FOUR ARE BIT BY MAD DOG IN FORAY FRIDAY

Health Department, Mayor In Drive To Enforce Dog Law.

A rabies scare took place in Morehead last Friday when a dog owned by Bob Day went on a rampage and bit a number of children in the neighborhood. The dog was killed by its owner and the head sent to Lexington for examination. The report indicated that the dog was mad.

According to Mr. Day, the dog has been apparently well on Thursday night and had romped about the house. When he went to feed the animal on Friday morning, it appeared ill and would not eat. A house cat and four kittens attempted to steal the meal, and the dog became vicious, attacking the cat and kittens. Being driven away from the cat he raced over to the neighbors. As he returned home, Mr. Day shot him, sending the head to Lexington. All those who were bitten are taking the rabies treatment for the prevention of rabies.

Those bitten by the dog were Miss Jerry Smith, Olive Mac Day, Dorothy Day and Bob Harmon.

Mayor Issues Proclamation
Whereas in the last two or three days it has come to the attention of the Mayor that a number of dogs in this town have rabies and have been running loose on the streets and owing to the fact that there are several dogs in this town now allowed to run promiscuously on the streets which are dangerous to the lives of our people;

Therefore, the Mayor hereby vests in him as the Mayor, the City of Morehead hereby warns all owners of dogs that the said dogs must be either muzzled or confined, and not allowed to run on the streets or thoroughfares of the City, and the

Robert Fitch Given 2 Years In Frankfort

Word from the Carter County Circuit Court received this morning, stated that Robert Fitch, accused of the murder of Josephine Myers at the Driscoll Road House between Morehead and Olive Hill last summer, resulted in a verdict of guilty for Fitch and a sentence of two years in the penitentiary.

Fitch who just previously had conducted a subscription campaign for The Morehead Independent, and who is well known here, was charged with killing Miss Myers after her body had been found in the kitchen at the Driscoll House. Fitch claimed that the girl had committed suicide. He was alone in the kitchen with her at the time. Evidence was mostly circumstantial, which was assigned as the reason for the limited sentence.

"TEAM LOOKS FAIR" SAYS JOHNSON AS EAGLES GO INTO THIRD WEEK OF TRAINING

Football is in the air and so are footballs at the Eagle testing ground at Jayne Stadium. Ellis Johnson with his squad cut to twenty two men is going forward with his program like no body's business and the results of three weeks training of an intensive variety are beginning to make themselves felt in more ways than some bones and muscles.

For three weeks the 1936 edition of the Eagles have been at it twice a day in a session both morning and afternoon. And for three weeks Coaches Johnson and Miller have been drilling on fundamentals, running, carrying the ball, passing, kicking, blocking, tackling, running plays, and signals. It has been and still is a session devoted entirely to drill. Every detail, even to the proper manner of tucking the ball under the runner's arm is being gone over

MASONS OF DISTRICT IN MEETING WED. NIGHT

Morehead Lodge No. 654 F. and A. M. entertained the Masons of this district at the district meeting held in the college gymnasium Wednesday night. A crowd of nearly three hundred watched Dr. H. L. Wilson, Worshipful Master, administer the third degree to four candidates.

Most of the officers of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky were present in honor of C. P. Duley, Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky.

Option Petition Gets Many More Signatures

According to Rev. B. H. Kasse, Pastor of the Morehead Baptist Church, the new petition, asking for a local option election are being circulated and already have received a total of over 1,700 signatures, with a number of additional petitions which have not yet been returned and counted. The "dry" forces are asking that the election be called for December 5, according to Mr. Kasse.

The wets obtained an injunction against the calling of the local option election on September 29, as set out in the first petition, on the grounds that the petition was illegal. A number of the signers had omitted placing their addresses on the petition and had not entered the date of the signature.

Rather than carry the case to the Court of Appeals the dries simply decided to circulate another petition about which there could be no question.

Democrats Lead In Registration Here

Registration continues at the office of the county clerk here and will continue until October 10, the last day on which voters may register to be eligible to vote in the November election.

There seems to have been a misunderstanding among some of the voters as to the final date for registration, some thinking that it closed on September 15. This was probably due to a statement in the News that in order to be eligible to vote in the Local Option election which was scheduled for September 29, voters would be required to register by that date. However for the general November election the date of final registration is October 10.

Up to the present the Democrats who have registered since August 10 with the county clerk has almost exactly equal the number. Republicans who have been in. Since the Democrats greatly outnumber the Republicans who voted in the primary, this would give the Democrats an advantage of about four hundred votes in the registration in this county.

The clerk's office stated that they had had no opportunity to count the number that had registered.

Health Department Still Inoculates

The Rowan County Health Department, continuing its campaign of inoculation against typhoid fever, has finished another round of school, this week being the final for this lap. Since the campaign started six weeks ago, Dr. Evans says they have completed an average of from thirty of fifty inoculations daily.

The inoculations against typhoid are intended to be for the entire community. The Health Department invites every citizen of each school district to be present and be inoculated when they visit the schools. The purpose is to entirely eradicate typhoid from Rowan County, and this will be possible only if every one is inoculated against the disease.

Dr. Evans stated that he will be in the county, visiting the schools every week day until Friday, from now until the schools close in January. Each Friday from 8 to 4 he will be in the office and on Saturdays from 8 to 12. Any one living in the neighborhood of More-

DISCUSSES DROUTH SITUATION IN MIDWEST AFTER TWO MONTHS VACATION IN SECTION

Miss Helen Lammers who has been employed at the News office for the past two years returned from a two month's vacation at her home in Huntington, Nebraska, Miss Lammers has had first hand experience with the drouth which Rowan County has only read. She has seen the fields literally burn up under a broiling sun, while the rain failed to come. She has seen the grass-hoppers alight on a field that was burned almost to a crisp and when they left, has found nothing but the dry stubble of the stalk, eaten almost to the ground. She has seen the best farming land in Ne-

Mrs. T. B. Tippett Dies Peacefully

Mrs. T. B. Tippett, one of Morehead's oldest and most respected citizens died peacefully in her sleep Monday morning of this week. Mrs. Tippett was 79 years of age at the time of her death having been born in 1857.

She had retired as usual the previous night and had apparently slept well. When the family awoke in the room the following morning, she was lying on her side with her feet resting on her hands to all appearances merely soundly asleep. It was discovered that she had passed away lately an hour before.

Funeral services will be held on Friday of this week at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. H. L. Moore in charge of the services, assisted by Rev. E. H. Kasse, and Rev. A. R. Perkins. Burial will be made in Lee Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Methodist Church from 1:00 p. m.

Mrs. Tippett's death came as a shock to the entire community. All of her children and brothers and sisters are expected.

Eldon Evans Appointed As Democratic Head

Eldon Evans was selected by agreement of the Democratic party in Rowan county as campaign chairman for the Democratic campaign to get under way in the near future. Eldon Evans is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Evans and was selected because he was satisfactory to both factions of the party in Rowan county.

Mr. Evans is a young Democrat. He has not yet started his campaign organization, but it is expected to be announced within a short time. It is not expected that the change in state campaign managers will effect the campaign managers in Rowan county, since Mr. Evans was agreed upon by all concerned.

Health Department Points To President

The Rowan County News vote continues to attract the voters of Rowan county, even though a number of other straw votes are being conducted through the nation. Whatever the nation does, if they do that to the office they have come to the office are any indication of which way the wind blows, locally, Rowan county is still in the Roosevelt column, with the majority piling up for the president over his nearest competitor, Governor Landon. President Roosevelt leads by an overwhelming majority in Rowan county, and his lead is growing here, whether it is elsewhere or not.

Again we say that we do not want any vote piled up for either candidate unless it actually represents the sentiment of the county. You Landon voters send in your votes and let this be an actual indication of the sentiment in the county. On the other hand, you Roosevelt voters send in yours in so far as possible an honest view of what Rowan county will do when the

ERROR IN ACCOUNT OF POSTAL SAVINGS BONDS

In the article last week, relative to Postal Savings Bonds, an error occurred which might have led anyone interested in purchasing the bonds to infer that they could purchase a $75 bond, hold it for 120 months and cash it in for $12,000. A line was inadvertently omitted, as lines will be on occasion.

The paragraph actually meant that if a $75 bond was purchased, one each month for 120 months, the actual cash value at the end of ten years would be $12,000. We are glad to make this correction.

Morgan Cramer Is Killed In Crusher

Morgan Cramer, and employee of the Lee Clay Products Company was instantly killed last Friday when he slipped and fell into the clay crusher while at work at that plant. Cramer's remains were mangled and torn to bits as they passed through the crusher.

The exact reason for the accident of course cannot be learned. It is thought that the man was loosening some clay that had stuck in the chute running into the crusher and that he was probably struck by an iron bar and knocked into the mawler of the machine which grinds the clay in preparation for the molding.

The largest piece of the body found was a part of the hand.

Lee Clay Products Company closed the plant immediately following the accident.

Jury List Selected For October Term

With the October term of the Rowan Circuit Court meeting on the first Monday in October, Joe McKinney, Circuit Court Clerk has issued the jury lists from which the petit and grand juries for that term will be issued.

The lists are drawn from the wheel represent all sections of the county and both men and women. The lists were sent out by Mr. McKinney following:

Grand Jury

ENROLLMENT IN COLLEGE TO BE GOOD

The regular fall semester at the Morehead State Teachers College will open on Monday of next week, with registration of students. Judging by advance reservations indicated in the men's dormitory, the enrollment is likely to equal or exceed that of previous years. According to Senator Clarence E. Nickell, Dean of Men, the advance registration has indicated that the dormitory will be filled during the first semester under conditions that indicate that there will be more men in attendance this year than ever before.

In the past, the first semester has usually found that the third floor of Thompson Hall was vacant with scarcely enough students to occupy the first two floors. It is expected at the start of this semester it will be the first time this particular thing has ever happened.

Taking Thompson Hall as a basis, there is indication that the enrollment will be entirely satisfactory to the college authorities. A number of new faces will appear as faculty members this year, replacing teachers who have resigned to accept other positions since their election in July. This is particularly true of the training school which opened this week with a record enrollment.

Among the teachers who resigned and those places filled by new teachers are: Miss Evelyn Odum, Miss Eracharve-bite w d h gersny iyo Katherine Moore, and Miss Mildred Silver, Mr. Sam J. Denay, of Beloy.

J. W. Gee Dies As Auto Wreck Victim

John Walker Gee, died Monday of this week at a Lexington hospital as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile wreck Sunday morning, in which his wife was badly injured. Mrs. Gee will recover, according to reports.

It is said that Gee with his family started out from his home at Haldeman with his family.

Funeral services were held at Haldeman Tuesday afternoon, burial being made in the Haldeman Cemetery.

Gee is survived by his wife and four children, Oscar, Edward, Eula Mae and Louise and by his mother, and two brothers and sisters.

Stiff practice sessions, in spite of the hot weather, have started the Viking football squad on the way. While the Kings were out last week, the actual practices started on Monday of this week, with the arrival of the new outfits which will cover the Kings when they launch into battle.

As a whole, Coach Roy E. Holbrook is very well pleased with the prospects, not so much for a winning team as for a squad that will give promise of breaking into the win column in the future, next year in the following season. THE CHILDREN'S HOME AT LYNDON

The following circular from the Kentucky Children's Home at Lyndon, touching as it does on a subject of more than passing interest to the citizens of Kentucky, is published in this issue of the News, with the hope that it will bring closer to home the problems that present themselves to the management of the Home.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society located at Lyndon is face to face with a very critical situation. This organization is the only non-sectarian group caring for dependent and neglected children from all parts of the state, who are committed by the county judges. It carries on a cooperative program—one in which the state, counties and private individuals combine to give Kentucky's unfortunate children the help which they so sorely need.

The drouth has hit our rural areas mighty hard, and this, added to the somewhat abnormal economic conditions, has brought to Lyndon an unusually large number of children. New commitments have increased and, in addition, many children have been returned because their foster-parents have been unable to keep them. During July and August, 127 children came back to our institution from these homes. This is four times the number of children usually returned during a similar period.

These drouth conditions are making it extremely difficult to find homes in which to place children. We are faced, therefore, with a rapidly increasing population and have now reached the maximum number which we can care for in the Home. We have today 430 children in buildings with a normal capacity of 250. With the exception of the hospital, the baby ward and one other ward, there are two children sleeping in every single bed, and some are sleeping on the floor. Beds are less than one foot apart, when they should be three feet, and in our dormitories there is only 150 cubic feet of air space per child when there should be 600 cubic feet. This, of course means our children are not able to get the proper amount of fresh air at night. We like to feel that fresh air is free, but our kiddies are being deprived of even this.

To make this situation worse, there are today over 200 children scattered through the state who should be admitted, some committed for the first time and others returned from foster homes.

This crowded situation is made infinitely worse by the presence of 75 to 100 feeble-minded children. One has only to walk through our wards to realize the large proportion in this group. This makes it impossible to formulate a constructive program for our normal children and makes it extremely difficult to treat each child as an individual, as rules must be made under such circumstances primarily for the group. If this group of feeble-minded children could be taken care of elsewhere, we could do much more for the others who are being penalized by their presence.

The institution has never had a school building and now with such crowded conditions, facilities are most inadequate. Children must be crowded into small rooms of a dwelling house and due to the large number which makes it necessary to have more groups than otherwise would be necessary, no child is able to spend the normal amount of time in school. This is all the more deplorable because the children come to us from homes where their education has been sadly neglected. More than any other group of children in the state they need the very best educational opportunities rather than suffer from such handicaps as are now unavoidable.

To meet this increased demand our budget has been decreased about $25,000. The General Assembly felt it necessary to reduce our annual appropriation from $100,000 to $90,000 and a further cut of 10 per cent has been given our first quarter's allotment. If the state's income is sufficient, this latter cut may be made up in the future, but there is no certainty of this and we must therefore plan on a basis of a $19,000 reduction. We are hoping that receipts from counties will not decrease. In addition to this cut, the drouth has resulted in a loss of at least $5,000 here at our farm. We have, therefore, this situation to face, a greatly increased number of children and a greatly reduced budget with which to care for them. We will be unable to care for these children adequately unless more money is forthcoming.

It is this dire situation which has forced us to ask all county judges to write us when they are thinking of committing any children. We will then send out a field worker just as soon as possible who will talk over the whole situation with them. With no more space in our Institution, we can accept children only as fast as we can find private homes for children already accepted. This means, that only the neediest cases can be admitted until this congestion is over. We are endeavoring to give the best service we can for children most in need.

As the new Superintendent, I am anxious to get out in the state and meet with interested individuals and groups. I would welcome opportunity to meet before civic groups, service clubs and other organizations.

It is not a good omen to become too optimistic, according to Mr. Johnson. He says that the squad is coming along fairly well and he "hopes" that the boys will win a fair share of our games. However, he is not anticipating any developments that will startle the fans. He wants the people who follow the Eagles to realize that it takes time to develop a team that can go out and win every game. He does ask the fans to have patience while this developing process is in the making.

The Eagles this year have a difficult schedule, one that is perhaps as heavy as any college in the State. They open on September 26 with Tennessee Wesleyan in Tennessee. The game will do one thing, win or lose. It will give Johnson and Miller a more definite line on what they have and will probably lead to the development of a system of offensive.

In the meantime the squad as a whole shows a moral that is half the battle in developing a team. They have a spirit that is new and a determination to fight, not only to win, but for a position on the team.

The coaches have not made any selection as to their regulars. They may have them in mind and probably do, but up to the present the entire squad has been treated as a square and the fight for positions is on with a vengeance.

CHILLED LOAF FOR HOT DAYS

PEER of all luncheon loaves is a new recipe combining Brazil nuts, ham and potato salad. And when the dish finally is decked with lettuce, tomato and cucumber, it has appeal to the eye as well as the taste. Simplicity itself in the making, it is adapted to the warmest days of summer—days when refrigerated food is most refreshing.

Chilling the loaf thoroughly for several hours in an automatic refrigerator is a new touch for the cook who usually thinks of baking meat loaves. Instructions for making the new dish are: Marinate potatoes and onion in French dressing for a half-hour. Add Brazil nuts and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Mix well and then pack half the potato salad in a medium-sized bread pan. Mix ham, mustard and enough mayonnaise to moisten, and then spread over potato salad. Pack in remaining potato salad and chill mixture in refrigerator several hours.

Serve on a chop plate garnished with sliced cucumbers, sliced tomatoes and romaine or lettuce.

BRAZIL NUT LOAF

2 cups diced cooked potatoes.
1 1/4 cup French dressing.
1 sliced onion.
3/4 cup sliced Brazil nuts.
Mayonnaise.
1/2 pound ground cooked ham.
1 teaspoon prepared mustard.
Sliced cucumbers.
Sliced tomatoes.
Romaine or lettuce.

Another refreshing recipe combines the delicate flavors of Brazil nuts, apples and celery in a fascinating salad. The approved recipe:

BRAZIL NUT, APPLE AND CELERY SALAD
1 1/2 cups diced apples, 1-2 cup sliced Brazil nuts, 1 1/2 cups finely chopped celery, Mayonnaise or boiled dressing.
Mix apple, celery and nuts with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce and garnish with water-cress.

PATTERNS OF WOLFFEN

Law. Cynthia, I'm that glad to see you I have to cry. Why, it's been months since I saw you, hain't it, and I can't get out any more and Hesse had to go over to help out at Ely's a spell and Doug's head a-zer heels in work and everybody busy with the planting and I can't get around to do anything or see anybody and I get so lonesome some days. And I get to thinking about Grier dropping dead in the oats patch. It's five year come July— and wondering why the good Lord willed it that way. It's been hard since then with me down and all, but Doug took right a-hold just like he was a man and not a fifteen-year-old boy, he's done fine. He'll go far Julia's wheat bread, we don't have none in the house. How's Julia and all the folk, and how's her flowers this year? It's been an early spring and not much danger of more frost is there?"

Sarah paused to wipe the last of her tears. Cynthia put from her mind the thought of deformity and pain, and looked into the lonely heart of Sarah Mason. She selected one of the questions, and said with compassion, "Her garden looks just fine this year. How is Ely getting along now?"

But she did not hear the story of Ely's stomach trouble since the last baby was born. She was gazing across the yard, following her own reflection. "The grass is awfully long and bending over and needs a sickle in it. Sarah Mason asked about Mother's flowers, because she's not able to plant any. The garden looks bare, the meadow is pretty the way it goes past the barn and down to the creek. The Mason place always smells musty, somehow, like it wasn't happy in its life. It's not just because Grier Mason nor Doug never built a mill or a brick kiln or a drying vat or a smooth finished loom for their women. It's just the way people do. Maybe Grier Mason dropped dead cradling oats and Sarah full of misery and Ely's trouble and Doug had worked so settled in down here and won't leave. I don't think I could ever marry Doug and come to this place to live. Maybe if I actually loved him. He'll make a fine place, but it seems like it squeezes some good pare clean out of a body, even just sitting here in the—I must be listening to Sarah when she's talking to me."

"A body's has to bear what's put upon them. He knows what's best for us. Doug's been making this porch in the evenings. He's such a good boy." She dabbed her eyes.

"Did the medicine help you any? Cynthia asked.

"It helps a sight. I don't know what we'd do on this creek if we didn't have Spered to look after us. "Mother said tell you if there was anything she could do." She got up and put the empty basket over her arm.

"Much obliged. You're not going back a'ready, Cynthia, so soon?"

"Doug, he'll be put out to hear you've been here and him not see you. He thinks a sight of you, Cynthia, and that's plain."

"I just rode down a minute to see how you were and bring the medicine."

Cynthia listened politely for a time to the urgings of Sarah Mason, and when she could said a final good-by.

The soft thump of the horse's hoofs in the moist earth soon established a new rhythm in her soul and she emerged from the feeling of oppression which had engulfed her before the pained and weeping face of Sarah Mason.

Doug was watering his mules in a little pool in the branch at the mouth of Buzzard Hollow. In a flash he was called out to Cynthia. His voice took form slowly and waited an instance before she could recognize it as something outside of her own thought.

"Why, howdy, Doug."

"Where you been down our way?"

"To your house to take some thing to your mother."

"You don't need to be rushing right back so soon."

"I guess I'll have to be getting back this time."

"Doug led his mules to drink and had come down to the road. Cynthia observed that his face was older than twenty years, and already heavily tanned. He was barefoot. He rubbed the nose of the Finemare. "She's a beauty he said.

"How you getting on with your plowing? Cynthia asked.

"I got all the low bottoms done now."

He was captivated by her as she sat above him on the side of the Finemare, her knee pushing out the blue twill of her skirt which spread neatly to the tip of her shoe in the stirrup, the round basket on her left arm, her dark hair lustrous under the stars, her pink skin glowing under her eyes.

You're about the prettiest thing I ever saw on a horse, Cynthia," he said very simply.

"Why, Doug, I musn't say any such a thing."

"It helps to show you that 'seng bid I told you about. It's just a little step. You don't even have to get down. It's right behind the bend."

She was moved by the eagerness in his eyes and the pleading in his voice. "Well just for a minute."

She must be getting her down from the saddle. The mules had finished drinking. Doug slapped one of them on the rump, urging it out of the path. Doug led Cynthia and the Finemare up Buzzard to his 'seng bed.

There it is, he said with pride.

It lay like a still pool at the abrupt head of the hollow, a flat place at the head of the hollow, a flat place at the feet of the steep hills which closed in upon it in the shape of a horseshoe. A thread of water dripping over a green rock cliff from the upper reaches of the gulley, it trickled around the edge of the seng patch into Buzzard branch and ran on down the hollow into Gannon Creek. Hazel bushes, laurel and spicewood shrubs were thick around its edges. The odors of mungy loam and rotting leaves and of sun-drenched slopes of the mountain were tossed together by a light wind in the bowl of the hollow and lay heavy on the air. Cynthia gave a little cry of surprise.

"It's purty Doug."

"They're awfully fine. Look."

He raked away the leavys and exposed the pale olive blumleys spring vigorously out of their forked roots and crowding a passage into the upper air.

"They're fine plants. When did you make 'em?"

"Last fall. It's too wet and shady for corn anyway, so I just got the idea to plant 'seng berry seeds. I'll make a sight of money off of this patch, he said with confidence.

Cynthia's eyes wandered over the lovely spot and then turned upon Doug standing with his hand on the leg rest of her saddle.

"I hope you do. It's getting right scarce in the hills."

"If I can make me some ready money I want to ask you something, Cynthia."

"It's a good bed. I must be getting back now. I hope your mother gets all right."

"It ain't that so much. You don't know how it is with all you folks up on Wolffpen to work all byyourself all the time. It's nice to see you and have you look at my patch and not anybody else know about it."

"I musn't go and I won't make any mention of it."

She turned away and they went back down the hollow. She mounted the saddle from a fallen willow. Doug handed her the basket, and she smoothed her skirt over her leg, adjusting her knee in the rest, thinking: "He looks up at me nearly as a-eyed as Sarah, but I don't feel anything only sorry and I wish I was already gone now for there isn't anything to say to him staring up like that."

"I musn't go. You come up when you can."

"I will. You come back."

The Finemare stepped impatiently off in a running walk which carried Cynthia quickly and without jostle up Gannon toward Wolffpen while Doug followed after her with his eyes, seeing the blue dress vibrating over her arched knee long after she was gone.

The days passed but everybody continued to be restless. Julia had caught up with her garden now, and even she was affected beneath her outward calm.

At the supper table she said casually: "I've a mind to go over to Jenny's tomorrow and stay all night. The men will be coming in soon and I'll be tied down a right smart while they're here."

"Somebody ought to go over there."

In the early morning Sparrel handed her into the saddle, and the boys opened the gate, watching her ride.

Cynthia waved farewell from the yard. "It seems the natural way of right for men folk to be going away somewhere, but when Mother ever goes off by herself, Daddy and the boys look glum all day. I'd like to see as straight and easy on a side-saddle as Mother can. She does every thing quiet and easy but I get hot and hurried."

Julia's absences from the place were so infrequent that the house, the yard, the garden all preserved in consequence a more profound silence.

The day was hot and sultry. All the crispness of the mornings was gone in mid-day. When Cynthia built the supper fire in the stove and put the sweet potatoes to bake, she heard the kitchen for the first time in that year. She had off the neat blue twill dress for the coolness of an old and faded brown calico. "It's an ugly old thing but it's nice and cool to cook in. The first hot days always tire a body out so. I'd just as soon sit down on the porch and not cook any hot supper if it wasn't for the men."

DON'T RISK LIVES OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

The nation's schools are now opening for the fall term. Add this places one vast responsibility upon the shoulders of school board trustees and members: To make our institutions of learning safe from fire.

Some of the worst conflagrations in our history have occurred in schools, blotting out the lives of scores and even hundreds of children at one time. And the old-fashioned school building is not the only kind with great hazards. Some superficially modern and "safe" apartment buildings are almost equally dangerous.

In many schools that are thought of as modern there are few exits, stairways, are badly constructed, doors open inward (in spite of the fact that this is one of the worst of all hazards), heating equipment is faulty. In others fire drills are not carried out periodically. So it goes, down a long list of hazards, unknown. We are risking thousands of young lives.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has prepared a comprehensive form making it possible for officials to thoroughly check school buildings and unearth hazards. Fire marshals are always glad to lend assistance. Not a single school should open its doors this year without an exhaustive inspection to discover risks, and correct them.

The nation's parents should make their voices felt, and insist that the lives of their children be given utmost protection while at school.

THE FUNCTION OF LIFE INSURANCE

According to Dr. S. S. Huebner, the well known insurance expert, life insurance has a fourfold function.

It guarantees an estate for dependents.

It enables the insurance purchaser to accumulate an estate by the time he reaches retirement age, and so spend his declining years in economic independence and security.

It enables a man to liquidate his savings through some income or annuity plan.

Lastly, it enables the insurance buyer to accumulate an emergency fund that will protect real estate, stocks, bonds and all other forms of capital for himself and his dependents.

Not To Move Until Further Notice

CO. 578 had been scheduled to start moving to the new site at Rodburn the first week of September, but plans for the moving have been set aside for the present as orders were received not to move until further notice from Headquarters.

Meanwhile, construction is going on at Rodburn.

The rumors that another company move there, and that several thousand dollars have been allotted for the reworking of the present camp are absolutely false.

Resettlement

What is the aim of the Resettlement Administration program?

The primary purpose for which the Resettlement Administration was set up was to rehabilitate and resettle destitute and low income farm families. In order to decide the most effective manner in which to do this it was necessary to go back to the causes of the rural distress.

We find that the fundamental cause is that millions of acres of land are not being used to the best advantage. It is on this fundamental principle that the whole resettlement program is based. All the activities are directed toward that single vital end: to help the American people in the proper use of their land. The land purchase program removes unprofitable land from cultivation and devotes it to its most valuable economic use. Resettlement aids families stranded on unprofitable land to move elsewhere where they may obtain a more satisfactory standard of living, and rehabilitation seeks to help those who are living on satisfactory land to use this land most profitably. For any valuable and permanent program the assistance farm families it is necessary that land is the source of livelihood for farm families.

Fruit Growers Inspect Rowan County Orchard

Fruit growers from eastern and central counties of Kentucky recently inspected the orchards of Dr. H. Van Antwerp in Rowan county where they saw an apple crop estimated at 5,000 bushels in addition to the size of the crop in a drought year, the visitors noted that the apples had been kept free from cooking moth, scab and blotch.

A stationary spray outfit with a central pumping system is used, a 400-pound pressure forcing the spray material through lines to all parts of the orchard. This system makes it possible to do in three days work which required eight days with a portable spray outfit.

The visitors also saw a modern, air-cooled farm storage building with a capacity of 7,000 bushels. The crop will be sorted in this house and sold at the roadside or to truck trade.

Speakers at the meeting included W. W. Magill, horticultural field agent for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and County Agent C. L. Goff of Rowan county.

LATE FALL GARDENS

The falling of rain quite generally during the past few weeks has given new impetus to the gardeners into production again, the list of vegetables possibilities is dwindling, but there are still a few left.

Foremost are the greens, kale, mustard, spinach and turnip tops, and table turnips and radishes. Besides, though somewhat remote, still possible to mature, are beets, Chinese cabbage, endive and head lettuce.

As for greens, little need be said, except as a reminder for greens are normal fall garden crops. Preparing the seed-bed is simple, needing little beyond raking off garden debris and perhaps stirring the top-soil with a hoe, if the seed is to be sown broadcast. If drill sowing is to be followed, and this would be desirable as giving better opportunity for insect control, deeper churning of even spading should be done, if it can be had, composed manure should be spread to improve the texture of the soil and to make it fertile. Not a bad idea, at all, is to sow down any and all spots that have borne a crop, the surplus greens to be returned to the soil for the humus they contain. Any of these, singly, or in combination with the rest, may be used: Siberian kale, Southern Curly mustard, Warf Essex rape, King of Denmark or Norfolk Savoy spinach. Seedling rate is 1 ounce to 200 square feet, or to 300 feet of drill, except for spinach, use twice this amount of seed.

Chinese cabbage may be started now, the seed dropped in groups and the seedlings thinned to one. It is developed that the time is too short for the heads to become firm for the human eye, but as greens, Pe Tasi is the variety.

Beets may be drilled now, but thinned promptly so they may hurry along. Too, only short-season sorts as Crosby's Egyptian or Eclis-pe should be sown. Endive, started now, may mature outside, but gardeners who are fortunate in having frames will make more by setting in them endive seedlings of 3 to 4 leaves, to mature at the end of the season. Spacing is to 10 inches each way. It goes without saying that the richer the frame soil is made with manure, the better. Be sides, nitrate should be sown at the rate of 1 ounce per frame, 3 feet by 6 feet, and watered in.

As the season advances, the frames should be covered with grass, and kept covered for daily airings while the outer temperature stands above 50 degrees. So protected, endive may be had until almost Christmas. The varieties are White or Golden Curled.

Fall head lettuce may be raised in the same way as suggested for endive. Seedlings should be raised in a partly shaded bed and moved into the frame about the last of this month. Their spacing should be from 6 to 3 inches square, in highly fertile soil. Two varieties offer: Hanson and New York Wonderful. The former is a loose-head, delicately green and of fine texture; New York though deeper in color and possibly inferior in quality, will make blanching easier, though true as firm as those of the "California leafyhead".

After the frames are emptied of lettuce and endive, the sash should be laid aside so that the frame soil may become rain-soaked and freeze thoroughly to destroy any disease germs that may be ready for spring crops to follow.

CANNING

When tomatoes are plentiful enough, juice should be canned to serve at least three times a week. Tomato juice may be served as an appetizer or it may be used in making sauces to be served with vegetables and mats, and in making soups. If combined with gelatin it adds food value and color and flavor to congealed salads.

How to can tomato juice. Cook small and broken tomatoes until they are soft. Press through a sieve to remove skins, seeds and cores. Add 1 level teaspoonful of salt to each quart of pulp, then cook quickly until it begins to thicken (about 5 minutes). Pack immediately into clean, hot jars, seal and process for 30 minutes in hot water bath or 15 minutes in a steam pressure cook-

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramps. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just draw around, so sluggish and do-zeant. My mother advised me to take Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, dragging feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

er at 10 pounds. Tomato Creole sauce — tomato creole is one of the favorite sauces for decorating plain boiled rice, besides adding a distinctive flavor, and for dressing ordinary steak.

Mix together 1 quart of sliced white onion and 1/2 finely-chopped green peppers. Summer until soft, add about twice this bulk in tomatoes and cook together over a low fire until tender. Season to taste. Pack into clean, hot jars and seal immediately.

Returning to the storing of vegetables, the list includes sweetpotatoes, the squashes, the melons, tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, potatoes, cabbage and the root crops comprising turnips, parsnips, salsify, beets and carrots. This list divides itself as to the storage requirements of the vegetables, whether a dry and relative-whether merely protection against freezing suffices. The first group, the first-named six are called the "wax" crops; the rest, the "cool" group, beginning next week, and continuing for four weeks, discussions of storage structures and storage procedure will appear, to aid any gardener who wishes, as he ought, to save for winter use his surplus vegetables, through storage.

Cabbage will supply the leafy vegetables needed to keep the digestive track in a good condition as well as to supply food which will promote health. Cabbage may be eaten raw, cooked for a short period of time, or be made into kraut.

Summer squash and okra add variety to the diet. Squash may be prepared by cutting into small pieces and steamed until tender, then seasoning with salt and pepper, bacon fat, butter or cream. Okra adds flavor when boiled with other vegetables, as peas, dried beans, lima beans, corn and tomatoes, or it may be boiled in water until tender and seasoned the same as squash. Some people prefer okra either whole or cut into pieces, rolled in meal and fried in bacon fat.

A small amount of onion cooked with squash, carrots, spinach, cabbage and okra will meet the flavor more pleasing to some.

The price of potatoes is high. Those who have succeeded in growing a few should make them go as far as possible. They are more valuable as a food if cooked with the skins on. Boiling or baking is the most satisfactory method of preparation.

Rice is similar in composition to potatoes and is a cheap method of adding variety and calories to the rice blend, well with all foods and is easily digested. Rice cooked with either meat, tomatoes, sweet peppers or okra makes a wholesome dish.

When cooking vegetables care should be taken to use the liquid in which they are cooked; otherwise a most valuable part of the food is lost.

Prospects for Kentucky's corn crop deteriorated sharply in July for the State as a whole, although conditions are exceedingly irregular, varying from total failure to excellent.

All 1936 estimates in this report are subject to revision either upward or downward as the season unfolds favorable or unfavorable progress, depending on whether conditions after August 1 are par. Tobacco has especially great power to make quick growth following dry weather, so that prospects may be materially altered later.

College Theatre To Open On Friday

The college theatre, which has been bringing to Morehead audiences some of the finest in Motion picture entertainment will open the season Friday, Sept. 18th. Among this year's outstanding features will be "Swing Time," "Mary of Scotland," "Last of the Mohicans" and other great pictures.

For Friday the feature is a dynamic pulsating action picture with a moving love story entitled "Two Fisted Gentlemen."

Jimmy Dunn and attractive June Clayworth enact the leading roles in the picture supported ably by George McKay, Thurston Hall, Gene Morgan, and Harry Tyler.

Dunn as a really outstanding performance while Miss Clayworth is both unusually attractive and talented and her acting is particularly human and fine.

The fight scenes in the picture are rousing to the entire screen play moves with a staccato pace that keeps audience interest at high pitch from start to finish.

Gordon Wiles directed from the screen play by Thomas Van Dyke. For Monday, Sept. 21st, a gay romance of Manhattan entitled "The Man In a Taxi."

While Jimmy Donlin, a taxi driver, is waiting outside the home of wealthy Edna Fletcher, a girl in bridal gown dashes out of the house into Jimmy's cab and hurries him away. Jimmy believes the girl is Miss Fletcher. He unwillingly puts her up for the night in his drab apartment. The following day he learns she is really a mannequin, who, while modelling the gown, had escaped when accused of stealing a necklace. Matters are complicated when they discover a paste necklace in the folds of the dress. Tr. girl, Mary Trenton, deduces that Arnold Stewart, a society rascal, who might have stolen the pearls and planted the phonies on her when she ran away. Jimmy, with the aid of two of his pals, hurry to Stewart's apartment. The police arrive, but the day is saved when the real necklace is discovered in Stewart's hat band. Mary decides to stay on with Jimmy as Mrs. Donlin!

San Francisco Is Greatest Picture

"San Francisco" brings Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald together as a co-starring team for the first time.

The musical romance gives Miss MacDonald her widest scope in vocal numbers in her screen career—a total of nine presentations ranging from a solemn hymn to the beautiful operatic aria.

Clark Gable returns to the vigorous type of role that first elevated him to stardom as a blustery Barbary Coast gambling baron who has no faith in anything but his wifiteen.

Co-starring with Miss MacDonald and Gable is Spencer Tracy in his most unusual role, that of a priest; a distinguished supporting cast includes Jack Holt, Jessie Ralph, Teri Hilly, Shirley Ross, Margaret Livingston, Harold Huber, Al Shean, William Ricciardi and Kenneth Harlan.

"San Francisco" is laid in the colorful period of 1905-06, its life of gaiety and song, its Barbary Coast prior to and through the disaster that leveled the famous Golden Gate city thirty years ago.

OLD HOUSE CREEK

ATTENDANCE IS GOOD

The following pupils have been on the "Honor Roll" every month since school started. They have never been tardy or absent.

Dorthea Dean, Audrey Ritchardson, Eugene Richardson, Kathleen Lewis, Junior Lewis, Allie Jent.

The following missed 1-2 or one whole day.

Bulah Boyd, Dewitt Boyd, Raymond Boyd, Andrew Boyd, A. C. Boyd, Paul McMillon, Junior Mabry, Elwood Parker, Eldean Parker, Olive Jent, Dora Boyd, Doris Bornett.

The following pupils have received testimonials for reciting Bible verses: Doris Boyd, Eola Mae Butts, Doris Barnett, Dorthea Dean, Kathleen Lewis, Olive Jent, Clara Crawford.

Andrew Boyd from this school won first prize in speaking a reading at the teachers conference Friday Sept. 11.

OLD HOUSE CREEK IS PREPARING FOR FAIR

This school house is just above the Bradley school, but off the Sandy Hook road about one-half mile. The enrollment is 33 with 28 present on Monday morning. The school house is a good building. It is painted white, and one coat is finished. The inside also will be painted. Mrs. John Caudill, the teacher, believes in having the cooperation of the parents. She has visited in the homes of Mrs. Virginia Ritcherson, Allie Parker, Jim Deans Harris Jents, Leslie Leeds, Everett Kinsinger, Enoc Lewis, Edith Hamilton, and Marion Thornberry. Some very interesting work is in progress Monday. A banner for the fair was nearly finished and is free hand drawing. A large product on the wall is one of the best seen. A large picture of Washington was an attraction, while flags were displayed in the room, and a picture of the school should have a flag displayed. Men were at work improving the play ground by filling up the holes in the ground and making it level. During play time the pupils are separated, the smaller children on one side and the smaller on the other side. Mrs. Caudill supervises the play period. This is the first method because it gives all fair play. A float is being planned for the school for the Fair. The work is made interesting here for the children. The parents are interested and the attendance is always above ninety percent.

The parents who have visited the school are Mrs. Allie Parker, trustee Mrs. Dee Mabry, Mrs. Sarah Boyd, Ben Butts, J. B. Mayse. Other visitors were John Caudill and Superintendent Roy Cornette.

CLEARFIELD HAS LARGEST ENROLLMENT OF COUNTY

This school is situated in one of the busiest little districts in the county. This is the home of the Lee Clay Products Company, one of the largest enrollments of any seven months school in the county, one hundred and sixty-seven being enrolled. Their percentage of attendance for the past month was 91. The five teachers are: Golda Reeves, Principal, Ira Skaggs, fifth and sixth grades, Lottie McBrayer, fourth, Edith Hart, second, and Lola Mullen, first. There are five rooms in this building, all being equipped with electric lights, furnished free by the Lee Clay Products Company. It has been given a new coat of white paint inside, which gives it a light, clean appearance. It is impossible to believe there could be such a change in this school. I am especially interested in any improvements in this school, since never in where I graduated from the eighth grade and did three years teaching in the first three grades, during the years of 1924-27. Many who are teachers now can boast of part of their education at the Clearfield school. Supt. Roy Cornette and Prin. D. B. Caudill were among those who received part of their grade education in this school. In place of the two rooms of old, there are now five rooms. This school is the center of interest for the people at Clearfield; the managers of Lee Clay Products Company are always ready to cooperate with the active P. T. A. in doing real work, assisting on any problems concerning the school and attendance.

A short time ago the P. T. A. sponsored a program given by an Indian who was traveling through the country. Real work is being done here, as found as many working materials as any of our larger schools, some of them are a "looked map of South America," a large globe, a book case with sets of books, a music chart, a large cabinet full of working materials, large balls of clay for modeling purposes. The primary room is especially interesting. It was alive with working material and activities; the room is equipped with new tables and chairs so that the small children can work more comfortably; a large sand table was used for construction work and play. The children in the smaller grades were busy with well-planned lektographs of real work. Books on different subjects were found in the rooms. The rooms as a whole of work being done that had been planned before school time which made it easier for the teacher and more interesting and instructive for the children. There is well-planned, good work done here in this school and the teachers are striving to make their school graduate some of the best pupils in the county. They are not only interested in putting just so much book work over, but are interested in the child. Just to make a visit to this school explains why they can have a real P. T. A. and why they have such good attendance. Why these teachers are thinking to themselves that they have one of the best schools in the county. Their attendance is kept above ninety by means of picnics, days outing at the Carter Caves being planned. Presents are also given and the children take pride in showing the presents they have earned. Parents who have visited this school are:

Mrs. Bill Lambert, Melvin Smedley, Rome Oakley, Mrs. Isaac Caudill, Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Bethel Hall, Mrs. Taylor Hamilton, Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Carl Owens.

The Clearfield School will be represented at the fair by a float, Banner, and all the parents and children.

MISS COX IS PROGRESSIVE

TEACHER AT MINOR SCHOOL

The Minor school is on the Sandy Hook Road about ten miles beyond Elliottville. Within the last three years this school has undergone a marvelous change. In place of the boxed house it has been, it has now been sealed and weatherboarded. On Monday September 14, there were 30 children present. Miss Eva May Cox is the teacher. Miss Cox is using the modern method of teaching. A catalogue listing the material is valuable and does a great subject the material is listed. This material is valuable and cost a great amount of money which shows the progressive spirit of the teacher. There was a sand table in one corner and the children were working out a poem on the table "Where go the Boats." This was very attractive as well as instructive. There was also a book case with books, a clock, window decorations, a large map of the United States, and much creative work. Several parents who have visited the school are Mrs. Click, Mr. McBrayer, Mr. Mabry, and Mrs. Wilson. Prizes are being offered for the ones who have perfect attendance. Praise is due to Miss Cox and her pupils for the type of school at Minor.

MANY HAVE PERFECT RECORD AT SEAS BRANCH

The children who had a perfect attendance record in the Seas Branch School for the second month are: Leura Kidd, Rubie Smith, Corbett Smith, Audrey Williams, Albert Kidd, Lenora Kidd, Louvenia Williams, Nema Kidd, Ester Wilson, Charlie Williams, Edgar Sparks, Ella Conn, Joe, King Kidd, Walter Smith, Evelyn Fultz, Loretta Fultz, Edith James, Nerva Fultz, Estelle Hamilton, Minnie Adkins, Elizabeth Ward, Stella Kidd, Maxine White, Mendie Fultz, Margaret Wilson, Vada Snow Ward, Farrell James, William De Hart, Ruel Crum, Dewitt Williams, Martha Sparks, Everett Adkins.

SEVEN YEARS OF PERFECT ATTENDANCE IS RECORD

Leura Kidd, a pupil in the Seas Branch School, has come to school seven years without being absent one day. This is a record Leura should be proud of, and one of which she can boast. He is a good student of high standing and hopes to be enrolled in the high school after spending one more year at the Seas Branch School.

ATTENDANCE IS PERFECT

Mrs. Dorothy Ellis and Mrs. Eliza attendance for the past week, and both Layne reported 100 per cent Sept. 11. Mrs. Layne is teaching the first grade at Elliottville. The past week was the first week the school has been in session and it means a great deal at the beginning to say, "There have been no absence this week. This makes two weeks of perfect attendance for this school and they are striving to make it a full month with not an absence. These two teachers have a real cause to feel proud of themselves and their pupils.

Mrs. Ellis is teaching the McKenzie school and reports no absences last week.

SAM EASTERLING DIES IN HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

Mr. Sam Easterling died in the C. & O. hospital in Huntington, W. Va., Sept. 11, 1936. Mr. Easterling was born April 20, 1896 in Morgan county. Was married to Miss Lula Bowling Feb. 25, 1915 and to this union was born 5 children, all of them survive him. He has lived at Clearfield a number of years and his friends are too numerous to mention. He was a quiet, kind, good man in his family and neighborhood, and with all whom he met. He has worked for the C. & O. R. R. for the past several years. He had paralytic stroke and was taken to the hospital and lived 9 days. He was a member of the church of Christ. We extend our deepest sympathy to the wife and children.
