

Forest Service Officials Warn Against Ads.

Regulations Prohibit Signs Along U. S. Government Roads And Property

The Forest Service, through their department head, has issued a strict warning to advertisers and would be advertisers with regard to the posting of signs of any kind along the United States Forest trails and highways.

The Forest Service is particularly anxious to get this fact before the people as there have been numerous offenders, people who were unfamiliar with the law and regulations, and were more or less innocent offenders, but offenders none the less.

They warn that those who desire to erect signs or posters, will save themselves not only considerable embarrassment, but considerable expense as well, as if the signs are erected they will not only be torn down, and become a complete loss, but that they will also be subject to action, if the offense is continued or repeated.

POLITICAL POT BEGINS TO BOIL

Candidates Take Breathing Spell As They Prepare For Final Last Minute Drive

The political pot is beginning to simmer throughout Rowan county, as various and sundry candidates wind up their campaigns to influence the voters of the county. The period of watchful waiting seems to have arrived, the period when just around the corner is some candidate or other, with his eye on someone watchful to see who he talks to and later if possible to find out what he said, if not to find out, to imagine.

Actually thus far the present campaign, with one or two minor exceptions has been in which the candidates and their friends as well have refrained from mud-slinging of all sorts. There has been less of that type of campaigning in this present election than ever before.

Vogue Beauty Shoppe Installs New Wave Without Machine

No More Hot And Troublesome Machine To Irritate Customer. Says Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Jerry Smith, manager of the Vogue Beauty Parlor has installed some new equipment which is said to be the very latest thing in permanent waves. This new method, differs from the old in that it requires no machine. The wave is put in without the former inconvenience of sitting for several hours under a hot machine while the wave was put in.

The new machineless wave is an innovation that will draw customers. Mrs. Smith is assisted in her shop by Miss Katherine Daniels who just recently returned from the western part of the state where she has been operating a beauty shop.

New System Of Selecting Officials Proves Satisfactory

Election officers for the coming primary election will be selected on Friday of this week according to a statement from Sheriff Mort May, chairman of the Election Commission. Lists of prospects for Democratic election officers were submitted in an entirely different manner from the usual procedure. Heretofore the democratic County Chairman submitted the lists of men from the various precincts and from this list the officers were selected. In view of the fact that a brother of Lester Hodge, county chairman, is making the race for the nomination for county judge, Mr. Hodge, asked that the precinct committee men meet and submit lists of eight names from each precinct, and that the election commissioners select the officers from these lists. Two officers will be selected for service on election day in each precinct from these lists, the other two officers being selected by the Republican committee men and William Lane, The Democratic Commissioner is Jack Wilson.

Contrary to the usual disturbance created by the selection of election officers, the candidates seem to be agreed that the method being used in selecting them is the fairest that could be devised. Practically every candidate has seen and approved the list of names submitted by the precinct committees and women, and have agreed that election of officers selected from the lists would insure a fair and impartial election.

The list of names from the various precincts are: Morehead No. 1: Everett Fraley, Tennyson Redwine, Wm. Johnson, E. H. Hayes, Burns Johnson, Fern, Capt. Burdick, G. E. Dillon, Farmers No. 2: Alzie Raror, Bill McClain, Lem Pierce, Allie Sorrell, Allie Swin, J. E. Jones, Joe Messer, John Christian.

Church Of Christ To Be Dedicated At Clearfield

Services Postponed From Last Sunday Due To Rain: Will Be All Day Affair

Dedication services and the laying of the corner stone of the Church of Christ at Clearfield, which was set for last Sunday afternoon was postponed until the coming Friday afternoon on account of the rain. The services which include an all day celebration with a buffet dinner at noon will be held at the church grounds on Sunday, August 1.

Freshening services will be held Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock with Brother Harlan Murphey of West Liberty, Brother J. H. Walters and others in charge. At 1:30 p. m. the corner stone of the church will be laid with appropriate ceremonies.

Following the laying of the corner stone, memorial services honoring Sam Easterling, Mrs. Laura Wright and Aunt Joe Maxey will be held. Everybody is invited to come to the morning services, bring your basket dinner and remain throughout the day. Those in charge plan on making the day one of outstanding significance to members of the church.

The ceremony of the laying of the corner stone will be in charge of the Masonic Order.

Golden Text: "The Lord shall guide thee continually." Isa 58:11. The last plague has been brought upon Egypt. The Israelites are saved by the blood of the slain lamb on the door posts, and the whole body of Israel is now marching toward Canaan. Many experiences are to come which will require courage. Moses is the captain of this great band, and they have come forth depending fully upon him. But Moses, along with them, is walking by faith.

The nearest and most direct route from Goshen, in the Nile delta, to Canaan was that which lay along the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, but for the Israelites God knew this was not the safest course because it led through the land of the Philistines, a strong, warlike people. God knows the difficulties that lie in our pathway, and frequently has to turn us away from what seems to be the best way. The other way for Israel was longer way, and that is often true in God's choice for us.

Though God chose for them the longer, wilderness way, he did not let them go alone. He went before them in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. Had he not appeared to Moses in both these forms, God goes before us along the ways he chooses for us, even though they be long and dreary sometimes. We should always be willing to follow him in faith, knowing that he knows the best way.

According to the pledges they carried the bones of Joseph with them.

Soon Pharaoh pressed upon them with his great army. The people began to get scared and began to criticize Moses. "Have you sought us into the wilderness to die because there were no graves in Egypt?" they cried. "Did we not tell you to let us alone in serving Egypt as slaves, for it were better than to die here?" So, like most of us when danger presses upon us, we loose faith and become panic-stricken. Anybody can walk when there is no danger; only those who have faith can walk in spite of danger.

But God protected Israel. We see the van guard of Pharaoh's host came into sight behind Israel. God "moly moved down in the cloud between the two great throngs and, on-

With The Schools Of Rowan County

Written Each Week By MABEL ALFREY County Attendance Officer

This year the articles for the schools will be changed from that of last year. As each school is visited I hope to write about some kind of work I find there that the teachers and pupils are doing. In this way I hope to pass along new ideas from one teacher to another. This is part of the work in the attendance Department but I would like the work the children do in school rests the problem of attendance.

RURAL SCHOOLS STARTED

The rural schools of Rowan County opened the 19, of July with a very good enrollment. Others will enroll on Monday. It is advisable that all children enroll not later than the second week since starting off is a big event in the child's school year. A good start will almost insure a good ending. Parents are urged to send regular this year. The county as a whole is making a drive to have good attendance this year. It is the only way we can have good schools. Good attendance will have to be the result of the cooperation between the teacher, parents, attendance officer and superintendent. We can work together and make this a record year. The parents are again urged to take up any absence there must be in school with the teacher. Talk it over with her or talk it over with the attendance officer and perhaps problems can be solved and a record made clear. Last year there were about two hundred children in the county who were in school every day the entire year. People who read these lists each month or at the end of the year read much more than just the name of the child and the school. They can see in their mind the sacrifice the parents must have made, the cooperation they have given to the teacher, the interest they have in their child's future, the great responsibility of parents in giving the best they can to their children that they might be responsible for their own future. The parents should always notify the teacher if a child must be absent, because that absence is recorded in the office. It is kept on record. Shall we make a resolution that we will try to make this year a better year than last year, that we will do a little more sacrificing, show more interest in our schools, cooperate with the teacher and attendance officer, and stand back of our school, children and teachers in all their undertaking.

The following schools have had perfect attendance for the first week: Bradley School, Thelma Kissick, teacher. Seas Branch, Mrs. John Caudill, Primary teacher. Old House Creek, Bernice Lewis, teacher. Popular Grove, Ruby G. Brown, teacher. Slab Camp, Doris Penix, Teacher. Sand Gap, Virginia Vencille, teacher.

Pond Lick, Ileta Fryman, teacher. Clark School, Mrs. Lula Hogge, Mt. Hope School, Dorothy Ellis, teacher. Carey School, Mayme Myers, teacher. Carey School, Mayme Myers, teacher. Seas Branch, Mae Carter, upper grades.

CLEARFIELD SCHOOL

The teachers and children will be more comfortable during these hot summer days since a water cooler kept Pharaoh back. At the same time he told Moses: "Wherefore criest thou unto me? Speak to the children of Israel, that they go forward." He had told them to leave Egypt, wasn't that enough? So, according to God's instruction, making a dry path between two great walls of water, and "the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea."

Some of us get caught between Pharaoh's host and the Red Sea sometimes. If we only knew God, and would look to him in faith, we might stretch our hands out over our troubles and God would open the way. He has done it for many of his children. God asks you to travel a way which he refuses to keep open for you. Have faith, march er is being installed in every room. The teachers buy ice, only 5 cents worth every morning and ice cold water can be had all day. There is much work being done to make the rooms attractive such as varnishing the different articles in the making, bulletin boards, paintings, etc. A new kind of bulletin board I found in the first grade room was made from linoleum. Detention hall has been started. New shades have been bought for the windows. The fight is on here for a big year. One hundred and sixty have been enrolled with one hundred and fifty nine present on Monday.

DRY CREEK SCHOOL

An attendance race is on at Dry Creek. This being a two-room school, they decided to race against each other. Prizes are being offered to the room that wins. There seems to be much determination on the part of both teachers and children. There are 29 enrolled in the upper grades room and 41 in the lower grades. Weekly attendance charts are being used. Miss Thomas is using a set of books on visual education from which she is getting many new ideas.

AT BLUESTONE

Found just what I wanted at Bluestone. Perfect attendance. A two room school with 17 enrolled in the upper grades and 17 present. 40 and 40 present. Mr. Caudill and Miss Alfrey are planning for much improvement in the rooms. Their slogan is make the school hours pleasant and interesting and the attendance will take care of itself.

If you are vacationing in the mountains or near the water you will want at least one dress made of a new material known as texturelle. Just a bit warmer than cotton but cooler than wool, it's ideal for sudden cool evenings. A combina-

LIONEL BARRYMORE
At 26 He Was a Star; At 53 a Has-Been; At 57 the Greatest Actor in America

I was there that night in 1918 when Lionel Barrymore opened on Broadway as Milt Shanks in the Copperhead. It was a brilliant occasion, a triumph that made dramatic history. An excited audience leaped to its feet and cheered wildly and frantically through fifteen curtain calls.

Fifteen years later, I had a long talk with Lionel Barrymore in the Green Room at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's headquarters on Broadway. When he began talking about his struggles for recognition as an actor, I was astonished. "What? You? A Barrymore, with all the prestige and glamor of your family behind you—surely you never had to struggle!" I demanded.

He looked at me for a moment and, in his low rumbling voice, replied: "Why, there ain't no such animal as you're talking about. A famous name is often a handicap." The Barrymore kids had a strange and rather haphazard childhood. Their father, Maurice Barrymore, was one of the most charming and captivating men who ever made offstage history with his escapades.

He would spend his last nickel to buy an animal. He used to ship bears home—bears and monkeys and wild cats and a wide assortment of dogs. John and Lionel spent one summer in a farm house on Staten Island with so one for com-was ever discouraged before he made his come-back in Hollywood. He replied, "No, I've been up and down all my life. Lots of people said I was through; but I never thought much about it. I was always too darn busy to worry about my troubles."

The Negroes

A few weeks ago I visited a typical Southern plantation and had a chance to learn how the Negro employees were treated. There are thirty families employed the year round on this ten-thousand acre tract, with extra help at cotton-picking and harvest times. The head of each family is paid $30 a month. They get living quarters and fuel free, and all they want of the food-stuffs grown on the place. Most of the cabins have gardens and flocks of poultry. The Negroes have their own community center or "jook" where they have their dances and social affairs. In case of illness, they get free medical care.

How many Northern white workers, I wonder, have $30 a month left after paying rent, food and doctor's bills? Not many. In addition, the women and older children are given first chance on this plantation to earn extra money at picking time. The Negro foreman get $50 a month and better quarters. I was reminded of what Booker T. Washington, the great Negro educator, said to the men years ago. "The best friend of the Southern Negro is the Southern white man."

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Dakota Blue frowned thoughtfully. "Think you're shootin' close, Slim," he agreed. "There's been a wick bunch workin' for me for some time. An' the more I think 'bout 'em, the more shore I get that it's a good one. Funny, de- scribes that of all the spread- in these parts, the Circle L and the Dot H Dot are the only ones that have been mixed in trouble?"

Here yuh got railroaded on a frame-up. Mona's been losin' a lot of stock she can't afford to. Was I crooked an' wantin' to get my hands on these two spreads, like as not I'd use the same tactics to get hold of 'em.

"I always will thank that the real purpose of George Arthur an' that visit to yore daddy was to put the proposition up to him of sellin' But ole Barr blew up an' gave him the gun before he could get far.

Slim shrugged. "You'd be logic on what yuh say, Dakota. But yuh ain't nobody want the Circle L an' the Dot H Dot especially?"

"There's plenty of other good out- side in this neck of the woods."

"Don't savvy quite yet," admit- ted Dakota, "but I am to find out one of these days. An' when I do, I'll shore be in on the ground floor."

"I'll have somebody on my hip that'll shore take up."

Slim did not answer. He was staring off into the night towards the Dot H Dot. He stirred rest- lessly. "Damm! He snapped. "I wish Roy would be on me."

As if in answer to the wish, the low thump of joggin' hoofs sound- ed, and presently the pale shape of Slim's gray bronco showed through the darkness. Slim stood up with a sigh of relief. "Roy," he exclaimed. "Thank heavens."

"Roy it be," came the jaunty an- swer. "Slim yuh'll have to be that begin a new hat, begorra. This hat has got a hole 'bout it. But the seep who ruin it paid plenty my lad. He'll never need a hat agin hisself."

Roy reined in and dismounted. Slim caught him by the arm. "Yuh mean there was shootin' Roy?"

Roy laughed. "A little. Three shot," he exact. "Lad. When I left yuh, Slim, I eased along slow fer a time, givin' yuh a chance to get well on yore way. Then I struck straight for home, singin' with all yur lung power. I guess the liquid purity of my voice musta charmed most of them polecats hidin' along the trail, fer I got by all but the last one. He stopper, me with a gun pointed at the middle."

"I asked him polite-like what the hell he wanted an' what he meant by nothin' but a pore harmless coun- punch, who was after turnin' of his and with some. He called me a low-down, tricky sidewinder. So I thanked him like a real gentleman an' told him the same to him. He wanted to know what had become of yuh, Slim. I told him yuh'd de- cided to go home another way an' was safe in yore little downy by that time."

"Shore, that made him mad. He crossed pore ole Roy plumb outra- geous, but I wised after laughin' at him. Then he up an' shot at me. I saw it comin' an' ducked my head, at the same time throwin' my own gun. We shot almost together the second time, an' I got him. An' shore—yuh can believe me—I come away from there."

"Dyuh know who it was?" de- manded Dakota.

"I can't be positive, seein' as how he was masked. But shore he talked an' acted like that long legged fore- man, Rango Deale of the Hair- Diamond B."

"Yuh shore yuh rocked him off?"

"Well," drawled Roy, running his fingers through his hair. "If he ain't broke entirely, he's read bad bent. He folded up like a sack."

Dakota shrugged. "Looks like the lid's off," he grunted. Stony Sheard was right when he said hell was gonna pop in this range. Slim, lad, it's beginnin' to look like they won't pass up nothin' in gettin' yuh There's a hefty purpose behind all this an' I'm gonna find out what it is."

The next morning, not long after sunrise, Slim and Dakota Blue rode into Linnacle. Slim had confided to Dakota his plan of taking up the mortgage on Mona Hall's spread, at which a Dakota had shrugged.

"I know yore tank istance is plenty 'nough to cover the note," Slim, Dakota had observed. "But when George Arthur will deal with 'em, an is another proposition. Me, ain't think he will. I don't believe he wants five thousand dollars. What he wants is the Dot H Dot ranch."

Slim had avowed that he would tackle the lawyer just the same, so Dakota rode into town with him. The lawyer's office, a dusty, un- kept little cubby, three doors up from the Wild Horse Saloon, was still locked when they arrived. So Slim and Dakota went into the swamping out and fat Spud Dillon was yawning behind the bar, while poring over a tattered newspaper.

"Ho, gent's," hailed Spud. "What brings yuh to our fair city so early this fine mornin'?"

"Little business deal," answered Slim with a grin. "No, thanks; too early in the day for spiritous liquor. Spud," he added, as Dillon began setting out a bottle and glasses. "What's new?"

"Oh, nothin' in particular," grunt- ed Spud. "Ceptin' they're gonna open that government land along the Kickapoo River up north. The paper here says the final date of openin' ain't been quite decided on yet, but that ain't probably be the first of next month."

"Shore, there's gonna be a wild scramble over it. There's a lot of powerful good range up there an' humans are funny about free land. Go just as crazy over it as though it was gold. Here's a long article about it by George Arthur, Reckon if the editor of this newspaper up at Vas' knew Arthur like we folks know 'um, he'd never have printed it."

"Arthur claims it'll shore boom this range. Says a lot of cattlemen down in the Big Bend country are gonna pull stage an' bring their herds up through here to the new range. Understan' that sheep in- terests have got in just about lick- ed down in the Big Bend. Sounds good; but me, I don't take much stock in what George Arthur says. He kin lie faster'n a good hoss can run."

Slim nodded, rather absently. The proposed opening of the governmen- lands along the Kickapoo River had been a much discussed item for several years, that he knew of it was a subject that had grown cold to him. And besides, just now he was wondering what angle of ap- proach to use on George Arthur a- bout that mortgage.

Dakota Blue, however, with a sudden gleam in his eyes, pulled the paper to him and began reading it carefully. Slim rolled a cigarette, lit it, then went over to the pool table and began idly punching the balls about.

Learning To Spell

The old-fashioned "spelling bee" is being revived all over the coun- try. We hear them over the radio, as spelling teams representing dif- ferent schools, groups of stations compete with one another for medals or prizes. They furnish not only interesting entertainment, but have an educational value which is very high indeed.

Some years ago some educators with newfangled ideas got the no- tion that it was not necessary for children to learn to spell. Their idea took root, and many school systems all over the country ad- opted it. One result has been a crop of boys and girls starting out in business life who can't spell even ordinary words twice alike.

That is pretty poor equipment for a stenographer, for example. Even if her boss himself doesn't know how to spell, the folks who receive his letters may know and they will rate him and his business pretty low if his correspondence is full of misspelled words. And the boy who writes a letter asking for a job gets less attention than, per- haps, he deserves if his poor spell- ing indicates ignorance.

We ought to learn to spell our own language. Let's have more spelling bees.

Wages Increase

The average weekly wages of workers in American industries have increased by more than 16 percent in the past year, although the length of the average work week has been reduced by 15 per- cent, the National Industrial Con- ference Board reports. That means that the average hourly wage of industrial workers has gone up much more than the weekly wage. The weekly earnings of factory hands are now almost exactly where they were at the peak of the "boom" in 1929, while the number now employed in industry is higher than it was then.

This would mean real prosperity if the buying power of wages were as great as it was in 1929, and on that point the Board's report is equally optimistic. The "real" weekly wage, adjusted to actual living costs, is 12 percent above the 1929 average.

Some will attribute this improve- ment in the American worker's con- dition to politics. Personally I re- gard it as something which was in- evitable, which would have come about faster if there had been less political interference.

Riley-Rice Married
Announcements were received this week by friends here of the marriage of Miss Virginia Riley to Mr. Leroy Rice on Saturday at Lexington.

Mrs. Rice is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Riley and is well known in Morehead.

The following article was taken from the Lexington Herald:

The marriage of Miss Virginia Elizabeth Riley, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John Windsor Riley of Lexington and Morehead, to Mr. Frederick Leroy Rice, Jr., of Akron and Weston, Ohio, son of Mr. J. B. Rice, was quietly celebrated Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the bride's home, 1018 Fountains road.

Rev. Howard W. Whitaker, pastor of the First Methodist church, read the service before an altar improvised of garden flowers.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of dark brown marquisette trimmed in white. Her accessories were in white and she wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias.

Her only attendant, Miss Ralph W. Beach of Greenville, Ohio, was in brown and white flowered sheer with white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and baby's breath.

Mr. Beach was Mr. Rice's best man.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and studied law two and a half years following her graduation. She is member of Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority of which she was president, and of Phi Beta, music sorority. She was president of her junior class and of the Woman's Student Government Association, and was a member of the Glee Club and the Pitkin Club; and was a student at Fugazzi school of business.

Mr. Rice attended Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich., where he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi social fraternity. He is a graduate of Kent State College, Kent Ohio, where he was a member of the football team, and a member of Sigma Delta Gamma, honorary education fraternity. He is now connected with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Only members of the immediate families were present for the ceremony.

TRIPLET NEWS
By Hay Fraley

A minor accident happened last week on Tripplert when a Forest Service truck driven by a CCC boy, Joe McClurg, passed Martha Lawson near Hubert McDonald's home. The county road was narrowed where P. W. A. workers had piled stone on each side of the road for the purpose of building a stone culvert.

Miss Lawson on seeing the truck approach, stopped in the narrow part of the road while the truck was passing her. She stumbled over a stone and fell into the ditch. It was thought at first that the truck had knocked her into the ditch, but according to witnesses to the accident it was Miss Lawson's fault.

Miss Lawson's injuries were nothing more than a few scratches and bruises. It was lucky for her to fall the way she did instead of falling under the truck which would probably have been more serious.

The truck driver didn't know anything about the accident until returning on his way back to camp. Mr. McClurg is one of the most capable drivers that the camp has.

W. M. Eblains, a resident farmer of North Fork Tripplert has bought a new pick-up truck. His son Lawrence Eblains is making fine progress in learning to drive it. Mr. Eblains is very lucky for he has a truck and thinks it would be a great help if all farmers could own one.

Mr. Charlie Adams of Shelbyville, Ky., spent the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Adams.

New Faces Of '37 Is College Show

For Friday, July 30th the feature at the College will bring the inevitable, ludicrous, laugh provoking, Joe Penner accompanied by his outstanding comedians, Harriet Hilliard and Parkyakarkus in a screen producing comedy titled "New Faces of 1937." With a colorful cartoon, a travgele and a universal News Reel the program offers an excellent way to spend the Friday evening.

For Friday, August 6th another big hit starring Jack Oakie and Ann Sothern in "Super Sleuths," lower grades.

Cozy To Show Musical Drama

Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, the romantic team of "Hands Across the Table" and "A Princess Comes Across," are together again in "Swing High, Swing Low," a romance with music which opens Sunday and Monday at the Cozy Theatre.

"Swing High, Swing Low," is the story of night club life in Panama and New York. Miss Lombard plays the role of an entertainer in a Panama cabaret who makes a famous musician out of MacMurray who is very much on the loose in the canal port. This role gives Miss Lombard an opportunity to sing and dance, the first time she exhibits her talents in these fields and MacMurray plays the trumpet, also for the first time in pictures.

The cast also includes glamorous Dorothy Lamour, the beauty who captivated America in her first screen appearance, "The Jungle Princess." She plays the role of "the other woman," with whom MacMurray falls in love. Miss Lamour, who was famous as a radio singer before her entry into pictures, also sings and dances in "Swing High, Swing Low." Charles Butterworth, Jean Dixon, Harvey Stephens and other well-known feature players complete the cast.

Tides are caused by the attractive force of the sun and the moon. Waves some times rise as high as fifty feet in the Bay of Fundy.

We Want You
To Know
There's an "attractive force" in good work, well done at a fair price. One customer tells another and our business grows because of our policy of guaranteeing satisfaction on every service and repair job.
