approval was not given. A study of Kentucky returns by counties may throw some light on the situation. If anyone wants to make politics out of it, Republican counties voted three to two in favor of the quota. The original barley district, which cast 88,000 of Kentucky's 118,000 ballots, went overwhelmingly for the quota as did populous Kentucky counties in which barley growing has made extensive inroads on the dark variety.

Here is where tobacco, generally speaking, is the big industry, co-operative marketing has been most diligently promoted and become established. The closer margin and smaller poll in other counties correspond to the result in adjacent states, except Virginia, which turned the trick against the quota.

Teacher Discovers Five Prestige Rates

The five driving forces in the daily life of the average college student have been charted by Cornell University's Dr. Julian L. Woodworth and Dr. Y. after an extensive research into campus social life. These driving forces are: 1. The desire for prestige; the need to release tremendous energy by doing things and going places; the wish to achieve independence from some tier and be recognized as an adult; the model of relationship with the other sex; and finally the planning for adult life.

U. Of Florida Loses Football Player

They don't pass around medals to people who do things like Ed Wazak did some weeks ago, but when they do, this 21 year old college man, who hoped to be an outstanding football player at the University of Florida this season, ought to get one.

Ed was one of 23 sophs on Coach John Cody's Gator football squad when September 1 rolled around. He hoped he could be a sophomore lineman who learned rapidly and acquire the necessary skills with conference action of college football today.

'Bo' McMillan Offers Bad Season Solution

Alvin N. 'Bo' McMillan, Indiana University's gridiron mentor, has started a tempest in the stadium.

arguing the prospect and cents of the proposal, but Wallace's Heavy Stridebire sumit it up with the statement that the plan "must be backed by coaches who have had tough luck with their quarterbacks."

Football Gets Into 'Pop' Warner's Blood

Glenn S. 'Pop' Warner, Temple University's 68-year-old grid mentor, Philadelphia, Pa., is one man to whom failure brought success. After graduation from Cornell, Warner hung out his law shingle in his home town, and I cooled his heels on top of his head for two months without a single case. When the chance to coach Iowa State College came along, he took it with the intention of continuing his law work later. The twenty-five dollar per week salary, in the words of "Pop," seemed like "big money."

When "Pop" did decide to coach he did it in a big way, too. After he had accepted the job at Iowa State, he received an offer from the University of Georgia which he also accepted, being probably the only football coach to hold two coaching jobs in one season.

"Pop" says, "Football got into my blood after the first season, and I never did go back to law school. I have been in the game for forty years and get a bigger kick out of it today than I did when I first started."

Mr. Iverson asked me to "pitch in" for Earl May this week as May is out of town. I appreciate this invitation but I fear that he has picked a person who knows very little about newspaper writing and what would interest readers. Perhaps, however, this writing will save Mr. May's good face until he returns. So here goes.

David Mickell is home from medical school for a week of vacation and hunting. The Honorable Mr. Hogan of M. S. T. C. is also at home.

Early Monday morning they left for the firing line in the first country, but before going my wife and I invited them to put on the "padding" with us at 9 p. m. that evening (right the time).

They left early Monday morning, borrowing Mr. May's car, sleds and all the shells they could find. I suggest they even requested Mrs. May to fix up a lunch for them.

The big-game hunters travelled to Marion Collins' in the Blaine Mill section where I told them I had some kind of a one of them told me it would be alright for any of his friends to hunt on their land.

After hunting for sometime on the farm of my relative, they came to the top of the house with a tale that one of their dogs had killed one of his chickens. Hogan said they were greatly distressed and would like to pay fifty cents for the chicken (chickens are cheap).

During the conversation Hogan remarked that the chicken would be caught on and figured when they were friends of mine that they must be alright even though I like to have friends but when they go out hunting and kill chickens and get their lunch for fifty cents among my people, it's too much like riding on my coat-tails.

When six o'clock came, no Hogan or Nickell appeared at our house to eat. Did we wait? No, we didn't. It was an hour and a half before they arrived. We asked what had been the trouble. They replied that they had hunted until dark. I just found out that they got stuck with May's car and had to be pulled out.

When we asked what luck they had, Hogan replied, "Sixteen."

"Thirty-two."

"No, sixteen each, we doubled up on each shot."

"I am glad I wasn't alone, for as the hunters say, they are excellent on the pick-off."

My suggestions to all hunters:

1. Get permission to hunt on all lands of the owners pay taxes.
2. Be very careful about shooting near a house.
3. Don't kill all the birds in a flock.

ROWAN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Farmers Pupils To Give Pageant Friday Morning

Grades I and II

Mrs. Willie Grayson visited our room Friday afternoon.

We were sorry to see Rina Swain go to another district last week.

We are making our own Christmas tree decorations this week. Mrs. Reynolds, Jr. bought a lovely tree to be used in the class room.

Names were drawn last week and we are eagerly looking forward to our Christmas program.

A Christmas pageant will be presented at the Farmers school Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock, December 23. After the pageant the Santa Claus in a flaming red suit, patent leather boots and snow capped top will preside at the Christmas dinner.

All the school children, P. T. members, have drawn names for an exchange of presents. These added to the lists of all their pupils which will be given to Santa Claus in a leather boot and snow capped top will preside at the Christmas dinner.

The third and fourth grades are very proud of their attendance record this month. To date they have had only four absences. M. T. Myers was absent one-half day last week, because of illness. This is the first time that he has been absent in four years. The children are looking forward to their attendance certificates Friday. They enjoy mounting and coloring the certificates during art period.

Some of the students pride themselves on having quite a collection, having received one each month for the past two years.

Those children in the third and fourth grade have been busy making Christmas presents for their mothers. Each mother will get a handkerchief holder decorated with a Christmas card and calendar by the children. They are now conducting a clean hands campaign. All receive a health guard badge at the end of four weeks.

The fifth and sixth grades have been spending their time repairing donated toys to help Santa Claus. The P. T. members are also helped by each one filling a Christmas stocking for the needy.

The Farmers school children are Christmas seals last week as the national tuberculosis society. They also sold chances on a turkey so if you bought one and don't have turkey it is because covey (we might live to hunt next year).

Keep your gun unloaded except when in the fields.

Don't shoot toward any stock, and especially, don't kill a chicken and go to the house with fifty cents expecting to get your dinner. Some people might not be so generous.

Be careful about climbing fences.

Be nice to all country people, whether it's bird season or not. When they are in town, ask them to eat with you or if they are walking home, get your old flivver out and take them home. Then when it comes time to hunt you will be embarrassed to ask them to hunt until they say, "O. K. boys, help yourselves."

Mrs. R. L. Hoke entertained at three tables last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. C. U. Waltz won first prize and Mrs. Otto Carr, traveling prize.

Big Brushy P. T. A. Selects Delegates

The children are planning a Christmas program for Thursday. Mr. Skaggs reports Lucy Reeves as being absent one day last week. She was too ill to attend. Lucy is the daughter of Ishah and Mrs. Reeves. She is age twelve and in the fifth grade. We hope she will be able to attend school again before Christmas.

A new floor has been laid in the schoolhouse and the room is much warmer.

The Big Brushy P. T. A. met last Thursday evening at seven o'clock. The meeting was a business session and the main topic to be discussed was a good road through that part of the county. A large crowd was present. Those on the program were:

Superintendent Roy Corlette; Mahlon Hall, president of the Morehead P. T. A.; Herbert Bradley, Morehead.

Several local patrons also expressed their view on the subject.

Representatives were also selected to attend the Morehead convention of the P. T. A. which will be January 5. The people selected were William Skaggs, Earl Murray, Eddy Hayes and Frank Nettler.

Student Employees May Not Pay Taxes

A decision of far-reaching importance on the question of whether or not college students working in fraternity houses for their meals should pay social security taxes has been announced at Amherst, Mass., by the Amherst College cooperative fraternity business manager.

He revealed that the Massachusetts State Unemployment Tax commission has allowed exemption from the tax to student waiters and house, officials, janitors and chefs.

The fraternities, however, must continue to pay the federal old age insurance taxes, and those operating dining rooms must pay a federal unemployment excise tax. The Social Security Board has received many protests on this tax, and the board has notified fraternities that it is considering recommending to congress the exemption of all student employees of fraternities from these two taxes.

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of the throat may lead to serious trouble if not treated. These conditions may be relieved now with Creomulsion, P. T. A. which is Creomulsion that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allowing irritation and inflammation and by acting in loosening and expelling mucus-laden phlegm. The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children. Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel mucus-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles due to common colds hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. THE PARENT MIND

The minds of the sons of God are greater than their business and they are thrown out into life, not to do a certain work, but to sacred lineaments, to show some divine tint of the Parent Mind from which they came—Martin.

THE NATION'S PROGRESS

National progress is the sum of individual industry, energy, and uprightnes, as national decay is individual idleness, selfishness and vice.

Billie Black's BLANNEY

The Falmouth papers carried a story before the Brock game which was rather amusing. It said the "chief" throws of the Brock-bridge team are "Red Letty" Judd and Clinton Tatum.

After the game the Newport team told how the Newport team shipped the ball around and tried to penetrate the Brock defense for crisp shots, but they didn't make a crisp the entire game. One boy would get the ball, pose, and smile as if for a picture, then pass it to another who would repeat the performance. Finally a photographer did snap one of them.

Sun Worshipers Weren't So Bad

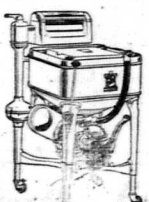

Maybe the scientists who worshiped the sun weren't so "primitive" after all, believe it or not, sun played a part in man's destiny, for science today is beginning to recognize evidence tending to link human activities with the sun and planets of the solar system.

This is a statement of Dr. Clarence A. Mill, professor of experimental medicine in the University of Cincinnati college of medicine. He has attracted wide attention by his studies on the influence of weather on man's well-being.

Mankind's part of a chain in which sunspots are a vital link, Dr. Mills believes. Here is how the chain works: Man's energy and ability to do and accomplish are dominated by his weather and climatic environment. This in turn is influenced by variations in solar radiation brought on by change in size and number of sun spots.

COLLEGIATE REVIEW . . .

The effort of the University of California to induce "well-rounded" and "stay-aways" to participate in the social life of the institution, should be of intellectual fitness, is being met with considerable success this semester, according to Prof. Frank L. Kleeberger, in the beginning of dancing classes.

Scores of young men who heretofore did not seem to be able to stop tripping over their partners', feet, and young women who were all too conscious of their dancing faults and supposed lack of popularity, are "finding themselves" in the beginning dancing classes, Dr. Kleeberger says.

Classroom instruction in popular dancing to overcome the embarrassment of clumsy first attempts or the determination to stay away from social affairs altogether, is now engaging the attention of some 200 male students and scores of young women twice each week and many of these are finding a much greater interest in university affairs generally, and a stimulus to study.

The movement was inaugurated by the University Mother's Club some years ago in the endeavor to provide social dances for the men students who could not attend courses, taxi-cabs and dance tickets, and the girl students who found the "formal" beyond the reach of the collegiate purse.

The Student Workers Federation has been refused a meeting place on the University of California campus.
