

CCC First Aid Knowledge Saves Life

Bitten By Copperhead Snake While Seven Miles From Dr. First Aid Given By Mater.

Some people study all their lives and then are not able to apply their knowledge to practical purposes. That is not true so far as the boys of the local camp are concerned as was demonstrated on Friday, July 9. As a result of applying their knowledge of first aid taught at the camp at Rodburn, the life of Ransom E. Wright was probably saved by the quick thinking and quicker acting of his comrades. Wright was bitten by a copperhead snake while he and his companions were clearing the telephone right-of-way on the Morehead-Frenchburg road. Prompt action in applying first-aid unquestionably saved his life.

Wright accompanied by five other CCC enrollees was at work near the quarry on the Morehead Frenchburg road, clearing the telephone right-of-way when the accident occurred. Wright felt a stinging sensation in the back of his leg above the knee but thought nothing of it until he began to become ill. He called his companions who examined the leg and found the fangs marks of the copper head. Applying their knowledge they made a tourniquet to stop circulation, split open the wound with a pocket knife and let the blood out. Hurried to the camp anti-venom shots were administered by the camp physician, and Wright is well on the way to recovery.

The teaching of the First Aid Course is a very definite part of the educational program at the camp, and is an exceptionally important part, considering the fact that the country in which the men work is infested not only with copperheads but huge rattlers of large size. This is the first time any enrollee at the camp has been bitten although a number of other cases have been treated for snake bites.

Wright, was accompanied at the time he suffered the bite by five other enrollees of the camp, who administered the first-aid. They were William Conn, Dallas Devine, Everett Montgomery and William Hargis.

J. T. Daugherty Makes Showing

Goes To Finals In Blue Grass Tennis Doubles; Quarters In Singles Play

J. T. Daugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Daugherty of this city, is very much in the state tennis limelight, as the result of his try in the Blue Grass tennis tournament held in Lexington last week.

J. T. was entered in the singles, in which he went to the quarter finals, and in the doubles, paired with Omar Rathin.

In the singles he went to the quarter finals round, losing to Bangard of Lexington who went on to win the championship from Bots, another Lexington boy.

In the doubles, J. T. and his partner, swept through the tournament, blasting the hopes of their opponents, with brilliant play, to enter the final round, where they met with Ragland, singles winner and his partner. Through a series of rapid play, the local pair fell before the flashing drive of Ragland to go down in defeat.

However Mr. Daugherty made an excellent impression of the crowd in attendance and won several medals of praise as a result of his sportsmanship and his fine play.

Frank Miller, 14 year old son of Dr. Miller was entered in the singles and drew comments from all sides as a brilliant player in spite of his size and his years. He and his father were paired in the doubles. Bobby Hogge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hogge, also entered in the tournament, but had hard luck at the very outset, by virtue of the draw and went down early in the play.

Take all in all, Morehead's representation at the Lexington tournament did exceptionally well, considering that they were pitted against the best tennis sharks the section produces.

Chas. E. Hogge Is Under Treatment

Suffering From Broken Vertebra In Neck As Result Of Wreck; Is At Home

C. E. Hogge, Ediston, Ky., returned this week from Huntington, W. Va., where he has been under treatment for the past two weeks, for the correction of spinal trouble caused by injuries sustained in the wreck of his car several weeks ago. Mr. Hogge will continue to be confined to his home for some time, as the cure includes complete rest.

Mr. Hogge sustained a cracked vertebra when his car overturned on the West Liberty-Wrightley road several weeks ago. At the time immediately following he thought nothing of an apparently slight pain in his neck, but as time passed the pain grew worse and an X-ray disclosed the fact that a vertebra had been broken. He immediately went to the hospital where the treatment was given. He is apparently considerably improved although it will be necessary for him to remain at home for some time yet.

FOREST SERVICE HAS TRAFFIC COUNTED

To Determine Type Of Surface To Be Used On Highway To Frenchburg

For the past three weeks the Forest Service connected with the camp has been conducting a traffic count over the Midland Trail and the forest trail from Morehead to Frenchburg. Each day, sitting at the Buck Ambury corner near Brady a boy has been counting cars passing over both the trail and the Morehead-Frenchburg road. A number of citizens have been interested in wondering what the result would be. Naturally there is a reason.

The primary purpose of the count has been to determine the amount of traffic that passes over the Morehead - Frenchburg road, which is being built by the CCC as part of the forest service. On the amount of traffic will depend largely the type of surface that is put on the road. Naturally the greater the traffic the higher type of surface.

Either the News or the forest service have any means of knowing what the result will be as that will be decided by those in authority. They have learned, that there is a surprising amount of traffic over the road. The average number of cars that go over the road according to the present count is three hundred Kentucky cars daily and from 125 to 150 foreign cars, that is cars from other states. Naturally as the road is built up this amount will be correspondingly increased. There are of course other reasons for the traffic count but the reason stated above is the most important.

Second Wreck Victim Dies In Ashland

L. Y. Johnson Dies Of Heart Attack After Apparent Recovery From Wreck

The second victim of the automobile wreck in which Bud Myers of Farmers lost his life, died in Ashland Monday, apparently of a heart attack, when L. Y. Johnson of that city died at the Kings County hospital. The wreck in which Mr. Johnson suffered a compound fracture of the leg occurred near the Driscoll House in Carter county when Mr. Johnson apparently lost control of his car and crashed into a truck loaded with stone, sending them both into the ditch.

Mr. Johnson had, according to newspaper reports recovered from his injuries sustained in the wreck and his death was entirely unexpected. He was Democratic candidate for commissioner of Bond County.

DEMO COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

Submit Lists Of Names From Which Election Officers Will Be Selected

The Democratic county committee met on Tuesday of this week at the court house in Morehead for the purpose of submitting the lists of names from which the county Democratic election officers will be selected by the election commissioners at a meeting to be held later. The Democratic chairman has in the past submitted the lists to the commissioners, but in view of the fact that there is a county primary and that there are so many candidates, it was agreed that the most satisfactory method would be to have the precinct committee men submit applicants for the office. The names are to be selected for each precinct.

Eight names were submitted by each precinct committee man and committee men's effort was made to give every group of candidates representation on the list. From this list the election commissioners will select the election officers, two for each precinct.

In selecting the election officers it is the determination of the commissioners that there shall be no favoritism shown to any candidate and no discrimination against any candidate. The election commissioners are required to meet not later than July 31 to select the officers.

The Rowan County Health Department has been very busy approving these certificates, not only from Rowan county but also for teachers from other counties who are attending M. S. T. C.

Enrollment Is Small This Term

Usual Last Term School In Enrollment At College; Teachers Opening Schools

The last and smallest term of the Morehead State Teachers College opened Monday, with the enrollment about as usual for this term, the last summer term. As a rule, the last five weeks see the enrollment drop far below normal at the college, with classes smaller and the students representing only the city teachers, whose schools do not start until September, and whose high school and college students who wish to make up additional work for their degrees.

Incidentally a large number of the faculty have this year taken part in the summer school of regular classes. Others, particularly training school teachers have enrolled at various other colleges for advanced work in their lines.

Training school pupils have been released from classes for the balance of the summer, as the practice teaching courses have all been closed for the year.

This season no brings about an almost complete lack of social activities, as the enrollment is so small that there is little to interest them. The enrollment at the close of the registration on Wednesday noon was 220.

DEATH OF JOHN DAY IS REPORTED

Postmaster At Olive Hill Returns Post Card Mailed; Marked Deceased

Reports from Olive Hill indicate that John Day, well known character about this community is dead. According to Mrs. Mattie Burns, post mistress at Morehead a card addressed to Johnny was forwarded to Olive Hill, but was returned by the post master there with the notation that he was dead. No confirmation of the report, however has been received.

Johnnie Day was perhaps as well known as any man in Morehead. For years he has canvassed the town selling bibles, extracts, soap, flowers, trees, in fact anything that could be sold for a profit. He was his territory and the world to Johnny Day was Bath, Rowan and Carter counties. Almost any day driving up or down the Midland Trail tourists could see him thumbing his way to one point of the other, and he was always able to get a ride where others waited.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Kasez, Pastor of Baptist Church. Written each week by Rev. R. H.

SUBJECT: God Prepares a people unto himself." Deut. 78. Golden Text: "The Lord thy God hath chosen to be a special people unto himself!" Deut. 78

Last week we learned that God had prepared a leader for Israel, and had given him the preparation for leading them out of the bondage of Egypt. God does not do only a part of his work; he works on both sides at the same time. While he was preparing Moses to lead Israel, he was also preparing Israel to lay upon the Israelites unbearable burdens of labor and slavery, until they were eager to go. Now he would bring upon Pharaoh the burden necessary to make him release them.

The many pledges described in Exodus had been pouring upon the Egyptians. Each time Pharaoh would refuse. At last came the plague of the first-born in every house. How was this going to affect the children of Israel?

They were instructed to take a lamb for each family, kill it, put the blood upon the door posts of their homes, and to eat the flesh. This blood was to be a sign upon the angel of death who would pass over the land that night, and where ever that blood was seen the death angel was to pass over that home. This was the redemption of the first-born of the bondage of Egypt. This they did, and all Israel were saved that night wherever the blood was seen. Soon they were ushered out and sent on their journey toward the land of Canaan.

This is a picture of redemption by the blood of Jesus Christ. So as a type of the redemption which was to come in Jesus, and to which Israel might look by faith and be saved, the Lord instructed them to observe this ceremony throughout their generations. It is called the Passover, for the Lord passed over Israel that night. All the souls who have the blood of Jesus applied to them by faith in that blood, which was shed for all the Lord will pass over them, when that awful day of judgement and death shall come.

From since that time the Passover has been fulfilled. Jesus did come, as the lamb typified, and died on the Cross for us, that we should not die. This is redemption by blood.

Just as God worked with people while working with a leader; so he does now. He lays upon the soul the burden of its great need of deliverance from sin. This he does through the preaching of the Gospel and the enlightenment of the Spirit. We call it conviction. He makes the soul want to be delivered while at the same time, he has provided the Deliverer, Jesus. Thus God prepares his people today for his great blessing.

mer short-cuts because they are distinctly labor saving foods. They are easy to make and give a large return for the time and effort spent in making them.

Whenever bread-stuffs are to take an important part in in meals it's quite necessary to keep in mind their food value. All breads are energy foods because their chief ingredient—flour—is of the high caloric value. The yeast breads are good sources of vitamin B, but the quick breads made with eggs, milk, molasses, fruits and nuts add mineral salts and additional calories.

Frequently a raisin or nut bread takes the place of cake or other sweet in a luncheon menu. A vegetable salad accompanied by raisin bread sandwiches and followed by a dessert of fresh fruit is indeed adequate and no one notices the lack of cake or cookies.

Children and adults who are too thin find these breads an excellent means of increasing the calories in their diets since an extra amount of butter can be carried most appetizingly by the slices of

Brown Bread
 One egg, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cup molasses, 2 1/2 cups Graham flour, 1 1/2 cups buttermilk or sour milk, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 cup seeded raisins.

Beat egg until light with sugar and salt. Add molasses and mix well. Mix raisins with white flour. Add Graham flour and cornmeal to first mixture and add one cup of sour milk. Mix thoroughly. Add soda to remaining sour milk and add to first mixture. Add flour and raisins and beat hard for a few seconds. Turn into oiled and floured pans and bake 50 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F).

This bread makes delicious sandwiches filled with cream cheese. To prevent a chicken from becoming black and smoky during broiling, hold it over plain wrapping paper.

After giving the porch furniture its last coat of paint for the season, boll the brushes (2 the paint brush in vinegar before putting it away. This will remove every trace of paint and the brush will be like new. Even brushes which have been badly neglected and are filled with dried paint can be cleaned and made soft and usable by this treatment.

Are You Indifferent To Slaughtering?

Automobile accidents can be reduced on the highways can be stopped.

Last year, traffic fatalities reached an all-time high of 38,500. Yet 18 states and the District of Columbia showed an average reduction of 17 per cent in deaths—even though gasoline consumption, best barometer of traffic conditions, increased 10 per cent.

These states weren't "just lucky". Chance didn't save the lives of their citizens. According to the National Safety Council, all but two of the states carry on aggressive programs of safety engineering, law enforcement, education, legislation, etc. The same authority reports that in half of the remaining 30 states next to nothing is done to prevent the Grim Reaper's grisly harvest.

There are two prime causes of automobile accidents. One is the reckless, incompetent and dangerous driver. He can be curbed to some extent by up-to-date traffic laws that are honestly and rigidly enforced.

The cause is dangerous, "accident prone" locations—bad intersections, narrow highways without dividing areas, etc. Here the highway engineer must be called in to eliminate such needless hazards and thus make it virtually impossible to have an accident.

"Make our town safe" should be a community motto. It's high time, as the New York Times says, that we "shook off our comparative national indifference to this man-made evil," and begun safety campaigns in earnest."

The irony of his position dug deep into Slim. It was maddening to be placed all ways out, on the defensive with no way of fighting back. His pride was quick and fierce, more so perhaps because of the wrong which had been done him by the miscarriage of justice.

Blind, primal fury prickled at his brain. He did not want to run. He wanted to stand and fight, to stand and, to pour his lead into the head of those who were persecuting him. Yet his hands were tied. Once involved in a snarl, regard less of whose making it might be, Slim knew that it would go back to that hellish earth.

It meant being enclosed between dark gray walls of stone, way from the sky, from the warm stars, away from everything worth while. Realization of this steadied him, and drove the fumes of rage from his mind.

"Okay, Roy," he said, his voice steady once more. "Some day meebby I'll be able to pay yuh boys back for stickin with me like I've done. Roy, smooch. It's worth it all that we do, lad exceptin to be shorn yuh git a square deal from now on out. Off with yuh."

Don't take any fool chances, Roy, said Slim over his shoulder as he turned away. Should they get yuh, I'm comin' after em with hot lead, parole or no parole.

But Roy was not listening. He was climbing into Slim's saddle and urging the gray away into the darkness. Good old Roy, that a fat, fat, freestaying fighting machine the jolly Irishman was.

Viewing the affair calmly, Slim knew that there was little chance of Roy getting the worst of the deal. He could be as wary and cunning as an Indian when the occasion required. Tonight, forewarned of what to expect, the odds were greatly in favor of Roy coming through with flying colors.

So Slim rode home, taking the roundabout route Roy had suggested, and arrived at the Circle L.

ranch buildings without seeing a soul. As he drew up at the corral and dismounted, a dark figure sauntered over from the bunkhouse. It was Dakota Blue again.

"Roy," Dakota called out tersely. "Where's Slim? Why—what the hell is that yuh Slim? Roy come yuh're ridin' Roy's bronc?"

Slim told him of meeting Roy and the subsequent changing of mounds and hats. Dakota grunted with approval. Roy'susin his hand all the time, he added.

"But I'm gettin' to the narrow edge, Dakota," said Slim wearily. "This ain't life, this is hell, pure an' unsweetened. It's almost as bad as bein' in prison. On the dodge all the time, afraid to call by soul my own name, hid behind yuh fetters—makes me feel like a damned worm. For all I know, Roy may be takin' a bullet right now that was meant for me."

Dakota's speculative gaze held a queer light in it. I reckon I savvy just how yuh feel, Slim. Shore, it's a fight an' a tough one. It takes a lot more nerve to handle this kind of a ruckus than it does to hit the ground with a gun in each fist an' talk it out through smoke. That away yuh can let yoreself go—easy be darn good and mad an' let that mad run loose. But yuh gotta keep yore feelin's bottled up an' side-step trouble every time yuh meet it. That takes spine an' plenty of it. Any danged fool can fight. It takes a real man to hold in when he's plumb wild an' achin' to bust the halter and rope an' cut loose. We fellers appreciate how tough it is, Slim. But if we're willin' to see yuh through, yuh oughta be willin' to vote part."

Slim put his hand on Dakota's arm. I savvy, ole-timer. I promise yuh I won't go mufin' around any more. It's my fight an' I gotta make it. On 'nother thing, I got some of the ground with me tonight. Leo Brockwell was at the Dot H Dot, talkin' over a cattle deal with Abe Fornachon. He butted

There Goes My Girl At college

"There Goes My Girl" will be the feature at the College Friday, July 23rd. Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern are the stars in this refreshingly different newspaper story. The plot is quite novel and is an excellent farce comedy with a sort of hokum melodrama background, which never exceeds the comedy character.

"Jerry" and "Connie" are rival reporters who are to be married and when they stage a pre-wedding party "Connie's editor is present and he tries to break up the wedding. When the pair is at the altar the editor stages a fake murder and "Connie" lets her maternal instincts get the better of her emotions and she rushes out to "cover" the murder. She discovers that it is a fake and swears off of reporting. However, a real murder occurs and she dashes out to get the story when she learns that her rival "Jerry" is working on it.

While getting the story there is some more shooting and "Connie" is wounded. "Jerry" tries to help her out by covering the story for her and when he gives the story to her editor it is bungled so that it appears as a scoop in "Jerry's" paper rather than in "Connie's". The final result that "Connie's" editor gets a good punch on the chin for butting in on the wedding and "Connie" and "Jerry" get married.

The feature for Friday July 30 will have Joe Penner and Harriet Hilliard in "New Faces of 1937."

Because croquet can be played on the spur of the moment, requires no special dress, can be set up in the back yard under the trees, does not require physical exertion on hot summer days, and can be played by persons of almost any age and of either sex are some of the reasons for its popularity.

Best places for a croquet court is a smooth sandy piece of ground on one on which the grass has been closely cropped. A standard court is 60 feet by 30 feet although 50' by 25' will do. The wickets should be sunk into the ground 6 or 8 inches and should be twice the width of the ball. Mallets are made of boxwood with heads 7 or 7 1/2 inches long and

by Gilbert Bengley

Avoid "Forlorn" Gardens

A GARDEN loses its charm when it is neglected. A little attention at strategic times during the summer will keep your garden out of the "forlorn" class.

A bit of "tidying" is necessary with bulb flowers that have bloomed and drooped. If bulbs are to be left in the ground, remove the unsightly past prime stalks, leaving just enough stub so the bulbs can be located in the fall. If it is desired to remove the bulbs entirely, save them until fall in a dark place.

The beauty of the garden scene is enhanced, of course, if annuals are grown in the space left unused by removal or clipping of bulb flowers.

It is advised also to clip the tops of early-blooming perennials when they have begun to wilt. This is a good move not only because it keeps the garden neater, but because there is a chance of producing a second bloom from some flowers if the first is just past its prime. This applies particularly to Delphinium, Sweet William, Perennial Dianthus and Pyrethrum.

In almost all cases, annuals bloom more abundantly if they are picked regularly. Continuation of bloom adds much, of course, to the charm of the garden; and if one picks regularly he can keep the plants free of dead foliage.

Later in the season the gardener may wish to keep annuals well picked to prevent reseeding. In certain localities certain annuals tend to mature seed, drop it, and produce an unwanted profusion of seedlings the following spring. The gardener should ascertain which annuals are likely to reseed in his territory. It will be desirable in the fall, when perennials have lost their beauty as foliage, to cut them to the ground.

Throughout the summer, regular weeding will be necessary, naturally. The last stroke of the season, in maintaining a good-looking garden, is to mulch perennials and bulbs neatly, after the ground has frozen solidly.

New Miracles Of The Photoelectric Cell

By James D. Purdy
Director, Schools of Electrical Engineering, International Correspondence Schools

ASTRONOMERS at the Washburn Observatory, Wisconsin, are testing the use of a photoelectric cell as an automatic guide for the observatory's giant telescope, thus relieving them of the onerous task of keeping the telescope trained on a particular star during the hours required to take a photograph. The light of the guide star is divided into two beams of equal brightness which are directed onto the light-sensitive surface of the photoelectric cell. If the telescope wavers in any degree from the proper position one beam becomes brighter than the other. This variation in brightness resulting in an electric pressure in the cell, starts a motor which swings the telescope back into position.

A photoelectric cell device has been developed for use at dangerous highway intersections and curves to check motorists who drive at excessive speeds. Two "electric eyes" set half a mile apart and connected with an automatic timer, measure the speed at which the car is traveling. If the speed is excessive the device flashes a signal ahead of the driver, warning him to slow down before the intersection or curve is reached.

Mrs. E. W. McKinney who has been ill for the past two weeks is much improved at this time.

The Perennial Imposter

The Pennsylvania State Police are requesting State health departments throughout the East and Middlewest to warn physicians and hospitals to be on guard against a new type of imposter operating in these sections.

His modus operandi is to call on a physician and discuss with him clinical pathology, about which he is apparently well informed. The following day he returns to the prospective victim and asks that he identify him at the local bank. In order that he cash a check to cover necessary repairs on his automobile. When the physician declines, as he usually does, to make identification on the ground that he does not really know the man, a bank book is produced showing a considerable balance in a well known banking institution elsewhere in the State. The check is then endorsed by the physician and cashed by the local bank. It promptly comes back with the notation that the marker is unknown at the bank on which the check is drawn and has no account there. The bank book is, of course, a forgery, and the physician is out the amount of the check.

Posing as a "clinical pathologist" this imposter seeks to victimize physicians by inducing them to endorse checks to cover repairs on the automobile in which he travels. The imposter is described as a man about 5 feet 9 inches tall, with dark brown, wavy, wiry hair; a high forehead, dark skin, light brown eyes, excellent white teeth and weighing about 170 pounds. When last reported, he was calling himself "Brown."

Physicians and hospitals throughout Kentucky are warned to be on the lookout for this imposter and promptly to report his presence, should he appear, to the proper authorities.

Lemon juice added to red fruits preserves their natural color and prevents them from turning an unattractive brownish tinge when candied or preserved.

THE PEOPLES CANDIDATE

Since my announcement appeared in this paper I have seen several thousand people who have volunteered their support to my candidacy for the office of Representative from the Rowan-Bath district.

I did not offer myself as a candidate at my own bidding, but at the request of hundreds of Democrats who urged me to make the race.

I AM IN IT TO STAY

My friends are my guidance. I am strictly the People's Candidate. If I am nominated and elected it is THEY I will serve. I am not tied. I am not bound by anything but right.

I have voted the Democratic ticket for 37 years. In that time I have never asked for an office until my friends prevailed on me to make this race.

I am now urging those friends to prove their loyalty, to prove that they are above and beyond price.

I am a free man, without ties that bind me, and I pledge you that if I am sent to Frankfort as your servant, I will as loyally serve the people on my district as it is possible to serve them.

A Vote For Me Is A Vote For An Uncontrolled Candidate.
