Open Floor

Matt Tackett: Is there a way to change when maintenance decides to turn the heat on? Fields and Mignon Tower are awful.

-Shannon Colvin: I don't know if there is any way for us to impact this because they have a set general time as to when they turn it off, according to weather.

-Emily Wiley: The rule is after two or three weeks of cold weather they turn it on and once you turn it on it is very tough to get it turned off, but we can talk to Kim to see if we can do anything.

Connor Tilford: Could they send something out in advance letting students know when the heat will be turned on.

Emily Wiley: Eagle flight school will be opened up to SGA next semester, if you are interested in mentoring with someone in your field.
