(Special to The Herald.)

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 16—Jasper Amburgy, of Rowan County, who was dismissed as a member of the Division Board of Education of Rowan county by Mrs Cora Wilson Stewart, County Superintendent, has been given a new trial by the State Board of Education. When the case was appealed to Superintendent of Public Instruction Hamlett, Mrs Stewart's decision was sustained. The State Board of Education holds that Amburgy's trial was not properly conducted and that he was entitled to oral testimony and counsel. He was dismissed on the charge of drunkenness.
