SPRING VS. SAFETY

With Spring's coming the motorist flocks back to the highways as gaily as the birds wing north on their annual migration. All of us love the Spring for its eternal youth. "We come alive, we seek out our friends, we must be on the move. We leave the fireside for the open road, for the sun and the soft nights.

Death comes too—automobile fatalities start a precipitous climb. There are more cars on the road, traveling more miles and probably at greater speeds. More people drive during the dangerous, dark hours coming home later or covering ground on trips when the traffic is light.

By its very nature Spring symbolizes life. Let all of us who drive cars or walk the highways help to fulfill that symbol. Let's all remember the little courtesies of the road, remember that signals and signs are installed for a purpose, not for decoration. Let's remember the simple sound principles of safe driving that we all know but too often don't follow.

Anyone can drive a car at almost any speed, if nothing untoward happens. Few of us have the iron nerve, the lightning-like reflexes and reactions, the exacting judgement or experience to handle even a slight emergency traveling at 60 miles an hour. Let's remember that 60 miles an hour is 90 feet a second, and that, for all practical purposes, a car is a projectile weighing over 3,000 lbs.—much more than the shells for our largest guns.

And above all, because 60 percent of all fatalities occur at night when only one fourth the day volume of traffic is moving—let's remember that people cannot be taught to see in the dark! Most of us overdrive our headlights and until our major highways, which in reality become 20 years' out of date as night falls, are provided with adequate modern lighting we must slow down after dark.

And it isn't the quiet street that is most dangerous. Automobile deaths on rural highways increased 154 per cent since 1924, and in 1929 26,000 or 69 per cent of the total traffic fatalities happened in rural areas. So let's remember to make Spring a time in which to live anew—not a season when too many must die because we forget.

WAR INDUSTRIES FLOURISH

In spite of the present industrial depression, some American industries are experiencing a decided boom. First among these is the aircraft industry, which is approaching capacity production, according to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. With its present volume of orders on hand for airplanes and engines, plus the Government purchases provided for in the pending Army and Navy bills, the aircraft manufacturers of this country will need to put on more than 25,000 additional workers if they are to deliver the new planes within a year.

On top of that definite volume of business, American builders of planes and engines are trying to figure how they can supply the machines which Europe wants. A British aviation commission has just arrived in this country for the purpose of buying as many heavy-type bombing planes as they can get, their own factories being unable to do so at a fast as the war ministry wants them. Many other foreign nations also have representatives in America seeking to buy planes for military purposes.

After warlike material the demand upon American factories is pressing close upon their ability to fill orders. The New York Times reports that while the demand for warships and their armament is increasing, American shipyards and steel plants are operating almost to capacity in so far as the production of large battleships, heavy naval guns and armorplate are concerned. Unless the steel complex feel justified in enlarging their plants that condition will continue for years to come, to fill the orders of the United States government alone.

Turkey is trying to buy big land-defense guns and various small types of naval craft in this country. Russia has asked for bids on battleships and naval guns. Those and other countries have agents here trying to purchase many other types of war material.

With the whole world, apparently preparing for war, America seems to be the only nation likely to profit by it. No nation ever made a profit out of taking part in a war, even if it won the conflict. Unless nations seeking to buy arms are actually at war, there is no reason why this country should not sell them whatever weapons they want to buy—provided they pay cash for them.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Political interest here is beginning to focus upon the Republican situation more than for the past two years. Most of the political groups has been centered upon the Democratic party, because of the evident split in its ranks and because up to now it has shown complete control of the situation. The Republicans have been almost a negligible factor in Government affairs.

Now, however, the Republicans are beginning to show some signs of life. There is enough basis for Republican hopes to lead observers at the Capital to believe that the party is actually on the way toward rejuvenation. There are few among those accustomed to surveying and appraising the political outlook who are not ready to concede that in the Republicans will gain a large number of seats in the House now held by Democrats. There are more than 150 Democratic members whose majorities in their districts in the 1928 elections were so small that a change of ten percent of the means issues or proposals in which the Administration is lined up against the President's suggestions in Congress. The issue is frequently not one between Republicans and Democrats but between President Roosevelt and his opponents, and the latter include more Democrats in Congress than the present total number of Republican members.

There are at least 100 Democratic Congressmen who can be counted upon to oppose any Administration measure which in any way smacks of "reform." There are more than that who are ready to fight any proposal to enlarge the powers of the Executive in any degree. There is probably an even larger number who will resist to the bitter end any proposal to give the President any more "blank checks" in the form of lump sum appropriations to be expended at his discretion.

The Administration did not fully awaken to the extent of the revolt of Congress until the defeat of the Revenue bill disclosed it. The vote on that measure came as a complete surprise. Even so astute an observer of politics as Charlie Maclean, publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, was taken by surprise. He had prepared and sent out to newspaper editors an article based upon the assumption that the bill would pass, and for the first time in his career was obliged to recall a career of successful public relations because he had guessed wrong.

There were 118 House Democrats who went on record against the Administration on that measure, which was not in itself particularly objectionable but which was opposed and defeated principally for the reason that the President demanded it and the belief that it would put more power into his hands. The prospects of the Republican party for a reliable working coalition in the next Congress, over which they fail to elect a majority, has been largely upon the fact that all of those recalcitrant 118 Democratic members will be rejected to work with them.

Most of these Democratic Congressmen who are opposed to the Administration's policies come from districts which are normally over-represented by Democrats and in which the Republicans have not a shadow of a chance to elect their candidate. How far Republican voters can participate in the nominating primaries to assist in re-nominating friendly Democrats, in such districts is a matter under control of state primary and election laws. In some states it is possible for a voter to enroll as a Democrat for nominating purposes, even though he intends to vote for the Republican candidate at the election.

Hopes vs. Realities
The principal reason why the hopes of the Republicans for gains large enough to give them complete control of the next Congress must be regarded principally as hopes, is the lack of organization and leadership in the Republican party. The Democratic party organization is better financed and stronger. If the Republicans had an organization comparable with it there would be little doubt of their gaining at least 150 Congressional seats. In the nature of things political it is impossible for the Republican party to maintain any such powerful and working machine. Whichever party is in always has a great advantage over the party of the outs. And the Republican party has not yet learned how to function effectively as an out party.

TODAY and TOMORROW

From my earliest boyhood I have rebelled against getting up early in the morning. I had Ben Franklin's maxim, "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise" drummed into me from infancy, but it always seemed to me that there was a catch in it somewhere.

Now comes Dr. Joseph Jastrow, whose famous psychology text on firm's my lifelong belief. He says in so many words, that "there is absolutely no virtue in early rising." He is in favor of getting up the sleep possible in the early morning.

less of whether one is still sleepy or not, most intricate. To be an airplane transport pilot is the ambition of a great and growing number of American boys. But it is also a job which calls for long hard work in training. The most important work in training. The most complicated piece of machinery ever made, and as such it requires more brains, skill, competence and judgement to operate than anything else that moves.

There is a big demand for competent pilots greater than the supply, and that demand will increase with the building of more trans-oceanic passenger planes and the growth of the Army and Navy air services. Not long ago I visited the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, one of the four great training schools for aviators which the government maintains to develop pilots not only for military service but for commercial aviation as well. I was impressed by the high level of intelligence and the immense scale of the work and study required before a flying cadet got his wings.

It's nice work if you can get it, but to pilot an international Clipper plane one must not only know how to fly and have perfect health but he must be a weather expert, a skilled mechanic, a first-class seaman, a master of navigation, a radio expert, an aeronautical engineer, an engine and airplane mechanic, and a celestial navigator with a lawyer's knowledge of international law. SNOW

Coming north in mid-March I encountered by first snowstorm of the season in northern Virginia. All the way up to my Pennsylvania home I was struck, as I have often been before, with the sure signs along the highway indicating the normal climate of the region I passed through.

Even in midsummer you can tell, by driving through the winter district, whether they have much snow there in Winter. In my old New England home people built their houses close to the road and their barns and woodsheds right up against them, to forestall being hit in winter. Here where I write this in New York, I have never had snow, to be sure, but many farmhouses are set back forty or fifty yards from the road, showing that countrymen are old-fashioned.

The further South one goes, the more secluded are the thousands of miles between the agricultural country in the South, but seldom so far a farmhouse, only the roads leading to them.

FISH
Did you ever stand up the bottom of the sea and look up at the fishes swimming over your head? That was the sensation I had a few weeks ago when I visited a new Marine Studio that has just been completed with the most modern facilities for keeping alive fish. In great concrete tanks with windows in their sides and bottom all sorts of marine animals and fish swim in seawater which has been filtered until it is so clear one can take photographs through it.

The purpose is to make it possible for scientists to study marine life under natural conditions, but as a show it is as entertaining as anything I have ever seen. In watching shrimps wriggle their feet as they swim, sharks of various sizes and kinds, and that most interesting of sea mammals, the porpoise, it is far more fascinating than I can make it sound.

The eyes are the sentinels of the human body. There are running eyes, roving eyes, leaping eyes, bold eyes, asking eyes, asserting eyes, eyes full of fate, eyes of good and bad omen. Eyes converse more than the tongues of men.

Infants are born mentally blind despite what dotting mothers may think. To the newly born the world is a hazy blur and they cannot coordinate or appreciate what they see until mental vision is developed, which is usually about three months after birth. By that time to say that he child does not recognize objects or individuals or even its mother, you are kidding.

GENERAL JOHN A. SUTTER

The Man Who Was Robbed of a Billion Dollars

Out in California, on January 24, 1858, John W. Sutter, a carpenter was building a grist mill on the South fork of the American river. He stooped and picked up a small yellow stone that had been washed down from the wooded hills above the present city of Sacramento, then leaped on his horse and hurried pell mell forty miles down the river to the ranch house of his employer John A. Sutter. Sutter stared at it, wide-eyed with excitement. It was gold—gleaming yellow gold.

Telegraph wires flashed the sensational news across the continent and convulsed the nation with excitement. Workmen left their shovels, soldiers deserted from the army by wholesale, farmers abandoned their lands, merchants locked their stores and the gold diggers went on a rampage. The locust swarm of humanity took wings and headed for the golden land beyond the sunset.

Naturally the gold-seekers converged from all sides on Sutter's ranch. The mob trampled his grain under foot and they started to make head work of demolishing his barns to build shanties and they slaughtered his cattle to get steaks.

These treasure hunters even had the audacity to build towns on the private property of John Sutter and to raise a whole strange men band and sold and resold his land as if he had never existed.

In 1850, California was ushered into the Union, and the majestic order of law now ruled over the turbulent hills.

Then Sutter started the biggest law suit in history. He declared that San Francisco and Sacramento were both built on his private property and he prosecuted every squatter living in those towns and ordered them to get off his land at once. He sued the state of California for twenty-five millions dollars as compensation for the private roads and bridges and canals that he had built and the state had appropriated for public use.

For four years he fought the case through court after court, and in 1855, he won. The highest court in the State of California declared that the cities of San Francisco and Sacramento, and scores of other towns and villages were built on his private property.

PULASKI COUNTY
In Pulaski county the past and present walk hand in hand. Much of scenic beauty and historic interest of Kentucky. Let us rediscover the charm and beauty of past ages and note the movements of modern progress. Let us experience the joy of living in its greatest realization such as in the case of many of its 36,000 citizens. The intriguing Indian remains and relics, the tottering old homes of years gone by, the battle fields of Indian fights and Civil War battles, the enchanting natural scenery, all attract each year an ever-increasing host of visitors from each of the forty-eight states of the Union. A complete story of Pulaski county from its creation in 1798 to the present would contain many dramatic chapters of romance and adventure, bravery, heroism, and martyrdom. This lovely land between the Cumberland and Rockcastle Rivers was created when the state of Kentucky was only six years old and the United States was only twenty-two years old. Its parent counties were Green and Lincoln. Pulaski contributed liberally of its land to the formation of Wayne, Rockcastle, and McCrory counties.

In the lineup of Kentucky's counties Pulaski occupies the twenty-seventh place. The historian states that its formation was "in answer to the petitions and complaints of the people living at a great distance from the seat of government." Pulaski's historic memories that name brings to mind. This county was named in honor of Count Joseph Pulaski, a patriot and lawyer, who, after an ill-fated attempt to establish freedom and liberty for his own people, died for his life to America in 1771. This nobleman served as brigadier-general in the colonial armies of the General Washington and Green and offered his life. The supreme sacrifice of death at the Battle of Savannah on October 11, 1779. Pulaski Day should be a memorial holiday for celebration by every citizen of the county which bears this man's name. Mexico Fights Illiteracy

Mexican women have taken to book learning, we are told by Maria T. Martinez, who attributes the incentive to learn more about what is going on in the world and what interests others to the federal government's campaign to educate the people. Illiteracy in Mexico is very high, nearly 90 per cent of the people being unable to read or write. There is a great increase in the sale of books, magazines and newspapers, according to reports and more girls than ever before are taking up teaching. Since salaries for women teachers have been increased 50 per cent in recent years, this profession has grown more popular.

Teaches 57 Years

After having taught for fifty-seven years, Miss Annie R. Taaffe, of New Orleans, has recently retired. She was the second oldest public school teacher in point of service in Louisiana. There weren't any regulation textbooks when she taught, and they made use of what books the children had. Any teachers made a joint of having pupils memorize subjects.

THE GARDEN

Last week, we discussed the principles that apply in controlling the garden insects, and some controls were described in detail. Now, further details will be elaborated, and timeliness, particularly stressed.

In Politics Business

Four New England states, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and Connecticut, have more than half of the women members of the state law-making bodies in the country.

Recognition of women by the law is now being accomplished. For the first time in history a woman, Mrs. Debra Parker, holds a government office. She has been appointed to the Parliamentary Secretaryship of the Ministry of Education in Ulster.

The four best known characters in fiction, all women, were created by men. They are Susan Eriz, English novelist; they are Anna Karenina, Becky Sharp, Miss Havisham and Jane in Wonderland.

Mrs. Kathie Kruse, wife of a professor in South Kentucky, models lifelike dolls, and uses them in her own family or sends for models. She employs two trained specialists.

SEAL GARMENT BAGS TO KEEP OUT MOTHS

Paper garment bags and wrappings and cardboard boxes protect against clothes moths only if they are sealed tightly at every opening and if the clothes or other contents were entirely free of moths when the container was sealed, say home economics women at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

ONCE MOTHS GET INSIDE PAPER OR CARDBOARD CONTAINERS, DAMAGE WILL RESULT, EVEN THOUGH THE PAPER HAS BEEN TREATED WITH CEDAR, TAR OR PINE OIL.

Scented paper or cardboard is no more effective against moths than plain paper, it is said. Clothing which has not been dry-cleaned or washed before wrapping in unbroken paper with the edges carefully sealed will remain safe from moths unless they are found in way in with the clothing, put flake naphthalene in the package.

OUTLINES CONTROL FOR TOBACCO PESTS

Control for the three important tobacco insects of flea beetles, horn worms and bud worms is outlined by Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Flea beetles may be kept out of tobacco beds by close fitting tobacco cloth, or they may be controlled by dusting the plants with one part Paris Green and five parts of arsenate of lead. Apply at the rate of a half of a pound to 100 square yards of bed, and repeat at four to seven-day intervals until control is obtained. Dusting also may be done with either barium fluoride or derris, applied at the rate as Paris Green and arsenate of lead. Derris should contain 1 per cent of rotenone, and be applied at four-day intervals. Horn worms may be controlled by applications of Paris Green and arsenate of lead mixed as for flea beetles, and applied at the rate of seven to eight pounds to the acre. Hand picking may hold the worms in check if there are not many of them.

For bud worms, mix six heaping teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead in

WHEAT MAKES PASTURE

How wheat made excellent pasture on the farm of John Cushman in Allen county is related by County Agent C. S. Bell. In late August 2 1/2 acres were sowed at the rate of a bushel and a half to the acre. By early November the field was ready for hogs, and it furnished green feed for 30 head throughout the winter. Though spring it was necessary that the wheat saved about 20 percent of the feed cost for the hogs.

Broilers Worth $1 A Day

Starting nearly 500 broilers in December, Charles W. Probus of Grayson county sold them for a net profit of $11, or $1 a day for each day through the incubation and growing period. They consumed approximately 10 pounds of feed per bird, or 4 pounds for each pound of weight when sold. Four other farmers reported success with broilers, according to County Agent R. T. Faulkner.

BUILD AGAINST TERMITES

Persons planning to build houses are urged by agricultural engineers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture to adopt every possible method to prevent damage of termites. Most contractors now know how to terminate proper construction. Where termites are already at work they may be temporarily controlled by poisoning. Effective poisons are or orthochlorobenzene for a mixture of kerosene and coal tar creosote.

Beware Kidney Germs If Tired, Nervous, Aching

The time to start battling insects is when they start, before the injury they do has progressed far enough seriously to be effective. On cabbage, for the green worm, a chewing insect, dusting with arsenate should begin when the cabbage "butterflies" are observed bobbing about, laying eggs. If a job is well done, the worms will not need to consume much foliage to produce a lethal dose.

In order to film the number, a camera car drove alongside the bus, from which the entire side had been removed and filled the action of the five players.

Everytime he wanted to film, a new angle, Director Edwin L. Martin had to have another outside section of the bus removed, in order to film interior scenes. He turned to perfection as he not to draw out the voices of the players and their tap dancing sounds.

To keep the crowds away, motor police blocked a square mile of city streets near the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio while the sequence was being filmed.

"He Remembered"

News Of Interest

V. E. Barnes, executive director of the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission, today announced that employers eligible to terminate their coverage under the new unemployment insurance law must file their application prior to May 5.

"The new law went into effect March 3," Barnes explained. "Among the changes from the previous act was one affecting coverage requirements for employers. To each of whom was payable a quarter for as many as three quarters for each year is eligible to terminate his coverage under the law for the year 1938."

"This applies to all employers except those who might qualify under various other coverage requirements, such as having as many as 8 workers for as many as 20 days, each day being in a different week."

"The law," Barnes continued grants to employers eligible to determine their coverage, sixty days from March 3, the effective date of the act, to file their application. Accordingly the deadline for coverage termination is May 5.

"Any employer, believing himself eligible to terminate his coverage should request proper forms for this purpose by writing to the Commission at Frankfort."

PACKHORSE LIBRARY

The Packhorse Library set out ten weeks ago with several aims in mind. They were to visit every home in the county and add the readers to their reading list. To place a working library center in each school district. To increase the library reading material as fast as possible. To give each reader the type of reading material he should have and wants, to prove to the head officials and the people that this project was a worth while one and could be carried on successfully in Rowan County as well as other counties, to make collection of everything useful as quilt blocks and patterns, old songs, stories, flowers, insects etc., and to establish this library in the minds and hearts of the people of Rowan County that after the W. P. A. has ended they will continue this work for the good and joy. There is in doing so. These are some of the aims, and the library reports that most of them have been accomplished. Every one of the twelve carriers, sponsor, and supervisor have tied hard and are being awarded by nice compliments and cooperation of the people of Rowan County and head officials as well as the neighbor towns.

During the month of April 2018 books and 7330 magazines were delivered to 3,950 families and 8,150 individuals.

praise lands for this purpose, and it was not until 1933 that sufficient funds were available to start buying the lands offered for sale in 1930 and these offered subsequently.

At that time the plan was to build a fire towers connected by a telephone and radio system and to organize local wardens crews for protection against forest fires. It was also planned to construct a system of roads and trails for protection and administration as well as supply depots and guard stations.

This program would have been carried out regardless of whether or not the CCC had ever been organized, and local labor would have been used.

With the advent of the CCC the Forest Service was enabled to take advantage of the labor and funds furnished by the CCC to develop this program at a much more rapid pace than would have been the case if the Forest Service had been entirely dependent on its own departmental appropriations.

The Forest Service has been in existence for 40 years and has been successfully protecting the National Forests throughout the United States against fire by the use of local wardens and crews composed of local men. The people of Eastern Kentucky in the National Forest area need have no fear that the United States Forest Service will allow their woodlands to go unprotected against fire or that the improvements thus far constructed by the CCC will be allowed to deteriorate, so long as appropriations are made available to the Forest Service for this purpose.

The activities of the CCC in protecting the National Forests and in the construction program have been under the supervision of Forest Service personnel, and when the CCC Camps pass out of existence, these same activities will be carried on by the Forest Service with the use of local labor to the extent made possible by Forest Service appropriations.

OF ELECTRIC COOKERY

You Get So Many Advantages for Only a Few Cents a Day

It is Clean... Fast... Economical Simple and Safe. It Operates Automatically... Cooks Perfectly

Electric cookery is thrifty indeed... because it retains juices, vitamins and mineral elements necessary to health and food flavor... because practically all heat is used for cooking... because there is little shrinkage of meats and vegetables... because its automatic operation saves time and work in preparing meals... because it keeps the flame and smoke from the kitchen and clean.

And just because electric cookery is thrifty... more than 2,000,000 home makers enjoy its use... a great majority of them people in modest circumstances who do their own housework.

Come in tomorrow for a free demonstration. Let us explain how and why you can afford the advantages of electric cookery. We sell Hotpoint and Westinghouse ranges. Local dealers sell other standard makes. See the new 1938 models now.

Law Enforced In Forest District

In addition to supervising the suppression of forest fires by fire crews under local wardens and CCC crews, Forest Service officials are making a searching investigation of the causes and people responsible for the origin of forest fires.

In cases where Federal and State laws have been violated, it is the duty of the District Ranger to enforce these laws. Much has been done to arouse public interest and cooperation in stamping out the menace of forest fires. It is felt that there still is need of law enforcement to impress the public mind with the importance of exercising care in the use of fire.

Through carelessness, poor judgment, or otherwise, some of the local citizens have been directly responsible for allowing fire to escape and it has been necessary for Federal and County authorities to impose fines or collect for damages in these cases.

In addition to those already reported to the press the following cases have required law enforcement action by the District Ranger:

Melvin Morton and Wallace Adams will be tried on May 2 by the Powell County Court for allowing a fire to escape from burning edge grass fields which they set on fire.

E. O. Jones of Morehead settled out of court by agreeing to pay suppression costs for extinguishing a fire escaping from a tobacco bed which he was burning.

D. C. Combs has been summoned to appear before the Rowan County Court on May 2 to answer a charge of burning edge grass on National Forest land and allowing it to escape to woods owned by the United States.

J. F. Roberts of Cogsweil settled out of court by agreeing to pay the cost of suppressing a fire started by him in sedge grass and which escaped to woodlands adjacent to the National Forest.

Charles Wright of Clearfield settled out of court for allowing fire to escape from burning debris to woodlands adjacent to National Forest lands. He agreed to pay suppression costs.

Carl Stone of Waltz, Ky., pleaded guilty to allowing fire to escape from a sedge grass field as he was burning, and abandoning same. He was fined ten dollars and costs.

Henry Watson, of Morehead, pleaded guilty to allowing fire to escape from burning debris and damaging National Forest Woodlands. He also was fined ten dollars and costs.

H. W. Keaton, Oscar McGlothlin, and W. H. Rice of Morehead admitted joint responsibility for allowing fire to escape from burning leaves on the property of the Morehead State Teachers College. Settlement was effected at a conference with Forest Service officials, at which it was agreed that the responsible parties would pay suppression costs for the fire.

Lacy Ingram, of Farmers, Ky., was involved in the escape of a fire on National Forest land in the vicinity of Hungry Hollow, and has been summoned to appear before the Rowan County Court on May 2.

Gale Ingram, of Farmers, Ky., and other members of a picnic party are involved in a similar charge. Final action by Forest Service officers in this case is pending.

Sam Anderson, Ora Anderson and Alfred Molton of Waltz, Ky., allowed fire to escape from a new ground they were burning and have been summoned to appear in County court on May 2.

It is hoped that these law enforcement activities will impress citizens residing in and near the National Forest with the importance of care in the use of fire and with the fact that Federal and State fire laws cannot be violated with impunity.

The Forest Service is requesting all new ground burners give a Forest Officer by telephone, or postal card of their intentions to burn new ground, tobacco beds or debris.

The purpose of this request is to enable the townsmen to keep watch of these new ground smokes so they will not confuse them with real forest fires and thus needlessly dispatch fire crews at a very considerable and unnecessary expense to the U. S. Government.

You may notify any townsmen or fire warden by phone from the home of Emmet Blanton at Triglett or at Ed Robinson at Yale, or call the camps at Roubard and Bowen. Forest Service patrolmen have been furnishing franked post cards requiring no stamps for this purpose on request. These may be mailed to Camp P-4 at Roubard or Camp P-9 at Bowen.

The forest Service cannot undertake to assist local residents in burning new ground, and it is the responsibility of every new ground or brush burner to prevent his fire from escaping to the woods under penalty of State and Federal laws governing forest fires.

Marketing Agreement Of Tobacco Growers Baptist Student

The National Producers' Co-operative Association, Kentucky Division, Incorporated, a non-profit association incorporated under the Kentucky Co-operative Marketing Act of Kentucky, hereinafter called the Association, and the undersigned, hereinafter called the producer agree:

1. That, by the payment of $2.00 if a landlord, or $1.00 if a tenant, the agreement to pay the same annually hereafter, and the signing hereof, the Producer has accepted and agreed to the acceptance of said application, and a binding contract between the parties hereto.

2. This contract is one of a series, similar in terms, comprising, with all such agreements entered into by individual producers or otherwise, one single contract between the Association and the said producers; but it is mutually agreed that the cancellation of any agreement or agreements in this series shall not operate to invalidate this contract, and that the Association may, at its option, terminate any such agreement, upon notice in writing to the producer, provided, (see 111 and 112) that the Association shall receive, handle, warehouse, insure, pool, grade and commingle with the tobacco of the signers of similar contracts, and market all of the Producers tobacco, under this contract.

3. In consideration of the mutual agreements herein contained, and said other contracts, and for the mutual benefits to be derived therefrom, the Producer shall deliver to the Association all the tobacco produced by or for him, or acquired by him as landlord or tenant, and commingle with the tobacco of the signers of similar contracts, and market all of the Producers tobacco, under this contract.

4. The Association shall retain Equalization Fund, of 25 per cent of all sales made by it from the Producer's tobacco, during the customary warehouse sales season, to be held and used by the Association only to secure for and pay to each producer the same price for like types and grades on all tobacco handled through the Association, and the same shall be paid out and distributed to the producers promptly upon the close of each sales season; but any producer failing to deliver his tobacco in time for such sales season for that year's crop shall be subject to a retention deduction of 30 per cent based on the average net sales value fixed by that year's market on like types and grades, and the Association hereby given the authority and power to mortgage or pledge all such tobacco delivered too late for the market, and shall receive, handle, warehouse, insure, pool, grade, and commingle such delayed deliveries, and advance to the producer thereof the net value of said tobacco, fix ed as aforesaid, less the above mentioned expenses, dues and retained per cent. All such tobacco delivered too late for the market and any tobacco remaining unsold that has been delivered during the preceding sales season shall be marketed either at private or public sale as soon after the sales season as may be deemed practicable by the officers of the Association, and producers thereof, shall, after equalization, through said retain, be paid the net proceeds of such sale, including their proportionate part of said Equalization Fund, promptly after the same is collected.

charged with neglecting a fire which had been started to clear a new ground, Judge Pelfrey held that no offense had been committed. According to evidence, Mr. Anderson's son had notified the forestry department that he would burn a new ground on a certain day and had raked and plowed around the ground. His son, who had charge of the fire left it smoldering while he went to lunch and the fire escaped past the fence into the raked field and burraged the woods a few feet on the side. It was still on Mr. Anderson's ground, however, and according to witnesses was a good half mile from the federal forest. The Forestry Department contended that the fire had escaped and that Mr. Anderson was subject to a fine. After hearing the evidence, Judge Pelfrey found Mr. Anderson "Not Guilty."

George M. Calvert Married
Announcement of the wedding of Miss Helene Fern Woods, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada to George Martin Calvert was made today. The wedding was performed in the Shullie Ave. Christian Church at Cleveland, Ohio at seven P. M. April 30th, by the Rev. H. Sprangler.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Woods and was formerly connected with the Kaufman Store in Colorado Springs, Colorado and recently resigned the position as Receptionist in the Renard Studio, Detroit, Mich.

The groom whose home was formerly in Morehead, is the son of Mrs. Callie Caudill. He received his education in Morehead and later attended the University of Kentucky where he received his B. A. Degree in Journalism in the class of 1935. He was also a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity.

Mr. Calvert at the present time is employed at the Mottchall Printing and Lithographing Co. of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Murray of Detroit were the only attendants at the wedding.

The bride wore an ensemble of triple sheer navy blue dress and matching cape with navy blue and white accessories. Her corsage was tallman roses, gardenias and bridal wreath.

The bridesmaids wore powder blue dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvert are residing at 961 Atkinson Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Calvert is a Morehead boy, one of the many boys who started his work in the Rowan County News printing shop and who made good. George was a small boy when he first went to work for the News, cleaning out the shop. He rapidly advanced and within a short time was running the linotype in which work he became an expert. He obtained his education at U. of K. where he was employed in the Kernel Print Shop.

He is one of the Rowan County News boys of whom we feel particularly proud.

G. R. Parker is S. S. Director
The Social Security Board announced today that G. R. Parker, Regional Director of Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland and the District of Columbia, with office in Washington, D. C. has been appointed Acting Director of Region V, which includes Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Mr. Parker stated that the chief functions of the Social Security Board are to administer the Federal Old-Age Insurance plan and to assist the states wherever necessary in the development of their unemployment compensation and public assistance programs. He said that the Federal Old-Age Insurance, monthly payments will be made to workers in covered industries beginning with January, 1938. Meanwhile, however, cash lump sum payments are being made to qualified workers in the amount of 1 1/2 per cent of the total wages earned in covered employment since January 1, 1937. To qualify for these cash payments the employee either must have died or reached age 65.

Mr. Parker wished it clearly understood that in case of a person who reaches age 65 prior to 1938, he can receive the lump sum payment due him under the Social Security Act without affecting his present employment. But, after 1937 when the monthly income payments become available, the worker must retire from employment in a covered occupation if he wishes the monthly benefit payment.

Mr. Parker has a very strong opinion that there are many workers throughout this region who are now entitled to cash benefit payments either through death or attainment of age 65 if they would file claims with the nearest Social Security office. The office that serves this county is the office of the social security board, Post Office Building, Lexington, Kentucky.

Teachers Hired
adopted by the unanimous vote of the Board, Bernice Lewis, who had been recommended by the Sub-district trustee for the Open Fork Sub-district was employed by the Board for a position in the Elizotville School. Miss Lewis, as well as her children will enjoy together the benefits of the new building which is being constructed. Transportation will be provided for the pupils of the Open Fork District to Elizotville.

There are twenty two emergency sub-districts in Rowan County and according to the provisions of the State Department of Education for permission to operate in sub-districts where there are fewer than fifty white census pupils this application has been made for these twenty-two schools in Rowan County but the Rowan County Board of Education has not received permission from the State Department of Education as yet, and it will be unable to hire teachers for these schools until this permission is granted.

The rural teachers whose applications were signed by the sub-district trustee were hired by the Rowan County Board of Education at their regular meeting, May 4, 1938.
