Choice Of Officials To Conduct Primary Is Approved By All Candidates

Election commissioners met at the office of Sheriff Mort May on Friday morning of last week for the purpose of selecting the county election officers for the twenty precincts of the county. Since the list was made public, the election commissioners have received many compliments on the quality of the officials selected to conduct the election on Saturday of this week.

Drivers License Number Raised

Many Rush In At Last Minute To Meet Requirements Of Law. Save Trouble

Since the announcement last week that drivers licenses for 1938 must be purchased no later than the first of August, the office of Circuit Court Clerk, Joe McKinney, has been literally swamped with applicants for the new licenses. The license went on sale early in July, but as usual the drivers waited until the last minute before applying with the result that a few days waiting line at the door of Mr. McKinney's office extended far out into the hall.

Around The Corner

Saturday, August 7, 1937 is the day. It is the day when the hopes of some candidates will be required, the day when the hopes of others will be dashed. It is the day for which Kentuckians look forward with fear and longing, and a day when excitement, rumors and counter-rumors, charges and counter-charges fly thick and fast. It is a day when promises are kept or forgotten.

Ten years ago he injured his leg while playing baseball at the college. For several months he was under medical treatment and was finally forced to undergo several operations. Since that time he has been unable to get about and use the leg until a short time ago when it began to pain him considerably and investigate.

Wet-Dry Election Planned To Be Held In Two Precincts In Rowan County

A special election has been called for two precincts in Rowan County to settle the Wet-Dry issue in those precincts. The calling of the election in these precincts, after the county-wide election last year, came as a surprise move on the part of the dries in those precincts, as it was thought that the case was definitely decided for the entire county last December. However, County Judge Jennings asked an opinion of the Attorney General, who stated that according to a ruling of the Court of Appeals the election could be legally held in those precincts.

ABOLISH POVERTY

It will be a marvelous thing if the prediction made lately by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Works Progress Administrator, comes true. Mr. Hopkins said, in an address at Teachers College, New York:

"I expect to see the day, and it won't take more than 20 years, when the Government sees it that one-third of the population which is at present insufficiently clothed and fed will have a decent living standard. We have just made a beginning." He added that "it's going to cost plenty," and that the cost will "come out of the hides" of those earning more than the average incomes.

Everybody would like to see poverty abolished, but not everybody will agree that the way to do it is to take from the able to give to the less able. There is danger in reducing the competent to a state of near poverty. What would seem to be the safe way to bring about a more equitable distribution of wealth would be to produce more wealth. Instead of talking about "taking out of the hides" of some particular class for the benefit of another class, it would be wiser for men holding high places of public power to be talking about encouraging those who control the machinery of production to produce enough more commodities so that nobody would have to go without.

That is the process by which America has made its people—all of them—wealthier than the people of any other nation in all history.

Old Letter Valuable

Varied, and sometimes intensely interesting, are the data filed with the Kentucky Division of Public Division of Assistance, by persons seeking old age assistance. Old letters, copies of Bible records, old deeds, and other documents, are to be found in the files of the division at Frankfort, where they are carefully preserved for future reference.

A few weeks ago, an applicant for old age assistance submitted his papers and included therewith an old letter written during the closing days of the War Between the States in order to prove that he was past the age of 65 years. The old letter

Charity Students Working For Fair
The children in the Charity schools are much enthused over the Fair this year. The list is different than in former years and Mr. Croshway says he has never seen his children so pepped up over a Fair. Clay moulding is already under way. The clay is close to the school and mixed with water it is ready for use.

Attendance Good At Many Schools
The following schools have had good attendance for the past week. The enrollment is not quite complete, but it is hoped that it will be completed on Monday morning of this week.

- Lower Lick Fork 6 absent
- Upper Lick Fork 4
- Clark 10
- Glenwood 9
- Mt. Hope 3
- Old House Creek 1
- 5 No absences at McKenzie. Two weeks perfect attendance.

Upper Lick Fork Progressing

A new kind of number chart hangs in the school room. A window shade was bought and a small can yellowed with age, but still in an excellent state of preservation, was written by the applicant's mother, when he was but a small boy. It bears the date "May 17th, 1885" and that being 72 years ago, the applicant, because his mother then wrote of him as "little Joe," wanting to go to school, but not able to go because "he is too young," was able to convince the Division of Public Assistance that he was eligible to receive assistance, insofar as the age requirement is concerned.

The War between the States had just closed, when "little Joe's" mother wrote the letter. General Lee had surrendered his army to General Grant, and the writer of the letter gave a "Yurra for the Union," and opined that "the Union boys has captured Old Jeff Davis and lots of gold." Word of the assassination of President Lincoln had reached her, and she was "sorry to hear of the death of poor Old Abe."

It proved most fortunate for Joe, now old and badly in need of financial assistance, that 72 years ago his mother mentioned him in one of her letters, and that he had carefully preserved that letter through all the years. When he filed his application for old age assistance, he gave his age. He knew how old he was, but he had no bible or court records to prove it. Some of his friends and neighbors were satisfied that he was past the age of 65, and they were willing to make affidavits. Then Joe happened to find some old papers that he had in his possession, and in looking through them, he found the old letter his mother had written in 1865. There was the proof, conclusive enough for anybody, and so Joe got his application approved.

He is now numbered among the thousands of aged needy men and women in Kentucky who are receiving monthly assistance from the Division of Public Assistance.

Just as an old letter proved valuable in Joe's case, so some old document, still preserved among family papers but forgotten for the moment, may prove a boon to some person seeking old age assistance, but unable to submit proof of age. All aged needy persons past the age of 65, and those nearing that age, who contemplate asking for State aid, will do well to look to their old family papers, perchance there to find some document that will settle some point in doubt when their application is considered by the Public Assistance Division.

To prevent and control fire, a long succession of corrective steps must be taken. Proper parking control is one of the most important of these steps. An adequate, strictly enforced law may save a community great loss.

of white paint. The different numbers for recognition were painted on this shade. The shade was fastened on the wall and could be rolled up when not in use. This makes a very practical number chart and very handy.

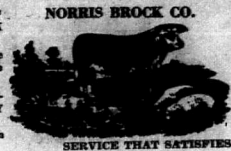

Mt. Hope Has Match
A contest in attendance is beginning in the Mt. Hope School. The children chose like they used to in the spelling matches, but in place of choosing the best speller, the child who came regular was chosen first. The teams have been the Blues and the Reds and the children are insisting that their classmates come. A picnic will be given by the losing side.

HAS FINE ROOM
To visit the Clark school is to visit one of the best two room buildings in the county. It is new, has many windows with flower boxes, set in a beautiful setting. Flowers are being planted about the ground. All are interested in the building, it is their pride.

Teachers Contest Being Held

All of the teachers in the County are now entering a contest for the highest attendance. The Schools have been divided into two divisions. The Midland Trail is the dividing line. Those on one side of the Trail racing against those on the other side. The contest will last four months and the next one three months. A prize is being offered the teacher who has the highest percentage of attendance the first four months. The losing side has agreed to give a dinner to the winning side.

Democratic Candidate For COUNTY COURT CLERK

will appreciate your vote and support in his race for above office, and asks the voters of Rowan county to investigate and consider his qualifications and past record as a man and Democrat, which are unquestioned by any one.

Mike has never asked for or held a public office of any kind before and if nominated will add strength to ticket in November General Election.

A Final Appeal

During the past few weeks I have been handicapped in seeing the voters of the county by the fact that I have been crippled with rheumatism and have been unable to canvass the county as I had planned.

I wish to say to the voters whom I have been unable to see, that I am a poor man and that I am making the race because I need it.

nominated and elected, I shall select my deputies, but am making the race for Sheriff strictly alone and without the aid of any assistants. If I am nominated and elected, I shall select my deputies after the November election and shall select them on their merits and not because of political promise.

I have no promises to make to any one, other than that I will serve the people faithfully and look after the duties of my office continuously and well.

I will appreciate your vote and influence at the polls on Saturday.

changes the status, but if the county votes wet, then these precincts and subdivisions can take a vote without awaiting the three years, provided these precincts and subdivisions can take a vote without awaiting the three years, provided these precincts have not theretofore voted within three years.

In view of this opinion, Judge Jennings has set the date on which the election will be held as October 2. On that date the two precincts, Haldeman No. 8 and Hayes No. 16 will try it out again as to which side will win.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Kane, Pastor of Baptist Church.
Written each week by Rev. B. H. Kane.
Subject: God feeds a people.
Exodus 16:11-20: 17:3-6.
Golden Text: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father." James 1:17.

This week we find God leading on. The children of Israel have come through the Red sea, and Pharaoh has lost an army in the sea. But the enemy of force is not the only enemy. They are traveling through a dry and barren country, avoiding warfare with a strong military people. Thus the way leads to hunger and thirst. Just as soon as the supplies began to diminish the Israelites began to cry out, complaining and murmuring. "This Moses has brought us out here in the wilderness to starve. It would have been better to live on the flesh pots of Egypt." There are always those who have so little faith in God as to turn to the slop buckets of sin for a good time rather than to feed on the heavenly manna. Some people think that God can't supply any joys that are as good as the joys of sin. So many people never tried his manna that few people know anything about the joys of being a real Christian.

But God is long-suffering, tender in mercy. Even when we whimper and cry like children about what we have had to give up to be a child of God, he graciously feeds us and makes us enjoy his undeserved love. So he sent the quails up around the camp of Israel to feed the hungry tribe.

Manna is a type of Christ, simple fare, but genuine and life giving. Then they grew thirsty; their cattle and flocks began to be thirsty. Without willing to see God's gracious provision, they began to complain that Moses had brought them out there to die of thirst. Oh, the mighty patience of God! How he does have to put up with our murmuring!

They were about to stone Moses, and he cried out, "What shall I do to this people?" The Lord told him to take the elders of Israel, and the rod with which he smote the river before, and go on before the children of Israel. He went, as the Lord directed, to the rock in Horeb, and with the rod he smote the rock, out of which came an abundance of water.

Again the children of Israel were made to see, to their shame, the uselessness of their complaining, and the mighty hand of God in their behalf. Those who have trusted God to lead them through this wilderness of sin need not fear that he will ever desert them. Like David we may say, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me." There are many tests along the way, but they are all for the purpose of increasing our faith. Jesus has walked in all the paths of sorrow, want and woe. We need not fear if we trust Him.

Closing The Campaign

I am closing my campaign for the nomination on the Democratic ticket for the office of Coroner with this final statement.

As I did not announce for the office until late, it has been impossible for me to see and talk with all the Democrats of the county as I would have liked.

In practically every county in Kentucky a man qualified for the office is serving as Coroner of the county. This is either an undertaker or doctor. I am asking that Rowan county consider that I am the only qualified man who is running for the office on either ticket. It is important that when a case is turned over to the coroner he be qualified to testify in court as to his findings. Only a qualified man can make a proper affidavit or prove a proper witness in such cases.

I will appreciate your investigating my record and my qualifications and ask you respectfully to give me your vote and influence.

JOHN N. FERGUSON

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR

CORONER

To The Republican Voters

As the campaign draws to a close, I wish again to invite your investigation into my record as a Republican and as an officer. I have tried to visit the Republican votes of the county during the past few weeks, but due to sickness in my family and the necessity for work, it has been impossible for me to get around to all of you.

I believe that you are all familiar with my qualifications for the office of County Judge which I seek. I am willing to rest my case in your hands with the belief that you will select the man best qualified for the office and the man who will add strength to the Republican ticket in November.

I will sincerely appreciate your support and your influence.

REPRESENTATIVE
BATH AND ROWAN COUNTIES

THE LAST MINUTE

The last minute in which the voters of Rowan county will make up their minds as to which candidate to support will soon arrive and I wish to make a final statement to them at this time.

During the past six weeks, I have campaigned the county and visited the voters for the purpose of laying my case before them. I have received a great deal of encouragement for which I wish to thank the people.

I am qualified for the office and if I am nominated and elected I have but one promise to make, that I will serve them faithfully and fairly and that they may all be assured of a fair and just assessment while I am their Tax Commissioner.

I will appreciate your support and influence.

JOHN BUTCHER

Candidate For

COUNTY COURT CLERK

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS:

I am making the race for County Court Clerk solely on my record of four years as your servant in that office, and I feel that the voters of the county will consider well in selecting a candidate for this important office.

During the four years I served you in that office, I tried diligently and faithfully to give every citizen of this county who had dealings with the office, the best and most efficient service possible. I am willing to leave the decision in their hands. If they feel that I did serve them well, I will appreciate their support and influence on Saturday, August 7.

I have no word but words of praise for my opponents. I am making this race strictly on my record and on my own merits. If you the voters, can see your way clear to cast your vote for me, I can assure you of the same efficient service in the next four years that were rendered from 1930 to 1934.

Leaped Guns

by Perry Westbrook

Presently came the thud of hoofs and a lone puncher rode down the street, stopping before Jigger Starbuck's office. He dismounted, and went in, to reappear about five minutes later and cross to the saloon. He was a diminutive, shriveled-up crooked-legged fellow, with a pair of flaring mat-wig chaps so enormous as to make him appear almost square. He had a pair of beady, button, black eyes, set in a wrinkled, mahogany brown visage. Half hidden by the flare of his chaps, a pair of big black Cold Guns dragged at his waist.

As the newcomer stepped into the room, Dakota Blue turned to half face him, his eyes wary, his right hand dropped until his thumb was hooked in his belt. The newcomer grinned crookedly.

Go on with your readin' Blue," he remarked in a thin, whispery voice. "All I'm after is a shot of liquor, providin' Dillon will sell it to me. I understand he told your boss an' Leo that their money wasn't any good. How about it, Dillon? Does that apply to the Half Diamond B outfit?"

"Not if they mind their business, Cinder," growled Dillon. "What'll it be?"

"Burbon," announced the puncher, rocking up to the bar. "Blue, will yuh an' Loyale have one with me?"

Dakota shook his head. "Thanks same offer." He turned Spud down on the same offer.

Cinder Alton shrugged. "Okay! Lots of fellers don't care for liquor before noon, Me, I'm different. Any time I drink time with me." And again he smiled that crooked, twisted smile.

When Alton finished his drink he turned, leaning his shoulder against the bar, hooking a neglected and rusty cigarette. As he eyes rested steadily upon Slim, "Don't know where the Half Diamond B, I could pick up a new foreman," yuh, Loyale?" he asked. "We'll see, I'll be back," he said. "Naw," exploded Spud Dillon before Slim could answer. "Yur don't mean it's how it happen, Cinder?" "Stop it, a slug. It broke Rango's neck, cin as a whistle."

Dakota, smiling thinly. "That's tough. Some fellers seem' born to stop it. Yuh'd thought Deale would have learned that, long time ago."

"Yeah," agreed Alton. "Yuh would at that. How'd yuh get the hole in yore hat, Loyale?"

A subtle change came into Alton's voice at this question. It. His hands had dropped to his hips with the words and his eyes were hard as obsidian. Suddenly Slim knew he was looking straight into the eyes of death, but he did not quail. He squinted carefully along his cue, made the shot and dropped the six ball into a corner pocket. "Rango Deale put it there with a 45, Alton," he drawled. "It was rotten shootin'."

"Yeah," agreed Alton coldly. "It was. Me. I allus could out-shoot yuh. Rang'o Deale since I got in, ain't seen Rang'o Deale since I got in, An' he he said, pointedly, I ain't shot a gun either. Yuh notice I ain't even packin' any. Yet Cider Alton flitted his guns just now, with the intention of killin' me. I would have, too, except that Spud discouraged him."

"Now lemme tell yuh somethin' Starbuck. I got my eyes open at last. Certain folks railroaded the me for somethin' I never done. An' me, gettin' a parole they never figured on, arrivin' back home here they thought I would. For some reason they seem damned anxious to put me outa the way."

"Last night they tried it only it happened that Roy O'Brien was wearin' this hat an' ridin' my gray thinkin' it was me. When he found out it wasn't, he was so sore he took a shot at Roy, pluggin' a hole in my hat. Roy beat him to the next."

Slim's face had grown cold, and his eyes flinty. There was the set of unalterable decision about his lips. "I'm carryin' my guns all the time from now on, Starbuck. I'm carryin' 'em to use, savvy? No more do run around like a fool, unable to defend myself an' lettin' good men take over my scrap."

The first son-of-a-gun who makes a pass at his gun in front of me, I'm rockin' off. An' if yuh come after me for defendin' my own life, I rock yuh off. To hell with yuh an' yore crooked law that works only one way! I'm through playin' the seat."

Dakota nodded quietly to this.

"Damn yuh!" he whispered. "Yuh killed Rang'o—killed my pal. Did yuh think I'd let yuh get away with anythin' like that? Not by a jugful, I'll give yuh now, in about ten seconds, what yuh gave to him."

Spud Dillon's voice broke in, a little thick and wheezy, but very determined. "What yore gonnas do, Cider, yuh poison whelp, is drop them guns, now!" And with the beginning of his words, Spud showed the going muzzle of a bulldog revolver against the back of Alton's neck.

The leer on Alton's face perished, a frozen grimace. His eyes flickered. "Yuh ain't got long," reminded a Spud.

Alton dropped his guns, shrugged and laughed. "I didn't think yuh and the nerve to butt in, Dillon," he observed, "knowin' all the time, o' course, that yore signin' yore death warrant."

Yore thinkin' is plumb outa order," observed Spud stupidly. "I now don't care worth a whoop. From now on, what I told Rang' an' Leo Brockwell goes for their whole damned outfit. None of yuh are wanted in this saloon. Next of yuh s'awed off shotgun. Now rattle yore hocks."

Again Alton shrugged, then sauntered to the door and out. Without stop he l. Yuh'd thought Deale would have learned that, long time ago."

"I wants keep 'em as souvenirs," souvenirs of the time fat, ole Spud Dillon got the best of one of the wickedest gun-slingers in this neck of the woods."

Dakota nodded gravely and was about to pick the weapons up, when Jigger Starbuck stepped into the place. His cold eyes flickered a round and saw Alton's gunner.

"Yuh fellers seem to be rushin' the Half Diamond B boys around here pretty heavy," he observed. "What's this I hear about yuh pluggin' Rang'o Deale last night, Loyale?"

"News to me," answered Slim. "I ain't seen Rang'o Deale since I got in, An' he he said, pointedly, I ain't shot a gun either. Yuh notice I ain't even packin' any. Yet Cider Alton flitted his guns just now, with the intention of killin' me. I would have, too, except that Spud discouraged him."

"Now lemme tell yuh somethin' Starbuck. I got my eyes open at last. Certain folks railroaded the me for somethin' I never done. An' me, gettin' a parole they never figured on, arrivin' back home here they thought I would. For some reason they seem damned anxious to put me outa the way."

"Last night they tried it only it happened that Roy O'Brien was wearin' this hat an' ridin' my gray thinkin' it was me. When he found out it wasn't, he was so sore he took a shot at Roy, pluggin' a hole in my hat. Roy beat him to the next."

Slim's face had grown cold, and his eyes flinty. There was the set of unalterable decision about his lips. "I'm carryin' my guns all the time from now on, Starbuck. I'm carryin' 'em to use, savvy? No more do run around like a fool, unable to defend myself an' lettin' good men take over my scrap."

Dakota nodded quietly to this.

Frozen Ices

We thrive on contrasts, it is said, and perhaps this quirk in human nature is responsible for the vogue of serving frozen ices with the meat course. But whatever the reason, the vogue is desirable.

Mint ice is a favorite with lamb because it is thought that the flavor of mint enhances that of lamb. It does, but try serving mint ice with ham, and you will agree that the combination is excellent.

A combination of orange and grapefruit juice with syrup and frozen is a real tempter with pork chops or a pork roast.

Frozen tomato juice seasoned with a dash of onion or lemon juice is ideal when served with roast beef.

The flavors of grape juice and ham go well together, so why not frozen grape juice served as a complement to baked ham? It is delicious.

Try serving lemon ice with roast pork. The tart flavor of the lemon enhances the tasty flavor of the pork remarkably.

Not supported by clique or class, but by the great mass of the common people. He is one of them, he knows their needs. He is of them and for them.

He stands for the people of this community and section. Their wants are his wants. He offers them his services as their Representative with but one promise to fulfill: To serve their need to the full extent of his ability.

Morehead State Teachers College

It is unnecessary to emphasize the fact that the Morehead State Teachers College and its interests will be his first interest. He realizes that this great institution is the heart of this section and it will be his great pleasure to look after the interests of OUR College diligently and faithfully.

The Laboring Man

Being a man accustomed to work, having made his own living by hard work, he is most certainly in favor of just and fair labor legislation. The laboring man will not suffer from any vote he may cast. He means to be fair to both laborer and employer, believing that a fair, square deal is all that either should ask.

A Life Long Democrat.

He has been a life long Democrat, and for 37 years has voted and worked in the interest of the Democratic party and its candidates. He has never before asked for an office at the hands of the people. He asks their consideration and support in this, his first race.

A FINAL APPEAL

To The Voters Of Rowan County:

As the campaign draws to a close I wish to make a final appeal to the voters of Rowan County. During the past two months since I made my announcement as a candidate for the nomination to the office of Representative from the Rowan-Bath District, I have tried to see all the people of the District personally, to lay my case before them.

I have not been able to see many of them owing to the short time. To those whom I have seen, I want to express my thanks for the consideration they have shown me. I sincerely appreciate their kindnesses and their courtesy. I believe I have made many friends and I am very happy.

To those whom I have been unable to see, I wish to say that I will appreciate your support in this, my first campaign.

I have made this race clean, strictly on my own merits and without any organized support, other than that of my loyal friends.

I am closing this campaign and my last word to you, the great American voter is this:

If you feel that you can honestly support me, if you feel that I will honestly and fairly represent you and your interests, if you believe that my interests are your interests and that you may safely entrust me with this office, then I will sincerely appreciate your support and influence in the coming Primary election.

VERY SINCERELY YOUR FRIEND,

LONNIE B. FLANNERY

A Continuous Tax Payer

For over forty years he has been one of the heaviest tax payers in Rowan county. His money has helped build the schools of this county, has helped maintain them. His money paid in taxes has helped to maintain the roads, the schools, the county government itself. Considering the fact that he is a heavy tax payer himself he is unquestionable qualified to consider the tax problems of the state from the viewpoint of the man of the street. He is qualified and he will tackle the problem of taxation with the common people in mind, keeping also in mind the needs of government itself. In other words he believes that the tax needs of state must be met, but they must be met by means that will not throw the burden on those who are not able to bear them.

For four years from 1930-1934 I served you as your sheriff. I again a candidate and I am asking your support strictly on my record of service. During those four years my office was always at your service day and night. No call went unanswered. No warrant went unserved. Taxes were collected. I am asking you to endorse that record at this time. I was at your service then and I will be at your service now. I expect, if nominated and elected to continue that record for another four years.

Qualified

I feel that I am thoroughly qualified to fill the office both from education and through experience. I am not as has been intimated, a rich man, neither am I asking for sympathy.

Merit Wins

If you, the voters of this county feel after considering my record of service, that you can endorse that record; if you feel that I gave you the best service possible and the greatest protection possible, I respectfully ask that you give me your vote and endorsement on AUGUST 7, 1937.

A vote for me is a vote for service and faithfulness
