

QUIET HOSTILITY.

Beautiful State of Outlawry Prevailing in Rowan County, Kentucky.

MT. STERLING, Ky., July 9.—No outbreak yesterday, but Cook Humphrey, H. M. Logan and five or six tough allies paraded the streets, armed with shotguns, swearing that death will reward any attempt to capture the Logans.

Craig Toliver has left town, but only temporarily, it is believed, and for the purpose of securing arms and men to prosecute the war more vigorously. Sheriff Rainey has asked the governor for militia, but no answer has been given. Logan has also driven the sheriff out of town by threats of killing him on sight.
