Historical Information: The library at Morehead State University dates back to the days when the college was a Normal School. The first documented library was that of school's principle in 1902, which had close to 1,000 books and noted as being accessible to students for research. The library was first located at Burgess Hall prior to its relocation to the new Administrative Building (Rader Hall) in 1926. The current library building was constructed in 1929 and named after Kentucky Senator Johnson Camden the following year. Two additions to the building were added, one in 1965 and the other in 1978. After the second addition the building was renamed Camden-Carroll Library in honor of Governor Julien Carroll.

Scope and Content: Collection consists of the meeting minutes of the Collection Development Committee of Camden-Carroll Library at Morehead State University from November of 1984 to February of 2003. Included with the collection are memorandums and other related records associated with the Collection Development Committee.
