SOCIAL SECURITY

Many employers throughout the state are unaware that they are liable for contributions for unemployment, and therefore we publish this item, as it is intended to reach all employers in this area in order to relieve them of full liability to both the State and Federal governments.

According to the law, passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor on December 29th, 1936, employers of eight or more must pay to the state nine-tenths of one per cent of their payroll for that year. These contributions must be in the hands of the Commission at Frankfort not later than Feb. 27, 1937. In determining the payroll for state purposes the wages of those persons doing other than manual labor and earning more than $2000.00 a year are to be excluded. If he does manual labor, regardless of what his earnings, he is not to be excluded.

All employers, regardless of the number they employ, must send in a Report to Determine Liability. However, no Contribution Report is required unless they are liable under the Act.

After the employer remits his contribution to the state, he will then report to the Federal Government the amount of his total payroll and remit to them one per cent of all wages paid by him, less the amount paid the state. The Federal Government will be notified by the state that the employer has paid his state contribution.

In the event the employer does not make his contribution by the deadline date he will be liable for nine-tenths of one per cent to the state and one per cent to the Federal Government. He can be relieved of this extra burden by permitting nine-tenths of one per cent of his payroll to the State Unemployment Compensation Commission at Frankfort before the deadline date. When this is done he will remit to the Federal Government only the difference between one per cent of his total payroll and the amount paid to the state. The law provides for certain exemptions among them are: agricultural labor, domestic service in a private home, and service of persons under twenty-one years of age in the employ of their father, mother, son, daughter or spouse.

For the calendar year of 1937, employers of four or more individuals will deduct from the wages of each employ nine-tenths of one per cent of his or her wages and hold this amount in trust together with the employer's contribution until it is requested by the Commission. The employer's contribution for the calendar year of 1937 will be 1.8 per cent of his payroll. For instance: If an employee is earning $20.00 per week the employer will deduct 18 cents from his wages, taking care to notify him for what purpose the deduction was made. The employer will set aside 36 cents as his contribution on this person's wages and will remit both contributions, upon demand, in the amount of 54 cents.

These references pertain to unemployment contributions and nothing else. These contributions are exclusive of old age benefits and any other social security taxation.

All remittances, communications or inquiries should be addressed to the Unemployment Compensation Commission at Frankfort.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Subject: Jesus Our Good Shepherd. John 10:1-6.
Golden Text: "I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." John 10:11.

The ancient shepherds of the first century were much like the shepherds of the Oriental mind. Shepherds had duties then which are not recognized in this country. For instance, every shepherd was expected to know his sheep. To us they might all look alike, but not to the real shepherd. Then, the shepherd was to know where there was plenty of green grass, still waters, and was to lead them where they might feed and drink. At night he was to lead them back to the fold. Another important thing is that the shepherd was to guard his sheep. This involved some danger to the shepherd. Wolves had to be fought, and perhaps at the risk of the shepherd's life. David killed a lion and a bear in defense of his sheep. If a sheep became sick or tired, the shepherd must carry it back to the fold in his arms.

The term "shepherd" became a key word in the mind of Palestine citizens of their people. It was natural that they should think of Jesus, the Messiah, as a shepherd. It was for this reason that Jesus called himself the shepherd.

But there was another reason that is, that people, spiritually, are like sheep. They follow the leader, not knowing where he is going. They are easily confounded in spiritual matters, like sheep when they are scared and scattered, and without a shepherd to guide them, they will likely run to destruction. So Jesus, the shepherd, came to guide and lead the scattered flock of humanity, which was being misled, and scattered to destruction by Satan.

A faithful shepherd does all the things we have mentioned. But Jesus was the Good Shepherd, and that means something else. The Good Shepherd "gives his life for the sheep." The Satanists beats were upon the human race to eat and destroy it, but Jesus, the Good Shepherd, threw himself into the jaws of the enemy, and was killed on the cross of Calvary for his sheep. Instead of the sheep it was the shepherd whom they killed. But Jesus came forth from death to give life to his sheep. And so, by this sacrifice of himself, the Good Shepherd saved his sheep from destruction. Jesus said there might be cases where a good man would dare to die for another, but it was not the usual thing. However, he not only died for his friends, but for his enemies, for "while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." Such a sacrifice for us ought to draw us in love to the Good Shepherd, and make us yield our hearts to his leading. He will lead us in green pastures and beside still waters, and will restore our souls.

Eagles Down Berea In Game Monday

The Mountaineers of Berea may be stepping stones to some teams, but they are only stepping stones to the Eagles, as evidenced by the Eagle-Mountaineer encounter Monday night. The Eagles, coached by Coach the Mountaineers by a 55 to 17 count. The game was played at Berea.

John Johnson opened the game with a pass to Carter, Horton, Cass and Kiser. Kiser was the center punt while Carter went in at forward. Berea opened the scoring with a two-pointer, and the score was tied at 5-5. The Eagles then went on scoring spree, led by Arman and Carter. They led 27-16 at the half.

Every member of the squad saw action. Ishmail who was held out late in the game went in and counted for 7 of the Eagle points. Ishmail, subbed for Kiser in center, and showed well. Cassidy replacing the punting Red Smith, turned in good account of himself. Arman was the most man for the evening, gathered in 18 points, while Carter was content with 11.

Analyzing the game, Morehead played in about 30 per cent of the time, while Berea failed to play. Morehead's offense bristled but they appeared to let down on the defense a bit, as fitness the fact that the Mountaineers scored 10 points against them. The best development of the evening play was the fact that every man on the Berea squad played and every man got very few exceptions cashed in on the goals to help build up the score.

The Mountaineers have a team that is banged at all times and usually so on their own field. They appeared to be counted out of the tournament, and he can't beat them will gain a high rating.

The feature of the game was the small number of fouls called on either team. The game, in the opinion of the coaches and fans was the cleanest that has been played this season. The referee had an easy job.

Health Officers Issue Warning Against Colds

Most of the sickness can be prevented if the people will only take care and obey the cautions of the health officers. A normal winter there is more sickness at this time of the year than any other, and in this abnormal time we can expect a great deal more than the average. The school at Haldeman had to be closed on the account of influenza and that is the dreaded disease at this time of year. People with colds should stay indoors and in bed and should not get in gatherings or in places where there are a number of people. Be careful where they are coughing and spitting. One child will come to school with a cold and the next day he and many others will be confined with flu. This can be avoided. Typhoid is more dangerous now than any time. You may get the germ and carry it for some time before you come down with the disease and perhaps until you take a cold and your resistance is low. This can be prevented by boiling all the water for ten minutes and by taking the typhoid inoculation. Children are subject to diphtheria at this time and all babies should be inoculated against the disease. We are urging that every one will take fair warning and consult their Doctor and their health officers before it is too late.

President Elmer M. Hogge has requested that all members of the club watch for further meetings notice.

Mabel Blevins and Leola Caudill are the other officers of this group. Professor Elmer became sponsor of the campus artists this year, succeeding Miss Lucille Caudill who left the institution at the conclusion of the second semester.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been discussed by the Revellers are busy at work on a new production, it was learned.

Lee Clay Gives

sponsoring a bridge at the College gymnasium on Thursday night of this week. Already over two hundred tickets have been sold and more are being disposed of at the present time.

The Morehead Womens Club sent $50.00 direct to Mayor Neville Miller of Louisville before the Red Cross drive got under way, which should be regarded as a part of their contribution.

No one could imagine, after realizing that the homes of Morehead are kept pretty well cleaned out of old clothing by the professional beggars of the community, that so many good old clothes could be dug up from the families closets as were found to contribute to the flood victims. Most of this clothing, while coming under the heading of used garments was of good quality and in good condition. It could not by any stretch of the imagination be rated as cast off clothing, as Morehead dug deep into its community wardrobe and we venture to say that some boy or girl, man or woman is going without sufficient clothing at the present time due to their generosity at the time their fellow man needed assistance.

The local chapter of the Red Cross has been exceptionally careful in accounting for every article that was brought in to headquarters which were opened in the city hall during the week of the flood.

The women of the city made comforts, the Red Cross furnished most of the batts used, while the WPA, acting on instructions from Paintsville furnished the covers for the comforts. In all they made and turned over to the Red Cross 43 comforts, for which they took receipts. In turn the Red Cross when they delivered the comforts to the various towns took receipts from the officials there, showing that delivery had been made. This was done to protect those working in the Red Cross headquarters from charges that they had appropriated the materials. Such charges have been made in the past, and human nature being much the same now as then, it was determined that no such charge would be given a chance to survive this time. Consequently a receipt for every comfort and every article of clothing turned over to the Red Cross by WPA workers has been received for in either Ashland, Vanceburg or Maysville.

Altogether it seems that, if more effort had been made a more effort to gain an end Morehead can gain that end. The recent united effort put forth by every citizen to help the friends in other communities, should be somewhat of a lesson to this community, a lesson for future reference.

During the entire Red Cross program the Rowan County News has given everything it has had to the program. The News furnished the first hand bills for the Mayor, turned over its entire edition to the flood rescue work, donated the tickets and handbills to the Womens club bridge, and donated the handbills and tickets to the Red Cross dance held under the sponsorship of the Kings Jesters orchestra on Monday night. This is only in line with the attitude of the News in the past with regard to any worthy community enterprise. We in common with the rest of Morehead, in great measure, strive to do our part.

WPA furnished material for 43 comforts delivered to the Red Cross. The Red Cross furnished the batts used, while the WPA furnished the cover material and the women of Morehead did the work of making them. Of these 33 were delivered to Ashland, for which Edgar K. Smith and E. S. Wheeler gave receipts. Ten of them were taken to Vanceburg and were received for by Rev. Wm. S. Saythe.

The following NYA material and clothing was turned over to the Red Cross and taken to Maysville where they were received for by Mr. J. R. Taylor:
20 boys shirts, 30 girls slips, 3 girls dresses, 3 boys overalls, 2 boys overalls.

LINCOLN

From the depths of poverty and drudging slavery of heaviest manual labor, Lincoln rose from the people to lead them in a new concept of liberty that had no barriers of rank or wealth. Great-hearted, great-souled, but with the strength of character and the firm will to leadership that preserved a nation through the fratricidal struggle of civil war. Burdened with the love and sorrow of all humanity, Lincoln went to his martyrdom, the personification of justice and mercy.

Patterns of Wolfpen

By Harlan Hatcher

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co. WPM Service

She went to the bureau drawer in her room and took them again, knowing full well each word in the this precise writing with the perfection of print... and my father has accepted the office of surveyor for the Eastern Iron Works and I am to do most of the field work. The company has bought several thousand acres of land around here because of the ore pockets and the charcoal timber. I'm beginning the surveys this week and will be in the field most of the autumn but it will not stand in the way of my coming to Wolfpen as soon as I can. The other one she knew so well that she merely held it in her hands while she saw the carefully built sentences march through her mind.

of my family has ever died, but I remember how I liked your way of thinking of your people in the graveyard on the Shelf. I hope that in your grief now you can think of your mother in the same way. I wish I had known so I could have come. I don't know just when that will be now, but it will be later. She thought it was a good letter. It was like something written in a book, but it was Reuben. The person who wrote was always different from the person who spoke to you, and you must grow used to the difference until you can see the same person in both. The morning was gone, and she realized with Jesse go away for the winter and her tears for her mother were not separated from her secret thoughts of Reuben and that in the end they had been curiously submerged and forgotten in him.

She wandered what had brought him to the house on this afternoon. "How's your mother today, Dough?" "About as well as common. How are all your folks?" "All well. Jesse went over to town today. He's going to read the law with Tandy Morgan this winter." "He has a good turn for following something like that. I guess he ought to make about as good a one as Tandy. I didn't take to books much. Seems like I wasn't cut out for lawyering or doctoring or surveying but just to be a Gannon Creek farmer, and no so good at that, pears like."

"I'm awful sorry, Dough. How's your other stuff?" "I got a right good crop of corn and beans." "Ours did right well, too." There were pauses now between the bits of talk. "I got the porch fixed up now, and it looks right nice." "It will be a help to the place," Cynthia said. "I'm going to work, cut timber with Stillengerber this winter. They're getting a sight of cutting done down there."

Dough, it's just that I don't love you that way." She was afraid, even while she was speaking, that he wasn't understanding. He had never touched her in his shy, indirect love-making, but now his emotions were too wrought in by her nearness and the sense of her withdrawing more than ever and irrevocably from him. He sprang upon the porch and swept her violently into his arms. His movements were so sudden and so unexpected that she was bewildered for a moment, and he held her so firmly that she could not move. He did not try to kiss her. He merely put his cheek against her head and brushed his lips against her hair. It lasted for only an instance and she sprang away, freeing herself.

Jesse is away for the winter to study the law. And Reuben has not come back. The end of July it was another lifetime. It may be September, and it may be spring. But it is late October, Mother is dead, Jesse is gone away, Reuben has not come back, it is not Wolfpen anymore. For Wolfpen is a good place and this is a place of sorrow and loneliness. In the space of one summer if Reuben would come, Reuben, September is here and past and taken with it my mother and you do not come. And your two letters...

"I have been in he hills west of the river for two weeks and just came in this Saturday and my mother gave me your letter. I am sorry and I had to read several times before I could take in what it was saying. I liked her so very much. She was so quiet and so kind and it seemed to me while I was in her house that her life was self-contained and in order like her fine garden and her quilts. I can hardly think of Wolfpen nor of you or your father without your mother. It must be very hard for you. Nowe in the afternoon Dough came up the hollow. Cynthia had lived so intensely in her day-dreams that the sight of him was a shock. He looked discouraged. His eyes were heavy and his mouth had the pulled appearance of one who had made hopes too confidently and had suffered by their defeat. She felt a sorrow for him akin to pity.

"Why, Dough?" "The mice chewed it up, Cynthia. They hacked purr' near every step I took. I had just about made me sick when I dug in and there they were eaten up."

"I like you Dough. I've always liked you. But I couldn't, you see."

"Dough! You stop! What's come over you. I want you for myself. You're aiming to marry that feller, ain't you? I know. He's a surveyor and has downriver manners, and I'm just a Gannon Creek farmer. Well, he won't get you. You hear me? He won't get you." His outbreak was as much of a surprise to himself as to Cynthia. "Don't you touch me again, Dough!" she cried.

Cozy Features Tarzan Cinema

Hundreds of youngsters throughout the United States who have built "Tarzan tree houses" and formed "Tarzan tree house clubs" will have a thrill when "Tarzan escapes," latest of the jungle adventures of Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan, reaches the screen. The picture opens at the Cozy Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, February 17 and 18.

Not only a tree house but complete Hollywood bungalow was constructed for the story.

Built of wicker, bamboo and tree branches, the cinematic residence of Tarzan and his mate is a comfortable six-room bungalow, high in a great cottonwood tree. It has a porch around it. An improved elevator, operated by a friendly elephant hauls its residents up and down. A great turtle shell, lowered to the river below, draws up water to another turtle shell used as a sink. A stove made of dried mud, earthen ware, kitchen utensils, dishes made of gourds, fruits of bamboo, knives of flint, add all of the comforts of home to the amazing residence.

It was put together entirely without nails. In fact, no confidences were used, such as wires or other fastenings. Nothing but natural materials that could be found in the jungle were employed as Tarzan is supposed to have built the house with his hands for his bride.

The foundations are logs, lashed to the branches by heavy thongs, and twisted ropes of rattan, fashioned by hand.

Jake Plank, Allie Plank and Harry Braun made a business trip to Morehead Wednesday.

Mrs. Anna Plank was visiting her daughter Mrs. Lizzie Buckner Wednesday night.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION DECLARED TO BE SUCCESS

The President's reception and dance took place Thursday night in the gymnasium. Music was furnished by the King's Jesters under the direction of Earl King Sheriff. The gym was attractively decorated, the keynote being red hearts, in correspondence with the season.

The primary function of this semi-annual affair which occurs at the beginning of each semester is to welcome new students to M. S. T. C. The newcomers have a splendid opportunity to become acquainted with members of the faculty and student body. A record attendance of both previously maintained groups added to the tremendous success of the evening.

Designed in Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material with long sleeves. With short sleeves 3 1/2 yards.

Pattern 8868. Designed for the homemaker, this frock possesses the charm and tastefulness associated with her role. Too, it's a frock typical of the home-sewing vogue. The lay-out sketch at the side illustrates its superb simplicity, and your artistic sense tells you how flattering are its notched-out collar and bodice. The "slimming" darts at the waist get the skirt lines off to an excellent beginning while the easy proportions at the hem see to a graceful swing finish. Make the short-sleeved model in a tub-well cotton for general house wear and go-in-one-better with a silk version with long sleeves for day, street and dress occasions.

Know Your Language

By C. L. Bushnell

SOME writers have a tendency to make too frequent use of the comma, but how important the comma can be is illustrated by a document discovered a few years ago in Spain, which seemed to show that Sir Walter Raleigh was not, as is generally supposed, the first to introduce tobacco to Europe.

The document was a will drawn in the year 1523, more than half a century before Sir Walter smoked his first pipe. The testator named as one of his heirs a man seemingly described as "Antonio, tobacco merchant of Lisbon." Closer examination of the will, however, convinced scholars that the proper reading was "Antonio Tobasso, merchant of Lisbon." Thus the placing of a comma threatened to deprive Raleigh of his fame as the patron saint of tobacco.

Newtown Ohio were visiting their parents Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fryman last week.

Ruth Egan and Juanita Bradley visited Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mabry Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Conn visited their relatives Mr. and Mrs. Willie Boyd over the week-end.

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD

Run soothing, warming Musterole in, well into your chest and throat. Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. It penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, drawing out local congestions and pain. Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau, No. 4477.

THE 25-MILLIONTH FORD

HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

It HAS never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903... more than one-third of all the cars ever built... enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company. That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year—more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price—with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines—the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford—and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

well under way in its practice session. Morehead's swimming team is strong, and seem to be getting a lot of enjoyment out of training.

The lad in the photo above is Charley Morris, speedster personal and number one diving man of the Blue and Gold team, starting on what proved to be a perfect execution of a beautiful swim.

Morris won the Intercollegiate fifty yard dash at the state meet last year and was runner-up in the diving. The lad, who won the low board event beat him by one-tenth of a point.

Members of Saturday afternoon games. On the basis of the records of the teams so far this season Louisville, Western, Morehead and Murray should be the semi-finalists but most of the teams have been beating each other so frequently that the tournament may develop into an open affair.

The referees will be Bernie Shively of Lexington and William Young of Elizabethtown. It was announced by Athletic Director George S. Ditto of Kentucky Wesleyan College, secretary of the K. I. A. C. who supervised the drawings this morning.

Eagles To Meet

Fans are planning on making the trip to Richmond to attend the game so that there is every likelihood of a good delegation of followers being present Friday night.

Wesleyan upset Eastern last week while Monday night the Eagles bested Berea at Berea 33 to 37. Eastern was beaten once by Berea and barely sked out a victory at Richmond. Which is good dope for Morehead, except for the fact that when Eastern and Morehead meet, the dope is often upset.

Regardless of its effect on the league standing, the game will be the tops for the season so far as both Morehead and Eastern are concerned. Both teams are primed for the encounter. Morehead at present leads Eastern by three wins.

They were like streaks of brown light on the offense which failed to get anywhere. They rushed pell-mell here and there. They raced around the court, as though they were entrants in some Derby. And they furnished the crowd with entertainment of the first grade. As a matter of fact, the crowd, which is naturally pro-Eagle, after they saw the Mexicans were under dog, expressed their delight by cheering whenever he called a foul on the visitors.

Carter was literally snowed under by a swarm of brown boys whenever he got the ball. Carter received the most endearing embraces it has ever been his fortune to receive. He was given a consistent and continuous "necking" on every shot, by not only one but by two and three brown men.

The Eagles got away to a lead which was tied a few seconds later by the Mexicans, who then took a four-two lead. It was tied at 616 and the visitors were against a stone wall. The Eagles went ahead to a 13-6 score, when Coach Johnson sent in an entire new team. Benefitting from the experience of their brothers, the second Eagle team to take the floor, held their visitors scoreless during the remainder of the half, ending up with a 27-6 score.

The Mexicans opened the second half with a long range drive, and they had one long range artist who could actually sink them. They scored in ten points before the Eagles, with the starting lineup on the floor broke through for a point. With the score 29-16 the Eagles protected a comfortable lead throughout the second half, although they had a continuous fight on their hands until the final whistle blew.

The Mexicans are on an extended tour of the United States and have met several of the outstanding teams of the country. On Monday night they played the University of Kentucky who defeated them 33-30.

Morehead plays Eastern at Richmond on Friday night.
