THE PROMISE OF EASTER

Once more the whole world rejoices in the return of Spring and the resurrection of the earth from its winter death. This ancient festival, celebrated from the earliest times by all inhabitants of the northern hemisphere, has a special significance for Christians, since the early Church adopted it as the occasion on which to celebrate the resurrection of Christ after His crucifixion. But the same return of Spring was the great annual festival of all peoples for thousands of years before the Christian era. It coincides, too, very closely with the ancient Jewish feast of the Passover, which itself derives from the primitive universal rejoicing over the rebirth of life as evidenced by the return of all green growing things and the bringing forth of their young by the beasts of the forest and fields.

There is no mention in Scriptures of Easter as a special day of celebration, nor of any other special holy day. But the fathers who built up the church founded upon the teachings of Christ wisely encouraged the pagan peoples to retain their traditional festivals, adding to them a new significance and symbolism. Thus it came about that the old festival of Eastr, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of Spring, came to be, as an early church historian wrote, "observed with the gladness of a new solemnity and the old name has become the English name for the festival which in other languages as a name derived from the Jewish Passover. The Germans call it "Pasch," the French "Paques," the Italians "Pasqua" and the Welsh "Pasg." But in all languages it signifies the most sacred and the most joyful of Christian festivals.

The significance of Easter is the hope and promise which the resurrection of Our Lord holds for everyone, of eternal life for the human soul and spirit. Just as the return of the sun from its winter hibernation in the South has brought to all peoples in all times promise and evidence that life does not end when grasses wither and trees shed their foliage at the advent of Winter, but continues to manifest itself afresh in new forms, so the Resurrection of Christ is a pledge to every faithful believer in Him that they, too, shall not perish but shall have everlasting life.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kasee, Pastor of Baptist Church.

Subject: Christ's Resurrection a Glorious Fact. John 20:19-29:21:29-24.

Golden Text: "I am the first and the last; I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive forevermore." Revelation 1:18. There are many who have tried to dispose of the fact of the resurrection of Jesus, but the proofs they offer require more stretching of the imagination to believe them than does the actual truth that Jesus did arise from the dead. Most readers will not bother to doubt the Resurrection, and they have no reason to, so we will dwell on the glorious fact.

The resurrection of Jesus is a glorious fact because, (1) It affords convincing proof that He is the Son of the living God. The enemies of Jesus challenged him while he was on the cross to come down and thus demonstrate His divinity. Instead of accepting this challenge Jesus did something greater. He came back from the dead. If there had been no resurrection men would have pleaded Him to be the Son of God. The Apostle Paul rightly said that Jesus Christ was "declared to be the Son of God with power . . . by the resurrection from the dead." (Rom. 1:4). Because Christ arose from the dead, that there is life beyond death. Because Christ arose from the dead, we know that death is not the last victor and that life can survive the experience called death. The resurrection of Jesus Christ is not merely an illustration of resurrection, but is the pledge of the resurrection of mankind. Because of the forgiveness of sin and of victory over sin.

The same power which raised Christ from the dead is available to deliver us from the power of sin and to enable us to walk in newness of life. Have we actually experienced this power? We are acquainted with the historical facts concerning the resurrection of Jesus, but many professing Christians have never experienced the power of the resurrection in their lives. We need this power and we desire the victory and joy which come as a result of it. If in genuineness and full surrender we allow our sinful natures to be crucified with Christ and we ourselves die toward sin, and "because dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him." (Rom. 6:4). Then the power of the resurrection we shall be raised to newness of life, life which is eternal to follow Christ and to be victorious over the world. Thanks be unto God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Lose Swim Meet

Morris Is Star

Charles Morris, veteran dash and diving phenom, was the most outstanding individual luminary in the meet. Morris captured two firsts; he won the sixty yard dash with ease and was more than fifty points ahead of his nearest rival in the diving event. In the third event in which he was entered, the 180 yard medley relay, Charles gave Jackson, swimming anchor, a rather substantial lead. It proved to be not enough, however, and Jackson, after losing lead to Hinkbein in the first thirty yards on the turn, failed to nip his opponent at the wire by inches.

Radjunas and Kessler newcomers to the fold, copied a win apiece, and showed no advantage in the other events in which they participated. "The Rajah" stepped out to beat Reed in the 90 yard sprint, and Kessler, swimming the gruelling 210 yard freestyle, set a pace which could not be touched by his nearest opponent, Reed.

Bell and Vanderpool, also newcomers to the Eagle squad, did some nice work. Bell captured a third in the diving event. Vanderpool, swimming in the two relays and the backstroke, in which he placed, displayed signs of future greatness.

Delmer Flannery and Miss Nina Reynolds of Farmers were quietly married March 10 at Salt Lick.

Farm Program Closes March 31

Farmers in Kentucky who did not take part in the farm program last year, and who desire to participate in the 1937 Agricultural conservation program, are requested to file work sheets for their farms not later than Mar. 31, County agent Chas. L. Goff announces. "Those farmers who participated in the program last year need not file worksheets this year. However, if any change has been made in the size of the farm, or if the producer is operating a different farm in 1937, he should notify the county office immediately of such change.

The worksheets for farmers taking part in the program for the first time in 1937 will show the 1938 acreage of each separate crop and land use on the farm.

Under the program this year, the county office will furnish each farmer a statement showing crop basis, the number of acres upon which payment can be received for diversion, and the amount of the soil building allowance for the farm. With this information farmers can determine early in the season approximately the amount of payment that can be earned under the program. They will be able to plan their farming operations so as to fit the program to the needs of their farms and at the same time qualify for full payments.

Farmers are being urged to file worksheets prior to March 31 so that necessary information about bases, crop acreages, and the soil building allowance for 1937 can be furnished by the county office in feed for livestock and in no instance may exceed $400.

Farmers are not eligible for these loans if they can borrow from an individual, producing credit association, bank, or other concern. Emergency crop and feed loans will not be made by the Farm Credit Administration to standard rehabilitation clients of the Resettlement Administration whose current needs are provided for by Resettlement.

As in the past, the security for these loans will consist of a first lien on the crop financed if the loan is for the production of crops, and if for the purchase of feed for livestock, then a first lien on the livestock to be fed. Landlords, or others having an interest in the crops or the livestock to be fed, will be required to waive their claims in favor of the lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Patrolmen Reply

The speed limit on trucks is 30 miles per hour for a truck and load of 5000 lbs or more and 20 miles per hour in congested areas. On a truck and load under 5000 lbs it is 40 miles per hour and 25 miles per hour in congested areas.

The State Patrol wish to warn all persons who drive an auto while in violation of the law not to be lenient. The fine on an auto violation is from $10.00 to $100.00 and cost of prosecution. On a truck violation it is from $15.00 to $200.00 and costs.

The State Patrol do not want to make anyone pay a fine, but they are going to arrest anyone caught violating the law (no matter who they are).

The crust of the dried apple pie browned in crisp flakes, deep stained with the juice in the fork holes in the dough pattering fern—Cynthia kept them in the oven as long as possible, and then set them on the warming shelf by the stove-pipe. The special dinner for Sparrel was ready.

He ought to be back now, Abrael said.

You can't always tell about getting an early start from the trials Jasper said.

He might have to stay over, Abrael said. Let's eat. I'm hungry.

It's not like Daddy to say when he'll be back and then not be, Cynthia said.

He don't usually go in a law case either. You can't tell about them lawyers and a jury, Jasper said.

They waited still longer, and then Cynthia at last took up the supper. I wish he'd come, she said.

Time going on while they ate, while Cynthia got the fresh pie with the warm wet filling between crisp, hot crusts. The best I ever baked, she thought, and as good nearly as Mother's and him not here when they're just right. I wish he'd come now. I can feel it making me touchy and nervous.

I reckon he's stayed over with Jesse, Jasper said, going out.

I'll keep things warm for a while just to make sure, Cynthia said.

Abrael finished and went outside following Jasper. Cynthia lingered at the table, resting, waiting. Then Abrael bounded back into the kitchen.

She's down at the gate and scared as a rabbit he shouted.

Cynthia ran to the kitchen with the lamp.

Who, Who, Abrael?

The Finemare, he said, grabbing her out from the peg by the door.

Jasper hurried in after Abrael. What is it, Jasper? Cynthia cried. Jasper Tell me! What is it? Jasper was betting the lantern from the medicine-room, very calm.

I don't know, he said. The Finemare'd down there in a hot shower. She's been running hard. The bride is gone and the saddle's slipped.

But how could get through the mill gate, Jasper.

How do I know? They were already gone through the door. Cynthia in a panic of fear seized a shawl and ran after them.

Wait Jasper! Wait! I'm coming too, she cried.

No, you're not! Jasper shouted. You stay right here and look after things all we get back.

It was so sudden and imperative that it halted her on the porch.

That mare's run three or four miles. He's still shouting from the mill. We'll get back as soon as we can.

Jasper fed the Finemare and quieted her in the stall while Abrael got the saddle mules, and then they rode out down Wolfpen. Cynthia, alone, watching the jostling lantern disappear in the cold night. Then she turned and went back through the gate to the glare of light in the open door. Women always must sit and wait and suffer while the menfolk get relief in doing something she sobbed at the door.

The house was deathly silent. She dropped into the chair by the smoldering logs and began the long waiting.

Time was no longer going on. It was waiting with her. Cynthia, yearning for it to move on, felt the hysteria of being imprisoned in an arrest moment which would not end. She paced the floor, pushing against it. She put a log on the fire, watching it burn without exploding the stopped instant of time. How does a body live in eternity? She stood in the open door looking at the mass of Cranesnest, a little blacker than the dark. She imagined each possible accident that could happen, enacting it sharply in her mind, shuddering at it, dismissing it, creating another in its place. She filled the sputtering teakettle which had boiled dry in the motionless time of the waiting.

It continued for three hours. Cynthia felt that more hours had passed her by in this one lone evening than had gone through Wolfpen since April a year ago. Then, when she thought she could abide it no longer without screaming and running after Jasper and Abrael, Abrael came out of the dark end of the voice muttering. The yellow stumps motion wearily preceded by his squatting devils.

What is it, Abrael? Tell me what happened, she cried.

But Abrael was almost incoherent and she had to put it together piece by piece, disengaging the words of Abrael from the thoughts worn deep into her own mind by three hours of repetition: finding the brittle caught on the latch in the gate by the mill where the Finemare hand got through; the search up Gannon Creek road; stopping at Cannon's place and John saying, Sure, boys I heard that hoss go by running fast and light-footed, but I just didn't think any more about it; searching up Gannon to Ferguson's and George saying, I heard a horse go by earlier in the evening but I didn't pay no attention to it; hardly. Was that Sparrel's mare? It wouldn't hardly have thrown Sparrel; the growing body of men searching on up the creek toward Stepstone.

Among the creek stones by the cliff at the upper ford where the bride trail branches off for Pikeville, they found Sparrel Patern crumpled up in the sand. His boots still glistening with the wet from the mud. He lay on his right side, his left bent, his right hand clutched at the small pebbles. His head was crushed and fallen on the sand. Under the pale light of the lanterns shone sand crystals clinging to the blood on his forehead above the dead eyes and his hair.

They carried him over to Ferguson's place for the night. Jasper would stay there and ride over for Jesse and the girls at daybreak.

She seemed not to be hearing Abrael's words now, only looking at the fire unseeing feeling herself being crushed to death among the stones while a lantern beam fell in the exact glims in the blood. It was too much after the house alone, waiting. She collapsed into the chair and buried her face deep in both hands and cried; not hearing Abrael saying, The stumps-quent in cowardly in his head from behind.

They laid Sparrel among the sandstones on Cranesnest Shelf. The crowd of people was so great that it filled the house, the yard and the barn-lot. All down Wolfpen as far as the mill those who felt themselves strangers stood in little groups paying respect to Sparrel Patern.

SENIORS SPONSOR FRIDAY PROGRAM

Musical Numbers, Poem Reading and Recitation Are Featured

The senior class, having charge of the chapel program Friday morning, gave a very interesting and varied program. The president of the class, Sherman Henderson, introduced the artists; those taking part were Marianna Senff, Earl King Senff, senior class president, Harold Blair, George Young, Sylvia Graham, and Bunn Jones.

Marianna Senff, Earl King Senff, and Harold Blair sang "Do You Ever Think of Me?" They were accompanied at the piano by George Young.

Sylvia Graham, a very modest person, read some of her original poetry. Some of the poems were: "To A Lady In Church," "Condition Society," "The Country Fair," "The Mountain Girl," and "Lo's Wife."

Harold Blair gave two saxophone solos, "Trees" and "The Dark Town Strutters' Ball" and sang two vocal solos, "For Sentimental Reasons" and "Trust In Me." He was accompanied at the piano by George Young.

Bunn Jones gave a reading, "Now Let's Get Down To Work" written in 1925. The philosophy of the reading was "There are plenty of worms, but, boy, you have to dig." Harold Blair, reading the entire audience in singing the new school song, "Morehead, Morehead."

New Tricks In Corn Flake Cookery

Rolled corn flakes mixed with melted butter and a sprinkling of sugar provide the crunchy crust and topping for this delicious refrigerator cheese cake.

By Barbara B. Brooks

THE housewife's interest in corn flakes does not stop at the breakfast table for she has found that this popular cereal can be used in many interesting ways in devising new and novel dishes.

Corn flake crumbs, for example, have taken the place of bread crumbs as a coating for fish filets, croquettes and sweet potato balls. Mixed with melted butter and sugar, corn flake crumbs can be pressed into a pie tin to form a delicious uncooked pastry for cream or chiffon filling. Distinctive among the new corn flake recipes is this refrigerator cheese cake which uses corn flake pastry as a base and corn flake crumbs as a topping. The triple tested recipe follows:

Refrigerator Cheese Cake

2 tablespoons gelatin 1 lb. cottage cheese
1/2 cup milk (put through sieve) 1 cup cream
1 egg cold water 1/4 cup sugar
2 egg yolks (slightly beaten) 1/2 cup corn flakes
1 tsp. vanilla extract 1 tsp. vanilla extract

Soften gelatin in cold water. Put egg yolks in top of 8-inch boiler. Beat slightly and add salt, milk and sugar. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. Remove from fire. Add softened gelatin; mix thoroughly; cool. Add cheese which has been put through a sieve, lemon juice, and vanilla. Fold in beaten egg whites and whipped cream.

Press two-thirds of the Corn Flake pastry into the bottom of a large spring form mold. Pour in cheese mixture. Sprinkle remaining Corn Flake crumbs over the top. Chill until firm.

Corn Flake Pastry

1/2 cup corn flakes 1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup melted butter 1 cup fine crumbs
1/4 cup sugar 1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup milk 1/2 cup fine crumbs

Mix crumbs with butter, sugar and cinnamon. Use as directed above.

Hints to Gardeners

by Harold Coulter
Ferry Expert

Starting Plants Indoors

GARDENERS impatient for the planting season may start plants indoors. This practice prolongs the short gardening season and makes plants earlier than those grown from seed sown in the open.

The following flowers are best for indoor planting: Verbena, petunia, aster, snapdragon, stock, pansy and salvia. Vinca rosea, scabiosa, carnation, lobelia and nigella are also good. In the vegetable division, tomato, cabbage, broccoli, egg plant and pepper are best.

Any wooden box, about three inches deep, may be used to hold the "window sill garden." Bore holes in the bottom of the box to let water for moisture from the bottom is best. Place broken flower-pot pieces, brick crumbings or other roughage in the bottom and fill with loose, fairly rich soil.

Make top soil very fine, then plant seeds in rows about two inches apart. Put only a light covering of soil over the seeds. Place the box before a light, sunny window. Temperature should be kept as uniform as possible, preferably around 70 degrees.

To water, place the bottom of the box in water until the soil has become well moistened. This should not be done too often, for excessive dampness is injurious. When the sun is hot it will be necessary to water more frequently, perhaps every day.

When plants are about one and one-half inches tall they should be transplanted into larger boxes or into a cold frame, and set three or four inches apart. Later they should be hardened off. This is of vital importance. Boxes should be placed in the open on mild days before the seedlings are transplanted into the garden. If the temperature change is too sudden when plants are set outdoors, growth is checked.

THE NEW 1937 Electric REFRIGERATORS

COST LESS TO OPERATE

MRS. HOMEFOLKS: With the working efficiency of today's electric refrigerators "stepped up" 50% to 60%, there is just no comparison between the new 1937 models and those of only a few years ago in trouble-free, satisfactory service.

With no increase in prices, you now get much faster freezing... more ice, frozen desserts, cold drinks... better food protection... greater storage space... more work-saving conveniences... handsomer appearance... simpler mechanism... longer life—and operating cost lower than ever.

Over 7,200,000 electric refrigerators are now in use. Manufacture and sales of the new models are booming everywhere. Come in today for a demonstration. Learn why it is much to your advantage to install one of the new 1937 refrigerators in your home at this time.
