HOME COMING CELEBRATION IS PLANNED SAT.

Big Day Of Reunion Arranged By Alumni And College Faculty.

GAME IS BIG FEATURE

With letters coming in from old graduates and students and from alumni everywhere, in response to the twelve hundred letters of invitation sent out recently by those in charge of the plans for the 1936 edition of Home Coming Day at the Morehead State Teachers College next Saturday, and with the plans for the big day practically complete, it begins to look as if this home coming day will be the outstanding event of the college year.

Naturally the feature of the program will come in the afternoon, when the doughty Morehead Eagles will meet one of their traditional enemies, Union, College in the annual football struggle. Morehead has more than an even chance to win this game, and there are those who are willing to bet the limit if they can find takers on that.

Union has a good team, one of the good teams of the state. But Morehead fans believe they have a better one and one that is going to reverse the old order and keep the football here this year. Anyway it will be a good game and one that will furnish plenty of thrills to the old timers who are returning to back the Eagles with their presence and good cheer.

The program for the day is as follows:

Registration of alumni from 8:00 p. m. to 12:00 m. Registration will be held in the Administration building. Throughout the morning faculty members will hold an informal reception for old students in and about the administration building, where all who come may renew acquaintances and discuss old times and enjoy an old fashioned reunion.

Following the annual banquet will be served in the cafeteria at 6:00 p. m.

From 8:00 p. m. to 12:00 m. the alumni ball will be held in the gym.

VIKINGS TO MEET OLIVE HILL THERE ON FRIDAY

The Morehead Hi Vikings go to Olive Hill Friday afternoon for their third game of the season. The Comets lost to Raceland 13-0 last week. As Raceland topped the Kings 45-0 in their opener it looks like another loss for the Kings. However anything may happen and the Kings can be expected to do their best to upset the dope.

Demos Register 2374; Republicans List 2001

Four thousand, three hundred, seventy-five voters of Rowan county registered their party preference up to the closing time for registration Saturday night, according to Vernon Alfrey, Rowan County Court Clerk who had charge of the registration of voters after the August primary, when the first registration took place. Judged by the figures from the last election, there were still approximately four hundred voters who failed to register and who will not be permitted to vote in November.

It is not known what the party affiliation of these unregistered voters is so there is no way of determining which party lost by their failure to register.

According to the party registration on the books at the clerk's office the Democrats have a registration advantage of 373 votes. There were 2001 Republicans, registered and 2374 Democrats. It is understood however, that the registration has no effect on the votes cast in the November election, as

Organize Recreational Center in Morehead

Under the supervision of Paul D. Bentford, the Rowan county recreational center will soon be organized in this city, under WPA provisions. The new recreational center is expected to be developed into a community project furnishing recreation for everyone, young as well as old.

The project is getting under way this week. It is the purpose of the national administration to teach people to play as well as work and to develop in America a well rounded life that provides time for both.

JOE CAUDILL UNDERGOES OPERATION SATURDAY

Mr. Joe Caudill was operated on Saturday last week at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington for the removal of a several inches of bone from his leg. He was accompanied by his son D. D. Caudill and Mrs. Caudill. He is improving nicely at present. Mrs. Caudill is remaining with her husband.

Gas Well In Units Of City

Expect To Supply Customers With Gas In Next Two Weeks.

For the first time the gas from the wells of North Fork was turned into the pipes in Morehead last week. The gas was turned in for the purpose of testing units that have been completed in the city.

According to Mr. W. H. Rice, the gas will be available for use in the completed units in about two weeks.

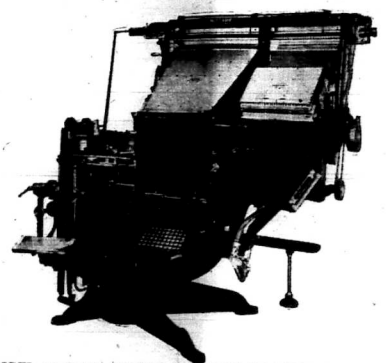

It will be remembered that the plan of installation of a gas is to complete the city in a series of units. By this method it will not be necessary to await the completion of the entire system before the consumers will be able to take advantage of the new fuel being offered by the city.

Under the arrangement and contract made by the city council with the Young Refining Company, the city purchases the gas at the city

High School Ask For Donations To Library

The Morehead High School through its newly appointed librarian, Miss Thelma Allen, is making a drive to obtain either new books for the library or funds with which to purchase additional volumes. The drive is necessary in order to keep the Morehead school of the state accredited list of Class "A" Schools. The school received this highest rating last year for the first time and is the only school in this county that has that rating.

One of the chief requirements for this rating is a good library. The local high school now has about 350 new volumes on its shelves. The plans are to increase this number as rapidly as possible either by donation of volumes or by purchase as funds are available.

Consequently the librarian is asking anyone who has books which they wish to give to the school library, to call Phone 195 or 197 and a boy will come to give, a small donation will be gladly accepted.

Work Started On New Post Office

DiBiasco Company Started Work On Building Monday.

Within five or six months Morehead's new Federal Building and Post Office will be under way. Work started Monday morning of this week, will be completed, according to the contract between the DiBiasco Construction Company and the federal government, and the local Post Office will be moved to its new location on Main street and Wilson avenue.

The site of the new federal building was recently purchased from the Citizens Band and Morgan Clayton for the price of $6,500.00. The building itself is to be of red brick construction with a stone trim, similar to other federal buildings in cities the size of Morehead. It will front Main street, with a width of sixty feet and will be eighty feet deep along Wilson avenue.

The new building will have three front entrances, with a side entrance on Wilson avenue. In front of the building and on Wilson Avenue will be a five foot sidewalk, with a driveway along

Patton Brings In Gas Well On Place

Gets Good Spouter On Home Lot In East Part Of City.

Considerable excitement was created in Morehead Tuesday morning when it was announced that a gas well of more than usual size had been brought in on the property of Ern Patton in East Morehead. Mr. Patton has been drilling quietly for some time, but when the well blew in Tuesday it was a surprise to practically every one in this city.

All day visitors were to be found in the yard watching the demonstration. The gas came through a two inch pipe and had such force behind it that the fire shot to a distance of about fifty feet.

Mr. Patton stated that he had been careful not to make the mistake of drilling through the gas shale into the salt water, a mistake which many had made, thus ruining their wells. He plans on using his well for personal consumption.

Laundry Installs New Sanitary Equipment

The Model Laundry continues to improve their equipment so that they will be able to meet the requirements of their customers in every manner possible. The most recent addition to their already complete layout is a modern filtering and water softener plant. During the past week the Laundry was unable to work due to the muddy condition of the water. It was to eliminate this condition that the new filter was installed.

With the water filter and softener operating, the Model Laundry will be able at all times to turn out work that is white and clean without delay and without worry. It is just another manifestation of the determination of this concern to merit the support of the citizens of this community by giving their customers the most modern sanitary service.

Haldeman School Under Construction This Week

Work started this week on the new Haldeman school building, erected with WPA funds as one of the major projects of this county. The new building is being erected on the site of the old Haldeman school, which was the predecessor of the present school building.

The project which calls for an expenditure of $27,000.00 will when completed contain six large school class rooms as well as a full sized gymnasium. The present building will be used as a graded school while the new building will house the high school department.

Work is also progressing on the new school at Elliottville, also being built with WPA funds. The two buildings when completed will give Rowan county several modern buildings that could not

Vinson Talks To Large Audience

Dinner At Cafeteria Features Meeting Here Saturday.

Rowan county Democrats enjoyed a big evening last Saturday when the district meeting of the Young Democrats Club was held in this city. A dinner held at the cafeteria was attended by over seventy Democrats and was presided over by Senator Clarence E. Nickell. Following the dinner, the crowd adjourned to the court house where Congressman Fred M. Vinson spoke to a crowded court room on the issues of the campaign. Mr. Vinson delivered one of the most effective addresses of his career, a speech that was both enjoyed and appreciated by his audience.

He cited the many things that the Roosevelt administration had done for Rowan county, mentioning especially the three magnificent buildings constructed and now under construction, that could not have been built had it not been for the cooperation of the federal government, under this administration. The federal government, he said has spent upward of two million dollars in Rowan county, not only that you might have work for your unemployed, that your children might be cared for and fed. "You people of Rowan county can't and I know you won't go back on the only president that has ever taken the poor man into consideration and taken an interest in seeing that they did not starve."

The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic political rallies ever held in this county, and indicated the depth of interest being taken in the coming election.

B A B B SPEAKS TO ASHLAND KIWANIS

President Harvey A. Babb, president of the Morehead State Teachers College delivered an address Wednesday night before the Kiwanis Club in Ashland, Ky. His subject was "Your College and Mine." He stressed the importance of the Morehead State Teachers College to eastern Kentucky, and asked that the people of Ashland regard it as their responsibility as well as their own institution of higher learning.

President Babb was accompanied by Mrs. Babb.

Offers Twenty Type Faces To Patrons Of This Paper.

A COMPLETE PAINT SHOP The Rowan County News has taken another step forward in keeping with the growth of Morehead by installing the newest and most complete Linotype in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The New type setting machine that will in the future give to the readers of the News the most modern type dress of any paper in the state was put on the market in June of this year. It is the new Model 14 Blue Streak Linotype machine that is a thing not only of utility but of beauty as well.

It is almost a complete printing shop in itself so far as type is concerned. On the new linotype, the News operator is able to do anything from 8 point type which is the size you are reading now, up to and including 36 point type, which appears in some of the ads in this issue.

The linotype is completely equipped with 20 different sizes of type in a wide range of faces and kinds. The News, with this newest of machines, is able to offer its customers practically anything they may wish in type for either 5-8 or job work.

The old linotype that formerly did the work at the News office is now on its way to New York. It is somewhat of a coincidence that it was exactly eleven years to the day on which the old machine was first erected in the News shop, that it was torn down and packed to be sent back to its original home in Brooklyn. Eleven years of service to the people of Rowan county justified entirely the abandonment of that machine. It was out grown and out moded, and the News' owners are proud to be able to replace it with the modern and up-to-minute linotype that now occupies the floor.

When the old machine was bought eleven years ago it was considered the last word in modern type setting machines. At that time it was the best.

Federal Agents Issue Warning

Ask Cooperation In Stopping Fake Eye Specialist In County.

Local inspectors have just broken up a nation-wide organization of crooks who pose as eye specialists. It is estimated that the public has been swindled out of more than a million dollars through the operation of what is known as the Glimmer Racket in this county. The racketeers, some of whom were operating in the neighboring counties, but who so far have avoided Rowan County, pose as eye specialists representing clinics of national fame. They would perform delicate operations in your home under the most unsanitary conditions and charge unreasonable fees from the patients. The swindlers specialize on persons 70 years of age and over in rural communities.

The federal government is interested in any attempts to start this Glimmer Racket in Rowan county. If any man or pair of men call at your residence and attempt to sell glasses or to induce you to have an operation on your eyes, report them at once to your local post master who will get in touch with federal authorities. You may be able to prevent serious trouble to yourself and your neighbors by reporting anything you learn promptly.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce J. B. MAUK for Representative,
Rowan-Bath District, SUBJECT TO THE ACTION OF THE Democratic Primary, August 2, 1937.

HERES THE ANSWER

The owners of the Rowan County News have been lightly amused, and at times deeply disgusted with the rumors that have been floating around, to the effect that the News was going out of business, or going to be put out of business. Ordinarily it is our policy to ignore such rumors, feeling as we do that those who feel it incumbent upon themselves to circulate such false statements will feel the reaction sooner or later.

We mention it at this time, only because we have this week installed a new linotype machine that is the last word in typesetting machines, a fact in itself that gives the direct lie to such rumors as have been circulated.

We have been in business in Morehead for eleven years. In that time, we have been behind all of the progressive movements that have been started in this city, and we flatter ourselves that we have been instrumental in developing a large number of them.

It was the News, together with Prof. H. C. Haggan who went to the bat for the county agent when practically every farmer in the county was opposed to it.

It was the News, together with Prof. H. C. Haggan who went to the county fair in this county and who financed it for two years.

It was the News who started the first movement to demand a gymnasium at the Morehead High School, and it was the News which finally put it over so that the Board of Education at that time finally consented to furnish the funds.

It was the Rowan County News which first suggested the organization of an athletic association through which the gymnasium, built through the efforts of the News, was furnished and repaired and the athletic teams of four years financed through four strenuous seasons. It was the editor of the News who served as president of that organization until its abandonment when he refused to serve longer. It was also the Rowan County News who for three years gave subscriptions to the teams to buy new basket-ball suits.

In the eleven years the News has been under the present management it has stood for progress, not selfish progress, but community progress. It has never lied, it has never slandered. It has always stood fearlessly for what it believed to be right. It has "hewn to the line, let the chips fall where they may." Even our enemies, and we thank God we have several of them, will admit that we have never sneaked, never gone behind their backs, when we had anything to say, or any act to criticize. On the contrary, we have faced them in what we have had to say, and not one of them has ever been able to say that we were afraid to say to their faces what we said behind their backs. They may not have liked it, but they have to admire that attitude.

So we say again that we have been lightly amused at the rumors set on foot. We wish to assure our friends as well as our enemies that we will still be here, running the Rowan County News, fighting for what we think is right, working in the interests of Morehead and Rowan county. We love Morehead and Rowan County. We may not always agree with you, but when we do we shall not hesitate to say so openly and frankly.

And let us assure you that we are not trying and have no intention of trying to put anyone out of business. So far as we are concerned, any efforts in that direction are null and void. There is only one person who can put the Rowan County News out of business, as there is but one person or group that can put anybody else out of business. That is the ownership or management of that business. So let us again assure you, that when the Rowan County News goes out of business it will not be through the efforts of some else, but because we have done it ourselves, all reports to the contrary.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kaezer, Pastor of Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: Evangelism and the Bible. Acts 17: 1-11; Thessalonians 2: 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT: "The Word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two edged sword." Hebrews 4: 12

Last Sunday we left Paul and his companions on their missionary journey in Europe. They have come now to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews. Paul used the synagogue on the Sabbath (Saturday) because the Jews were then gathered together, but he also met his Christian friends on the Sunday, the first day of the week, and the Resurrection day. He took advantage of every opportunity to preach the Gospel.

But the kind of teaching Paul brought was not to the liking of the Jews. They hated Christ, and believed not. So, moved with envy they got a crowd of Jewish fellows together, and began scattering false propaganda among them so that they became incensed and angry. They assaulted the house of Jason and sought to bring the preachers out to the people, but they failed to find them there. Angry because of their failure, they pounced upon Jason and some of the brethren, and brought them out to the rulers of the city, crying, "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also; whom Jason hath received; and these all do contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there is another king, one Jesus." The word of God never leaves a man the same. It will either draw him to Christ or drive him away. In this case it drove the people away, and they could not just move on and leave it; they were aggravated and enraged. If the Word of God does that to an unbeliever in this world just thing which punishment it will be to remember the Word of God in torment.

However, they put these men and Jason under bond, and let them go. They went immediately unto Paul and his companions and sent them away by night unto Berea. But as soon as they got to Berea, they went into the synagogue and began to preach the Word of God. One must have expected that they would get into the same trouble here, but they didn't. For "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures daily whether those things were so. That's the kind of people who find the living God, the kind who, with an open mind, will search the Scriptures. There are mighty few people today who will take time to sit down and investigate the Scriptures to find out what they say. They prefer to have their own ideas about things. They are satisfied with a religion they have made up in their own thinking. It usually suits their case better than the one they could get out of the Bible. And how it enrages them when a preacher of the Bible says about it. Then there are those other good, open-minded people, honestly seeking the truth who find the Word of God precious, and are glad to examine it to find the truth. That crowd is too small today.

The Word of God is sharper than two edged sword. It is better that we let it cut away our sin today than let it cut away our souls in judgement tomorrow. We need Bible preaching today.

LANGUAGE HEAD ISSUES WARNING

Students Must Be Careful In Selecting Language.

According to Dr. Emma O. Bach, head of the language department, students who intend to study modern foreign languages should start at the beginning of their Freshman or Sophomore year. The study should continue, if possible without interruption, until their language requirements are worked off.

As the regular sessions of the Department of Modern Languages are given almost entirely to the teaching of the first and second year of French and German, the summer term must be reserved for advanced courses, nor with only one teacher in the department, will it be possible to run individual courses for students who failed to finish their language requirements at one time, she stated.

SWING TIME TO BE AT COLLEGE

Whirling to new prestige in their sixth consecutive dancing triumph, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers set up a new record for themselves to shoot at with their "Swing Time", the most colorful and original of all their vehicles. Its opening at the college Theatre is awaited with eagerness by the local cinema-going public.

Teamed for the first time in "Flying Down To Rio," their feature status in that production was raised to stellar ranking in the successive "The Gay Divorcee," "Roberta," "Top Hat" and "Follow the Fleet," each of which surpassed its predecessor in popularity.

Now with the delightful Jerome Kern musical setting, brilliant cast and spectacular features of "Swing Time," the wing-footed celebrities bid fair to eclipse their previous records as America's favorite screen entertainers. They present several notable dances, one of which, "The Way You Look Tonight," "Never Gonna Dance" and "A Fine Romance" are acknowledged song hits.

In addition Astaire appears in blackface for the first time in his career in the "Bojangles of Harlem," number, rated as the most amazing screen spectacle of the season, in which he performs a sensational hand and foot tap dance with a background of beautiful dancing girls in a breath-taking setting designed by John Harkins.

Victor Moore, Helen Broderick, Eric Blore, Betty Furness and Georges Metaxa are featured principals in "Swing Time," a Pandro S. Berman production for RKO Radio.

Holtzclaw Replaces Lloyd As Head

Has Teaching Fellowship At University Of Kentucky.

Dr. James B. Holtzclaw, of Lexington, who taught in this department last year, has replaced Dr. A. Y. Lloyd as Head of the Department of History and Political Science while the latter is on leave of absence. Dr. Holtzclaw, during the second semester of the past two years, holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Kentucky. For two years he held a teaching fellowship in that institution, and also was extension instructor there for three years. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors; of the Kentucky Academy of Social Sciences, and of Pi Sigma Alpha, national honorary political science fraternity.

VIKINGS DROP GAME TO BOYD COUNTY 6-0

Boy Hobbs' Vikings took a bow before Boyd County High last Friday afternoon at Jayne stadium field here. The score, however, has a scant 6-0, a score of which even Pappy was not ashamed when it was chalked up. It was the second game of the year for the Vikings, as well as the second of their lives for most of the boys on the squad.

Probably the most interesting feature of the game was that it marked for the first time the return of a former Viking to play Pappy's team with a team that he had coached. Watt Prichard, Jr., is coach at Boyd County High, and played on the first Viking team back in 1928. It was in that year that the first football team was organized here with Watt, Fuzzy Jayne, Dick Clay, Peck Robinson and others as the stars.

Interest centered naturally in this "father and son" event. Well it so happened the "Pappy" got the short end of the score, but he has nothing to hang his head about. The teams were evenly matched so that the first touchdown was the last. And the Vikings showed such team improvement that no one from Morehead had anything to regret except the Boyd County team got the breaks instead of the Kings.

It was interesting and instructive to note the vast improvement made in the work of a group of green boys, many of whom had never seen a football before the opening practice the fall. The first game most of the boys ever saw was one at Ashland the week before they played Racedale.

Racedale beat the Vikings 45-0 two weeks later, after a weeks lay off, they drop their next game at the Boyd County by 6-0. That is certainly considerable improvement, step into the limelight before long. If the rate keeps up the Kings will make some of the other teams in the conference realize that they are to be reckoned with, not so much as champions, but as championship wreckers.

PATTON GETS GAS

Mr. Patton estimates that there will be sufficient gas to furnish from twelve to fifteen homes in that neighborhood. He plans on installing it in his home at once.

The well on which drilling was started about two weeks ago is 300 feet deep and the gas escapes with a pressure of 133 pounds.

POLITICAL WISDOM

Every American should be grateful to the present administration for the way in which it has met the social, political and economic needs of the country. - William H. Regnery, Chicago manufacturer.

EAGLES THE CENTRE LOUIES FRIDAY 6-6

Centre Louies held the Eagles of Morehead State Teachers College to a tie last Friday afternoon. The game was a remarkable showing the Eagles had made the week before when they held the best freshman team Kentucky has ever had to a stummy 6-0 margin. They were rated to defeat the Louies. However the Eagles got away to a slow start and the Louies latched in the first quarter. In the last half the Eagles came back in their old form and staged a drive that netted them a touchdown to knot the score at 6-6.

The Eagles were handicapped by injuries.

GAS TURNED IN

(Continued from Page One) limits at wholesale and retails it to the consumer, thus gaining a profit which will be used to retire the loan made in order to construct the system. As soon as this loan of approximately $5,000 is paid the city becomes the property of the system and the profit will be used to increase the city funds and eventually to reduce the city taxes. Rates on the gas are set by the franchise sold the Young Refining Company. They are as follows:

1st 1000 cu. ft. $1.00
Next 2000 cu. ft. .50
Next 2000 cu. ft. .55
Additional .45

There has been some question as to whether the rates would be reduced at this time. According to the present plans the rates will remain as they are at present, although the council plans on reducing them as soon as they possibly can. However first they intend to see just what the existing rates will produce, so that they may form an intelligent conclusion before taking any action.

The management and owners of the News are particularly proud to invite their friends to drop in and see this new machine in operation. It is a revelation even to those who are unfamiliar with it. It is easy to say that the machine has 15,000 parts and that it took the better part of three days to erect it. It must be seen to be appreciated. When you are in town drop down to the News office and watch the new model 14 Blue Streak in action. Remember that the News Linotype is the first and so far the only Model 14 Blue Streak in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

It is not only the desire, but the intention of the News to continue to offer to its readers and patrons the best first.

The operator of the new Blue Streak is Peck Robinson, a Morehead boy, who received his first knowledge of the linotype in the News office and who has never been employed in any other shop. Mr. Robinson is glad to demonstrate the possibilities of the new Blue Streak to any one who is interested.

office building have been under consideration by the federal government, and bids were asked for on various lots in the city almost that long ago. The government through its engineers examined all the lots offered and finally selected that offered by the Citizens band and Mr. Clayton. The contract for the building calls for an expenditure of $51,000.00.

The building will have a full sized basement underneath, which will serve for a number of useful purposes. It will be one story in height. New furniture has already been purchased for the new post office building which will also have five space for federal offices which may be located here.

Altogether the new federal building will serve not only for useful purposes, but will be a beautiful building that will do credit to the entire city of Morehead.

WORLD IS NOTIFIED U. S. FROWNS ON WAR

Constructive Foreign Policy of Roosevelt Discourages Europe's War Ardor

One of the paramount issues in the present political campaign is supplied by the threat of another European war, declares John Cudahy, American ambassador to London, who has just returned to this country on leave.

"Citizens should wake up to the dangers which threaten them from Europe," he said. "All other so-called political issues shrivel into insignificance compared with the question of what position the United States should take in the case of a war in Europe."

"The American people are unanimous in their resolve that we must stay out of such war, regardless of the sacrifice. We shall not make other people's wars our wars."

"It is in response to this universal sentiment that the Roosevelt administration sponsored the present neutrality measure, which prohibits shipment of munitions or making of loans to belligerents."

"In Ethiopia and in Spain it has been made clear to the world that our government has adopted a policy of strict neutrality."

"Repeated declarations and statements have notified war-seekers in Europe of the policy the President will follow if and when another serious conflict comes. It has been emphasized that as far as this administration is concerned, peace comes before war prosperity."

"Continuance of this Roosevelt policy - this constructive foreign policy - during the next four years is vital. While this policy may not be popular in some European capitals, it has clarified the situation."

"Meanwhile President Roosevelt's tariff reciprocity plan is coming to be regarded as one of the best and most constructive international contributions toward world peace, toward recovery, and toward the elimination of friction between nations. "This situation is one of the reasons I am so urgently asking the American people to re-elect Mr. Roosevelt. His opponents have been strangely silent about these vital matters. But know that Senator Borah is the logical candidate for Secretary of War in a London cabinet. And he has stated that he wants the United States to enforce its commercial neutral rights on the high seas even if such enforcement means war. Here is an issue of war. Another war plan. Roosevelt means peace. For Roosevelt is the peace champion of the world today."

True Conservatism

Never has a nation made greater strides in safeguarding democracy than we during the past three years. Wise men have long known that in a changing world worthy institutions can be conserved only by adjusting them. A great essayist says: "The voice of great events is pleading to us - reform if you will prefer." ... I am that kind of a conservative because I am that kind of a liberal - Franklin D. Roosevelt

Eagles Gain Moral Victory Over Tigers In 0-0 Tie, Saturday

The Georgetown Tigers bared their claws here Saturday, but were unable to do anything with the Morehead Eagles, and the game resulted in a 0-0 tie. One newspaper article among them all put it right when they said "Georgetown held the Morehead Eagles to a 0-0 tie." That actually is what happened to Ellis Johnson's fighting team. One long boy from Georgetown, Robinson by name, was the difference that made it possible for the Tigers to stay in the game at all.

Noteworthy in the huge crowd that filled the stadium to overflow at Saturday's game. It was one of the largest crowds ever to assemble for a football game in this city. And the crowd saw a Morehead team that was out weighted from ten to twenty pounds to the man, outfought and outplayed and do everything but out kick the Tiger team. Morehead was easily two touchdowns better than the visitors, judges by any critic from any angle. The Eagles gained upward of 170 yards from scrimmage to less than twenty for Georgetown. The Eagles lost none from scrimmage while Georgetown lost at least fifty yards. Georgetown completed two first downs to eight for Morehead. Their gains were made either in the air route. Twice Morehead rushed the ball down to the goal line, failing once to put it across by a yard or so, and the second time by about four yards, when they lost the ball on a fumble.

It is safe to say that families and the kicking of Robinson cheated the Eagles of a well earned victory. Georgetown themselves counted themselves lucky to get a draw out of as one sided a contest as we have ever witnessed to result as it did.

One feature of the game was the smoothness of the attack offered by the Eagles. The plays clicked to perfection and scarcely a play was run that did not result in a gain. Probably the most spectacular run of the game was pulled on the second play when Vinson and his mates caught the Tigers flat-footed for a run of forty yards. It looked easy sailing, but the fighters woke up and stopped that with out damage. Robinson was easily the feature of the game with his saving punts. He averaged from fifteen to twenty yards gain on each punt and is unquestionably the factor that prevented a rout in favor of the Eagles. Brasher, playing with an injured hand, played a stellar role at tackle. "Bush Hog" was in every tackle and made most of them alone. Injured as he was, he was unable to use his hands and arms to hold the runner. Instead, he blocked them from the play, knocking them off their feet and fell on them. It was an unusual sight to witness a tackle perform as Bush Hog performed Saturday. Wyant also showed well, gaining consistently through tackle for good gains. Reynolds, who returned to school after a few days absence was unable to get into the game Saturday. He had suffered shoulder injuries in practice. Analyzing the game from the viewpoint of a Morehead fan, we would say that Morehead as a whole in spite of the fact that they were disappointed over the final result Saturday, feeling that the Eagles had been cheated out of a clearcut victory, by the breaks of the game, is distinctly proud of the showing made by the Eagles thus far this season. The team not only played heads up ball, but is playing winning ball, in spite of the score board showing. They are not only a team in the making but they are a team that before the season is over will be going places and showing their opponents things they have never even dreamed of.

A Pineapple Mousse Cup for Dessert

By Jane Rogers

DOESN'T this mousse cup look delicious? Well, it is even more delicious than it looks. Tangy, unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice and diced pineapple slices are the principal ingredients. The result is guaranteed to provide a "red-letter" treat for family and guests.

Pineapple Juice Mousse Cup
1/2 cup canned Hawaiian pineapple juice
1/2 cup pastry cream
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 1/2 cups diced pineapple slices
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt
2 marshmallow cherries
Soak gelatin in 1/4 cup cold pineapple juice for 5 minutes. Heat remaining pineapple juice to the boiling point, add gelatin, sugar and salt, and stir until dissolved. Set bowl containing mixture in a pan of crushed ice and beat mixture until it becomes white and fluffy. Whip cream in another bowl, add vanilla and fold into the first mixture.

Dice the pineapple slices. Divide 1 cup of the diced pineapple among 6 sherbet glasses. Fill the remaining space with the mousse and decorate the top with remaining diced pineapple and marshmallow cherries. Put into refrigerator 1 hour or more before serving. 6 servings.

LUNCHEON was over and it was a hit early for tea. So the scholarly young man invited the young lady who was his guest to visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art with him.

The young lady was very easy to look at but she had wasted little of her life on books and such. In fact, she was the chief ornament of the chorus of a musical show on Broadway. She didn't know where the Museum was or what it contained. But, as she so aptly remarked, she was willing to try anything once.

So the flattered youth, who was rather proud of his culture, assisted her in his car and drove her on Fifth Avenue to the vast building in the Park. He led her through gallery after gallery and was eloquent upon the beauties of the treasures there exhibited.

The tour was nearing its close. He stood with his fair companion before a priceless Old Master. She fetched a deep breath.

"Great!" she murmured. "Simply immense, just what I mean? I'm so glad I came with you. I ain't never taken up art myself. But listen, kid, if I ever do, I'll certainly make it hum!"

PATTERNS OF WOLFPEN

BY HARLAN HATCHER

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co. WNU Service

After a long time, they reached a fork of the ridge.

But the deed says nothing at all about a fork, Reuben said. Which way do we go? And the Patterns were embarrassed because no one had been there in many years. They tried the left fork. There was the big rock and a tall clump of great walnut trees. There were no marks, but Abreal was so sure that he seized an ax and cut through the bark into the tree, exposing a black scar where Barton had once cut. His ax was "I guess we'll have to make you our reconnoiter. Abreal Reuben said. What?" that demanded Abreal.

Reuben smiled at him. The chap who goes ahead of the detachment to spy out the enemy and get shot first. I guess the Indians are all gone now.

I hope the corner trees aren't. Julia was running up Wolfpen. They watched the Finemare pace the Long Bottom and disappear into the earth.

That will give us a start, Reuben said. "We'll get course and disappear on this line tomorrow. It's a big job we have on our hands. They went on to the head of barn hollow, and then made their way down the cool seclusion of its tiny branch. The sound of the dinner bell went up Wolfpen, portions of itself splitting off at each hollow and dying away among the leaves of the underbrush.

"I don't reckon we could have timed it any better than that," Sparre said.

Sparre introduced Reuben and Julia spoke kindly to him. I'm right sorry I was gone just when you came. I don't very often leave the place."

She helped Cynthia with the dinner table.

In the afternoon, Jasper went to get help for the surveying, and Jesse and Abreal went to the field. Reuben studied the deed, again, and brought red scraps of cloth to tie into the marking pins as they could be easily seen by the chaimmen, and a large red sponk to fasten on the flagpole. "I don't reckon I ought to tell him I wove them myself."

Have you any idea how long it will take to run off the place? Sparre asked.

"It'll take a long time. Most of the summer. At least I hope so," Reuben added and laughed.

The days soon slipped into a quiet exciting routine, pushed forward by the activity of morning and evening and the pleasant talk of men about the small details of their work. It was almost as if the old and wifey were upset not by destructuality of enlargement. Cynthia liked the joyous tension under which she carried the increasing burden of the household work from the presence of Reuben.

Their few words were outwardly the commonplace greetings at the wash rock before the meals, or the phrase at the table, or a polite word of the kitchen. But deep within each of them, were the life of a word began before it is wrapped and delivered in sound, were being those mysterious rearrangements of the soul which adjust two people to the recognition of love.

Each evening after supper Reuben would sit for a time on the porch with Sorrel, watching the first evening stars take form above the valley. He would walk to the barn with the boy with the interval, Cynthia would finish the dishes and place the clean and polished lamp on the table, neatly covering with Reuben's materials for plotting the lines he had surveyed on that day. Then he would come in with the brown leather notebook, recording the day's journey through the underbrush and place the lows and over the hills. Sparre and the boys would crowd about him to watch the curious process of reproducing in miniature on a piece of brown paper the boundaries of the place they had surveyed.

There, Reuben said, pointing with the pencil to Cranesnest. Then we went straight to the walnut tree and there is the hollow, and then up the hill to that first big stone in the creek right there. She lingered in the room with the men as long as she felt good man-ners could allow. Then she left them and went into the silent night. She felt the orchard in all things alive and in ferment with growth. The apple trees, were full with plump green fruit, bearing on their branches the last of the wither and blossoms. Even the orphaned lamb was turbulent with expanding energy and his thin and incapable legs were now strong and reliable. All about the valley, up, along the cowpath, all around the garden, everything was shooting recklessly up out of the pregnant ground.

She felt the same stirring within herself. It was new and disquiet and deeper than thought. It was a part of herself that lay beyond and thrilled and came up from one with the moist air stirring over the valley, gently cooler than her own flesh, laden with the mysteries life-throw of all the years, communicating to her the secret and the urgency of its way. She yielded herself to it eagerly and by her thought or her will and she felt exalted by this strange and secret ache in the eternal mystery of the night and under the unburied and timeless stars above Wolfpen.

"It's a soft night. You can feel the live wind come fresh out of the woods and run softly over your face and delicately under your arm and dress and around your body. And then you are not tired any more, and more you seem to live than you ever were before. Next to the curiosity of the way the chickens croon in the morning, like they thought it was time for the day and God had forgot to light up the sun and set it over Cranesnest, and then they wait a little while in quiet to give them a chance to remember before they break out again; and suddenly when they do the dark begins to run down from the Pinnacle, slow, fast, and then faster until the sun pops up and takes the valley and all the chickens croon again a third time bigger than ever as though they had done the miracle. Next to that in this place is the night-sounding, quiet at the end of May and the way it comes up of you and makes something happen to you and you tremble with it. The way it is now. It is the tremble of nesting a snake swallowing a toad in the afternoon. It is the tremble of being born or released instead of devoured. It feels like the night were trying to say something to you and you can hear it speak. I know what it means even without the words. I mean Rebekah hear it saying words things to her when she listened and thought of Isaac in the Holy Land; that she is a woman and a lot of love can reach over a long way and touch her and take her even to another place; and that the life in her will go on in a new place far from her father's land. It begins the way the corn comes and the fragile blades curled tight into a green gimlet boring its way through the ground. You can't see how such a tiny blade can move away the dirt and climb out of the place where it was buried without breaking. If you just so much as touch it it goes to green gear and scum on your fingers. But at most over night the blades unroll and in arched pairs from the stalks and when you hold the two points together they make the figure of a heart.

Does Reuben feel the living things in the woods when he is all among the timber, and do the wet damp smells of the hollow and the intervals of silence in the inside of him he has found in there before? The way he looked up at me and the shine comes in and had just got back and was changing like he took each thing happy over it. Reuben's face keeps over the head of all the others is in something he or Baddy says, and he smiles at me to say, "You just see all the colors in a rainbow, not just the red. I don't though things have been happening so fast and so strange I can't get them all straight and I just sit out here in the night possessed by them and wondering what's going to happen next. I could nearly wish it might stay just the way it is. But it doesn't ever stay the way it is. The night itself goes on and reckons from the movement of the stars I ought to be back home. If you could just gather up an amount of an evening like this the way you do with honeysuckles and put it away to feed and look at after the moment is gone. It could be gathered up, and there were the other men to be cared for now that. The marking table very large. There was a York Burney whom Reuben had man, and there was Spar Darned who had come as a man. And there was red-headed and toothless Ezra Ferguson from above Horsepen. She knew how it would be but she did not dream of complaining or phrasing an inhospitable thought. She could hear his ax on the hill above the orchard clearing a sight through the trees for Reuben's compass, and then the voice of Reuben calling to Abreal to move the rod a little to his left.

I guess the corn and the sheep and the plums and Mother's peapoles can grow all right this spring without me looking after them. Himself without much help from anybody, but He leaves the kitchen and the beds to the women-folk, and if they don't do them, they don't get done. The Shellenbeger came again near the first of June, riding down Wolfpen on Nelson's mule and bringing Mullens with him. Mullens was a hard black man of forty, who had spent his years among the timber-lands of Pennsylvania as field manager and boss of the lumber camps. Shellenbeger had brought him in to supervise the whole process of getting out the timber.

RESETTLEMENT

Will the purchase of good land and the setting up of communities and homes on this land establish Federal islands which are exempt from local taxation.

Another Resettlement projects are necessary withdrawn from local taxation while the land involved is assembled under the construction of the project. Expenditures for construction and labor which are made during this period more than compensate the community for any temporary decrease in tax receipts. The project property again becomes taxable when the families have moved into their new homes, and the conveyance of the project has been made by the federal government to an incorporated association. The improvements brought about by the construction of Resettlement projects allowed the project properties to be assessed at a higher value than that obtained prior to the improvements. Taxes are paid in a lump sum by the corporations, the corporations in turn collecting the taxes in monthly installments from the homesteaders. The increase in the tax base will tend to balance any increase in the cost of local services.

The available evidence would indicate that the effect of resettlement communities in real estate values is very favorable. On a project in California all land was acquired by real estate developers and offered for sale in one-acre plots at twice the cost paid by the government for the land devoted to the project. The land adjoining a project in Washington now commands two and one-half times the price at its holdings.

Next week's question: "Is the RA moving families in large group from one part of the country to another?"

Christmas cake should be baked several weeks in advance and put away to ripen. The following recipe is approved by Miss Marie Barkley of the University of Kentucky home economics department.

- 3 pounds raisins
3 pounds currants
1/2 pound citron
1 pound dates, seeded
1/2 pound figs
1 pound butter
1 1/2 pounds brown sugar
1 1/2 pounds flour; brown 1 pound and use the half-pound plain

- dozen eggs
1/2 cup molasses with 1/2 teaspoon of soda dissolved in 1/2 teaspoon each of cloves and allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 nutmegs, grated
2 1/2 cups grape juice
Soak the fruit over night in one cup of the liquid. Line the cake mold, both sides and bottom with a layer of well greased paper. Cream the butter and sugar and add the eggs, four at a time, beating after each addition. Then add the browned flour, the grape juice, molasses and the white flour with the spices. The fruit is added last and thoroughly mixed. Place in a 12-pound mold and bake for six hours at 300 degrees.

For decoration, sprays may be used with candied fruit for the petals, citron for the leaves and angelica for the stems. They may also be baked in two, three or four-pound molds and when wrapped in cellophane paper with a sprig of Christmas greens, they make attractive gifts.

APPLE STICKS Children are often hungry and tired when they come home from school. Milk or fruit juice is good for them, or a "caramel apple on a stick." The following recipe is approved by Miss Marie Barkley of the University of Kentucky: one cup of white sugar, one cup of brown sugar, one-half cup of water and one-half cup of apples together until a small amount dropped in cold water will give a together. Stick a wooden skewer in each apple and dip it in the hot syrup. Drain on heavy waxed paper.

NEWS FROM THE ROWAN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Written Each Week By
MABEL ALFREY, Attendance Officer

SHARKY SCHOOL IS NOW IN ROWAN

The Sharky School just off the Flemingsburg road about a mile on the Sharky road is an ideal spot for a school building. The school building is very large including two good-sized cloak rooms. Last year this school was consolidated with a Fleming and Rowan County Children. There were two teachers. This year the Board of Education in Fleming made arrangements for the children in their county to be transferred to a school in their own county. Now this is a one teacher owned entirely by the county. There is a large enrollment and the day of my visit there were only three absent.

Sharky school won first prize in the Fair Parade for having the best banner. Their banner had a picture of a large shark after a key and was very original as well as artistic.

The room had a cozy appearance. Some of the larger children were cleaning the windows, getting them ready for new curtains. I found pictures, wall maps, newspaper reading stand, globe and many other useful things in the school room.

An incentive to keep up the attendance is the plan for a picnic this month for all who have been present, one day being allowed for a reasonable excuse. These children declare their intention though not of taking even a day, promising to come every day.

Miss Birchfield and the children are very proud of their school and extended me a very hearty invitation to visit them again soon.

MANY GOOD SUPPLIES

IN MOORE SCHOOL
The Moore School is off the Midland Trail about three miles, on the right and across the C. & O. Railroad at Farmers. The enrollment in this school is thirty-

one. The school room was in good condition, having new shades and new curtains, which were very colorful. There was a picture of Washington and one of Lincoln. The reading class was in progress. The reading was followed with questions concerning what the children had read. The questions were well chosen and there were well given responses.

There was a filing cabinet containing several units of work costing the teacher $50.00. This same work was found in the Minor school, and contains a very progressive type of work. There are units of work and pictures for most any subject taught. Also in this school there are a set of encyclopedias costing $49.00 which are very valuable and which are of great use in the higher grades. It shows the progressive spirit of any teacher who is willing to buy from her own money such expensive material for use in the school room. There was also a nice Bible, and a Webster's Dictionary.

The children who were on the honor roll were to receive presents the morning of my visit. They took great pride in showing them to me. Some of them were two Webster Dictionaries, a doll, a reading and arithmetic work book, and two autograph books. This was fine selection of presents and useful as being a reminder that their work had really been worth praising during the past month. I should think the parents of these children would be very happy if their children win one of these prizes.

ATTENDANCE IS KEEPING UP

The Ditney School reports no absences at all last week. This is an excellent report and one that many teachers could hand in if they would use incentives to bring these children into school. Now that working time is about over on the farms there should be no absences for even one day, only in the case of sickness. Mrs. Sue Colman is the teacher at the Ditney School. The Clark School is using a good incentive this month for attendance. The boys and girls play ball against each other every Friday with the parents as visitors. This creates an interest in the whole district, and makes the children want to come to school. In the same school but in the lower grades the children have elected captains. Each captain represents a certain side of the district. The captain's duty is to get those in school who are absent. Mr. Ernest Brown and Mrs. Lullie Hogge are the teachers.

The Wes Cox School works their attendance through Club Work. A club is organized there, and it is one of their pledges that they come every day to school. It was a pleasure to be at the club meeting at the Wes Cox School on Friday to talk with the members in a well organized way. We sang songs and talked about attendance and had a very pleasant afternoon. Judge Caudill will make a talk at the next meeting, which will be next Friday evening, and a pie supper will follow his talk.

The Perkins school taught by Clea Amburgy also reports perfect attendance, the past week. This has always been a district where the parents do not believe in absences. No teacher has ever any trouble with attendance in this school.

The following children were on the honor roll for the third month at the Carey School.

- Grade 1: Jewel Grayson, Delores Royle.
- Grade 3: Maxine Armstrong, Bertha Grayson, David Grayson, Jr.
- Grade 5: Esther Grayson, Albie Armstrong.
- Grade 7: Carrie Smith, Katherine Archer.

LITTLE BRUSHY SHOULD BE CALLED "BIG"

Nola Cooper, Teacher

Right on the Flemingsburg road near Henry Black's can be seen the Little Brushy school. It should be called Big instead of Little because there fifty-three children enrolled there. Miss Nola Cooper, the teacher feels like she really has a big job handling this many boys and girls. The people in the district stand by their school. They sponsored a pie supper which brought $10.00, the money to be spent for school supplies. The parents who have visited the school are Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Baumgardner, Mr. Black, Mrs. Andy Lewis, Mrs. Fosse Alderman, Mrs. Tylor Pence, Mrs. Clemmie Dalton, Mrs. Wheeler Uppert.

The Little Brushy School was well represented in the parade although the attendance was not perfect.

Miss Cooper is very proud of her desk and chair which is one of the best in any school. In looking around the room I saw many exhibits of the children's work, including a sample of their work of supplementary books and teacher's magazines. The floor was almost clean and the shades and curtains made the room have a homely appearance. There were chairs and tables for the little children. This is an improvement I find in almost all of the children in the small towns who find it very uncomfortable to sit in the old-fashioned desks with their feet swinging in the air.

I think any one who would like to stop at this school we morning would receive a hearty welcome.

WINNERS IN THE FAIR

The schools who worked hard and had all of the children in the parade based on the census and enrollment present in the Fair Parade were Carey, Upper Lick Fork, and McKenzie. These schools are especially well as the parents and children. The superintendent realizes that this showing on Fair Day meant much time, worry and labor on the part of the teachers. These schools not only have perfect attendance on Fair day, but if you will watch their attendance record in the news you will find they nearly always are high in attendance.

Carey School and the Upper Lick Fork school won the prize for having the most parents present in the Fair parade. Upper Lick Fork won first prize having thirty-three parents present and Carey twenty-three. This made a good showing for these schools and made other people realize that the parents in these two schools district were really interested in their schools.

NEW CLASSES BEGIN; OTHERS MAY START

Eastern Kentucky Covered By Various Morehead Prof.

The Extension Department of the college has been merged the past week with the Department of Personnel. According to Dr. J. D. Falls, head of both departments, a number of study centers will be organized throughout eastern and central Kentucky.

Dr. Terril and Prof. Fennell will have charge of those at West Liberty. Miss Carr and Prof. Fair will teach at Salyersville. To Ashland will go Miss Betty Robinson, Dr. Judd, and Prof. Peratt, while at Fullerton Dr. Black and Dr. Holtzclaw will conduct study groups.

Dr. Falls further stated that perhaps other centers will be organized at Grayson, Flemingsburg, Brooksville, and Mt. Sterling. Approximately 250 are enrolled at these various towns.

HAGGAN PAINTS LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BEGINNING

Cabinet Members Selected By Clubs; Amendment Offered.

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. which was held in the lobby of Thompson Hall Monday evening, Prof. H. C. Haggan gave a short summary of the history of the local Y. M. C. A. chapter. This chapter was organized twelve years ago by E. C. Nickell and H. C. Haggan.

A cabinet was selected by the members of the club, as follows: the chairman of music, Julian Dorsey, Prof. H. C. Haggan gave a short summary of the history of the local Y. M. C. A. chapter. This chapter was organized twelve years ago by E. C. Nickell and H. C. Haggan.

An amendment was added to the constitution which will make qualifications for membership more strict than in the past.

Boggess is to remain the club's mascot. Anna Ford, Dorothy Graves, Martha Estill, Ed Kiser, Mary Hammond, Thomas Paul, Bonnie Blair, Marie Miller, Betty Black, Sherman Henderson, Walton Holloway, and Ione Bays are the new club members—on probation—until they have submitted their talks or paintings. The club has started making miniature football men like those of last year's homecoming, which proved so popular on the campus. The proceeds from the sale of these men will be used in presenting to the college some work of art, and for a trip to the museum at Cincinnati.

Kentucky Story At Cozy Theatre

As many different versions of English are spoken in the United States as there are different languages in Europe.

Every part of the country has its own peculiar idiom and accent, according to Mrs. Mabel Belcher, dialect advisor on Walter Wanger's Technicolor production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which opens Sunday and Monday at the Cozy Theatre, with Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray, Henry Fonda and Fred Stone. A Kentucky mountain accent is spoken in the production.

"The large sections of the country have their own ways of accenting words," Mrs. Belcher declared. "They also have their own phrases and idioms. For the real student of the language, differences exist within a few miles of each other."

"For example, the Virginian speaks with rounded words while the Kentuckian speaks more softly, with a greater drawl and his voice seems to come from his throat."

The major difference in the American language and their peculiarities. Mrs. Belcher listed as: Nak England—hard; Down East—English accent; South—drawl and special idioms. Mountaineer—soft and with so many idioms it is almost a separate language. West—hard but drawing; Mid-West—shorten vowels; Northwest—similar to New England; Southwest—a mixture; Kentucky—Mid-Western accent spoken with a drawl.

It's the mountaineer accent that's spoken in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," for both the setting and story of the John Fox, Jr., classic are closely adhered to in the film. The tale of the warring Cumberland Mountain clans, and their impact with civilization when a young engineer arrives to build a railroad through their hills, is filmed in the natural outdoor colors, with a treatment designed to make color a subordinate, rather than a dominating factor in the screen play.

Mrs. T. F. Lyons visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lyons in Wellington, Sunday.

Duran Keel Phillips of Pineville, spent the week-end with his wife who is staying with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary J. Clarke and attending college this year.

Mrs. Neah Hall who has been quite seriously ill for the past ten days is somewhat improved. Mrs. Hall has been suffering from an attack of gall stones.

Mrs. Roy Vincell spent the week-end in Vanceburg where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Denhurn and family.

Mrs. Laura Clayton has just returned from St. Albans, W. Va., where she visited her son Ernest Clayton and family and Huntington, W. Va., where she visited her son, Russell, who is in the veterans' hospital there.

Mrs. R. L. Huntsman has been quite ill for the past week. She is slightly improved at present.

No one objects to life imprisonment if its confined by bedlock.
