The Bystander

Wesley K. Brown

A. HENRI A. TARKER.

BEYOND BE AWFUL. — ONLY a few weeks ago we told of the two fish who got their heads caught and those police mixed up, but a man furnishes the latest laugh when it comes to getting those fish mixed up.

The other day one of our prominent decided to perk up a bit and give himself a nice clean shave. He prepared water, brush and razor and grabbed a tube from the medicine cabinet. Dipping the brush gingerly into the tube he applied the cream and began to lather his face. Was his face white? He had applied some whitening instead of shaving soap. After about two hours of scrubbing, there was still a faint white streak around the edges of his hair and behind the ears.

A BUSINESS MAN'S SEVEN.— Year-old son recently went on a fishing trip. He returned back to his mother saying, "A catfish I have caught. Send more liver. We are having a swell time. Your loving son, B."

FISHING MEN OF THE WEEK.— Wilfred White, who caught a five pound fish from outside the professional man here who caught a large pike and told his friend, a restaurateur, to prepare it for a special meal and he was to be done there and eat it with him. When the fish-dinner was in readiness, the restaurateur man went to the telephone and asked for Dr. — and said, "Is this you, Doc? The fish is sizzling hot. Come and get it."

The doctor said he would be there immediately. A few minutes later at the restaurant in support the professional man.

But another one. Sending something came the host asked no questions and he took to the fish, the professional man, a doctor, did, but the restaurateur man deluded in hopes that he might save several pieces for the one who caught the fish, but black-and-white, they too, went the way of all the other tubs.

As the guest stepped from a feeling of well-being, the doctor-whom-fish appeared in the doorway? Seeing him first the restaurateur covered his eyes with his hands and he backed out the door with a puzzled frown.

Six months later when the three went together the doctor discovered the reason for the invitation. Of course, you know, the restaurateur dominated the doctor on the telephone unknowingly.

MUSIC, MARSH, PLEASE.

SCENES THIS WEEK.— OUR apologies to Woody Hinton for using "Country" in "The Night" scene's last week. "He's going out on 443 1/2" because he used the admittance to go to License plate 7M111. Deputy sheriff winning prize at sale for being ugliest man. Teacher blaming when told by friend a certain man was outside her room and it turned out to be someone else. Certain woman referring to her niece as going to college where she will be a "sock-snort" this year and a "sentry" snort next year.

WERE GOING TO MISS NEW! Memphis.

DR. AND MISS M. GARRER. Leave Friday for Tlemintaking, Quebec, Canada, for a two weeks hunting and fishing trip.

Dr. Garrison will be expected to get a bear or moose before he returns but if he doesn't he will have plenty of tales to tell (like Ellington, Doc).

FUBLY PERSONAL: WELL BE covered for that have returned. Bob. (See page 3.)

WHO LET AN UMBRELLA IN our car last week?

THIS SEEMS TO BE "OLD" Story? week. But if you had ever caught at a certain edge near here (we haven't either), you would hear a great deal of some of the practical jokes they used to play over there. "They" may have quieted down in the last few years but did you hear the one several years ago about the teacher whose lunch was stolen, not the one that was about (Continued on Page Eight)

College Enrollment, Incomplete, Shows Increase 43 Students

Is Largest College Enrollment in Three Years

Continuing the upward trend in enrollment for the last three years, 43 students had registered up to Wednesday morning at Morehead State Teachers College.

This is 43 more than the total for the first semester last year. Last students, who will be registering until October 11 are expected to increase the present mark to near 600. The enrollment during the first semester for the last three years is as follows: 1935, 476; 1937, 490; and 1938, 533.

U. of C. Professor Appointed. The appointment of Dr. Wayne H. Keller as head of the department of chemistry in the department of science was announced this week by President H. A. Babst. Dr. Keller, who has been an associate professor in the field of chemistry at the University of Kentucky will replace Dr. John L. Sullivan, resigned.

Dr. Keller received his A. B. degree from Georgetown in 1921; his M. S. at the University of Kentucky in 1922 and his Ph. D. at Cornell last year. He was also an instructor at Cornell.

President Babst announced the resignation of Miss Ernestine Troemel as head of the department of physical education for women. Her successor has not been named.

Dr. Sullivan accepted a position at Macomb State Teachers College in Wisconsin.

Students interested in work in commerce at Morehead State Teachers College will be pleased to learn that Dr. — has been added to the offerings in typewriting, shorthand and accounting. These courses, offered last year, are again being offered. Classes have been added in secretarial procedure and preparation of business letters.

Mr. Ross Anderson, who taught here the first summer term of this year, has been added to the teaching staff in the commerce department. Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Eastern State Teachers College and has been teaching at the University of Kentucky. He is a native of Kentucky and has taught the high schools of Kentucky. He is also a member of the University of Kentucky. He is a native of Kentucky and has taught the high schools of Kentucky. He is also a member of the University of Kentucky. He is a native of Kentucky and has taught the high schools of Kentucky. He is also a member of the University of Kentucky.

26 Freshmen Out For Football Squad

A promising group of 26 candidates for the Eagles football squad is speedily learning the fundamentals under the tutelage of Robert Laughlin, freshman coach.

The average weight of the frosh is surprisingly high, as can be seen by a hasty glance at their weight lists.

The list also includes several tongue twisters such as Kuzinevich, Robert W. Collins, 185; Junior Lawrence, 170 and Jack Dimsford, 165.

Trainers: Adner Collins, 185; Junior Lawrence, 170 and Jack Dimsford, 165.

Baptist Church Ready For Revival Meeting

Completing a religious census Sunday of this city, the Morehead Baptist church completed plans for a revival meeting to be held October 2 to 14.

A. L. Gillespie, Baptist student secretary of the church, stated in a letter to the Rev. Buell Kneze that the revival should be held on the campus as possible as well as college students. Prospects from the religious census are expected to augment the attendance at the meetings.

The Women's Missionary Society, which is engaged in a week of religious census, will give attention on the revival effort.

Meetings will be held in the hall at 10 a. m. and 7:15 p. m.

Docket For October Term of Circuit Court Is Light

Joe Day, Arthur Johnson To Await Action Of Grand Jury

The criminal docket for the October term of circuit court is light. Several civil cases are set for trial.

A few of the more important criminal cases set for trial are: Floyd Gearhart and Lloyd Gearhart, giving liquor to a minor, first day; Tom and Ted Wang, and Frank Ingram, assault and branding and confederating, first day; Wm. Tackett, assault, first day.

Real Fugate and Adley Baidridge, breach of the peace; first day; Ada Coltrina, selling liquor to minor, second day; Lee Baidridge, charged with shooting and without warning, second day; Orval Foug, charged with shooting and wounding, third day; Lyle Howard, obtaining money unlawfully, third day; Daniel Howard, charged with breach of the peace and shooting without warning, first day.

Day is also bound over by the county court to await the action of the grand jury on the charges of assault and entering, dynamiting fish, and shooting and wounding.

Arthur Johnson was bound over to the grand jury by the county court on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Vikings To Play At Winchester In Night Game Friday

James Butcher, Ray Barber Play Well Against Bull Dogs

Morehead Vikings play the Winchester Shawnees at Winchester in the first night game of the year for both of them. Lights have been recently installed at Winchester. The Vikings are expected to make a better showing Friday night against the Shawnees than they did against the Bull Dogs from Louisville here last Saturday when they lost 25 to 6.

Cochin Roy Holbrook's boys had only eight days of practice before last Saturday's game and went into the game without even a single scrimmage. Their offense lacked drive and good plays.

Romey Edwards, brother of Moon Edwards, of the Eagles, put over three of the touchdowns for Louisville.

James Butcher and Ray Barber turned in good games last Saturday, getting a large percentage of their tackles.

Paving Of College Street Is Okayed By Council Tuesday

Mrs. C. U. Waltz Is Lowest Bidder On Assessment Job

The city council passed an ordinance Tuesday night which will initiate work of paving College street.

A petition carrying the signatures of all the property owners on the south side of the street was presented to the council. Official approval of the action has been given by the college authorities to proceed, it was said. Morehead College owns the entire length of property on the north side of the street.

The cost of the project, which is estimated to be $10,000, will be paid by the property owners and the federal government, according to the wording of the ordinance. An application for Public Works Administration funds for 45 per cent will be made before October 1, the deadline for all PWA applications.

Several of the property owners who have been in contact with PWA officials said that the application will be approved. Because paving projects involve a great deal of labor, the local project is looked upon favorably by the PWA officials as an undertaking to have.

Although the ordinance authorizes issuance of 10-year call bonds for payment of the construction cost, the five property owners at the meeting indicated that all the property owners may decide to pay their portions outright.

Mrs. C. U. Waltz was elected sponsor by the council after the opening of bids. Mrs. Waltz was the lower bidder by one dollar.

Judging Team 12th MH Future Farmer

Ninety Teams Entered In Contest; Is First Trial For Locals

By Carl Wade

Three high school boys from the vocational agriculture department represented the Future Farmers chapter in a state judging contest at the state fair in Louisville.

The team was composed of Maurice Hall, of Morehead, Elmo Murray, Smile, and Addison Fouch, of Winchester.

Teams were allowed to enter in one of three classes of livestock, dairy cattle, fat stock and poultry. The team entered the dairy class to compete in the contest. There were ninety teams in the contest and the Morehead team ranked eighth best in the state on final placing and points of the score card.

Honorable mention was given the team for their excellent work on the dairy cattle. The members of the team and their coach had a very nice time, meeting other teams from other parts of the state and seeing the interesting exhibits at the fair.

The members of the team had no success in their other classes. The Morehead F. F. A. chapter will send a judging team to the state fair every year. There is an entrance fee for three boys to participate in the judging contest next year.

For the week beginning September 18th the classes will get on seed corn judging contests within the class, cut a flock of white Leghorns and make a judge for the Bowen County Fair the last of the month.

WIN EXPECTED SATURDAY WHEN EAGLES MEET DINOSAURS

Opening with Alfred Holbrook Dinosaurs, of Ohio, Saturday night, the Morehead Eagles will give fans of this section an idea of what to expect of them.

The Eagles are expected to win although Holbrook's Dinosaurs are rated as being much stronger than the Eagles.

The Dinosaurs were defeated Saturday to 6 by Union College. The Eagles are expected to make a better showing Saturday night against the Dinosaurs than they did against the Bulls last Saturday.

The Eagles have been entering out faithfully and appear to be in good condition. Cooper Reynolds was the only injured member of the team up to Wednesday. He has a bruised hip. The varsity and

WHO'S WHO IN MOREHEAD

WILLIAM HOMER RICE

Wm. H. Rice, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Morehead State Teachers College, knows when fall comes by the tang of freshmen on the campus and football in the air.

Mr. Rice played four years of football on the University of Kentucky and lost only two minutes of play in some thirty-three games. He has played those four years by a year of pro-football with the Chicago Opala in Chicago. Until he went to the university he had never felt a pigskin.

Mr. Rice was born in Lewisburg near Mayville, March 28, 1904, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harvey Rice. He attended Mayville grade and high school, graduating in 1921. He played three years of basketball. He also became a member of the Triangle engineering fraternity.

Coming from U. K. as a mining engineer in 1926 and after spending a year in pre-football he took a job as engineer for a Chicago company at Hazlet, Ky. He stayed there for five years and came to Morehead as building plant grounds superintendent in 1931.

Since then he has served on the city council two full terms, during which time he was mainly engaged in securing gas into this city. He was also president of the Young Democratic club of Morehead for several years.

Mr. Rice married Virginia Heizer, of Lexington, on Christmas Day, 1926. They have two boys, Lucian Harry, four, and William Homer, Jr., seven.

2 More Suits Over College View Lots Are Filed In Court

Robert L. Bays And John Bays Say Defendants Not Owners

Two more suits involving the College View Acre lots were filed Monday with Circuit Court Clerk Joe McKinney.

Both of them make Chas and Nannie Holbrook defendants. Robert L. Bays, Jr. and John Bays, the plaintiffs have filed separate petitions charging that Chas and Nannie Holbrook have claimed by deed the title to a garage here.

Both cars were very badly damaged. From the appearance of the head-on collision it seems to have occurred. The front of the car is completely caved in.

The coal truck was taken to Olive Hill and Keagle's to a garage here.

Keagle's widow died a year ago, the day of the accident.

Newton Meinhart, Druggist, Dies Here

Had Been In Business In Ashland For Many Years

Newton Pollock Meinhart, native of Ashland and an Ashland druggist for many years, died suddenly Saturday evening at 10:48 o'clock at a room in a hotel here.

Mr. Meinhart, in apparently good health, went to his room earlier in the evening, became ill and suffered a severe heart attack.

He was born in Ashland, the son of Wendell W. Meinhart, druggist, and Caroline Sauer Meinhart. During the early development of the city of Ashland the elder Mr. Meinhart was a leading druggist and became the first proprietor of the Ventura Drug Store.

At the death of his father in 1904, Newton succeeded him in that position and served in that capacity until four years ago. He resided in Ashland until last February when he accepted a position as pharmacist in the C. E. Bishop drug store.

His prompt and courteous service as a druggist gained for him a host of friends who will be missed.

Saturday Is Booster Day In Independent Subscription Contest

Nine O'Clock Saturday Night Will Be Deadline On Big Club Votes

Saturday, September 24, will be "Booster's Day" in our big subscription campaign, and each worker is asked to bring in at least TWO full clubs of $20.00 each on that day.

"Help us make 'Boosters' Day" a big success. If you find you cannot collect as much as two clubs, then do what you can. Workers should bear in mind that each club of $20 remitted to the campaign office up to and including Boosters' Day, Saturday, September 24, will draw an EXTRA 100,000 votes and after this date this offer is discontinued.

Never again during the entire campaign will a club draw any more extra votes and it most certainly is up to each participant to work in high gear this week.

Boosters' Day and the big club offer will be brought to a close promptly at nine o'clock, Saturday night, September 24. Workers wishing to make their reports in person must be in the campaign office by this hour or they will be too late to get their report on this special offer.

Workers living in the country will have the privilege of mailing their reports at their respective mailing points by the closing hour Saturday and they will be notified by this hour or they will be too late to get their report on this special offer.

Charles Keagle Is Seriously Injured In Automobile Wreck

Cars Collide On Flemingsburg Road Early Monday Morning

Chas. Keagle, who lives on the Flemingsburg road about three miles from Morehead, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Monday morning as he was going to work. He is an employee at the Kentucky Firebrick Company at Hazlet, Ky. His condition is reported to be serious.

Keagle's car and a coal truck belonging to Frank James, Olive Hill, collided near his home about 7 a. m. Monday. It has been reported that all night and the sick condition of the pavement is attributed as one of the probable causes of the accident.

Keagle received a probable fractured skull and a broken leg besides other injuries. He was taken to the Kings Daughter hospital in Ashland.

Both cars were very badly damaged. From the appearance of the head-on collision it seems to have occurred. The front of the car is completely caved in.

The coal truck was taken to Olive Hill and Keagle's to a garage here.

Keagle's widow died a year ago, the day of the accident.

It's Time For The Fairs

It is estimated that something like three thousand county and community fairs will be staged in the United States during the next few weeks.

These community fairs will range between the extremes of excellence and worthlessness. Some of them will merely be an excuse for cheap carnival companies to set up midway stands that are marked by various gambling devices and undesirable shows.

In this connection, it is worth calling attention to the fact that the United States Government appropriates millions of dollars for participation in large fairs, such as the exhibitions to be staged in San Francisco and New York in the near future.

Not Enough Young Men Going To College

Some persons quite often remark that there are too many young men going to college—look at all those who don't have jobs. It's a waste of money and time besides usually working a hardship on many parents, they will say.

President Hutchins of the University of Chicago refuted these remarks in a recent column of Dr. A. E. Wiggins in the Courier-Journal when he said that getting a job is one object but not the sole object of a college education.

Moreover, when jobs revive—as they always have and always will be—the trained or untrained men will go the jobs. While college jobs are now few and far between, there are far more non-college men seeking jobs. And in the long run the college man earns more than twice as high a salary as the non-college man," he said.

Is War Inevitable?

As this paper goes to press news from Europe indicates that the probability of war between the nations is stronger than at any time since 1914 when the most horrible, most disastrous war of all time began.

It was Germany in 1914 which started the World War. It is Germany today which threatens the peace and security of the world—and the possible destruction of civilization. Millions of men are now under arms in Europe and nations are being put on a wartime basis. Conditions in Europe are strained. Military leaders are nervous and only a trivial incident may start another conflagration the result of which will be horrible to contemplate.

Engraved on the marble memorial in the courthouse square will be found the names of the twenty-four of our own boys who paid the supreme sacrifice during the bloody conflict between 1917 and 1918. The names of twenty-four fine young men and the hearts of twenty-four mothers broken because of the caprice of a few war lords! Will history repeat itself? God forbid! Let Europe fight its own battles. Let America keep aloof of all entangling alliances with Europe which might draw us into the vortex of such a destructive halocaust as that of 1917 and 1918, and thus preserve the flower of American manhood. —Painville Herald.

Printing For All

Printing is more widely used today than ever before, but like many of the indispensable aids to modern living we are in the habit of taking it for granted, somewhat like the air we breathe.

But there is printing and printing. A printing press is an inanimate thing that can turn out an ordinary or extraordinary product, depending upon the skill of the operator. Poor printing, although it may be lower in price, is the least economical to buy.

Good printing, done with modern type expertly composed and on excellent paper, is always worth the slight additional cost. The business firm or individual who uses good printing is advertising good taste and intelligence. Both are assets that cannot be prized too highly.

Good printing requires architecture as well as press work. Consult us now about that job you know you will need this fall. An extra week or two in its preparation will add nothing to the bill, but it will enable us to do our utmost to please you. Printing can be done in a matter of hours or minutes when necessary, but when speed is not all-important a better product can be produced if there is time for pressing. The advertising potentialities of printing cannot be overestimated. Its invention was the greatest forward step ever taken by man.

Advice To Youth—

Anyway, It's Advice

We are urged by a reader to write something in the way of advice to young people and while we do not have any idea that many young people are anxiously watching for our utterance, we will take a chance.

First of all, we would say to young men and women, about to begin life for themselves, that they should guard against making the mistake that sets the acquisition of money as the first objective of human activity.

Secondly, we would urge them to seek an understanding of the expression of happiness is not within themselves, rather than in other people or external things.

In the third place, we would suggest that, in their youthful zeal and enthusiasm, they remember that the world is an old place, populated by an ancient race, and that human relationships and customs are not to be lightly challenged, or thrown into the ash can.

For the fourth, and last piece of advice, as least for this issue, we would induce them to seriously set their own values upon all things and once convinced of the valuation of anything that they live their life on the basis of honest appraisal.—Watonga (Okla.) Republican.

Seek Fortune In Big Or Little Cities

In Brooklyn, a magistrate told a crippled youth arrested for begging that "the big city" is no longer a place to seek for fortune.

This was but one man's opinion, but even as such leads to conjecture as to its truth. New York, of course, is "the big city." Always it has been the Mecca of American youth aspiring to profession and financial heights. It is probable, however, that the most of those who rose to these heights there, especially along financial lines, got their starts elsewhere and migrated to the metropolis only after they had begun to accumulate.

At times past, many a young man or young woman has gone to New York or to some other great city, there to plant feet on the ladder of success and to rise to comfort if not always to affluence.

For several years New York has been warning its youngsters against coming there to look for work. The duties, in a depression created condition which will pass to a large extent when times are better. Certainly, any American community could justifiably issue a similar warning. Despite all this, young men and women do go to New York, still and many of them find jobs. In such a period as this the public bears much of those who fail to secure employment, little of those that get places.—Russell Times.

Holiday Toll

In spite of everything that could be done by admonitions and warnings in the press of the country the Labor Day holiday season took a toll of 365 lives, 274 of the fatalities were due to automobile accidents. Thousands were more or less seriously injured. In only three states were there no automobile tragedies.

Ohio had 26 automobile fatalities, New York had 19, Michigan had 26, Kentucky had 11. So it runs throughout the nation. There were, in addition, drownings, suicides, homicides, and miscellaneous accidents that proved fatal.

It would be interesting to have an analysis of the automobile accidents in which persons were killed in order to determine, if possible the underlying causes, whether due to some mechanical defect, to bad road conditions, to glaring headlights, to incompetence or recklessness, or to drink.

It would be interesting, too, to know the ages of the drivers involved in accidents, as well as the drivers involved in this character for the whole country would throw much light upon the accident problem.

The only encouraging sign is that for the first seven months of 1938, as compared with the corresponding period in 1937, there has been a reduction of more than 5,000 in the number of fatalities on the road. There is nothing but education, here a little there a little, precept upon precept, line upon line, that will bring about the improvement which we all desire and common sense of the people demand. We will know we are doing best when we are carried on against all discouragements. The most hopeful field is in the schools. Drivers must be taken young.—Lexington Herald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson For September 25

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 23 and 27:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." Psalm 23:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Song of the Shepherdess. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Song of a Shepherd Boy.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Songs of Faith and Courage.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Steadfast and Triumphant Faith.

What a fitting conclusion to our three-month study of Old Testament characters it is to sound the note of "triumphant faith." The life stories which have passed in review have been true to life, as they have shifted from strength to weakness, from fear to courage, from moral responsibility to moral weakness. But God is the one who changeth not and we would not close our series properly without the encouraging reminder that the man who truly believes God may know strength out of weakness, courage in place of fear, may like David, rise out of degrading sin and defeat into the joy and victory of the faith.

Two elemental needs are common to all mankind—provision for the maintenance of life, both physical and spiritual, and protection from the enemies of soul and body. Our first Scripture portion declares the faith of David in God as his prividing shepherd, and the second as his security from sin.

1. Provisions (Ps. 23). "The Lord is my shepherd," says the Psalmist. Putting God first in every detail of life means that there will be:

1. No want (v. 1-6). "My cup runneth over," and surely then there can be no lack of any good thing. We, like David, should trust Him.

2. No weakness (v. 3). "He restoreth my soul." The world is puzzled by the rejuvenating power of the grace of God in the Christian's soul, but it becomes very real to us through the Word, through prayer, and through close indwelling of the Holy Spirit Himself.

3. No wandering (v. 3). "He leadeth me in an unguessed dangerous country the essential thing is to stay close to one's guide, in the wilderness of this sinful world we must keep close to our divine Leader. He knows where the still waters and the green pastures are to be found, even in wildest and most barren land.

4. No worry (v. 6). "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." It was true of David, it is (or should be), preeminently true of each and every Christian. Damascus has said, "If we trust we do not worry; if we worry we do not trust."

5. Protection (Ps. 27:1-6). "The Lord is my light and my salvation"—could there be any greater certainty that we shall be delivered from every danger and difficulty? To the one who walks in that light there can be:

1. No fear (v. 1). "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid? He is the perfect and final answer to all the fears of life.

2. No failure (vv. 2, 3). "Though an host should encamp against me, in this I shall be confident," that they shall but stumble and fall. One of the fears that dogs the footsteps of man is that after all his effort and labor some enemy will come in and destroy. The Christian must often meet wicked and troublesome enemies—but though they be a host, he may be serene in his soul, knowing that if he is right with God the devils of man or devil against him shall only fail.

3. No falling (vv. 4, 5). "He shall set me upon a rock," and that that rock is the "secret of his tabernacle." The assurance of the believer in Christ is in Him, His work upon the cross and His certain word of promise.

David longed for the house of the Lord; he wanted to return to the temple from which his many wanderings had often separated him. How blessed is our lot as Christians for we have in our own bodies the temple of the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 3:16, 17); we have Christ in us as the hope of glory (Col. 1:22). We also longed to be "in God's house" (that is if we really love Him), but if we are born again we have the temple of God wherever we may be. 4. No fainting (v. 6). "Now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me." Just when, solemnly speaking, we would faint because of the enemies all-round us, or by reason of the heat and pressure of the fight, then God causes our heads to be lifted up and in the moment of apparent defeat there is victory. 5. No song. "I will sing as I have sung." The Lord praises unto the Lord." This atmosphere of praise is one which the enemies of our soul cannot stand. It is too rare, too pure, too holy for him. Next time he tries to defeat you—why not "Try Praise!" It always works!

two days later, but it took her a long time to read it. She read it a second, then a third time. She could not quite believe that what she had read the first time was really written on the page. She must go to Cynthia at once. There must be no risk that she should hear this astounding news from anyone but her. News—and its ugly sister, gossip—could travel as fast as lightning. In a few minutes she was in Cynthia's living room. She handed her the letter; it would be easier for both of them, than for her to read it alone.

"Thank you, mother. It is a shock, of course—I've always had a hope that it was all a mistake—that one day I'd go to the door and Steve would be there—come back to Ellen and me—that we could pick up our life where we let it fall. Well, that hope is gone."

"You are a brave girl, Cynthia, and I love you. And you aren't the only person who hoped that, I, too, had thought—and now he writes this!"

"I've always loved you, Cynthia. I always shall. And now Steve writes he is marrying and right away, a girl I have never seen, knowing nothing about."

"Cynthia who was a past mistress at casting herself in the role of a noble, understanding woman, shook her head.

"Steve is a fine girl, I'm sure, if Steve loves her. There is nothing cheap or show about him. He couldn't choose anyone who was second rate."

"Mrs. Holland laid her hand over Cynthia's.

"I hope you are right, dear. Of course, Steve is fine himself—but the best of men can be such fools where a pretty woman is concerned. He made a mistake when he gave you up. He may be making another now."

"Mother, your loyalty to me has been, after Ellen, the one comfort I've had since Steve went away. But you mustn't let that loyalty, prejudice you against Steve's wife. I am proud that you still treat me as a daughter. One thing I want you to do—" nothing of disapproval or ungraciousness in the telegram, but it made him apprehensive.

"So—" he said to himself, when he hung up the phone. "Cynthia has started to work on mother already. Brave, is she? Generous! Oh, yes—I'll have to be on my guard, I see."

Marie had a little frown on her face when he arrived late at the party.

Marie. I told her, among other things, that if I had the whole world from which to choose a wife for you, Marie would be the lucky girl."

"That's fine of you, Aunt Emma," he said. "I know mother will agree with you when she knows Marie. You weren't worried about that, were you?"

"Steve, I'm going to be perfectly frank with you. Your mother and I have known each other, been intimate friends since we went to kindergarten together. I loved her as devoutly as if she were my sister. But the best qualities in her ironically, often do harm. I'm thinking of her feeling for Cynthia. I admire her for treating her as she does—there is no reason why she shouldn't. But I don't trust Cynthia or her influence over your mother. Just watch out, Steve—don't let Marie have any difficulties which can be avoided. Maybe I'm wrong about Cynthia. I hope so. But somewhere in your mind, remember what I'm saying."

"But I don't quote me ever—but I feel just as you do about this."

"I was hoping we'd meet each other," said Stephen.

never let me feel sorry for myself. Why should I? After all there will always be one bond between Steve and me which nothing can break—Ellen."

"I won't have you humiliated, Cynthia."

"As long as I know that I have done nothing shameful, I can stay in your life—Steve will expect you to make a place in it for his new wife, too. You owe her loyalty, as well as me. She is probably younger than I, certainly she is less experienced; perhaps she is not one who can face unpleasant things. You must stand by her. It may not be altogether easy for her, here in the town where I have lived all my life."

"I only hope she is half the woman you are, dear," said Mrs. Holland.

For the first time since he had come to Washington, Stephen and Marie did not see each other that day. He had to go to Baltimore on some business and Marie was with last minute preparations for a party her grandmother was giving in the evening, to announce to their friends the engagement.

Steve's train was late and when he arrived at his hotel he found he had little time to bathe and get ready for the evening. Then he read a telegram which had come from his mother. No matter how it delayed him, he must speak to her before he went to the party. He didn't know exactly why the tone of the telegram worried him, but it did. She had said she could not come to Washington for the wedding, which was to take place in about ten days; of course Stephen and his bride must stay with her when they came home, until they found a house. There was

"Whatever made you so late, darling?" she asked. "I was worried. Everybody is here and giving me commiserating looks—I know they have been thinking you are deserting me just for Granny—the dark looks she has been giving."

"I had a wire from my mother. I phoned her. No, there's nothing wrong. I just wanted to make sure, when she said she couldn't come to the wedding and—well I wanted to tell her, as well as write her, what a lucky man I am."

Marie's hand on his arm pressed it tightly and her voice was serious when she spoke.

"Oh Steve, do you think she will like me? Really and truly like me?"

"Don't waste time asking foolish questions. She will adore you."

"Oh I do hope so. But women don't always like the women their sons marry, you know."

"Don't let that worry you, dear. Mother is grand and you are grand and—"

"But even if she doesn't like me—if nobody in your town cottons to me, Steve, I can stand it—as long as you do. That's all that really matters. And now I have to go back to the guests and flout you before they see."

The first person to speak to them was Mrs. Kingsley. Steve told her she mustn't forget she had promised to dance the first rhumba-be with him.

"I always promise everybody the first rhumba," she said, "pay no attention to it. Then as she saw Marie had gone in to answer her grandmother's beckoning, she said in a low voice: "Steve, I wrote your mother a long letter about these be her last words on the subject, but they were not. Just before she and the Senator were leaving she asked Marie when they were to be married.

"One day next week," said Marie. "We're not having a real wedding—just Grandmother and you and your husband and one or two other friends. We don't want a big affair. It's not good taste—Steve's had it once."

"I know. I was there. I wondered then how it would turn out."

"Why?"

"I don't know why I felt as I did. Cynthia is beautiful, charming, intelligent—and you know how I like Steve."

"Tell me, Mrs. Kingsley—naturally I can't ask Steve, — Cynthia, as you call her, can't make things unpleasant, can she? Would she want to?"

"Marie dear, I wish I knew the answers to those questions. I don't. All I know is that I never really liked Cynthia. But this I do know: you are going to the place where Steve and she were born, where they have lived all their lives. Add these small cozy cities, like Duplewood, take divorce and remarriage very hard sometimes. Of course plenty of people are divorced and marry again. But it isn't the same as being in a big city. And there is something else—people in small cities often resent those who come from outside. They are classish, you might say."

Marie meant her head high and her voice had an unusual note in it, as she spoke.

"You know—nothing you or any one else can say will keep me from marrying Steve."

"It shouldn't," said the older woman. "You love each other. That is what is important. I didn't mean to say these things to you—but I'm glad I have. It is best that you should know that you will be on a spot, at first. You'll win out, I know. But at first, my dear, you'll be in enemy territory."

Billie Blacks Blarney

Coach Phelan at the University of Washington has a 210-pound, triple-threat fullback named Mucha. That's much Mucha, eh, what? Don Budge, after coming within an ace of losing a set for the first time this year, turned on the heat in the national singles championship to polish off England's Hare, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Bitzy Grant, the Mighty Mile from Atlanta, under doctor's orders quit tennis a month ago, surprised spectators by defeating Adriaan Quist, No. 1 Australian, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5. Alex Wojciechowski, former Fordham All-American, is handling out cigars now. Alex, Jr., weighed seven pounds at birth, and looks like good material for the 1980 All-American. Transylvania may take to the air more this year after the discovery of a good pass receiver in the person of one "Slug" Bramlage, who caused the Eagles a lot of trouble in the game here last year.

How much longer is this speed duel between Capt. George Eyston and John Cobb going to keep up? Friday Eyston sent his 24 cylinder racer rocketing across the salt flats at Bonneville, Utah, at the incredible speed of 357 m. p. m. immediately after Eyston finished Cobb announced that "We're getting on dangerous ground" whenever he indicated that he may try for 360 in a few days.

Murray is going to be a tough one for the Eagles. Friday night they defeated Superior Wisconsin State Teachers 20-0. And make that a big zero. Superior didn't cross the 50-yard line in the last half.

Last week I predicted that Morehead would beat Holbrook 34-0. Last year Holbrook defeated Union 6-0 and the Eagles in turn swamped Holbrook 60-0. Last year Holbrook won 19-0 with practically the same team they had last year. That apparently gives Morehead an 85 point edge over Holbrook but anything might happen. Meanwhile, what's your guess?

The Eagles are to meet Western on the gridiron next fall for the first time in the history of the two schools. The 1939 schedule will probably include several teams of better calibre.

Ray Barber and James Butcher turned in a good game for Morehead high in the game with Louisa here last Saturday. The team showed much improvement over last year and will probably make a better showing this Friday when they tackle Winchester there in a night game.

Romey Edwards, No. 63, on the Bulldog team is a brother to "Moon" Edwards, tackle for the Eagles. He quarterbacked for the Louisa team and gave a good account of himself here. Personally, he accounted for three markers. Moon has four brothers, all of whom were at the game Saturday. Two or three times when Romey fumbled, Moon, who had proclaimed his brother's sterling qualities to all seated near him had to grin and bear unmindful of the raspberries tossed at him.

This week's predictions: Eagles, 36; Dinosaurs, 0. U. of K., 25; Maryville 0. Vikings, 0; Winchester, 21. Eastern 19; Georgetown, 5. S. California, 14; Alabama, 0. Minnesota, 0; Washington, 14. Pittsburgh, 7; West Virginia, 6. St. Mary's, 6; California, 0.

B. B. Adkins, of Lockwood, W. Va., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Meyers.

Miss Virgie Rice, of Soldier, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Higgins, of Ashland, were the week-end visitors of Mr. Higgins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Higgins.

A group of church members attended an annual church meeting near West Liberty Sunday. A pie supper given at the Farmers school last Thursday cleared $53.

Joseph Higgins, of Salersville, has been visiting his brother, Leslie Higgins, for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Warren May has returned to her home after visiting her sister, Mrs. Martha Dent, of Ashland.

Mrs. Norma Cox, of Washington, D. C., spent last Thursday at the home of H. B. Dameron.

Information On '37 Social Security Wages Is Available

Employees Can Get Amount Of Old-Age Insurance Account

Any worker for whom an old-age insurance account has been established may obtain from the Social Security board a statement showing the amount of wages credited to his account for 1937 on the basis of reports made by employers, according to a statement of M. E. Vaughn, of Lexington, who represents the board in this district.

For the convenience of those who want such a statement, the board has sent to all its field offices post cards which have printed on them the request for wage information. Space is left for the wage earner to write in his name, account number, and address. The card should be mailed, either with a 1-cent stamp, or in a sealed envelope addressed to the Social Security Board, Chandler Building, Baltimore, Maryland. A second form has also been made available at all Social Security offices for the use of anyone who believes that he earned wages that were not reported. On this form the wage earner should list each employer for whom he has worked, how long he was employed by each, and the wages he received. Mr. Vaughn said that he and all other office managers have been instructed to suggest to all individuals requesting wage information that they use the postcard form, since request made by letter cannot be handled by the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance as rapidly as those made on the forms.

Request for statements of wage accounts already have been received from more than 12,000 wage earners, according to John J. Carson, director of the board's bureau of old-age insurance. The bureau, he said, had replied to those making such requests and had received in return almost no complaints that the statements of wages did not include all the wages they had been paid.

The only cases in which it was impossible to provide applicants with statements of wages received were those in which the individuals had been engaged in employment not covered by the Social Security Act, such as railroad work, farm labor, and domestic service.

SEAS BRANCH

Albe Porter and Thelma Fraley

The pupils and teachers are very glad to have Corbet Smith in school again. He has just returned from the hospital and is improving nicely.

Our pie supper brought about $22.00. There was good order and splendid cooperation. This money will be used to transport the pupils to the Fair and buy supplies for the school.

The Seas Branch school visited the Christian church on Friday afternoon, September 9 and an interesting ball game followed. Bradley scored 17 runs, and Seas Branch but 14. This was a hard-fought game but it was played in a good spirit. Seas Branch won a game played previously.

Those having perfect attendance for the second month in the small room were Rodney Porter, Illburn Thomas, Wayne Porter, Ruby Smith, Olga Thomas, Earl Crum, William DeHart, Johnnie Lewis, Dewitt Williams, Willie Jones, Jr., Grant Thomas, Jr., Nolan Oliver Thomas, Leola Thomas, Loretta Williams, Edith Thomas, Farrel James, Nema Kidd, Martha Souka, Loretta Fultz, Meda Fultz, Golda Smith, Ruby Thomas.

In the upper grade room in the following were perfect in attendance:

- Charles Jones, Marvin Kidd, Tommie Sloan, Vernon Sparks, Edna Fultz, Opal Fultz, Luanna Thomas, Willie Thomas, Claude Jones, Loree Kidd, Norman Smith, Claude Thomas, Earl Thomas, Eltra Conn, Geneva Fultz, Jennetta Fultz, Mildred A. Jones, Ruby Ward, Ruth Williams, Estill Hamilton, Walter Smith, Edgar Sparks, James E. Thomas, Willie Thomas, Elizabeth Ward, Maxine White.
- The percentage of attendance in the upper room for the second month was 97.2. Several students were absent the second month because of tonsillitis.

BIG BRUSHY

Muri McFarland

The Big Brushy school is planning on having a perfect supper, Saturday, September 24, 1938. They are planning a program also. It will be held at the Big Brushy school house at 5:30 p. m.

The visitors who have been to the school this week are Christian Cooper, Loma Kiser, Eula Fryman.

We are glad that two of our schoolmates have come back to school (Henry Fannin and Alice Fannin). They have decided not to move yet. Noah Reeves was our only absent pupil from school this week.

CHARITY

Ana Croustwalt

(Written by a Charity student)

Our school grounds have been improved since the opening of school.

The school wants to thank Mr. George Ellington for his team and mowing machine, and also Mr. Roy Alfrey for operating the machine. The work James has added much to the outside appearance.

We are working on new methods of attendance. We are striving for the 100 per cent attendance at least during one month this school term.

The teacher of our school has seen almost every parent in the school district and is planning to see those few remaining before long.

Squirrel Limit Is 6—Licenses To Contrary

About twenty Rowan county licensed hunters can kill twice the legal daily bag squirrel limit and perhaps they can get away with it in court—maybe.

About that number of old licenses carrying an outdated law limit schedule of 12 squirrels was issued to hunters before the error was noticed. A new law went into effect July 1, cutting the limit to six. Licenses now being issued have been correctly marked so that the holders cannot give them as an excuse when caught with more than six squirrels.

Holders of the old licenses might get away with exceeding the six-squirrel limit when caught by the game warden the first time, but woe unto him

A severe drought followed by abnormally heavy rains coupled with destruction by disease not only resulted in a decrease in total production but also in the season's yield. The first crop forecast issued indicated the 1937-38 production decreased about 28 per cent from the 1936-37 crop.

MOORE

Virginia Dawson

The second month of school ended with only four absences caused by two seventh grade pupils who were ill. A picnic was held at noon, Friday, September 9, in a large grove near the school. Cool-ades and cookies were served. Just as the children started to eat, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Gullett, and Ruth Potter arrived with baskets of sandwiches and cake. It was a happy surprise for both children and teacher. September poems were recited, games played, several kodak pictures taken and wild flowers gathered. Other parents who visited the school Friday were Andy McClurg, Mrs. Della Collins and Mrs. Mary Ramey.

We were glad to have the county health doctor and nurse with us Tuesday, September 6.

We are happy to welcome Peggy Christian back to Moore school. She attended Moore school until two years ago. Since that time she has lived at Olive Hill and in Indiana.

Thirteen dollars was raised at the pie supper held August 26. A new pencil sharpener, a volume of Mother Goose Rhymes and some materials for work on the fair have been purchased with the money.

Pupil Enrollment At Farmers Hits New High Record

The enrollment for the high school in the Farmers consolidated school reached an all-time high this semester. Mr. Riddle, principal, has enrolled thirty-five pupils and is expecting a few more. This increase of enrollment is probably due to the near completion of the new building.

The annual Farmers P-T. A. pie supper was held at the school building last Thursday night (September 8). The event was a great success. Everyone had all the pie he could eat and all the fun he could handle.

Miss Lucille Hamper was chosen as the most popular girl and Otto Archer was elected the ugliest man, not only at the pie supper, but in the community.

The P-T. A. cleared $53.58 on this occasion, which makes their net capital over a hundred dollars. This money, as has been the practice in the past, will be used to purchase school and library supplies and blinds and door mats for the new building.

Since the P-T. A. inaugurated its grade-mother policy, at its last meeting, there have been well over a dozen mothers to visit the school since it started.

Prepare for Boiler Room

The east-end room of the old building has been torn down in preparation for construction of the boiler room for the new building. Mr. Cornette was here early this week to survey the situation and said immediate action would be taken on the proposed heating plant for the new building. (This has been done—Ed.)

To Exhibit Terrestrial Ball

The seventh grade under the guidance of Mrs. Burrows has launched one of the largest projects which this school will sponsor the coming fair. This project consists of making a full 24-inch world map on a globe. It is being used for the temporary core and salt, flour, paper pulp and paper-mache are being debated as material for the surface. We want everyone to see this project while it is on display at the fair.

P-T. A. Very Active

The P-T. A. met Friday afternoon to continue their activities for the school year. This P-T. A. is probably the most active in the county, being, as informed, the only organization in the county who carried on their activities during the summer months. They have sponsored three meetings since last June. One of these was a regular meeting and the other two were an apron and food sale and an ice cream supper. At the meeting last Friday plans were made for the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair. It was decided that every member would make at least one entry in the fair. Another program was instituted to enroll greater interest in the school by the parents. If this plan works we'll tell you all about it later. They further decided to sponsor another pie social at the school Thursday night. Come down and visit us Thursday. We guarantee you a good time.

The High School Class organization has chosen the following officers:

Malcolm Jones, president; Russell Flannery, vice-president; Glen S. Turner, secretary; Utebach, Treasurer; Austin Riddle, sponsor.

There were not many plans for the first meeting. They haven't planned to raise money to decorate their rooms. A suggestion was made to buy a radio. This will be discussed further at a later meeting.

The first and second grades have their supply cabinet painted and new curtains. The desk and waste paper basket have also been painted. Two new book shelves are being added. They are now working on a health unit. Next week art projects in clay modeling will be started. We have seventeen children enrolled in our room. They promise to attend school every day and a prize will be offered at the end of a two-month period for perfect attendance.

Harold Pelfrey and Christine Hall are busily directing and executing many of the children's ideas for the fair. The fifth and sixth grades have discussed organizing a club but this project was dropped. These rooms started the school year by having a hundred percent attendance in the lower grades. The teachers of these grades are Miss Henrietta Maze, Miss Christine Hall and Mr. Harold Pelfrey. All three of these teachers anticipate perfect attendance for the month.

School opened in the old building but its services are almost over. Miss Maze, first and second grade teacher, is already in the new building and the other teachers are ready to move within the next few weeks.

Haldeman P-T. A. Will Hold Initial Meeting Next Week

Read Being Organized; Cost Of Instruments Set At $3,000 to $4,000

The P-T. A. held their first meeting Tuesday night. The officers are as follows: Mrs. John Kelley, president; Mrs. Noah Danner, vice-president; and Mrs. Glen BoCook, secretary and treasurer. The members discussed arrangements for purchasing inside sanitary toilets for the new Haldeman school.

The enrollment for Haldeman now stands at 423. Uictures were taken on Thursday of the school children and buildings.

The children of the Haldeman high school are rejoicing over the revival of the band. There will be a community meeting at Haldeman on Wednesday of this week at 3 o'clock p. m. They will discuss the arrangements and plans of the band. Mr. Danner, a resident of Morehead, will come to Haldeman twice a week to direct the band. The instruments cost between four and five thousand dollars.

The Junior Citizenship Club is the newly organized home room club of the Haldeman eighth grade. Officers are Ray Roberts, president; Winfred Cox, vice-president; Katherine Sturgill, secretary; and Wilda B. Eldridge, treasurer. The program committee consists of Ina Clo Kegley, James Brander, Jr., and Ray Mabry.

Senior class officers at Haldeman this year are: Kenneth Cox, president; James Turner, vice-president; Katherine Stinson, secretary, and Mary Kelley, treasurer. The other members of the class are Junior Hinton, Ivan DeBarr, Marie Conn, Etsa May Danner, and Ora Kegley. Ora Kegley was absent Monday, due to a serious accident to his father.

There are 33 enrolled in the primer class, 27 have been present every day. The year very busy building a village for the fair.

In the third grade there are 36 enrolled and have had only two absences for the first two weeks. The boys and girls have started a contest in attendance. Each pupil is busy preparing for the fair.

There are 43 enrolled in the fifth grade. They have started a club that if each pupil is present and brings a penny a week, Miss Harris is to take them to the Zoo at Cincinnati.

Plenty Of Parking Space

Mrs. Lee Reed, president of the P-T. A. called our first meeting to order at 3 p. m. Friday September 16. We had a round table discussion about the things we should buy for the school with the $32.65 we made at our pie social every day. We are purchasing window shades, a water fountain and some books to pay for the transportation of the children to the fair. Our next meeting was set for Monday, September 26. The members present were Mrs. Lee Reed, Mrs. Wilbert Cooper, Mrs. Martha Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Tackett, Mrs. Minnie Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Cooper, and Mrs. Mary McRoberts. Visitors at the meeting were Mary McGlothlin, Mrs. Hattie Egan, Opal Wells and Lucille Morehouse.

Cranston Children Are Given Dick Test

Dr. T. A. E. Evans, Rowan county health officer, and Mrs. Millie Raymond, nurse, gave the Dick test to pupils and parents in the Cranston section Tuesday. The tests were given to prevent a scarlet fever epidemic since two cases had been reported there.

Wednesday the doctor and the nurse accompanied about 15 crippled children to Mt. Sterling to the clinic there. Eight children were taken last year.

CLEARFIELD

The P-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There was an interesting program and refreshments were served.

Those attending every day for the second month in the first and second grades are: Ethel Baidridge, Pearl Cline, Stella Hay, Pearl Hanes, Virginia Jane Hamm, Nolda Gay Lamsont, Geraldine Owens, Opal Switzer, Thelma Stidham, Geneva Buckner, Naomi Lambert, George Dyer, John Billy Hamm, Ralph Owens, Jack Lee Ross, Rainey Jenkins, Charles Maynard, Burley Markwell, Virgil Wright.

There were twenty three in the primer class that attended every day: Dorothy Jean Myhrier, Pearl Carpenter, Cora Lee Gregory, Loretta Bardsdollar, Ruth Salver, Lenvel Carpenter, Ass Lambert, David Cline, Junior Caudill, Olea Buckner, Jaunita Lambert, Jimmie Dulin, Avenelle Myhrier, Glenn White, Ted Pettit, Harold Markwell, Ray Owens.

Mrs. Dillon gave each pupil a little present for coming every day. The perfect attendance for the fourth and fifth grades are as follows: Richard Collins, Hubert Rose, Harold Caudill, Teddy Caudill, Arizona Carpenter, Letha Carpenter, Pauline Littleton, Jacqueline Salver, Hazel Sargent, Vivian Queenberry, Helen Faulker, Robert Bardsdollar, Ralph Bernie, Junior Lambert, Justice Myhrier, Wordison Lambert, Roger Barnett, Earl Ison, Slim Owens.

The following pupils of the third grade were present every day: Junia Jenkins, Essie Hay, Ruth Maynard, Lena Lambert, Charles Fugate, Billie Sargent, Clay Paton Caudill, Dee Crager, Martha Smedley, Earl Maxey, Ray Lambert, Charles Littleton, and Lily Pruitt.

The unfavorable weather conditions which prevailed in Argentina in the latter part of 1937 and at the beginning of the current year caused a substantial reduction in the 1937-38 tobacco crop of that country, according to a recent commerce department report.

Organization Of An Elliottville P-T. A. Planned By Parents

A pie supper will be held at the Elliottville school, Friday, September 23. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Bring pies, money and friends. A good time is in store for all.

The faculty, students, and patrons of Elliottville Junior high school wish to express their appreciation and thanks to the Morehead Eastern Star for the use of their chairs which helped us to carry on our school work until we could get seats for our new school building.

The parents meeting was held at two o'clock Monday. Many of the parents and patrons attended. Among those present were Messames Ora James, Pearl Fouch, Herb Fouch, Andy Williams, John Butcher, Mary James, Roscoe Fouch, Virgil Sporkman, Allie Fultz, Leona Fouch, Evelyn Royce.

Organize P-T. A. Each room contributed a song or reading to the program. The parents enjoyed very much the little entertainment. After the children had performed, Mr. Crosthwaite led the discussion on organizing a Parent-Teachers Association. Those present took an active part in the discussion and the group decided to meet again Monday, September 28 at two o'clock.

Fair catalogues were given out to the parents and Mr. Crosthwaite stressed the importance of entering into the Fair spirit and of bringing in good exhibits.

The ninth and tenth grades have appointed a committee for the morning exercise program. The students have complete charge of the program. Those serving on the committee this week are Mary Lewis, Ruby Stamper, and Owen Lewis. The first grade, with the assistance of Mr. Crosthwaite, have constructed a boarder above the blackboard to display the children's work. They have also made frames for the reading chart and have finished the curtains for their room.

The tables and chairs have arrived for the science room and library.

With these additions the schoolrooms are now furnished completely and work has begun in earnest.

The second and third grades have enrolled forty-three pupils. Two have been transferred to another school, and thirty-six of the forty-one have had perfect attendance. They have organized a bussey bee club, and dresses will have no place among them. They have made an attractive waste paper basket by covering a bean crate with the children's individual drawings.

They also have been practicing writing poems.

The following was written by Deloris Brown, a ten-year-old girl: At Elliottville I go to school; I always keep my teacher's rule, And if I don't, I'll stay at home, And there I'd feel so much alone.

A ball club has been organized in Miss Carter's room to keep the pupils interested in attendance. The fourth grade competes with the fifth grade. If a girl is absent one day, he does not get a ball that week.

A continued story is also read each morning. No one has been absent in this room this year. Little Dixie Cox walked a mile and a half out of the way to cross the creek in order to get to school.

The cooperative tomato canery at Hartford will put out about 9,000 cases this season.

A night program of moving pictures was an added feature to the Owensley County Fair this year.

2 Youths Arrested For Operating Still

Chas. Snelling, James Booth, Jr., Of Salt Lick Bound Over To Federal Court

Two youths, Charles Snelling, 19, and James Booth, Jr., 14, both of Salt Lick, were arrested Friday morning by Ashland, and charged with operation of an unlicensed still about three miles from Salt Lick.

The boys were caught by E. M. Stator, W. C. Manning, Judge E. L. Stewart, A. G. Keeney, Louis Trent and Lloyd Hyatt.

Appearing before Judge Riley they waived examination and were bound over to the Lexington division of the federal court. They were released after furnishing bonds of $500 each.

The arresting officers reported finding a 50 gallon tank still, four 50 gallon fermenters, 100 gallons of mash and six gallons of moonshine whiskey.

Free Movies Added To Fair Program

Two free motion pictures show the Rowan County School and Agricultural program for the first day.

The movies will be shown Friday afternoon in the two city theatres. The dates of the fair are September 18 and 19, and October 1.

Entrants for the soap-box derby have until September 24 to register at the county superintendent's office. This event headlines the program because of the widespread interest it is creating and its novelty.

The general program includes a baby contest, amateur hour, parade, athletic contests, and marionette show.

A final meeting of the board of directors will be held Monday evening, September 26, at seven o'clock at the county superintendent's office.

Robert Stewart On "British Desk"

Robert B. Stewart, former M. S. C. student, and resident of Carter county, may have a hand in determining the American foreign policy. This week he took over the "British desk" as senior divisional assistant in the Division of Affairs in the State Department at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Stewart, who was an instructor in government at Harvard University, is on his way back to this week took a year's leave of absence in assuming his new post.

Writing to Dean Wm. Vaughan he said that a friend's statement that he formerly was with the State Department.

"The British desk in (European Affairs Division)" is at present a significant post as the country affords. Everything just now contributes to the enhancement of its possibilities. The drift during my incumbency will be toward fuller articulation on Anglo-Saxon policy. Isolated acts will create a multiplicity of relations. The country will not admit but which all parties concerned will tacitly act upon."

Stewart has written a treatise on British Commonwealth relations. He has studied at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, paying the foundation for his job of this kind. He has also visited in Canada, Ireland and England.

P.-T. A. Holds First Fall Meeting

The first general meeting of the school year for the Morehead Parent-Teachers Association was held at the Morehead Public school Tuesday night. A general discussion was held on the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair. A small number of parents attended.

Mahlon Hall, president, was introduced by Mrs. F. Ellington, principal, both of whom spoke on various subjects. Mrs. Mable Alfrey, attendance officer for the county school system, stressed the importance of parent attendance at P.-T. A. meetings as well as that of pupil attendance in the schools. Checks were given to the teachers and parents made short speeches. A lunch closed the meeting.

An entertainment program will be given at the next meeting, October 11.

Mrs. Roscoe Hutchinson is vice-president of the organization and Nelle T. Cassidy, secretary-treasurer.

The Bystander

When Frances Laughlin's lunch was bid under the bell rance and he had no time to eat it, but the one about the lunch-basket with old carrots, moldy bread and worse meat.

A mother of one of the teacher's was in the habit of preparing her daughter's lunch for her so that the daughter did not know what she was going to have for lunch until she opened her box at noon.

Knowing this fact, one of her friends invited her into talking with someone while the prankster was cooking the lunch. The helping hand, however, was in Security Administration already has been extended to many of the farms of Rowan county. These interested in obtaining one of these loans should make application at the office of the Farm Security Administration office located on the second floor in the Court House, Morehead, between 8 a. m., on Wednesday of each week.

War Clouds Over Sudeten Harvest Festival

Uniformed Sudeten Germans marched in the parade which featured the harvest festival celebrations at Oberradenfurt, Czechoslovakia, a short time before Adolf Hitler's momentous Nuremberg address. Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader, was scheduled to address the thousands who attended, but was forced to cancel his appearance after being summoned by Lord Runciman to a parley in an attempt to settle the crisis. Declared Herr Frank, substituting for Henlein: "We have carried on a struggle for 39 years and the final battle is in sight."

In Europe's Swiftly Moving Military Drama

As Europe fights to stave off war in the German-Czech crisis, these scenes highlight the situation: (1) Sir John Simon, English chancellor of the exchequer (left) and Lord Halifax, British foreign minister, leave the London foreign office after a conference; (2) Italian troops, certain to help Germany, "goose-step" before Premier Mussolini; (3) Herr Frank, one of the Sudeten German leaders, attends a harvest festival and is greeted with the Nazi salute.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—In 1918, the Bolsheviks were firing to shoot Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, but he persuaded them to let him go to America, so he could get a new A Wealth of Things Here wooden leg. He got it, also a beautiful wife, a $2,000,000 airplane factory and a lot of flying records, culminating in his new east-west transcontinental record of 10 hours and 3 minutes, from New York to Los Angeles.

Flying for Imperial Russia in the World war, he engaged in more than 100 dogfights with the Germans and dropped 13 of them. But one day they dropped him into the Baltic. A forty-pound bomb which he had failed to release, exploded as the ship struck the water, and blew it to bits.

Recovering comeliness later, he discovered that, witless as he was, he had been clinging to a poison. The water was red around him. Shifting his good leg over the poison, he made a torquet of his torn trouser leg. He swam again, as a Russian destroyer picked him up. He crew-hopped the Chinese border on his wooden leg, as a stupid border guard refused to recognize his papers.

Washington received him hospitably, in April, 1918, and made him a consulting engineer for the army air service. He later experienced some rough going, but the only real crack-up in his career was encompassed in that flying to the Baltic. He was steadily on the uptake, designing planes, flying and bringing through his factory. In 1932, he designed and built amphibian plane which made a record of 17.79 miles per hour. Trained in the Imperial Naval academy, he has contributed greatly to aviation engineering and design.

SIMON LAKE, the inventor of the submarine, 72 years old, hopes some day to get an under sea peek at the sunken continent of Atlantis. In a mid-town hotel in New York, Lake Out to Redeem the Submarine he is up to his knees in blue-prints of submarine adaptations and gadgets which he hopes will be found useful by the deep sea boulevardier. His father is 91; his grandfather lived to the age of 99 and his sister to 102. Although his once red hair is white, he thinks he is just now getting his start in life.

His 27 basic patents alone made the submarine possible. Like many, possibly most, inventors, he could devise a scheme for almost anything except getting what was coming to him. So, in his genial, casual way, he is broke.

Reading Jules Verne, when he was 10 years old, led him to capsize a rowboat in the Toms river in New Jersey and test his staying powers in the submerged air chamber. In 1884, he made a wooden submarine, its first lung with a soda water tank supplying compressed air. It worked nicely. In 1884, he made the Argonaut, in which he cruised under the water for thousands of miles in Chesapeake bay.

Like the Wright brothers, he aroused little attention. He finally got Washington interested when he telephoned to the capitol from the bottom of the sea. His working submarine came through. Washington didn't seem to care much what he did, so he took his invention to foreign capitals. Czarist Russia made him some impressive offers but he decided they were a discolored lot and, as a self-respecting American businessman, he wouldn't have anything to do with them.

All in all, he became fed up with bureaucrats and red tape and government in general, and turned to deep sea treasure hunts. The submarines, of course, bestowed much more treasure than they yielded up. This treasure-hunt was vigorous and energetic with a wrinkled, knobby weather-worn face, genial and friendly he plunged alone in his hotel to redeem the submarine by making it a general cargo and passenger carrier.

'MISS AMERICA'

They March With Spirit of Youth

The Girl of Miss America 1938 was awarded to blonde Marilyn Mosby of Marion, Ohio, at the national beauty pageant in Atlantic City. Miss Mosby, previously adjudged the "most perfect model," won the top title over a field of more than 80 American beauties.

Despite their advanced age these two Civil war veterans, with aid from younger arms, proudly marched in the G. A. R. parade, covering a distance of 15 blocks. Thirteen of the 15 veteran "youngsters" who participated in the parade successfully marched the entire route. Photograph shows two of the hardy ones: O. S. Fearon, 91, left, of Minneapolis, and W. C. Fisher, 89, of St. Paul.

Even Best of Friends Must Part

Pamella Holmes, seven, of Bellport, Long Island, N. Y., weeps because "Barry," her St. Bernard, has been ordered exiled. A justice of the peace demanded that the dog either be killed or removed from the town after it had been accused of keeping three small children in a boat for several hours. "Barry," however, has never bitten anyone.

This Canadian Pacific express was wrecked when it plunged 60 feet at a washed-out bridge near Fortbent, Quebec. The fireman and engineer were killed and several passengers were injured. Ten others met death in storms and floods rampant throughout the Quebec province.

She's Sweetheart Of Sigma Chi

Autumn means college days, and college days always bring discomfiture to thousands of freshmen. No exception is the University of California, where 300 freshmen women were initiated by members of Sigma Chi fraternity, who annually deck themselves out as Indians and go on the warpath to the delight of several thousand spectators. After the celebration was over, they carried off Jane Jackson in their hand canoe to be the "sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Miss Jackson seemed to view the honor dubiously.

PRICE OF PERFECTION . . .

If being "tops" in your line cost you nothing, it would be worth just that much to you!

By WINIFRED WILLARD.

WE CAME at twilight to a home-like town among the hills of Maryland. There we would stop for the night. I stopped for rooming something comfortable at modest cost. At the best looking hotel, the dapper young clerk quipped rates that would have shocked my depressed mood. "I told him so," he replied. "Well, you get just what you pay for. It's true."

Fritz Kreisler's Price

With his violin Kreisler had completed a mighty aria. Silence of utter tranquility followed. A compulsive woman rushed up to him and exclaimed, "Oh Mr. Kreisler, I'd give half my fortune to play 'you do'!" With quiet dignity the great musician replied, "Madam, that is the very price I have paid. Not even he got his mastery except for the price."

A popular theater, full one night in Washington, was rattled and challenged by the magic that was Houdini. We knew there would be miracles and many tricky devices. We tried to discover them. And couldn't. As we watched his performance the wonder of it was the marvel of him remained. How did he do those breath-taking feats that permitted him to rank all others in his line in the world? He did them by paying their price! Not his price. But whatever the cost of doing them better than anybody else had ever done them, he paid it. He began paying when he was a boy. Steadily through the years he recognized the high cost of what he was doing. He paid. Not a finger nor a toe must budge or fall or slip. Hard to do!

So, year after year, as Houdini talked or read or thought, those 20 agile partners were ceaselessly at work, tying and untying difficult knots, and other intricate, puzzling things. Eternally at it, with all the body and mind of him. Houdini couldn't afford to fail. He paid the high price of supreme achievement. He got what he wanted.

Paderewski's Discipline

The greatest pianist of the ages is Paderewski, son of Poland, citizen of the world. We incline to think of him as a special favorite of the gods, so endowed above the earthly. Doubtless so. But the gods would have failed him, had he had a special part. He, too, must keep on paying the price. When he lapses his musical discipline one day, he sees the difference, two days and those close to him detect the lack. A week and the world is somehow conscious of the let-down in his brilliant technique. Hour after hour, on his mountain or plain or sea, he carries a keyboard of standard piano size and action. Hour after hour, on his journeys, he sits at this keyboard and pays the price of his artistry.

Few of us were designed for such outstanding ranks as these. Mostly we have modest places in the work we must do for the world. The same law prevails. We excel or hold our own only by continually paying. A successful young salesman was telling what a "rotten career" he had made the day before. How he stumbled over his story and what a poor impression he had made on the man he was trying to sell. His clear-cut explanation was that he had been doing other things for a week, hadn't worked at his job and had again to pay the price of getting back to where he was master of his situation.

I did not engage in two costly rooms at the swanky hotel in the quiet little town among the hills. But I have been glad that I stopped early and grateful for the young clerk. His vivid reply which at the time seemed intended to put me when I belonged, has sent me exploring some more of the realm of life and of living—you get just what you pay for!

In the early days of its existence the Spartans, being badly in need of a general, sent to Athens for one of the Athenians. After making to give them too good a one sent them a gouty schoolmaster, one Tyrtaeus, as being the most unattractive person on earth for the task. But Tyrtaeus was a poet and by his poetry, which took a martial turn, he so animated his new countrymen that he turned out a good general after all.

Plaids, Stripes and Prints Take Lead in Fall Styles

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AN EPIDEMIC of plaids is grip- ping the entire fashion world. It matters not whether you are a grown-up or a juvenile, or a junior or a between-age, you will never be able to remain immune to the wiles and winning ways of the gorgeous plaids that have come out in such brilliant array at the dawn of this new fall season. For that matter who wants to if they could resist the witchery of anything so intriguing as the new plaids.

It certainly is an exciting story that the new plaids are telling. The plot carries on and on in endless variety as costume styles that are smartly tailored of glorified plaids and as to the separate skirts that are fashioned of their yard you couldn't keep count of their vast number if you tried. Then there are the cunning flattering shirtmaker dresses, the skirts of which radiate laces, pleats from a slim waistline. Most invariably the sleeves of these youthful frocks are short in defiance of most fashion reports that forecast "long sleeves for fall and winter."

The separate plaid jacket that is tailored to a nicety is also an important item and as for the plaid blouse it's the rage whether in fine wool weave, or a synthetic material such as rayon or it may be of tulle. Nor does the present plaid craze stop at the costume proper, but it carries on full force into the accessory area. With your sweater and plaid skirt if you play the game of fashion as it should be played on campus and in spectator sports-shipmanship at the gridiron series, you'll see to it that your costume is completed with a jaunty cap and bag of matching plaid.

In the illustrations we are showing a plaid, a stripe and a gay print school-girl model. These fetching fashions had their initial showing at a previous showing of fall styles recently presented at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Off to school is the young miss to the left in a clever Scotch costume. The skirt is a red and black plaid, with a matching Scotch cap and purse. The sweater is also red. "The Barber of Seville" is the appropriate name given to the gaily striped wool afternoon dress centered in the picture. The skirt is pleated and the new longer-than-formerly-shown jacket is striped in jungle green and drags of wide much exploited color this season. A green ascot tie is still.

The peasant dress still dominates in dresses for the young for all the mod illustrated to the right portrays. The dress is navy blue broadcloth with splashy yellow and red flowers, over which is worn a brilliant front-laced peasant bodice. The Scotch plaid dress pictured in the inset below is typical of present-day trends in wear-to-school fashions.

Bi-Color Suede

Suede gains in style importance. Now that this supple, beautifully colorful medium is being worked just like fabric, the fashion-minded one colling one. Here, as pictured, an arctic orange suede jacket is worn by Gloria Stuart in cinema renown, over a simple one-piece dress of paradise blue suede. Short sleeves and a sailor collar give the frock a youthful look. The blue suede cap is ideal for informal knook-out wear.

Autumn Costumes Favor Boxy Coats

Although the edict of finger-tip length jackets is general for first autumn suits, several French designers are defying this rule by introducing about a dozen to wear with contrasting dresses.

One of these brief coats is little more than waistline length and flares in all directions. Its roomy shoulder line and wide sleeves contribute to the carefree impression. Some striking color combinations are achieved with these jackets. One light weight wool worn over wool dresses. Since mauve and violet tones continue to be popular they are being used extensively, often in alliance with blue or dark red.

The suit which has a jacket resembling an overblouse or a brief tunic is the one which designers regard with favor and which looks so much like a dress that it may be worn during cold weather under a fur coat.

Caterpillar Buttons

Schiaparelli puts buttons in the shape of caterpillars on one of her new gowns—a blue lined shirt at the neckline and tucked horizontally across the bust.

New Bonnets Appear

Little lingerie baby bonnets, often with a sophisticated nose veil, are the latest millinery conceit. They are not worn at dinner or evening hats, but to complete day costumes.

Lingerie Trends

Pale green flowered prints and lots of tucks and shirrings are characteristic of new hand-made lingerie.

Monogram Shoes

Monogram shoes are the latest attention to the "personality" fads that increase in popularity with the seasons.

Star Dust

Thriller in Remaking Puppets in Preview Courageous Martha! By Virginia Vale

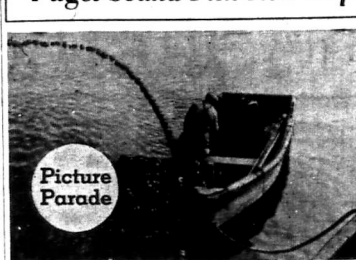

IF YOU remember "Dawn Patrol" as it was first made, be sure to go to the new version that is being whipped up by Warner Brothers. There'll be the same excellent story, but we're promised that it will be twice as thrilling—if that's possible—because of improved methods of picture making.

A flying field has been laid out, the Marine sector has been duplicated, a British cast has been collected, because it is a picture of the Royal Flying Corps—Errol Flynn, David Niven, Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains, Barry Fitzgerald, Patric Knowles, among others. Ten planes of the war period have been purchased, equipped with modern engines and two types of machine guns; they'll be crashed or burned during the making of the picture.

I'm hoping that there'll be one certain improvement, and that's in the story. If you remember the original, with Dick Barthelemy and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., it ended with Barthelemy flying over enemy country, doing practically as much damage as an entire army might have. It was preposterous, and same very near spoiling a fine picture.

It's interesting, this time of year, to see what programs the big sponsors have lined up. Here's a sample

Puget Sound Fish Roundup

IN WASHINGTON'S Puget Sound, fishermen catch salmon by tending ladders, building a "tence" around them and reducing the size of their corral until the salmon can be lifted out of the seine into the boat or tender. Nineteen hundred feet of net are strung over the side, held up by cork floats, kept down by lead weights.

Going in a circle about 575 feet in diameter, the net soon encloses a school of salmon. The bottom of the net is closed by drawing the purse line which operates just like the string of a purse. Soon the net will be drawn in, bringing its cargo of fresh salmon.

Here is a closeup of taking in the net. The man in the foreground is handling the purse line, which is usually drawn in by steam power because of its tremendous weight. Thus modern steam winches have greatly increased the speed of fishing, enabling boats to surround and capture a school of salmon in quick order.

Here the salmon are being hoisted aboard with a net. Once aboard the boat, the salmon are crated to the cannery or transferred to a cannery tender which carries thousands of the silvery fish to plants located on the shores of Puget Sound. Less than 24 hours later the fish are in cans, cooked, labeled and ready for shipment to your corner grocery. Puget Sound's delicious salmon are not taken in excessive numbers. Fishermen and the government co-operate to restrict each annual catch.

The grand finale takes place on your own dining room table. Here's a delicious gift of the sea, steamed salmon pudding, one of the attractive new dishes which add nourishment, deep sea minerals and vitamins to your diet.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When Cleaning Windows.—Tissue paper makes an excellent polish for window glass and mirrors. Wash, dry and then polish with the paper.

Safety Measure.—To fill a steaming tea-kettle place a small funnel in the spout to prevent burning your hands in taking off the cover.

A Twine Holder.—A funnel makes an excellent holder for a ball of twine. Choose one large enough to hold a good-sized ball. Put the end of the string through the neck of the funnel.

Clogged Sinks.—A mixture of washing soda and vinegar poured down a choked-up sink or house drain will dissolve any soap or grease which is causing it to clog.

Preserving Scrub Brushes.—Never put scrubbing brushes away until they have been thoroughly washed, rinsed and shaken, so that most of the moisture has been removed.

For Damp Closets.—A saucerful of quicklime placed in a damp closet or cupboard will not only absorb all dampness but will sweeten and disinfect the closet.

For Seared Furniture.—If you will take a soft flannel cloth, dip it in iodine, then rub gently over scorched mahogany furniture when it dries the scratches will be almost unnoticeable. Then when iodine is dry, apply a liberal coating of a good furniture oil.

HELP KIDNEYS To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by removing from your system the waste products of metabolism and the poisons of the whole system and help you to live longer. Having many or too frequent urinations, a burning or itching discharge, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, profuse under the eyes-faded skin, nervous, ill advised.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has been scientifically proven than on something less favorably known. The best of all is the most reliable of all medicines recommended by the world's leading physicians.

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, John Boyd on the way home from a party, stage him, and attract the attention of a policeman, when the boy knocks down Arthur. He arrests him. Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and sends Barbara home. On the way she sees Barbara's other escort, Mr. Dean, who is in the office at 12:40, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is a robbery. The woman is playing bridge at the club. Next day Barbara's office has been robbed and Miss Wins, former temporary employee, is the only witness. She is taken to the hospital where she works, goes to dinner at the hotel, and is taken to the home with Mrs. Moran's brother, Jimmy Edger, Mr. and Mrs. Sentry, and Mrs. Sentry and Barbara, along with Dan Flaher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wins' absence from her room for three days. Dan Flaher explains the evidence against him—that the robbery was a fake, the safe opened by one who knew the combination, changed some Miss Wins' employment there that a black box key a duplicate of the key was found in the girl's purse, and that Sentry had been in the office on the night of August. Brace calls and backs up Sentry in her story. Sentry says she does not have this because of the discrepancy of time between the staying and her arrest. She says she is staying at her sister's.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

"Arthur was always losing keys," Mrs. Sentry asserted, and realized with a faint shock of terror that she had spoken of her husband in the past tense. She said it with a deeper tremor, that Hare seemed to have noticed, as though he were natural for her to speak of him so.

She said hurriedly: "I heard the girls coming downstairs. Let's not talk about details. Dean's car was not his for a moment, held his and his after a moment were lowered, as though some word had passed between them."

Phil argued, "But just the same—" But she stopped as Barbara and Mary appeared in the doorway.

"Morning, children," Mrs. Sentry said lightly. "Sleepy-heads!"

Barbara saw Dean Hare, she cried: "Oh, have you seen father, Mr. Hare? When will they let him home?"

"I'm afraid not right away, Barbara," he confessed. "You know, these things take time."

"But they know he didn't do it!" Barbara insisted.

"Well, of course we know—" they said. "I told Mr. Tom!" the girl urged.

"I know," Mrs. Sentry said quickly, almost desperately. She knew what Barbara was about to say, that Mr. Sentry had come back to her, that the murder at a quarter of one. But if Barbara said that, Dean Hare would know Arthur had killed him. She thought instinctively to protect Arthur from that discovery.

"Sit down, Barbara, Mary," she said. "After all, Mr. Sentry is going to be eaten, our routine to go on."

Barbara insisted: "But mother, I—"

"Barbara!"

Barbara sat down, puzzled by her mother's manner, and said she thought, amazed at her own audacity. I'm like an ostrich, hiding my head in the sand, trying to pretend, to blind myself—She said: "What do you keep our heads, our sense of proportion. We must go on eating, for instance!"

Mary said in a low tone: "Must we? Pretend nothing has happened? We won't fool anyone but ourselves."

Mrs. Sentry ignored her. She asked the lawyer, in polite and empty tones, as one makes conversation with a strange dinner partner, "How's Olive, Dean?" Olive was Mrs. Hare.

"She wants to come over this afternoon—if you'd like."

"Of course!"

Mary said grimly: "I'm surprised she's willing to expect most people."

Barbara cried, furiously: "Mary! You talk as though you thought father really did kill!" And she said: "We'll all go together, right away? We must go to see Nell!"

Mary said, "I want to see Nell!" She added, "This—he and I must decide what to do."

The doorbell rang and Oscar went to answer it, and Phil followed him into the hall. Mrs. Sentry suggested: "Ask Nell to dinner, if you like, Mary. Or to tea."

Mary hesitated, nodded, then Linda Dane came in with Phil. "Moth-ersome," she said, "I'm so quiet."

"She's coming a little later, Mrs. Sentry. But I didn't want to wait. I knew you'd be up."

"There's nothing to see!" Mary told her coldly. "We're not a side-show!"

Mrs. Sentry protested, "Mary!"

But Linda said: "It's all right, Mrs. Sentry. I know how you all must feel, but I don't come to see you. Mrs. Hare's always at least, Barbara and Phil and I have always been such good friends."

He said: "Mrs. Sentry wants to see Mr. Sentry this morning, I'll be with her. Could you hold on to the questions till this afternoon?"

Irons reflected, "Well, the Grand Jury's sitting, and the D. A.'s idea was to give them the evidence we've got tomorrow." He looked at Hare. "I shouldn't even go myself, if I were you. In a day or two, yes; but just now he's terribly shocked. It would distress any of you to see him; and I think it would be harder for him to keep his self control."

"Gosh! I suppose so," Phil agreed, shakily. He urged, "I want him to know we're with him, though!"

"I'll tell him," the attorney promised.

But then Mrs. Sentry came to the open door. "Oh, Dean," she called, "let me try to arrange for me to see Arthur, let me know when I'm to come!"

Hare looked to Phil for support; but Phil said, "I think it will do him good to see mother, Mr. Hare." And the lawyer surrendered.

"Very well," he agreed. "If Oscar came to summon Mrs. Sentry to the telephone," Mr. Moran called, "he explained, she departed, and Hare said doubtfully: "I still think it's a mistake, Phil, for her to go to Mr. Moran came" ters looked to him for strength. Phil himself was stronger. His grandmother had come downstairs. They were all the living room. Phil explained what the Inspector wished to do, suggested they stay where they were. Inspector Hare and the kitchen. Hare had remained outside. Inspector Irons and Phil went upstairs.

Phil suggested, "If there's anything special you're looking for, I'll go with you." "I don't want to put anything over on you," he said. "I told Mr. Hare I wouldn't ask you any questions unless Phil colored. "We've nothing to hide." "But I'll just look around. I want to see everything. Whose room is this?"

"Mines," said Phil. The Inspector nodded; he opened the drawers of the chiffonier, the desk, the closet, the recess under the window seat where Phil kept rods and fishing gear.

Phil looked over the other's men who had come in the police car, and Irons introduced them to Phil. Inspector Hays, Sergeant Kane, Officer Regan. And the Inspector suggested then,

C. Houston Goudiss Describes Diet After Middle Age; Shows How Right Food Can Prolong the Vigorous Years

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

ONE of the best prescriptions ever offered for longevity was advanced by the wise man who said: "In the twenties, prepare for the thirties; in the thirties, prepare for the forties; and after that—prepare for the long and vigorous old age."

That advice is well worth following, for it has been estimated that by taking into account all the newer knowledge of nutrition, it is possible not only to improve health, but to add a number of years to the normal life span.

A Man Is as Young as He Feels

It has been well said that "the age of man has small relation to his years, for that which has been demonstrated, both clinically and in the scientist's laboratory, that old age is a physiological condition rather than an accumulation of years."

In grandfathers' day, a woman of 50 was considered old. Today that age is regarded as young and much of the important work of the world is being done by men and women who can see 50 only by looking over their shoulder.

Curb the Appetite for Rich Foods

It is most important to avoid overeating. For muscular activity decreases with the passing of the years. The middle aged individual often finds that a younger person might walk or observe active sports from the sidelines where he formerly played them with zeal. Unfortunately, however, the appetite seldom diminishes in proportion to the lessened fuel needs. That is why every individual who has entered upon the middle years should check his or her weight frequently, and promptly reduce the fuel foods if a significant gain is noted.

The protein requirement diminishes somewhat after the age of 50, for no new tissue is being built, it is, furthermore, advisable to take a large share of the protein in the form of milk and eggs.

Vegetables should be used freely

and if there is difficulty in mastication, they may be finely chopped. Fresh fruits may be eaten as long as they do not cause fermentation; otherwise cooked fruits should be used instead. Contrary to popular opinion, sweets can frequently be eaten in con-

Importance of Correct Diet

On the other hand, thousands of Americans are unknowingly impairing their efficiency and shortening their lives by the use of wrong food. They are eating the wrong kind of food—and what is equally disastrous—they are not eating the right kind. They do not seem to realize that eating too much does not strengthen the body, but exhausts it with the surplus energy that the system and may be indirectly responsible for headache, dyspepsia, biliousness and mental dullness.

Unless they change their habits of eating, they will inevitably become victims of their own indigestion.

For while it is folly to neglect the health at any age, to do so in middle life is to open the way to a early death in an old age marred by sickness.

Keep Down the Weight

The first 25 years of man's life are devoted to growth. During this period of youth, the body usually has a large fund of reserve energy which can be called upon in times of stress. During the next 25 or 30 years, if the diet is not remain constant if the diet is properly regulated, and sound habits of hygiene are followed, a degenerative disease.

Unfortunately, however, the laws of hygiene and nutrition are often broken during the active middle years.

As a result, bodily reserves are depleted and the aging age finds many men and women near the danger line, no longer able to resist infections and the degenerative diseases.

That is why it is so desirable—if you hope to be vigorous at 50 and after—that you begin to plan for it many years earlier.

Live sensibly. Avoid overwork.

Regularly take a moderate amount of exercise. Get enough sleep. Do not overwork. Avoid "tired feeling." Above all, eat enough, but not too much, of the foods that build and maintain the body—fruits and vegetables; protein foods in abundance; just sufficient to meet your requirements; so that there is no excess to be eliminated; enough fuel foods to give you plen-

Mrs. J. A. H.—Milk, fruits and vegetables supply a large part, but not all of the minerals required by the body daily. The diet must be supplemented with whole grain bread or cereals, eggs and some meat.

"Morning, Children," Mrs. Sentry Said Lightly.

last night back with I was there. He was just white from New York. Your father almost broke down, just talking to him. He was, of course, and loyal, and dignified at the police; but—it does so good to take that attitude. The police aren't to blame," he boasted, said then, "We have to face the fact that there's a lot of circumstantial evidence against your father."

Phil said explosively, "You know darned well my father wouldn't kill anyone!"

"It's not a question of knowing. It's a question of proving."

Then he turned, for a police car came up the drive. Reporters on duty like guards at the entrance trotted after it; and Dan Flaher was among them. The police car stopped behind Dean Hare's; but Dan came along where Phil and the lawyer stood, and he said in a low tone: "Sentry, if you and your father are interested, Flood waited outside last night till Professor Brace came out, questioned him."

Phil nodded, only half hearing, staring at the police car, from which officers alighted. Flaher asked softly, "Who was the young lady who came in a few minutes ago?"

"One of my sister's friends."

"What's her name?"

Phil hesitated, but Dean Hare reported it, as they're going to find out anyway, tell them."

Phil nodded respectfully, "I suppose so. She's Linda Dane."

Flaher said, "Oh! I know her brother, Joe." Someone else demanded, "Not engaged to her, are you?" Phil shook his head, coloring with anger, and Inspector Irons alighted from the police car and said to the reporters, "This is all right, boys. I'll see that you get anything that you ought to know."

They obeyed him, moved away, and Dean Hare asked, "Anything new, Inspector?"

"I'd like to have a look around inside," the Inspector explained. "If that's all right?"

"Of course."

"And I might ask some questions. I suppose you'll want to be in on that," he added, as though explanations of a bomber is 70 feet, and that bomber passes through a line of balloons tethered at 100-yard intervals, there is about one chance in four of the aircraft hitting a cable

"Mr. Sentry, you want to show us around?"

"Glad to," Phil agreed.

"I'd like to have a look at the garage."

Phil led the way, watched the Inspector note the cars, study the garage. "Chautauq sleep up above?" he asked. Phil nodded. Old Eli was burning leaves by the tennis court, and they went that way. Irons asked the old man: "You usually hear a car come at night, do you?"

"Eli said, 'Hey!' And Phil explained: "He's pretty deaf. You'll have to talk louder. But he won't hear anything at night. He has a deaf earthquake to wake him."

Eli demanded querulously, "Who says that?"

Iron nodded. "Skip it," he said. "Close the door easy," he said crisply then. "Close the draughts. Any air will come in, making it a couple of mess them up. I'll get Peters and Knobbe right out here. They can handle it."

Phil touched his arm. "What is it, Inspector?" he asked.

Captive Balloons Are to Help Defend English Cities Against Air Raiders

In a recent lecture, Air Commodore J. C. Hearson partly lifted the veil of secrecy surrounding the balloon barrage scheme, in which a large number of captive balloons will be added to the protection of cities against air raiders, says the Illustrated London News.

Each balloon is handled by a lorry-winch with a crew of ten. Toward the end of the World War "balloon aprons" were used in the defense of London. They were formed by tethering four or five balloons in a line and strung a network of wires between them.

The balloon barrage of today is not in the form of "aprons," but consists merely of the cables by which the balloons are held captive. At first sight, such a defense may appear rather diaphanous; but, if simple calculations are made, will be found to be far more effective than many might imagine.

Assuming that the span of the cables of a bomber is 70 feet, and that that bomber passes through a line of balloons tethered at 100-yard intervals, there is about one chance in four of the aircraft hitting a cable and one chance in two if it makes an "in-and-out" passage, a formidable risk which no attacker could afford to continue making if the cables are lethal; that is, capable of destroying any airplane coming in contact with them.

The cables are so thin that they cannot be seen from a traveling airplane, even by day and in fine weather.

The role of a balloon barrage is to deny passage to aircraft below the barrage height over the defended area, and to bring the attackers to an altitude at which they can be dealt with by anti-aircraft fire and interceptor fighters.

Ideal Hot Dish Mats Made of Cable Cord

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS THIS mat is made of white cotton cable cord such as you buy at the notion counter for corded seams and trimmings. The original mat from which this design was taken was made of—no one of this generation would ever guess what. Corset strings. These were once a common commodity along with collar boning, hat pins and side combs. There was quite a fact for making luncheon sets of them braided or arranged in various designs and sewn with fine stitches on the wrong side. The design shown here is compact and copied in rather heavy cord. makes an ideal hot dish mat.

Follow the sketches for directions. Make the circles in pairs as shown, using No. 40 cotton thread to sew them. Braid three cords together and then the braided strip around and around to make the center of the mat. Sew a row of the circles to the edge of the center part, then add another braided row, being careful to "ease in" the inside edge just enough to keep the mat flat. Continue adding alternate rows of circles and braiding until the mat is the size desired.

To join the ends of the braided rows, pull one end through the braiding to the wrong side of the mat, then trim the ends and sew them flat.
