Lee Clay Co. Signs Contract With Union Men

Enters Into Agreement To Return Men To Work: Accepts Seniority Demands

Announcement has been made recently that on September 14 a friendly agreement was reached between Local 486 United Brick and Clay Workers of America, located at Clearfield, Ky., and the management of the Lee Clay Products Company, whereby a new contract was entered into between the union and the company, that appears to be a satisfactory and complete settlement of the difficulties that have existed between the union and the company for over two years.

The contract for recognition of Local 486 as the sole bargaining agency between the company and the men, seniority rights without prejudice to those who have been out of employment during the period, check-off of all dues and assessments, the reinstatement of the former employees whom the company had refused to reinstate following the strike on June 7, 1935. The reinstatement of the miners who were laid off during the strike, the company changed operations of the mines. The agreement also provided that in the case of all men discharged since the strike, the cases shall be submitted to an arbitrator, whose decision after hearing the evidence will be final. In case the arbitrator finds the men were discharged unfairly, the company agrees to reinstate them without condition.

The contract is regarded as the best that has been entered into between a company and a union in this section, and the union is expressing itself as being four square behind the company in carrying on its work.

ROWAN COUNTY HAS CHILD MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED HERE

Unless something unexpected occurs before the opening of the October term of the Rowan Circuit Court on October 4, the session will probably be one of the lightest ever held in this county, according to Circuit Court Clerk, Joe McKinney who has just completed the docket. No murder cases are listed and only a comparatively few minor felonies and misdemeanors are scheduled for trial at this term. Of course the grand jury which will be in session at the same time, may return some indictments, but they are expected to be of minor importance.

Dr. Jamison Seriously Ill At Home Here

Dr. Joe Jamison, Morehead's oldest resident, and only living Civil War veteran in Rowan county, was seriously ill the first of the week. He has not shown any great amount of improvement in the past few days and his friends are seriously alarmed at his condition.

Dr. Jamison is 93 years old, and has up until recently been active about the city.

Telephone Exchange To Be Moved Monday

Morehead Goes Back To "Horse And Bugzy" Days For About Seven Hours

The local office of the Home Telephone Company will be moved from its present location in the Consolidated Hardware Company Building on Main Street to its new and more commodious location in the new George Magill building opposite the Masonic Hall, on Monday of next week.

The moving will start about 10:30 p. m. and will require, according to O. P. Carr, local manager, about 7 hours. During that period the telephone service will be entirely cut off, said Mr. Carr, and he asks that the subscribers bear with the company while they are doing this moving.

So for seven hours or so on Monday, those telephone users who have taken comforts from conversation for granted, will be able to find out what it means to return to the "Horse and Bugzy" days, when telephones were not known and when a message had to be delivered by what was commonly called "shank's mares" in those Gay Ninety Days.

Court Docket For Light Term

Only Few Cases Of Minor Interest Are Docketed To Come To Trial In Session

Unless something unexpected occurs before the opening of the October term of the Rowan Circuit Court on October 4, the session will probably be one of the lightest ever held in this county, according to Circuit Court Clerk, Joe McKinney who has just completed the docket. No murder cases are listed and only a comparatively few minor felonies and misdemeanors are scheduled for trial at this term. News To Move To New Location Soon

Has Obtained Room On Bishop Ave. And Will Move To New Home Oct. First

The Rowan County News is planning on moving its shop to a new location on Bishop Avenue. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupancy about October 1, and the shop will be moved immediately thereafter.

The News has been located in its present site for the past seven years, and has thoroughly enjoyed its association with Mr. J. A. Allen who owns the building. It is only because the News needed larger and more commodious quarters to accommodate the increased and improved equipment that is being installed that we have decided to take this step. Mr. Allen plans on either selling the building or leasing it to a store of some type.

Three Houses Burned In Two Fires In West Morehead Flat

Vacant House Destroyed Monday. Two Homes On Friday Afternoon In Suburb

Disastrous fires in West Morehead took a toll of three houses last week. The first was discovered early Tuesday morning and the house was almost completely destroyed by the time the Morehead fire department arrived. Lack of fire hydrants and water supply in that section prevented the firemen from doing any effective work. The house was vacant at the time of the fire and the cause is unknown. The house belonged to Ollie Eassey.

On Friday afternoon about five o'clock, the second blaze was reported in the same neighborhood, in this case in the home of Mrs. Andy Alderman. The alarm was sounded, but before the fire department arrived the flames had spread to the house occupied by Rubie Conley and her family and Mrs. Shack Steel. The firemen were again up against the same proposition of lack of water supply and were unable to save the houses. Practically their entire contents were destroyed.

Only the valiant efforts of the fire department who with well water and chemicals, protected the home of L. C. McGuire, saved it from destruction. The McGuire home was directly across the street from the two houses destroyed and was in direct line of the flames and cinders.

Arrangements Made To Give Tinted Photos With Each Subscription To Paper

Recently the News mailed to a number of their out-of-town subscribers statements that their subscriptions had expired. Many of them have responded to the notice and have sent their checks to cover the subscription price.

Unless remittances are received within the next week, those who have failed to pay will be taken from the mailing list.

The News has made an unusual connection recently which enables them to offer their subscribers a beautiful enlarged photograph in color, valued at $2.00, for a nominal sum, when accompanied by the price of a subscription to the News. These photographs of which we have a number of samples on display, are well worth the price, and we will be glad to show them to you and explain the offer. Drop in and see them. Local Post Office Box Rent Raised Because Of More Revenue

Increase Of 25 Percent In Box Rent Due To Increase Post Office, But To Increase

According to announcements from the Post Office Department, box rent will be increased at once. The increase has nothing to do with the new post office building which will soon be occupied. It comes of an entirely different cause.

Box rents are based on postal receipts and the class of post office in the city.

The increase indicates that the postal receipts of the Morehead post office have shown a decided increase and because of this increase in business it is necessary to increase the box rent. The (Continued On Page Five)

Eagles Make Headline In New York Article

Gains National Recognition As Result Of Sensational Win Over Cincinnati

Did Morehead make headlines? Well, say the die.

Speaking about attaining national publicity, the Morehead Eagles gained just that by their victory over the Cincinnati University Bearcats last Saturday night. Bruce Dudley of the Courier-Journal was in the city Monday talking pictures of the high flying Eagles. The Huntington Herald Dispatch phoned for a full set of mats of the players on the team.

But just to show that New York is not so far away, a story appeared in the Courier-Journal of Tuesday, under a New York headline, written by one of the sports writers of national fame, in which the Eagles were given prominent mention among the football teams of note. It was just a brief line, mentioning that one of the major "upsets" of the season was the defeat of the Cincinnati University by the Morehead, Ky., State Teachers College. But brief as it was, it was honorable mention among the king pins of the game.

Former Local Woman Killed In Car Wreck

Mrs. Alma Gregory Elvy Dies As Result Of Automobile Wreck; Former Resident

A message received by Mrs. Noah Hall on Sunday morning announced the death of her niece Mrs. Alma Gregory Elvy of Shelby, Ohio and her daughter, Lorene, aged 14 years, as the result of an automobile wreck that had occurred that morning. According to the message Mrs. Elvy and her husband, Earl Elvy together with their daughter were in the car, which Mr. Elvy was driving. As they reached a crossroads a car hurtled out striking the Elvy car and hurling it to the ditch. Mrs. Elvy was instantly killed, while her daughter lived for three hours.

Mrs. Elvy was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Gregory and a former resident of this county. She survived by her husband, Dr. Earl Elvy, Shelby, Ohio, by her father Taylor Gregory, by two brothers, Allen and Cecil Gregory and by two sisters, Nora and Caroline. Mrs. Gregory and children left immediately receiving the message for Shelby, Ohio.

Mother Of W. C. Hamilton Dies Of Fall

Had Suffered Injury In Fall Which Caused Her Death: Mother Of W. C. Hamilton

Mrs. Mary Frances Hamilton of Mt. Sterling died at the home of her son, W. C. Hamilton in that city on Saturday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Hamilton's death was the result of injuries sustained ten weeks previously, in a fall at her home. At that time she fell down the stairs breaking her hip from the results of which she failed to recover.

Mrs. Hamilton was at the time of her death aged 87 years, and was one of the oldest residents of Montgomery county.

She is survived by three sons, W. C. Hamilton, Commonwealth Attorney, Dr. S. F. Hamilton and James R. Hamilton, all of Mt. Sterling, and by one daughter, Mrs. Fred Ruffalo of Montgomery county.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Brookes and Rev. Otus Hamilton at the home of her son, W. C. Hamilton on Monday morning with burial in Macphellan Cemetery.

COLLEGE OPENS WITH ENROLLMENT OF 413 AT FALL SEMESTER

The fall semester of the Morehead State Teachers College opened on Monday of this week, with the enrollment showing a slight increase of that of the corresponding semester of last year. At noon on Wednesday the total enrollment had reached 413 students in the college department, including over 300 enrolled in the Training School department.

In addition to this there were 50 students enrolled for Saturday classes, but the total college enrollment up to date at 463. The enrollment period will close on October 12. A number of late enrollments are expected to increase the total to a number considerably in excess of that of last year.

Jury Lists Are Selected Here

Grand Jury And Two Petit Juries To Be Selected From Lists For October Term

Jury lists from which the Juries for the October term of the Rowan Circuit Court will be selected have been released. There is one outstanding feature of the lists that has drawn considerable comment. That is the unusually large number of women whose names have been drawn for jury service. While women have been permitted to serve on juries for a number of years, they are not required to serve by most judges. In many counties of the state they refuse to serve and courteously cause the judge to release them where they do not wish to serve.

In Rowan county however, there are often women jurors and they usually make very good officials. In the list published below there are seven women whose names have been drawn for jury service. The lists follow:

GRAND JURORS

Health Department Asks Cooperation Of Officials After Report Of Disease

The dread poliomyelitis, the disease commonly known as infantile paralysis, has reached Rowan county, according to reports from the Lexington Health Department which notified Dr. T. A. E. Evans that the seven year old daughter of David Kidd, who was taken to a Lexington hospital last week and who died there shortly after, was suffering from the dreadful malady. The Cox child, who died, was attending at the time she was stricken has been closed and the Rowan County Fair which was scheduled to open on Friday of this week has been postponed for two weeks, awaiting developments. The fair will be held according to present plans on October 8 and 9, unless there are unsatisfactory developments in the meantime.

The Kidd child was brought to Morehead last week and was immediately sent on to Lexington for examination and treatment. There it was discovered, according to reports from the Health Department, that she was suffering from infantile paralysis. Following her death the remains were brought home for burial and public funeral services were held at the grave, with the coffin opened, to the disgrace of the village. It is feared that the entire community was exposed to the disease, and it was for that reason that the school was closed for a week, and the improvement of not permitting the disease to spread, as it may do especially in gatherings such as the fair would have brought together this week. It was decided at a meeting of the fair board on Tuesday night to postpone the event at least until some definite word was known. The fair would have brought together every school child in the county and it was felt that the welfare of those children was vastly more important than holding any fair or even that the continuance of the school.

Dr. T. A. E. Evans, consulted as to methods of procedure in the case offered the following suggestions to the citizens of Rowan county, which we publish in full. It is our belief that every citizen of Rowan county, whether living in the neighborhood in which the first case has appeared or not should exercise every possible precaution to prevent the spread of the disease. Dr. Evans statement follows:

Owing to a misunderstanding at this time with regard to Poliomyelitis, (Infantile Paralysis) we feel that we should make a statement in regard to this disease. In one of our largest country schools such a case

Two Pie Suppers Are Great Success

Two successful pie suppers were held in this county last Saturday night, when the Bluestone Sains Church held a pie and box supper at the Bluestone school house and the patrons and school at Elliottville held one at the Elliottville school house.

Bluestone Supper Nets Sum Of $100; Elliottville Has $50.00 Revenue

The Bluestone supper, proceeds of which are to be used in building a new church house at that place was one of the most successful ever held in the county. It netted the church the sum of $100.00. This amount will be added to the sum already raised and will be used when the work of erecting the church is started. The church members are planning a number of other events by which they expect to raise funds in the near future and the sum of $50.00 was realized from the Elliottville pie supper which will be used to purchase new and needed equipment for the Elliottville school. Miss Thelma Allen is principal of the school.

Eagles Follow In David's Footsteps

History repeats itself. About four thousand years or so ago, Little David, with nothing but a prayer and a slingshot went up against a certain giant with disastrous results to the giant, said giant being named Goliath.

Last Saturday night, the Morehead Eagles repeated the dose David gave Goliath except that their victims were the mighty and poud Bearcats of the University of Cincinnati. The lovely Eagles trampled the proud Bearcats in the dust of Nipper stadium before a lusty crowd of 1,500 spectators. The Eagles won the first football encounter of the season by the score of 7 to 0, thus furnishing one of the most notable upsets of the season by defeating a team that was nationally rated as several touchdowns better than the team from Morehead. Before the game, Morehead was conceded no chance. To every one regarding the local crowd, the boys from Morehead were figured as underdogs by at least three touchdowns, and the local fans would have been delighted to take the scores, 0-0 at the end of the half and called it a day, and a very satisfactory day at that. That statement is true, of every body except the team and Lester Hogge's Bobby. The team had faith in themselves and proceeded to justify it. They simply proved themselves superior to the crowd and to the team they went up against.

The Cincinnati crowd was stunned. What started out as a wave of sympathy for the underdogs turned into a silent prayer to help the big boys from Cincinnati. The crowd was undoubtedly with Morehead at the start. Cincinnati fans, while confidently expecting victory, hoped the score would be reasonable. They did not want their team to pile up the score on the lovely players, the "Bill Billies" from the Mountains of Kentucky. Their wish was certainly gratified. And how! The Eagles victory should not be discounted. It was not a fluke. It was not an accident. It was a victory won by out-smarting, out-playing, out-fighting and out-gaming a heavier team, a team that lacked (Continued On Page Six)

A WELCOME TO AUTUMN

Over most of the United States the Autumn season, on which we are now entering, is the pleasantest season of the whole year. Nothing like the North American Autumn is known to the people of Europe.

For country folk in the north, especially, Autumn is the best season of all. The hard work of the farm is over, the crops have been harvested and stored or sold and there is a breathing-spell in which the farmer and his household can relax and "go visiting" or attend to a hundred things for which time could not be spared in Summer, perhaps take a long motor trip.

This is the best of all times of the year.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN They Came After Him With Guns And T. N. T.—But He Still Raises Easter Lilies

Who is the most powerful man in the world today? Mussolini? Stalin? Hitler? That, of course, is a matter of opinion. But one thing is certain. The most powerful man in the world of finance is J. Pierpont Morgan, Dictator of Wall Street, High Mogul of the world of stocks and bonds.

When asked, he is blunt to the point of indiscretion. In fact, he is outspoken he has been called the most un-diplomatic man in America.

Six feet tall, with two hundred pounds of dauntless physical courage, he is utterly without fear. For example one day a maniac forced his way into Morgan's house, whipped out a gun and threatened to shoot. Morgan might have dodged through a nearby door, but he didn't.

Suddenly there was a blinding sheet of saffron-gold light. Then a blast—a terrific explosion which rocked the mighty skyscrapers on their very foundations. A bomb had burst—a bomb loaded with a hundred pounds of T. N. T. A hail of deadly shrapnel swept the street.

And when the chaos was cleared away, all that remained of the horse and wagon that had brought the bomb was a bit of a wheel, two horseshoes, and a few nuts and bolts.

But Morgan, at whom all this was aimed, was in Europe at the time. He determined to capture them no matter what the cost.

Two armed detectives now keep constant vigil in front of the Morgan offices; and the roof of his low building is covered with heavy iron screening to protect it from bombs from neighboring skyscrapers.

In the inner sanctum of that solid unostentatious building stretch two rows of desks one behind the other, like seats in a school room.

No other private banking house in the history of the world has played so important a role in the feverish affairs of nations. Not even the Medicis of Florence or the Rothschilds of Europe have enjoyed such far-flung prestige.

J. P. Morgan is as much at home in the pea-soup fog of London as he is in the roan and soot of New York. For years, while his father was living, he was head of the English branch of Morgan & Co., and when he came back to Wall Street, he introduced the English custom of offering tea in the afternoon.

He is one of the greatest pillars of the Episcopal Church in America, yet he corresponds regularly with Pope Plus XI in Rome. And when he visits the Vatican, he and the Pope sit for hours discussing—what do you suppose? Rare manuscripts written in Coptic, the medieval language of Egypt.

A Real Spree For Jane Withers, T. N. T.

Trouble comes double when little Miss Dynamite comes to town and a fifth of a million dollars.

J. P. Morgan is famous for his knowledge of Shakespeare and the Bible, yet he dearly loves to settle down to a good detective story even as you and I.

He adored his wife, and since her death in 1925, he has kept her room exactly as she left it. She succeeded to that mysterious disease known as sleeping sickness, and all of Morgan's millions were powerless to save the woman he loved.

Extremely fond of flowers, she belonged to a garden club which required its members to cultivate a garden with their own hands. And even today, J. P. Morgan—one of the world's richest men—puts on his overalls and hoses the weeds and ties up the vines in the garden which once belonged to his wife.

laughs come thick and fast when her latest escapades as an amateur detective make front-page news in "Angel's Holiday," Twentieth Century Fox comedy starring Miss Jane Withers, T. N. T., which opens at the Cozy Theatre on Friday.

With a gleam in her eye "Ginger" takes a day off, teaching the neighbors how to put the "holier" in "holier" and routing a riot squad with its own tear gas in a grand free-for-all hilarity spree which, despite its torrent of mischief, works out well for the young lovers involved.

Confessedly in stitches all the time, Director James Tinling and Associate Producer John Stone themselves took holiday from button-bursting laughter at the completion of the film, acclaimed as the funniest of the Withers pictures.

The climax, it is, conservatively speaking, the ripariest rumpus in which the harum-scarum half-pint of film dynamite has ever indulged.

"They tried to dry gulch yuh, Dakota. With yuh dad an' me in jail they could soon get their hooks into the Circle L. Then Arthur got that mortgage against the Dot H Dot. Now he's got 'n forclosure, or rather he thinks he is."

Man alive, that gang will be desperate, soon as Tisdale has his talk with Arthur. They'll be on us like a swarm of ants. But we know how to look for 'em 'why 'why I want yuh to do something for me. Ride to town an' tell Arthur that Mera has the money to pay her mortgage. Then kinda let it slip that I am gonna lend it to her. Will yuh do that?"

Sure I will, Slim. But I don't think Mera will take 'em from yuh. She said she couldn't, though darn me if I can see way. Wumen get fevry ideas."

Never mind whether she does or not. Just give Arthur the notion that she is. Yuh can ride in when Tisdale goes.

A half hour later, as Abe and Tisdale were about to leave, Slim made one last remark to Tisdale which caused that individual to wrinkle his brow in puzzlement. When yuh get through wantin' to wring Arthur's string neck, Tisdale, ride back out here for the night and we'll talk business.

As soon as the two were gone, Slim got hold of Roy O'Brien and Stoney Sheard. "I want yuh two to oil yore guns an' hid for towe, he explained. "An' I want yuh to mornow noon, keepin' yore eyes on the Standard Bank."

Just hang around sorta, like yuh was killing time an' loafin'. Watch that bank all the time. Yuh may have the chance to puncture a hold-up. If nothin happens by noon to-morrow, come in home again. Understand, I'm not shoppin about anythin', but I'm playin' a string hunch."

Shore, an' I've knowed hunches like that to run out before grained. They come along with yuh Stoney. Dakota Blue's brow was furrowed with thought as he watched the two purchasers jog away. That's one angle that I don't quite get, he drawled. What's the hatter, Slim. My money is in the Standard Bank, ain't it, explained Slim. Well, Arthur knows it an' so does the rest of that crew. The surest way to keep me from usin' that money to loan out on mortgages, like the Dot H Dot, is to grab the money off."

"Don't yuh see that Brockwell an' Arthur have gone too far by this time to back down. They either stand to win big or lose everything. I'll bet yuh anything' yuh want, Roy and Stoney will have work to do."

When Steve Owens and Charley Quinn came jogging in from their work that evening, Slim met them at the corral. For the next few days I got a nice easy job lined up for the pair. But he told them, "Yore gonna have to do a lot of loafin' around. I want one of yuh to be on guard about the ranch here all the time, day an' night. Yuh can take turns, but I want the man on watch to have a winchester over his arm and be plumb wide awake."

What's in the air, Slim? yelled Steve Owens excitedly. A scrap?"

"Likely to be," was the answer. "If it comes, it'll be a hummer. So watch things close."

"An' how," chortled the irrepressible Steve. "We will, yuh know." Just at sunset Tisdale came riding up. His eyes were bleak and his lips were stern. Slim and Dakota met him as he dismounted. At the look on Tisdale's face Slim jabbed an elbow into Dakota's ribs. "I know he'd be foam'n," he murmured.

Tisdale wasted no time in expressing himself. As he swung to the ground he faced Slim and Dakota triumphantly. "I'm be demanded harshly," "how much range does that damn lawyer own around here, anyhow?"

Slim shrugged. "Not a yard of it that I know of."

"What? Don't he own any-a-tall?"

"Not a bit."

Tisdale looked plainly astonished. "That hombre must be plumb loco, he declared. "He gave me to understand that he controlled all this range for at least five miles, both ways from the mouth of Jericho Valley."

Then he lied, Tisdale. What he meant to say was that he hoped to control it by these yore birds start across it. Ah, how much perhaid was he gonna charge yuh in range toll for yore herds?"

"One round simoleon, exploded Tisdale. "Yes, air, one 'n' whole, one dollar per haid, yearlin's included. "What did yuh tell him?"

"I told him that he was a cross between a polecat an' a buzzard an' that he could go to blazes. I told him that we fellows comin' north to the Kicapoo range would pay a reasonable range toll, but notnin' like a dollar."

"I told him we'd fight our way through before we'd be robbed by anybody. Why, there's nigh onto thirty thousand haid of cattle moving up Jericho Valley right now—the combined herds of ten of us Big Bend ranchers. There'll be at least half that many more fallin' us that I know of."

That Jasper musta figured he was gonna clean up a fortune off us. He knows we can't afford to turn back now. If we did, we'd never be able to drive another route in time to get to the Kicapoo country when it's opened."

"An' that range up there ain't gonna last any too long. It's a plain case of gettin' there right away, or sot at all. But me, I can't understand him makin' such demands when he don't own none of this range."

Suppose we go in an' have supper, suggested Slim. I'll tell yuh the whole set-up while we eat."

Over the meal, Slim gave the big Bend man the entire story. Yuh see, he ended, Arthur ain't the rest of the polecats in with him were schemin' quite a long way ahead. They shore hoped to be in control of this range. Several things kinda upset their calculations. One of them was havin' yore herds arrive so early. Another was my gettin' outa jail on a parole."

With a little more luck they'd have won out, an' had yuh in a corner. Right now yore sors, Tisdale, over Arthur's demands. But yuh know as well as I do, that in the end yuh'd 'a paid that dollara-haid range toll, Am I right?"

Tisdale nodded ruefully. "Yeah, yore right, Loyale. We'd just plain have to, or lose everything. But evidently, from the way he talks that Arthur ain't given up hope yet of gettin' control of this range."

He hasn't, agreed Slim. The next forty-eight hours are gonna see hell-a-poppin', or I don't know my way about. I'm tryin' right now to spread my cyards to spoil his plans. Now then, just how much toll did yuh fellows figure yuh'd be willin' to pay an' call it a fair deal all around?"

DON'T BE A TEACHER

"Most parents," says Dr. R. A. Fraser, chief Medical Director of the N. Y. Life Insurance Co., "make a mistake in offering too much help with the child's homework. Don't try to be a teacher. The chances are you will be doing more harm than good. Methods of teaching have changed markedly in the past twenty years, in both elementary and high schools, and in all likelihood the parent will not understand what system is being used with his child and will attempt to explain the subject as it was taught to himself."

"The result is inevitable. Either the child is bewildered and unable to understand, or there is a clash of wills between parent and child over which method to use. Either way, the outcome is detrimental."

The wise parent, according to Dr. Fraser, gives a minimum of actual help, but backs up the classroom teacher and lends her all the moral support possible. A visit to the school will frequently result in parents having a much better understanding of what is being attempted and they can find out how yuh can be of greater help both to the teacher and the child.

Parents should have their children examined by a physician either before school starts or as soon thereafter as possible. Diptheria is not compulsory, is strongly advised for children starting school. Eyesight, hearing and teeth should be carefully checked by doctor and dentist.

Frequently parents will note certain signs indicative of defective hearing and eyesight, and in such cases a doctor should be consulted at once. If the child squints when reading, holds the book markedly close to his eyes or complains of headaches, there is a strong possibility of impaired vision. If the child seems inattentive and indifferent and make have remarks repeated before replying, his hearing should be tested.

Above all, see to it that school children get plenty of sleep. Not less than ten or eleven hours for the youngsters; not less than nine hours for the boys and girls in middle and later teens. Remember the old saying, that "every hour of sleep before midnight is worth two after twelve."

Mr. Wallis Says Funds Are Short

According to a statement made by Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Welfare, the number of persons applying for old age assistance under the Social Security Act in the state is amazing, and has surpassed the highest expectations of both the founders of the Act and of the State Legislature at the time the appropriation was made.

Already more than 72,000 formal applications have been received through the Old Age Assistance Division, of which those of over 40,000 persons have been granted, aggregating $465,000.00 monthly, it was stated.

Under the state set-up, the last Legislature appropriated $2,500,000.00 per annum. The Federal Government matched this amount, bringing the total grant up to $5,000,000.00. With the increasing applications exceeding the largest anticipations the combined figure will be far inadequate to meet the broadening demand.

In the light of the foregoing statement the Commissioner said he had been asked when the saturation point would be reached. All he would say was, that already the distribution was running in excess of the original appropriation of $5,000,000.00 and that exceeding care must be exercised in broadening the distribution.

However, it is believed, a $405,000.00 monthly distribution now being effected to more than 40,000 recipients scattered throughout every county in the state in an expression of humanitarianism never before experienced in the Commonwealth. In other words, Commissioner Wallis stated, the state is doing its part for its aged citizens in the fullest measure now possible.

IN THE HOME

September noons may be hot but many evenings are cool and most of us like a savory hot dish to serve with the good chilled foods we'll continue to enjoy until snow flies.

The best of these hot dishes are quick and easy to make and need only a salad, beverage and dessert to complete the meal. You can serve your beverage hot or iced as the weather demands. If you do this you'll discover that even on hot nights the savory dish is thoroughly relished.

Noodies, spaghetti, macaroni and rice are especially good to use in combination dishes. The dishes made with rice usually are baked for the entire cooking period while the noodle, macaroni and spaghetti mixtures are prepared separately and require but a short sojourn in the oven.

Accessories are an important fashion point this fall. Gloves, hats and shoes not only match in color but frequently are made of the same material. If these are the same color predominating in the whole costume, one must rely in a gay flower, hanki and compact to furnish the necessary note of contrast. Compacts in catlin, cork flowers and hankies in sheer fabrics from linen to chiffon are fascinating and make it possible to vary the color scheme at will.

Spinach With a Foreign Flavor

Italian with an American accent is the only way to describe this casserole of spinach and cheese topped with bacon cubes and crisp cornflake crumbs.

By Barbara B. Brooks

THERE is nothing that will give a man more monopoly as quickly as food with a foreign flavor. The dish itself need not be an authentic reproduction of some foreign culinary masterpiece. The ingredients in the original recipe may be too difficult to secure so far from their native clime.

An adaptation of a foreign dish, however, is not necessarily inferior. Perhaps it is the manner in which it is prepared or served. Take Italian spinach, for example. It is prepared with a rich cheese sauce and served from an oven proof casserole and is served in food elements that it makes a delightful as well as well-balanced main dish when meat is not served as the place does recommend. To give the dish added zest, it is served with a parsley salad.

Heat milk and cheese in top of double boiler, stirring until cheese is melted. Add seasonings. Drain spinach thoroughly and place in casserole. Over it pour the milk and cheese mixture. Crush corn flakes slightly, mix with dried onion, and sprinkle over mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Note: If fresh spinach is used, drain it with much amount of water.

In-Between Performance Refreshments

George Levinson, Jerome Winters and Donald Sharpe, popular young members of "Dead End" found themselves performing in refreshments.

THREE popular young members of Sidney Kingsley's hit drama, "Dead End" may frequently be found between performances indulging in refreshments prepared by Don Sharpe, youthful Hollywood star featured in the play. Fruit is often the mainstay of these quickly prepared refreshments, and canned Hawaiian pineapple cut in the now recognizable wedges is the latest acquisition to Don's list of favorite ready to serve fruits. These little gems of Hawaiian sun-ripened flavor are cut to fit the mouth, easy to eat and just the thing to quiet those in-between-performance-hunger pangs—three good reasons, according to Don for their popularity with himself as well as the other youthful members of the "Dead End." What's New in Radio?

By J. F. Witkowski, Principal, School of Radio, International Correspondence Schools, Associate Member, Institute of Radio Engineers

A new radio range system has been developed by United Air Lines to provide airplane pilots with positive identification of airport location. A local radio beam carrying identifying code signals intercepts the regular radio beam about 20 miles from the airport. The pilot follows the local beam until he is directly over the landing field. Voice transmission is not interfered with by the local beam.

In preparation for the proposed trans-Atlantic air service, a new radio station is being built at Rymanso, a seaplane base on the west coast of Ireland. The new station will be used to flash weather reports to the planes flying the route.

Photographs on Lake Michigan are aided in bringing their ships into the harbor at Lexington, Michigan, by checking the interval between the reception of a radio signal broadcast from the Lexington lighthouse and the sound of the foghorn sounded simultaneously at the lighthouse. Sound travels at a constant speed of approximately a fifth of a mile a second. The pilot knows the distance he hears the foghorn 10 seconds after the radio signal, he is two miles from the harbor.

Wooden casters, equipped with telephones and short-wave radios, are being used to direct traffic on California highways. Providing a wide range of view and quick communication with patrol cars and police centers, the casters are proving highly effective in preventing the snarling of traffic on congested routes.

Eagles Win

(Continued from page 5) Some of the things the Eagles had. It cannot be rated as an upset, except in the fact that it was unexpected.

It was slightly amusing to read some of the accounts of the game in the Cincinnati papers. It was a story they had not expected to have to write and one which reflected their rather stunned senses.

One article stated that the Cincinnati team had outgained Morehead in first downs and in yardage gained, adding, "if that is any satisfaction." That statement however did not explain the actual facts.

Morehead did not gain as much from scrimmage, but that did not have to. They took the smart route and used their superior punting game to more than offset the gains made from scrimmage by the line drives of Cincinnati. In other words, Morehead made their yardage the easy way, while Cincinnati made their yardage by sheer weight the hard way. Proof of that fact is the statistics of the game which show that the Eagles were playing in Cincinnati territory practically throughout the entire game. Only on three occasions did the Bearcats breach and then they were held by a fighting aggregation that did not know what defeat meant.

The outstanding feature of the game was the absolute team work of the Eagles. No man could be said to be outstanding, as every man played his position to the benefit of the team. The line was strong, and the back field men did their stuff.

Tim Wyant, Don Fair and Glen Don Stanley received that greater amount of attention as they were undoubtedly the back field ace. Fair suffered an injury to his ankle and was removed from the game, Stanley taking his place. Wyant, turned in a superb game as a field general directing the play. Stanley with his coffin corner punts kept the ball in Cincinnati territory through the last half and topped his performance with a 43 yard run for the only touchdown of the game in the final minute of the third quarter.

Morehead received and ran two plays. Fair punting out, Cincinnati ran two plays and was forced to punt. The first quarter turned into a punters duel with Fair having the best of the exchange. Fair was injured and taken out, Stanley replacing him. Cincinnati ran in a fresh back field who had no more luck in penetrating the Morehead line than the first set. Golding got away for a ten yard gain, and a first down, but Cincinnati was forced to kick and the Eagles took the ball on the 20 yard line. The quarter ended.

The second quarter was like unto the first, with many a score but plenty of thrills. The half ended 00 and Morehead fans were more than pleased.

They were to be even better satisfied in the third. Morehead kicked and Fair, with his injured ankle got off a bad one. It was returned to the forty yard line. On the next play Golding got away for a 20 yard run to take it to the 30 yard line. Two plays were run for 7 yards and the Eagles began the half on downs. Without hesitation they punted. Stanley who had replaced Fair kicking out on Cincinnati's 40 yard line. The Bearcats brought back in their second drive to the 15 yard line. Three line smashes and a forward pass failed to gain the needed yards and the Eagles again took over, punting out, the ball going on to the Cincinnati 10 yard line. The drive was broken and Cincinnati kicked, Morehead downing the ball on the 40 yard line.

On a fake reverse Wyant passed the ball to Stanley who behind some perfect interference and beautiful working wormed, side-stepped and wiggled his way through the entire Cincinnati team to cross the goal line standing up for the first and only touchdown of the game. Vinson was sent in and placed a perfect kick over the center of the goal for the extra point. Score Morehead 7, Bearcats 0.

The Eagles in the last quarter devoted their entire attention to defensive ball. They hit the line for two downs and punted. Only once more did the Bearcats threaten. In the last three minutes of the game they drove to the nine yard line. With less than a minute to play the Eagles held, taking the ball over on the 9, and running two plays. The final whistle blew.

Such was the season's opener, when Little David personified by the Morehead Eagles, tossed the monkey wrench into the machinery of the ancient Goliath and carried home the laurel wreath, and the other emblems of victory. All of which may be mixed metaphor but anyone from Morehead is certain to understand.
