumer interest in final promotional events and with the retail augmented by a more noticeable trend to fall merchandise, a pronounced margin of gain over the comparable 1935 period resulted, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 35 cities for the past week, just received by its Louisville District Office.

STATE DEBT GOING DOWN

Some good news on government financing, both state and national, has been given to the people during the past week. From Washington came the news that tax collections since June 30 have far exceeded original treasury estimates.

At Frankfort, a conference meeting of the Governor and his newly formed cabinet Thursday received the report of State Treasurer John E. Buckingham. This report contained the information that the deficit of the State of Kentucky now stands at $10,346,185.

Condition of the road fund, outstanding warrants on all funds and the cash position of the State government, all reflect an improvement over their situation a year ago. A good deal of credit belongs to the State Treasurer for his handling of these funds.

It may well be possible that improvement in business generally in the State and in the nation at large holds out hope of some reduction in the tax burden during the next two years. At least it is gratifying to contemplate a period in which no new taxes will be added, so that business may go forward with some feeling of security.

Tandy showed him some of the law books and told him how they were arranged in series and how they were found by numbers the state and judgements on a case. "And here's a brand-new book. I didn't even read myself. You take it and read it. It's the bed-rock of the study of law."

He placed in Jesse's hands the Cooley edition of Blackstone's "Commentaries on the Laws of English and American decisions and statutes date (1884) and some considerations regarding the study of the law. Jesse spilled the folios from his lap, and took into his plow-hardened hands the unopened volume of bed-rock law. After a while he found himself by the fence around the high grounds of the In-stitution above the crowded town. He sat on a log in the sun, his eyes moving from the book down to the court-house steeple and the wharf, then back to the book, projecting himself into the life he would be a great lawyer like Tandy Moran, and have an office and clients to plead for. He was absorbed beyond all disturbance. The morning passed, midday came and went without suggesting food, and the dream and the book full of strange and puzzling words like libel ant and argumentum ad hominem absorbed him into the middle of the afternoon. Then he came to, seeing that the square was emptying of horses and men. He got stiffly to his feet, placed the book awkwardly under his coat and hurried down to the stable for the long ride back to Wolfpen.

When Sparrel detached himself from his boys, he walked by the bank and the three stores, greeting the men in the square, and up to the corner of the Gibson House. The thing Sparrel had made him and instead of going in at once, he turned and went back down the street, greeting the men, and watching the horse traders riding up and down the street before the skeptical customers. He went on around the court-house square, slowly traversing its four sides banked with the rails, and came up to the Gibson House from the opposite direction, and then, as though the destined moment had arrived, he lifted his head above the press of men and walked straight into the lobby of the Gibson House.

Shellenberger was sitting in a chair with his legs crossed and one foot resting in the shelf of the bay window, smoking, looking not at the square but above it into the timbered mountains. He looked the part of a well-to-do stranger temporarily isolated in a mountain town. "There was no one else in the room."

Shellenberger stood up, and extended his hand in eager hospitality. "Good morning, Mr. Pattern!"

Howdy, Sparrel said reservedly.

"Well, how are you this morning?"

"Well as commin'," Sparrel said, and then calmly in his slow voice with the melody in it, "You got a-round all right, I see."

"I got around all right, thanks to your mule. What do I owe you for the use of it?"

"Nothing at all, nothing at all. Glad to accommodate you. Have a cigar."

"No, much obliged to you."

They sat down.

"Quite a crowd here today, Shellenberger said."

"That's the way it is on Saturdays at the first of a month."

"A good trade of trade on the river."

"Yes, Pikeville is a right good sized town now," Sparrel said.

"And it will get better as this region opens up."

The subject was ready to be brought into the open, but Sparrel was still. Then Shellenberger plunged.

"Well, Mr. Pattern, I rode by that lower-timber-land. It may not be as good as I first thought, but I'll stick to the proposition I made. What do you say about it."

"I don't guess I can do it, Sparrel said."

"You mean you won't sell?" Shellenberger exclaimed.

"That's about what it amounts to."

"But why not, Pattern, why not? Four dollars an acre is a big price, could buy up whole counties for less than that. Well, what do you want for it," he demanded resolutely.

"Five dollars an acre."

"It's too much, Pattern. I couldn't do it. It's too much."

"You better buy up some of them counties," Sparrel said slowly.

"You'll have it surveyed by a competent man," Shellenberger said.

Sparrel looked at the squat man beside him, interested in the short sudden turns of his talk.

"I'll board him," he said, "and you pay the wages against the price of the land."

The citizen relaxed, there was a pause and Shellenberger said, more naturally and pleasantly, "You're robbing and cheating me, Mr. Pattern, but I'll do it. And we'll get a man over there as soon as possible. Do you know anybody?"

"I've heard of a good man down at Catletburg."

What's his name?

Warren."

"I'll see him when I go down tomorrow and send him up if I can and I'll be back in here in a couple of weeks or so."

As Sparrel walked through the square, greeting the men, talking of the crops and the price of cattle, he feeling that he had made a good bargain with the extra dollar sustained him in the backward of doubt that followed the important an indiscreet decision.

Jasper was already at the table Jesse, with the book under his coat, came breathlessly with long strides through the open doors just as Hardin Slusser brought the mules from the stalls.

"Did you make out all right?" Sparrel asked.

"I got what I came for," Jesse said, mounting.

"You know we got an extra mule here, Jasper, what do you think of it?"

"It seems like a waste just to lead her," Hardin sputtered.

"Jasper had no retort. He swung up on the saddle."

Then, as Sparrel mounted and started to go without saying anything, Hardin could wait no longer for the news. "Did you trade any with that feller, Sparrel?"

"I figure I may do some business with him, later on," Sparrel said. He rode out of the stable and down the road followed by Jasper and Jesse.

Wolfpen seemed emptied to Cynthia when Sparrel and Jesse and Jasper had ridden out of it.

Or, perhaps, the feel of emptiness was only the moment of unusual still rest between the tumult of daybreak and the lonely, cadenced silence of a mountain farm when people were not about; tufted cardinals flashing red among the cherry blossoms and scattering liquid notes on the morning like a flutter of released petals spiraling to the ground; bleating as the leading seriously and awkwardly about the lot, still dazed and bewildered by the new and unfamiliar world into which they had suddenly been dropped.

She and put the kitchen in order, Julia had gone out to her garden. Abrial had disappeared into one of the hollows. The wanted equilibrium was even more upset within, and she could feel the fragments moving about her into new arrangements. She went up-stairs and sat on the foot of her bed looking out on the orchard. "The world looks different to a body when you look out of an upper window. What would it be like if you were always above it as high as a house instead of down in it as low as a man and looked over the orchard in bloom the way you look over a corn-field in June? Would you still feel a bit twisted out of shape inside because of the way your folk and things were about in the bottoms? I feel like I'm being pulled by something around the place and I guess I'll just go."

It was the smell of the orchard drifting through the window, and retreating with the wind that did the pulling. She wandered down among the apple trees where the bees were diving in the golden dust of the pollen centers, and the gray-blue centers were fluttering with no sound but the hum of the branches.

There are hundreds and hundreds of live things a body doesn't take hardly any notice of living right here in the same valley with us all the time, and I don't reckon they change any from one spring's end to another the way we do."

The handsome young Irishman for years was a leading man on Broadway being featured in such hits as "What Price Glory," "Rainbow," "Society Girl," "The Inside Story," "Three Cornered Moon" and "The Milky Way."

It was the stage version of "The Milky Way" that proved Donlevy's stepping stone to screen fame. Picture scouts saw him and signed him to a movie contract.

But despite the fact that Donlevy was almost inevitable cast as the hero in his stage vehicles, Holly wood put him in "heavy" roles.

Darryl F. Zanuck saw Donlevy's possibilities as a hero, however, and cast him opposite Frances Dee in "Half Angel." Donlevy asserts he is much the happier as a leading man, for the hero customarily is prepared, the villain is usually flat on his back dicular at the end of a picture, while from a well-directed punch.

VOTE NO

On Local Option

SEPTEMBER 29

And you will be casting your ballot for the best interests of Rowan County and Rowan County People

Keep ROWAN COUNTY MONEY in ROWAN COUNTY

... There is no rhyme or reason to voting liquor and beer out of this county when it can be bought in every adjoining county -- a few minutes drive from Morehead. Why give them the revenue when our own county is on the verge of bankruptcy.

DON'T SEND OUR DOLLARS AWAY!

Here's the difference in Rowan County during the past two years as compared with the ten preceding years of prohibition

MORALLY

Those who favor local option have one campaign plank. They say it is a moral issue. Let's look further in the matter and see just what the morals were before and after prohibition.

While prohibition was in effect there were more law-breakers in Rowan County in one day than there are now in a week. Prohibition made law-breakers of the youth of this county. Since prohibition was voted out they have turned to fields of honest endeavor instead of peddling cheap moonshine whiskey, making it or transporting it. This is so apparent that it cannot be denied.

The repeal of prohibition has made one particular street of Morehead safe for honest men and women to walk on. Ask any officer of the law if this is not true.

Automobile accidents, taken from an actual survey of reports in local newspapers have decreased 60 per cent during the past two years. Think back yourself when every week-end brought maimed bodies and death. Ask any doctor what his record on this is. The moonshine liquor formerly sold in dives and by the slinking bootlegger on the street corner contained so much potash that it ran people crazy, and resulted in wholesale automobile wrecks. There are few deaths and permanent illness now as compared to then.

Robberies in Morehead during the past two years have decreased by more than 75 per cent. Other lawlessness, including murders, stab bings and shooting have materially decreased.

Court dockets are little more than half as large as they were during prohibition.

There is gradually being created a respect for the law, which did not exist during prohibition.

Don't Vote For The Bootlegger. Don't Vote To Send Our Money Away. Don't Vote For The Return Of Lawlessness.

FINANCIALLY

There is little doubt in anyone's mind but that the repeal of prohibition has been a great financial asset in every part of the United States. It has put hoarded money in circulation.

In this county it has meant a liveable wage for tourist homes, and restaurants where beer is sold.

It has provided employment for many people.

It has meant thousands of dollars in tax money to the state and the county.

It has meant better business in general throughout the county.

Prohibition has proved a failure every place including Rowan or any other county. No nation has found it successful. But under the local option plan of a few scattered dry counties, it will prove a greater failure that it did before.

Think — STUDY THE FACTS — Then Vote For Your Interests

just as strong as it had been when he left. "He must return to Morehead and make good."

And so we are brought down to the present year of 1936. Ellis Johnson has made good his statement. He has returned to Morehead, not the boy who left thirteen years ago, vowing to return, but a man who is being given the opportunity to build up an athletic program in Eastern Kentucky, that will make this entire community proud of the team and proud of their coach.

Ellis Johnson and his wife moved to Morehead last week, where Mr. Johnson has accepted the position of head coach at the Morehead State Teachers College. He has come back to Morehead to take up his work, and there is not one person who knew or knows him, who does not extend to him their heartiest congratulations, who is not proud of the "Morehead boy who made good" and who has returned to his own home town to carry out his plans for the future.

Mr. Johnson, Ellis to all, is back home. He will have the hearty cooperation of every man, woman, and child in the community in his efforts to build up athletic teams at the college of which not only he, but the rest of us may be proud.

McDaniel-Marsh Wedding Was Solemnized Sunday

Of much interest here is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Edith McDaniel to Dr. N. C. Marsh, which occurred at nine o'clock Sunday morning at the Christian Church with the Rev. Dr. G. H. Fern officiating.

Their attendants were Dr. Marsh's brother, Frank Marsh and his fiancée, Miss Corinne Maffett both of Lynchburg.

The bride was dressed in a white crepe with accessories to match. She carried a arm bouquet of sweet heart roses. For her going away gown Mrs. Marsh chose a blue silk with white accessories. Miss Maffett wore blue with white accessories. Her flowers were American Beauties.

Mrs. Marsh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McDaniel and has always lived in Morehead, until a month ago she has held a position at the Model Laundry.

Dr. Marsh, who is a chiropractor, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Marsh of Cynthiana. He has been a resident of Morehead since his graduation from the school of Chiropractic of Indianapolis in 1931, at which time he opened his office here in the Cecil building. Dr. Marsh has built up a wonderful practice in this and surrounding counties, by his strict attention to his business and by his numerous cures.

The guest list included only the immediate families and friends of the bride and groom; however owing to the serious illness of his sister who is suffering from typhoid, Dr. Marsh's family were unable to attend the ceremony.

Immediately following the services Dr. and Mrs. Marsh left for a wedding trip to Virginia Beach and other points of interest in the east and other points of interest in the north. After their returning ten days, they will be at home to their friends at the residence on Sun Street that Dr. Marsh recently bought and remodeled.
