May 2, 1992
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Elizabeth Burton, a Morehead State University junior, has received a "1992 Younger Scholar" award from by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

She was one of four Kentuckians selected from a total of 89 college students to receive the award this year.

Burton was chosen from a nationwide competition for college students who submitted projects in history, literature, philosophy, foreign languages and other humanities disciplines.

She will receive a $2,400 grant for a project entitled "Decentered Miscommunication: Language in Pinter's 'The Birthday Party' and 'The Homecoming'." She will share the award with her project adviser, Dr. Thomas S. Stroik, associate professor of English, who will receive $400 of the grant.

Upon learning of Burton's grant, Dr. Stroik said he was not surprised. "Elizabeth is a superior student and has done excellent work in English and linguistics," he said. "Her outstanding academic work deserves recognition."

During the summer, Burton will spend nine weeks researching her topic. She is required to write a research paper, complete with bibliography, when she is finished.

The 21-year old Morehead native says that she is looking forward to the project she must complete. She estimates several hundred hours were involved in the original project application.

An English major with a linguistics minor, Burton describes herself as being work-oriented. She believes she has gotten where she is today because of her innate ability to see what's ahead and plan for it.

She has set the goal of getting a doctoral degree and teaching and doing research at the college level. "I don't think I have a talent; I just am willing to work hard."

And that's just what she has done. During the last year, she has presented three papers. At the Kentucky Women's Conference on the MSU campus last fall, she delivered "Measured Beat of Domination: Women and Technology in Welty's 'The Golden Apple'," a feminist reading based on the works of Eudora Welty. At the Combs Conference, sponsored by the English Club, her paper, "The Lost Adventurers, My Peers: the individual and society in Browning's 'Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came'," was chosen the best paper presented. At the Kentucky Philological Association Conference where she presented her paper "Domestic Discourse: Linguistic Community in Frost's 'Home Burial'," she was the only undergraduate student making a presentation.

Burton was recently chosen the 1991-92 Outstanding Undergraduate Student from MSU's Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy.

The daughter of MSU graduates Leon and Miriam Stephens Burton, she is a 1989 graduate of Rowan County High School. She is a member of Gamma Beta Phi and Phi Kappa Phi honor societies and a former member of the English Club, has served on the staff of the University's literary magazine, Inscape, and was editor of the Raconteur.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Emphasizing Morehead State University's commitment to making educational opportunities accessible to area residents, MSU President C. Nelson Grote announced a new scholarship program for students at the Licking Valley Extended Campus Center.

Beginning in fall 1992, $10,000 in scholarship funds will be earmarked for part-time, nontraditional students taking classes at the center.

Dr. Grote also challenged area individuals, agencies and institutions to match the University's contribution, saying that MSU would then match the local funds raised on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $10,000.

"This could mean up to $30,000 a year will be available to location-bound students in the Licking Valley area who want to begin taking classes at the extended campus center," he said.

"It is evident by the rapid growth of the Licking Valley Extended Campus Center that there is a tremendous demand for MSU to offer college level classes and other adult learning services to here," he said.

"In fall 1987 we had an enrollment of 67 students in five classes and this past fall we offered 26 classes to 392 students, some of whom were taking more than one class," the president noted.

"Morehead State intends to do its part to make sure that students who want to improve their educational status are able to do so," he added. "This is consistent with our philosophy of taking the University to the people; providing services to the people of the region, many of whom we do not serve with our main campus," the president said.

Dr. Grote's announcement was made following an organizational meeting of the center's advisory committee.

Serving the needs of residents in Elliott, Menifee, Morgan, Magoffin, Breathitt and Wolfe counties since fall 1987, MSU's Licking Valley facility was approved as an extended campus center last August by the Council on Higher Education.

Focusing its college work on undergraduate needs, the center offers classes leading to a two-year degree in University Studies, which emphasizes basic skills and liberal arts studies needed for retraining workers for careers in this decade. In addition, some graduate classes are taught at the center.

MSU's Licking Valley ECC also provides a number of adult basic education and vocational enhancement programs to area residents and offers college classes at the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex for inmates seeking additional education.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Three Morehead State University faculty members have been selected by their colleagues to receive the University's most prestigious faculty awards for extraordinary achievements.

Dr. Rose Orlich, a professor of English whose goal always has been to enlarge the student's perspective, was the recipient of the 1991-92 Distinguished Teacher Award, established in 1964 by the MSU Alumni Association.

Dr. Thomas Stroik, an associate professor of English whose research into linguistics has gained him international notice, was presented the 1991-92 Distinguished Researcher Award, sponsored by the MSU Research and Creative Productions Committee and given annually since 1979.

Also sponsored by the RCP Committee and awarded for the first time, the Distinguished Creative Production Award went to Robert Franzini, a professor of art whose prints have been exhibited worldwide.

The awards were announced at the University's eighth annual Academic Awards Convocation held Sunday, May 3, in Button Auditorium. The event capped a weeklong campus tribute to scholastic achievement.

A member of the faculty since 1970, Dr. Orlich plans to retire this year. In addition to teaching a variety of literature courses as well as freshman composition, Dr. Orlich is an award-winning poet whose work has appeared in numerous anthologies and professional publications.

As a teacher, Dr. Orlich said that she has tried--in and outside the classroom--"to enlarge the student's perspective, to stir up the delight inherent in discovery, to foster the open mind, to develop the capacity for sound and reasonable judgment and to spark the human sympathies so essential to fullness of being."

One former student recalled that Dr. Orlich not only had the ability inspire the highest level of intellectual pursuit, but also made discussions of literary works relevant to real life experience.

A member of several professional organizations, including the T.S. Eliot Society, she served as a field bibliographer for the Modern Language Association of America from 1985 to 1987.

Earning the B.S. Ed. degree from St. Mary of the Plains College, Dr. Orlich holds the Ph.D. and M.A. degrees from the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. Stroik, who joined the MSU faculty in 1987, has presented research papers at professional meetings throughout the United States and Europe. Since February 1988 through March 1992, he has made 17 presentations with papers accepted at two international, three national, five regional and five state conferences. He also is a lecturer for the 1991-92 linguistic series conducted by Indiana University and the University of Kentucky.

His work, which deals with issues of language structure as well as language use and conventions, has appeared in some of the most prestigious linguistic journals of the world. He is the author of two books/monographs: "Path Theory and Argument Structure" and "The Pragmatics of Metaphor." Dr. Stroik is a member of the editorial review board of Contemporary Philosophy.

He is a former lecturer in the the Department of Linguistics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he earned his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees.

A graphic artist who works in fine print and drawing media, Franzini joined MSU's faculty in 1980. He earned his M.A. and M.F.A. degrees in printmaking at the University of Iowa and his B.A. degree in studio art from Stanford University. Franzini also did independent studies in printmaking at Wichita State University, Indiana University and Grand Valley State College.

Recognized for his work with several awards, Franzini has displayed his creative pieces in individual and group shows both by invitation and by competition. He also has served as a juror for numerous shows. While his prints have appeared in exhibits across the United States, they also have been part of exhibitions in Brazil, Japan, Poland, Australia, Ecuador and Vietnam.

Franzini productions have been acquired by corporations for display in the Louisville Galleria and in First National Tower, Louisville, and another five by a government agency to hang in federal buildings in Atlanta. His works have been acquired also by the Honolulu Academy of Arts; five by the University of Dallas; by the Cincinnati Art Museum; by the University of Kentucky Art Museum and other galleries and museums.

A frequent workshop presenter, Franzini is active in several professional organizations including the Society of American Graphic Artists, Boston Printmakers, the Southern Graphics Council and others.

The student speaker for the convocation was Kimberly Newberry, a senior from Independence and a member of the Academic Honors Program since her freshman year. She is a member of several honor societies and is pursuing a double major in elementary education and Spanish.

Outstanding graduate and undergraduate students from the various academic departments also were honored during the convocation.

Named as recipients of Outstanding Graduate Student Awards by their departments were: Chris Cropp of Mt. Sterling, Agriculture and Natural Resources; Craig Zahrte of Winchester, Art; Michael D. Hardin of Morehead, Biological and Environmental Sciences; Millard Ray Brown of Morehead, Business Administration; Aree Waeochan of Thailand, Communications; Catherine J. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A senior government and speech major who hopes one day to be a United Nations ambassador has been elected president of the Morehead State University Student Government Association.

Chando Robert Mapoma, son of Isiah Mapoma of Zambia, Africa, will lead the student organization in the coming year. A three-year member of SGA, he had served this year as vice president.

Mapoma holds the distinction of being the first international student to lead MSU's student body, according to Larry Stephenson, director of student activities.

Stressing that he won because "students came together with their support," Mapoma plans to spend the next year continuing that student unity.

"A big problem the students have is apathy," he said. "They don't think they can make a difference."

Believing his role with SGA is to work with students, faculty, administrators and staff, Mapoma said: "I hope to do what is mutually beneficial for all concerned." He envisions his SGA leadership role will help lay the groundwork for his future work, when he will be developing treaties and trade embargoes with other countries.

Following the path of two of his brothers, Mapoma came to the U.S. in 1985 and is a graduate of Oneida Baptist Institute in Clay County. He plans to pursue a master's degree in speech after completing his undergraduate degree.

Completing the slate of new officers for SGA are:

*Vice President--Denise Caudill, daughter of Willard Caudill of Marion, Ohio. She is a senior math and speech major.

*Secretary--Jason Noah Stamper, son of Danna Gail Stamper of Pikeville. A junior history and English major, he is a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

*Treasurer--Bryan David Yuris, son of Margaret Kinzer of Gahanna, Ohio. A junior government and history major, he is a member of Theta Chi fraternity and will serve his second term in this office.

*Programs Director--Bryan Paul Carlier, son of Paul Carlier of Batavia, Ohio. A junior business administration major with an emphasis in marketing, he is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

*Public Relations Director--Dennis Brian Prater, son of Maudie Prater of Mt. Sterling. A sophomore business administration major, he is a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University's Department of Music and the MSU Chapter of Tubists Universal Brotherhood Association (TUBA) will sponsor a guest recital by a euphonium ensemble from Tokyo, Japan, on Sunday, May 10, in Duncan Recital Hall.

Known as the Euphonium Company, the group will perform at 8 p.m. The concert is free and open to the public.

The Euphonium Company was established in the spring of 1991 under the direction of Japan's leading teacher and euphonium performer, Toru Miura, according to Dr. Earle Louder, MSU professor of music and TUBA adviser.

"We are pleased to have the Euphonium Company perform here during their visit to the United States," Dr. Louder said. "These exciting and energetic musicians will be participating in the 1992 International Tuba-Euphonium Conference, slated May 12-16 at the Singletary Center for the Arts in Lexington," he added.

The Euphonium Company is composed of professional euphoniumists who live in the Tokyo area and are winners of a variety of prestigious solo competitions, such as the Leonard Falcone International Baritone Horn/Euphonium Solo Competition, the TUBA Solo Competitions and the Japan Wind and Percussion Competition.

In addition to performing as solo recitalists, each of the members also play and teach euphonium. The Euphonium Company's ultimate goal is to increase public awareness and understanding of the euphonium.

MT. STERLING, Ky.---Mildred Sanders Ruggles, daughter of the late Col. Harland Sanders who made Kentucky Fried Chicken a household name, grew up learning the restaurant business.

On Tuesday, May 12, she will pass along some of her experiences when she speaks on "The Changing World" at the "Women Going Into Business" seminar at 6 p.m. in the Exchange Bank Lobby, North Maysville and High Streets in Mt. Sterling.

Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) in cooperation with the Exchange Bank of Mt. Sterling will sponsor this special session addressing concerns that are of importance to women.

This program is being held in conjunction with National Small Business Week which runs May 10-16.

An entrepreneur in her own right, Ruggles has traveled the U.S. and foreign countries promoting her "Miss Millie's Country Fried Chicken."

Registration will begin at 6 p.m., with the program scheduled to start at 6:15 p.m. Ernest Begley II, MSU SBDC director, will provide an overview of SBDC and discuss some of the reasons businesses fail.

The agenda also includes these women from the public and private sector:

- *Donna Maupin, University of Kentucky SBDC marketing specialist;
- *Carol Hatfield, Small Business Administration area representative;
- *Pam Ishmael of Dutch Ishmael Chevy-Olds;
- *Nell Shrout of Nell's Home Furnishings;
- *Patty Tipton of Patty Tipton's Court Reporters/Tipton's Temporaries.

Seminar reservations may be made by calling (606) 783-2895. Arrangements will be made for the handicapped when requested in advance. There is no charge for attendance.

The program also is co-sponsored by MSU's College of Business, the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development Small Business Division, Morehead-Rowan County and Mt. Sterling-Montgomery County Chambers of Commerce, Buffalo Trace and Gateway Area Development Districts and SCORE Branch (Service Core of Retired Executives) from Mt. Sterling-Montgomery County.

Additional information is available from Morehead State's SBDC by calling 783-2895.

MOREHEAD, Ky.-----Inscape, Morehead State University's literary and arts magazine, has announced the winners of its 1992 spring competition.

First and second prizes of $50 and $25 respectively were awarded at a recent Fine Arts Showcase where the student art works were presented and student writers read their poetry and fiction.

C. Lynn Wells, a Sandy Hook junior, captured both first and second places in poetry with "Thief" and "Breaking Through." Earning honorable mention for their poems were Marta Tomes, Mt. Sterling junior, and Derek Mudd, Lebanon Junction sophomore.

In fiction, first place went to Cathy Silvers, Ewing junior, while Carol Mauriello, Maysville graduate student, took second.

"Mystery," a monotype by T. Nannette Amsden, Berea sophomore, earned the first place art award. Second place went to Anthony Wolking, Park Hills sophomore, for an untitled tusche lithography. Earning an honorable mention with a drypoint print, "Sichuan," was Cynthia C. Osborne, Clearfield senior.

These and the works of 10 other writing and seven additional art finalists will appear in the next volume of Inscape, which is expected to be published in November. The spring 1992 issue of Inscape is now on sale at the University Bookstore at a cost of $1 each.

The spring contest drew works by 46 writers, including 130 poems and 26 short stories, as well as 31 pieces by 17 artists, according to Dr. Michelle Boisseau, faculty sponsor of Inscape.

Serving as judges were Mark Jarman of Vanderbilt University for poetry; Karen Osborn of the University of Kentucky for fiction, and Carrie Lyn Peterson of MSU for art.

Held each semester, the competition is open to all MSU students, whether full or part-time students. It is sponsored by the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, the Academic Honors Program, and Department of Art.

Four inmates of the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex will receive Associate of Arts degrees from Morehead State University in a special commencement program in the EKCC Chapel at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, May 15. MSU has been offering college classes at EKCC since fall 1990 and these are the first graduates from this program.

EKCC officials have agreed to media coverage of this event with the following restrictions:

Names of reporters and photographers must be received by the Office of Media Relations no later than 2 p.m. on Wednesday, May 13.

Media representatives will be subject to the same procedures as all visitors to the correctional complex and should arrive no later than 5:30 p.m. for briefing.

One inmate, who will be present, has asked that he neither be named nor photographed, and that applies to TV coverage as well.

Any photographing of inmates will be at the discretion of EKCC officials.

If you believe you can work within these restrictions and want to cover this event, please call my office at (606) 783-2030 by 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 13, and leave the name(s) of your media representative(s) with Ms. Rigdon.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Ways for teachers to use Jesse Stuart's writings in their classroom will be the primary focus of the 14th annual Jesse Stuart Symposium to be held at Morehead State University on Friday, June 26, at the Adron Doran University Center.

Hosted by MSU with the assistance of the Jesse Stuart Foundation, Inc., the Symposium is part of the University's weeklong Appalachian Celebration which begins Sunday, June 21.

The program begins with films pertaining to the Appalachian author's life and works scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon. The Symposium continues at 1:30 p.m. with concurrent sessions on utilization of Stuart materials at the elementary and secondary levels.

Conducting the elementary school session will be Hoyt LeFever, principal of Clinton County Elementary School, and Anne Lyon, a teacher at Oil Springs Elementary School.

Secondary school presenters will be Joy Gooding, a Fleming County school teacher, and C. D. Charles, national marketing director for the Jesse Stuart Foundation.

"In planning this year's Symposium, we made a concerted effort to structure our program to offer teachers some innovative methods of incorporating Jesse Stuart's marvelous writings into their classroom," said George Eyster, director of MSU's regional development services.

"But we also have included some less specialized activities for those people who just appreciate the writings of this noted Appalachian author," Eyster added.

(MORE)

At 3:30 p.m., Jimmy Lowe will present his one-man show, "Yours Respectfully, Jesse Stuart." Lowe, who teaches high school English in Barren County, will appear at the Symposium under the auspices of the Kentucky Humanities Council's Chautauqua Series celebrating the state's bicentennial.

Featured at 4:30 p.m. will be Glennis Stuart Liles, the younger sister of Kentucky's late poet laureate, who will talk about her brother's work in a summary session.

While the films and the afternoon sessions are open to the public without charge, the Symposium will end with an Awards and Recognition Dinner at 6 p.m. for which reservations will be necessary. The cost of the dinner will be $15 for the general public and $10 for elementary and secondary teachers.

At this time, the Stuart Foundation will present several awards recognizing special individuals for their efforts in helping keep Stuart's works in the public eye, according to Judy B. Thomas, chairperson of the Stuart Foundation.

"Traditionally, the awards dinner has been a homecoming for Stuart fans nationwide," said Dr. James M. Gifford, executive director of the Foundation. "And we encourage everyone to join us for this special evening of fellowship," he added.

Reservations for the dinner will be accepted through 4 p.m. June 19 and may be made by calling MSU's Regional Development Services at (606) 783-2077.

Symposium participants also will have the option of taking part in a bus tour of Stuart's W-Hollow homeland that leaves the University the following morning.

May 12, 1992
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University will confer degrees on more than 700 undergraduate and graduate candidates, award an honorary doctorate to its outgoing president and recognize two others for outstanding service during Spring Commencement on Saturday, May 16.

The program begins at 1:30 p.m. in MSU's Academic-Athletic Center.

MSU President C. Nelson Grote, who will be the speaker, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. MSU Regent Charles D. Wheeler of Ashland will make the presentation. Dr. Grote, the University's 11th president, will retire June 30 after leading MSU through five years of unprecedented growth.

Under Dr. Grote's leadership, MSU's enrollment has reached record-breaking heights, a multi-million dollar renovation to the utility tunnel has been completed, a new telecommunications network has been installed and several residence halls have been remodeled. Other milestones in his tenure include adoption of a campus master plan and implementation of a strategic planning process which is also linked to the budget process.

Spring 1992 Commencement also will be the stage for the presentation of two new awards established to honor a faculty member and a staff member who exemplify the highest ideals of citizenship and service.

Joyce B. LeMaster, an associate professor of English, will be the first recipient of MSU's Distinguished Faculty Service Award. A member of the faculty since 1961, she has given more than 30 years of dedicated service to MSU, to its service region and to the state, assuming a wide range of roles.

A frequent presenter of scholarly papers at professional meetings, she has been a member of the Kentucky Humanities Council board of directors, a six-time coordinator for the Jesse Stuart Symposium, served as an adjudicator for the Robert C. Byrd Scholarships and made more than 100 appearances with the MSU Performing Arts Trio.

Active in civic causes, she has helped raise funds as a three-time co-chair of the Morehead Woman's Club Charity Ball as well as for the American Cancer Society's Jail-a-thon and Door-to-Door campaigns. A past president of the Rowan County Democratic Woman's Club, she is a charter member of Morehead Rotary International and has been recognized by the Rowan County Historical Society for contributions to local history.

Rosina Sue Woodrow of Elliottville, who retired this spring due to illness, has been selected to receive the first Distinguished Staff Service Award. A member of MSU's physical plant staff since 1977, Woodrow is a native of Czechoslovakia, who came to this country in the early 1950s and gained U. S. citizenship in 1955.

A displaced person during World War II, Woodrow is described by friends as one who has "always cherished the freedoms that many of us take for granted." An outspoken and active citizen, she has assisted the Cancer Society, been active in the Democratic Woman's Club, attended governmental board meetings frequently and worked to improve water service, roads and public education county-wide.

Exercising her right of free speech, she has been a frequent contributor of letters to the editor, writing on topics she believed to be important, and has taken an active role in political campaigns of candidates in whom she believed.

"Each working in her own way, these individuals truly have given of themselves in service to enhance the quality of life for all of us," said President Grote.

Following Dr. Grote's commencement address and the conferring of degrees, the University's newest alumni will be welcomed into the MSU Alumni Association by its president, Ted Coakley of Harrison, Ohio.

Serving as grand marshal for the ceremony will be Dr. George M. Luckey Jr., professor of philosophy. Faculty marshals will be Dr. Ben Flora, professor of mathematics, and Dr. Frances Helphinstine, professor of English.

Student marshals will be Janet Ferguson of West Liberty, Chandra Loganathan of Morehead, representing Graduate and Extended Campus Programs; Rachel James of Ezel, Brian Bailey of Salyersville, College of Applied Sciences and Technology; Kristi Maddix of Olive Hill, Paul Schurman of Catlettsburg, College of Business; Tammy Brown of Morehead, Brian Rau of Winchester, College of Education and Behavioral Sciences, and Denise Caudill of Marion, Ohio, Hays Gozzard of Morehead, College of Arts and Sciences.

Immediately following the ceremony, President and Mrs. Grote will greet the graduates and their families at a reception sponsored by the Alumni Association.

Commencement activities begin at 9 a.m. in Button Auditorium with the pinning ceremony for graduates from the associate and baccalaureate nursing degree programs. At 10:30 a.m. in Reed Hall Auditorium, MSU's ROTC Program will hold commissioning ceremonies for eight of its students as second lieutenants.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---WMKY-FM 90.3, public radio from Morehead State University's campus, will present a series of Candidate Forums prior to the primary election this month. Election day is Tuesday, May 26.

Candidates for state representative from both the 71st and the 96th districts as well as those running in the 27th district state senate race will be interviewed by members of the area news media in three separate forums.

On Wednesday, May 20, at 6:30 p.m., the democratic candidates for state representative, Jerry Ravenscraft of Morehead and John Will Stacy of West Liberty, will air their views. The media panel will include John Back, WMKY news and public affairs director; Jim Robinson, Morehead Bureau reporter for the Daily Independent, and Glenn Woodward of WLKS Radio in West Liberty.

At 6:30 p.m., Friday, May 22, the 96th district democratic state representative candidates Jim Short and Marty Henderson, both of Olive Hill, will be interviewed by a media panel consisting of Back, Robinson and Francis Nash of WGOH Radio in Grayson.

The third candidate, Kenny Frankell of Olive Hill, will be unable to be present due to a previous commitment, according to Ron Mace, WMKY's promotion/development director.

The republican candidates for the 27th district state senate seat, Richard White of Morehead and Pete Frye of Campton, will air their views on Monday, May 25, at 6:30 p.m. The media panel will be Back and Robinson.

WMKY also will provide election day coverage, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 26. Co-hosts will be Back and Dan Hittepole, WMKY's program and production director. Special in-studio analysts will be Dr. Jack Bizzel, MSU professor of government and Dr. John Kleber, MSU professor of history.

Additional information is available by calling Mace at (606) 783-2001.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Applications are now being accepted for Morehead State University's Visual Arts Day Camp to be held July 13-17 in Claypool-Young Art Building.

The weeklong camp, formerly coordinated by MSU's Academy of Arts, will allow children to receive classroom instruction and hands-on experience in the visual arts, according to Stephanie McDavid, assistant professor of art and camp director.

"We will provide instruction in ceramics, painting, sculpture and computer art," McDavid said. "In addition, the youngsters will participate in wearable art and performance art activities that will lead to a grand finale on the last day of camp," she added.

The program is open to children 6 to 13 years of age. Classes will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily and participants will need to bring a sack lunch and drink each day.

The registration fee is $60 which includes instruction and materials. A $20 deposit is necessary by June 2, with all fees to be paid by July 10. Checks should be made payable to MSU Visual Arts Club and mailed to UPO 832, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351-1689.

The camp is limited to 30 students, McDavid noted. Registration forms and additional information are available by calling (606) 783-2761.

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Morehead State University's Small Business Development Center will offer two programs for potential business owners in early June.

On Tuesday, June 2, the how to's, do's and don'ts of going into business in the world today will be discussed at the "Pre-Business Orientation" program. It will begin at 6 p.m. at 209 Downing Hall. There is a $5 charge to cover materials cost.

The pitfalls, legal structures and prerequisites for a successful small business will be discussed. Questions to ask when buying an already established business and simple bookkeeping systems also will be covered.

"Building Customer Confidence" is the theme of a live telecast to be held in the Adron Doran University Center on Wednesday, June 3. How customers' perceptions and needs directly impact your business and learning what customers think of your product and/or service are among the topics to be discussed.

There is no charge for attending, but reservations are encouraged for the teleconference that begins at 8 a.m.

The program is part of the Innovation Teleconference Series which stresses total quality management and includes creative and innovative strategic planning and the latest in technological advances.

Reservations for either session may be made by calling (606) 783-2895. Arrangements will be made for the handicapped when requested in advance.

The workshops are co-sponsored by MSU's College of Business, the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development, Small Business Division, Buffalo Trace Area Development District and the Gateway Area Development District.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Robert D. Boram, a Morehead State University assistant professor of science, has been invited to participate in two special programs this summer, in one as a student and in the other as a teacher.

Appointed to the faculty of the Governors Scholars Program, Dr. Boram also was selected as a participant in a National Science Foundation-sponsored 10-day Institute for Instructors of Elementary Science Methods Courses.

Dr. Boram, who joined the MSU faculty last fall, will teach astronomy and physical sciences to the young scholars on the campus of Murray State University from June 20 to July 25. Established in 1983, the Governor's Scholars Program is a five-week residential summer program for outstanding Kentucky high school students.

NSF is sponsoring two Institutes on elementary science teaching methods, which are limited to 30 participants each. Dr. Boram will be taking part in Wichita (Kans.) State University's Project to Improve Methods Courses in Elementary Science (PIMCES), to be held May 27-June 5.

Among the topics to be discussed at the Institute are innovative course designs, developing process and critical thinking skills, new assessment process and networking with peers.

Prior to coming to MSU, Dr. Boram served as a science museum educator for the Omniplex Science Museum in Oklahoma City, Okla., and chair of the Math/Science Department at Parkview Adventist Academy in Oklahoma City.

In addition to his MSU classroom teaching duties, Dr. Boram has been visiting elementary and middle schools throughout the region, demonstrating science techniques to students.

He earned his doctorate in science education and an M.S. degree in physics from the University of Oklahoma at Norman. He received a B.S. degree in biophysics with honors from La Sierra University in Riverside, Calif.

Active in several professional organizations, Dr. Boram is a member of the National Science Teachers Association and its Kentucky affiliate, the American Association of Museums, American Educational Research Association and the South-Central Educational Research Association.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Telling them that the American Dream is real, Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote conferred degrees on more than 700 undergraduate and graduate candidates during Spring Commencement on Saturday (May 16).

"You can come from nowhere and go somewhere if you decide to do it," he said.

Dr. Grote advised them to create their own opportunities, to be prepared to take advantage of them and to identify mentors along the way. By doing so, the president said that there would be no limit to their ability to succeed.

However, he cautioned that real success will be "measured by personal qualities, not by the position you hold, or the money that you make."

A crowd of more 6,000 people packed MSU's Academic-Athletic Center for the occasion which was just as special to Dr. Grote as it was for the graduates.

"I, too, am graduating because I am entering a new career--retirement," said MSU's chief executive officer. The day marked President Grote's last commencement as head of the University as he will retire June 30.

The graduates were not the only ones receiving degrees as MSU's Board of Regents awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters to President Grote in recognition of his 42 years in public education and his leadership for the past five years at MSU.

Conferring the degree, Regent Charles D. Wheeler of Ashland noted that under Dr. Grote's leadership MSU had enjoyed unprecedented enrollment growth and seen upgrades to its physical plant including student housing and the campus utility system.

Other milestones cited were improved faculty and staff salaries, acquisition of modern teaching equipment and the 10-year reaffirmation of accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

MSU's 11th president, Dr. Grote assumed the office July 1987, returning to the campus where he had begun his career in higher education administration nearly three decades earlier.

Also honored were the first recipients of awards designed to recognize a faculty and a staff member who exemplify the highest ideals of citizenship and service.

Joyce LeMaster, an associate professor of English, received the Distinguished Faculty Service Award. A faculty member since 1961, she has given more than 30 years of dedicated service to MSU, its service region and the state, assuming a wide range of roles.

The Distinguished Staff Service Award went to Sue Woodrow, who retired as seamstress in March due to illness, and was accepted by her daughter, Charlotte W. Barker. A native of Czechoslovakia and a displaced person during World War II, Woodrow is known by her friends as one who has always "cherished the freedoms that many of us take for granted."

Following Dr. Grote's commencement address and the conferring of degrees, MSU's newest alumni were inducted into the Alumni Association by its president, Ted Coakley of Harrison, Ohio.

After commencement, President and Mrs. Grote greeted the new graduates and their families at an Alumni Association-sponsored reception outside the AAC.

CLINTON, Ky.---Funeral services were held May 1 at the Brown Funeral Home for Patti Vivian Bolin, 89, of Clinton, former chair of Morehead State University's Department of Home Economics, who died April 28 at Clinton-Hickman County Intermediate Care Facility.

Burial followed at Mount Moriah Cemetery.

Ms. Bolin received her A.B. and B.S. degrees from Western Kentucky University and her M.A. degree from the University of Kentucky and Educational Specialist Degree from the University of Illinois. She was listed in the World's Who's Who of Women, the Personality of the South and the Two Thousand Women of Achievement.

She taught at various universities including the University of Kentucky and Morehead State University where she served 31 years as a faculty member, including 18 as chair of the Department of Home Economics.

Upon her retirement in 1971 the formal living room in the Lloyd Cassity Building was named in her honor. In 1988 a scholarship fund was established in Bolin's honor by her former students and friends at MSU. Annual awards are made to students majoring in Vocational Home Economics Education.

More than a 50-year member of KHEA and AHEA, she was instrumental in helping Kentucky be the first state chartered by the Future Homemakers of America, Inc., in 1945. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Clinton and Delta Kappa Gamma.

Bolin is survived by her sister Winnie Glenn Bolin of Clinton and one nephew, Paul Stanley Bolin Jr. of Midwest City, Okla.

Persons wishing to honor the memory of Ms. Bolin's outstanding service to home economics and MSU may send contributions to the Patti V. Bolin Scholarship fund of the Morehead State University Foundation, Inc., Morehead, KY 40351-1689.

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.----Education is the key to recycling the disposable human resources of society was the message delivered Friday night (May 15) by one of those resources.

The speaker, Philip W. Rasmussen, was one of four inmates of the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex who became the first graduates of a Morehead State University program offered at EKCC through the University's Licking Valley Extended Campus Center.

MSU President C. Nelson Grote, along with other MSU administrators and faculty members garbed in traditional academic regalia, joined with corrections officials to conduct a special commencement program at EKCC for the graduating inmates and their families.

Rasmussen of Crystal Lake, Ill., Randall W. Isaacs of Lima, Ohio, Freddie E. Blackburn of Pikeville and Donald G. Sargent of Dry Ridge received the Associate of Arts degree from MSU.

Comparing the college education program to the battle to save the environment, Rasmussen said that MSU's and other comparable programs were "taking the old, discarded, nonproductive, self-doubting, destructive elements of society and reintroducing or recycling them into humans with pride and self-esteem, self-worth and hope."

The 32-year-old inmate, who has been in custody in Kentucky for eight years, called for a constitutional amendment guaranteeing a college education for all and not just for the privileged.

Rasmussen told the commencement guests who included families of the graduates that the diploma symbolized an apology to "those people who tried to tell us we didn't know it all when we thought we did." Noting that President Harry S. Truman had said, "Ultimately it is what we learn after we know it all that is important," Rasmussen added that the diploma shows that "we are ready to listen and learn, ready to accept social standards and willing to be recycled into society--if given the opportunity."

The diploma, he added, "means that we care about ourselves, about restored pride and self-esteem and the possibilities for the future." He told the audience that he had watched thousands of inmates leave who had not wanted to return, but that countless had because they left with the same addictions, lacking necessary job skills and usually were just "going out on vacation. I can tell you because I was one of them."

He said that clear skies, sparkling fresh water and green grassy meadows represent the environmental dream, while upward mobility, prosperity and liberty were the American dream.

"To be somebody and to make something of yourself through education is our dream. We are part of the race to save the planet. We are all in this war together and tonight, there are four new victories in the battle," he concluded.

In his remarks, Dr. Grote, who conferred the degrees, said that his father has always told him that education is something that no one can take from you.

"Education is truly an asset to everyone. You young men have earned your degree; you worked hard and you achieved academically. You deserve to be recognized and respected for your academic accomplishments," he told the graduates.

EKCC Warden Michael O'Dea, who welcomed the guests to the program, praised Dr. Grote for his efforts in getting the program launched at the complex.

MSU began offering college courses at EKCC in 1990 and currently approximately 50 inmates are taking MSU classes. University officials are exploring the possibility of adding upper division courses to the program, according to Dr. Marc Glasser, MSU dean of graduate and extended campus programs.

According to national statistics, 43 percent of all released inmates return, but that percentage drops to 18 for those with GEDs and even lower, to between 10 and 14 percent, for those who earn an associate degree.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America recently honored Mrs. Jane C. Ellington, assistant professor of home economics at Morehead State University with an honorary membership and State Homemaker degree for her service to the organization.

Ellington was nominated for her service in training future chapter advisers in her role as a home economics educator. She accompanies her students to regional, state and national meetings so they can participate in the activities of the organization and often they serve as judges for STAR Events.

Ellington began her association with the organization as a high school member in Georgetown. As a teacher, she served as a local chapter adviser in both Kentucky and Ohio. She currently represents the Home Economics Teacher Educators on the State Advisory Board of the Kentucky association.

In accepting her award Mrs. Ellington said that this honor was very meaningful to her because she has always believed that FHA-HERO makes a difference in the lives of students who participate and in the lives of the advisers who work with those students.

The award was made recently at the annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of FHA in Louisville.

Mrs. Ellington has taught home economics at MSU since 1981. She and her family reside in Bethel.

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.---Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote has appointed members to an advisory committee for MSU's Licking Valley Extended Campus Center.

The new members include business, civic and education leaders representing the counties served by the center, which are Morgan, Elliott, Magoffin, Menifee, Wolfe and Breathitt.

Representing multiple counties will be Bill Duncan, general manager, Licking Valley Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation; Jim Fleshman, vice president and general manager, Whiting Manufacturing Company, Inc.; Henry Hinkle president, Hinkle Contracting Corporation; Danny McKenzie, general manager, Mountain Rural Telephone, and Joe Wells, president, Wells' Ready Mix Concrete Company.

Other appointees and the county they represent include:

Breathitt County--Representative to be named later.

Elliott County--Eugene S. Binion, Elliott County School superintendent, and B. Proctor Caudill, vice president of Peoples Bank.

Magoffin County--Charlotte Gillum, instructional supervisor for Magoffin County schools.

Menifee County--Otto Ingram, chairman of the board of Mountain Rural Telephone, and Jill Ratliff, teacher.

Morgan County--Coleen Frederick Kegley, vice president of Frederick & May Construction Company; C. K. Stacy, president, Bank of the Mountains, and Sid Stewart, Morgan County judge-executive.

Wolfe County--Danny Brewer, Wolfe County judge-executive, and Gloria B. Maddox, manager, Campton Medical Clinic.

(MORE)

Serving as ex-officio members will be state Sen. Walter Blevins; Michael O'Dea, warden, Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex, and Earl Reed, Morgan County School superintendent.

The committee, established under the guidelines of the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, will assist the center director in assessing the area's educational needs and advise in the development of cooperative programs through the extended campus center with the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex and with area schools.

The committee also will be involved in fund raising activities for the center and its programs.

In giving the committee its charge at a recent organizational meeting, Dr. Grote told the members that they had a very important role to play in helping to shape the destiny of the Licking Valley Extended Campus Center as it relates to higher education. "Each of you becomes a link between your community and MSU, bringing information to us on the region's expectations and, in turn, making the public aware of the center's services," he said.

MSU CELEBRATES SPRING COMMENCEMENT: A Picture Story

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Spring Commencement 1992 at Morehead State University on Saturday (May 16) was a day for celebrating as degrees were conferred and outstanding service was recognized. Despite warm temperatures, a crowd of more than 6,000 people--including graduates, their families and friends as well as MSU faculty and staff members--packed the Academic-Athletic Center. MSU President C. Nelson Grote conferred degrees on more than 700 undergraduate and graduate candidates, more than two-thirds of whom were the first in their family to earn a college degree.

Two new University awards designed to recognize a faculty and a staff member who exemplify the highest ideals of citizenship and service were presented by President Grote who, in turn, was honored for his service during a 42-year career in public education with an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

Cutlines:

- 1---Leading the academic procession as commencement's grand marshal was Dr. George M. Luckey Jr., professor of philosophy, followed by the platform party as the soon-to-be graduates awaited their turn to join the solemn march into Ellis Johnson Arena.
- 2---Placing the medallion symbolic of her honor around the neck of Joyce B. LeMaster, associate professor of English and the first recipient of MSU's Distinguished Faculty Service Award, was Dr. Grote. LeMaster, a member of the faculty since 1961, has served the University, region and state in a number of diverse roles from educator to civic leader.
- 3---Dr. Grote presented a similar medallion to Charlotte W. Barker, daughter of the first recipient of MSU's Distinguished Staff Service Award, Sue Woodrow. A native of Czechoslovakia, Woodrow was unable to attend due to illness. A displaced person during World War II, she gained U.S. citizenship in 1955 and has vigorously exercised those freedoms in her endeavors to serve her community.
- 4---Each graduate participating in commencement received personal congratulations from Dr. Grote, who earlier quipped that he too was graduating and entering a new career--retirement. Michael T. Alderman of Morehead, who earned his B.B.A. degree, was one of more than 600 who crossed the stage on Saturday.
- 5---There's no time out! Even on the day she received her Master of Arts in Education degree, Judy Stewart Sanders of South Portsmouth was still just mommy to young son, Tommy. However, the young tyke seems to be sharing the happiness of the day.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---To help the Commonwealth of Kentucky celebrate its 200th birthday, Morehead State University will display a Kentucky Bicentennial Exhibition, June 8 through July 24.

The exhibit may be viewed in the gallery, Claypool-Young Art Building, 8 a.m.-4 p.m., weekdays. There is no admission charge.

A series of 12 watercolor paintings, the bicentennial exhibit is the works of MSU alumnus James A. "Skip" Werline. Created for the Bicentennial Commission, the paintings are of landmarks that have historical background and renowned architectural heritage in the state.

Duplicated in these original paintings are Whitehall State Historic Site in Madison County, Ashland Estate in Fayette County and Whitehaven in Paducah, among others.

Werline publishes and distributes his works, with the help of his wife Dee, from the Werline Art Studio in Amelia, Ohio. He also teaches and is head of the Art Department at Southern State Community College near Hillsboro.

A native of Maysville, Werline is an adviser for the arts league at Southern State. He arranges lectures, displays of art works and demonstrations by locally, nationally and internationally known artists.

Additional information is available by calling MSU's Department of Art at (606) 783-2766.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Virginia E. Wheelless, director of planning at Morehead State University and special assistant to the president, has been invited to attend a training conference conducted by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

She will be one of two participants representing Kentucky.

Scheduled June 8-9 at SACS headquarters in Decatur, Ga., the conference will address various institutional effectiveness issues and how they relate to accreditation.

One of the commission's thrusts, according to its executive director James T. Rogers, is the usage of the concept of institutional effectiveness as a major component of the self-study process and as a central element in accreditation criteria.

After this initial training conference, Dr. Wheelless will be responsible for assisting the commission in planning and implementing an institutional effectiveness training session for other colleges and universities around the state.

A member of MSU's administrative staff since 1989, Dr. Wheelless previously taught at the University of Maryland-College Park, West Virginia University, Texas Tech University and Bowling Green (Ohio) State University.

Active in several professional associations, Dr. Wheelless has been a contributing author for eight textbooks and co-author of one. She holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

MOREHEAD, KY 40351-1689

May 16, 1992
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University will operate on 8.4 percent less money in the coming fiscal year than last year under a budget adopted Friday (May 22) by the University's Board of Regents.

The 1992-93 operating budget of $57.4 million was described by outgoing MSU President C. Nelson Grote as the "most difficult and most disappointing" budget that he had recommended in his 21 years as a chief executive officer in higher education.

"I am displeased for it fails to adequately fund this University," he said. "At the same time, it is a responsible budget, a balanced budget and a conservative budget," added Dr. Grote, who retires on June 30.

Noting that the budget was based on a fall 1992 enrollment of approximately 400 fewer students than fall 1991, the president said that he hoped the enrollment would exceed the projected 8,400.

The budget reductions are due primarily to a 10 percent decrease in the state appropriation and adjustments to the enrollment base.

Totaling nearly $5.3 million, the budget cuts will affect both personnel and programs campuswide, from athletics and the administration to academics.

While student fees were increased by about 4.3 percent, no increases were made in student housing, meal plans or the student health fee.

MSU's personnel base will be reduced by 65 positions; but through attrition the maximum number of permanent employees scheduled to be laid off on June 30 is expected to be 22. The budget does not include funding for salary increases, but employee benefit programs were maintained at the current level.

The general fund subsidy of intercollegiate athletics was reduced by $255,000.

In other action, the board approved a number of amendments and exceptions to various personnel policies, which included eliminating accumulation of vacation time during probationary periods; setting six months as the probationary period for both exempt and non-exempt staff members; providing for those employees laid off due to the 1992-93 budget reduction to be considered as internal applicants for openings on campus for one year and reducing compensation rates to faculty for "time-on-the-road" and for teaching of KET telecourses.

MSU regents
2-2-2-2-2

The board also adopted resolutions commending outgoing student regent Tim Francis of Bardstown and MSU President Grote. Citing Dr. Grote's "exemplary performance and strong personal leadership" during his five-year tenure as president, the regents awarded him the title of president emeritus.

Dr. Grote, whose career in education spans more than four decades, also served for 11 years earlier on the University's administrative staff and has spent 32 years in higher education.

The Regents approved a recommendation to name a new athletic weight training facility in honor of former MSU quarterback Phil Simms, now of the New York Giants, and to add "Apartments" to the name of Mays Hall, a former residence hall now being converted into an apartment building.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Brig. Gen. Robert L. Dezarn, adjutant general of Kentucky, will be the keynote speaker for the 52nd session of Kentucky Boys State which will be held at Morehead State University Sunday through Friday, May 31-June 5.

Approximately 300 high school seniors from across the state will participate in the program which is sponsored each year by the Kentucky American Legion. During the week, the youth will take part in mock government sessions designed to provide practical lessons in city and state government.

Dezarn will address the first general session which is set for Sunday, May 31, at 7 p.m. in Fulbright Auditorium in Baird Music Hall. A former engineer and armor commander, Gen. Dezarn is the state's highest ranking military officer. He was the first person appointed by Gov. Brereton Jones when the new administration took office in December.

A retired supervisor with Armco Steel Company in Ashland, he is an alumnus of Eastern Kentucky University where he received his commission through the ROTC program.

Welcoming the group at the opening ceremonies Sunday at 4 p.m., also in Fulbright Auditorium, will be Keith Kappes, MSU's vice president for university advancement.

Throughout the week, the Boys State delegates will learn about the state's political system by developing their own two-party system and electing state and city officials; serving as legislators, and introducing, debating and enacting laws as in the Kentucky General Assembly.

Elected Boys State officers, including governor and lieutenant governor, will be announced on Wednesday, June 3, and on Thursday they will travel to Frankfort to meet with their real life counterparts.

A graduation awards ceremony will conclude the week's activities on Friday. U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard, 1st District of Kentucky, will be the featured speaker for the luncheon, scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Registration for Morehead State University's first summer term will be conducted Monday, June 8, in the Adron Doran University Center (ADUC) from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Schedule adjustments for students who pre-registered for Summer I will be processed at that time.

Students planning to register will need to meet with their advisers to prepare a trial schedule before entering the registration area. Academic program advisers will be available in ADUC during registration.

Admission into the registration area will be by an alphabetical system based on last names. All fees should be paid at time of registration.

Also, students taking classes at the Ashland Area, Big Sandy and Licking Valley extended campus centers as well as through the Appalachian Graduate Consortium at Pikeville, may register at those sites from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. that same day.

Summer I classes begin at 8 a.m. Tuesday, June 9, and continue through Thursday, July 2.

Summer II will run from July 7 through July 31, with registration slated on Monday, July 6.

Summer session tuition is $60 per credit hour for undergraduates and $87 for graduate students who are Kentucky residents. The tuition rate for out-of-state students is $168 per undergraduate credit hour and $247 per graduate credit hour.

Out-of-state students enrolled in classes at off-campus centers pay in-state tuition.

Course directories with complete listings of classes and registration information will be available at registration. Additional information may be obtained from the Office of the Registrar, Morehead State University, 201 Ginger Hall, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. Telephone: (606) 783-2008 or 1-800-262-7474 toll-free in Kentucky.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Dr. Benjamin K. Malphrus, a Morehead State University assistant professor of science, has been selected to take part in one of two 1992 Astronomy and Space Science Summer Institutes to be held in California.

The institutes are conducted by the Lawrence Hall of Science at the University of California-Berkeley and the New York Hall of Sciences at Corona, N.Y.

Limited to 25 participants each, the institutes will be held at Holy Names College in Oakland, Calif. Dr. Malphrus is scheduled to participate in the Aug. 2-21 session.

The institutes are part of UC-Berkeley's Participatory Oriented Planetariums for Schools (POPS) project, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

During the three-week program, Dr. Malphrus will take part in workshops offering a variety of activities in astronomy and space science for planetariums and classrooms; hear presentations by professional astronomers; make field trips to observatories and planetariums in the San Francisco Bay Area and participate in evening stargazing sessions.

A member of MSU's faculty since 1990, Dr. Malphrus earned his doctorate in physics and astronomy from West Virginia University and his master's and bachelor's degrees from the University of South Carolina, where he was a South Carolina Scholar.

He is active in the National Science Teachers Association, the South Carolina Academy of Science and The Planetary Society. He is the author of "The National Radio Astronomy Observatory 40-Foot Telescope: Operator's Manual."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---The U.S. does not need to go to war but needs to be strong to keep peace.

This was the message given by Brig. Gen. Robert L. Dezarn, adjutant general of Kentucky, when he addressed the nearly 300 delegates at the opening ceremonies for the 52nd annual Kentucky Boys State today.

The yearly program, sponsored by the Kentucky American Legion, is being held May 31 through June 5 on the Morehead State University campus. The high school seniors will take part in mock government sessions designed to provide practical lessons in city and state government.

Gen. Dezarn, the state's highest ranking military officer, said the state cannot afford to be without combat engineers and military police in times of disaster and used a potential disaster to explain his point.

"If western Kentucky should have an earthquake--and pray that it doesn't happen--we still need to be prepared," he said. "This is something that would affect us all. The magnitude would be so strong as to be felt by the entire state."

Describing how Congress was authorized to limit the number of military persons in the army, the adjutant general said the recent proposed decrease would eliminate jobs for several thousand Kentuckians. "We cannot afford to lose the payroll, but the National Guard also is the force the governor uses in an emergency."

Reviewing the national arena, Gen. Dezarn stated that in one area around the equator, there were 30 shooting wars occurring each day. "Russia's economy is gone, but the weapons are still there," he said. "When they get hungry, we don't know what they will do." He told how the U.S. had bought weapons and speculated that some Third World countries also had made purchases.

He told the young men how he had just returned from the Pacific Rim--Korea, Japan and Hawaii-- where he reviewed the readiness of the armed forces and the battle plan in that area as well as the the economic situation.

Fielding questions from the Boys State delegates, Gen. Dezarn said he had not been in favor of abolishing the draft, but now, we have kept our standing army and now we have some truly fine military persons that I am happy to be associated with."

The adjutant general, who has spent more than 30 years in uniform, has served as engineer, artillery and armor commander. While he was in charge of Ashland's 201 unit, it was named the best unit of that type in the country.

Also welcoming the group was Jack James, president of the American Legion of Kentucky Boys' State, who told the young men to learn diplomacy and teamwork to be better citizens and be more involved in the government.

"War is the failure of diplomacy on the part of the heads of government," he said.

The young men will spend the week learning about the state's political system by developing their own two-party system and electing state and city officials; serving as legislators, and introducing, debating and enacting laws as in the Kentucky General Assembly.

A graduation awards ceremony will conclude the week's activities on Friday, June 5.
