

Hogs Furnish 8 1/2 Per Cent Of Farm Cash In Kentucky

Although classed as a major farm enterprise in only a few counties of the state, hogs still account for 8 1/2 per cent of the total cash income of farmers in Kentucky, according to a new bulletin of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Hogs furnish 19 per cent of the total income from livestock.

The cash income from hogs, the bulletin points out, does not show the full importance of hog raising in the state, since a large proportion of the hogs are consumed on the farms. During the 10-year period, 1929 to 1936, the gross income from hogs in Kentucky averaged $20,954,000, while the cash income averaged only $11,038,000.

In 1937 Kentucky was one of the leading hog-producing states, raising more than 7 per cent of all hogs produced in the United States. Now it raises only about 2 per cent of the total production.

Commercial production is confined largely to the corn growing counties of Henderson, Davies, Unicoi, Webster and McLean, the counties along the Mississippi river, and to Barren, Warren, Simpson and a few other counties.

In much of the state insufficient corn is grown to make commercial hog raising profitable. A considerable number of feeder pigs are produced in the Bluegrass region.

The bulletin, which reports a study made by C. D. Phillips of the department of markets and rural finance, deals with the production of hogs and the general development of hog production in Kentucky.

Winter Storage For Vegetables

The temperature for cool crops is not critical, merely it should be above freezing, that of sweetpotatoes, typical warm crop, depends on the soil. It should be held rigidly to 50 degrees. The same is true of humidity; whereas that in white potato storage may range between wide limits, the atmosphere in a sweetpotato house must be held distinctly dry.

The site of a sweetpotato house should be such that it is not inconvenient to visit it frequently. Preferably, too, it should be in the lee of another building, to serve as windbreak. No excavation is needed, but the house should stand on posts, about two feet above ground. For permanence, these should be built of concrete.

The walls of the house are framed of two-by-four studs, 16 or 24 inches apart. On each face, a thickness of sheeting is nailed and covered with building paper. The wall is then lined with matched T & G ceiling, and the outer side is covered with weatherboard or good plank, the joints stripped. The walls should be about nine feet high, at the eaves.

On the floor joists sheeting should be nailed, then a thickness of paper placed, and the floor finished in matched T & G flooring. The roof should be peaked, the rafters covered with good plank and then with roofing material. To the bottoms of the rafters the ceiling may be attached direct, or a false ceiling may be made. It should consist of sheeting and paper, finished in T & G ceiling.

The entrance door opening should be placed on the leeward side of the house, and fitted with two full doors. The window opening should be placed on the inside, and a wooden shutter cut to the outside.

A stove should be set up, complete with a flue, or a coal-oil burner may be used, especially in small houses. Also, in the ceiling an opening should be provided through the roof, to receive a vent whose area in square inches is that of the floor in square feet. The vent should be capable of being closed tightly.

In the floor, close to the stove an opening should be made of the same size as the outlet and likewise arranged to close it.

A fairly good thermometer should be hung just in side the door, shoulder high.

In this house, the same principles apply as in the storage rooms discussed in the past weeks. Moist air rises through the ceiling vent, and dry air flows in through the ceiling vent, and dry air flows in through the vent in the floor. Thus, while sweetpotatoes are curing, that is to say, passing off their excess moisture, both vents are kept open and enough fire is kept in the stove to hold the temperature at 85 degrees.

Curing is complete when the potatoes begin to sprout. Then the vents are closed, the fire reduced or let go out to hold the temperature at 50 degrees. But even after they are "cured" sweetpotatoes pass off moisture.

This is noticeable on the ceiling both vents should be opened and kept open until the ceiling is dry again, the stove should be kept burning to hold the 50 degree temperature.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

The registered calves bought and fattened by Wayne county 4-H club members were raised in the county.

Sidney Calk, operator of a

Woodford county farm, threshed 60 bushels of red clover seed from 12 acres.

Approximately 5,000 ewes were brought into Mercer county to range in Mercer county.

WONDERS Abound In KENTUCKY!

What you haven't seen of Kentucky's wonders would probably fill weeks of pleasure! When you go to see things that are not in Louisville, it means, of course, that we'll miss seeing you at The Brown. But still we say: Above all, see ALL of Kentucky! . . . Doubtless you've been to Mammoth Cave . . . and Harrodsburg's Fort Harrod . . . and Hodgenville's Lincoln Memorial. Have you also seen Pine Mountain State Park near Pineville, and the ancient buried city at Wickliffe? . . . Wonders never cease in Kentucky! First and foremost, let's all know and be proud of our own wonderful State!

- Plan to See:
- Fulton County—Radfords Lake, formed by earthquake—opposum's paradise.
 - Harrison County—Scene of two Civil War battles at Oymbine.
 - Hart County—Mammoth Caves, Hidden River Caves, Floyd Collins' Crystal Cave.
 - Jessamine County—High Bridge, one of the most scenic points in the State. Camp Nelson and National Cemetery, 8 1/2 miles from Nicholasville.
 - Knox County—Barboursville, Site of first known cabin built by white settlers.
 - Letcher County—Crested Springs, where Wilderness Trail, made by the early settlers, headed.
 - Madison County—Boonville, first established by Daniel Boone in 1775, also Stone College.
 - McCrory and Whitley Counties—Cumberland Falls, comparable only to Niagara Falls in the United States. It has a drop of 75 feet; is near a State Park through the gift of the late Coleman duPont, a native Kentuckian.

Eastern Kentucky Fair Sept. 29-30

The 13th annual harvest festival and fair will be held at the Robison Agricultural Experiment Station at Quicksand, Breathitt county, September 29 and 30. Prizes will be offered for field crops, hogs, cattle, poultry, apples, potatoes, garden products and flowers, baked and canned foods, textiles, school displays, handicraft, and miscellaneous articles. There will be a complete 4-H club department.

An address by Dr. Alonzo W. Fortune of Lexington, ballad singing and horse shoe pitching will be features of the first day's program; with a 4-H club program and parade on the second day. Competition is open to all eastern counties.

Predict More Stock For Kentucky Farms

The prediction that livestock will become of increasing importance in Kentucky was made at a conference of feed manufacturers and dealers at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. The agricultural conservation program, it was pointed out, is bringing a great production of hay and grass, which already is stimulating the demand for livestock.

Feed ingredients, balanced rations, mineral supplements, the relation of feeding to diseases, feed control laws and other problems in the manufacture and use of feeds were discussed by makers and distributors of feeds from several states.

FRUIT GROWERS SEE BRAY & SON FARMS

Fruit producers of six counties, making up the membership of the Jefferson County Fruit Growers Society, held their August meeting at the farms of Joe Bray and Son in Trimble county, where they saw crops of grapes, peaches and apples. Yields of strawberries and raspberries also had been good.

Present were M. Y. Nunn, president of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society, W. D. Armstrong, horticulturist at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton, and W. W. Magill, extension fruit specialist of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Although general farmers, Bray and Son give major attention to the growing of fruit, which they sell at roadside markets or direct from the farm. A carefully planned complete control of diseases and insect pests.

Joe Bray was one of the first Kentucky farmers to receive the honor of Master Farmer.

"Pay-As-You-Go"

PLAN IN BRIEF

The object of this big "Pay-As-You-Go" drive is twofold. Primarily, to increase the already large subscription list of this newspaper; to collect arrears and advance subscription payments from present or old subscribers, and at the same time to afford the live-wire energetic men and women, boys and girls of this territory an opportunity to profit in a BIG way through their spare time during the next few weeks. So it is a plan that works both ways, and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, the most attractive awards ever offered by any newspaper in this section have been made ready for distribution among those who participate most actively. Ambition and energy are the only requisites for success.

Let it be understood at the very outset that this is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest, but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and one into which no element of chance enters. Each active participant will receive a pay check every Saturday night. One feature of this drive is the fact that "everybody wins." There will be no losers.

HOW TO ENTER—WHAT TO DO

The first thing to do is to clip the Entry Coupon appearing below; fill in your name and address and mail or deliver to this newspaper at once. This coupon entitles you, or the person whom you might wish to enter, to 5,000 free credits. These credits are given as a starter to speed you on your way to win. Only one such Entry Coupon will be accepted for each participant.

The next step is to call or write the "Pay-As-You-Go" department for a free working outfit.

Thus equipped you have but to see your friends and acquaintances and have them subscribe to this newspaper through you. That's all there is to it! However, you will never get anywhere unless you make the start—the earlier the better. Once started, let no one discourage you. Anything worth having is worth striving for. Within a few short weeks you may be riding in your own BIG automobile or otherwise several hundred dollars richer in purse!

HOW CREDITS ARE SECURED

It takes credits to win, and they are secured in the following way: First, by clipping the Free Credit Coupon appearing in this newspaper.

The only restriction placed on these coupons is that they must be cast before the expiration date.

The other, and much faster way to accumulate credits in this "Pay As-You Go" Drive is by securing new and renewal subscriptions to this newspaper. On each order several credits are issued, the number varying, according to the amount paid and during which "period" they are received at the Campaign Department of this newspaper.

EARLY START MEANS EASY FINISH

The advantages of an early start are manifest. This "Pay As-You Go" drive is of such duration that immediate action is necessary for success. Orders taken during the early part of the campaign carry the MAXIMUM number of credits. Then too, the first in the field will undoubtedly get the "cream" of credits and subscriptions, while those who put off entering until a later date will have to take what is left.

Don't lose valuable time "waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do," but pitch right in and show the other fellow how to do it!

Pay As You Go — Board Of Judges

It is the sincere aim of this newspaper to conduct this campaign from start to finish in a fair honorable and impartial manner, and for this reason, the campaign will be brought to a close with the assistance of a board of Judges whose duty it shall be to canvass the votes and cash contained in the ballotbox and help the campaign manager to make the final count of votes. This committee of Judges will be made up of local business men, known the county over for their fairness in their business transactions, and they will be selected AT THE APPROVAL OF THE WORKERS.

WEEKLY MONEY BONUS VOTES
And It Is Votes That Win Those Big Prizes

A special bonus vote will be issued at the end of each week (Saturday night) to each candidate; the amount of votes being based on the following schedule:

FIRST PERIOD

$25.00 reported for week 150,000 votes
$50.00 reported for week 300,000 votes
$75.00 reported for week 600,000 votes
$100.00 reported for week 1,000,000 votes

SECOND PERIOD

$25.00 reported for week 100,000 votes
$50.00 reported for week 200,000 votes
$75.00 reported for week 300,000 votes
$100.00 reported for week 500,000 votes

Do not hold back subscriptions to complete "clubs" or money bonuses, as an exact record is kept of each day's money reported, and the club votes will be issued as soon as "clubs" are completed.

RULES and REGULATIONS

- Any white person of good character except salaried employees of this paper is eligible to enter and compete for the awards and commissions.
- The winners of the awards and commissions will be decided by their accrued votes, said votes being represented by those issued on subscriptions and by coupons clipped from the papers.
- Cash must accompany all subscriptions where votes are desired. Participants will not be confined to any given town or community, but will be allowed to secure subscriptions anywhere. Said votes are FREE, it costs the subscriber nothing extra to vote for a favorite participant. Votes issued on subscriptions may be held in reserved and voted at discretion of the participants or this newspaper.
- Credits are not transferable. Participants cannot withdraw in favor of another participant. Should a participant withdraw from the race, his or her credits will be cancelled. Neither will it be permissible for participants to give or transfer subscriptions to another participant. Credits on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification at the discretion of the management.
- In event of a tie for any one of the awards, a prize identical in value will be given each tying participant.
- Any collusion on the part of participants to nullify competition, or any other arrangement entered into to the detriment of participants of this campaign will not be tolerated by this newspaper. Any participant or participants entering into or taking part in such arrangement will forfeit all rights to an award or commission.
- No statement, assertion, or promise, either written or verbal, made by any participant, contrary to the rules and statements appearing in this newspaper, will be recognized by the publisher or the campaign manager.
- In case of typographical error it is understood that neither the publisher nor the campaign manager be responsible except for the necessary correction, thereof, upon discovery.
- Participants are considered authorized agents of this newspaper, and as such may collect subscription payments from present as well as from new subscribers. It is understood that they shall be responsible for all money collected and must report in full on the regular report days at the discretion of the management.
- Active participants will be paid a twenty per cent cash commission against the award they win on all subscription money turned in to their account as follows: At the close of the second week of the campaign, and each week thereafter, cash remittances of each worker will be totaled up and a drawing account of half of said commission will be paid against said remittances at the worker's request. Workers remaining ACTIVE throughout the entire campaign, and who fail to win a major award, or those who prefer the allowed commission instead of the award they win, will be paid their additional commission.
- It is definitely understood that any commissions drawn will be treated in the light of an "advance" against an earned award, and refundable upon presentation of said award.
- To insure absolute fairness and impartiality in presenting the awards, the campaign will be closed under the sealed ballot box system. During the entire last week of the race—a ballot box—locked and sealed—will repose in the vaults of a local bank, or as otherwise deemed advisable where participants and their friends may deposit their final cash collections, and reserve votes. When the race has been declared closed, a committee of local men, who will act as the official judges, will take possession of the ballot box, make the final count, and declare and present the winners with their awards. In this way, no one, not even the campaign manager nor the publisher can know the voting strength of participants, which precludes all possibility of favoritism.
- A subscription once turned in can be extended at any time giving a like value as though included in the first payment.
- Should two or more workers remit a subscriber's extension, either one of which builds the subscription up to the total term length allowed, said workers will each receive an equal number of extension votes as permitted by the vote schedule.
- Five thousand extra credits will be given to each participant who makes a cash report each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.
- This newspaper guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all participants, but should any question arise, the decision of the management will be absolute and final.
- This newspaper reserves the right to include both advertising and job printing, if so desired, on which proportionate votes will be allowed coinciding as much as possible with those allowed on subscription.
- In becoming a member of this "Pay-As-You-Go" subscription agreement you agree to abide by the above rules and conditions.

The above declining vote schedule will positively NOT BE CHANGED during the campaign. A special bonus of 100,000 EXTRA VOTES will be given for every "CLUB" of $90 turned in up to and including "BOOSTER DAY," Saturday, September 24th. After this and for the remainder of the campaign the CLUB vote offer is cancelled. This special offer will be considered part of the regular schedule. Honor Roll credits will be given during the Honor Roll Period. Three times the above schedule of renewal votes will be allowed on all delinquent subscriptions expiring before January 1st, 1938. Said delinquent subscriptions payments must be made and remitted to the campaign Department by the close of the Second Period of the Campaign.

Woman Against Woman

THE STORY THUS FAR

Stephen Holland, a brilliant young lawyer, convinced that his wife, Cynthia, is so selfish, fish and dangle that life with her is impossible, leaves her home. She tries to hold him through their four-year-old daughter, Ellen, to whom he is devoted. It is in vain. They are quietly divorced. Stephen, in Washington, to present a case before the Appellate Court, meets Maris Kent.

CHAPTER TEN

Mrs. Kingsley and Maris Kent arrived at the stately court building in such good time, that they met Stephen just going in.

"So you did come—both of you," he said. "Your presence makes me a victim of conflicting emotions. It will be nice to have friends on my side—but after you've seen the show, you may not be my friends ever again, either of you."

"Don't talk nonsense, Steve," said Mrs. Kingsley. "Better than that Mrs. Holland has lost cases before this court."

"I'm not talking about winning or losing," he said. "There is only one way to argue this case. If the court stands for it, nothing could be sweeter. If they don't, I'll not only be tossed out, I'll be dishonored."

"You're just trying to be dramatic—build up suspense," said Mrs. Kingsley. "Don't think you are giving me a moment's worry."

"That's kind of you—but when you hear the blast of scorn headed my way remember I warned you."

Mrs. Kingsley gave his shoulder a little pat, as they separated in the auditor.

"Tell me you know him so well," said Maris—"he was just joking about being dishonored, wasn't he? Whatever could he do to cause that?"

"How should I know? All I do

"Marvelous," said Stephen. "Will you be my guide, Miss Kent?"

know is that the case has something to do with a contraption for repairing runs in stockings. Perhaps he is going to make a dash at a justice, snag his sock and then repair it. That would be something to see, wouldn't it?"

"Now, you're joking," said Maris with a gay laugh.

When Stephen appeared to plead his case, he was dignified and grave.

"Our contention is," he stated, "that the question of patent infringement involved herein affects the basic copyright law. We shall start by handing up several exhibits—" He took up a box from the table, gave it to the clerk of the court, who handed it to the lawyer at the end. "It is a box of justice at the end, containing no flow of any kind, as the Court will see, if it pleases to examine the exhibit."

Lee, where the Court can observe you?" Stephen said.

"A young woman rose and went to the chair indicated. She was dressed in a simple, elegant gown, always be observed, wherever she is, in whatever company. Her prize would have won her first prizes were the kind which might be labeled 'what the well-dressed woman wears.'" She stepped down and crossed the aisle.

"She's simply stunning, isn't she?" said Maris.

"Even Steve's guardian angel watch wants him now," said Mrs. Kingsley.

"Don't be nervous, Miss Lee," said Stephen. He turned to the court and gave a nod. "If it please the Court, is a magnetized needle—the essential item of our process, together with course with the Court will give notice that Miss Lee is wearing a pair of stockings with flaws, or runs, similar to those of Exhibit Two."

The Court, quite in the manner of a ballet trained to move in unison, leaned forward to see one of these runs which the magnetized needle—"Stephen passed a moment for emphasis—"directly on the limb, as advertised by my client."

Mrs. Kingsley covered her eyes with her hand.

"Even the hardest working angel can't save the boy in our side," she groaned. "Let me know when the thunderbolt hits him."

Following this, Stephen went on calmly, "she will announce, using the needle manufactured by the defendant. This holding, in my view, was a bold move, as you can see. It is the only difference between it and the one manufactured, patented and marketed by the plaintiff. We are content that the holder is uncondemned. It is merely a poor device to say an exact similarity. If the Court please to look at Exhibit Three, it will be seen that one stocking is as perfectly repaired as the other."

The Justice leaned forward a little more.

"Better look," whispered Maris. "The Justice certainly are. What's more, they're smiling. I think they're having the time of their lives."

Mrs. Kingsley smiled also as she saw the Justice, Miss Lee and the dignified Justice. As a matter of fact, it was with difficulty that she refrained from snatching out his chair.

"Nothing in the world will ever astonish me, after this," she said. "It's better than any play I ever saw."

Miss Lee had left the chair, the Justice sank back into their chairs and Stephen, as one who knows a good stopping place when he has reached it, finished his argument in a few words.

"Why do we loiter?" asked Maris. "It is innocently as they came out of the building. 'Shouldn't we be going along?'"

"Don't try any of that ingenuitous stuff on me," Mrs. Kingsley said. "It's out of date. You know very well we are waiting for Steve. Here we stand if it takes all day."

It was only a few minutes before Stephen and Miss Lee came out together. He introduced the women and then asked Mrs. Kingsley what she thought of his presentation of the case.

"Unless they jail you for contempt of court or something of the kind—and I suppose they've spoken up at the time, if they were going to—I think you are the logical contender for the place of eighth wonder of the world."

"I know how you feel," said Miss Lee with a little laugh. "I still am trembling like a leaf."

"So am I," Stephen said. "You did us all proud, Betty. In fact I think you have saved the International Knit Corporation from unraveling."

She thanked him, said goodbye and hurried off, saying she had just time to catch her train.

Mrs. Kingsley asked Stephen what his plans were for the day. He said he hadn't any. His work was finished.

"Too bad," said Mrs. Kingsley, "that I'm tied up at all day. I'm due this minute at an affair to snub an ambassador's wife. But Maris isn't busy—are you dear? Why don't you take a few rounds and show him the sights? He's duck soup for all the monuments just a small town boy in a big city, you know."

"Marvelous," said Stephen. "Will you be my guide, Miss Kent?"

"I will," Maris said, "although I must say I never have been so charmingly dumped in all my life."

When Mrs. Kingsley hurried away, Maris said there was one term upon which she insisted if she was to show him the sights. Would he give her one of those marvelous needles? There was, she had discovered, a run in one of her stockings.

"I'll do more than give it to you," said Stephen. "I'll show you how to work it—it is simple but one must know how to use it."

He took the needle and was moving it slowly, when she gave a little gasp. He looked up to see a stony-faced guard watching him.

"Can't take any more chances, today," he said. "Let's get out of here."

4-H Club News
In Kentucky

The Catalpa club in Taylor county sold 13 pigs averaging 208 pounds for 25 cents a hundred above the market price. In addition to making a profit on raising the pigs, the boys and girls won $73 in prizes at fairs in ton-litter contests.

John Reams of the Kirkvase club in Madison county sold eight pigs which averaged 166 pounds when 4 months and 20 days old. He received $3,600 a hundred. The pigs ran on a mixture of orchard grass, bluegrass and clover and received corn and feed.

Bobby Fuson of Bell county was the state corn growing champion last year. Recently he was a special guest at the Madisonville Kiwanis club program in the interest of club work. More than 500 Bell county boys and girls are enrolled in strawberry, corn, tobacco, pig, garden and other projects.

Davies county club members attended a series of picnics which were much like miniature club camps. Tribes engaged in stunts, games and contests. The program was concluded with a picnic supper and a camp fire. Many parents attended.

Oltham county club members joined in a trip to places of interest in Louisville, including packing plants, bakeries, mills and farm machinery factories. At noon a picnic lunch was held in Central park.

The Madisonville Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the 4-H sheep project in Hopkins county, with local banks furnishing funds for the purchase of ewes. Several hundred ewes and registered rams were divided among club members, with additional purchases promised as interest develops.

In selecting fall clothes, find out the leading colors and keep them in mind. Otherwise, it may be difficult to get accessories. Accessories are for the most part designed to match or blend with the colors selected by fashion experts as leading.

Fresh vegetables are excellent sources of the vitamin B. However, if they are kept in a warm place for any considerable length of time after gathering, much of their vitamin value is lost. As soon as vegetables are gathered put them in a cool place.

Potatoes mashed with milk as soon as they are cooked, and darkened as fast as those to which no milk is added. When potatoes are pared or cut, they may be put in water until time to cook them, to keep them from turning dark through exposure to the

2,500 Attend 4-H Camps In Kentucky

About 2,500 farm boys and girls attended the 14 camps held in Kentucky this summer by the 4-H club department of the State College of Agriculture. Also in attendance were about 300 local club leaders and several thousand visitors.

More than three hundred boys and girls attended the camp in Morehead held at the College campus. Instruction was given in swimming, handicraft, music, games and other forms of recreation, health, and conservation of soil, game, fish and other natural resources.

The camps were conducted with the assistance of local men and women acting as 4-H club leaders, the State Y. M. C. A., the State Board of Health, the State Forestry Service, the State Fish and Game Commission and local educators and ministers.

One hundred and fourteen of the 120 counties in the state were represented at the camps.

Quick work by Christian country farmers checked tobacco losses from black-frie.

THIS TAVERN OBSERVES THE LAWS

When you drink Beer in a tavern... choose your tavern

WHEN YOU restrict your patronage to legal, respectable retail outlets, you not only encourage those better outlets but you've made a start toward driving out the bad spots in your community.

And that is exactly the aim of the great body of honest retailers of beer who, along with the brewers, recognize that Beer's only problem is to remove the anti-social conditions that sometimes surround its sale.

Existing laws can curb these evils. Help us by demanding their strict enforcement! Sales to minors, or after legal hours...or use of a beer license as a screen for selling illicit liquor or for operating an illicit resort...all these are violations of the law and should be stopped. Public opinion, once aroused, can see that such practices are stopped!
