

Horton Conducts Musical Contest

The spotlight turns again on Merrett head of the Music Department of the College, in charge of the festival of the campus today.

Several high schools have sent their outstanding music ensembles to participate in the contest, but here for the right to represent this district in the state contest at the University of Kentucky next week.

Horton has lately received mention in many state paper columns, and has been on radio station WSM recently.

TODAY'S MUSIC FEATS

The migration today of student musicians to Morehead College from schools representing this district is a happening of some importance in the lives of each of these communities, for the participants go to Lexington for a time in the final auditions April 29-30.

Treating a fortunate and talented individual back to his home locale, we find parents and relatives, bursting with pride at his success. We find the music teacher in the school who has been on the back for his long hours of work with his pupil. Then, there is the community's gratified interest in the individual as a pleasant reflection on the ideals and growth of the community where he resides.

And at Lexington, the person will run into high school musicians in his own class—those who have studied as he has studied. Perhaps for the first time he will feel the thrill of competition in music. Winner or loser, he will be buoyed up by his participation and will experience a deeper interest in and respect for his musical pursuits.

Indeed the College carries an enviable responsibility in being the site of the District Musical Festival, for, possibly the most important of music education in eastern Kentucky lies in the palms of these district school teachers and the pupils with whom they work.

Marshall Scheduled For 2 Spring Games

Staff Decides To Meet With More Regularity

Last Tuesday night a compulsory staff meeting of The Trail Blazer was called by an unanimous vote of the members. As the result, meeting a new rule was passed that all members having two consecutive absences would be automatically dropped from the paper. This ruling became effective March 21.

The informal meeting, which took the form of a class in editorship, was presided over by Alton Payne, the editor.

At a paper, how to write and edit, and the question concerning the running of a class paper were discussed upon the regular staff meeting.

Due to the prevalence of bettered attitudes in the world today, The Trail Blazer has decided to publish a poll which will be the opinions of Morehead students and their resultant actions.

Dr. Davis said that in his entire experience as a surgeon in Africa the doctor for medical aid, but according to Dr. Davis, they were trying to whip in shape.

They consider the doctor a white man, and they are afraid of him.

Following a convocation, Dr. Davis conducted a period of discussion in the auditorium for the greens classes.

Johnston Whipping Grid Team Into Shape At Stadium

Three Spring Games Will Be Played

Two spring practice games for the Eagles football squad have been scheduled with the well-known Marshall team of Huntington, W. Va.

Marshall will come here April 22 and the Eagles will represent with a visit to the Marshall home grounds a week later, April 29.

While the seniors stand around and give encouragement, there are twenty-seven men out on the field trying to show the coaches that they are of the caliber to make the squad next year.

With only three in shape, Coach Johnson will have a hard time trying to whip in shape a team next year to represent Morehead.

When he was asked for a prospect for next year, he said, "It is a mighty green squad, but I think we will get a good team out of a group of nine let alone a team of twenty."

Two of the best players of this year, two of them against Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., and one against the Eagles, Marshall will be played here April 22 and the Eagles will be played here April 29.

Johnston stated that his greatest hope was that the seniors would be of the caliber to make the squad next year. He said that he had to graduate will be hard to replace, but he will be 27 men trying to be the best for him.

Players Invited To Attend Performance At Transylvania

The Transylvania College Stagecrafters, dramatic organization, have extended an invitation to the College Players of Morehead to attend their next production, Maxwell Anderson's "Winesburg, Ohio," which will be presented March 28 and 29 in the Transylvania Little Theatre.

The stagecrafters have an excellent group of amateur players who will be presenting a piece of action.
