MOREHEAD, Ky.---Vandalism and false alarms cost you money!

That's one message Morehead State University officials want to get across to students this fall. The other message is that the University will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law those guilty of pulling false alarms and vandalizing University property.

The University also has mounted a campuswide campaign to encourage students to assist in stopping these abuses.

Posters offering rewards of up to $1,000 for information leading to the guilty parties have been hung in campus buildings. Signs, warning of the penalties for pulling false alarms, have been placed next to fire alarm pull stations as well.

Under KRS 519.040, the penalty for falsely pulling a fire alarm or falsely reporting a fire is a fine of up to $500 and/or a year in jail. Students found guilty also will be subject to immediate suspension from the University as indicated in the MSU Student Conduct Code.

Additionally, MSU has installed new covers on the pull stations which emit an audible sound when disturbed. "This sound can be heard in the area near the pull station, which will help us in identifying the person pulling the alarm," said Dick Green, manager of public safety.

"Not only are false alarms costly to the community which provides us fire protection, but also represent a host of other dangers," Green said. "Fire fighters could be injured as a result of someone's childish prank or be delayed arriving at a real fire. There is also the danger that other students will become complacent about evacuating the building and that could result in a real tragedy," he added.

The University's "get tough" policy also extends to persons caught damaging MSU property. They also will be penalized. "We will expect the parties to pay for the damage and they may face suspension as well," said Mike Mincey, MSU vice president for student life.

"As it stands now, the cost of repairing acts of vandalism ends up being passed on to all students in the form of higher fees," Mincey said. "If I were a student, I'd think twice before I'd stand by while someone damages University property," he added.

Students caught destroying University property will face disciplinary procedures as outlined in the Student Conduct Code.

MSU POSTS WARNINGS

Morehead State University has launched a "get tough" campaign to discourage vandalism and false alarms. Signs have been posted at fire alarm pull stations warning that anyone caught falsely pulling the alarm will face a $500 fine and/or a year in jail under KRS 519.040 as well as immediate suspension from the University. MSU officials also will take action against those vandalizing University property. Posters asking students to report such abuses have been placed in campus buildings as well. Here Larry McCarty, MSU safety officer, gets ready to put a protective covering over a pull station warning sign.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The Greater Louisville Area Chapter of the Morehead State University Alumni Association will meet on Thursday, Sept. 20, for an informal get-together to discuss activities for the coming year.

The group will meet at the City Hall of Lyndon at 575 Wood Road at 7 p.m.

"We want to meet in a relaxed atmosphere to plan some upcoming events," said Frank Bloss, Chapter president. "This will be more of a social outing. It will offer area alumni the opportunity to get to know other MSU graduates."

MSU President and Mrs. C. Nelson Grote along with other representatives from the University will attend. Snacks and beverages will be provided and dress will be casual.

The Greater Louisville Area Chapter encompasses neighboring areas of Indiana.

Additional information is available by calling MSU's Office of Alumni Relations at (606) 783-2080.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--A special workshop for those who work with terminally ill patients will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 11, at Greenbo Lake State Park near Greenup.

Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals will sponsor the one-day session which is designed for nurses, social workers, clergy and other interested persons. Topics to be discussed include fears and concerns of dying, support services available to families, and the psychological/emotional/spiritual processes involved in dealing with a life-threatening illness.

The workshop, entitled "Coping with Terminal Illness and Expressive Therapy," will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m., with class starting at 9 a.m. The cost is $42, which includes handout materials and refreshment breaks.

Faculty members for the session will include: Linda Allen, expressive therapist and coordinator of volunteers for the James Graham Brown Cancer Center; Lana Clevenger, regional director of the Kentucky Cancer Program; Susan Swinford, coordinator of Hospice in Nicholasville, and Steven Vice, psychologist at St. Claire Medical Center.

Nurses attending the workshop will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Faculty members in Morehead State University's Department of Music will use their musical talents for student scholarships at the Faculty Showcase Recital Thursday, Sept. 13, in Duncan Recital Hall.

"The dollars generated will go into the Music Faculty Scholarship Fund which we hope will eventually become an endowed fund," said Dr. Christopher Gallaher, chair of the department. "The scholarship recipients will be MSU students--generally upperclassmen--who already have demonstrated their musicianship," he added.

The recital, part of the Department of Music Scholarship Concert Series, has become a semi-annual event.

A variety of works are scheduled for the evening ranging from the standard concert repertoire to jazz. "We want those who attend to hear a broad spectrum of quality performances," Dr. Gallaher said. "In one evening the audience can hear many performers, not just one as with many other recitals."

Performers for the evening will be: assistant professors Paul Taylor on piano, John Viton on oboe, Suanne Blair on cello, and Frank Oddis on percussion; associate professors Jay Flippin on piano, Bob Pritchard on flute, and Leo Blair on viola; professors Earle Louder on euphonium, and Larry Keenan on keyboards.

Admission at the door will be $2 for students and $5 for others.

Additional information is available from the Department of Music at (606) 783-2473.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Computer generated images by Glenn Rothman of Marion, Ohio, are currently on display in the gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building on the Morehead State University campus.

The gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., weekdays. The exhibit will run through Sept. 20.

A reception will be given in honor of the artist on Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

Rothman's works were produced on the Commodore Amiga computer. The exhibit includes two types of pictures: photographic, which are enlargements of the computer screen, and print-out, which are sheets of paper which have been reduced and put together as a puzzle.

While computer generated images have been in existence since the late 1960s, it is only recently that computers have become more common, according to Bob Hackworth, MSU lecturer in art. "This new art form bridges the gap between the artists and people interested in new technologies."

RIGGLE RETIRES AT MSU

Anna Mae Riggle, a member of Morehead State University's student life administrative staff since 1966, retired as non-traditional students counselor on Aug. 31. The University honored her by placing a plaque recognizing her years of service next to the room named in her honor several years earlier in Adron Doran University Center. Presenting Riggle, a former dean of students, with a certification of recognition was MSU President C. Nelson Grote. A native of Indiana, Riggle is now making her home with a sister, Mrs. Paul Coestel of Sellersburg, Ind.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Three Morehead State University faculty members have been appointed by the Council on School Performance Standards to special task forces to assist with implementation of the Kentucky Education Reform Act.

They are:

Dr. Larry Blocher, associate professor of music, Arts and Humanities Task Force;

Dr. Kent Freeland, professor of education, Primary/Elementary School Task Force, and Tom E. Scott, assistant professor of speech, Language Arts Task Force.

The council established 11 task forces to help frame six measurable goals for grades K-12. Task force members will determine specifically what Kentucky children should know and be able to do with respect to the six goals and what should be assessed over the next decade.

Dr. Blocher, who also serves as coordinator of MSU's music education program and assistant bands director, joined the faculty in 1988. He earned his doctorate from Florida State University.

Dr. Freeland, co-editor of the Southern Social Studies Quarterly, has been at MSU since 1967 and holds a doctorate from the University of Iowa. He also serves on the Steering Committee for the Kentucky Council for the Social Studies.

Scott, an MSU faculty member since 1976, was one of 40 educators nationally and the only one from Kentucky to be selected to attend the Speech Communication Association's recent national conference on communication skill assessment. Scott has done postgraduate study at the University of Iowa and the University of Kentucky.

Roger Pankratz, executive director of the council, described the role of the task force members as "a very awesome challenge and responsibility."

MOREHEAD, Ky.--For many researchers, one study often leads to findings which are the basis for additional investigative work.

Such was the case for Dr. William C. Green, Morehead State University associate professor of government.

Dr. Green recently finished a study on the medical malpractice products liability issues related to the use of the contraceptive drug Depo-Provera. His research focused on the Upjohn vs. Macmurdo case which went before the Florida Supreme Court in May.

Funded by a grant from the Southern Regional Education Board, Dr. Green was able to travel to the National Women's Health Network in Washington, D.C., and to the Boston Women's Healthbook Collective for some indepth research on Depo-Provera in the two organizations' files.

What he found in the study of these files whetted his appetite for further investigation into this issue.

This fall Dr. Green plans to apply for another research grant to assist him in further research on the case. "I would like to acquire more documentation and talk to the persons involved, conduct interviews with the lawyers on the case," he said.

Dr. Green will take a sabbatical during the spring semester to document his findings. He plans to call the book "Odyssey of Depo-Provera."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, vice president for academic affairs and dean of faculties at Morehead State University, has announced his resignation from the post, effective immediately.

An announcement on an interim replacement will be made soon, according to MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

Dr. Taylor requested sabbatical leave for the remainder of the semester to prepare to rejoin the faculty of the College of Education and Behavioral Sciences in the spring semester.

"I received Dr. Taylor's resignation on Wednesday (Sept. 5) and after talking with him on Saturday (Sept. 8) I accepted it reluctantly," Dr. Grote said.

"During his tenure as vice president, Dr. Taylor demonstrated excellent leadership skills in leading the University through its accreditation studies. We wish him well as he returns to the classroom," the president said.

Dr. Taylor, who came to MSU in 1973, holds faculty rank as professor of education and has been a public school teacher and administrator in Florida, Michigan, West Virginia and Ohio.

He has held a variety of posts at MSU, including executive director of academic support systems, director of academic assessment and evaluation, acting vice president for student development and executive assistant to the president. He became the academic vice president in 1988, after a year as interim vice president.

A member of the board of directors of the American Association of University Administrators, the Walton, W.Va., native recently was named Alumnus of the Year by Glenville (W.Va.) State College, where he earned his undergraduate degree.

Dr. Taylor has served on various visitation teams for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' Commission on Colleges and is a former co-chairman of the Southern Association Institutional Self-Study Program.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Student Government Association will present "1964: As The Beatles" in concert on Friday, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium, as part of the Parents Weekend activities.

"As The Beatles," the four young men have tried to capture the fabulous sound that sparked the British invasion of the mid-sixties. Their intensive research into the costumes, haircuts, speaking and singing voices, stage movements, facial movements and equipment have allowed them to create an incredible recreation of a "Beatles" concert.

The group considers its work to be the most authentic and endearing tribute to the "Beatles." Voted 1989 N.A.C.A. College and University Contemporary Music Artist of the Year, it has received praise from many college campuses, newspapers, magazines, record officials and talk show hosts.

Alistair Taylor, former president of the "Beatles" label Apple Records, said that "the resemblance was uncanny, it sent shivers down my spine, it was just like the boys, never have I seen another group go to such detail,.....born again 'Beatles'!"

The performers are: Mark Benson as John Lennon; Gary Grimes as Paul McCartney; Tom Work as George Harrison, and Greg George as Ringo Starr.

The concert is free and open to the public. Donations will be accepted at the door to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Twenty-nine students recently became the first graduates of the Master of Social Work degree program offered at Morehead State University by the University of Kentucky.

The two-year degree program was established in Fall 1988 as a means to assist Eastern Kentucky social service personnel in upgrading their professional credentials, according to Mike Seelig, associate professor and coordinator of MSU's social work program.

During the graduation ceremonies held at the Adron Doran University Center, both MSU President C. Nelson Grote and Dr. S. Zafar Hassan, dean of UK's College of Social Work, spoke to the spirit of cooperation between the two institutions that provided this educational opportunity to social work professionals, who might not otherwise be able to pursue a graduate degree.

Graduates included (alphabetically by hometowns):

ASHLAND--Lisa Perry, Rebecca Fulks, Lisa Pack, Rachel Oskins, Rita Scott, Susan Hunt and Joanna Carson;

BARBOURSVILLE, W.VA.--Greg Mullins;

BRADENTON, FLA.--Aurora Conn;

BUSKIRK--Nancy Chaney;

GRAYSON--Carolyn Bays;

HUNTINGTON, W.VA.--Lisa Piersol, Julia Woelfel and Lisa Horn;

MAYSVILLE--Cynthia Brinkman;

MOREHEAD--Lana Clevenger, LaTonya Hesterberg, Barbara Jones and Steven Lowder;

PORTSMOUTH, OHIO--Loren Hardin, Lori Miller and Cinda Stewart;

PROCTORVILLE, OHIO--Harry Grimmett;

SOUTH WILLIAMSON--Gina May;

VANCEBURG--Sue Peek and Ann Cook;

WEST LIBERTY--Linda Williams.

Under the two-year program, students register with UK and attend classes at MSU. The classes, taught at night, are offered on a sequential basis. Students may take some electives from MSU and transfer them into the master's program.

Information on the M.S.W. degree program is available through MSU's Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections, (606) 783-2452.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Diagnosing problems in toddlers and preschool-aged children is the subject of a workshop to be held in the Adron Doran University Center on Morehead State University's campus, Wednesday through Friday, Sept. 19-21.

The two and one-half day session will be held in the Eagle Dining Room, Adron Doran University Center. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. with class starting at 9 a.m. each day. The program will conclude at noon on Friday.

The workshop is sponsored by MSU's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals, state Cabinet for Human Resources and the Department for Health Services Maternal and Child Health Division.

Participants attending the program, entitled "Pediatric Assessment I," will learn to perform a systematic physical nursing assessment of the heart and lungs and to differentiate between normal and abnormal findings as related to the respiratory and cardiovascular system. Applicants are asked to bring a stethoscope and a small plastic ruler to the workshop.

The faculty for the session will be Nancy Frogge, nursing instructor at the Maysville Area Vocational School. She is certified by the American Nursing Association in maternal-child health.

The cost is $90 which includes handout materials and refreshment breaks. Nurses attending the workshop will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Sherman Roberts of Crab Orchard and Murray R. Grevious of Lexington have been appointed to supervisory positions with Morehead State University's Office of Physical Plant.

Roberts, who holds a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering degree from Atlantic Northeastern University in New York, was named trades superintendent. Grevious, who earned the Bachelor of General Studies degree from the University of Kentucky, was named custodial superintendent.

"Both of these men have excellent backgrounds in their areas and have a great deal of on-the-job experience," said Joe Planck, MSU's director of physical plant. "Their management skills and knowledge of their fields make them a welcome addition to our staff," he said.

Roberts will supervise all physical plant employees involved in the operation, maintenance, construction and renovation of the University's facilities. In addition, he will be responsible for developing training programs and methods to improve work procedures.

A former director of plant operations at Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington, he most recently was a self-employed general contractor. He also has worked in various managerial posts with the U.S. Department of Justice Bureau of Prisons in Georgia, Alabama, West Virginia, Tennessee and New York.

Roberts has completed numerous hours of specialized training in various trades areas as well as management seminars at Auburn University and the University of Louisville. A member of Kiwanis International, he also was named an honorary sheriff by the Kentucky Sheriffs Association and in 1987 was made an honorary citizen of Huntsville, Ala.

He is a member of several professional organizations, including the Refrigeration Service Engineers, the National Fire Protection Association and the Construction Specifications Institute.

He and his wife, the former Mary Clayborn, are the parents of a son.

As the physical plant custodial superintendent, Grevious will be responsible for directing the activities of the University's custodial staff as well as for developing and implementing methods and procedures designed to maintain a high level of cleanliness throughout MSU's physical facilities.

Since 1984 Grevious had been with Kentucky Life Insurance Company as housekeeping supervisor for the 26-floor Kincaid Towers Building where he was responsible for supervising custodial employees, maintaining supplies and equipment and conducting training programs. He also served as executive housekeeper at Kentucky State University and is a former operations manager for Fayette Building Maintenance, Inc.

A member of the National Executive Housekeepers Association, he has been active with the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Human Rights Commission and currently serves as chairman.

He and his wife, the former Krista Williams of Paintsville, have two sons.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The Chinese Magic Revue, blending gymnastics, dance, comedy and magic, will open the 1990-91 Arts in Morehead (AIM) season at Morehead State University.

The performance by the Chinese acrobats is slated for 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, in the Academic-Athletic Center.

"This performance is one that will delight all ages, from toddlers to grandparents, so we have tried to schedule it at a time when most of the family will be able to attend," said Yvonne Baldwin, AIM program chair and director of MSU's Academy of Arts.

"Many area residents will remember when AIM brought a similar group to the campus several years ago. It drew a near capacity crowd to the auditorium and we anticipate even more interest this year," Baldwin said.

(AIM is a cooperative effort of MSU and the Morehead/Rowan County Arts Council.)

For centuries, the western world has been fascinated by the Orient and the Chinese Magic Revue offers a glimpse into this culture with feats of daring and balance, Kung Fu, dances in traditional costumes and comedy.

More than a series of "stunts," the revue suggests an art form shaped by centuries of tradition. Many of the show's acts have been part of the Chinese culture for more than 2,000 years.

Season tickets are $30 for an individual and $50 for families. Single admission will be $6 for adults and $3 for non-MSU students. MSU students with valid I.D. cards will be admitted free.

"If you compare the single event charge with the season ticket cost, you can see what a bargain the series really is," Baldwin noted.

Other upcoming events on the AIM series are:

Oct. 14, North Carolina Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Comedy of Errors," 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

Dec. 3, Meridian String Quartet, a young ensemble that is rapidly gaining critical acclaim nationwide, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Jan. 17, "An Evening with Mark Twain," a one-man show featuring Marvin Cole and the caustic humor of one America's greatest authors, 8 p.m., Breck Auditorium.

Feb. 8, Atlantic Winds, Orchestra of New England wind section members presenting classical works for oboe, bassoon, flute, clarinet and French horn, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

March 14, "Banjo Reb and the Blue Ghost," a Civil War musical complete with traditional tunes and war tales and featuring television's William Mooney and David Holt, 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

April 9, Stan Bumgarner, classical guitarist, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

May 1, R. Carlos Nakai, native American flutist of Navajo-Ute heritage, performing traditional melodies of his culture and original works, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Also included in the series is a special holiday trip to Lexington for a performance of the ballet classic, "The Nutcracker," on Dec. 15, with a bus leaving the campus at noon. Reservations will be required and there will be an additional $5 fee.

For those people who want to encourage future programming of similar quality and other community arts programs, there are supporting membership categories in which a portion of the contribution is tax deductible. These are: Contributor, $75; Patron, $125, and Benefactor, $150.

Additional information on the upcoming AIM season is available by calling Baldwin at (606) 783-2659. Season tickets are available from members of the arts council or from MSU's Academy of Arts and may be ordered by writing AIM, P.O. Box 950, Morehead, KY 40351.

Some of the 1990-91 season programs have been made possible by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts foundation, of which the Kentucky Arts Council is a member.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---D. Michael Mincey has been appointed vice president for student life and dean of students at Morehead State University, effective immediately.

An administrative staff member since 1975, Mincey had been serving in that post on a temporary basis and was offered it permanently following a national search.

"Mike Mincey has proven himself to be an able administrator and has consistently demonstrated an intense interest in providing a quality environment for our students," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote who announced the appointment. "We are confident that he will continue to exercise the leadership necessary to enhance the quality of student life."

In an interview following his appointment, Mincey said that he was "as excited about the challenges in the position today as I was when I took the assignment on a temporary basis. I plan to continue working to maintain a student environment that will complement the University's academic mission," he added.

"I am fortunate to have an excellent support staff team whose assistance has made it possible for us to develop and implement the programs necessary to do just that," the vice president said. "I am also looking forward to continuing my close working relationship with our students."

A former assistant to the vice president for academic affairs, Mincey holds a Master of Arts degree in higher education from MSU and has taken graduate work beyond the master's degree at Indiana University. He also earned a bachelor's degree and an additional master's degree from MSU.

Since joining the staff, Mincey has held a variety of posts including grants coordinator and coordinator for academic support services. He also has taught and coached in the public schools of Fleming County and Tifton, Ga.

A member of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, he currently is its state director for recruitment and orientation and is a former board member of the Big Sandy/FIVCO and Buffalo Trace/Gateway Area Health Educational Systems.

The Waycross, Ga., native is married to the former Kathryn Crusie of Lyndon, Ohio, who is a member of MSU's English faculty. They have three children.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has invited students from 15 area high schools to participate in its upcoming "Meet Morehead State Days."

"Meet Morehead State Days" is a program designed to bring high school seniors to campus, according to Tim Rhodes, MSU executive director of student services.

The "Days" are scheduled for Sept. 18-20 and Sept. 25-26, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Activities will be held in the Academic-Athletic Center, Button Auditorium and the Adron Doran University Center.

The students will be welcomed to campus by MSU President C. Nelson Grote, see a videotape about the University, visit with representatives of the academic colleges, and learn about admission and financial aid procedures.

Participating high schools are: Rowan County, Bath County, East Carter, West Carter, Montgomery County, Menifee County, Morgan County, Elliott County, Nicholas County, Fleming County, Mason County, Maysville, Lewis County, Tollesboro and Lawrence County.

"Our main objective in offering this program is for the students to have the opportunity to tour a college campus and see what college life is like in general and specifically to show students what MSU has to offer," Rhodes said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The first graduates from the generic track of Morehead State University's Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree program have accomplished another first--100 percent passage of the National Council of Licensure Examinations for Registered Nurses (NCLEX).

"It is a quite a distinction to have a perfect passage rate," said Dr. Betty Porter, chair of the Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences. The 14 graduates were members of the four-year generic B.S.N. degree program track who had never taken nursing classes before enrolling at MSU.

"Morehead State's nursing program is to be commended for this accomplishment," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote. "The faculty and students should take great pride in this achievement."

Dr. Charles M. Derrickson, dean of MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology, complimented the faculty members on their dedication and commitment to the nursing profession. "We couldn't be more pleased with the type of educational training we are giving our students," he said.

This is the fourth time in recent years that MSU's nursing graduates have had a 100 percent success rate, Dr. Porter said. All of the Associate Degree in Nursing students from 1985 through 1987 successfully completed the licensure examination. Temporarily suspended in 1987, MSU's two-year degree program was reinstated this fall.

The NCLEX is a comprehensive two-day test covering essential knowledge and skills considered necessary to be a safe nursing practitioner. MSU's baccalaureate program prepares students for graduate study in addition to practice, leadership, research, management, community health nursing and indepth knowledge of all aspects in the nursing field.

Dr. Porter described the 1990 graduating class as an "excellent" group. "In addition to a solid curriculum, the attitude of the students and their personal discipline enhanced the learning process even more."

MSU's May graduating class included 18 students, but four had previously received an associate degree or diploma through a two-year program and returned to complete the four-year program under the R.N. track.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's 11th annual Parents Weekend will take place Friday through Sunday, Sept. 28-30, on the MSU campus.

"The weekend has been designed to be family-oriented," said Susette Redwine, University Center programs and special events coordinator. "We think there is something here for all parents to come to see--besides their sons or daughters. We want family members to see the University in full operation and this is the perfect opportunity for them to do so."

Kicking off the weekend will be "1964: As The Beatles" in concert at 8 p.m. on Friday in Button Auditorium. Donations to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund will be taken at the door.

Following the concert, the Office of Minority Student Affairs will host a reception for parents at 10 p.m. in the Cross Cultural House.

Saturday's activities will begin with a continental breakfast at 9 a.m., followed by the annual MSU Parents Association meeting at 10 a.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center (ADUC). New officers will be elected and installed for the 1990-91 Parents Advisory Committee. All parents are eligible to attend the meeting.

Pre-registration is required for the Parents Weekend golf tournament. The nine-hole, best ball tournament with a shotgun start begins at noon at the MSU golf course on U.S. 60 East. Play will be limited to the first 72 registrants.

There will be many activities for parents to choose from during the afternoon. A visit to the Claypool-Young Art Building to view the gallery exhibits, a tour of the residence halls, a trip to MSU's Derrickson Agricultural Complex for a demonstration by the Equestrian Team in Richardson Arena, or a tour of the campus recreational facilities are only a few of the options available.

Also scheduled for Saturday is the Chinese Magic Revue at 3 p.m. in the Academic-Athletic Center. Sponsored by the Arts in Morehead, the revue will display the talents of Chinese acrobats who blend gymnastics, magic, dance and comedy. Tickets are available at the door at $6 for adults and $3 for non-MSU students.

For the evening meal, an all-you-can-eat, pre-game fish fry will begin at 4 p.m. on the Fields Hall lawn on University Boulevard. The ticket price is $6 per person and payable at the activity.

Parents are invited to attend the football game and cheer the Eagles to a victory as they take on the Morgan State University Golden Bears at Jayne Stadium. Kickoff is schedule for 7 p.m. Students may obtain tickets at special prices for their family members if purchases are made prior to the weekend.

On Sunday, the traditional brunch will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Mainstreet Market in ADUC. Beginning at 11 a.m. in Breckinridge Auditorium, the Office of Minority Student Affairs will sponsor a worship experience which is open to all.

In the afternoon, parents may travel to the Scott Creek Marina at Cave Run Lake for a relaxing boat ride on one of Kentucky's most picturesque lakes. There are a limited number of spaces available for this 90-minute tour which begins at 2 p.m. Early registration is suggested.

The residence halls and various clubs and organizations also have scheduled a number of activities. Parents should check with their son or daughter to receive a complete listing of events.

One highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of a Campus Master Plan for the board's approval. The plan, developed with the assistance of Burgess and Niple, Ltd., architectural/engineering consultants, projects MSU's long range, strategic programmatic and facility needs.

Other items on the agenda for discussion and/or action include: revisions to academic policies related to undergraduate admission standards, scholastic standing and satisfactory academic progress of financial aid recipients; approval of emeritus rank, and ratification of personnel actions as well as personal service contracts.

Reports are expected on summer enrollment, preliminary fall enrollment, student housing, 1989-90 private giving, leases for extended campus centers, and 1989-90 grants and contracts.

NOTE: Media representatives planning to attend are asked to contact the Office of Media Relations by 3 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20, so that sufficient support materials are available.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University students in the National Guard or Army Reserves, will not lose their fall tuition/fee payments if their units are activated as a result of the Mideast crisis.

Students who are called for military duty will be given two choices, according to Mike Walters, MSU assistant vice president for fiscal services. "The University will either refund the payments or issue a credit to the students for the next semester in which they enroll," Walters said.

"We've had a number of questions about this from students whose units are on standby alert," Walters said. "However, it is important that the students go through the normal withdrawal process and attach a copy of their orders to the form in order to qualify for the refund/credit," he added.

"This is one way the University can help minimize the personal sacrifice that these young people may be called upon to make for their country," Walters said.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. John C. Philley, dean of Morehead State University's College of Arts and Sciences, will assume the role of interim vice president for academic affairs and dean of faculties, effective immediately, MSU President C. Nelson Grote announced today.

Dr. Philley fills the vacancy created earlier this month by the resignation of Dr. Stephen S. Taylor, who after a sabbatical for the remainder of the fall semester will rejoin the faculty.

"I have asked Dr. Philley to serve as our chief academic officer through June 30, 1991," Dr. Grote said. "We will begin a national search for a permanent vice president this January with the expectation of having the post filled by July 1.

"John Philley is one of Morehead State's most capable and respected administrators and I appreciate his willingness to undertake this most critical leadership role," the president added.

Named as acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences for the duration of Dr. Philley's new assignment was Dr. Gerald DeMoss, chair of the Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences. Dr. M.E. Pryor, professor of biology and a former department chair, will become acting chair for the same period.

Dr. Philley, who came to MSU in 1960, also holds faculty rank as a professor of geoscience and is a certified professional geologist. A former chair of the Department of Physical Sciences, he has served as dean since 1986.

Active in several professional organizations, he currently serves on the Kentucky Science and Technology Council and is the author of numerous articles, reviews, guidebooks and maps in his field. A native of Indianola, Miss., he earned the Ph.D. degree from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. DeMoss, a native of Silver Grove, has been department chair since 1986 and a faculty member since 1968. An entomologist, he is an MSU alumnus and also holds a doctorate from the University of Tennessee.

Active in the Kentucky Academy of Science, Dr. DeMoss has authored or co-authored several papers for scientific journals and has served as a consultant in benthic biology for the Sierra Goal Company.

Dr. Pryor, who joined the faculty in 1964, earned his doctoral degree from the University of Tennessee. Internationally recognized as an Antarctic researcher, he has served as an exchange scientist with a Soviet Antarctic expedition. He also is a former faculty representative to the Board of Regents and a recipient of the University's Distinguished Faculty Award.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University has received two grants totaling $150,766 from the Kentucky Department of Education for the 1990-91 Kentucky Teacher Internship Program (KTIP) and its evaluation process.

The primary purpose of KTIP is to train nearly 1,600 new public school personnel as well as teacher education faculty members, according to Mary F. Rudy, MSU program manager for KTIP. After training, the new teachers will serve on approximately 300 new teacher intern committees.

The evaluation process assists first-year and other new teachers with less than five years of teaching experience to become effective in the classroom. KTIP is a statewide program and MSU is responsible for training committee members to observe and evaluate the new teachers assigned to school districts in Eastern Kentucky counties.

Before the program was enacted five years ago, Kentucky education officials depended upon the Florida Performance Measurement System (FPMS) to evaluate new teacher performances. Kentucky is now one of the few states with its own teacher evaluation system, Rudy noted.

"For Kentucky to get its own teacher evaluation program underway, it took a lot of hard work from a lot of concerned people," Rudy said.

The grant period runs from July 1, 1990, until June 30, 1991.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---With another record-setting fall enrollment of 8,510 students, Morehead State University has seen a 31 percent growth in its student body since fall 1987 and a 49 percent increase since 1985, when enrollment fell to 5,695.

"Last year we shattered all past enrollment records and this year we surpassed that milestone," said MSU President C. Nelson Grote in announcing the preliminary enrollment figures.

"Not only are we at an all-time high in headcount enrollment, but the number of full-time students enrolled continues to set new records," added Dr. Grote. "Also we are experiencing substantial growth at our off-campus locations," he said.

The number of full-time students (those taking a class load of 12 or more hours) stands at 6,529 as compared with 6,150 last fall. More than 60 percent of the full-time students are living in campus residence halls. The fall 1990 housing figure was reported at 4,032, an increase of nearly 200 students from last fall's 3,835 figure.

The fall headcount enrollment represents nearly a 7 percent increase over last fall's figure of 7,962, which at that time topped the previous high of 7,676 in 1978.

(MORE)

Enrollment gains were seen at nearly every class level. The following is a comparison of the 1989 and 1990 fall enrollments by class.

	FALL 1989	FALL 1990
Freshman	2,863	3,240
Sophomore	1,448	1,373
Junior	1,062	1,133
Senior	1,139	1,254
Graduate	1,450	1,502
TOTAL	7,962	8,510

The 1990 figure not only includes freshman, but also new students who transferred to MSU this fall, who are yet to be classified.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A repeat performance of "Miss Cora: the Moonlight Lady" will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 5, in Duncan Recital Hall at Morehead State University.

An interpretive production, "Miss Cora" is based on the life of the woman who founded the nation's adult literacy movement in 1911 in Rowan County and offers a look into the personal struggle of Cora Wilson Stewart as she worked to establish and maintain the Moonlight School program for illiterate adults.

Created by Laura Lee Duncan, a Morehead native and MSU's performing artist-in-residence, the show had its premiere performance on Sept. 7 in Button Auditorium before a near capacity audience. "Miss Cora" also was presented at the recent conference of the Kentucky Literacy Commission in Louisville.

Featured in the production with Duncan will be Michael O'Connell with music by the White Horse String Band. The program is free and open to the public.

Both Duncan and O'Connell studied at Eastern Michigan University, earning numerous national honors in oral interpretation and competitive performance.

The show is available without charge to community organizations and schools. Booking information is available by contacting Duncan, Performing Artist-in-Residence, Cora Wilson Stewart Moonlight School Project, Morehead State University, Rader Hall 205, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. Sept. 22, 1990

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Board of Regents Friday approved a campus master plan designed to guide the University's physical development well into the 21st century.

Developed with the assistance of the firm of Burgess and Niple, Ltd., the plan allows for "planned growth" rather than "piecemeal" development, according to MSU officials.

The Council on Higher Education has called for adoption of master plans by public institutions of higher education for use in capital expenditure requests starting with the 1992 legislative session. Also, the 1990 General Assembly required state agencies to develop long-range capital construction and land acquisition plans as part of the state's biennial budget planning process.

MSU's campus master plan will aid the University in addressing such areas as pedestrian and vehicular traffic patterns, parking, potential building sites for classroom and office structures, student housing and other land use matters.

Stressing that it is a long-range plan which would be revised and updated as necessary, MSU President C. Nelson Grote told the regents that the plan would not drive the University's decisions, but would assist it in making decisions. "The plan doesn't say we have to have 10,000 students, but tells us what we need to do to serve 10,000 students."

He added that it would take the University well into the 21st Century to completely implement the plan even under the most optimistic conditions because of the funding resources needed. "We will be dependent upon the state for resources to support this plan just as we are now for capital construction," he said.

Dr. grote noted that three public universities had received funds for land acquisition purposes in the 1990 session and that Morehead State would include such a request in its 1992-94 budget planning.

In his presentation to the board, Jack Austin, chief planner for Burgess and Niple, said that there was a need to tie the campus property together and to clearly define its boundaries. He pointed out that acquisition of land contiguous to the campus will be necessary to enable the institution to grow systematically.

Dr. Grote told the regents that meetings were held with neighborhood property owners who might be impacted by the plan to explain its implications and to reassure them that implementation would be gradual, taking perhaps as long as 20 years.

In other actions, the regents also approved several policies which raise admission requirements and academic expectations once students are enrolled.

Under new standards approved by the board, the University will require a combination of higher grades and test scores for unconditional admission. The policy also set a minimum ACT test score for provisional acceptance. Students below the minimum ACT will be denied admission and counseled to explore other post-secondary opportunities.

The new policy also calls for students who are accepted with below average ACT scores to take remedial or developmental courses.

According to Dr. Judy Rogers, dean of undergraduate programs, the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges (SACS) recommended that MSU either revise its admission standards or increase the amount of support for remedial and developmental education.

"We have decided to do both," she said.

In revising another policy, the regents approved limiting the time a student may remain enrolled on academic probation.

Also revised was a policy on satisfactory academic progress for financial aid recipients which provided for review of the student's academic standing each semester rather than once a year. It also sets out new minimums for grade point averages and number of hours attempted for continuation of financial aid.

The board receives status reports on facility leases for MSU's Ashland Extended Campus Center and the Big Sandy Extended Campus Center in Prestonsburg. MSU has asked the state to readvertise for space in Ashland. Dr. Grote stressed that the University is still interested in leasing space in the former Ashland Oil Headquarters Building which FIVCO Area Development District is attempting to acquire, but that the University needs to have a contingency plan which will assure that additional classroom and office space is available by next Aug. 1.

MSU has advised the state that Prestonsburg's Highlands Heights Shopping Plaza has been selected as the best location for the Big Sandy Extended Campus Center. A proposed lease has been sent to Frankfort for approval. The facility is adjacent to Prestonsburg Community College.

Regents were informed that MSU's Office of Research, Grants and Contracts has projected external funding for 1989-90 will exceed $4.5 million.

The MSU Foundation reported in excess of $1 million in gifts and other income for 1989-90. Private giving reached $885,140, a 13 percent increase in support over the previous year. Other highlights of the private giving report included a 27 percent increase in number of alumni donors and an 11 percent jump in total contributors.

Alumni President Ted Coakley presented a surprise resolution honoring Dr. Grote for his 40-year career in education. MSU's chief executive began his service as a high school teacher in 1950. He became MSU's 11th president in 1987.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--The most common least talked about source of conflict between men and women on the college campus will be the topic of a lecture by Bob Hall on Tuesday, Oct. 2, at Morehead State University.

"Hands Off! Let's Talk" will focus on understanding the issues and choices which both men and women must deal in order to resolve conflicts in their relationships. The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

The lecture, sponsored by MSU's Office of Student Development, is free and open to the public. It will address personal values and belief systems regarding sexual activity, use and abuse of alcohol in relationships, and communication skills and conversation starters for dealing with conflicting agendas.

Both men and women need to improve their ability to protect themselves from harm when dealing with people, according to Hall. His program will outline non-violent techniques to enable the average person to deal with potentially dangerous conflicts before they escalate into violence.

Hall holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the Rochester Institute of Technology in western New York and is a certified mediator for the New York State Unified Court System. He earned a black belt in the Japanese martial art of judo in 1979 and was chief instructor of judo classes at RIT from 1981-84.

Hall is founder and president of "Learning to Live with Conflict, Inc." Since 1984, he has conducted seminars on self-defense and rape prevention for high schools, colleges and professional organizations.

A release on Kenneth A. Smith's ROTC Scholarship Award reported erroneously that he received a two-year award. The scholarship was for three years. What follows is a corrected version of the release dated Sept. 21.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Kenneth A. Smith of West Union, Ohio, has been awarded a three-year Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps scholarship at Morehead State University.

The scholarship will pay all tuition and most fees, according to Lt. Col. Gary D. Seibert, professor of military science and chair of the department. In addition, recipients receive an allotment for books and supplies, plus a $100 monthly subsistence allowance during the next two years.

The MSU sophomore will be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the United States Army upon graduation and completion of the ROTC program. He is the son of Richard and Barbara Smith of West Union, Ohio.

SPECIAL TO THE LOUISVILLE DEFENDER BLACKS IN EDUCATION SUPPLEMENT

MOREHEAD, Ky.--It's never too early to begin planning for future professional success. That's the philosophy that Morehead State University's Office of Minority Student Affairs wants to instill in its student constituency.

Over the past few years, MSU's minority student body has shown consistent growth and this fall there are 277 blacks enrolled as compared with a minority headcount of 267 for fall 1989. While a record number of blacks graduated during the 1989-90 academic year, the University has continued the growth momentum in its black student population.

"Recruitment of the black student is important, but the real issue is retention," said Jerry Gore, MSU minority student affairs director. "The two go hand in hand; but, it wouldn't matter how many students we recruited each year, if we didn't see that they were successful in their quest for that degree."

University minority programming this year will emphasize preparations for life beyond graduation, the workplace, according to Gore and Peggy Overly, minority student recruiter. Professional development will be stressed throughout the year with a number of workshops dealing with pre-employment skills--from developing a resume to the job interview--and other programs designed to enhance the professional image.

"We want to offer more opportunities for black students to gain on-the-job experience through internships and co-op programs in their career fields," Gore said. "It is important that they have a chance to work in their future professions."

One specific goal is to have every minority student, whether freshman or senior, develop a resume on the computer which can be continually updated as the student gains a new skill or professional experience.

In the past, successful black alumni have returned to the campus to talk with the students and Gore expects to expand this concept as well to include mentor relationships and involve some of the students' parents as "Parent/Scholars-in-Residence" who will exemplify the career opportunities that are out there for the black student who is prepared.

The first section of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records and the role of the auditor in this process. It emphasizes that the auditor's primary duty is to provide an independent and objective assessment of the financial statements. This involves a thorough examination of the underlying transactions and the accounting policies used.

The second section outlines the specific procedures followed during the audit. This includes the selection of samples for testing, the use of analytical procedures to identify unusual fluctuations, and the performance of detailed tests of details. The auditor also evaluates the internal control system to determine the risk of material misstatement.

The third section provides a summary of the findings of the audit. It identifies any areas where the financial statements do not conform with the applicable accounting standards and discusses the implications of these findings. The auditor also provides recommendations for improving the internal control system and the quality of the financial reporting process.

Finally, the document concludes with a statement of the auditor's opinion on the financial statements. This opinion is based on the evidence gathered during the audit and is a key component of the auditor's report. It provides stakeholders with the assurance that the financial statements are presented fairly and in accordance with the applicable standards.

MSU is now in its third year of a special career-oriented program designed to encourage young blacks to become teachers. Known as the Minority Teacher Education Program, it is a partnership between the University and the public schools--primarily those in Jefferson and Fayette County--which is funded through the Council on Higher Education.

Some of the program's first students will be doing their student teaching in the spring, according to Lisa Kelly of Louisville, co-director of the program. Currently 29 students are participating, said Kelly, who earned her bachelor's degree at Bellarmine College and recently joined the MSU staff. Dan Baker of Grayson, a Kentucky Christian College graduate, serves with her as co-director.

The directors work closely with public school officials in identifying and encouraging potential candidates for the teaching profession. Minority students who enroll in the program receive housing grants and there are a limited number of work study awards available as well.

The project to increase the number of minority teachers grew out of discussions between MSU President C. Nelson Grote and Dr. Donald Ingwerson, the Jefferson County Public Schools superintendent, about the difficulties in locating black teachers for Louisville urban schools. Fayette school officials who faced similar problems were invited to take part as well.

While pointing the minority student toward career choices and the preparation for those careers, MSU also traditionally has offered programs designed to create a sense of family among black students and to foster pride in their rich cultural heritage.

Although students are encouraged to be involved in all aspects of campus life, including student government, there are activities offered specifically for the black student: two historically black Greek sororities, four fraternities, as well as a co-ed social organization, The Brotherhood, and a group for women, LaDies. There is also the Black Gospel Ensemble, which celebrated its 22nd anniversary last year and the Black Student Coalition.

The Office of Minority Affairs also nurtures a Big Brother-Big Sister program where upperclassmen work as peer counselors primarily with freshmen, who need a little help in making the transition to college life, by providing academic and social support throughout the year.

(MORE)

To enhance understanding of the African-American culture, not only among blacks but among others as well, several distinguished speakers were brought to campus during 1989-90, including Dr. Addison W. Reed, who discussed the life and works of composer Scott Joplin, and Dr. William Turner, who spoke on the social history of blacks in Appalachia.

In observance of Dr. Martin Luther King Day, students paid tribute to the slain civil rights leader's memory with speeches and poems. Also this past year, MSU was a host site for an interactive national teleconference, "The Black Athlete: Winners or Losers in Academia," which focused on the issues related to black college student athletes.

In addition during Black History Month, a "Mock Kwanzaa" was observed, providing the students an opportunity for self-examination and reaffirmation of goals. Another first was observed during Black Awareness Week with a special program, "An Evening at the Savoy," a student-produced night club show recognizing the contributions of blacks to the entertainment industry. The week also brought lectures by Dr. Maulana Karenga, chair of the Department of Black Studies at California State University-Long Beach and creator of the American version of Kwanzaa, and Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu, consultant with African American Images Publishing Company and a noted author.

"Morehead State takes pride in offering programming to meet the cultural and academic needs of its diverse student body," MSU President C. Nelson Grote said. "A University should provide enrichment opportunities to all students, but it is also important to be sensitive to the special needs of our minority students. I believe we have been successful in our past efforts and we will continue to do so," Dr. Grote added.

In addition to bringing nationally recognized black scholars to the campus, Morehead State University's Office of Minority Affairs also provides opportunities for students to meet successful alumni. Among those visiting during 1989-90 was Donna Murphy, left, who is coordinator of the Student Development Center as well as a counselor and assistant professor at Lexington Community College. A Lady Eagles basketball standout during her college career, Murphy has been selected for inclusion in the MSU Athletic Hall of Fame. During her visit last February, Murphy talked with students Tiffany Kelly and Adrian Pennebaker, both of Louisville.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University will join institutions across the country in an effort to improve relationships on the campus by participating in a national teleconference on Friday, Oct. 5.

The program, entitled "Campus Responses to Racial Harassment and Intimidation," will be held in Breckinridge Auditorium from 1 to 3 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

The conference will include discussion on improving the quality of life for all students, particularly minorities; successful strategies and approaches, and ways to build a community relationship.

The session will be a perfect opportunity for community leaders to discuss campus issues and possibilities for change, according to Madonna Huffman, director of student development and campus coordinator for the teleconference. "This program is designed to provide pertinent information to administrators, faculty and staff, students, community leaders and legal counsel on this issue," she said.

The teleconference is sponsored by the National Personnel Administrators (NASPA), in conjunction with Oklahoma State University and the National University Teleconference Network (NUTN).

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Shakespeare comes to the mountains of Eastern Kentucky next month as Morehead State University offers residents of the region a pair of contrasting Shakespearean productions--a tragic love story and a rollicking farce.

MSU Theatre students will present "Romeo and Juliet," the Shakespearean tragedy of "star-crossed lovers," Thursday through Saturday, Oct. 11-13, as part of the 1990 Homecoming activities.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for high school students and senior citizens, and free to MSU students with a valid I.D. card. Reservations are not required.

The Shakespearean weekend continues on Sunday, Oct. 14, with the North Carolina Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Comedy of Errors" at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium, as part of the Arts in Morehead (AIM) 1990-91 season. Ticket information is available by calling MSU's Academy of Arts at (606) 783-2659.

In the MSU production of "Romeo and Juliet," Sylvia E. "Se" Layne, Morehead junior, and David Dunaway, Harrison, Ohio, sophomore, have been cast in the title roles.

The production will be directed by Dr. Travis Lockhart, director of theatre. Dr. William J. Layne, associate professor of theatre, is set designer; Sylvia Layne, instructor of theatre, is choreographer, and Van Edward Wilburn, Grahn graduate student, and Edward Figgins, instructor of speech, are costume designers.

HAZARD, Ky.--Area high school students and their parents are invited to "Meet Morehead State" on Tuesday, Oct. 9, at the Holiday Inn in Hazard.

Morehead State University representatives are hosting an informational night as a convenience to prospective students, according to Charles Myers, director of admissions. "This is a perfect opportunity for students to talk with a variety of people and ask specific questions about programs offered at MSU and career opportunities in various fields," he said.

The evening's activities will begin with registration at 7 p.m., followed by a videotape of campus life. Information about admissions, academic programs, student life, scholarships, campus housing and athletics will be available during the evening.

"There will be a special session on student financial aid and paying for college," Myers said.

Additional information is available from MSU's Office of Admissions, (606) 783-2000, or toll-free at 1-800-262-7474 in Kentucky and 1-800-354-2090 from adjoining states.
