DEMOCRATS WIN IN 46 STATES

Rowan Gives Roosevelt 299 Majority

President Carries All But Four Precincts In Battle Of Ballots.

The election held Tuesday in Rowan county was one of the most orderly and quiet ever held in the county, with no argument of any sort in any of the precincts, so far as we have been able to learn. Party workers in both parties were at the polls early and worked until the close at 4:00 p. m.

The change in the election laws permitting the votes to be counted at the court house the same night of the election was appreciated by counters and voters alike. The count started at 5:00 o'clock and continued until the entire county had been disposed of at 11:00 p. m.

Fred M. Vinson ran ahead of the Democratic ticket in Rowan county, with a total vote of 2037 against 1629 for his opponent, Hoffman Wood of Mt. Sterling. Senator M. M. Logan ran a close second with 1968 against 1249 for Lucas.

Judge Lee Stewart, Rowan county's lone candidate for state office, ran ahead of the balance of the Republican ticket in the county, although he failed to carry the county. Judge Stewart's vote in the county was 1758 against 1870 for Charles O'Connell, his Democratic opponent.

The total vote cast in the county was 3666, as compared with 4500 in 1932. The weather interfered considerably with the vote in the county precincts, as did the registration, which was considerably smaller than the vote in previous state and national races. In 1932, President Roosevelt carried the county by a much larger vote than

Eagles Billed To Meet Tenn. Poly In Saturday Contest

Strong Tennessee Team Will Meet Eagles On Jayne Stadium Saturday

Fresh from conquering the Maroons of Eastern State Teachers College, in the outstanding upset of the state last Friday, the Eagles of Morehead State Teachers College are setting down out of the Eastern game crippled to a slight extent, and some of the stars of the team may be out of the play on Saturday.

Brashear who has suffered more or less throughout the season with a serious "charley-horse" is still limping and may be held out of the Tennessee game altogether in preparation for the game with Louisville the following Saturday. Louisville is more important than Tennessee, although the boys claim they are going to take Tennessee in their march.

Coaches Johnson and Miller have proved to Morehead fans that they have a team that is about as strong in reserves as in the starting lineup. In fact it was partly substitutes who showed the fight last Saturday.

There is little question but that Morehead is one of the ranking teams in the state at present, a team that, starting out the underdogs has fought and won a place in the football sun of Kentucky.

In Friday's game they completely upset the hope and the Eastern hope of a season without a defeat. Eastern up to that time was the only team in the state undefeated. They are that no longer. And Eagle stock has risen accordingly.

Tennessee Poly may be a strong team if records and reports mean anything. They are feared higher than the Eagles, but the Eagles even though crippled are determined to take their measure.

Kentucky And Rowan County In Democratic Column

By Good Margin

A flood of votes that swept from New Hampshire to California, in a rising tide that threatened to complete the imitization of the Republican hopes, for four years to come, at least, that literally made a laughing spectacle of the Literary Digest straw vote, that was greater even than the wildest hopes and expectations of the most optimistic Democrat, rolled on this morning to carry 46 states for President Roosevelt and to guarantee at least four more years of the kind of government that the United States has enjoyed for the past three and one half years.

On the crest of the tide floated the bed in which Al Smith, Bishop Cannon, William Randolph Hearst, Jim Reed and Father Coughlin had been sleeping for the past four months. And it is reliably reported that the four strange bedfellows had started a little war of their own as to who had recognized the most against Governor Landon.

The vote cast on Tuesday was the most devastating in the history of America. In 1932 President Roosevelt carried 42 states, a record at that time. In this election he swept not only rock-ribbed Pennsylvania by a majority of around 600,000 but carried according to the latest figures, not only Governor Landon's own state, but his home county and precinct as well. He reached up into New England and bore from the Republican ranks, the states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Connecticut. He stretched out into the West and cleaned the entire country wide, California giving him

CARNIVAL AT SCHOOL IS GREAT SUCCESS

The high school carnival of last week was a complete success in every way, financially as well as fun. A large crowd was in attendance and the merriment was carried on until a late hour. Outstanding features of the entertainment were the songs by Miss Jean Luzader, dances by Miss Linda Lou Eaton and the hypnotic stunts by Earl May. A total net profit of $62.00 was added to the athletic fund of the high school through the carnival.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are pleased to announce J. H. MAUK for Representative,
Rowan 2nd D.istrict, SUBJECT TO THE ACTION OF THE Democratic Primary, August 2, 1937.

RATS COST $200,000,000 A YEAR

The average housekeeper of this country may be inclined to dismiss the presence of a few mice in the house, and the average farmer may look upon the rats in his barn as an evil not to be banished but when you think of the enormous loss inflicted upon the people of this country by these rodents it would seem that everyone would do his part to drive these pests away.

It is estimated by the U. S. Biological Survey that rats cause an annual loss of $200,000,000 each year in this country. They do enormous damages in the homes, stores, factories and also ravage the barns on the farms.

According to the authorities who have studied the best ways to prevent these evil temporary measures of rat control include the use of poisons, traps and deadly gases. These devices merely eliminate the animals for a short time and do not prevent others from reinfesting premises. Nevertheless, temporary measures are the first consideration in dealing with the rat problem. Permanent control consists primarily in depriving rats of one or both in their necessities of life—food and shelter.

Attention to such community rat breeding places as garbage dumps and city abattoirs will keep down the rat population," says the survey in a recent bulletin. "Every community interested in preventing disease epidemics that may possibly be spread by rats should make it a point to provide for proper maintenance of dumps and similar places for garbage and refuse disposal. Changes in the construction of buildings can be effected to make them rat-proof, and building codes of cities and towns can require rat proof construction."

LIBERTY

There is only one fundamental conflict in this world of turmoil which need give anyone any real concern. That is the conflict between human liberties and dictatorship. This is the conflict which is tearing the world apart. It is less acute in America than it is anywhere else.

Throughout the world great masses of people are surrendering their liberties of action, speech and thought to the tyranny of absolutist governments. In return for what appears to be economic security, they consent to let their governments do their thinking, direct the conduct of their daily lives, even prescribe their religious observances and interfere, in some nations, with their most intimate domestic relations. People who live under governments so controlled from above tend to become less like human beings and more like driven cattle. And the experience in every instance has been that in return for the liberties which they have sacrificed they have never gained anything of value.

The greatest disillusionment in this respect has been that of the Russian people, who submitted to the autocratic control of a handful of Communist leaders and who find themselves today living in a condition of economic misery far more degraded than anything under the old Czarist rule.

There is only one thing worth fighting for. That is the only thing for which a free people have ever fought, individual human rights and liberties. It is to be hoped that the time will not come when the American people are again compelled to take up arms in defense of the right of every individual to live, act and think as he pleases so long as he does not interfere with the right of others to do the same.

We do not think that such a crisis in the affairs of this country, is imminent, or that it is even foreshadowed. We base this belief upon our faith in the inherent compassions of a nation of free men and women, who have thrived under the freest form of government that has ever existed and who are today better off economically, socially and in individual freedom than the people of any other nation in the world.

No government is perfect, since governments are composed of human beings, and human beings are not perfect. But a government which is based upon the freely expressed will of a nation free people not only comes nearer to being perfect than any other form of government can possibly be, but it contains within itself all of the forces necessary to bring about such changes as may be required to bring it still nearer to perfection.

So we Americans pin our faith upon the American system as we know it.

SCHOOL LESSON THE SUNDAY

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kazer, Pastor of Baptist Church.

SUBJECT: The Gospel Facing The Forces Of Evil, Acts 19:8-12: 18:20; Eph. 6:13-20.

Golden Text: "Be ye strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might." Eph. 6:10.

This week we study the secret of power in the Christian warfare. Paul has come to the rich city and capital, Ephesus, where the forces of evil are organized and unnumbered, to preach the Gospel. Here was to be a great test of the Gospel's power. He began preaching in the synagogue. From the very first there was opposition and debate. Plenty of objectors were found. But it must be a proof of Paul's courage that, in the face of opposition, he was able to preach the Gospel in that synagogue for three months without serious interruption. However, the heretics finally became hard and the storm broke upon the preachers. They did all within their power to discredit Paul and his brethren with the people who came to listen.

The apostle quietly gathered his congregation at home and moved over to the school of Tryanus. He probably paid rent, and was able to preach what he pleased. This was a better arrangement, and for two long years, Paul preached the Gospel, so that "all they which dwell in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks." Thus the Gospel spread through all the country.

In these days of stress and strain Paul began to do extraordinary miracles. God granted great power. He was in the midst of exorcists and magicians who did mysterious tricks in magic and spiritualism, and thereby profited much. They thought Paul possessed this magic power. They brought handkerchiefs and aprons that he might touch them and by this means they carried his power back to their sick and afflicted. In some mysterious way God honored their faith, though it was grounded in ignorance.

Some of the magicians decided to imitate Paul and use the name of Jesus to perform their work. In casting out evil spirits by this formula, the spirits talked back, and all seven of the boys who tried this act were torn and wounded. Fear fell upon the people. The name of the Lord was magnified. These magicians now had their eyes opened and that their defeat lay in the fact that Paul's power was from God. Their dirty trade was now laid bare in its real character, just as sin always is when Christ is preached. These spiritualists brought their books of magic and burned them in the street. It was a ten thousand dollar fire. And out of rotten literature we could make a bigger one today if we could burn all the rotten literature.

Luke says that the Word of the Lord kept growing and gaining strength. The city began to be a Christian center. This was too much for Demetrius, a keen business man, rich from the business the gods was destroying. He got a mob together, and they dragged Aristarchus and Gaius into the theatre. Paul was found, though he was willing to surrender to the mob. His friends would not let him. An influential person told the howling mob now foolish they were. They were quieted, and the prisoners were released.

How could the preachers withstand this persecution? Read Ephesians 6:10-20, and you will see. They were armed with the might of God. Only this will make the preacher or disciple effective.

MILES SINGS AT SPECIAL CHAPEL WEDNESDAY

There was a "Special" chapel on Wednesday, Oct. 28, in order that students of the college could see and hear John Jacob Niles, the southern folk-singer.

Mr. Niles' home place is situated in Cherokee county, North Carolina. He is a composer, having written three hundred and sixty-five folk songs and ballads.

People of this section are familiar with ballads and songs heard when sung by a person who knows their origin and true meaning. Students expressed themselves as being greatly interested in the program.

CRANSTON BUILDING IN NEED OF REPAIR

The Cranston school is located over the Nicholas Hill and near the Cranston Post Office. This is a large school building and has been in much need of repair. It has changed its appearance very much lately. It has been painted, the roof broken windows have been replaced, new shades have been bought. Heavy screen has been put over the windows to protect the glass. A new stove has been furnished. The teacher and children are very thankful to the Board and Superintendent for having the work done which was much needed. Mr. Hogge takes great interest in his school and the boys take great interest in soft ball and have played many schools this year. This is Mr. Hogge's home school and he is anxious to see it grow.

The attendance Honor Roll for the fourth month: Vencil Conn, Bobby Lileston, Andy Cooper, David Hamm, Patrick McRoberts, Elijah Tackett, Dorthy Cooper, Nellie DeBoard, Lillie Conn, Geneta Hamm, Wilda Deboard, Louise Kelly, Joe Hamm, Jean Hamm, Rose Deboard, Blanche Farley, Jewel Hamm, Nana Blevisins.

GAYHART SCHOOL WAS FORMERLY TRAINING SCHOOL

The Gayhart School is about three miles below Morehead on the Midland Trail. The school house cannot be seen from the trail. This school used to be for the rural training school, a branch of the teachers college. Mr. Tackett who is teaching there now is having good attendance, except in a few cases. He does not can give a good account of those enrolled are thirty nine enrolled. Mr. Tackett says he keeps his attendance up by trying to make the work interesting. There is a large playground on which the children delight in playing soft ball and there is also other handmade playing devices for the younger children.

LITTLE PERRY HAS ATTUNDANCE CONTEST

The Little Perry School is a two teacher school just off the Midland Trail on this side of Haldeman. There are twenty-eight children enrolled in the small room and twenty-five children enrolled in the upper grade room. There are two separate buildings. One has been built in the past year. There is a large playground. The attendance is good. The fourth month was ninety per cent and this is very good considering the fact that the attendance went down this month all over the county. The Doctor and Nurse have been there giving diphtheria and typhoid shots and small pox vaccination. The primary room is furnished with tables and chairs. There are supplementary readers. Just now they are reading a reading race to see who can read the most books. Mrs. Click is in all her experience she never saw children as much interested in reading as these children are. Perhaps this is due to the fact that Mrs. Click makes them interested. Each child has his own attendance chart, he checks the days he is there and on Friday receives a gold star if he is there all week.

At the end of the month he can take his chart home to show his parents. This is a thrill for both the children and his parents. The upper grades have good attendance. Mr. Bradley realizes that good attendance is essential to good work and takes much care in reporting these cases. They are planning a Thanksgiving Program at this school which will be given soon. At the time of my visit here had been on account of sickness in the district and the teachers proudly told that not one quarrel or fight had they had on the playground this year. It would be wonderful if the people in the county who are interested in education would take a few days off and visit the schools in the county and see the work they are doing.

ISLAND FORK IS FAR DISTRICT SCHOOL

Island fork school across the Nicholas Hill and on and on until you think you never will get there. In fact it is one of the most out-of-the-way schools there are in the county. Nevertheless Mr. Hall thinks it is a nice district and he thinks he has as nice a crowd of children as you will find anywhere. He has enrolled 27 and at the time of my visit there were only four absent which is a very good record. I don't think I have ever seen children respond as nicely to their work as the children do. A music class was being taught. They sang many songs and practiced on the scale. After the music class a few physical exercises were given. Even the finest top responded to these two classes with much vigor. The work seemed well planned and I have never been in a more orderly although busy room. The parents sponsored a pie supper for the money will be spent for much needed supplies in the school. (Continued on Page Four)

"CRAIGS WIFE" TO BE COLLEGE FEATURE

The story of "Craig's Wife", the show which comes to the College Theatre Friday, Nov. 6, runs as follows. Harriet Craig (Fossilia Russell) marries her husband, Walter (John Boles), two years before in cold and calculating fashion. She wants a home, to her the one definite thing in life. This home she guards jealously, viciously. She has closed its doors, gradually, to all of Walter's friends. She watches every lamp, every table, every chair as an eagle watches its brood. She has made the Craig home un-livable, unwholesome, visibly gorgeous. Walter, deeply in love with her, and believing that she loves him in the same manner, is blind to all Harriet's faults. He doesn't realize that relentlessly she has turned him from a man into something else around the house.

Harriet is furious one day, when returning from the bedside of her desperately ill sister, she finds that Waiter's middle aged aunt, Miss Austen (Alma Kruger), who is living at the Craig home, has invited a next-door neighbor Mrs. Prader (Billie Burke) into the house. In the argument that follows, Miss Austen decides to leave. Before she does, however, she attempts to reveal to Walter Harriet's machinations.

Walter's visit to a friend, Fergus Passmore (Thomas Mitchell), during Harriet's absence, agitates her. In trying to check up on Passmore Harriet becomes involved in a nasty murder case, as Passmore and his wife died violently soon after Walter's innocent visit.

When Harriet bluntly tells Walter that she doesn't care whether he is guilty or not, so long as no scandal becomes attached to the Craig name, he sees her in her true light for the first time.

Harriet has taken Ethel Landreth (Dorothy Wilson), her ill sisters' death, away from her mother's bedside and brought her home. Harriet hangs up on Ethel's fiance (Robert Allen), when he calls her from college, and Ethel is furious. When Miss Austen leaves, Harriet's housekeeper (Jane Darwell) goes with her. Harriet's world begins to topple.

Ethel's boy friend comes to take her from Harriet's forbidding home. Walter savagely breaks her favorite object d'art and smokes cigarettes all over the place. Then, broken hearted, still in love with her, Craig leaves her—with the keys to the house.

News of her sister's death is figure, Harriet wanders aimlessly. Harriet's final crushing blow, when she learns the truth, is the only thing is Louse, completely alone, a tragic left to her, and nothing more.

HARDMAN SCHOOL BORDERS FLEMING CO.

The Hartman school is the last school in this county and is almost the Fleming county line. On the school day dismissed to go to Muses Fair in Fleming County? I think is much to be recommended for the schools should not only visit with each other and take interest in all educational exhibits in their own county but should when able visit schools and fairs in other counties. Mr. Hogge was able to do this only because he is within a short distance from Muses Fair at Muses is given once a year and only includes its own district. It is not a county fair.

However Mr. Hogge must be doing fine work especially along the English line as is shown by one of the poems which is given below and which is written by one of his girls in the seventh grade. It was written by Laura Williams and shows real talent.

WONDERS Travelers may speak of wonders that are made by man, But I like places that are made by nature's hand from Muse. Cities, bright lights, wondrous towers, But, these are only for millionaires. The shame these people do not know, The wonders of nature and where to go, Places where oceans find rest subline, Far away from cities of noise and crime There are beautiful cliffs with colors so grand.

Morehead Eagles Down Eastern 19-7 In Thrilling Game

Morehead Eagles Take Sweet Revenge On Eastern Maroons In Battle Of Year; Win Tilt 19-7

Maroons Are Crushed In Assault Of Fighting Morehead Eleven

Morehead topped Eastern from the undefeated ranks with a total score of 19 to 7 before a crowd of two thousand howling fans in Hanger Stadium that saw the longest run of the year during the closing minutes that saw the longest run of the year during the closing minutes of the classic. Three long plays that came with superb blocking of the Eagle line dealt the death blows that sent the Maroons to the depths for the first time this season. "Bush-Hog" Brashear in the second quarter intercepted a Maroon heave and landed in the promised land before the half ended Reynolds drove through center for sixty-five yards and another marker. The thrill of thrills came immediately after Eastern had scored by a series of passes late in the fourth quarter and kicked off to Morehead. "Tiny Tim" Wyant took the pigskin on his own goal line and literally flew through the air to the Maroon line as Eagles swooped down on the Maroons with deadly body and shattering blocks. Fully ten other Eagles helped Wyant make that sensational hundred yard dash with the pigskin to become the biggest run on any college field last week.

Eastern never lost dominated the play in the first quarter. Reynolds drove to Morehead's 7 in the first part of the second but Eagles held. The first sudden burst of Morehead power came a play or so later in the second quarter. Wyant was backed pass and was tackled before he could get rid of the ball. He fumbled and Jenkins recovered on the Morehead 49. On the first play, Caldwell substituting for Lund, attempted a pass. His toss was intercepted by Brashear backing up the Eagle line and after fighting his way to Eastern's 40 he picked up interference and ran for the first score of the game. Vinson fumbled on the conversion.

Again in the second period Morehead counted as the charges of Ellis Johnson and Len Miller did some sweet blocking to send Reynolds on a surge through center for fifty yards and a touchdown. The play was the last of a series for Reynolds and had the Maroon defense looking for him around the ends. The conversion was good and the half-ended 13 to 0 for Morehead.

Between halves the Morehead and Eastern bands paraded and there was the presentation of the old "Hawg Rifle" to the two Presidents of the school by Fred Caudill, President of the Campus Club. Eastern opened up in earnest in the third but could get nowhere because of the fast charging Eagle line that gave nothing in the fierce scrap. The general play was about even as Eastern, with Art Lund, long passing fullback, hurried pass after pass into the Eagle defense. In the final canto Eastern began toying on every down after a series with penalties to boot them along until they succeeded with a goal pass and converted by placement kick.

Eastern's score sent the Eagles into a flying, fighting formation on the kickoff and Tim Wyant took the oval on the Eagle goal line and with magnificent aid ran the hundred yards to score to create the greatest football thrill in Kentucky. The try for extra point failed and the Eagles took possession of the field by Reynolds' interception of a forward pass.

Morehead made seven first downs and Eastern eleven with thirty-one attempted passes of which nine were completed and four intercepted by alert Eagles. The Eagles heaved six passes, completed two and had one intercepted besides drawing eighty yards of penalties.

For Morehead, the entire group of players starred by playing the best games of their careers. This was the first time that Coach Ellis Johnson had the opportunity to put his best team on the field. A gallant front line of defense and an alert secondary defense that refused to yield. The three goal thrusts showed clearly that the Eagles can and did go places. Eastern fought furiously but was outpowered by alert strength given by boys that loved to play the game. Lund was the big show for the Maroons but he was lost in the play that gave the Eagles a rightful title in football competition.

Hope Of Winning Will Meet Grayson Here Friday Afternoon With

When Prichard High School of Grayson meets the Vikings of Morehead here Friday afternoon, it will mark the first time that the football teams against each other. Coach Roy Holbrook has been giving his charges a fine, desperate dose of football tactics to close the season with a win. Likewise Coach Allie Holbrook has been giving the Yellow Jackets plenty of work to make a win in his own home town. These two mentors are well known and liked by local fans and have been known to put alert athletes on the field in high school sports. This is Allie's first year coaching football and he came to the Prichard High School with great record made in basketball at Soldier. However he is remembered as one of the smartest players ever to wear the Blue and Gold for Morehead State Teachers College.

The game will be a finale for two green teams and the battle will be close all the way for they stack up about even on previous deeds which can and cannot be counted on the gridiron. Football fans and local followers of the two coaches should swarm to Jayne Stadium to see this last high school game and give the boys a cheering cheer for the splendid efforts against all kinds of handicaps.

Vikings Drop Game To Coles High Of Ashland By 6-0

The Vikings of Morehead High are in a fighting mood to take the last game of the season and are starting under the 6 to 0 defeat of last Friday by Coles Junior High of Ashland. The game was played in heavy going and Coles took advantage of a blocked kick early in the game on the Morehead 20 yard line and passed 18 yards for the only score of the game. From then on the two teams battled on even terms with little scoring threats. The Vikings will have only two seniors playing Friday, Ed Wilson and Luster Brown, and these boys are planning a swan song that will have a victorious end.

Coach Roy Holbrook will close the season without any great number of victories but a team that promises to go places next year in a great big way. Football is on the way back to Morehead High and Coach Roy Holbrook is the man that is teaching the game to green boys in an efficient manner.

County School News (Continued From Page Three)

dition, thanks to the Superintendent and School Board. Some of the improvements are, a new roof new fire steps leading to the building, new windows, repaired shutters, new pump, new stove and a new teachers desk. I find that the schools all over the county have had perhaps the same improvement or perhaps more and comparison in the schools now and the schools three or four years ago. school building is in very good condition.

FARMERS SCHOOL DOING GOOD WORK IN ALL GRADES

Although there is a nice school building at Farmers, it is not large enough nor modern enough for the enrollment, they are looking forward to a large new building to start next year. There is a large playground. There are four rooms in the building now. The teachers are Austin Riddle, principal, Harold Peitrey, fifth and sixth grades, Miss Hall, third and fourth, and Mary Alice Calvert first and second. There are two years of high school given at Farmers. In the first and second grades there are 33 enrolled with thirty two present on Monday morning. This is a large group. There were five large tables and chairs. The tables would seat ten children at a table. The room was very attractive with Hallows' decorations and

Turkey Shoot To Be Held At Camp Knox

A turkey shoot under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association, for the purpose of raising funds for the Fort Knox Field (Fort Knox Air Landing Field). Turkeys ducks and geese will be awarded as prizes for high scores in rifle, pistol and shotgun shooting—both traps and long-range. In addition, numerous games of skill will be available for those members of the family who do not shoot. Refreshments and soft drinks will be served. The grounds will be open at 11:30 A. M. and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The furniture was painted a light tan with the walls painted a light green. A reading class was in progress. The other children were busy with seat work. Each had his individual crayons, paste etc. to use for storing material. Strips of paper were used for the alphabet. There was also the blackboard. These were purchased through the Rowan County Board of Education. There was also a sand table in the room which could be used for many purposes. The present is very attractive and I would advise the parents in Farmers to take time from their work and visit with their children in this room and see the kind of other tricks which are being done. The third and fourth grade room was also attractive. Miss Hall was hearing a third grade reading class. They are using a supplementary reader. The children have bought much supplementary material. They have two sets of readers, and the work books to go with them, and also the work books to go with the Round the World geographies. There are other single supplementary books. The room was decorated with Halloween decorations, very beautiful decorations too. They are using the new type of chair desk, which seems to be very handy for the fifteen pupils enrolled. Thirteen were present. There were new green window shades, flowers calendar, sand table, flag, book ends, pictures of Washington and other good pictures, thermometers, other articles which are necessary to make a room attractive and instructive. There was also one of the best health record charts I have ever seen. The record is kept each day for well brush teeth, clean nails, clean hands, neat clothes, and shoes well shined. This is an incentive from the appearance of the chart it looked as though the children were getting right checks every morning.

The fifth and sixth grade room is also furnished with the new type desk sets. Here I found also many exhibitions of the children's work and other materials to work with. The children were taking great interest in the reading class. Mr. Peitrey himself is an artist, and there was a supply of working materials along this line. Mr. Peitrey has taught in schools in other counties where attendance is really enforced. He is having a race in attendance in his school this month. It is called a potato race. The side that wins has to furnish the potatoes for a potato race. This is a good idea and I can't tell whether it is the potatoes, the idea of a picnic, the attraction of winning in a race or that the children just want to come to school because the work is so interesting, anyway, the attendance is good and that is the aim indeed.

The two high school rooms and in fact the whole building is as clean and neat as can be. The floors have been newly oiled, the playground is clean, and the newly painted house makes the Farmers School very attractive. Mr. Riddle explains the attendance is better than ever before.

The big game is over and we won, and WHAT A WIN! The biggest victory any Kentucky football team has had this year and the greatest in the history of Eagle football. The Alabama-Kentucky game was a let-down to the hundreds of fans that saw both games. That hundred-yard dash of TINY TIM from goal to goal put Morehead State Teachers College in every large daily paper in the nation. Every syndicated football resume of last week carried the feat of the blond Morehead back, and also the fall of Eastern from the undefeated class.

Horatio Alger never ended a hero-novel more thrilling and deserving to the hero than the grand finale of Robert Brashear against the Maroons "Bush-Hog" as he is called by friends and they are legendary had his last chance to play against Eastern and he made good in a great big way. Always a standout on the Morehead elevens because his playing ability and fine sportsmanship, he got the BIG chapter of his football career by intercepting a Maroon pass and running fifty-five yards to score his first touchdown and the first score of the Eastern-Morehead football classic. A deserving honor long overdue to one that will live always in Morehead's football history.

The Kentucky Wildcats faced Red Elephants last Saturday and as usual could not hold trunks or tails successfully for sixty minutes. Resume of game is the annual sporting gesture of Kentucky sport writers. 'Alabama won but Kentucky put up a great fight.' Lexington is the home of champion thoroughbreds and not championship football teams. Hope springs eternal on UK campus for a football crown and all Kentucky shares that hope.

The turf lost one of its greatest jockeys last week when Mack Garner of the Ridin' Garners' died suddenly of heart attack in Covington. He was the jockey that rode Cavalcade to victory in the Kentucky Derby and the championship of the year. Active and successful until the last, he leaves a sorrowing public and a gaping hole in the front rank of riders. Among his thousands of friends are two well known Rowan Countians, Judge Elijah Hogge and the late Senator Allie Young.

Minnesota Gophers are just another football team today with a great winning streak halted by the Wildcats of Northwestern.

Fans who did not see the Eastern-Morehead game want to know whether Tim Wyant was shot from the old 'Hawg Rifle' or shot at by someone holding it, when he made that flight of flights that made gridiron history for Morehead.

The Viking noise is not so great this week but they will be heard again before the curtain falls on this year's football drama. Even Vikings have to learn and Coach Holbrook is one of the smartest high school coaches in Kentucky.

The best celebration for Morehead is for the Eagles to pick-up where they left off last Friday and take T. P. I. into their win est. The Eagles have their nest completed lined with Maroon but it looks like a long haul winter and now is the time to get more while the season lasts. Remember bridge players, it's not whether you won or lost, but how you fished the queen.

Local boy makes good in his own home town * ELLIS JOHNSON.

P. S. Next week: How Morehead State Teachers College athletic teams got the name of Eagles.

While Morehead easily provided the most startling football news of the week-end the Centre Colonels did some upsetting themselves, up-ending Xavier University 26 to 12. Other college games ran more or less true to form, with Kentucky taking a 14 to 0 beating from Alabama after putting up a gallant stand in the first half; Murray losing to Union University 19 to 7; Louisville outlasting the Georgetown Tigers 12 to 8; Union College and Transy battling to a 6 tie and Western stopping Oglethorpe 6 to 0.

The standings:

Eastern Ky.	5	1	0	12	27
Kentucky	5	2	0	159	58
MOREHEAD	2	1	2	39	27

Saturday has been declared as "High School Day" at Morehead and all the high school teams of the state have been invited to attend the game as guests of the college. High school seniors have also been invited. If the day is fair, the crowd in attendance is expected to surpass any ever gathered in this city for a football game.

Incidentally it may be said that thus far this season the crowds have been far better than ever before in the history of football at this college.

a four to one majority. The south was always his by right of heritage. He swept to the Middle West and left nothing behind him. Illinois gave him over a million majority. New York state, to the Republican eye, looked like the ravages of a tornado, which it literally proved to be a tornado that had built up to carry the state by upward of a million votes.

And in the van guard of the states that gave President Roosevelt a vote of confidence was our own state of Kentucky. The Roosevelt majority in this state will run upward of 150,000 with returns delayed in only a few of the counties. And right in the midst of the Democratic column is our own county of Rowan, on which the tabulated vote will be found in another column of this page. Rowan's majority of President Roosevelt was 277, not so large as it should have been, considering the fact that this county has received more actual aid in the way of work than any other county of its size in the State of Kentucky. However, the Democrats are delighted with the showing they were able to make in the face of obstacles.

In Rowan county the New Deal carried all but three of the precincts of the county. Farmers had 2, Plank No. 15 and McKenna No. 13.

Wagner, Lewis, Hayes in the county remained steadfast in the Democratic column. Morehead 1, Morehead 7, Morehead 14, Morehead 18 and Morehead 19 were all safely Democratic by wide margins. Morehead 10 gave the largest vote actual Democratic majority of any precinct in the county, with a margin of 84 votes. Number 7 gave Roosevelt a majority of 55. Morehead 18 gave him 21. Morehead 19, 25, Wagner 9, 51 and Morehead 1, 29.

The Roosevelt total vote in Rowan was 1979 against 1978 for Landon. Logan carried the county 1998 to 1649 for Lucas; O'Connell led in the county 1877 to 1738 for Stewart, and Vinson carried the hat with 2007 votes against 1023 for Wood.

The days were easier at the house when the men carried their benches with them to the hills. The rush of the breakfast hour passed, and the middle of the day was left in some peace and without hurry to Julia and Cynthia. They could have a simple dinner alone with Jesse. Cynthia brought in the milk cold from the spring house. Julia made the corn bread and gathered a dishpan of lettuce from her garden. It will in the bacon grease and flavor with new amounts because Jesse liked it that way.

How is the corn up in Barn Branch? Julia asked.
I believe it is about the best on the place this year.
Will you get it finished up today? It'll be done with it along three o'clock.

The sweet potato patch is running for the piece. Julia said.
I plan on getting to them yet today.
Cynthia saw him slip the Cooley's Blackstone into his shirt as he went out. I guess Jesse likes to be up himself to think about the law that he's so wrapped up in. It seems such a long time ago that we set out the sweet potato plants and he spoke about it. Maybe I can get time to go up to the garden and lay some of the vines up on the ridges for him.

She took time and in the mid-afternoon, was almost one she started up to the House Field. Jesse had not come. She waited looking down upon the matted vines. When he did not come, she went up Barn Hollow by the cow path over the ridge against the line of trees. The corn was plowed, but Jesse was not in sight. She wondered where he could be thinking she had missed him by going up over the ridge.

Then she heard his voice pitched in the oratorical tones of the Filieville lawyer and recited the "All children born before matrimony are bastards by our law; and so it is of all children born so long after the death of the husband killed by the usual course of gestation, they could not be forgotten by him. But this being a matter of some uncertainty, the law is not exact as to a few days, forty weeks begin in the time allowed.
Now why in the world is Jesse saying all that for up here in the hear him but the mule and it drowsing like a sleepy old judge on a bench. It must be Jesse's law book.

Jesse went on, stumbling over the unusual words.
But, if a man dies and his widow soon after marriage again, and a child is born within such a time as that by the course of nature it might have been the child of either husband; in this case he is said to be more than ordinarily legitimate, for he may, when he arrives to years of discretion, choose which of the fathers he prefers to be.
She could not see Jesse from where she sat. What would he look like in the role of orator? The impulse to lay eyes upon him overtopped the ridge overlooking the hollow and climbed down the rock behind a clump of redbud.
Jesse was standing under a pine tree, before a moss-covered rock which had broken away from the cliff. He held the yellow bound Blackstone in his left hand, pointing with his right forefinger at the page, tapping it for emphasis, and making his voice vibrate with his limitation of a mountain lawyer citing a point of law.

Restraints upon marriage, especially among the lower classes, are evidently detrimental to the public by hindering the increase of the people and to religion and morality by encouraging licentiousness and debauchery among the single of both sexes; and thereby destroying one end of society and government, which is concubinage, a vague.

She was fascinated by his zeal, and the reality of the performance, but after he had halted in the passage, stumbling seriously over the Latin words, the illusion was broken and she felt ashamed at the behavior of a husband listening to something not meant for her ears. She would go down to him at once.

But then he will see by my face and the direction I come from that I have been listening. I will go back and come and listen to you. She climbed back up the rock and went down the gully through the cleared space to the plowed field, and came down the young corn rows approaching Jesse directly face to face. He saw her coming, not displeased, and he sat on the rock with the book open face down over his knee. When she came up, he was composed.

I looked for you at the sweet potato patch, she said as a greeting.
I was just giving the mule a rest and I got to looking at the picture in Blackstone here.
He showed her the yellow-tinted engraving of the enormous-appearing man, solid and legal behind the ample contours of his ermine robe, under the careful twistings of the curly fleece, wig stood out of the bushy black eyebrows, the big eyes that had faced with the confidence of knowledge and experience, judges and juries.

"They wear funny clothes in England, Cynthia, said.
He will keep his finger in the page where he was reading.
Have you read clear over there? Well, not exactly. Only I got tired of the chapters on the King's Titles, and the King's Prerogative, and the Revenant, and of the Clergy. It didn't seem like it meant anything in this country. So I kind of skipped to this part, "Of Husband and Wife" and it's right interesting. It says a man has to stand good for his wife's debts as long as she buys necessary common supplies, but not for anything besides necessities.

Is that what law is? Cynthia asked.
"Well, that's just one little part. There are so many things here. It makes a body wonder if people really do things this book says they mustn't do, and how many people had to do an evil before the law was made about it. It takes a lot of study and a man needs help on some of it.
You're going to read with Tandy Morgan, Jesse?
That's what I aim to do this fall. I'll have ready money, too, and I can go to Pikeville, Mother says. The book lays down law on that

It says here, The last duty of parents to their children is that of giving them an education suitable to their station. In life a duty pointed out by reason, and of far the greatest importance of any. For it is not easy to imagine or allow, that a parent has conferred any considerable benefit upon his child by bringing him into the world; if he afterwards entirely neglects his culture and education, and suffers to grow up like a mere brute, to lead a life useless to others and shameful to himself. This fellow talks straight words like a lawyer ought.

TO PLANT MANY TREES

Starting November 3 the Cumberland National Forest will plant 22,000 young trees near Morehead and McKee Kentucky 47,000 short leaf pine and 5,000 white pine seedlings will be used in planting 72 acres of abandoned farmland for experimental purposes.

33,750 two year old short leaf pine seedlings will be used about a mile north of Morehead while 31,750 short leaf pine and 5,000 white pine seedlings will be planted near State Highway No. 21 about 1 1/2 miles northeast of McKee. The McKee plantation will be entirely made to the public from the highway.

All plantations are experimental and will indicate the degree of success which may be expected from and the practicability of fall planting on the Cumberland National Forest. Some of the areas are to be used to test the effect of grazing on young plantations of white pine. Soil conservation, water shed protection and timber production are primary objectives. The planting is by the U. S. Forest Service in Kentucky.

Band Makes Fine Impression At Morehead-Eastern Title

The M. S. T. C. Field Band, M. E. George, director, drilled during the half of the Morehead-Eastern game at Eastern State Teachers College Friday.

Led by Linda Lee Eaton, drum major, and James Sawyer, who gave commands for formation, the band formed the letters "M. E. T. C." on the field.

According to reports, the band created a very favorable impression.

Campus Club Admits Several New Pledges

Hog Rifle Is Presented To President Donovan.

At a meeting of the Campus Club on Monday evening of this week six new members were taken into the organization. Those admitted were Tim Wyant, Roscoe Waddell, Custer Reynolds, Joe Jackson, "Wig" Henderson, and Frenchy Hammond. These new members will be the object of initiatory rites in the near future.

According to Fr. J. Caudill, president, the club will very shortly be working on a new project which is part of their program for the semester.

The regular meeting date for the remaining weeks of this semester is to be on the first and third Monday evenings of the month at eight P. M.

Three members of the club journeyed to Richmond on Tuesday and completed arrangements with President Donovan of Eastern for the presentation of the Hog Rifle to the two schools and the winning team. The rifle was placed on display in a very prominent store in Richmond by the Eastern students.

One hundred stickers with the inscription "Eagles, Bring Home the Hog Rifle" were printed and handed out to various people on the campus.

President Caudill states that he hopes that it will be possible this year to build up an unbeatable spirit on the campus through the development of tradition.

New Members Are Admitted To Beaux Arts Group

Prospective members of the Beaux Arts Club were taken in at a special meeting Wednesday, October 28. The names of the new members will appear in the next issue of the paper.

Students are admitted to the organization on the merits of their work.

Naomi Claypool, sponsor of the organization, stated that those desiring to make talent on art see Herbert Webb, president of the club.

FOR BETTER INSURANCE

It has been recently proposed that a comprehensive course in Life Insurance be added to university curriculums.

This would not be a course for budding life insurance salesmen. Its purpose would be to instruct young men so that they can more intelligently and scientifically purchase insurance protection.

There is considerable merit in the proposal. It is estimated that 10 to 15 per cent of the entire income of business and professional men is invested in life insurance. And it is an undeniable fact that many of these men buy insurance in a more or less helter-skelter fashion, and are incapable of selecting the policies best suited to their needs.

A simple course of instruction that would show us how to buy insurance wisely, would be of immense and lasting benefit.

COLLEGE CIRCULAR DISCUSSES RABIES

An animal killed in the early stages of rabies may not show the organisms of the disease when its brain is examined; therefore it is best to confine a suspected animal three or four days and observe developments says a new circular of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, dealing with the subject of rabies. If a dog remains normal and shows no further symptoms to indicate rabies, probably it will not be necessary to kill him. The circular gives in a concise way much information which the public should know about rabies and how the disease affects animals and people. Ask for extension circular No. 284.

TASTY SANDWICHES HELP SCHOOL LUNCH

Attractive, easy sandwiches help to make the school lunch interesting and appetizing. The sandwiches are frequently the substantial part of the school lunch and therefore should be nutritious and easily digested. Miss Florence Inlay of the Kentucky College of Agriculture suggests that a variety of breads, such as rye, whole wheat, fruit and nut quick breads, and various types of fillings help to keep sandwiches from becoming monotonous.

Sandwich fillings should be moist but not soft enough to soak the buttered bread and tasty but not highly seasoned. About one-fourth cup of filling will make a sandwich moist and palatable.

Left-overs or small amounts of meat, cheese, nuts, dried fruits and raw vegetables can be utilized to excellent advantage in making sandwich fillings. The ingredients of most combinations should be chopped or minced finely and mixed with enough cream or salad dressing to make a moist mixture which will spread easily.

Bread for sandwiches should be at least 24 hours old so that it can be cut thin and spread with butter without crumbling. The butter should be creamed and a thin coating spread over the entire slice to make the sandwich palatable and prevent the filling from soaking the bread. All sandwiches should be wrapped carefully in waxed paper to keep them moist.

The following combinations make good sandwich fillings: Chopped meat, grated carrot, shredded cabbage, chopped onion, mayonnaise, sliced chicken, sliced celery, chopped parsley, mayonnaise. Chopped liver, crisp bacon, grated onion, moistened with cream, catsup or salad dressing.

TIME TO DESTROY APPLE TREE PESTS

This is a good time to destroy round-headed apple tree borers, a pest which has done much damage in recent years, particularly to young apple trees. Prof. W. A. Price of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky suggests that the soil to a depth of about 2 inches removed from about trees and the bark examined for burrows. When worms are found they can be cut out with a sharp pointed knife or probed with piece of flexible copper wire. The burrows which the worms make in the bark and wood often result in a complete loss of the tree.

ADVISES SEEDING GRASSES IN FALL

Grasses, with the exception of orchard grass for new meadows and pastures do better in Kentucky when sown in the fall, points out D. E. N. Fergus of the State college of Agriculture. Orchard grass sown in the fall sometimes winter-kills. Seedlings of other grasses do better in cool weather than in hot weather, especially if moisture is deficient. They also stand winter temperatures better. Fergus believes farmers would do well to give more attention to fall seeding for meadows and pastures.

TURKEY EGGS ALL RIGHT FOR BAKING

To most persons, turkey eggs always mean chicken eggs. There are eggs of other fowls, however, that are used for food. Probably the most common, next to hen eggs, are turkey eggs. Yet the average housewife thinks turkey eggs have only one purpose and that is for hatching.

Tests made by the home economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, and reported by Miss Edith Grundmeier, indicate that turkey eggs can satisfactorily be substituted for hen eggs. A turkey egg is equal to almost exactly one and a half hen eggs.

In making angel food cake, for instance, turkey eggs were found superior to chicken eggs. The color of the cake was whiter, the volume greater and the texture more tender. Miss Grundmeier says turkey egg whites were stiffly beaten, the turkey eggs had a blue-white color while the hen egg had a creamy-white color.

That the products made with turkey eggs were more tender and of greater volume was shown especially when plain and French meringues were prepared. Those made with turkey eggs were more tender, better shaped and in all respects delighted in appearance and superior in quality.

In cooked salad dressings and custards, the tests showed that the thickening qualities of turkey eggs are about as great as those of hen eggs and the deeper color is more pleasing. The color also is deeper when turkey eggs are used in making mayonnaise.

The general conclusion of Miss Grundmeier is that turkey eggs can be substituted for hen eggs and no one know the difference except the cook.

HERE'S ONE WAY TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE

The home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture notes that when reasonable care is exercised good coffee is the rule rather than the exception even when an ordinary coffeepot is used. The following recipe is suggested as one of several good ones.

To make better coffee, use a level tablespoon of coffee to the cup, add half of a teaspoonful of egg over a slow fire and take 15 minutes to bring to the boiling point, but do not allow to boil. As it is taken off the fire, put in half of a cup of cold water. The coffee can be poured almost immediately. The coffeepot should then be emptied, and thoroughly cleaned and aired to be ready for use next time.

GOOD TIME NOW TO SET TREES, SHRUBS

In landscape suggestions to Utopia club members, Prof. N. R. Elliott of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture notes that fall is one of the best times to make plantings in Kentucky.

Evergreens may be set any time now, he says, and other trees, shrubs, vines, biennial and perennial flowering plants as soon as the leaves fall.

In digging plants, leave as many roots as practicable and some soil about them. In the case of evergreens, there should be a ball of earth around the roots and care taken that this ball is not dried out by exposure to sun and wind.

Prune the top slightly, removing possible 10 or 12 inches from each branch, except the top or main lateral. Do not prune severely. Dig the holes 10 or 12 inches larger than required to accommodate the roots, and place the plant 2 inches deeper than where it was removed. Spread the roots in their position and cover with good soil. Tamp the soil around the roots and thoroughly soak with water.

Finish filling the hole, but do not tamp. Leave the soil slightly lower around the stem of the plant to catch the water. Never mound up around the plant.

Trunks of plants should be wrapped with paper or burlap and tied with string. Leave until the paper rots away.

Evergreens require frequent waterings during the winter when the temperature is above freezing, and all new plants should be well watered the first season.

Niwatoria Club Elects Officers For This Year

Graham, Hall, May, Miller Elected To Posts.

The Niwatoria Club of Allie Young Hall met Tuesday evening and elected officers for the coming year.

Those elected were Sylvia Graham, president; Alice Kirk Hall, vice-president; Opal May, secretary; and Marie Miller, treasurer.

All of the girls living in the hall who are eligible for membership will be admitted to the organization in the near future, according to Miss Robinson, club sponsor.

BANKS SPEAKS TO Y MEET WEDNESDAY

"Goals Of Education" Is Chosen For Subject.

Gabriel C. Banks, professor in the English Department, addressed the members of the Y. M. C. A. at its initial meeting Wednesday evening held in the lobby of Thompson Hall. He took for his subject the "Goals of Education."

Professor Banks stated that the "Soul is that part of man which should always be broadened along with the mind."

"The body should be kept in a clean state of condition at all times," he declared.

Through the efforts of the Y a piano has been put in the lobby of the boys' hall. Song books are to be purchased in the near future it was stated in the meeting following Banks' talk.

BILLS PAID MORE PROMPTLY IN 1936

Payments on open-credit accounts receivable of department stores were made at a higher rate during August of this year than in August 1935, while there was a seasonal decline from July to August of this year, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. The August installment collection rate was slightly lower than in August of last year, but exactly the same as in July of this year. The data on retail collection conditions are based on the credit operations of a representative group of more than 400 department stores reporting on open accounts and over 250 reporting on installment accounts, well distributed throughout the 12 districts of the Federal Reserve System.

COZY FEATURES "THE PRINCESS COMES ACROSS"

Carol Lombard fans, those of the inner circle who follow every detail of the Paramount costume of her face with their eyes, cannot fail to notice a new "something" about her in "The Princess Comes Across."

The picture, in which Miss Lombard is cast again with her sweetest, "The Princess Comes Across," Fred MacMurray, opens Sunday and Monday at the Cozy Theatre. She appears as a beautiful American girl, posing as a Swedish princess to gain a film contract.

The "something different" is evident from the first appearance of the lovely blonde on the screen. There is a certain accentuation of the sculptured quality of her face, a certain definition of character not seen before.

"The answer? It's her hair! Carol Lombard appears with her hair several shades darker than in previous pictures, on recommendation of Wally Westmore, chief makeup man for Paramount. There is something about a camera lens that makes it advisable.

"A growing demand for more character in the faces of feminine artists is behind the wave of hair-darkening in Hollywood," Westmore says. "The camera is more successful in catching the meaning of a face when hair is slightly less than accent blonde."

Carole is far more glamorous in this type of makeup than she has ever been before. Her features have a sculptured quality that could never be achieved with her hair as light as she used to wear it."

Westmore's belief is borne out of other recent changes of hair color in the film center. Joan Bennett has shaded her decided blonde tresses and gained an effect less sun-brown, more sophisticated. Jean Harlow abandoned platinum for golden brown. Joan Crawford, who tried one picture as a blonde, went back immediately to her original dark brown.

TRADE AT HOME

CONFIDENCE

The right thinking housewife is skeptical of the back door so-called salesman or the front door peddler. Hes a stranger and what he sells loses its appeal first for that reason. She knows that he is here today and gone tomorrow. If the merchandise proves of a doubtful quality, she is just out of luck.

The merchants of Morehead whose names appear on this page have invested large amounts of money in their business and expect to be here permanently. They could too sell questionable merchandise. So compare the housewife's state of mind in purchasing from a peddler and her confidence as chooses from the stock of a Morehead merchant. The business men are the backbone of this community, and as such are responsible for the growth and progress of the city. Housewives who thoughtlessly patronize peddlars or out-of-town shops are sending money away to build up other communities. Communities prosper and progress in a magic circle. Increased business affords increased employment, which in turn increases the amount of money in circulation, and the more money in circulation, the greater business becomes, and the greater amount of money in circulation the greater the employment, which in turn increases general prosperity and is felt by the entire community.
