DOCKET FOR CIRCUIT COURT IS READY, WITH THREE MURDER CASES UP AND ONE INDICTED

Arthur Hicks, Ted Stone and Beesie Day Trials Set For Term

Circuit Court will convene in Rowan county on October 5 with a comparatively heavy criminal docket, but a light misdemeanor docket, which includes several drunkenness cases and a few breach of the peace cases. The criminal docket is expected to consume the major portion of the two weeks session.

Only one case of any importance is scheduled on the civil docket, a suit being brought by Mrs. Jennie Ambury against the C & O Railway Company for the recovery of damages growing out of the death of her husband Cana Ambury who was killed several weeks ago by a train. Mrs. Ambury is suing as administratrix for the Cana Ambury estate.

Three murder trials are set for the criminal docket. Another murder indictment is expected to be returned when the grand jury meets next week against Henry Edson for the killing of Marvin Johnson. Edson has not been taken into custody.

Murder cases to be tried at this term are:

Arthur Hicks, charged with the murder of two men, at a filling station at Easton, third day.

Ted Stone charged with the killing of John Springer. Fourth day of October term. Arthur Plank was convicted on a similar charge at the June term.

Beesie Day, charged with the killing of her son-in-law, Oscar Williams. Day has had two previous trials, both of which resulted in hung juries.

Other cases on the criminal docket are:

Estill Crisp, charged with cutting

Lane Funeral Home Has New Location

The Barnes-Lane Funeral Home owned and operated by C. B. Lane moved recently from the room in the City Hotel Building, where they have been located since the organization of the company, to the former home of Judge Allie W. Young on Main Street. The offices of the Home-Insurance Company were also relocated into the Young home.

Mr. Lane has built up a thriving business in both the insurance department as well as the funeral service. Just recently he purchased a new and modern funeral car and ambulance, which gives Morehead the most modern and up to date funeral equipment to be found anywhere.

COURIER-JOURNAL GIVES JOHNSON MEN RATING IN EXCLUSIVE MONDAY ARTICLE

The following article appeared in the Monday issue of the Courier-Journal and was written by Earl Ruby, sports writer of the Courier-Journal. It is being reprinted for our readers, in the belief that it gives a picture of the Morehead Eagles from the viewpoint of a visitor, that is impossible for them to obtain in any other way.

One of the greatest athletes in the history of Kentucky is tutoring the Morehead State Teachers College gridiron gladiators this year, and many hundreds of his friends, yes, will be pulling for him to have a whole of a season.

The Morehead mentor is Ellis Johnson, who began blazing the trail to sports glory when he was a student at the Ashland High School.

It has been my privilege to know Ellis for many years, and he has changed less than any mortal I ever have known. He has the same buoyancy of spirit he possessed when I

HOWARD SPURLOCK GETS POSTAL APPOINTMENT

Howard Spurlock is apparently assured of the appointment to the position as rural mail carrier, according to information received here. Mr. Spurlock has taken the physical examination as required by the commissioner at the order of the postmaster general's office. It is not known just when he will take up his duties as carrier, however it is expected to be in the near future.

Since the opening of the route, V. D. Flood has been acting as emergency carrier, pending the appointment of the regular carrier.

Elam Again Offers Sorghum To Friends

Sorghums! Sorghums! Who wants sorghums! Once more E. E. Elam is coming to the rescue of the ministers of Morehead as the editor of the Rowan County News.

Each year at about this time Mr. Elam issues a call to the ministers to "come and get it".

And to see the mad rush of the preachers, it is to know that they do not hesitate to answer the call.

Mr. Elam issued his call for this year on Tuesday night. Tell the preachers to come about Saturday. We are starting to work at once and will have a supply made up by that time. They all know what to bring to get their supply.

So there you are. Mr. Elam will be ready for the preachers on Saturday.

The Elam sorghum is excellent in quality and taste. Mr. Elam stated that this year as in previous years he would have a supply for sale, in spite of the drought, and that he would be glad to take any orders he may receive.

Fitch was given a sentence of two years, but filed motion and grounds for appeal. He is out on bond pending the Court of Appeals decision.

BUD ROBERTS DIES OF BURNS IN W. VIRGINIA

The death of "Bud" Roberts occurred Monday afternoon according to a message received Tuesday morning from West Virginia where Mr. Roberts family now lives. No details were given, other than that Mr. Roberts died as the result of burns sustained while working near his home. The body will be brought to Morehead for burial.

Easton Is Shot At

Waltz Pie Supper

Weaver Dyer of Fleming County held in jail in default of bonds placed at $750.00, charged with shooting and wounding George Easton.

The shooting occurred at a pie supper held at the Waltz school house on Friday evening of last week. Dyer is said to have attended the pie supper and to have interfered when the auctioneer started the sale of pies.

Being requested to be quiet and not to interfere, witnesses said, Dyer drew his gun and aimed it at Easton.

Easton was injured in the right fore arm, the bullet entering the arm near the wrist and coming out near the elbow in the fleshy part of the arm.

Dyer was taken by those attending the pie supper, in the absence of any officers, and brought to Morehead where he was lodged in jail. His bond was fixed at $750.00 which he was unable to pay to the present time to raise.

He is also charged with carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

Twelve Hundred Not Registered

According to County Clerk Vernon Alfrey approximately 250 Democrats and 250 Republicans have registered since the August Primary. The registration has apparently slowed up in the past few days with only a few dropping in.

According to the general election last year, the number together with those who have already registered in the primary election, would leave a total of nearly twelve hundred voters in the county who have not registered.

In the primary election 1756 Democrats registered and voted. At the same time 1147 Republicans took advantage of the opportunity to register and vote. This would make a total of 3403 registered voters up to the present. Since approximately 1,300 ballots were cast in the last year's election, this would leave about 1300 unregistered at present.

The time for registration is getting short. The final day was set at October 10. If all the voters unregistered are to register by election day, it would mean that nearly two hundred will have to come in each day until the night of October 10.

All voters are urged to take advantage of the opportunity.

Old Hundred Year Old Land Mark Is Felled

One hundred years ago a small poplar tree on the corner of the Bill and Bob Epperhart farm was selected as a corner stone in the survey of the land in that section. For one hundred years the tree stood and grew and became instead of small tree, a tree of magnificent size.

Last week T. J. Trumbo visited his cousin, Bill J. Epperhart, and while there took part in the cutting of the tree which for one hundred years had stood as a land mark. The tree when measured was three and one half feet in diameter at the base and from the butt to the first limb measured 33 feet. At the first limb it was two and one half feet through.

The tree was cut by the Epperhart family and the stump will be used for a corner stone in the survey of the land in that section.

Masons Meeting Draws Crowd

A meeting of the Masonic Lodges of the 31st Senatorial District was held at Morehead, Ky., on Wednesday, Sept. 16, at the Morehead State Teachers College with Morehead Lodge No. 654, acting as host, and the third degree was conferred on four candidates by the excellent degree team of that Lodge. The candidates were from Olive Hill Lodge No. 629, which is not in this senatorial district but they very kindly lent their assistance to make the meeting a success.

There were present at this meeting the following Officers of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, F. & A. M., Hugh Moore, Grand Master; I. B. Ross, Deputy Grand Master; T. W. Pennington, Grand Junior Warden; C. P. Duley, Grand Junior Warden; A. E. Orton, Grand Secretary; H. M. Grundy, Assistant Grand Secretary; A. C. Terhune, Grand Senior Deacon; S. A. Other distinguished guests included Sam K. Veach, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Lee A. Seare, Superintendent of the Old Masons Home, and E. D. Swimner, editor of the Masonic Home Journal and others, including five 50-year Masons.

Something has two hundred or more Masons were in attendance from all over this section and all report a very interesting and enjoyable meeting.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT HOLD UP TO AVERAGE IN SPITE OF CHANGES EXPECTED TO LOWER NUMBER

News Makes Laughable Faculty And Citizens Are Well Pleased With Prospects For New Year.

Even the Rowan County News, makes mistakes and one appeared in the last issue of the News which has created considerable indignation among the faculty, at least. It seems that in inserting corrections, the lines became mixed and one managed to get into the wrong article. The line was from the article on the Rabies Scare and was later found in the article on the expected College Enrollment. It fit so neatly that it made a perfect sentence which of course made it all the more amusing.

The line which got out of place read, "children have" (Continued On Page Five)

VIKINGS GO INTO FIRST GAME FRIDAY AGAINST VETERAN RACELAND SQUAD

The Viking football team will get its first baptism under fire on Friday of this week when the young and inexperienced gridiron artists of the Morehead High School meet the veteran team of Raceland High at Raceland, Friday afternoon.

Edgar McNabb will put a team composed largely of experienced men against the almost entirely green Viking team. Mac has fifteen years of coaching and more experience while the Vikings, after going through a half season last year when football was discontinued for the year, have only one or two men who have even seen a football game, much less played in one. For many of the squad, a game last Friday when the squad journeyed to Ashland to watch the Tomcats perform was the first game they have ever witnessed. Naturally it was a better lesson to them than a week of coaching in a past time they had heard only by hearsay.

Cochs Holbrook will be content

OUR COLLEGE ENROLLMENT

Morehead State Teachers College has opened for the fall semester, and true to its tradition, the enrollment for the first two days has more than exceeded expectations...

Scholarship privileges in the past have been more or less abused, with numerous students, entirely able to pay their expenses receiving aid through political connections...

The scholarship system has been developed into an acute evil in Morehead and it is gratifying to learn that, students have enrolled in equal numbers in a year in which the scholarships have been eliminated...

SUDDEN DEATH TO THREE HUNDRED

According to preliminary reports, close to 300 people met "Sudden Death" through accidents over the Labor Day week-end. About 245 of them were victims of recklessly or incompetently driven automobiles.

It would be bad enough if such a shambles only followed a holiday week-end and could be put down to too much merry making. But every week-end shows totals almost as great.

Here is something worth remembering: Today, if the average holds, 100 people will be killed by motor cars. A hundred more will be killed tomorrow and 100 more on the day after that.

Think of that when you step into the car that the salesman proudly told you will "hit her up to 90 so easy you'll think you're only doing 40." It is true that modern cars traveling at extreme speeds ride more easily and comfortably than did the cars of years ago traveling at low speeds...

A hundred persons killed yesterday—another hundred today—another hundred tomorrow. That is the ghastly record of the dangerous automobile driver.

round like the hero-worshippers of John L. Sullivan followed him.

Ellis was far more gracious than I had expected. He would regard for youngsters. He would play with them. He liked them. He was one of them. When I saw him here, he still was a youngster. He had not lost his buoyance of spirit.

I think he is going to live a long time.

Team Was On Field Ellis had his team on the field when Dick Wade, Courier-Journal photographer, and I drove up.

"Which one is Johnson?" Dick asked.

"The one with the class," I answered.

Dick walked out and photographed him.

Ellis jiggered in. "What do you think of my team?" he queried.

"It looks a bit light," I said. "It is light," Ellis agreed, "but I think we will get along all right.

The moral is excellent. The boys believe they can win, and, you know, this is half the battle. By golly, I also believe they can win. Here is the schedule we have:

October 3, Murray, here. October 10, Georgetown, here. October 17, Union here.

October 24, Transylvania, there. October 30, Eastern, there.

November 7, Eastern Poly, here. November 14, Louisville, here.

"You will note," Ellis said, "that we play only two games away from home. Every ball club is stronger on its own field. There is a psychological advantage in playing at home. The schedule favors us. If we do not get along so well this year, we can't blame anybody but ourselves."

Without An Alibi Ellis Johnson never fashioned an alibi in his life.

His team looked weak to me, but Ellis was aglow with his prospects.

"In Custer Reynolds," he said, "I have a great back. He is a sophomore, but he really can go. Custer lives at Buckhorn, Ky., and weighs 172 pounds.

Jarrel Vinson, Louisa, is another back who has pleased me immensely. He weighs 170, he can run with the ball and throw it. Jarrel is a junior.

center. He is an all-right fellow. Buck Horton, a Mt. Sterling boy, weighs 183. He also is a sophomore, but he is a football player; who really can play.

"Bruce Henderson, a 153-pound end from Ashland, is a splendid punter. He has a bad shoulder but I think he will be ready for the Murray game on October 3.

Prairie Brashear. "Bob Brashear, who lives at Viper, Ky., is one of the best tackle in the State. He weighs 182 pounds, He is a stonewall in the defense."

I saw another back who seemed to have much ability. He was called Alley of Belfry, Ky. He doesn't weigh much, probably no more than 160 pounds.

Another back who appealed to me was Tim Wray, from Russell. He also is light, weighing 160 pounds, but he can powder this weight into the opposition.

Denver Ball, a 160-pounder from Ashland is a sophomore, but he will do much service as a ball toter this fall.

Mervin Anderson, another Russell boy, is a sturdy backfield contender. Donald Fair, Conaway, Ark.; John Fitch, Morehead; Clyde Flannery, Ordway; Duffy Watson, Grayson, and Harry Lowman, Ashland, are among the other stellar backfield aspirants.

Johnson has three guards of special luster. These are Jody Adams of Whitesburg, a senior; Ralph Huston of Happy and Cordell Maslow of Hindman. These boys are excellent players.

Ellis is also blessed with some glossy tackle talent. In addition to Brashear, he has Lawrence Carter of Harlan, Lou Mazetti of Ashland and Irvin Triplet of Russell.

Morehead is not worrying about wingmen. Ellis has another 110-pounder of Ashland, who probably will be in the opening line-up; Henderson, Jimmy Ismahel of Mt. Sterling.

PATTERNS OF WOLFPEN

By Marian Hatcher

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co. WNU Service

Back in the kitchen, she lifted the stove lid to lay on a piece of wood. The hot lid slipped away from the lifter and fell on her right hand leaving a black smear and the furious bite of fire tearing into the skin. She caught her breath with the first pain, waving her hand up and down to relieve it. What an awkward thing for a body to do and on a hot day when you can't hardly get your breath in this kitchen, and then to go and burn your right hand just when you're ready to mix up the cornbread batter.

She washed away the soot and ointed the burn with linseed oil from the bottle in the cupboard and spread soda over it and wrapped it lightly with a white rag.

She placed the large wooden mixing bowl on the table and began to stir in the meal and the sour milk, the soda and the shortening. It was an awkward process. She took the bowl into her right arm, pressing it against her, and stirred slowly with her left hand. Some of the soft batter sloshed over against her dress. A wisp of hair slipped from its place and dangled into her eyes. She pushed it back with her left hand, and the soot on her forehead. She was hot and fretted.

Gracious, but I feel a sight. I could nearly cry.

Outside she heard the yard gate close sharply as the bucket of rocks on the wire between the gate and the post pulled it shut.

There's Jesse and I'm so glad I could cry. He'll help me some now and me with this burn.

She dabbed at the sweat on her lip blew upward to flip the lock of hair out of her eyes again, and went toward the kitchen door.

Oh, Jesse, I'm sure glad—" She had reached the door. Her words ended as abruptly as though the living self had walked straight out of its hot body into the habitations of spirits. She stood perfectly still, hugging the bowl of corn-bread batter, shielding her burned hand, looking at him through the meal-stained lock of hair.

"Good evening, he said. "This is Sparrel Pattern's place if I'm not mistaken."

For the first time in her life she was without the words a meeting needed. She stood dumbly in the door, while the young man came in across the yard on the porch. He was as tall as Sparrel and as straight. He wore a brown corduroy cap, breeches of the same material tucked away at the bottom into heavy shoes, a blue shirt and a black bow tie. He walked with the easy grace and strength of a man who was used to moving about in the open on foot.

"Mr. Shellenberger described the place like a surveyor, that is, if this is the Pattern place," he said, his blue eyes and his voice smiling at her across the porch.

"Slowly Cynthia felt her natural self return to the doorway. She looked at the young man. Over his best left arm he carried a large brass surveyor's compass with shining, upright peep-sights on each end. With his other hand he grasped a long, smooth Jacob's staff like a huge walking stick tipped with brass, and over his shoulder was slung a knapsack and a surveyor's chain.

"This is the place, Daddy and the boys are out about the barn somewhere."

"Well, I'm glad to get here before dark. My name's Reuben Warren. I've come to survey the place. The folks out at the Landing thought I couldn't make it to your place before nightfall if I came on foot, but here I am."

Cynthia was bewitched by his voice and the clear music of his spoken words. His vocabulary was very much the same as that of the better Gannon Creek folk, but the quality of the intonation, the rhythm of the sentences, and the pitch of the voice were unusual to her ear.

The silent interval, lengthening from the ending of his words and filled with the amazement of two people looking at each other for the first time with a recognition beyond their immediate understanding, grew too emphatic, and Cynthia remembered to say that the menfolk would be in soon and to invite him to sit down.

"I'd better get on with the supper if you'll excuse me."

When Warren set the Jacob's staff against the door, slipped the knapsack from his shoulder, and then sat down with the compass on his lap and felt the agreeable glow of rest sweep up the muscles of his legs and settle in his neck and shoulders, where the heavy knapsack had imprinted a red band. He sat at ease, watching the dark shadow of the Pinnacle since upward toward Crannest. "The finest place I've seen in all my trips into the hills. I wonder what the man who developed a place like this will be like?"

Cynthia hurried back to the kitchen. "Reuben Warren. What a nice name. Reu ben War ren. It's like a singing. It goes like his talk." She poured the batter into the large iron skillet and placed it in the oven, bending over the stove and opening the door carefully with her burn hand. The loose strand of hair again fell into her eyes. She went to the mirror that hung above the table and looked at herself. She gave a gesture of despair.

"Oh, my gracious, Cynthia Pattern, you never looked such a sight in your whole life. That a wisp of hair over your face and the corn meal in it like scruff, your hand burned and bandaged, and your sweaty face all red as a beet, and this old brown striped calico dress on and it spotted with batter! And Reuben Warren saw you like that, and he'll think that's the way it always look, and I don't. I never do. Just this one time, and there he should be ready to look at me and think I am slouchy about the house, and I'm not."

The tears started her and bore with them a physical relief and relaxation. These flashed into her mind the picture of her mother, thirty years ago in the wood-lot with a dress full of chips, looking up suddenly at Sparrel Pattern on a tall horse and then staring down at her dress and running away to the kitchen with her confusion. The vision was so sharp and so unexpected that it completely changed Cynthia's mood and she felt a smile forming through her tears.

And me dreaming on about a pear tree and a fine dress like Lady Arabella's and him saying, "Lady you're my born days."

Cynthia returned the look of communication, following Sparrel's eyes over the white table to the honeysuckle in the center. "He thinks it all right to tidy up the table for company, but he wonders why I put on the white cloth for Reuben Warren and let Shellenberger take just what he found."

She removed the unsightly bandage and brushed away the loose soda, and carefully washed the burned hand. Then she bathed her eyes back into composure. She felt her spirit lifting above the confusion and the heat. As she went on with the supper she began to sing without forming any words that could reach the porch.

She opened the oven to look at the she went into the smoke-house and baking sweet potatoes and the bread sliced off the best cuts of the home cured ham to fry. She took dripping from the fat and poured it into a tin of dark fragrant honey butter from the spring-house, and a fresh loaf of wheat bread from Julius box. Then she slipped the every-day red and white checked cloth from the table and spread in its stead one of the hemstitched white covers from the cedar-smelling linen closet in the hall. She poured the brown sugar back into the jar and filled the bowl with white granulated. She cut a spray of wild honeysuckle from the clump behind the drying kiln, arranged it in a low brown earthen pot and set it in the center of the table.

It was all very beautiful now, and she stood back to admire it for an instant. "He'll see that I'm not any way slouchy, if he has any eyes. And he has. I guess I'm glad Mother went over to Jenny's today, after all."

She heard Sparrel and the boys coming into the yard. She looked at the supper again and ran up to her room to change into a fresh dress. Blue is best for my face when it's hot and for my hair." She felt neat and orderly, like the table she had just laid. She hurried back to the kitchen. She put the coffee on the stove. She got milk from the spring-house.

"I guess I've got things about ready for him now."

Outside, on the porch she could hear the voices of her menfolk making Reuben Warren welcome on Wolfpen. The clear and easy tones of Reuben rippled over the slow deep talk of Sparrel, and in both there was the ring of friendliness.

Where's your mule? she heard Abrel ask.

I haven't any mule.

Then how did you get over here with all them things?

I walked.

Yes, I walked. Don't you people ever walk any? You're as bad as city folks. It was the first she had heard his free laugh.

Cynthia was taking up the supper. She could hear the men at the wash rock, Jesse offering Reuben the soap and Jasper the towel. Every thing was ready now and she stepped to the door. The days were noticeably lengthening, as though the light clung to the trees and the sprouting fields and tried to shoulder the darkness from the hollows. "Come in to supper," she said. She saw Sparrel and Jesse and Reuben Warren look at her burned hand as they passed into the dining room, and she let it drop quietly behind her skirt.

"You sit right here, Mr. Warren, Sparrel said, placing him on the right facing the kitchen where Cynthia stood ready to serve. Then Sparrel asked the blessing, raising his head and looking at Cynthia as he said the Amen.

WHOLE FAMILY HAVE

RECORD AT SCHOOL

Paul Templeman has a record of which any child in the whole world would be proud. He has come to school eight years without missing a single day, and Paul should be congratulated upon his ability to do this. He has been lucky to be well so to have parents who have been interested in the education of their children. Paul says he will be enrolled in the high school within another year. He is a very bright and industrious looking boy, and small for his age. He is one of the youngest ones who is realizing at an early age what coming to school every day is going to mean to him in the future. The parents of Paul have helped him make this record and should be very proud of themselves in being able to do this. The other children in this family have also started out to make the same record as Paul. Ava is in the third grade and has not missed a day of school, and Ruby in the first grade has not missed a day this year. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could have more families like the above who realize the value of attending school every day. These children are enrolled in the Elementary School of which Alice Porter is the teacher.

BRADLEY SCHOOL IS ONE ### OF THE PROGRESSIVE

The Bradley School, taught by Mrs. Lydia Messer, Caudill is two miles out on the Sandy Hook Road from Rodium. The school building is old, but nevertheless in very good condition. Two new sanitary toilets have been built, which is a great improvement over the old type of toilet. The enrollment is 53, and on the day of my visit there were 47 present. This is a very progressive school. The children were working on booklets for the Fair, in animal and a bird scrap book were especially interesting. Health is being taught in this school, in the right way. Individual drinking cups were on the wall. A picture of each child's hand had been drawn and these were used as a health unit.

The finger nails remained pink if the nails were clean during inspection, but were colored black if they were not well cared for. Each week a new doctor, nurse, and dentist are elected who are the officers for that week. This is practical health work and will result in better care of their bodies than all of the book work with no practice.

The walls were decorated. A bird calendar, a flag, a picture of formed letters as copies for the children made the room look attractive. There were shelves for the children's lunches, which is an improvement over some schools where the lunches are placed on the floor. Mrs. Caudill did not have enough tables for her own use, so she had brought two extra tables from home, on which material was placed. Several books about various subjects were on the desk for supplementary work for the children. A globe was also part of the material. These children were especially bright and intelligent and promise to come every day to school for the rest of their lives and to encourage those who are out to come. A visit to this school makes you feel as much at ease as if you were at home. The teacher and the children make you feel as though they are glad you came. Some valuable social work is being done. Some of the parents who have visited the school are Mrs. Bert Peiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sloan, and W. M. Messer, trustee.

The school is planning a banner for the Fair and probably a float. They can also boast in winning second prize in the Declamatory contest given at the gymnasium Sept 11.

Fourth Week Of Balloting Brings Two Shifts Of States, California To Landon, Ohio To Roosevelt

The voting peak in the nationwide presidential poll, now being conducted by more than 3,000 weekly newspapers, appears to be nearing as thousands of ballots poured into national straw-vote headquarters here at the end of the 4th week.

Voting during the fourth week developed slight tightening of lines along some fronts, but not of enough importance to bring about startling change of state for prospective candidates. The exceptions were, President Roosevelt regaining a lead over Governor Landon in Ohio, and in California, where Landon took a slight lead over Roosevelt.

Scattered returns from 7 states, which heretofore have been carried in the nation-wide, state by state tabulations, are not included in the fourth week totals, presented this week. The ballots from those 7 states were so few in number that those in charge of the poll decided not to continue publishing them until representative returns are available. The seven states not included in this week are: Mississippi, Delaware, Arkansas, Georgia, Nevada, New Mexico and Vermont.

Returns from 36 states at the close of the fourth week of balloting, totaled 450,116 votes. They disclose the following standing of the candidates at this time.

Landon 267,725 58.5

Roosevelt	153,094	34.0
Lenke	21,326	04.0
Thomas	3,638	.8
Colvin	1,531	.3
Browder	2,802	.6

Governor Landon, Republican Presidential nominee, maintains a lead in 29 of the 36 states. Those States are, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, West Virginia, and Washington, Wisconsin. In four states, California, Minnesota, Montana and Nebraska, the Landon leads are small.

The seven states in which President Roosevelt leads are Alabama, Florida, Idaho, North Carolina, Ohio, Texas, and Utah. Roosevelt's lead in Idaho is based upon sparse returns only.

The vote for Congressman Wm. Lenke, Union Party residential candidate, maintains approximately the same volume each week but despite certain state strongholds fails to gain on the leaders. Total returns at the close of the 4th week of state by state tabulations, as between,

Landon, Roosevelt and Lenke, are as follows:
Landon	267,725	60.6
Roosevelt	153,094	34.6
Lenke	21,326	4.7
Thomas	3,638	.8
Colvin	1,531	.3
Browder	2,802	.6

In the new alignment of returns from the 36 states only, as between Landon and Roosevelt, totals at the close of the 4th week show Landon 267,725 58.5 Roosevelt 153,094 34.4

The avalanche of ballots now arriving at straw-vote headquarters at Publishers Autocaster Services offices, indicates that a truly representative vote of small town and rural America presidential sentiment will be available at the conclusion of this nation-wide country weekly newspaper poll.

The 5th week returns, now being tabulated, should furnish some interesting figures for early speculations on the outcome of the November election.

If the readers of the Rowan County News have not yet voted in this nation wide presidential poll, we suggest they do so by clipping the ballot which is printed on page 1 of this issue, vote for their favorite candidate, then mail or bring the ballot to our office.

fairly well before the season is over. Not that they should be expected to win many or any games. That would be too much to ask. With the weight they will be able to show both in the line and the back field, however, the Kings should develop a good defense against almost any comer.

The probable starting lineup in the Friday game against Raceland will include some of the following players: At center, either Reynolds or Cornette will get the call for the opening lineup. Guards will be either Calvert, Cox or Williams. At tackle will be found Rose, T. Jones or Wilson. Line Brown, Butcher or Hill will go in at ends.

Buck Brown will get the call at quarter back, B. Hill will start at full back; Johnson at left half and Hutchinson, C. James or Sorrel at right half.

The team's schedule for the Kings is light with only four games

To Hold Good Manners Classes

The first meeting of the class in Good Manners, which is being given this semester under the sponsorship of the College social committee, will be held next Monday evening, September 28th, at 7:30 in the College Auditorium. Students, faculty, and townspeople are cordially invited.

Each week the lecture will be in charge of a different faculty member and on a different subject. Next Monday, Miss Lucille Catlett, of the Beckinridge Faculty, will be in charge and her subject will be "Introduction." She will take up at that time introductions of one person to another, letters of introduction, and introduction of speakers. Following next week's meeting, the meetings thereafter will be held on Tuesday nights to avoid a conflict with the church chorals meetings on Monday night.

"Sins Of Man" At Cozy Theatre

The affection of a father for his two motherless sons and the heartbreak and sorrow, turmoil and triumph that this love brings the parent is the motivating background for the widely-heralded, Darryl F. Zanuck Twentieth Century production, "Sins of Man," Friday and Saturday at the Cozy Theatre with Jean Hersholt starred.

Hersholt is seen as the sexton and bell-ringer of the church in a small Tyrolean village. Karl, the older son is expected to follow in his father's footsteps but secretly harbors dreams of being an aviator. The other boy, Gabriel, has been a dead-weight from birth.

Karl breaks his father's heart by announcing that he is going to America and studying flying. Shortly afterwards, the old man is joyous but surprised to find that Gabriel is beginning to hear. To be completely cured he must be taken to a noted surgeon in America.

In the meantime, Karl's daring has won him a reputation in America and the boy writes his father of his success. Hersholt forgives him and decides to visit him in America and at the same time prepare the way for Gabriel's impending operation.
