The StanByer

Stanley K Iverson

A SALESMAN KNOCKED AT the home of Sid Alfrey and one of the new MSTA leaders answered the door. The salesman inquired, "Little boy, is your mother at home?"

His friends now call him "Senay Boy." And I don't mean Dr. Keller.

ANOTHER TEST BOY. A youngster, asked by his mother Saturday night (perhaps to avoid the usual scrubbing), "Mama, may I go see the lady take a bath?" "What lady take a bath?" "Aw, you know, that shower bath, the one you were talking about this afternoon." "Oh, you mean the miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Ted Crosthwaite."

I THINK THAT THE "DRUNK" who pulled this one would laugh at it himself. Coming home one day sobriety, he was walking down the street. The drunk walked up the steps of his home and put out his hand to grab for the door knob. He missed and fell off the porch. He turned himself together, got up, walked up the steps, grabbed for the door knob, missed and fell off the porch again. He turned himself together for the third time but flopped as before. He staggered around, in and out of the door, and finally came out. He walked through the house and coming out the front door fell off the porch for the fourth time.

THE QUILL THE ROBBERS CCC camp paper, recently referred to as high praise from one of its contemporaries, the Grouton Camp Crier of Marshfield, Vermont, "The Quill, Co. 578, CCC, Morehead, Ky. deserves all the credit in the world for being among the best camp papers ever published in the history of the three Cs." Credit for this review, the camp should go up to the editor-in-chief, A. C. Ventresca, affectionately called Paquin, an Italian boy from Columbus, Ohio, who, with all his might and main (curly black, too) keeps his paper at top rating, and credit also should go to the directing adviser, the paper's adviser, Earl May.

I PRESUME SOME READERS think that since my name is Iverson I ought to be called Iverson. Well, not according to the rules and regulations of my forefathers. Actually, according to the custom of my grandparents and their ancestors in Norway, my surname should be Severen. My grandfather's name on my father's side was Knudsen (no relation to the K in my name). My father, Severen Iverson, following the old western custom, added his father's first name of Iver and added "son." Which made it very easy for everyone to know that he was a son of Iver. He had taken his father's first name, Knud, and added "son." But my parents neglected to add the Knudson name until started wearing knickerbockers and then it was too awkward for me to change to Stanley Severen.

CRACKERBAREL COMMENTS by Woody Hinton
This Buck and Berry Club that Allan Trout, the columnist on the Courier-Journal writes, sounds kind of easy to me, that is, some of the things the members write in. So far, I've seen only one. It was by a Rev. Buel Kase, an ex-Baptist minister who was telling him what an authority he was or had been, by my driving license in all my past experience as an ex driver, I have never heard of a preacher making much of a success as an ex driver. I say experience, I mean I have had experience in ox driving. Way over in Fleming, where I was raised, I was known as "Blind Snake" Hinton, and I always kept my yoke ready so when anyone got hung up in any of our numerous mud-holes, they always called on me when things looked impossible.

Union Good Friday Services To Be Held At Christian Church

Louisa-Sandy Hook Bus Line To Start Early Next Month

Oscar Scott Acquires Franchise From Sandy Hook Man
Public bus service between Louisa and Sandy Hook, providing two round trips daily between the two county seats, will be inaugurated early in April, possibly in 15 days, it was stated this week by Oscar Scott, of Pikeville, who has acquired the Louisa-Sandy Hook franchise from J. B. Fannin, of Sandy Hook.

Scott said he would start operation of the bus line as soon as he receives his license and insurance. This usually requires 15 days. A schedule of trips has not been arranged yet but said two round trips would be made daily. Scott said he had not decided whether he would start with 7-passenger or 20-passenger buses.

Fannin was one of five to submit applications for the franchise. The W. C. Wain of the Canal City, at the same time was granted permission to extend its West Liberty-Morehead line into Louisa. He has given this service between Louisa and Morehead under the newly-completed (Continued on page 8)

Advise Farmers To Purchase Kentucky Tested Hybrid Corn

Three Varieties Listed Give From 5 to 15 Bushels More To Acre
Farmers of Rowan county are showing much interest in planting hybrid seed corn this year. Popularity more than 1,000 acres of this type of corn will be planted. Results of demonstrations conducted in Rowan county in 1938 contributed to the interest shown recently. The demonstrations were in white corn, which was Kentucky 99 White, were highly satisfactory.

The yellow corn planted locally in 1937 was U. S. No. 32 Yellow. This was not successful except in good bottom land. The upland plantings were lower yielding than open pollinated varieties. Farmers are warned not to purchase hybrid strains other than those that have been tried and proven best in Kentucky. These are Kentucky No. 69 White and U. S. No. 13 Yellow. Farmers planting other strains may be badly disappointed. The three varieties listed here will give from 5 to 15 bushels more corn to the acre than common varieties.

Farmers should specify the variety they want and accept other. Strains that are highly satisfactory in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois very likely will not yield well here.

Owners Of A Beautiful Future

If you noticed the unusual influx of pert looking girls and boys in the city Saturday, you saw the cream of the high schools in Eastern Kentucky.

One can scarcely doubt the truism in that Kentucky has the most beautiful looking women in the world after seeing those clean, bright and cheery girls, who, after all, are the daughters of Kentucky mothers.

No Restrictions

Rowan county farmers, without restriction are invited to take part in the agricultural conservation program as outlined by the ACA committee and County Agent Goff, ex-officio member.

There are no strings attached. The farmer merely has to live up to the first two points in the program and any four of the following five.

turally want to set up for himself.

The more farmers who can be taught to build up their soil, the more richer agriculturally Rowan county will become.

Southern Economic Conditions-- Ownership And Use Of Land

Under these circumstances the tenant has no incentive to protect the soil, plant cover crops, or keep buildings in repair.

While it is growing more cotton and tobacco than it can use or sell profitably, the South is failing to raise the things it needs.

For example, the region has more than half of the Nation's farm people, yet it raises less than one-third of the Nation's pigs and cattle.

Too many southern farmers have simply done without, and as a result they have suffered severely from malnutrition and dietary diseases.

On the other hand, tobacco, cotton, and corn use up the natural richness of the land with great speed.

Let's see. China is backward because the central government can't control military rulers; and Japan isn't responsible because the army is out of control.

Religious Cause Is Defended At Convo

Colonel P. H. Callahan, member of the National Conference of Jews and Christians was the assembly speaker Friday.

Colonel Callahan explained the purposes and functions of the conference, declaring that it was trying to abolish religious intolerance and racial prejudice throughout the world.

Examples of prejudice were given in Germany, France and Rumania.

The recent uprising against the Jews in Germany forms the most perfect example of racial intolerance, the speaker declared.

Colonel Callahan made a plea to the student body here to understand the view points of another group making the statement that such was possible "without yielding one's own Germany farms."

"This," he declared, "will make to the student body here to understand the view of a brighter and better place in which to live."

Mr. Callahan is a successful manufacturer from Louisville, Ky. While in Morehead Colonel Callahan was the guest of President and Mrs. H. A. Babbs.

CAPITOL COMMENTS . . .

absence, is spending most of his time in Richmond, his home town, coming to the capitol only when necessary.

John Y. Brown received the official blessing of Tom Rhea and former Governor Ruoy Laffoon and the battle lines are digging. Any machine that can muster 103 winning county chairmen to a conference, must be reckoned with. Last week 103 people who acted as county chairmen for Barkley in his senatorial race, gathered in Lquisville, to endorse John Y. Brown for Governor. Hence when the warm sun shines in the summer it will hardly be noticed by a number of people, for the election will be hotter still.

It is supposed to be against the law to purchase votes. We wonder if a candidate who promises the old people that he will give them pensions, isn't flouting outrageously with this law. There are 4,500 old people in the state eligible for pensions and at least that many more relatives on whom they may be dependent, which makes a block of 90,000 votes, a balance of power in a Kentucky election.

We are enthusiastically for and in sympathy with the aged people of our state, but we can't keep the pension money in the hands of the senator who was elected there on a platform of "Thirty Dollars Every Thursday" for the old people. Someone has to pay the taxes.

It is our belief that thirty dollars a month is not too much to pay the people of this state, but we believe a law should be passed in the next legislature limiting their pay to that amount. So in coming election, politicians may not promise high pensions to secure votes.

The court of appeals outlawed the chain store tax last week, and the loss in revenue from this will cost the state five hundred thousand dollars in taxes paid under protest, and a revenue source of approximately $900,000 a year. Louisiana has a much more drastic chain store tax law that the United States Supreme Court has ruled constitutional.

ENJOY FIELD TRIP

The children in the first and second grade room went on a field trip last Thursday, enjoying the occasion very much. They caught minnows at a branch for their fish bowl, discovered a salamander and a bright green frog. They studied an ant hill, crayfish and insects.

Another field trip is being planned, although the date has not been set yet. Several children have found a few fossils, and odd shaped rocks and brought them to school.

An Easter picnic and egg hunt has been planned and the children are looking forward to this event.

GRADES NINE AND TEN

The following high school students had perfect attendance for the seventh month:

George Calvert, Mildred Poston, Louise Utterback and Eula Mae Foster.

The book shelves for the school library have been completed. It really makes the high school room look better and the students are proud of it.

HALDEMAN SCHOOL NEWS

For the past two weeks the Halde-man Senior and Junior high school students have been having an exciting time selling tickets. The tickets were for "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works." The Juniors and Sophomores won the race and received a half holiday. Charles William Hall and Edward Martz were the star salesmen. Hall sold 38 and Martz 19. Two hundred forty-five tickets were sold in all.

Miss Ina Fay Webb, a member of the sophomore class at Halde-man was united in marriage Friday to Mr. Willis Holbrook, of Soldier. She will withdraw from school.

A number of students have been absent from the seventh and eighth grades due to illness. Among these are Reva Butts, Hildreth Fultz, Robert Blevins, Lonnie Clifford, Other Stamper and Ivan Sparks.

The Seniors of the Halde-man high school fixed a hot bed this week. The eighth grade is going to Tom Thumb hot bed. We hope it will be as successful as the senior's hot bed.

The windows and sub flooring have just been put in the Halde-man High School Gym. They are now melting tar to put on the roof. If the weather continues to be good it should be completed within a short time.

BEING A SECRETARY?

Why, why not be one? Do you know that it is much more difficult for an employer to replace his secretary than it is for him to engage a good salesman or a teacher?

A real secretary is a cheerful, capable person who likes people, is dedicated to the task of doing her work efficiently, and can handle clients with tact and judgment. If I were asked to give the qualifications for a good secretary, I'd say the most important are: Adequate education, a pleasing personality, and a good deal of common sense.

There are many distinct advantages of being a secretary. First of all, the field is varied and interesting as varied and interesting as the hundreds of professions requiring the services of a secretary. Secretaries are well paid for their services. Perhaps they begin at a lower rate than elementary school teachers, but their advancement is more rapid.

Working conditions are usually above the average, and the respect and confidence with which a secretary is treated by her superior officer is adequate compensation for any overtime she may have to spend.

In no other vocation that I know of does one use so many know-ledges of people and events as in that of a secretary. Formal education and additional self-improvement are rewarded by the ease with which a secretary can accomplish her office work. This education should take the form of a good business course acquired after high school and if possible after a college degree has been obtained, with particular reference to English, grammar, punctuation, spelling and usage.

One can be endowed with too much personality and charm, but common sense can never be overdone. It is the measure of success in any profession, but particularly in one where half the day is taken up with what we commonly call "meeting the public."

There are too few good secretaries. A secretary occupies an uncrowded and always fertile field. She is well-paid for her services, both those which she performs and those which she has sense enough to realize she must leave unperformed. Her work-
