FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals and the Fleming County Hospital will co-sponsor a respiratory nursing workshop on Friday, Jan. 12, in Flemingsburg.

The workshop is designed to provide information for registered and licensed practical nurses on ways to promote a higher level of health care for those suffering chronic lung disease.

Serving as the faculty will be Janet Gross, associate professor of nursing in the baccalaureate nursing program at Morehead State University.

The workshop will be held at the Fleming County Hospital with registration beginning at 9:30 a.m. and class starting at 10 a.m. The cost of the three-hour session is $24 which includes handout materials and refreshments.

Nurses attending the session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health care professionals and the Meadowview Regional Hospital will co-sponsor two nursing workshops in Maysville this month.

The first workshop, "Basic Life Support Instructor Course," will be conducted on Tuesday, Jan. 16, with registration beginning at 7:30 a.m. Included in the discussion will be cardiac arrest, obstructed airway and infant resuscitation under standards set by the American Heart Association.

Gail Wise, MSU assistant professor of nursing and certified AHA basic life support instructor-trainer, will serve as the faculty. The cost is $50 which includes refreshment breaks and handout materials.

Nursing management in emergency childbirth is the topic to be discussed in the "Obstetrical Emergencies" session to be held Tuesday, Jan. 30. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m., with class to start at 9 a.m.

Mary Murry, assistant patient and clinical service director at St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead, will instruct the course. The cost is $16 which includes handout materials and refreshment breaks.

Both workshops will be held at the Meadowview Regional Hospital. Nurses attending either session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

Jan. 5, 1990

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A retired Morehead State University educator has been honored by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) for her work with the Commission on Elementary Schools.

Dr. Mary Northcutt Powell, chair of Morehead State University's Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education from 1970 until her retirement in 1982, was selected by SACS as a recipient of its Distinguished Educational Achievement Award.

"I can think of no one more deserving of such recognition," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "Dr. Powell has dedicated herself to improving the educational foundations for our youth by encouraging high standards and providing guidance to see that these standards were implemented."

Dr. John R. Duncan, vice president of academic affairs during Dr. Powell's tenure at MSU, said that Dr. Powell "has the gift of vision and the ability to lead others toward that vision. Even after retiring from full-time teaching at the University, Dr. Powell has continued to provide an example to young people of a lifelong commitment to education," the MSU professor of education added.

One of the developers of the Commission on Elementary Schools, Dr. Powell represented the state on the commission's predecessor, the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education. She also worked two summers with colleagues from 10 other states to develop standards and procedures for the commission.

The professor emeritus of education chaired the self-study committee for the University Breckinridge School--the first Kentucky elementary school accredited by SACS. Joining MSU's education faculty in 1964, Dr. Powell was supervising second grade teacher at Breckinridge from 1955-60.

A member of the state's first SACS Commission, she served as chairman and/or member of several committees, arranged and conducted workshops to train consultants and team chairmen, and led sessions to explain SACS accreditation procedures and to recruit school systems for membership.

After retiring, Dr. Powell continued to serve on visiting teams and as a self-study consultant. She currently is a consultant to the Kentucky State Elementary Committee.

The 1967 MSU Distinguished Faculty Award recipient, she has been active in numerous professional organizations on the state and national level.

Dr. Powell earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from MSU and the Doctor of Education degree from George Peabody College, where she also participated in the postdoctoral program known as DARCEE.

She and her husband, Dr. James H. Powell, retired dean of MSU's School of Education, make their home in Morehead.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Looking for something special for this Valentine's Day? Morehead State University's Scholarship Benefit Auction may be the place to shop.

Several hundred items will be sold at a live auction on Saturday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m., in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center. Works by local artists and business people, gift certificates, crafts, pottery, antiques and collectibles are among the gift ideas to be available.

The auction, sponsored by MSU's Department of Communications and MSU Foundation, is a fund raiser for the scholarship program with proceeds going to the Julia D. Webb Scholarship Fund. The public is invited to attend.

"If this year's auction holds true to tradition, those attending can look forward to an enjoyable evening while obtaining unique treasures," said Harlen Hamm, MSU associate professor of communications and chairman of the auction's organizational committee. "The original works and hand-made crafts are of exceptional quality."

A cherry, handmade clock by Raymond White of Flemingsburg, valued at $350, is an example of the donations being made available for this auction.

MSU JOURNALISM PROGRAM ONLINE FOR THE 1990S

Morehead State University journalism students returning for the spring semester will find their instructional program has catapulted into the 1990s with the acquisition of more than $66,000 worth of MacIntosh Plus computers and accompanying software. The new equipment, which includes 19 terminals, a two-page monitor for layout/design, optic scanner and laser printer, will be used for teaching and for production of the campus newspaper and yearbook. At left, Apple representative John Kwiecinski of the Lexington Computer Store discusses the new technology with MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "As a result of Dr. Grote's commitment of funding which provided us this state-of-the-art technology, our journalism lab is second to none in the state," said Dr. Richard Dandeneau, chair of MSU's Department of Communications.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Minority Student Affairs will commemorate the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by hosting the annual candlelight memorial march on the national holiday in his honor, Monday, Jan. 15.

The march will begin in front of the Camden-Carrol Library at 5 p.m. and proceed down campus to Breckinridge Hall, according to Jerry Gore, Minority Student Affairs director. Candles will be provided.

"The evening's program will be an Open Forum," Gore noted. "This will allow individuals to speak on Dr. King's life and civil rights in America."

The activities, which are free and open to the public, are sponsored by MSU's Office of Minority Student Affairs and the Black Gospel Ensemble. Additional information is available from Gore at (606) 783-2668.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A Morehead State University faculty member in social work has received a Fulbright grant to conduct research in Ethiopia.

John Michael Seelig, coordinator of MSU's social work program, will spend the next six months studying the child welfare systems in the country's capital, Addis Ababa, and Shewa Province.

Seelig, an associate professor, is MSU's first participant in the prestigious Fulbright Program, although other University faculty/administrators have received fellowships under the Fulbright-Hays Program.

"National recognition of this sort not only enhances Mike Seelig's reputation among his colleagues, but also demonstrates the quality of excellence to be found among our faculty," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "We as a University community can take pride in his achievement."

Seelig, who left earlier this month, said that he believes that Ethiopia offers a rare opportunity to look at the evolution of a social welfare system in its embryonic stages.

"We all know what the social welfare state is here in the United States and how it developed from colonial times," Seelig said. "What I think I will find is that Ethiopia's welfare system is very similar to ours of the 1700s and early 1800s when certain of our societal conditions paralleled those over there today," he explained.

His selection of Ethiopia for his research comes from a personal and professional interest in human struggle as evidenced by trips in the past to strife-torn locations such as Northern Ireland, Cuba and Sicily.

Ethiopia has limited resources, is torn by civil war and is plagued by ongoing boundary disputes with adjacent nations. "What few resources the country has are channeled into the country's defense and internal security," Seelig said.

Noting that the average lifespan of an Ethiopian is 47 years, Seelig said that he believes the youth are an important commodity, especially as a labor force.

"My interest is in the nonproductive youth--those who are physically disabled or mentally retarded; have emotional problems or chronic illness," he said. "I want to study the strategies Ethiopia has for meeting the needs of this segment of its population. With limited resources available to it and in desperate need of a productive labor force, what does a country do with youth who are a drain on resources but who must be provided for?"

Seelig said there were other questions to be answered, including who are the care-givers. Are they professionally trained? Ethiopians? Missionaries?

"If the Ethiopians are the care-givers, then how are the society's attitudes transferred?" he asked. "I hope to gain access to institutions to see the interaction between clients and care-givers," Seelig added.

An MSU faculty member since 1983, Seelig previously taught at Ohio State University where he received the Distinguished Teacher Award. He earned the B.S. and the M.S.W. degrees as well as the M.A. degree in public administration from OSU. He holds a J.D. degree from Capital University and is a member of the Ohio Bar Association. A former chair of MSU's Faculty Senate, Seelig is a member of the Kentucky Association of Social Work Educators and a contributing editor to the Journal of Independent Social Work.

Established in 1946 under Congressional legislation introduced by former Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, the Fulbright Program is designed "to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries" by the awarding of grants to American students, teachers and scholars to study, teach and conduct research in more than 130 countries around the world and to foreign nationals to undertake similar activities within the United States.

Individuals are selected on the basis of academic and professional qualifications plus their ability and willingness to share ideas and experiences with people of diverse cultures. The program is administered by the U.S. Information Agency.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Jim Peck's "Rab, The Rhymer," featuring John Forrest Ferguson as Scotland's plowman poet Robert Burns, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 24, in Button Auditorium at Morehead State University.

The one-man show based on the works of Robert Burns is part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) 1989-90 programming. AIM is a cooperative effort of the University and the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council.

Admission will be by AIM season ticket or by single event tickets which may be purchased at the door for $5 by adults and $2.50 by non-MSU students age 18 and younger. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

"The piece is designed for anyone who enjoys good theatre--you don't have to be a Burns scholar to appreciate Burns the man," said Ferguson. "He was a man of the people, a farmer with a real love for the land. He was also an incurable romantic who packed an incredible amount of living into 37 years," the actor added.

Burns' "rhymes," which have been translated into 18 languages, have made him one of the most popular poets of all times. He is revered by his countrymen as a national treasure.

Written by Atlanta playwright Jim Peck, "Rab, The Rhymer" chronicles the passionate life, loves, literature and music of Burns. Peck and actor Ferguson have woven the songs, poetry and legend of Burns into a dramatic work. The audience can follow the poet's struggle for success and survival as he fights the odds against both.

Described by critics as "a total evening of theatre," Rab includes renditions of "To a Louse," "To a Mouse," and "Tam O'Shanter" as well as other of Burns' works. Also Ferguson accompanies himself on the piano to deliver such Burns' songs as "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose," "Sweet Afton" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Presented by Atlanta's Theatre Gael, the one-man performance has been presented as a PBS special in January 1986 and was invited to the Edinburgh, Scotland Theatre Festival in 1985.

Additional information on "Rab, The Rhymer" or the 1989-90 AIM Series is available by calling Yvonne Baldwin, AIM program chair and director of MSU's Academy of Arts, at (606) 783-2659.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

SPRING REGISTRATION AT MSU: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Some Rowan County students were among those who returned to the Morehead State University campus in early January for the spring semester. Following two days of registration where they scheduled classes and paid their fees, the students "officially" began their studies on Jan. 10. MSU's spring semester will continue until May 11.

Cutlines:

- 1----The Davis family of Morehead were among those to pass through the registration area. Regina, a junior elementary education major, was accompanied by her husband Curtis and son, eight-month-old Jeremy.
- 2----Christopher J. Dailey was happy to make a stop at the refund table where he received money from Delene Riddle, MSU cashier, as James Fluty, MSU controller, looks on.
- 3----After completing the registration process, Kelly O'Connell made her selections at the University Bookstore. O'Connell is a junior advertising major from Morehead.

SPRING REGISTRATION AT MSU

Students returned to the Morehead State University campus in early January for the spring semester. Completing the registration process were Erik Lindstrom, left, a sophomore chemistry major, and Klas Anderson, a freshman engineering major, both of Ronneby, Sweden. Lindstrom's father, William A. Lindstrom, lives in Mt. Sterling.

SPRING REGISTRATION AT MSU: A Picture Story

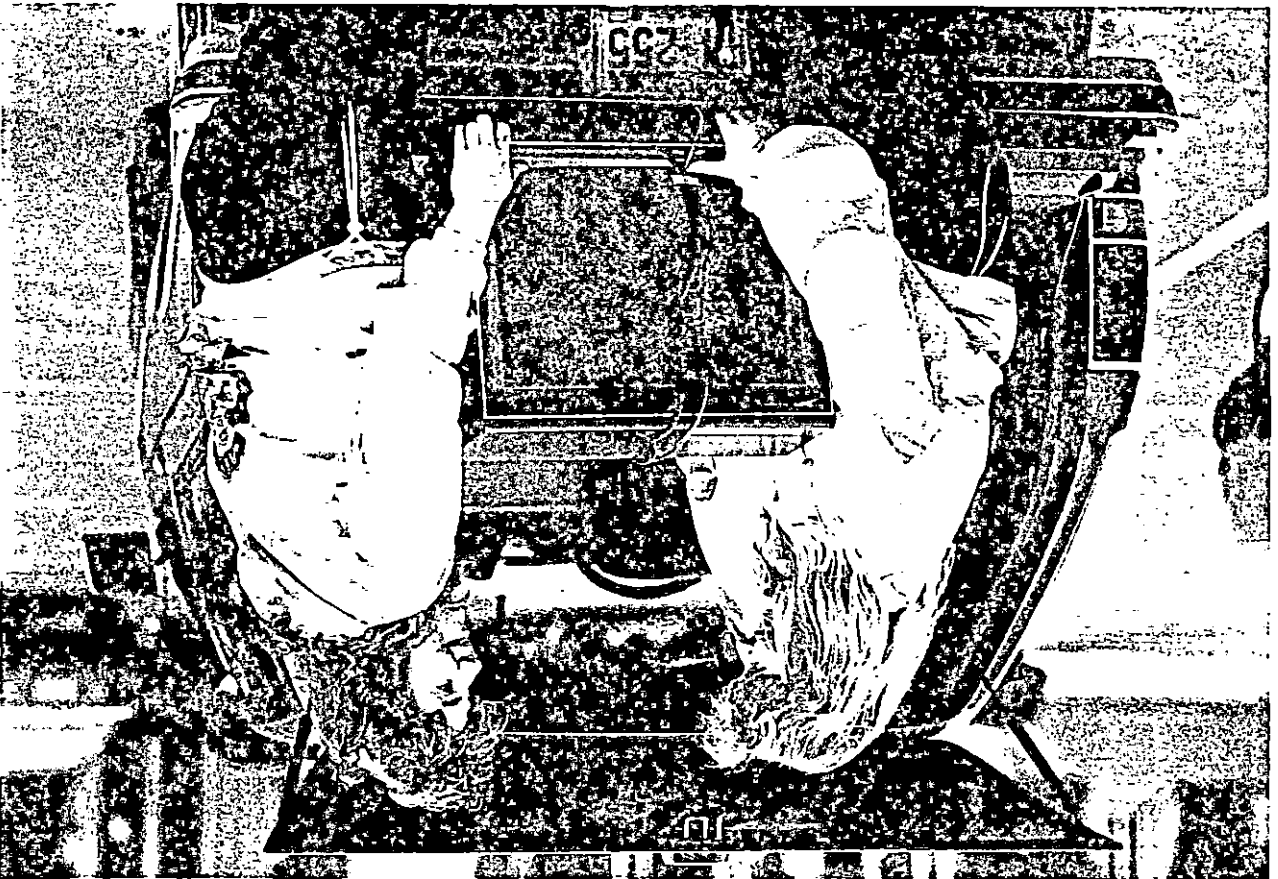

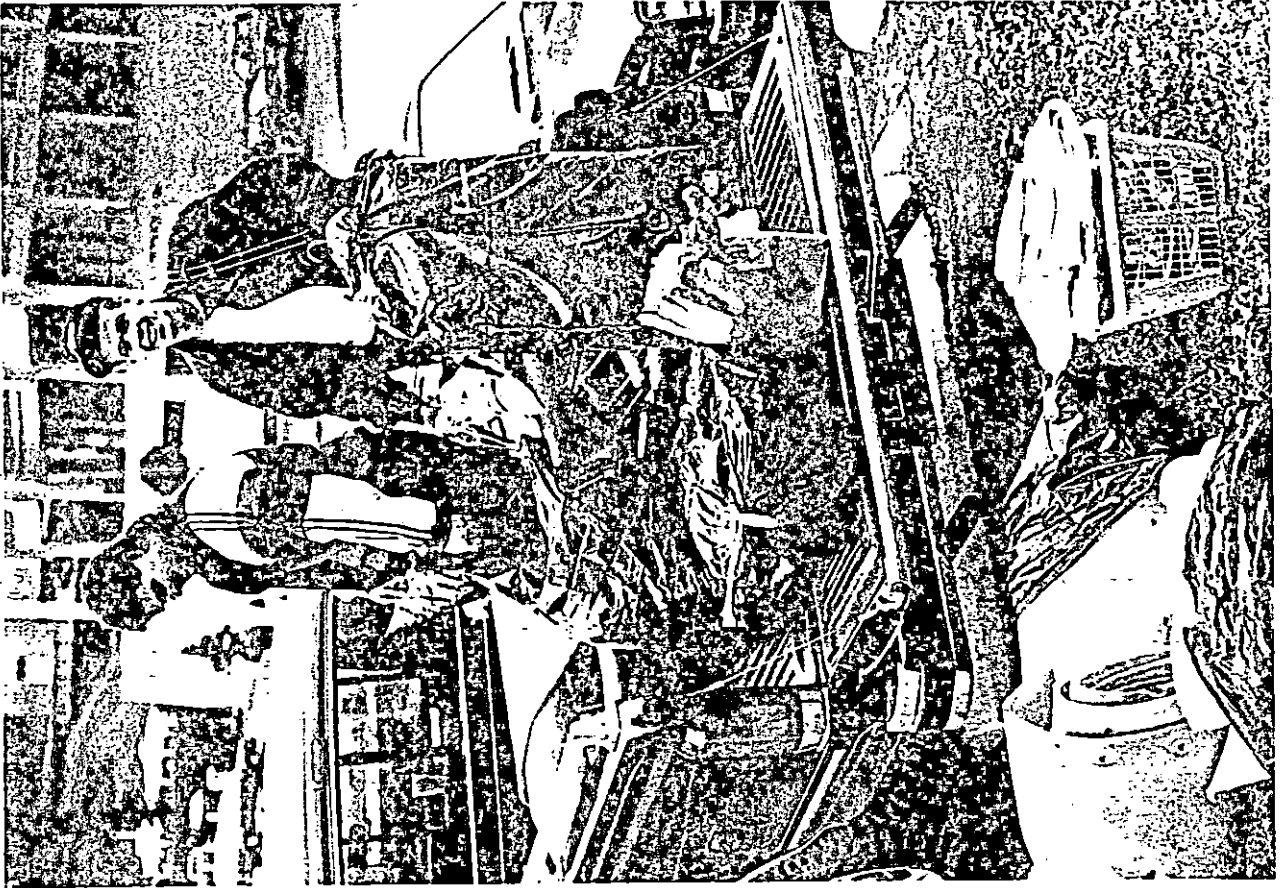

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Some Pike County students were among those who returned to the Morehead State University campus in early January for the spring semester. Following two days of registration where they scheduled classes and paid their fees, the students "officially" began their studies on Jan. 10. MSU's spring semester will conclude May 11.

- 1----Junior Connie Brown, left, and freshman Sonya Bowling take great care to get the television into their residence hall. Brown, daughter of Larry Brown of Myra, and Bowling, daughter of Linda Bowling of Jonancy, are roommates in MSU's Cartmell Hall.
- 2----Since the weather was being cooperative, these students enjoyed the move back to the campus for the new term. Darrell Addington, left, and Scottie Mullins live in Wilson Hall. The MSU freshmen are the sons of Haskell Addington of Elkhorn City and Hubert Mullins of Ashcamp, respectively.
- 3----After completing her class schedule, Ingrid Bowling went to the University Bookstore to purchase the books she will need. Bowling, a senior elementary education major, is the daughter of Phillip Johnson of Speight.

SPRING REGISTRATION AT MSU: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Some Maysville students were among those who returned to the Morehead State University campus in early January for the spring semester. Following two days of registration where they scheduled classes and paid their fees, the students "officially" began their studies on Jan. 10. MSU's spring semester semester will continue until May 11.

1----Moving back to the campus after the Christmas break was a family affair for the Malone sisters. From left, Erin, a sophomore at Mason County High School; Meredith, MCHS senior; Myra, MSU freshman elementary education major, and Emily, MSU sophomore physical therapy major, carried belongings into Waterfield Hall. They are the daughters of Thomas Malone.

2----Dr. Mary Ann Gladden, MSU associate professor of education, assisted Penney Brooks, right, in completing her class schedule during the registration process. Brooks, daughter of Frank Brooks, is a special education major.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A "Youth Entrepreneur Seminar" will be held on Feb. 1 in the Adron Doran University Center on the Morehead State University campus.

Sponsored by Morehead State University's School of Business and Economics Small Business Development Center, the one-day session will cover topics of interest to those interested in a business venture, according to Ernest Begley, general management consultant and director of the Morehead area center.

"The program is geared to high school seniors," Begley said. "It will be of special interest to those who are planning on opening a business in the near future, whether or not they plan on attending college."

The day's activities begin with registration at 8:30 a.m., followed by welcoming remarks from MSU President C. Nelson Grote and Dr. Bernard Davis, School of Business and Economics interim associate dean.

Program sessions, each approximately 45 minutes in length, will follow as part of the day's activities. These include: "Determining Your Potential" with Pete McNeill, coordinator of special projects in the Office of Regional Development Services; "Developing the Business Plan" with Dr. Michael Harford, Department of Management and Marketing interim chair and professor of management; "Planning the Marketing Strategy" with Dr. Bill B. Pierce, professor of management; "Managing the Finances" with Dr. Rosemary Peavler, associate professor of finance, and "Keeping the Business Records" with L.K. Williams, associate professor of accounting.

Deadline for registration is Jan. 29. A $10 registration fee is required. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2077.

The Kentucky Small Business Development Center is partially funded by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). Special arrangements for the handicapped will be made if requested in advance.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Richard F. Green, a 21-year veteran of military corrections work, has been named manager of Public Safety at Morehead State University.

Green, a retired U.S. Air Force lieutenant colonel, assumed the post Jan. 16, according to Porter Dailey, MSU vice president for administrative and fiscal services.

"Richard Green not only has an extensive background in law enforcement but also has worked with youth organizations, including the Boy Scouts, coached and been a volunteer with family advocacy committees," Dailey said. "We believe he offers the campus a unique combination of people skills and leadership qualities necessary in this critical post," he added.

"We owe a debt of gratitude to Bill Rosenberg, our director of General Services, and Roger Holbrook, coordinator of investigations and special programs, who directed the Office of Public Safety during the search for a permanent manager," Dailey said.

After retiring from the USAF in 1988, Green worked in the private sector in Georgia. He holds the B.B.A. degree from Kent State University, an M.A. degree in psychology from Ball State University and has done additional graduate work in the law enforcement field at the University of Georgia, University of Southern California and Northwestern University.

During the years from 1981 to 1988 he served as chief of security police at USAF bases in Florida, Arizona and Georgia. He also has seen military security work in England and Thailand as well as California, Virginia and Texas. One of his early assignments at Bergstrom AFB in Texas involved serving on a security support team for President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Green, who said he considers himself a "people-oriented manager," has worked with spouse and child abuse issues. He assisted in establishing the first "safe house" for abused spouses in a community near one USAF base. "A successful public safety officer must care and must be involved with his community," Green said.

In his last three years of service, Green served on the USAF Security Police Executive Council and the USAF Security Police Academy Board of Regents. He is a licensed US Soccer Federation youth coach and certified USSF and high school referee.

Green and his wife Cheryll are the parents of two children: Jennifer, 17, and Michael, 14.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Hundreds of items, ranging from original paintings, pottery and other art to antiques, crafts and new merchandise will be auctioned at Morehead State University's Scholarship Benefit Auction, Saturday, Feb. 3.

The auction, sponsored by the Department of Communications and the MSU Foundation, will be held in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center, beginning at 7 p.m. Proceeds will go to the Julia D. Webb Scholarship Fund.

"This will be a perfect opportunity to shop for a Valentine gift for that special someone," said Harlen Hamm, MSU associate professor of communications and chairman of the auction's organizational committee. "At the same time, you will be helping college students further their education," he added.

The scholarships will be awarded to students who are members of the speech team. The fund is named in honor of the late MSU faculty member and speech team coach who brought state, regional and national honors to the university during her tenure.

All items will be displayed prior to the start of bidding and light refreshments will be served, according to Hamm. Steve Lewis of Morehead will serve as the auctioneer.

"Those attending can look forward to an entertaining evening and may purchase a special gift as well," Hamm noted. Items to be auctioned include works by local artists and business people, gift certificates, crafts, pottery, antiques and collectibles.

Additional information is available from Hamm at (606) 783-2712.

ON THE AUCTION BLOCK

Dr. Richard Dandeneau, Morehead State University Department of Communications chair, received an original oil painting from West Liberty artist-writer Helen Price Stacy to be auctioned at the Scholarship Benefit Auction. The painting, entitled "In the Garden," will be sold to the highest bidder on Saturday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center. Stacy describes this work "as symbolizing our Eastern Kentucky heritage. There is a spiritual link with earth and heaven and when combined with a garden, trees, or beautiful hills and down-to earth people; it is richness beyond measure in things that count." Also on the auction block will be crafts, antiques, pottery, and collectibles. Proceeds from the auction, sponsored by the Department of Communications and the MSU Foundation, will benefit the Julia Webb Scholarship Fund. Additional information is available from the auction chairman at (606) 783-2712.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A Morehead State University economist has been appointed to the Kentucky Economic Roundtable by Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson.

Dr. Bernard Davis, interim associate dean for the School of Business and Economics, was one of five new gubernatorial appointees to the newly-expanded advisory group.

Composed of nine economists from the public and private sectors, the roundtable advises state officials on economic conditions and trends. A need for a broader scope of economic expertise resulted in enlarging the roundtable, according to state Finance Secretary L. Rogers Wells Jr.

"National and state economic trends require continuous monitoring and evolution," Wells said. "The information gathered and assessments made by the roundtable make it one of the most important advisory panels in state government."

Dr. Davis, who joined MSU's faculty in 1978, has held various administrative posts in addition to his teaching responsibilities. A professor of finance, he earned his doctorate in finance and economic theory from the University of Kentucky.

A former teacher/administrator at Berea College, the Oneida native is active in several professional organizations and has written or co-authored numerous articles for publications in his field.

Other new appointees include Dr. Lawrence Lynch, a Transylvania University economics educator; Dr. James O'Conner, chair of Eastern Kentucky University's Department of Economics; Robert M. Hewitt, vice president of Kentucky Utilities Co., and Dr. Thomas O. Wisely, a Western Kentucky University economist.

They join John Dansby, Ashland Oil Inc. vice president; Dr. James McCabe, chairman of the University of Louisville's Department of Economics; Dave Stevenson of the General Electric Co. at Louisville, and Dr. Merl Hackbart, a University of Kentucky finance and administration faculty member and senior associate dean.

Ex-officio members are Wells and Dr. James R. Ramsey, the state's chief economist.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The care of the pediatric patient is the topic of a workshop to be held at the Breathitt County Library in Jackson on Friday, Feb. 2.

The one-day session, co-sponsored by Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals and the Middle Kentucky River Medical Center, will cover the effects of hospitalization on the child and the family. Common childhood illnesses and treatments, and identifying basic nursing assessment techniques also will be discussed.

Serving as the faculty will be Barbara Blake, a member of the nursing faculty at Hazard Community College.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and class will start at 9 a.m. The cost of the workshop is $42 which includes handout materials and refreshments.

Nurses attending the session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A team from Verity Middle School of Ashland won the Morehead Regional of the 13th annual Junior High Math Bowl held at Morehead State University recently.

To win the event, sponsored by the Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Verity defeated teams from Morgan County Middle School of West Liberty, Simons Middle School of Flemingsburg, and Rowan County Middle School of Morehead.

The Verity team, which earned the title of regional winner from among seven competing teams, and runner-up, Rowan County Middle School, will compete for the state title of 1990 Junior High Math Bowl Champion on Jan. 27. Regional winners and runner-ups across the state will gather in Frankfort to vie for the crown on that date.

Also competing in the Morehead Regional, with team members from grades 6, 7 and 8, were Model Laboratory School of Richmond, Menifee County Elementary of Frenchburg, and Mason County Middle School of Maysville.

Dr. Ben Flora, MSU professor of mathematics, was the regional bowl director. Dr. Flora was assisted in managing the contest by all faculty members of the MSU Department of Mathematics.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Chapter of the Kentucky Education Association-Student Program will honor Ashland Oil, Inc., for its continued commitment to education on Tuesday, Jan. 23, at the Adron Doran University Center.

Dan Lacy, AOI vice president for corporate communications, will accept the award on behalf of the firm. Making the presentation for the University and the campus student KEA group will be MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

"As future educators, our members believe it is important to recognize Ashland Oil for what it has done to increase public awareness of education's importance to our lives," said Dena Fannin of Sandy Hook, the organization's vice president for public relations.

"The company's recognition of the efforts of dedicated classroom teachers means a great deal to those of us who have selected teaching as our profession," she added.

In addition to Dr. Grote and Lacy, speakers for the brief program will include Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, MSU vice president for academic affairs, and other special guests.

The KEA-SP is a student organization composed of education majors in all fields. The MSU Chapter has more than 150 members, according to Fannin.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--This month marks a quarter-century since the legislation that created Volunteers In Service To America (VISTA) was enacted. Governor Wallace Wilkinson issued a proclamation to recognize the volunteers' great service throughout Kentucky.

Morehead State University observed the 25th anniversary of VISTA Volunteers by honoring VISTA Volunteers it sponsors, noting VISTA's contributions to the community and looking to its future role in society.

Morehead State University's VISTA Literacy Project Volunteers received a pin and a handmade mug for their dedication in providing Eastern Kentucky citizens an opportunity to upgrade their educational skills.

Bonnie Burrell, coordinator of Morehead State University's Adult Learning Center, made the presentation to the VISTA Volunteers. "I am pleased to work with VISTA Volunteers in serving adults in several Eastern Kentucky counties to help further their educational goals," Burrell said.

Volunteers In Service To America have served in American counties for 25 years and 75 VISTA Volunteers in Kentucky are currently continuing the tradition of a quarter-century of achievement, helping people gain skills and knowledge to become self-sufficient.

"Our theme for the anniversary year is 'Building a Community, One Block At A Time,' a message that reflects the diverse ways in which VISTA Volunteers help to build strong communities," said Shirley Hamilton, co-director of the MSU VISTA Literacy Project.

Patricia Rodgers, director of VISTA, noted that when President Bush speaks of a "thousand points of light," he is talking about the work that VISTA's do every day to illuminate the path of community progress. "Under his leadership, we launch VISTA's second 25 years. Once again VISTA Volunteers will take the lead in demonstrating, as the President has said, that 'any definition of a successful life must include service to one's neighbor'," Rodgers said.

Rodgers in her message to all VISTA Volunteers said:

"You give your community and country a priceless gift - a full year of your skills and caring. You uphold the tradition of service to one's neighbor that has nourished our system of free government and helped to secure our democracy since colonial times. I thank you for giving so much as a VISTA Volunteer. I know that the only reward you seek is to see the community around you strengthened by your service, but I also want you to know that a grateful nation honors your VISTA spirit."

MSU's VISTA Volunteers, their service counties and phone numbers where they may be contacted are: Morgan County, Violet Mays, Nannie Hutchinson and Shirley Gilliam, 743-1500; Bath County, Doris Kincaid, Janie Jones and Rita Manley, 674-2664; Elliott County, Dneice Adkins and Mary Owens, 738-6311, and Rowan County, Peggy Lindell and Mary Margaret Evans, 783-2871.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--There's a body! Someone may be lurking in the swamp. The power went out in the storm.

A comic murder mystery in a typical "who done it" style is the latest production by Morehead State University theatre students.

"The Real Inspector Hound" will be performed in the Kibbey Theatre, Feb. 6-10, at 8 p.m. nightly. A Sunday matinee is set for Feb. 11 at 2 p.m.

Reservations are required and may be made by calling the Theatre Box Office at (606) 783-2170. Tickets are $5 for adults, $2 for high school students and senior citizens, and free to MSU students with a valid I.D. card.

Appearing in the play will be L. Michael Breeze, MSU graduate from Morehead; John Burchett, Morehead senior; Rick Carlson, Bartlett, Ill., sophomore; Brian Delaney, West Chester, Ohio, sophomore; Stacey Dixon, Ashland senior; Sylvia E. Layne, Morehead sophomore; Jamie Phillips, Greenfield, Ohio, freshman; Ramona Reffitt, Ashland junior; Danny Stockton, Davie, Fla., freshman, and an unknown voice.

Directing the production will be Dr. Thomas Van Brunt, part-time theatre instructor. Karen O'Baker, MSU graduate from Geneva, Ohio, is scenic designer and publicity director. Dr. William J. Layne, associate professor of theatre, is the technical director. Anita Bigelow, Magnolia junior, is the properties designer, and Richard Blanton, Boston senior, is the production stage manager. Trishia L. White, Kettering, Ohio, sophomore, is the box office manager.

TOMORROW'S TEACHERS SALUTE AOI

Morehead State University's Chapter of the Kentucky Education Association-Student Program recently honored Ashland Oil, Inc., for its continued efforts to increase public awareness of the importance of education and the role of teachers. Dan Lacy, right, vice president for corporate communications, accepted the award on behalf of the firm from MSU President C. Nelson Grote. Assisting with the presentation was Dena Fannin of Sandy Hook, the student organization's vice president for public relations. Dr. Grote commended Ashland Oil for its visionary decision in launching its pro-education campaign and for its continued commitment "to selling education."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Scholarship Benefit Auction, featuring the works of several hundred local artists and craftsmen, is only days away.

The Auction will be held on Saturday, Feb. 3, in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center, beginning at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The response from those making donations has been tremendous, according to Harlen Hamm, MSU associate professor of communications and chairman of the auction's organizational committee. "The quality of the merchandise to be sold only exemplifies the talent and generosity of the people in the region," he said.

The family of the late Betty Gregory, a well-known Rowan County elementary teacher, has provided us with a painting by the artist, Hamm said. "Ms. Gregory was always very supportive and the family has continued the tradition in her memory. It's this type of commitment which has made the auction so successful in the past," he said.

Another highlight of the auction will be a handmade clock by MSU alumnus Raymond White of Hillsboro, a former teacher and principal in the Rowan and Fleming County school systems. The clock is made of wild cherry and utilizes the Bavarian Regulator mechanism. It is valued at $350.

All items--including original paintings, pottery, antiques, crafts, new merchandise and collectibles--will be displayed prior to the start of bidding. Light refreshments will be served.

The auction, sponsored by the Department of Communications and the MSU Foundation, is a fund raiser for the scholarship program. Proceeds will go into the Julia D. Webb Scholarship Fund to be awarded to students who are members of the speech team.

"The fund is named in honor of the late MSU faculty member and debate team coach who brought state, regional and national honors to the University," said Dr. James E. Quisenberry, professor of speech and chair of the Scholarship Fund. "Many of her former students have achieved successful careers as lawyers, judges, and in other legal and professional capacities."

Members of the auction committee include Dr. Quisenberry; Kathy Mincey, assistant professor of English; Jan Caldwell, assistant professor of speech and coach of the University's speech team, and Hamm.

Additional information on the auction is available by calling (606) 783-2712.

TIME FOR THE CHARITY AUCTION

Tick-tock..tick-tock..Time is passing as the hands on the clock. This wall clock will belong to the highest bidder at the Morehead State University Scholarship Benefit Auction on Saturday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center. Making a final check of his contribution is Raymond E. White of Hillsboro, one of several hundred artists and craftsmen donating their works to provide scholarships for members of the speech team. White, a former teacher and principal in Rowan and Fleming Counties, worked approximately one month to make the clock from wild cherry lumber which utilizes the Bavarian Regulator mechanism. A 1951 alumnus of MSU, he has established a scholarship in Fleming County for a high school graduating senior who wants to continue their education at his alma mater. Items to be sold at the auction, sponsored by the Department of Communications and the MSU Foundation, include paintings, crafts, antiques, pottery, collectibles, gift certificates, and more.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Music.....Music.....Music.

Faculty members in Morehead State University's Department of Music will use their musical talents for student scholarships at the first Faculty Showcase Recital on Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall.

"We are displaying our performing skills to benefit the scholarship fund for students who wish to pursue a career in music," said Dr. Christopher Gallaher, chair of the department. "The dollars generated will go into the Music Faculty Scholarship Fund which we hope will become an endowed fund eventually."

This recital is the first in what Dr. Gallaher hopes to become a semi-annual event known as the Department of Music Faculty Scholarship Concert Series. A fall event is already in the planning stages.

A variety of works are scheduled for the evening--from the standard concert repertoire to jazz, Dr. Gallaher noted. "We want those who attend to see a broad spectrum of quality performances."

Musicians for the evening will be: assistant professors Michael Acord on clarinet, David Anderson on saxophone, Jon Burgess on trumpet, and John Viton on oboe; associate professor Jay Flippin on keyboards; professors Larry Keenan on keyboards and Dr. Earle Louder on euphonium, and Dr. Gallaher on drums.

Donations will be accepted at the door at $2 for students and $5 for adults.

Additional information is available from the Department of Music at (606) 783-2473.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Office of Physical Plant is implementing a program in early February which will give MSU faculty, staff and students an opportunity to rate work-order performance levels.

According to Joe Planck, MSU's director of Physical Plant, a response card will be left at each work-order site to be filled out by the individual who requested the work.

"We would encourage all persons receiving a comment card to fill out and return them to us," stated Planck. "Obviously, the better the response, the more we'll know about how we're doing in serving the University.

"Very often, all we hear are negative comments. We feel there are a lot of positives in our service, and we hope people will let us know both sides," he added.

In addition to the comment card, a pen with Physical Plant's Work Control Center telephone number will be left to help make responding as convenient as possible.

When completed, cards may be returned through the campus mail.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The care of the pediatric patient is the topic of two workshops to be held at the Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg in February.

The two one-day sessions, co-sponsored by Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals and the Highlands Regional Medical Center, will be held on Friday, Feb. 9, and Friday, Feb. 16.

The programs are specifically designed for pediatric nurses, according to Gail Wise, coordinator of MSU's Continuing Education Program. "While the second session could be considered a continuation of the first, a participant does not have to attend both days."

Topics to be discussed include the normal growth and development of children, and identifying methods of nursing assessment and treatment of common childhood diseases.

Serving as the faculty for both sessions will be Nancy Holler, a member of the nursing faculty at Prestonsburg Community College.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and class will start at 9 a.m. The cost of each workshop is $42, which includes handout materials and refreshments.

Nurses attending either session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--IBM today announced that Morehead State University has been awarded a $150,000 grant to train new and practicing teachers in the expanded use of technology in the classroom.

In presenting the award at a campus news conference, Judi Johnson, IBM account executive for the Commonwealth of Kentucky said, "IBM is committed to helping Kentucky teachers teach and children learn with integrated solutions for the improvement of literacy and basic skills.

"This grant, presented today to Morehead State University, helps assure that future Kentuckians will be competitive in tomorrow's marketplace," Johnson added.

"IBM has a long standing tradition of supporting educational endeavors," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "The computer has virtually revolutionized what we do and how we do it. Its applications to the world of teaching are endless.

"IBM's generosity will enable MSU to bring the region's teachers of today and tomorrow into the 21st Century. All of this will translate into a better education for our youth," the president added.

The grant is a result of a joint effort among the University's three colleges. While professional teacher education courses are taught within the School of Education in the College of Professional Studies, nearly 65 percent of the disciplines in which teachers gain certification are offered through the College of Arts and Sciences and the College of Applied Sciences.

The grant includes a laboratory of networked IBM Personal System/2* workstations, IBM K-12 educational software and training/technical support. The materials will be used for undergraduate and continuing education courses for kindergarten through 12th grade teachers.

Included in the award is the ability to participate in a conferencing network based on IBM's PSInet software, which will allow the University to communicate with other grant recipients as well as other users of IBM educational software.

In May 1989, IBM announced a five-year, $25 million, two-part grant program to improve U.S. elementary and secondary education through more effective use of technology. Morehead State University is one of about 80 to be awarded a grant in the teacher preparation portion of the program.

The second part of this program provides grants to develop innovative uses of information technology in the K-12 classroom.

Grants are awarded on the basis of competitive proposals and published guidelines.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library will honor James Still, the distinguished Appalachian author, on the 50th anniversary of the publication of his first novel, "River of Earth."

Still will be guest of honor at a reception Monday, Feb. 5, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the library's James Still Room, located on the fifth floor of the CCL Tower. The reception is open to the public.

The writer, a former MSU English faculty member, will sign copies of his work during the reception. Still has been called the "psalmist of the mountains" and stories and poems have received praise for their "regional freshness and the lyric beauty of their style."

A native of Alabama, Still came to Hindman in 1932 to work as a librarian at the Hindman Settlement School, gaining the nickname the "foot mobile" because he traveled on foot throughout Knott County delivering books to people.

In 1939, he moved into a log house on Little Carr Creek, where, as he said once, "I had expected to stay for a single summer." He still resides there, having left only for periods of teaching, travel abroad and overseas duty in Africa with the U.S. Army during World War II.

In 1988, Still became the first recipient of MSU's Appalachian Treasure Award given in recognition of his talent and dedication to promoting and preserving the Appalachian culture.

Critic James Dickey, writing in the Los Angeles Times Book Review, called Still "the truest and most remarkable poet that the mountain culture has produced." First published in February 1940 and reprinted in 1977, Still's novel, "River of Earth," is the story of a mountain family and their life in and out of the coal camps, as seen through the eyes of a young son.

Stephen Vincent Benet, himself a noted writer, reviewed the work in 1940 and said.:

"Though this is not a long novel, as novels go, Mr. Still has been able to pack a great deal of life into it. It is rich with sights, sounds and smells, with the feel and taste of things. And it is rich, as well, with salty and earthy speech, the soil of ballad and legend and tall story. Yet...this is a contemporary book, not merely a string of boyhood memories. You can call it regional writing if you like--but to say so is to say that all America is not cut off the same piece."

'GENTLY LIFT ... NOW HOLD'

NEW MSU ROTC CADETS

Sophomores Ellie O. Johnson of Cincinnati, left, and Travis J. Burchett of Maysville were sworn in as Army ROTC cadets at Morehead State University recently by Lt. Col. Gary Seibert, Department of Military Science chair. Both young men have been awarded two and a half year ROTC scholarships for tuition, fees, textbooks as well as a $100 a month stipend during the school year. The scholarships are valued in excess of $2,800 a year for residents of Kentucky and in excess of $4,900 for nonresidents. Six of the seven MSU students applying for ROTC scholarships this year received awards. Upon graduation from the University, they will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army and serve either on active duty or in the National Guard or Army Reserve.
