Eagles Come From Behind To Tie Score

Morehead came from behind in the last six minutes Saturday to tie a surprisingly strong Union eleven 6 and 6 and save 2,500 Homecoming from witnessing a defeat. The hands of a team that the Eagles should have trimmed with ease.

Wyant, carrying the ball on successive plays, spun, and side-stepped his way to a touchdown in the closing minutes of the final quarter for the Eagles' markers. Union had combined a short-kick, and a pass from Sullivan to Sturfa to open the scoring in the second canto.

Eagles Better Team
The Blue and Gold was by far the better outfit. The Eagles rang up ten first downs to two for the Bulldogs, but muffed the ball when in scoring territory. The Unionites however, had the best of the punting and passing.

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd Is Making Great Record

Far Ahead Of Number Set For Month Of October.

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd spent the weekend in Morehead, attending the football game Saturday afternoon and taking part in the homecoming program in the evening. Dr. Lloyd, who is head of the history department in the Morehead State Teachers College, is on leave of absence from his duties here in order that he might assist the state administration in developing the Welfare Department set up by the last General Assembly.

Dr. Lloyd since going to Frankfort to take charge of the Old Age Assistance Division of the Department of Public Welfare, has made an enviable record for himself and his division. When he took charge about the middle of August, not a single grant had been made. He set a goal at one thousand by October 1, and the welfare workers said it was impossible, it could not be done. But under Dr. Lloyd's direction, it was done and more. His present goal is 2,000 by November 1. He believes it can be done.

The final report of the Grand Jury of the October term of court was submitted to the Circuit court Judge, D. B. Caudill after the jury was in session for 8 days. They returned 51 indictments.

The report was the mildest in several years. Chiefly it stressed the need and importance of the court giving attention to the unsanitary condition of the toilets at the court house, and urged that action be taken if the condition is not improved.

The following is the report in full:
To Hon. D. B. Caudill, Circuit Judge:
We have been in session 8 days and have presented in open court 51 indictments. We have endeavored to examine the conditions throughout the county concerning

Vikings Lose To Olive Hill Comets

Play Best Game Of Season Only To Lose By 13-0.

The Vikings stuck in the mud at Olive Hill last Friday and the Comets blazed two touchdowns to win the annual game 13 to 0.

The charges of Coach Holbrook played the best game of their careers and clearly showed what a little football experience can do to a squad that wants to play football. Morehead has green but willing material and has shown steady improvement in every game.

Playing in mud was new experience to the Vikings and they took it like a duck to water and held the vaunted Comets at bay except on two plays that netted

First Game Of Year Is Credited To Little Ones.

It took the Vikinglets from Morehead Junior High to register the first win of the season for any Morehead football team, when on Tuesday of this week they took the Olive Hill Junior Comets for a ride, the score being 13-0, exactly the opposite of the score turned in by their bigger brothers last Friday when the Comets, Sr., won the Vikings by the same score, 13-0.

The Vikinglets opened the game and turned in what, to the gaping audience looked like an almost perfect game of football. They failed to fumble, they put up a game

Gas Turned On In Units Of City

Meters Being Installed Where Units Have Been Fished.

Gas installations are being made this week in sections of Morehead, with meters being set and stoves in the ready for the first gas to flow through the pipes. The work is instigated by the city under WPA construction. The gas is being made available in the units that have already been completed, and prospective consumers are manifesting considerable interest in installing equipment that will make the gas a household necessity.

As soon as the meters are installed the gas will be turned on in those units that have already been completed. Other units will be completed at the earliest possible moment and the gas will then be turned on in those units. At present the city is experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining materials necessary to carry on the work.

That explains the reason why the work is not progressing more rapidly. It is hoped, however, as soon as the present units begin to produce revenue to devote the greater part of this revenue to the purchase of material, thus carrying the work to a great extent.

Old Students And Grads Return To Scenes Of Yesterday.

DANCE CLOSURES PROGRAM

Homecoming Day last Saturday was a real occasion in Morehead and particularly in the Morehead State Teachers College, in spite of the rain which threatened to mar the day, and which undoubtedly did prevent a number of old grads from being present.

The morning was spent in registration and in visiting among the visitors and faculty and students. The faculty held an informal reception throughout the morning in the halls and corridors of the administration building, while groups about the campus testified that the visitors were enjoying themselves.

The highlights of the day's reunion were, of course the football game in the afternoon when the Eagles came from behind to tie the rejuvenated Union Bulldogs. The crowd was the largest ever gathered in Morehead to witness a football game, and was conservatively estimated at 2,500.

At six o'clock the annual Homecoming banquet was held in the cafeteria which was taxed to capacity to accommodate the crowd. The feature of the program was a talk by Coach Ellis Johnson, who, while making no wild promises of developing a world beating team out of the Eagles did give assurance that his boys would be in there fighting all the time and that they would win some games this season was over. As a whole, the crowd was enthusiastic over the showing the Eagles have made in the three games they have played.

The day's program closed with the annual Homecoming ball held in the college gymnasium, a ball which continued until one o'clock and was attended by a huge crowd who thoroughly enjoyed every minute.

Featured at the dinner was a musical program furnished by Earl King Senff, Mrs. Earl King Senff, Linda Lee Eaton and George Young. Miss Eaton held the crowd with her tap dancing.

Of peculiar interest to Morehead was the excellent performance of the Morehead College band, directed by Prof. M. E. George. Mr. George has in the past few years organized the band into a musical organization of great quality and deserves considerable praise for the results of his efforts. Miss Eaton who is drum major of the organization, drew the plaudits of the crowd for her exhibition.

We Believe In Democracy

An Editorial by Franklin D. Roosevelt

OF ALL the nations of the world today, we are in many ways most singularly blessed. Our closest neighbors are good neighbors. If there are remoter nations that wish us not good but ill, they know that we are strong; they know that we can and will defend ourselves and defend our neighborhood.

We seek to dominate no other nation. We ask no territorial expansion. We oppose imperialism. We desire reduction in world armaments.

We believe in democracy; we believe in freedom; we believe in peace. We offer to every nation of the world the handclasp of the good neighbor. Let those who wish our friendship look us in the eye and take our hand.

We shun political commitments which might entangle us in foreign wars; we avoid connection with the political activities of the League of Nations; but I am glad to say that we have cooperated wholeheartedly in the social and humanitarian work at Geneva.

We are not isolationists except in so far as we seek to isolate ourselves completely from war. Yet we must remember that so long as war exists on earth there will be some danger that even the nation which most ardently desires peace may be drawn into war.

I have seen war. I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from the wounded. I have seen the dead. I have seen cities destroyed. I have seen children starving. I have seen the agony of mothers and wives. I have seen war.

I have passed unnumbered hours. I shall pass unnumbered hours, thinking and planning how war may be kept from this nation.

In one field, that of economic barriers, the American policy may be, I hope, of some assistance in discouraging the economic source of war. Trade agreements which we are making are not only finding outlets for the products of American fields and factories, but are also pointing the way to the elimination of embargoes, quotas and other devices which place such pressure on nations that to them the price of peace seems less terrible than the price of war.

FOLKS PAID THEIR BILLS BETTER THIS PAST JULY

Payments on open-credit accounts receivable of department stores were made at a higher rate during July of this year than in July 1935, while there was a seasonal decline from June to July of this year, according to a report just received by the Louisville District Office of the Commercial Department. The installment collection rate was higher than in July of last year with a slight seasonal decline from June to July of this year evidenced. The data on retail collection conditions are based on the credit operations of a representative group of more than 400 department stores reporting on open accounts and over 250 reporting on installment accounts, well distributed through out the 12 districts of the Federal Reserve System.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kasez, Pastor of Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: Love. The Law of Life. Acts 18:1-4; I Cor. 13:1-3. GOLDEN TEXT: "And now abideth faith, hope, and charity these three, but the greatest of these is charity." I Cor. 13:13.

Paul came from Athens to Corinth, the most wicked town in that whole country. He found a wealthy, flourishing city, and men of often wickedness and wealth go together. Could he find opportunity to witness in such a place? Would he be able to do so and remain alive? Many Jews had come there, and they were bitter against Paul. But he found some friends there. Aquila and his good wife, Priscilla, who had become Christians before long. Perhaps Paul led them to accept Christ. The Jews had to labor for his living, and this acquiesced ance gave him the needed opportunity to work with these good people. Their friendship grew into a great bond of love. The synagogue was open to them on the Sabbath, and Paul ministered with the Jews there. Then came Silas and Timothy with glowing reports of the churches of Macedonia and bringing provisions from these churches. He could then give more time to preaching. The Jews finally became embittered, and rose up against the preachers. Paul definitely turned from them to the Gentiles. He moved into the house of Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, who believed in the Lord with his household, and who lived next door to the synagogue. This was too much for the Jews to have this rivalry so close. Paul was brought to trial before Gallio, who silenced the Jews immediately. Paul and other Christian preachers free to preach where they would.

It was to these Corinthian brethren that Paul wrote the beautiful chapter on love later on. Out of his experiences here he was able to see that love is the most priceless thing in the world. It is better than tongues, prophecy, wisdom, faith, knowledge, philanthropy, martyrdom. All these great things lose their effectiveness when there is no love. He tells us that love does not possess, envy, vaunting, self-esteem, selfishness, anger, unkind thoughts, or evil. He says that love is gentle in behaviour, gracious, kind, useful, patient, long suffering, neither jealous nor envious, does not play the braggart, is not puffed up like a load, is not indecent, is not irritable, does not count up wrongs, does not find joy in the triumph of evil. It rejoices in truth, persevering, loyal, is hopeful, enduring. Love covers, protects, forbears. Love is not gullible, but believes in others. Everything but love is perishable. It survives everything. It is the one thing that will last through eternity. Prophecy, tongues and knowledge will fail, but love is transitory, but love lives on. We would all do well to build our lives around love. It is hard to do. No one can do it without the power of Christ working within. In our natural selves we cannot love as Christians do. But with Christ in complete control of our lives, we can love even those who despise us, even as he did. The victory of life is love and it is won through faith in Christ who loved us and gave Himself for us.

MABEL ALFREY, Attendance Officer

ATTENDANCE NOT AS HIGH AS EXPECTED

The attendance for the past month has not been as high as it should be. In extreme cases a few days was allowed for children who had to work with cutting corn and making molasses. Had weather work is over every child in Rowan County is expected to be in school every day except in case of sickness. Working at home will be no excuse for this work can be done on nights and mornings. Bad weather is never an excuse for children. Clothes should not be an excuse since most every person has work. In cases where children do not have sufficient clothing the teacher and attendance officer should be notified. We will see what we can do about it. I am going to try to be fair with every parent, and mean to treat all alike. I am expecting you to cooperate with me in keeping these children in school. The Superintendent is expecting this of you. The teachers are also anxious that the children do not be absent. I am most interested of all, because it is my sworn duty to see that every child in the county is in school and I will try to fulfill my oath, but an expecting the parents to cooperate with me one hundred per cent.

MANY HAVE PERFECT ATTENDANCE AT MOORE

The following students have not been absent this year from the Moore school.
Eula Foster, Lucille Roberts, Marie McClurg, Kathleen Morris, Norma Jean Burrows, Clarence McClurg, and Ter' Wages.
The work in this school is made very interesting. The sixth grade is working on a unit on Great Britain. They have a great deal of material along this line of work and the children are really interested.

11 OF MOREHEAD SHOWS LOYALTY

The Beginners in the Morehead Consolidated school have a school bank. They call it their "Football Loyalty Bank." The money they deposit in the bank goes to the Athletic Association for the upkeep of the teams. The three children who were most loyal to their team this period were Donald Howard, Bill Battson, and George Dewey Alfrey. The amount deposited by the different children of the room amounted to $3.04. This is one of the best methods to use in collecting money for the ball team since each room must make so much money during the year. It not only teaches them loyalty, but saving as well. These youngsters take a great interest in their bank. A chart is made and when a nickel is deposited a large star is given and a small star when a penny is deposited. This plan might be tried in some of the other schools to raise money for various things.

The Beginners having a perfect attendance record for the first period are: Irvin Branham, Pat Caudill, Clifford Harmon, Donald Howard, O. L. Robinson, Dickie Ferguson, Lyndon Willoughby, Kenneth Hamm, Joan Baldrige, Juanita Blair, Joan Cranfill, Lella Davis, Clelia Davis, Juanita Davis, Minnie Day, Peggie Kissinger, Billie Joe Robinson, Eulene White, and Helen Downs.

Perhaps the work they are doing has something to do with the attendance record. They are working on a "Mother Goose Party" play and hope to give it in chapel soon. This will be a culminating activity for the Mother Goose unit on which they have been working.

Reulah Williams is the teacher.

CAREY SCHOOL SHOWS NEAT APPEARANCE

The Carey School about three miles from Farmers is on a high hill, but has a large rolling playground, and a good building. The building has recently been painted on the inside. The colors are white and tan. New shades have been bought for the windows. An organ has also been purchased this year which is a valuable asset to the music program. The children are working on Bible verses. When thirteen have been memorized they are presented with a Bible. The room is attractive with examples of the children's work. A home unit is in progress in the lower grades and an Indian unit is being started for the Upper grades. Mrs. Lowe has organized a P. T. A. in her school. On Thursday the parents met for their regular session. The school children gave an autumn program. After the program a quilt on which chances had been sold was given away. Mrs. Loux was the lucky person to receive the quilt school spirit when she again presented the quilt to the school to be sold again. They have $11.00 in the treasury. A sanitary water fountain has been ordered for the school so that all children alike may enjoy the clean bubbling water which is always a problem in every school using buckets and cups.

The children entertained Mrs. Glen Gayhart and me with some songs and recitations. The girls who were twins played the organ and sang. They have real talent and Mrs. Lowe is helping them to realize this fact. She says that the Sharky school may boast of two sets of twins but she knows that they are not as fine as her own set.

This school is very fortunate to have had Miss Mary Draper from Philadelphia to come and talk to the children two mornings and tell them stories. Miss Draper, who was a guest of Miss Loux, has charge of the Children's Hour in a library in Philadelphia. She chooses stories to tell children according to their interests.

THE FARM AND HOME

Moths are numerous in the house during the fall months, and may fly about and lay eggs most of the winter. Woolen coats and blankets, therefore, should be brushed, beaten and sunned frequently to dislodge eggs that may have been laid in them.

In substituting honey for sugar in recipes it is necessary to reduce the amount of liquid used. If medium-thick honey is used in cakes or quick bread, reduce the liquid a fourth. If honey is substituted for all the sugar, reduce the liquid one-half.

Sulfate of ammonia or nitrate of soda is used on lawns in the fall at the rate of a pound per square foot. It is best to make the application just before rain, as the use in dry weather may burn the grass. Mixing with sand or dry soil makes for even distribution.

If no other form of animal protein is fed, laying hens should consume skim milk or butter milk at the rate of a gallon daily per 25 of the general purpose breeds or 30 Lehighers. Orm water when feeding this amount of milk.

Black locust is one of the fastest growing hardwood trees. Under favorable conditions, it yields four to five cords of wood per acre. Seedlings may be planted in the fall, although spring is considered the best time to plant locust.

The value of mulching is generally not appreciated. It prevents leaching, preserves moisture, suppresses the growth of grass and weeds and supplies nitrogen and other nutrients. It is especially beneficial to flower gardens and vegetable gardens. A heavy winter mulch helps to make a mellow rich soil in the spring.

Foods to increase weight: pork, butter, cheese, cream, dates, fried eggs, nuts, sugar and whole milk. Foods to decrease weight: soup made without fat, greens, fresh fruits, except bananas, and skimmed milk or buttermilk.

The percentage of fat in a cow's milk is controlled by inheritance and not by food. She may be so fed as to give more milk, and therefore a larger amount of fat, but the ratio of fat to milk cannot be raised by rich feeds.

Damp and poorly ventilated houses, drafts and overcrowding cause colds among poultry in the fall. Clean warm and sunny quarters are necessary for health and egg production. Watch the birds carefully for appearance of disease in the cold, damp weather.

Children enjoy eggs scrambled, hard cooked and served with white sauce, or made into omelets. These are welcome variations from the common methods of poaching, soft cooking and omelette.

In some instances two-thirds of the original weight of tobacco is lost by the evaporation of water.

THE English language is capable of some odd paradoxes, as is illustrated by the following sentences:

"When the crash occurred the pilot was in charge of the ship."
"When the crash occurred the ship was in charge of the pilot."
Each of the two sentences is factually and grammatically correct. Their meaning is clear. Both tell the reader that the ship was being directed by the pilot when the crash occurred. But if the phrase "in charge of" is given exactly the same sense in both sentences, the latter sentence will actually say that when the crash occurred the ship was directing the pilot. Our minds subconsciously make the necessary distinction between the sense in which the same phrase is used in the two sentences.

THERE is no sure sign of careless writing than the abuse of "and which." "And which" can be used correctly, but even so it usually makes an awkward sentence. When used as in the following sentence it is not only incorrect but ridiculous, for what the writer is saying is that it was the bone that slunk off with its tail between its legs.

"We stumbled over a dog gnawing a bone, and which slunk off with its tail between its legs."

"Between" and "among" are often confused. The former should refer to two persons or things; the latter to more than two.

"The candy was divided between the two children."
"The candy was divided among the five children."

(Continued From Page One) violations of the law and where evidence authorized have reported true bills. Many violations have been committed but we believe they have all been taken care of by appropriate indictments which have been presented in Court.

We notice the work of the court has been active and many cases disposed of which we approve.

We have examined the public property and we find the Court House and Court Room and roof in need of paper and putting in proper condition. The toilet connections in the Court House are in a foul and bad condition. With a water system such as we have in the city of Morehead there is no excuse for these conveniences being left in that unsanitary condition and we recommend that at once the authorities take immediate steps to correct this bad condition and if that is not done, that appropriate rule be taken in order that this Court may have control of it and cause same to be done.

Nothing else coming before our body that we feel of sufficient importance to bring to the attention of the court, we respectfully submit this as our final report.

Kentucky Needs Roosevelt

Kentuckians _ _ _ and the citizens of other States should be grateful to Franklin D. Roosevelt not only because of humane and progressive social security legislation but because of the conversion of deep despair and economic chaos into confidence and orderly prosperity.

IN 1932 — UNDER HOOVER

Frantic home-owners could not pay their mortgage interest — sometimes 8 or even 12 per cent.

Banks were staggering under a weight of "frozen" loans, loaded with unsaleable real estate.

Banks were failing at the rate of 100 a month. Bank deposits were not protected.

Business, unable to get credit, piled up 25,000 bankruptcies in 1932.

Kentucky factories were closing and cutting off men periodically.

Educators were conferring about plans to save the educational system from collapse as revenues shrank.

Wheat was 48 cents a bushel, corn 24 cents. It cost more to raise stock than it brought at market.

The family automobile rusted in the barn—no money for gas.

Some 900,000 farms were sold by foreclosure or for unpaid taxes.

Farm Income Dropped Under 4 1-2 Billion In 1932

IN 1935 — UNDER ROOSEVELT

Home Owners' Loan Corporation restored 1,000,749 homes to their owners. F. C. A. saved a half million more.

In June, 1933, mortgages were foreclosed at the rate of 1,000 a day; in March, 1936, foreclosures were lowest in 5 years.

By paying $225,000,000 in back taxes, Home Owners' Loan Corporation enabled towns and counties to continue schools and other public services.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation advances of $75,000,000 for home repair benefited workmen, contractors and dealers.

Farmers have saved over 20 million in annual interest charges on loans refinanced by F. C. A.

The exchange of liquid government-guaranteed bonds for frozen mortgages has protected the savings of 50,000,000 people invested in real estate by banks, insurance and loan companies.

Dollar wheat is back and corn tripled in price.

New automobiles carry the farmer to a market where his stock sells at a profitable figure.

Not a single bank failure in the entire Nation in 1936, for the first time in 55 years. Bank savings are protected by Federal deposit insurance.

Educators are teaching in better equipped, modern buildings than any time in history.

As the farmer's income has increased, the business of every merchant, large or small, has grown.

Fear has banished; hope has returned and the feet of the Nation set definitely on the road to abundant prosperity.

Farm Cash Income Rose 2 1-2 Billion In 1935

We urge all kentuckians, men and women Democrats and Republicans, to vote for President Roosevelt and those who will help him—Senator M. M. Logan and the State's Democratic Congressmen.

Have Made Several Trips To Nearby Towns And Localities

The Morehead State Teachers College Field Band, Marvin E. George, director, is assisting in the "Advertise Morehead" campaign this semester. They are making several trips to nearby localities in addition to appearing at the football games here.

Friday the band traveled to the parade of the Lewis county school fair. They also marched at West Liberty recently and contemplated several other trips. In the most important of these the band will accompany the football team to Eastern State Teachers College.

The band will march during the half of today's Homecoming game and will present several new drills.

According to reports, the band is creating very favorable impressions of Morehead with its new military style blue uniforms and white-clothed, band-leading, drum major.

Five New Members Are Admitted: Is Last Opportunity.

At the regular meeting of the Lloyd Debate Club Tuesday night, five new members were admitted. One is a cadet in the army, George Caywood; another is a student instructor in a dummy class, Walter Halloway; a third is of the army of typewriter founders, Philip Porter; the remaining two are members of the female sex, Esther Blackburn, and Teresa Kubal.

In addition, an amendment was passed to have the meeting on the second and fourth Thursday so as to avoid a conflict with the Good Manners Class.

The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday evening, October 22.

MILLER SPEAKS ON "LIFE'S PHILOSOPHY"

Theme Is "You Can't Hope For Success: You Must Hunt."

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held last Wednesday night in Thompson Hall, Dr. F. B. Miller gave a talk on philosophy to be used in life.

Dr. Miller's main theme was: "You can't hope for success—you have to hop for it." He gave some very interesting statistics on the number of persons teaching. He said that there were thirty-three million attending school; twenty-three million of these are attending elementary school. Between six and seven million are attending high school, and one million are going to institutions of higher learning. To teach these there are one million eighteen thousand teachers, he stated.

"GOOD MANNERS" CLASS

Miss Carr made a very interesting and useful talk on "Traveling Etiquette" to a large crowd that on Monday, October 18, at convocation, Catherine D. Carr, according to chairman of the convocation committee, will give a travel talk.

Miss Carr recently returned from a vacation at her home in South Basbae, England.

She discussed these problems that confront a traveler: the "how," "when," and "how much" of tipping, proper procedure of entering doors of hotels, restaurants, clubs, and trains with an escort; the correct way to obtain meals, personal favors, and mail in hotels; the accepted mode of dining out; and the conventional dress on board ship.

"It has been my experience," said Miss Carr, "that it pays one to keep his eyes opened and his mouth closed when traveling."

Chapel of Friday, October 16, was turned over to Professor G. C. Banks who delivered an address on India.

Miss Draper will also lean them any book upon a letter from them giving her the list they want. I am sure the whole community are thankful for the visit of Miss Draper and the interest she has taken in the children and the Carey School.

After school was dismissed Mrs. Lowe took us to one of the homes on the hills until we came to an ideal place for a farm house on top of a knoll. Just to look around this home it looked to be just an ordinary farm-house but on entering the tale we began to see things. The house had been remodelled according to the wishes of Miss Loux who has come from Philadelphia to build here her ideal home and to rest after spending many years as a business woman in Philadelphia. There has been much work done here since it was purchased six years ago. Three log cabins have been built, trails bordered have been built in all directions from the house and lined with pine. Over the hill is a tennis court. One of the cabins contains the most wonderful library I have ever seen, books by many authors, an oil painting, and many other valuable things. The place is a whole education in itself. Miss Loux is interested in education and takes a great interest in the Carey School.

"You are welcome, Julia said. Mullens looked out from under his deep black eyebrows and did not say anything.

Just sit down on the porch. The menfolk are still surveying. They ought to be in any minute now, Julia said.

Julia arranged the chairs a little closer together on each side and added two plates for the strangers.

Five extra menfolk makes the work heavier, Cynthia said.

It's nothing for womenfolk to excite themselves over, Julia said. But the work has greater and harder, and its demands and the coming of the heat, and extra washing and ironing, cooking and dish-washing and the usual excitement were tiring to Julia and Cynthia, and Julia was finding it hard to get time and strength to keep her garden neat. Neither were the fields so frequently and carefully worked this spring.

Julia saw these things and Sparrel saw them. But they had guests and they were selling land.

There was much talk among the menfolk in the yard after supper.

"How is the survey getting on?" Shellenberger asked.

"All right," Reuben said. Some days we run a great deal when the level, or not too grown up and the marks can be found. Other times we spend most of a day trying to get one straight line up and down a hill to a corner we can be certain of. But it gets on as well as common.

"When will you get around it?" "I couldn't say about that. These deeds give no course and only an approximate distance, so we have to feel our way along. Maybe two or three months, more or less."

Then he came into the kitchen, where Cynthia was washing dishes to get his map to show Shellenberger.

It was the first time since he came to Wolfpen that he had been alone with her. Cynthia was actually aware of his presence.

"I guess I can show him better than I can tell him," Reuben said, lifting the thumbtacks with the blade of his knife.

"I guess you'll have plenty of help tomorrow."

"Yes, I reckon. Are those men going to stay here, too?"

"I guess Mother is fixing up another bed in your room for them. I don't reckon you mind them being there."

"Not at all. Only, I'm afraid we're making too much work for you with all these extra people to cook for and look after. We don't want to overdo your hospitality."

"It isn't much more," she murmured simply. And then, when he was gone out to the men: "He's the politest man that ever I saw in my life in kind words. But that hard black man, I don't like him, and I'm glad Reuben Warren is one of the men, and not just that Shellenberger and his man who doesn't say anything." And she was less tired because of the gentle words of Reuben.

And today we went over this ridge which you crossed farther North about there, and we ought to reach the watershed tomorrow and turn northwest and parallel Cannon Creek into the territory you want to buy."

Cynthia could see him in the last visible twilight, pointing with his pencil while Sparrel held the other end of the brown paper and Shellenberger and the dark man looked on.

"These are the creeks I have sketched in, just roughly indicating how they radiate into Wolfpen. As Reuben pointed and explained, Shellenberger twirled his cigar and said, "I see. . . I see."

Looks good to me, Mr. Pattern. I've fixed one for the two men in the ground with my field man here and begin to get the lay-out planned a bit so we can get to work as soon as possible. I suppose you can put us up for a few days until we can see where we are? Of course I'll pay you for lodging.

People had come and gone in Wolfpen through the century. They had eaten at the Pattern house, they had slept in Pattern beds, and their mules had been stabled in the Pattern barn. But no man, not even a peddler or a drover, had ever paid for a lodging, or given coin in exchange for a meal. Without hesitation, Sparrel had taken the only custom he knew for men to make by their own hands.

Stay here and welcome, but there isn't any charge when a man comes to your house."

"Then suppose we just give the money to the women," Shellenberger said.

Cynthia heard from the kitchen where she was hanging up the pan. The thought of pay for cooking for menfolk had never occurred to her before. But when Shellenberger mentioned it, the thought grew less strange and remote, and as it stayed with her there in the kitchen, the thought of having money of her own for her work became attractive. "It's only because it's no fun to mix bread and say to yourself, 'This is for that Shellenberger and his black-eyed helper, so if they want to give money for it maybe they ought to give it. Only you don't think about it when you give the money for Reuben's cooking for a man? I just reckon this spring everything is all twisted a round till a body can't recognize the way things are."

"For we'll be extra trouble and I'd feel more like asking for what I want if I pay for it," Shellenberger was saying.

Sparrel dropped it there. They sat on the porch listening while Shellenberger told of his return to Pittsburgh and of the business and the bustle of the great world beyond the hills.

"We're on the edge of great things in the Ohio valley," Shellenberger said.

"I reckon it all depends on just what a man wants in this world," Saul and Barton and Travis Pattern found building a place like this a great thing. And it's been a good place to live," Sparrel said.

"Sure, Shellenberger agreed. But a thing can't just stay one way, you know. We have to go on with progress."

Julia came quietly to the porch, saying, "The beds are ready, and I've fixed one for the two men in the ground with my field man here and begin to get the lay-out planned a bit so we can get to work as soon as possible. I suppose you can put us up for a few days until we can see where we are? Of course I'll pay you for lodging."

June Is a Fritter Fiend

Young Hollywood Star Gives Favorite Recipes
By Mabel Love

JUNE TRAVIS, who has been winning new laurels by her performance in "Zaibacq," is one of the most charming members of Hollywood's group of younger screen actresses. She is also what might be called a fritter fiend. When it comes to making fritters she claims that she is a real authority, and to prove it she stands ready to take on all comers who think they can out-do her in the fritter line.

One of the favorite recipes of this young Warner Brothers star is for a pineapple fritter which she says is particularly good when served with chops, ham or veal steak, or a curry dish. Here is her recipe for it.

- Royal Fritters
- 1 No. 3 can Hawaiian pineapple sliced in apple-like shape
 - 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 to 1 egg
 - 3 tablespoons powdered sugar
- Drain and dry the pineapple slices with absorbent paper or a fresh tea towel. Sift flour, salt and baking powder; stir in well-beaten egg and milk. This batter should be just thick enough to coat the pineapple. Heat fat (about 1 quart) in a deep, flat bottom pan to 350 or 375 F., or until a cube of bread browns in about 60 seconds. Then dip pineapple in batter and fry in deep fat 2 or 3 minutes until a golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with powdered sugar before serving. June also gives a recipe for a sauce which she says is delicious for serving either with fritters or puddings.
- 2 cups canned Hawaiian pineapple juice
 - Lemon rind
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - Juice of 1 lemon
 - 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 - 1 teaspoon water
- Boil the pineapple juice with a piece of lemon rind. In another pan melt the sugar to a golden brown color, then add the pineapple juice and boil for a few minutes. Stir cornstarch with water and add sauce to thicken it. Boil for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, and strain. This sauce may be served hot or cold.
