HENRY HALL CELEBRATES MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Rev. Henry Hall, whose home is at Clearfield, Ky., celebrated a service of thanksgiving on Sunday last a service of thanksgiving for an incident that occurred 54 years ago. Rev. Hall, or as he is known to his friends, "Uncle" Henry Hall, on that memorable day 54 years ago, fell from a cliff, seventy-five feet and is alive to tell the story.

It seems that at that time, Mr. Hall was sixteen years of age, together with Isaac Quisenberry who recently passed away, was out hunting. The two boys had wandered about in search of game until darkness gathered. Mr. Hall in telling the story says that he walked up to the edge of the cliff and in the darkness, evidently mistook the tops of the trees in the canyon for level ground, walking out over the edge and falling the entire distance to the ground. He remembered calling to Mr. Quisenberry not to move as the cliff was there. Somehow Quisen-

BROADCASTS ARE POSTPONED TWO WEEKS

Miss Luzader has been on the radio since late summer and her broadcasts are heard and enjoyed by her many Morehead friends.

Vikings Meet Boyd County

While the Vikings opened their season two weeks ago with a disastrous loss to Raecland, the Kings have not given up hope of winning this season, but with the Ramblers already past history are going into the Boyd County game here Friday with blood in their eyes.

The Kings, who are composed of entirely green material, many of whom had never seen a football until they held their first practice, have been improving steadily during the past two weeks. They learned a lot of football at the Raecland encounter, football that they could not find in good in the Boyd County game.

The game will have an added interest for local fans, since Watt Prichard, Jr., who formerly tossed and carried the pigskin for the Vikings is now coaching the Boyd County team. This is Watt's first year at Cannonsburg. As the advertising says:

"Come out and see the local boys lick the tar out of Boyd County. You know Watt Prichard, who used to pasture with the Vikings, has gone up to Cannonsburg and taken unto himself a football team. Watt allows to come back to the old home town and take a crack at his Alma Mater and also at "Pappy" Holbeck who taught him the rules of etiquette concerning the usage of the pig skin when Watt was still a "little 'un". Poor old Pritch!

U. W. Waltz Accepts C. & O. Position

Ellis Johnson Celebrates Homecoming With Display Of Accomplishments Saturday P. M.

Ellis Johnson celebrated his Homecoming last Saturday before a crowd estimated at better than two thousand, when his soaring Eagles demonstrated that they are to be reckoned with when state championships are under consideration. The Eagles met the superman from Murray State Teachers College at Jayne Stadium Saturday afternoon, and out fought, out gamed, outgained and outplayed the Thorbreds from Western, Kentucky. They did everything but not score on the visitors, who through the breaks of the game dragged their weary forms off the field, winners by flukes to the tune of 14 to 7.

The game marked the revival of football at Morehead State Teachers College and the revival of interest in the pigskin game. With the stadium filled with fans from every part of this section the Eagles went into the game strong, playing the Thorbreds off their feet. The Eagles kicked off and the visitors tried to gain through the line, and failed. They kicked and the Eagles returned.

Former Resident Dies Monday

Mrs. Emma Barnhart died at the East Kentucky State Hospital in Lexington on Monday morning of this week. Mrs. Barnhart was the wife of Owen Barnhart who died about five years ago. Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Barnhart grieved so continuously that she lost her mind and was taken to the hospital where she has been confined since that time.

During her life in the hospital she grew gradually worse, becoming violent at times and at other times lethargic.

Mrs. Barnhart was about 87 years of age. According to the best information obtainable she was born in Missouri. It is thought that she has relatives in that state, although their address is not known. Burial was made at the Caudill Cemetery Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, by the side of her husband.

Mrs. Barnhart was one of the sweet old ladies of this community, and the love and courtesy shown to her and her husband up to the time of his death was one of the touching sights of this city at that time.

During the two seasons he coached the freshmen, the football squad lost only one game each season, each of them against the Kentucky Freshmen. Mr. Scroggins will receive a much better salary than he received as coach at Morehead.

Roosevelt In Lead As Polls Close Here

The polls close on Saturday, October 10, when all ballots must be in. All those who have not yet voted in the News Straw Vote arrange to do so, so that the ballots may be sent away to national headquarters Sunday morning.

The vote in Rowan county still shows a decided leaning toward Roosevelt, who in the county poll is shown to be leading by better than three to one. However, that is not conclusive by any means, and a block of Republicans votes could very easily change the standing of the two candidates in this county. Send in your votes. Let yours be recorded for your favorite candidate and against its opponent.

Which way and how strongly the national political winds are blowing in small town and country, America, will be shown definitely in the final tabulation of the county newspaper nation-wide poll now nearing conclusion.

The balloting comes to a close this week, Saturday Midnight, October 10th. Final national returns will be announced the week of October 19th.

The political trend of the county vote at this time gives Governor Landon, Republican, a lead of about one and a half to one over President Roosevelt, Democrat. Or, in campaign terms, sixty to forty.

The return to date from 39 states. In some states the vote has been light and cannot be considered conclusively indicative that such states are bound to go to the respective leading candidate in November. In other states the vote has been heavy throughout the balloting. In only a few instances have early leads been cut down and states changed from one to the other column of leaders.

Local Option To Be Decided Dec. 5

With the local option petitions filed, this time containing upward of two thousand signatures, County Judge Chas. E. Jennings ordered that the election be held on the date suggested, December 5. The petitions were filed about a week ago.

The first election, called for September 29, was not held. Circuit Judge D. B. Caudill sustaining an injunction preventing County Judge Jennings from holding the election, who alleged that the petitions were not properly signed. The dry forces accepted the ruling of the court and immediately set to work to obtain other petitions, which they took pains to see were signed correctly.

As soon as the general election in November is held the opposing forces plan on waging a hard campaign to carry the county for their particular interests.

After the reading was finished, the children were questioned concerning the story, and the responses showed that they understood what had been read. Much time was taken in giving the assignment for the next lesson. The teacher's desk was lined with books of all kinds; there were two primary tables at which the smaller children were working. One group was working on health booklets; the tables were decorated with flowers and there were also flower boxes. This is the only one room school that I have visited that has electric lights, used for school and church alike.

PATTERNS WOLFFEN

By Hlanan Hatcher

And they didn't, they were brown and flaky and the men broke them open with their fingers and put butter in them to melt, and ate them with honey. Cynthia served them and watched them eat with satisfaction, thinking of the moods this strange spring had brought. She liked to hear Reuben talking with Sparrel about the work, his pleasant voice speaking easily and capably to the point.

"We will need two ax-men to clear a sight, and a rod-man and two chainmen. You'll have to help me find the marks on the trees and keep directions. The early deeds won't help much except to tell us that the line crosses a ravine or ends on a rock ledge.

One of my boys will have to stay on the place to look after things, Sparrel answered. The other two can help. We can get another chainman and two ax-men all right.

Jesse and Abrael drew lots for the beginning. Jesse won. But Abrael was so full of disappointment that Reuben said to Sparrel: "We can't do more than get started this morning. If you can spare them, suppose we all go up and look over the ground. And Abrael looked across the table at Cynthia and smiled.

From the kitchen window Cynthia watched the five men, carrying axes a corn knife, the compass and the chain, go out of the yard by the well and along the path that led to the shelf and then, more vaguely, up to Cranenest.

By the time the men had reached Cranenest Shelf, the mist was gone from the hollows except for the thin wisps still clinging to the treetops in the deep purple wrinkles of the hills at the head of the hollow.

They stopped by the rails on the Shelf and Sparrel answered Reuben's questions, telling of the Pattern men who lay there, and of Cynthia's fancy concerning Saul.

I should have been of Saul's time. Reuben said. Think of being the first white man to stand on one of these points just as the mist is lifting, and saying to the silence. "All I can see when the mist is up will be the Pattern lands."

The next best thing is to re-survey the land closer tree by tree, first walked over. Then he laughed boyishly, and they climbed on up to the rocky point of Cranenest.

The Pattern men stood behind Reuben, seeing the glorious panorama afresh through his eyes; the absolute truth of the Wolfpen Hollow from the house down to the mill which squatted like a black spider at their feet.

This is a good place to begin just about anything, Reuben said, watching the glint of sun on Gannon creek where it bent out of sight.

They had no trouble finding the oak tree designated as the beginning point in the deed of 1814. It was now a huge tree and the three ax-men in the rough bark had grown and spread until no inexperienced eye could have identified them. "That's the old corner tree, Sparrel said. And Reuben, looking at the deed, Thence in a southeasterly direction, following the back of the ridge, about fifty-five poles to a sixteen-inch walnut about a pole from a big rock which sticks out near the head of a hollow: that's definite, all right.

Slowly they made their way along the ridge. Abrael pushing ahead through the underbrush trying to locate marked trees. Jasper hacking at the slender saplings with his axe, Jesse slashing the green briars and the small brush with the knife, Sparrel and Reuben stepping off the distance as they advanced. They climbed over fallen, rotting and moss-grown tree-trunks, through grapevine tangles and berry vines, and over rocks. It was hard, slow going. Then Abrael found a tree notched fore and aft to set their right again.

ing in for the best games; if not the best on the field. He was outstanding. Wyatt with his drive rated high by the opposing team. Other players were in there fighting all the time and demonstrated fully that the Morehead Eagles are making a real bid for recognition in the state.

Sports writers in other cities who have up to the present been discounting the Eagles and rating them as also-rans, are being forced to revise their opinions.

The entire topic of discussion Saturday night and Sunday was the remarkable showing of the Eagles, contrary to the expectations of even the local fans. Murray came to Morehead and experienced nothing more than a light practice session. In fact a story appeared in one of the metropolitan dailies to the effect that Murray was practicing for their game this week-end, considering that they needed no special work to take Morehead in their stride. If they did take it in their stride, the stride was a decidedly shortened one. Only a costly fumble and called interference by a Morehead player which gave Murray the ball on the one yard line gave them the winning touchdown. Those are of course part of the game, even though they are breaks.

The Eagles drove the ball to the one yard line in the third quarter, only to lose it on a fumble which threw them back to the twelve yard line.

All in all the fans, while they would have been delighted to see the Eagles win, are more than satisfied with the showing the Eagles made in their first game of the 1936 season. The Thorobreds claim to be headed for the state championship and if that is the case the Eagles deserve top backing for their fight and their moral victory.

Georgetown is next on Saturday of this week. It will be a good game to watch, for Georgetown has had a few eye-openers, as the result of last week's game. They will be out to trip the Eagles. Local fans are backing the Eagles to take Georgetown, but they expect a real game Saturday afternoon.

(Continued From Page Two) the power of God that turned them out. But why all this? God did it to make some sinners ground there see their terrible plight. Conviction came to a sinner father and his companions. He cried out: "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" When a man is brought to that point it is easy to tell Him how to be saved. But only the Spirit of God, with His interpretation of the sinners' lot, condition, can do this. Only as the Spirit enlightens us can we see ourselves as God sees us. That sight will make "my man cry out, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved."

How to be saved? Here was Paul's opportunity which God had brought out of his troubles. "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." That is, agree with God on Jesus your substitute for all that God demands of you. You have nothing God can use to meet the demands of a righteous law. Jesus has all that.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

God needs for this purpose. God of the Spirit's presence, the Father says, "I cannot accept your goodness, but I will accept the goodness of Jesus, my Son." In response to that the sinner must say, "If you will accept Jesus for me, then I will accept Him also." And in the enlightened and empowered moment God may solemnly agree on Jesus as Saviour, and the sinner may in faith leave it all with Jesus to make right with God. This is Christ's promise: "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out." May the sinner come to Him.
