Board Visits New School Sites In County

Fail To Elect Teachers At Meeting As Many Trustees Fail To Approve

Due to the fact that many of the district trustees of the Rowan county school system had not made recommendation for their teachers for the ensuing year, the election of teachers, scheduled for the regular meeting of the Board of Education was postponed until a later date. The meeting was held on Monday of this week.

Among the important acts of the board at their meeting Monday was the adoption of a motion to pay their share of the cost of employing certifying clerk for W. P. workers. Due to the fact that enrollments are to be accepted in the C. C. C. camps at once, it was necessary that this position be filled without delay. The appointment had been held up for lack of agreement to pay the salary, which is to be met out of funds appropriated by the Morehead City Council, the Fiscal Board and the Board of Education.

The board also visited the sites of three consolidated school buildings now under construction at Elliottville, Farmers, and Haldeman. They reported themselves as well pleased with the progress being made on these buildings. The buildings at Haldeman and Elliottville are expected to be finished in June of this year.

Four car loads of material have arrived for the Elliottville school and two for Haldeman, with two or three more cars on the way. A car load had also been received for the Farmers school.

The Fiscal Court of Rowan county at their meeting Tuesday, gave the Board of Education an easement deed for the South west corner of the court house lot. The Board of the W. P. plan on erecting a building on the lot, facing the boulevard, to be used for housing the offices of the county superintendent and business connected with the school. The work on the building will be done either by NYA or WPA labor. The deed is good for two years from date.

Several professions their faith in Christ as Saviour and took their stand with the church, to await baptism. Dr. H. C. Wayman, of Newport, Ky., who is leading the meeting, preached in the morning on the subject, "My Church." In the evening he spoke on "The Risen Lord." 147 Draw Old Age Assistance

Figures For March Give A Total Of $1,370.00 In County

With the March grants to Old Age Assistance finally completed and checked, Rowan county, according to the records in the department of Welfare, has a total of 147 grants approved for the period. This means that 147 old people of this county are receiving assistance through the Welfare Department at the present time, and this number is expected to be increased by a good number of additional grants in the next month.

The 147 old people in this county at present receiving grants are drawing from the government a total of $1,370.00, or an average of $9.25 each. This amount, however varies, as those with a large number of dependents are drawing more, while others who receive a certain amount of help from relatives are drawing smaller amounts.

In this county there are a few who receive the maximum sum of $15.00 per month. These are people who are extremely old and unable.

CCC's Hold Visitors Day On Monday

Fourth Birthday Of Camp Celebrated; Many Guests Entertained

The C. C. C. camp at Rodburn celebrated in common with the other CCC camps throughout the county, its fourth birthday on Monday of last week, by holding Visitors Day and extending an invitation to all citizens of this section to visit the camp and to view the activities of the men.

About 200 citizens took advantage of the invitation and spent a delightful day among the boys, manifesting considerable interest in the work that is being done in the camps, both for the community and for the young men who are enrolled.

Drills, fire drills, and the ordinary round of camp activities gave the visitors a bird's eye view of the work being done, and was a better source of information to them than could have been obtained by any other method. The camp enjoyed playing host to the visitors as much as the visitors enjoyed being there.

In the announcement of Herbert Moore as Republican candidate for the office of Magistrate, The News stated that Mr. Moore was a candidate and lived in District Number One. The News takes this opportunity to correct the error in the announcement made in the last issue of The News.

MAY HOLD STATE SWIM MEET HERE

Possibly Meet U. Of K. Team Here In Return Meeting

College men throughout the state are putting finishing touches to their specialties, whether it be diving, dashes, or distance, in an effort to reach their peak for the second intercollegiate swimming meet to be held some time the latter part of April, or early in May. While there has been no definite site selected, Morehead is being given serious consideration, according to G. D. Downing, business manager of the Eagles aquatic team.

Last year the meet was held for the first time in history, and at the conclusion of the most enjoyable day it was decided to make it an annual affair.

Since Eastern was the host last spring, Western is too far away, and the University of Kentucky doesn't have a pool. Morehead is the logical choice.

Not only does Morehead boast one of the most modern and up-to-date pools in the state, but have one of the most outstanding group of swimmers, and is centrally located, has the terrain for swimming meets; here have always filled the stadium to capacity. For these and several other very excellent reasons the Blue and Gold is rated an excellent chance of being host of the cream of Kentucky's waterdogs.

Enrollment at the Morehead State Teachers College swelled to an extent that surpassed the expectations of the school authorities this week, with the opening of the spring term and the corresponding enrollment. Enrollment will close on Saturday of this week and several additional students are expected before that time.

The unexpected increase in enrollment is the result of a number of factors. The following is the copy of the order fixing the salaries for the next four years.

UNION, LOUISVILLE NOT SCHEDULED

Coaches Plan Four Year Contract With Bulldogs From The South

Morehead's football schedule is complete, according to Coach Ellis Johnson, with one open date. The schedule this year will see two ancient rivals of Morehead left off either the Union College or the University of Louisville this year. Union was unable to find a suitable date, as the only date Morehead could offer was already scheduled by the Bulldogs. However, the two schools will be together after this coming season, as they are signing up a contract for four years play. It was just one of those things, which are not expected to happen again.

Louisville, however has apparently made other arrangements permanently and will not meet Morehead on the gridiron this year. While there has been no ill feelings, the school from Louisville just will not be on the schedule.

Salary Of County Judge Fixed At $1,800 For Enjoining Four Years

Mrs. Stella Crosthwaite was unanimously elected county treasurer at the regular meeting of the Rowan Fiscal Court held at the court house in Morehead on Tuesday of this week. Mrs. Crosthwaite replaces D. C. Caudill who has served in that capacity for the past four years. The salary of the treasurer was fixed at $600.00 per year.

Among other salaries fixed was that of the county judge, county attorney, county court clerk, circuit court clerk and the jailer. There was some discussion as to the salary fixed for the county judge, Magistrate Russell Burrows taking exception to the amount, set at $1,800.00 per year. The salary paid for the past four years was $1,850. Mr. Burrows contended that this was enough and voted against the increase. The other three magistrates voted in favor of it.

On all other salary schedules the court voted unanimously.

The court also appropriated $750 to pay the county's part of the expenses of the County Health Department and $750 for the maintenance of the County Agriculture Agent. The court also authorized Ben Hamm, orderer the county judge to obtain all information possible from the records of the circuit court clerk as to the status of the estate of W. F. JOB ENOUGH TO GO AROUND

There are more good jobs open today for men and women than there are good workers qualified to fill them, the National Occupational Conference reports. That is encouraging from the point of view of the young person looking for his or her place in the workaday world, but discouraging to such as think that society should hand them, ready-made, an easy job for which they have done nothing to prepare themselves. For the demand is for skilled, trained workers, not just a pair of hands.

Most conspicuous is the demand for workers in the building and metal trades, in public health nursing, office-machine operation, social work and household employment.

Building experts expect to see about 6,000,000 new houses constructed in the United States within the next ten years. Difficulty in finding skilled labor has been reported from thirty states. Another survey in thirty-six cities predicts acute shortage of electric workmen.

In manufacturing industry there are jobs now for 20,000 more skilled mechanics than can be found to fill them, with the probability that the shortage will reach 100,000 when full production is resumed. Employment agencies emphasize the current demand for machinists and tool and die makers, urging that more apprentices be trained.

Air conditioning is expected to increase the demand for plumbers to make water connections, and tinmiths to do the duck-work, as well as for engineers who are preferred as salesmen.

Veterinary medicine is suggested as offering good opportunities, there being twice as many domestic animals as humans in the United States, but only one veterinary to every thirteen physicians.

Unfortunately, the most romantic job is the worst overcrowded. There are only about three-hair hostesses to every 1,000,000 women in the United States, and the Air Transport Association has reported a waiting list of 1,000 applicants.

HE WHO LAUGHS LASTS

During the dark days of the Civil War when boys from both sides were dying by the thousands on the battlefield, Lincoln took time to begin his cabinet meetings, by reading a few passages from a recent book by Artemus Ward, one of the leading humorists of that time. One of the cabinet members reproached the great man, asking: "Mr. Lincoln, how can you laugh at such a time?" Lincoln replied: "If I could not laugh my heart would break!"

Laughter is a wonderful gift. It is a safety valve by which we can escape for a time the seriousness of life. Life is so full of stark tragedy. There is so much pain and sorrow. It is fine that the Creator has given us laughter.

And most blessed of all, perhaps, is the man who can laugh at himself. The man with a sense of humor. Humor is a shock absorber that eases the blows of life. We all make our share of mistakes. It is best not to take ourselves or our work too seriously. It is a good thing to stand off and laugh at ourselves now and then.

He who laughs lasts!

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kase, Pastor of Baptist Church.

Subject: The Sin of Adam and Eve: Genesis 3:1-15.

Golden Text: "The soul that sinneth it, shall die." Ezekiel 18:4.

Historically here we have the sword of the fall of man. Here we have the reason for all the Bible, the preaching, the praying, the testimony of thousands and thousands who have been saved from sin. Someone has said, "There is a danger of getting lost in the underbrush and not seeing the trees." That is, don't try to solve all the minor problems about sin, but see the all-important truths of sin. The sin of Adam and Eve brought into power against God, and gave to each of Adam's race the self nature, opposed to God. With this we are here. David said, "Behold, I was shaken in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me." "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." The heathen are all things—evil, degraded, desperately wicked." All mankind and every individual man is a transgressor, corrupt, in sin, blinded by it, guilty, hopeless and helpless in it, guilty, hopeless and helpless in it, to himself and to all things—evil, degraded, desperately wicked, in revolt against God, and the children of wrath.

If we don't get this terrible truth before us we shall likely not be able to understand the love of God which saves us from sin. No man's appreciation of God will be greater than his understanding of the terrible sin.

The result of the sin of Adam and Eve is that the world is full of sorrow, of wrong, of wrong thinking, wrong doing, of heartache, of hatred, of strife, of all that makes us unhappy. It ruined the earth. Man-kind is ever one depraved, in revolt against God, and the children of wrath.

It hurt God to see his noble creation become, by its own choosing, the deceived of Satan, subject to the wrath of God. He sent Jesus to see man at last be destroyed in eternal punishment. So, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him, might not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned; he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed on the name of God's only Son." (John 3:16-18). This is man's only escape from sin. For, "there is no other name given under heaven, among men, whereby we must be saved." The man who has never been born again is in sin, and cannot understand the kingdom of God, much less enter it by his own power. He must helplessly submit to God, believing that he is a sinner by birth, lost and ruined; he must accept God's word that Jesus, God's Son, died on the Cross for all men; he must believe that this death was accepted as complete satisfaction by the Father for man's sin; and in that death of Christ he must rest his case forever. God's word says that such faith guarantees eternal salvation from sin. "He that believeth (trusts) the Son hath everlasting life." We can surely depend on that word. Believe and you have, says God, because Jesus suffered to make it so.

YOU AND YOUR RADIO

You often turn on your radio to listen to your favorite radio program and the only thing you can hear is a loud screeching or buzzing noise. The greater number of cases are a purely local nature, originating in faulty wiring or electrical apparatus in the same house as the radio.

Among the common sources of this type interference are the following:

- Lamps loose in their sockets.
 - Loose or corroded plugs, connecting heaters, toasters, irons, etc.
 - Loose connection to apparatus and temporary branch circuits.
 - Fuses of electric ranges and other appliances.
 - Faulty extension cords to portable apparatus, any wires which are suspected should be shaken and the faulty radio will usually emit a loud noise.
 - Loose or corroded switches and fuse plugs.
- It is often found that radio interference gives the first indication of faults of this nature, which if not repaired, may develop and become fire hazards. Have your local electrician make an inspection if your radio is not working properly.

Patterns of Wolfpen

WFO Service

He slipped his arm around her waist. She did not withhold herself, and she was half startled at the thought of her forwardness. He held her left hand in his, and with his right hand she brushed the moss on the stone. She felt herself being reborn, almost trembling and in awe before the smile of God that changed the world so soon since yesterday. It's wonderful to see you again, Reuben said. I've stood on a ridge waiting for the axmen to clear a line through the brush and heard the doves make that lonesome sound and I thought about you up here on Wolfpen. I have wanted you.

She surrendered to her joy without speaking, watching the sun on the top of Craneness, listening to his voice and making her own unspoken words.

You've had a lot of trouble, he said. I've thought about that. So many things can happen all of a sudden.

Yes, she said finally, things you don't ever dream could happen.

I think you've about had your share now, Cynthia.

She had never talked to anyone of her grief. Now she was overcome by the moment, by her feelings and his sympathy, and she unloosed to him all that had been right in her heart, so long the sickness and quick death of Julia, Sparrel's wordless unhappiness and growing concern over Dry Creek, Doug Mason, Jesse's going away, giving up the institute to look after things, the break-up of the place, and Jasper's approaching marriage.

As she talked, she drew nearer to him and it was wonderful to her to feel the miracle of the burden lifting and the heart being purged of its heaviness. Reuben put his hand on her cheek, pulling her face gently to confront his own. There were tears in her eyes. His arm lightened around her. It did not seem forward to her now to be in his arms in this hollow. The growth of their affection had been constant in the months of separation and needed only this brief intimacy to reveal itself full blown.

Cynthia, he said.

She looked at him.

I've been thinking and making a lot of plans since I left here.

He hesitated an instant, looking into her eyes. Then he continued.

There's two or three years of work down in Boyd and the neighboring counties just surveying the land the iron works companies are buying up. They're putting up another blast furnace and a nail mill. I do nearly all the field work now.

And Catlettsburg is a pretty place. After you pass the center of town and the stores you come to a wide street with sidewalks and trees and nice houses in big yards. Then the hill begins, not a high hill, just a river hill, and about half-way up there is a little house in a cherry and apple orchard with a garden behind it. It's painted white and has a wide porch and there are three steps up to the street.

You look right down over the town and the creeks and the Ohio River, and where the Big Sandy comes around West Virginia, and across to the farms in Ohio all the way back to the hills. You can see the big boats on the river, and the little ones on the Big Sandy and the rafts that come floating down both rivers. There's a new steam ferry to South Point and a new wharf. You can see the trains going up to Richardson and down to Ashland and Cincinnati. It's not like here on Wolfpen, but it is a nice place.

It sounds like a right nice place. Does somebody live in it?

Right now some people live in it, but next month they're going to move to a place over in Coalgrove in Ohio where he's going to work, and then it will be empty.

She was trying to picture this place and all the bustling life it looked out upon, laying it in her mind's eye beside the quiet and seclusion of Wolfpen where she had spent her life.

Cynthia.

She blotted out everything else and looked up into his eyes.

I love you more than anything. Will you do me the honor to be my wife and come down there and live with me?

It wasn't that she was surprised or actually taken unawares. It was just the hearing of it. A warm flush overspread her face. She dropped her eyes to the moss on the stone and then lifted them beyond it through the bare sycamore limbs to the cloud fluff above the Pinnacle golden in the sun.

Will you? he said.

Yes, Reuben, if you want me to, she said.

When?

He kissed her, holding her tight in his arms, and it was natural and inevitable like a curlew wave forming far out under the sky and moving always shoreward till it breaks at last on the rim of warm sand.

I love you more than anything, he said.

And I love you, Reuben.

Every burden oppressive to men, commanding pity for their unhappily lot, writing the marks of suffering below their eyes and warping the lines about their mouths, was removed from them as they walked slowly down the hollow while the sun was hurrying out of the valley, in its endless flight before the stars.

And through their eyes made bright by the high passion of their hope, the world was a new and beautiful place wherein no sorrow and no failure could ever intrude.

Through the next weeks after Reuben had gone, Cynthia was made alone in and about the house. She would often stand by the well in the evening, the days visible growing longer, watching the shadow of the Pinnacle glide up the hillside and finally rest its finger on the fresh grave of Sparrel and Julia, sweeping them into the eternal quiet of the dust. In a year, one procession of the seasons, spring to spring, from the garden behind the picket fence, from the steam-mill to the profound silence of Craneness Shelf. As the days passed with their thought of Reuben and the procession began to seem supportable to her, so much grief tempering the heart to the sorrow inherent in a precious life. The way lay onward and not back and was filled with a degree of hope bravely proportioned to the defeat of yesterday.

The mountain laurel against the sunward rocks of the Pinnacle would be flushing pink at the buds, hearts, and the birds would be welcoming the return of another spring. She would go there "now" to meet them and weave Reuben and her vision of life with him into the memory of that place where she had through the years communed with herself.

District Declared Open To Settlers

Advance information indicates that the Sublimity Forest community, joint project of the Forest Service and the Resettlement Administration will be declared open to settlers from the Red River District of the Cumberland National Forest on or about May 1.

The Community, now rapidly nearing completion, is located two miles south of London, Kentucky, and consists of sixty-six (66) small farms, ranging from three to fifteen acres in size.

The Government proposes to make these properties available at reasonable rentals to families desiring to improve their living conditions. They will obtain their food stuff from garden farming and derive their cash income from sale of special crops, and employment on a privately operated logging job on Government land. The work should provide a sufficient cash income to purchase necessary clothing, staple groceries, pay rent, and serve as a means to accumulate savings.

The expense of maintaining improvements against ordinary wear and tear will be borne by the government. The farms will be managed in accordance with an approved plan, which will insure the greatest net income and build the fertility of the soil. An experienced farmer will be available to advise and help settlers with this plan.

The houses are weather-boarded, structures painted white. They contain from three to six average size rooms. The houses are well sealed, and have inside water supply and a bath room. A cooking stove, heating stove, and hot water have been installed.

Good schools and churches are available in London, a distance of two miles on a hard surfaced road. In addition, there are three rural schools and a church within easy walking distance of the community. Likewise, the location is with an easy access to stores and markets.

Further information may be obtained by writing to the Sublimity District Ranger, Room No. 301, Post Office Building, London, Ky.

Cozy Presents Skating Drama

The world's most versatile skater, lovely Sonja Henie, winner of more than a dozen major skating titles, whose first picture, Twentieth Century-Fox's winter musical, "One In A Million," came to the Cozy Friday and Saturday of this week.

With varying backgrounds, the rink which is the first one to be constructed in any movie studio, served as three different fashionable Swiss Lakes, as a replica of the 1936 Winter Olympic arena, and as a section of New York's Madison Square Garden. Although to the camera eye the ice was authentic, studio technicians released a secret.

Test "shots" of the rink revealed the freezing pipes through the transparent ice, so that for water they substituted, of all things, skimmed milk. With the butter fat removed to permit freezing, the opaqueness of the milk hid the pipes.

Adolph Menjou, featured in the cast of "One In A Million," was the first "victim" of the technician's ingenuity. Complaining that while on the rink he was "hot-headed but had cold feet," he took temperature tests, and found that on the ice it was 32 degrees, whilst-high it was 43 degrees, and at head level it was 50 degrees.

Former Student Receives Honor

Woodridge Spears Gets Poetry Published

Woodridge Spears, a former student of Morehead recently had the following poem published in The Scimitar News. This book contains a group of poems selected from the contributions sent in by individuals throughout the country. Mr. Spears, at the present is teaching English at McKell High School, Fullerton, Kentucky. Three short pin oaks beside a turnip turnip row

At random sprout and choke for space to grow
Among the weeds that crowd a houseless chimney.
A clapboard stack is now the kitchen door;

An organ stool among the burrs, the fodder blades now make a paper sound
Between the hill behind the jagged mound
Of sandrock chipped in blocks for hearts and chimney.
A cedar now is garden, and a hedge. The patches plowed upon the hills are trenced
In clay and cockle folds: the slope by stumpy cacti that will not fire a chimney.
In weel a strip of earth will live again
To feel new blood in wind, in snow, in rain.

Accomplishments Of Forest Service

In the Cumberland National Forest in Eastern Kentucky there are seven Junior camps and one Veteran camp, located at Morehead, Frenchburg, Bowen (Veterans) McKee, Williamsburg, Sterns, and two at London. Work done by the men in these camps since the spring of 1935 has consisted of the construction of roads, bridges, telephone lines, fire lookout towers, the development of recreational areas, timber surveys, fire suppression, and other jobs necessary to the management and protection of the more than 1,000,000 acres within the boundaries of the Cumberland National Forest. Under the direction of the U. S. Forest Service these eight camps have to date 300 miles of going road construction, 140 miles of which is completed. Included in the construction of these bridges, 75 masonry culverts, and roads has been the building of 15 the installation of 900 pipe culverts. Other improvements which have been constructed and are now in use are 17 permanent fire towers, 8 temporary fire towers, 325 miles of telephone lines, and three equipment depots and 4-room dwellings. The CCC has been called upon to fight nearly 800 forest fires since that organization came into existence on the Cumberland National Forest.

Without the aid of the CCC such rapid development and increased efficiency in protection of the National Forest would have been a near impossibility, stated R. F. Hemmingsway, Forest Supervisor. The camps may celebrate their fourth birthday with a worthwhile record of four years of accomplishment in the conservation of one of the Nation's greatest heritages—forests.

According to the records at Frankfort, Rowan county is well up in the lead among the counties over the state and the average is about up with that over the state.

According to Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, director of old age assistance, the damage done by the flood has been almost completely repaired and the division is functioning at full speed, with the result that he expects to add another 5,000 to the list of grants that have been completed during the month of April.

ESSAY CONTEST IS NEARING CLOSE

Still Time For Entries To Be Made

Less than a month remains before the final closing date of essay competition for college and university students on Rowan Advertising Benefits the Consumer.

This competition, sponsored by Advertising Age, The National Newspaper of Advertising, Chicago, calls for essays of not more than 1,000 words on this subject, and offers a total of $500 in cash prizes, plus an all-expense trip to New York this summer for the principal winner. The deadline for entries is May 15, 1937.

It is open without restriction to all undergraduate students in colleges and universities in the United States.

First prize is $250 in cash, plus the trip to New York City, where the winner will be given his award. Second award in the competition is $100 in cash, third award is $50, and there are ten additional awards of $10 each.

There is nothing to buy as a requirement for entry in the competition, and the rules are very simple. Complete details may be secured from the Contest Secretary, Advertising Age, 100 East Ohio Street, Chicago.

Hints to Gardeners

By Harold Costler
Vegetable Expert
Ferry Seed Institute

Why a Hobbed?

THE hobbed is useful only to the gardener who must save time and procure earlier vegetables.

A "hobbed" properly constructed lives up to its name. Therefore, where climates are not severe, a cold frame rather than a hobbed should be employed, for with the manure bed of the latter the temperature would become too warm for seedlings. The cold frame is useful for wintering over small plants, also for hardening off plants from a hobbed.

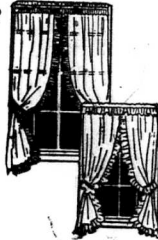

A hobbed three by six feet is suitable for the average home garden. For timber, one-inch cypress or yellow pine is recommended. The backboard should be 14 inches wide, the front 10; end boards must be cut to fit front and back measurements.

Board ends may be painted to procure a seal. Screws should be used to fasten the frame unless it may be desired later to take it apart for storing away. Pinned stakes, 2" by 2", may be fastened to inside corners of the frame. They should reach from the frame 10 to 10 inches beneath the lower edge. Driven into holes, which should first be made for them by an auxiliary stake, the stakes will hold the frame securely in place.

Set the frame over a two-foot bed of fresh horse manure which contains a liberal quantity of straw bedding and which has been forked over. Cover the manure bed with four inches of fine soil. Also bank soil or manure about the sides of the frame to within an inch of the top. The bank should extend 12 inches from the frame.

Cold frame and hobbed construction is similar, except that the former has no manure bed. A suitable, ready-made saah for either may be purchased at a hardware store. Advice on hobbed use and manure will be given in a subsequent "Hints" article.
