ROOSEVELT IN LEAD IN ROWAN COUNTY'S VOTE

County Vote Shows President Ahead By Better Than Three To One.

Regardless of what the Literary Digest poll says, or any other poll in the nation, Rowan county, judged by the straw vote being conducted by the Rowan County News in connection with a nation wide poll underway among over four thousand newspapers, throughout the nation, is safely in the Roosevelt column.

With over four hundred votes in, Roosevelt has a safe lead in the straw vote of over three to one.

Of course there may be reasons for this. The Republicans may not be voting while the Democrats are. We believe we are safe in saying that the ratio in November will not be anywhere near that great. However that is the way it stands at present.

We want to urge those who have not yet cast a ballot in the News straw vote to do so. The management of the News is not interested in piling up votes in this straw vote, either candidate. What we want is a fair trial and an honest picture of the vote as it will be in November. If you are a Republican, get a ballot and cast your vote for your favorite candidate, which of course will be Landon. If you are a Democrat, cast your vote for Roosevelt.

And still there are no voters registered in the poll for any of the candidates.

The ballot will be published each week in the News. If you have not cast your vote in this straw vote, cut the ballot out, bring or send it to the Rowan County News, so that we will be able to give you a fair and honest report of the actual condition in the county.

Returns from the straw vote in the edition are published in another column of this issue. The vote in Rowan county today stands:

Landon 330
Roosevelt 94

Rev. H. L. Moore Is Back For Next Year

Rev. H. L. Moore, pastor of the Methodist Church here, was returned to his pastorate following the unanimous request of the local Methodists, made at the annual conference held last week.

Mr. Moore has occupied the pastorate here for the past three years during which time he has made numerous friends both in and out of the church. It is not a return of the Methodist Church to a regular pastor year after year, except it be by the unanimous consent and request of the members of the church. That Mr. Moore's services have been more than satisfactory is attested by the fact that he has been returned year after year for four successive years.

Under his guidance the Methodist Church here has continued its growth and improvement.

VIKINGS WITH LARGE SQUAD START GRID FOR GRIDIRON; PROSPECTS LOOK BRIGHT

Roy E. Holbrook's heart has been thrilled this week, by the size of the squad that reported for the first football practice at Morehead High School. Thirty two boys were out to answer the first call. Most of them are green boys so far as the gridiron past-time is concerned, but Coach Holbrook hopes and expects to whip them into some kind of shape before the season is over.

One thing noticeable about the Viking prospects is their size. What ever else they do they will be able to put a heavy team on the field and to draw from a reserve squad that should be plenty heavy. The REPUBLICANS HEAR SPEAKER MONDAY P. M.

S. Monroe Nickell of Lexington addressed a good sized audience at the court house here on Monday afternoon of this week. Mr. Nickell spoke in the interest of the Republican ticket.

Mrs. Mabel Alfrey Is New Attendance Head

Mrs. Mabel Alfrey assumed her duties as attendance officer for Rowan county in August, following the meeting of the Rowan County Board of Education.

Mrs. Alfrey has been identified with the school in this county for the past fifteen years. Last week she enjoyed a novel experience of visiting the first school she taught, Lower Lick Fork, as attendance officer. She has taught for the past several years in the primary department of the Morehead Consolidated School, where her work was outstanding. She resigned a position at this school this year at the request of County Superintendent Roy E. Cornette to take up the work as attendance officer.

The News has arranged with Mrs. Alfrey to furnish feature stories throughout the year, covering the fiscal year of Rowan county school. The first of this series of articles, which will be of interest to the school patrons of every school in the county, appear in this issue of the News.

County Judge Approves Roads

The program to be built with the state funds has been approved by both the Rural State Highway Commissioner, Cecil Williams and the fiscal court of Rowan county through County Judge Charles E. Jennings, and the work should be ready to start within the next few days.

The program agreed upon is a compromise program. Several weeks ago the fiscal court submitted a proposed program to the commission of rural highways and some time later the commissioner, after an investigation by the rural highway engineer, returned a revised program to the county judge. As it differed in many details from the original, County Judge Jennings returned it unsigned. Later through a compromise it was worked out to the satisfaction of both and the revised program was signed this morning and sent to Frankfort.

MRS. PERATTI IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

No word has been received regarding the condition of Mrs. C. O. Peratti who was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Knoxville, Tenn., two weeks ago. She has been in the hospital since that time and last week her condition was regarded as very grave. Her work in the factory is attested by the fact that she might be released by the end of this week. However no further information has been received other than that she is still critically ill.

WEEED THROUGH FOOT

Billie Amburgy, 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Amburgy, stepped on the sharpened end of a weed last week, running the stub entirely through his foot, and causing a painful and serious wound. The accident occurred when the child ran out to play in some newly cut stubble. As he stepped from the porch his foot struck the stub of weed, the sharp end penetrating his foot and coming out through the instep.

Fear of lock jaw caused the administrator serum, but the child is reported as recovering nicely at present.

Isaac Quisenberry Dies At North Fork Home

Isaac Quisenberry, residing on the Allie Young Highway about two miles from Morehead, died at his home on Tuesday morning of this week. Mr. Quisenberry was 71 years of age, had been ill but a very short time, having fallen in Morehead on Friday of last week. Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) with burial to be made in the family cemetery.

Mr. Quisenberry was one of the highly respected citizens of Rowan county, where he has resided for many years. He was born in Virginia moving to this county fifty one years ago. He was married to Miss Allie Hall.

Postal Savings Net Good Income

With the one-half billion dollar mark passed in the sale of United States Savings Bonds, in July, the Treasury Department announces that, these bonds may be purchased at all post offices of the first and second classes, at most third class offices and at some fourth class. Or mailed from the Treasury of the United States.

To date approximately 1,700,000 bonds have been issued. No one is permitted by law to own more than $10,000 worth of the bonds, issued during any one year. They are sold in denominations from $5 to $1,000. The purchase value of a bond worth $100 at maturity is $75.

Arrangements have been made to take care of those who wish to purchase the bonds at regular intervals. For instance if you wish to buy a bond whose present value is $10 for a period of 120 months, the maturity value of held for 10 years will be $12,000.

Those interested in the purchase of these bonds as an investment should see the local post master, Mrs. Mattie Burns.

H. L. Prichard Gets Washington School

Henry Lee Prichard was recently elected as coach and mathematics teacher at Washington High School in Mason county, according to an announcement made this week by Emory Rogers, county superintendent of Mason county.

Mr. Prichard who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Watt Prichard, Sr. of this city has been coach at the Corinth High school for the past five years. He is a graduate of the Morehead State Teachers College and is rated as one of the outstanding coaches of the state.

During his five years as coach at Corinth he has never turned out a losing team but each year has succeeded in taking his team to the state tournament at Lexington.

The Mayville Independent has this to say of the selection of Mr. Prichard as coach at Washington: "Prichard is a titanic titan. In other words, he's a great big, red-headed guy, with enough brains un-

Health Department Continues Program

During the past three weeks the Rowan County Health Department under the experienced direction of Dr. T. A. E. Evans has continued its work of inoculating the school children of Rowan County against typhoid fever. In that period over 600 hundred inoculations have been completed.

The department will continue its visits each week for the next several months until every school in the county has been visited three times for the purpose of giving inoculations. Since the Health Department started its program of inoculations, Rowan County has established a record of having no actual cases of typhoid fever, a record of which the department is particularly proud.

Option Election Is Ruled Out

Judge D. B. Caudill in a hearing held at the court house in Morehead on Saturday morning of last week, upheld the contention of the petition in enjoining the county judge from calling an election for the purpose of deciding on the question of local option in Rowan county. The judge had obtained a temporary injunction on Thursday of last week, to prevent the calling of the election on the grounds that the petition was faulty, three hundred names in the petition having no address and no date of signing. The temporary injunction was granted by Circuit Court Clerk Joe McKinney and the case set for Monday morning.

After hearing the arguments, Judge Caudill stated that there was little use in deciding in favor of holding the election, since the petition was clearly not in accordance with the law, and since it could only mean reversal in the Court of Appeals.

ERVIN KASH LOSES LEG IN ACCIDENT

Ervin Kash, depot agent at Haldeman, but whose home is in Sals Lick, suffered the loss of his left leg as the result of a collision last Thursday. Mr. Kash was riding his motor cycle to his work at Haldeman when the accident occurred near Morehead. His cycle was struck by a car going in the opposite direction. He was hurled to the college after being struck at Huntington where it was found that his leg had been so seriously cut and mangled that it was necessary to amputate it below the knee. According to reports he is suffering from no other injuries and is well on the way to recovery.

Steam Turned On In Power Plant

The power plant recently completed by the Morehead State Teachers College is in use, the steam having been turned on for the first time on Monday of this week. The plant was recently finished and turned over to the college after being under construction for the last year.

At present the plant is being used only for steam. Within the next week, however, it is expected that the electrical equipment will be in use, after a thorough testing which is being conducted this week. Then the college plant expert immediately to begin fulfilling the contract made with the city last year, whereby the college takes over the operation of the water system, not only for the college, but for the city. It will be remembered that the city council contracted with the college to furnish the water for the city at an agreed rate, while the city turned over to the college the use of the reservoir and pipe lines for water.

With the extreme test given to the water supply of the city by the recent drought, there is apparently

C. B. DAUGHERTY IS GIVEN APPOINTMENT

The State Central Democratic committee at a meeting last week designated C. B. Daugherty of Morehead as democratic presidential elector for the eighth Kentucky district. Mr. Daugherty was appointed in the place of Allie W. Young who was chosen at the state convention to that position.

Mr. Young resigned the place recently.

Miss Tina Plank Makes Perfect Health Record

Miss Tina Plank who lives on the North Fork of Triplet and who attends school at the Adams School, is the first child in Rowan county to obtain the Blue Ribbon issued by the Rowan County Health Department for each successive year during her eight years in the grades. The Health Department began its work in 1931 and at that time every child in the county was examined. Miss Plank was the only Blue Ribbon child in the county at that time. Each year since that time, Miss Plank has been in the same class. However at this time there are over 300 Blue Ribbon children to keep her company.

This is now twelve years old and has passed the eighth grade examinations. She has a talent for drawing

Alex Alfrey Gets 1st. Pension Check

The first old age pension check has been received by a Rowan county citizen, according to Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, head of the Public Assistance division of the department of Public Welfare. The check was sent out last week. It went to Alex Alfrey and was for $5.60.

Mr. Alfrey was one of the first from Rowan county to send in his application for the pension. He is a resident of Farmers and is 68 years of age.

According to Mrs. Clayton Johnson, local field worker, partial reports on twelve other applications have gone in to the Frankfort office. She is experiencing considerable difficulty in digging up the required information and proof that is necessary before the pension can be allowed. However, she is hopeful that further returns will be received before a great time.

Dr. Lloyd has promised that by the end of the month he would have at least one thousand in the state who are drawing the pay.

EAGLES PREPARING FOR HEAVY SCHEDULE WITH PLENTY OF PEP AND HARD WORK

The Morehead Eagles fly merrily along in their search for laurels on the gridiron this fall. The entire squad has been hard at it for the past two weeks in preparation for the campaign which opens on September 26 against Tennessee Wesleyan in Tennessee.

While no one is expecting a championship team this season, in view of the fact that entirely new coaching staff is in charge, the earmarks of a successful season are in the making. The boys, twenty eight in number are out daily, in fact twice daily, doing setting up exercises, tackling, blocking, running plays, drilling signals, in fact displaying themselves like a football team. The new coaches are working their squad twice each day. The boys on the other hand are working and liking

OVER 1,000 IN CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS MON.

Total Enrollment in County Is Over 4,000; Teachers To Meet Friday.

With enrollments that far exceeded all expectations, and have left practically every teacher overburdened, the four consolidated schools of Rowan county, Morehead, Haldeman, Elliottville and Farmers opened Monday. Over one thousand students were enrolled in the four schools to upward of four thousand pupils, by far the largest number that has ever been enrolled in the Rowan county schools.

Morehead leads the list with 418 students on Monday afternoon, several have entered in the two days since that time. Haldeman is a close second with a total enrollment of 330 students on Monday afternoon. Teaching forces as well as school rooms have been taxed to capacity by the unexpectedly large enrollments. There is a possibility that additional teachers will be required in order to keep the balance equal. A surprisingly large primary class enrolled in the Morehead school, with 54 little ones in the beginners class.

Enrollment at Elliottville was also up, with 150 students, entering the school. Of even more interest than the enrollment is the announcement that work will begin this week, either today or Friday on the erection of the new school building, to be built under WPA direction. The building is to cost $27,000 and will furnish six school and class rooms, as well as a large gymnasium and auditorium.

Forecasted a total of about 130 students.

A general teachers meeting of all the teachers of the county will be held at the Morehead gymnasium on Friday beginning at 9:30 a. m. the program follows:

W. T. Garey Purchases Cut Rate Grocery Store

W. T. Garey, who recently resigned as manager of the local A. & P. store has completed a deal with Mr. James Pratt whereby he becomes the owner of the Cut Rate Grocery Store on Main street in the Masonic building. Mr. Garey expects to take possession on Monday of next week. The store will be inventoried on Saturday night by the new and present owners.

Mr. Garey is well known here having managed the local A. & P. Store for several years, during which time he won a number of the prizes offered by that organization for leading the sales in the district. He has built up a wide acquaintance and knowledge of the needs of the community.

Morehead Has One of the Most Difficult Schedules in the State This Season

Morehead has one of the most difficult schedules in the state this season, what might be called a suicide schedule. If they win one or two games the fans will be well satisfied. The boys themselves however, rather pooh-pooh the idea that they can't take it and win at least half of their games. They figure when the season opens, they will be ready to go and judging from their work they probably will.

A number of freshmen have also appeared in the scene and are working out along with the varsity. The squad looks like a real one, with both freshmen and varsity working out as one.

Apparently the freshmen will help

DEATH WALKS THE HIGHWAY

The gods of recklessness are devouring thousands of lives each month on American highways—and there is no limit to their appetite.

During the recent Fourth of July week-end, close to 500 people met accidental deaths—the largest number for that period since 1931. Fireworks were responsible for a smaller number of fatalities than usual—but that greatest destroyer of all, the carelessly operated motor car, chalked up a grisly record.

But the great tragedy is that accidents are not inevitable. Nine out of ten are preventable, and easily preventable. Carelessness, recklessness, ignorance and stupidity are the principal causes of accidental injury and death, and surely they can be cured—through law, through force of public opinion and, perhaps most important of all, through education of the individual.

Death walks the highway. He strides through our homes. He is an unseen visitor at every place of amusement. He is apt to put in his appearance in the happiest hours. The deaths that follow accidents can be eliminated almost 100 per cent if we will only make a small effort, and learn that a foolish act that saves a minute or provides a brief, futile thrill can send us or others into eternity. No graver problem faces the American people than the accident problem—and its solution is entirely up to the people.

TWO KINDS OF INSURANCE PROTECTION

A survey as to what kind of life insurance people wish to own discloses that there has been something of a change in the average man's attitude toward this type of investment. In the future, according to the answers received, considerably more protection type life insurance will be bought—and considerably more of the kind of insurance guaranteeing old age income and security.

Insurance is as splendid an insurance for protecting ourselves against our declining years as it is for protecting dependents against our death. Every man should adopt an insurance program which adequately balances the two types of protection.

Landon Still Leads In Nation Roll of Rural Communities

With a total of 360,202 votes tabulated at the close of the third week in the nation-wide Presidential poll, now being conducted by 3,000 daily and weekly newspapers, Landon continues to pull away from the field. Even though slight this gain in lead is maintained in all three of the major break-downs on a percentage basis.

Herewith are the vote totals from 41 states, as cast for the six presidential candidates:

Table with 2 columns: Candidate Name and Total Vote. Includes Landon (219,810), Roosevelt (117,284), Lemke (16,842), Thomas (3,097), Colvin (1,127), Browder (2,142).

In five of the 41 states from which ballots have been received, the returns are as yet so scattered that they are fairly meaningless. Those five states are, Arkansas, Delaware, Idaho, Mississippi, and Nevada.

In the remaining 36 of the 41 states, shown in the state by state tabulations, Landon is leading in 30 states and Roosevelt is leading in 6 states.

At the end of the second week, in nation and state by state tabulation Landon was leading in 26 states to 9 states for Roosevelt. In one state national vote was tied.

This week's tabulations show Landon breaking the tie in Nebraska to take the lead there, and also take the lead in Connecticut, Michigan, and Montana, for a gain of four states.

Questions and Answer of Old Age Assistance

(This is the second of the series of questions and answer about the actual working plans of Kentucky's Old-Age Assistance Law, prepared for interested Kentuckians by Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, Director of Old-Age Assistance of the Department of Public Welfare).

Q. How soon can I get old-age assistance?

A. In order to protect the tax-payers' money and to give the available money to those who need it most, each case must be carefully considered and an investigation made by a field worker in the home of the applicant. Over 64,000 applications are now on file in the various county offices, and from one to ten field workers in each county are making every effort to have applications approved as soon as possible.

Q. What information must the field worker have about my case?

A. They must be able to establish that you are 65 years of age or older; that you have been a resident of Kentucky for five out of the past nine years; that you have been a continuous resident for the twelve months preceding your application; and that you are in need of financial assistance.

Q. How can I prove my age is over 65?

A. The best means is by a birth certificate. If this is not available, there are other records which can be used, for instance: marriage records, insurance policies, legal documents which show your age, or affidavits from acquaintances who are aware of your age.

Q. If I have no birth certificate and no legal records to prove my age, how else can I prove it?

A. The Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., has a complete record of past censuses which include the ages of persons throughout the United States in every enumeration. In order to receive Federal aid, you must follow through with the

The family of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allen has been sadly depleted in the past week, as their children left to go to their work in various schools over the state.

Clarence Allen left last Saturday for Louisville where he intends to enroll in the law school at the University of Louisville. Since leaving he has received a message from Landon offering him a place in the Law High School. His family does not know what he will do.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hurst and Miss Jess Allen left for Newport, Ky., and Independence where they are to teach this year. Mr. Hurst is employed in the manual arts department of the Newport high school, while Miss Jess teaches at Independence, Ky.

Miss Gladys Allen left for Cincinnati, where she has accepted a clerical position in the Shelton store.

Farm and Agricultural News

Great Damage Is Done By Fires

IMPORTANT INFORMATION.

THE FARM AND HOME

How to Can Fruits and Vegetables—a circular by Mrs. Pearl J. Hank of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, gives information about canning equipment, processing, recipes, time tables, general rules for canning and other facts.

Leaving a considerable growth of grass on the lawn for late fall and winter is generally advisable. It tends to conserve root strength and protect the ground from freezing, thawing and heaving. Well-rotted manure should be applied in early winter.

Even though milk may be scarce at the present time, every cow should have a pint a day and preferably a quart. Milk has no real substitute. For children of school or even pre-school age an egg a day is desirable, and a little lean meat may well be added to the daily menu.

VEGETABLES FOR WINTER

Lacking a house cellar, some form of storage outside must be used. The most simple is to bury in pits the potatoes, cabbage and the root crops, but because pit storage is inconvenient and sometimes uncertain, it may be well to consider construction something better, a "cave" or "outside cellar," or a modification of such a form.

The main requirement for keeping the hardy vegetable is that they shall not freeze. This can be assured by "burying" them under sufficient cover, which in the latitude of Lexington is 6 inches of straw or litter, and 12 to 18 inches of earth. A minor requirement is that enough ventilation is given to pass off the moisture the stored vegetables transpire during the first month or 6 weeks. This is met by erecting a ventilator stack which protrudes from the "pit" at its top, and by providing two ditches that cross each other under the pile, and that extend to its edge, to admit fresh air.

Objections to "pit storage" are that it is difficult to remove the vegetables in inclement weather, and that once a pit is opened, it must be kept open, for it is difficult to re-close a pit properly. Much more convenient is to construct a vegetable "cave" or "outside" cellar by building a frame of wood or stone, covering it with plank or with masonry and with earth. In order to obviate the need for bringing earth from a distance, part of the structure should be put under ground, or if the site is sloping, into the slope.

In the ceiling, an outlet vent should be placed, fitted with some easy means for closing it. Entrance of fresh air may be assured by hanging an extra door across the opening, provided with a slot at the floor line, and a way of closing it, the slot door being solid. With the solid door open, and also the slot in the "false" door, air will flow in to replace that which escapes through structure may be warmed, if ventilation is given at midday; or cooled, by admitting air only during the night hours. With both vents closed, the air remains static and the temperature stays practically constant. Water drainage must be provided, using standard tile or an improvised "pole drain."

If building such a structure presents too great a difficulty, a modified "cave" storage may be made by submerging a barrel or a stout packing case in the ground vertically, or into the side of a hill. The excavation should be made large enough to allow 6 inches on all sides, and 12 inches underneath. This space should be filled with cinders or with fine stone, to keep the storage dry. If there is any doubt a drain leading to lower ground should be provided, as well. Such a "submerged" storage is effected by stuffing a sack of straw or leaves into the opening, and covered with plank or roofing to shed rain. Full building instructions for a submerged storage, as well as for any of the forms described in these columns in the past month, will be found in Kentucky Extension Circular 266; so will illustrations that make every detail plain. This circular will be sent free to any person who will address his request to the College of Agriculture at Lexington, with the hope that as much garden surplus will be saved against next winter, as may be.

COLLEGE TELLS HOW TO MAKE GOOD PIES

Pastry eaten too often or when it is not properly made is likely to cause digestive disturbances, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture tells 4-H club boys and girls.

It is not quickly digested because of the large amount of fat in the crust. A good pie crust must be light, flaky, crisp and tender, it is explained. Tenderness depends on the kind and amount of fat used, the amount of water used, and the method of handling ingredients in the making.

Lard makes a more tender pie crust than butter, but the latter gives the much better flavor. Often lard is used. Oils make a tender pie crust which is usually not so flaky.

The amount of water to be used cannot be given exactly because it varies with the kind of fat, flour and temperature. Less is needed when the temperature is warm.

If the dough is made too moist the crust will be tough. Use as little water as possible to get a dough that will roll. Either hot or cold water may be used. Hot water gives a flakier crust than cold water. Do not stir the mixture more than necessary in adding water. Use a knife for mixing. Do not handle or re-roll dough more than is necessary. Roll crust from the center out so as not to roll any part more than necessary, and try to keep it as round as possible.

SUGGEST CARE IN BALANCING DIET

There are certain foods which the body needs and there should be some of these in each day's diet, points out the "4-H Food Manual," a Kentucky of Agriculture publication used in 4-H club work.

A diet which supplies these needs so as not to roll any part more than necessary, and try to keep it as round as possible.

In a review of the fire situation on the Cumberland National Forest, Supervisor R. F. Kemingway announced that since January 1, 1936, 407 forest fires had been fought and 623 false alarms answered by the CCC enrollees of the 8 camps of the forest, at a cost of about $39,700.00.

Despite the efforts of the well trained fire fighting organization, 8,562 acres were burned, 1,418 acres of this land was on Government owned or optioned land and 8,346 acres burned were on private land within the Forest protection boundary.

It was found that the causes were distributed as follows: Lightning—railroad 24, lumbering 6, camp fires 7, smokers 59, debris burning 14, incendiary 231 and miscellaneous 17. Of this number 397 were man caused $24,322.00 has been spent in the suppression of fires and $6,185.60 has been paid in wages and for the purchase of fire fighting equipment. This amount is small in comparison to the damage that has been done to the timber, game, water supplies and soil fertility.

In the Eastern Region, which includes seven National Forests from Maine to Kentucky, 658 fires, have occurred since January 1, 1936. 92 percent of all these fires have been on or near the Cumberland National Forest in Kentucky. The time and money used in the suppression of these fires has been lost to Kentucky, when it might well have been used in the construction of permanent improvement such as roads, camps and picnic grounds and other such worthwhile projects which will be used by the public.

Due to the very prolonged dry spell, the spring fire season which ordinarily ends about June 1, has continued up to the present time. Fires are still occurring in various places. In fighting them, due to the hot weather. All users of the Forest are cautioned to be extremely careful with the use of fire for camping and picnicking. Smokers are cautioned to be sure that their matches and cigarettes or pipe heels are completely out.

The manual says that some of each of the following groups should be eaten each day:

Cereals.—Bread, macaroni, rice, oatmeal and other breakfast foods.

Fats.—Butter, cream, olive oil, other fats and meat fat.

Vegetables and Fruits.—Two of each every day, besides dried beans and potatoes.

Protein Foods.—Meats, eggs, cheese, fish, dried beans and peas.

Sweets.—Sugar, sirups and honey. Use sparingly.

Let milk play an important part in all meals. A quart a day for children and at least a pint for adults are the amounts needed for health.

It may not be possible to have all the necessary foods in one meal, but they should be supplied in one of the three meals for the day when making out the menu, rather than to consider each meal separately. It is the adequate diet for the whole day which counts.

"What is the aim of the Resettlement Administration program?" "Is the program Communistic or Utopian?" "Is the size of the administrative staff justified in the light of the number of people helped?"

Beginning with this issue the Rowan County News will ask and answer questions of this nature from authoritative sources and one or more questions will be answered each week.

Other questions in the series are: "Is the rehabilitation program which is carried on by the RA an expensive form of relief?" "Is the purchase of unproductive land of any benefit to the farming families a price for the land it is purchased by the people of the United States?" "Is the RA paying too high in large groups from one part of the country to another?" "To what extent is the RA benefiting labor?" "Is the unit cost in Resettlement communities excessive?"

Doug looked out at her in the puzzled incomprehension he so often regarded her with, and then shifted his eyes to the mule, patting her neck.
"I just didn't allow to see you down here," he said.
"Well, anyway I ought to be getting back. I didn't think it being so far along into the evening. Daddy and the boys will be getting in about dark."

She arose from the roots, and stepped out into the path where the sun caught the pink in her cheeks and the luster in her black hair, and Doug's eyes were frankly upon her.
"Is Sparrel over at town?"
"Yes, early this morning."
"I wanted to see him. He's got her pains around her heart again this evening. She needs some of Sparrel's medicine."
"I don't know whether he's got any or not, but Mother knows, and Daddy will be along soon. Come on up to the house and wait and eat with us."

"I don't reckon I can do that. I'll have to be getting back. There ain't nobody there with her right now."
They walked up the path together leading his animal.
"You folks got all your crops in?"
"They're about all in now, I guess. How are your crops?"
"I got the lower part of Buzzard to put in yet and some late melons down by the barn there by the creek."
They went through the gate into the lower orchard and Doug closed it.

"I'm getting things up and in pretty good shape again around the new kitchen back of the house and place, Doug said. I'm figuring on a covered over porch between like down at Connelly's."
"I guess your mother'll like that."
"I reckon she will, but I wasn't just think of her by herself, and he was full of surprise at hearing himself say a thing he didn't know he was going to say. Doug was twenty. He had lived all his years on the Mason place joining Sparrel Pattern on one side of Gannon Cynthia said the flush on his face without turning to look toward him. She made no answer but to continue to walk easily by his side on the edge of Long Bottom.

"I've got something nobody knows about, and I've a mind to tell you what it is."
"I won't have any talk on it, Doug if you want to tell me."
"I got a big senn patch set out and they're coming up, hundreds of them. I went out and gathered up seeds out of the berries last fall and planted them in that open spot at the head of Buzzard. I ought to have a sight of money out of them if the price stays up till the drower comes."
"I'm proud you thought of raising it instead of going all over the hill hunting for it."

Doug threw the bridle reins over a palling, and then walked on through the barn-lot by Cynthia's side. They went through the gate by the well into the house wearing her great calmness which seemed to partake of the timeless afternoon of evening and morning in this valley surrounded and protected by thick acres of trees. She different, but that is her way and greeted Doug with a soft kindness and inquired about her mother.
"I'll just see if I can't find some of Sparrel's medicine for you," she said.

In the small pantry-like room behind the kitchen where Sparrel kept some of his pharmacy, she found a bottle of brown medicine smelling pungently of sassafras and fennel and marked in Sparrel's neat penmanship, "Drops of Heart Ease."
"You better stay and eat with us," Julia said. "Sparrel and the boys will be along soon now, and Abrah'm out milking."
"I don't guess I can tonight. I ought to be getting back now."
"Well, you be sure and let us know how your mother gets along, and I'll tell Sparrel when he comes."
"I'm sure much obliged to you all," Doug said.

Lingering at the gate, Cynthia watched the evening absorb him as the morning had effaced Sparrel and taken away Jesse and she felt that the day had been long and disturbingly strange. She watched the sheep, tasting the difference in the atmosphere of the place as the restlessness of evening surged over all things with the protest of night and his quiet and his restoration. Then she went back to the kitchen to help with the supper.

When Cynthia heard through the dusk the steps of Abrah'm as he went into to spring-house with the milk, and then the sound of Sparrel and the boys on the porch, she began to feel that the balance was almost restored as before.
But as she lay that night thinking over the day and its moods, and of the brief account of Sparrel's meeting with Shellenberger and their plans for surveying the place, she knew that all was not quiet as before. And as she fell asleep she heard the restless voice of the disturbed timberland sighing over the leaves of the forests and running down into the roots and hiding there twisted between the leaf-mold and the sand.

The days that followed Sparrel's journey to town were tense, and the familiar routine were interrupted by an unfamiliar consciousness of suspense. Cynthia felt it acutely as she sat in the weaving-room with a shuttle of thread in her lap going over the brief account Sparrel said the boys had given of their day in Pikeville. "It has made a different in everybody, seems like. Daddy tries to be just the same but you can see it on his mind. Jasper is thinking about Jane Burden all right, but he won't ever say anything to anybody. Abrah'm is nervous and wants the strings to be all wrapped up in his law book and puzzled all the time over the hard words. Mother spends hours in her garden taping the earth with her hoe and bending over already sagging and makes everything seem all right. I'll be right glad when Daddy gets his herbs mixed up for me to take down to Mason's and feel the Finemare move under my legs."

She placed two of her freshly baked wheat bread in the round basket and Sparrel put in a large bottle of his compound.
"And tell her if she needs anything to just tell you, Julia said.
Cynthia went down to the barn. The Finemare tidily brushed and curried was already saddled and waiting under the shed by the stable block. She set the basket on the step and went into the barn to look for Jesse. She found him in the harness room astride a saddle on a wooden frame by the open window, bending over the law book propped against the panel of the saddle.
"This is the way we farm on Wolf pen this spring," Cynthia said.
Jesse was startled at the sound of her voice and almost dropped the Blackstone. "I was just reading a page or two of law. The Finemare's all saddled for you."
"I saw. Much obliged to you Jesse for doing it. You looked like it was right hard reading."
"It is awful hard some places, and I got to hunt up lots of words in Dad's dictionary. See here now—"

"This law of nature being covered with mankind, and dictated by God himself, is of course superior in obligation to any other: What is 'Conscience'?" Do you know?
"Not if it don't mean as evil as mankind."
"No, it couldn't be that. That would make the law be evil, don't you see? And then it says in order to apply this to the particular exigencies of each individual. Wonder what an individual's exigencies are?"
"I don't know, Jesse. That's hard. But lawyers have to know lots of big words about simple things. You'll have to ask Tandy Morgan." But it is nice you're reading about it. Do you know when the surveyors are coming?"
"Just any time now."
Jesse laid the book on the shelf above the saddle rack and went with Cynthia to the shed to unhitch the Finemare. Cynthia arranged herself on to red and green carpet-covered saddle, her right knee in the leather rest, and her full blue home spun skirt spread carefully over her feet. Jesse handed her the basket and opened the gate.

"Are you going to see Sarah Mason or Doug?" Jesse asked, lifting his eyebrows.
"I'm taking medicine to Sarah, and I reckon he'll be out in a hollow plow like a body ought to be on a day like this, Cynthia said, riding off. She rode smoothly in rhythm with the movement of the Finemare, down Wolfpen and into Gannon Creek at the ford, listening to the liquid sounds of the horse hoofs against the boulders under the water feeling the mare stretch out her neck and nose to gain freedom from the bridle to drink at leisure under the shadow of the Pinacles. The Mason place was just off the road behind a weathery paling fence. Cynthia left the Finemare under the elm tree by the gate. The yard was full of chickens. She found Sarah on the back porch which connected the old house with the summer kitchen. The floor was laid but the roof was unfinished.
"Oh, for land's sakes, it's you, Cynthia," Sarah began, painfully drawing her bare and swollen ankles under her faded dress. She was a heavy woman, and her Hibbs face, was lined with work and suffering. Her agitation and distress at the mere sight of a kind neighbor bearing gifts of medicine and fresh wheat bread sent a twist through Cynthia's stomach and she suffered with her.

From The ROWAN COUNTY SCHOOLS

BY MRS MABEL ALFREY
Attendance Officer Of Rowan Co.

THE MCKENZIE SCHOOL HAS INCENTIVE FOR ATTENDANCE

This school house is situated on Licking River about two miles off the CCC trail, a little school house, not very modern but the most interesting and eager group of boys and girls that you will find anywhere. They have to come over hills and through rough places but they are at school in "pawer" "pment" every day. Last week the attendance was 100 per cent. They try their aim is to stay at the top in attendance. The girls are competing against the boys and those from up the creek are competing against those from down the creek. The real secret of their success in attendance is the type of work they are doing while at school. Every window has a flower box full of bright colored flowers. There are incentive charts and pictures on the wall. Soft ball is the chief sport. It is well worth the time of any person to turn off the main trail two miles and watch these children work. They are also planning a float and banner as well as many exhibits for the fair. Parents visit this school and the teacher visits the parents. This school is

THE ALFREY SCHOOL IS ONE OF THE PICTUREQUE

A more picturesque spot in the county cannot be found for a school. This school is located two miles on down the river from the McKenzie school. It is on the road in cleared woodland with large trees surrounding it. The play ground is large. This school is more modern than the McKenzie School having plenty of light and air and two cloak rooms. On Wednesday, the day of my visit, it was raining and the rainy day period was in progress during which the children were working on booklets for the fair. These boys and girls voted to come every day during the school year. A glance about the room told that the work was made interesting for the children. There were curtains and shades at the windows, attractive pictures around the walls and a book shelf with supplementary books. The parents in this district should feel proud of their school and the work their children are doing. They are planning a float for the parade. The money will be raised by means of a pie supper to bring the children and patrons to the fair. Ruby Alfrey is the teacher.

THE LOWER LICK SCHOOL SHOWS GREAT IMPROVEMENT

The Lower Lick Fork School is just off the CCC trail a short distance over Clark mountain. My visit to this school was especially interesting because of the fact that fifteen years ago, I taught my first school there. I could recognize many of the children without asking their names because of their resemblance to the children who came to that school long ago but who are now parents of these children. The building does not look the same. It is repaired and in good condition now. In place of the 8 seats we had then there were enough seats for about 40 children. Many of these come a long way but are trying to keep their attendance above 90 per cent. One feature which was noticeable was a row of individual drinking cups. A more friendly well-behaved group of children will be hard find. Mrs. Dorothy Jones is the teacher.

IS CRANEY SCHOOL IN MORGAN OR ROWAN COUNTY?

This school has a rather unique location. It is just on this side of the Morgan County line but half of the district is in Morgan and half in Rowan county. The enrollment is small only 23 children being enrolled. This school house is practically new and the children take pride in keeping it clean. There have been many parents in to visit the school. Some of the college teachers have also visited. There are only five girls in the school, the rest being boys. Fair work is in progress, an airplane has been finished which will be flying in the near future. Mrs. F. G. Henderson of Louisville spent the day Tuesday with Mrs. Celia Hudgins. She was formerly Miss Olive Aultman and a resident of Morehead twelve years ago. Miss Helen Ray Beard of Ashland is visiting the week with Miss Rebecca Patton.

Rebecca Patton and guest Helen Ray Beard of Ashland and Aileen Waltz spent Monday in Ashland. Word has been received here of the death of D. K. Wells of Mt. Vernon which occurred on September 1. Left to mourn her loss is his widow, who was formerly Mrs. Cora Carter of Morehead. She and Mr. Wells were united in marriage November 29, 1924. He was at the time of his death 73 years of age.

CLEARFIELD SCHOOL HAS MANY WITH GOOD RECORD

The children who had a perfect attendance record at Clearfield for the second month are: Jackie Carpenter, Harold Caudill, Teddy Canoll, Wilbert Crager, Woodrow Johnson, James Lambert, Hubert Rose, Carl Stewart, Roy Stewart, De Crager, Clayton Hall, Letha Carpenter, Jaqueline Salyers, Junior Purdue, Arizona Carpenter, Lena Lambert, Bernice Buckner, Charles Fugate, Ralph Jenkins, David Davis, Billie Sargent, Genevieve Buckner, Barbara Crosthwaite, Essie Hayes, Naomi Owens, Thelma Quisenberry, Juanita Jenkins, Mabel Early, Susie Sargent, Dorothy May Stewart, Leo Hall, Zona Mynhier, Gilbert Quisenberry, Leona Baldrige, Sammie Crager, Fred Myers, Allie Crager, Juanita Crager, hier Walter Barndollar, Pauline Rog Blondena Mynhier, Billie Williams, Lela Kissinger, Olive Rigsby, Oleta Fugate, Paul Hall, Zona Mynhier, Margie Stewart, Dot Wright, Homer Davis, Billie Glover, Charles Littleton, James Lon. Medford Pettit, Allie Johnson, Helen Faulkner, Mary Alice Faulkner, James Dyer, Victor Owens, Wordinson Lambert, Vivian Quisenberry, Harold Collins, Junior Collins, Pauline Littleton, Rebecca Williams, Boba Rigby, Russell Fugate, Cecil Fugate, Ralph Early, Fay Maxine Dyer, Allie Sargent, Maxine Mynhier, Ted Williams, Jessie Bear, Early, Arthur Stewart, Katherine Mynhier, Vernita Bradley, Lawan Cassidy, Nortop Early, Heta Hall, Ray Early.

The Clearfield school has a fine method for working out attendance. The boys and girls who have perfect attendance, besides winning prizes, get to go on picnics. They are planning a trip to the Carter Caves for those having perfect attendance. Perhaps that is the secret to the large number having no absence marks against them. We hope next month to have a full list of all the school children who have not been out of school at all during the month. The attendance of other schools will be published next week.

EAGLES OUT

(Continued On Page One) recent considerable beef, if one can judge by the quantity that has already come into the fold. Coach Johnson stated that if he could take care of them he could easily have a hundred freshmen enrolled for the squad this year. Naturally he is having to cut down from that number and is taking only the best prospects that appear. The majority of the present varsity squad is made up of sophomores from last years freshman team. Out of the twenty eight expected, eighteen of them will be sophomores. While this may have a tendency to handicap the team this year, it is however, a pleasant prospect for next year and the following year when they will be juniors and seniors, with considerable experience under their belts. Taken all -- all, the prospects for this year are decidedly encouraging. Naturally Coach Johnson wants the underdog, the one is tied to the opposite, neither, however is he looking on the dark side. If he can win a fair proportion of the games this season he will not complain. He is setting out with the hope of winning them all. And after everything has been said and the records will certainly show that the 1936 edition of the Eagles, win or lose, worked and fought and
