Anyone who can't find their wife rest assured that she has gone to see "Gone With the Wind" or she is attending a "Tea" given by someone for Mrs. A. B. Bowen. Now listen, I like tea and I like cake, but Confucius say: 'I'll be glad when that fad is over, its driving me nuts.' "Anything but tea" is the motto. My wife has drunk or drunk (Take it or leave it, Miss Humphrey) so much that her little finger is paralyzed. I can't spell paralyze, so I just stuff. Why she even sticks out her little finger when we eat beans and potatoes, and she raises the "dickens" when I suggest my coffee. If I was Bowen I'd set my foot down. He is like the rest of us going to have to get in command at his going to take complete charge. Boy you should see me. I am the "Yock Master" at my home. I am Cock-of-the-Walk. Panting at the top of my I have the kitchen floor all mopped and shiny. Can't I wait until tomorrow night to give "Ponton" a bath? Let's see now, what have I? Well, I just got sick of all these parties and called on my good friend, Mr. Duley and we entertained some gentlemen in the hotel last week. But instead of having tea and wafers we had ham and eggs and potatoes and black coffee with strong cigars. Our guests were quite orderly outside of the noise they made eating. The large gentlemen who sat on my left scared me eating with his knife. I was worried for fear he was going to cut his throat. His name was Keith from Richmond. And Mr. Hodgkin sat on my left wore glasses which was new to me. He drank his coffee with the spoon in it and had it not been for that he would have gouged out his eye. Mr. Jackson sat on my right and in saucing his coffee he blew it over in my lap. Mr. Egan and Tompo got along fairly well. They were good fellows. I have them and we hope they come again soon. It was originally planned to be a "Dutch Treat," but they never said a word about the check. "What trumperfucker" has red trucks and sells wafers was held in custody in Charleston, W. Va., last week. The charge was suspicious character. The man who has always regarded him as a suspicious character. W. E. Crutcher, Ailie Holbrook and Curtis E. Johnson have the dirtiest feet I have ever seen.

Spanglin Man In Narrow Escape As Truck Leaves Road

Levi Wilson Wrecks On Wet Road Ten Miles East Of City

Levi Wilson, of Spanglin, Kentucky, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when his International truck left U. S. 60 about ten miles east of Morehead at five o'clock Saturday evening and hung up on a sliding snow bank.

Wilson, driving west toward Morehead, said that he skidded on the wet road and plunged over the embankment before "I knew what happened to me." His five-ton truck nosed over the cliff and stopped when its front wheels hung up on the bridge support ledge under the sky.

Wilson was unhurt.

Midland T r a i l garage men handled the wrecked machine estimating the damage at approximately $2000.

Morehead Chorus To Be Revived

The Morehead Civic Chorus, which last sang at Christmas, 1935 and 1936 is to be revived, according to announcement of Lewis H. Horton, head of the department of Music of Morehead State Teachers College. Monday, February 26, at 7:00 p. m., in the College auditorium will be the first meeting for organization and rehearsal. Students and faculty of the college are eligible and are urged to join, but a special invitation is issued to others who live in or near Morehead and who can attend a weekly rehearsal at the home mentioned above.

In the past this chorus has twice sung Handel's immortal oratorio "Messiah," and a number of miscellaneous choral works including Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, Gade's Crusaders' and Hawley's "The Christ Child."

The repertoire this semester will probably be a miscellany of choral arrangements of more or less familiar folk songs and chorales, the objectives being a recovery of a world's tour embracing Music Week which this year extends from May 5 to 11.

357 Persons Added By West Morehead Acquisition

Morehead completed census list completely early this week gives the city a population of 2552, according to Ralph Miller in charge of the survey.

Miller said that 357 persons are now included in the territorial limits of Morehead living in the recently annexed addition of W. Morehead.

The city is now eligible for two city postal carriers and a parcel post delivery service, W. E. Crutcher, local postmaster, pointed out, and said that a petition would be immediately sent to the office of Postmaster, James W. Farley.

A population of at least 2500 is the necessary pre-requisite for the additional service, Crutcher set out.

Eagles Lose Second Game To Marshall

It must be right! Marshall is eleven points better than Morehead on the basis of actual scores. The Eagles 42-31 at Morehead, Friday night, and the whipping 51-40 Monday at Huntington.

Odds 6-1 Against Eagles Copping KIAC

Marshall boasts one of the strongest teams in the nation.

Morehead's Eagles are being quoted in Richmond at 1-6 in betting circles to cop the KIAC trophy. Consequentially, Western is three times as likely to win the tournament scheduled to start today at Eastern and last Thursday, Saturday, is favorite to repeat for the fourth consecutive year with betting 2-1 in their favor. Eastern's Maroons are given second choice with betting odds of 3-1.

Union, Centre and Georgetown are 8-1 losers.

Marshall's Thorobreds are third choice at 10-1 odds.

Morehead loses the heats in their initial tourney game Friday afternoon.

Johnson was returning from Huntington where his team met Marshall.

Jack Dumford, John Wiggers, Ralph Johnson, Robert Walker were in the car with Johnson at the time of the accident.

The Eagle coach said that the lights of an oncoming car blinded him during the run on the road. Minor damage to his machine is covered by insurance.

Noted Lecturer Is To Appear March 1

Dr. Synd Hossain To Talk On Conditions In Europe And The Orient

Dr. Synd Hossain, professor of oriental civilization and special lecturer on world affairs at the University of Southern California, will speak at the Morehead convocation Friday, March 1st.

Dr. Hossain has recently returned from a world's tour embracing Europe, the Near East, India, and the Far East, studying the international situation at first hand. In the Far East he stayed in the war zone of China, observing the horrors of modern war-fare. The bombing of Canton proved an experience second to the wreckage of Shanghai. In Japan he observed the psychology and drama of a great nation being made a pawn of destiny.

Ghandi, Tagore, Nehru, and other leaders were interviewed in India by the distinguished interviewer of world affairs.

The public is cordially invited to attend the convocation Friday morning at ten o'clock to hear the brilliant author, scholar and speaker, Dr. Synd Hossain.

Former MC Student Takes To Flying

Leon Watson, June '39 Grad. At Pensacola With Cadets

Some of them take to the teaching to medicine, some to law, some to medicine. Leon Watson, of Watson, 3910 Blackburn Avenue, Ashland, prefers the "air."

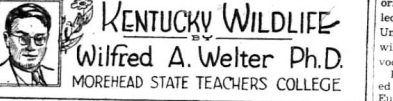

Watson is a Morehead State College graduate with the June class of 1939 and is at present stationed at Pensacola, Florida.

When he finishes his course in the United States Navy Flying Corps and will be eligible for an instructorship with the government in the event of our country's entanglement in a war.

Prior to being transferred to Pensacola, Watson took ground work at Lambert Field, St. Louis, where he was put through courses in code work, sea and celestial navigation, and wireless communication. He solved there and describes the feeling as "bird-like."

"I was extremely lucky to make the grade at Lambert Field," Mr. Watson declared.

He was one of nine students that made the grade from an original class of 28 from leading universities over the country.

KENTUCKY WILDLIFE Wilfred A. Welter Ph.D. MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

How many poisonous snakes can be found in eastern Kentucky? How can one tell the poisonous from the other snakes? What should one do in case of snake bite?

There is no group of animals in existence about which there is more misunderstanding than the reptiles. This condition has been brought about mainly because some reptiles are poisonous, and for some of them a bite might escape, all snakes are usually killed on sight. Such a condition is deplorable for many of the snakes that live among man's friends. It is necessary, therefore, to learn to separate the poisonous species from the other.

In the eastern part of Kentucky there are two poisonous snakes, the timber rattlesnake and the copperhead. Another, the cottonmouth, or true water moccasin, is found along the Mississippi River in the Purchase Region. There have been a few reports of the coral snake for the state but no scientist has ever been able to see such specimens so we must consider the reports doubtful. Some of you are wondering about the rattlesnake and the copperhead. These are the common water snakes and while the copperhead is perfectly harmless, it is not convinced let me tell you how you can identify a poisonous snake.

Our poisonous specimens are members of a family which is known as the pit viper family. This name is applied to the group because all members have a pit between the eye and the nostril but at a slightly lower level so that a triangle can be drawn between these three points. This is the best of all of the characteristics but it requires close observation. There are other identifying marks such as the short and thick bodies of the poisonous form. The characteristic can be observed at a safe distance and many snakes which are the black racer, pilot black, garter, green, and black king

Careful Study Urged Of Proposed Changes In Kentucky Bank Act

A careful study of Senator Lee Gibson's proposed amendment to the Kentucky banking laws, known as Senate Bill No. 149, is suggested at the State Capital this week to farmers and small merchants who borrow money from banks.

"The people of Kentucky should be informed," according to a statement made at Frankfort, "that Senate Bill No. 149 contains the following provisions:

"1. Interest on loans, plus an 'investigation' charge of $1 for each $50 borrowed, may be collected in advance. For instance, if a farmer or small merchant makes a $200 loan for a year he may be required to pay $12 interest in advance. 'Investigation' charge in advance, actually getting the loan of only $184. The additional 2 per cent 'investigation' charge is unnecessary, in effect extra interest because banks usually have the family history on everybody in their community.

"2. Repayment of loans 'in uniform weekly or monthly payments' is required. Farmers and merchants do not get their incomes in regular weekly or monthly payments. The farmer must wait for payment due to the sale of his crops. The merchant must wait for payment largely on what he sells to the farmer.

"3. Up to $2,000 may be loaned to any person, company or firm with an advance collection of interest and 'investigation' charge. Any farmer or merchant who makes a $2,000 loan should be able to get it at the regular interest rate without any advance deductions from the principal of the loan.

"4. Interest may be collected for the full contract period of a loan, even though the loan is paid off in advance. For instance, if a farmer

Municipal Cost Surveys Started By N. C. T. C. Groups

State-Wide Drive Aims For Economy, Efficiency In Government

Opening a state-wide drive for "increased economy and efficiency in municipal government," National Consumers Tax Commission units in a dozen Kentucky communities have started surveys of their governmental costs and operations, Mrs. J. E. Warren, state director of the women's organization declared here today.

A belief that "public spirited cooperation between the public and municipal officers can bring about substantial savings to taxpayers," is the foundation on which NCTC groups are basing their requests for impartial studies of municipal costs and operations by joint boards of citizens and officials, Mrs. Warren said.

"Whole-hearted support of the survey plan has been given by officials in Owensboro, Murray, Clinton, Georgetown, Calletburg, Pikeville, the Cumberland, Maysville and Covington." Mrs. Warren declared, "while NCTC groups in Mayfield, HICKMAN, Carrollton and in a dozen Kentucky towns have started similar surveys.

Resolutions presented to the municipal officials, she added, request a complete break-down of governmental costs and a comparison.

Ky. Sportsmen Vote To Increase Cost Of License

The League of Kentucky Sportsmen, comprising 99 fish and game clubs throughout the state with an approximate membership of 15,000, has endorsed an increase in the cost of hunting licenses in Kentucky. This endorsement was made after the 98 clubs voiced their opinion on this particular bit of legislation and other changes which they thought should be made in the present fish and game laws.

After deciding definitely just what changes should be made in the fish and game laws, the League, through its directors and President, gave those changes to Major James Brown, director of the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish and asked him, as head of the Fish and Game program and policies in Kentucky, to draw up the changes in law form and present them to legislature for approval and passage.

In advocating an increase in cost of hunting licenses, the League had in mind an increase in revenue for the Division which could be turned back to the sportsmen themselves in the form of more game for their enjoyment. The present resident hunting license is $1. This would be changed in such a manner to require a person hunting in one county to purchase a county license costing $1.15. One dollar going to the division for its work and the fifteen cents going to the county court clerk. Now if a person living in Jefferson county wishes to hunt in Shelby county, he or she can purchase the $1.15 county license in Shelby county and that is the extent of his or her cost. If the person has a car a little more time for sport of hunting he or she may want to hunt in two counties. The huntmaster must purchase, in the county in which he or she hunts, the $1.15 license. That means he or she may purchase two of the $1.15 licenses or a state-wide license in order to hunt in the two counties. Now if the hunter is licensed in one county even more and hunts in three or more counties he or she is required to purchase a state-wide license either in his or her home county or in any other county in the state at a cost of $2.25. Three dollars going to the Division and twenty-five cents going to the county court clerk.

The League, in approving this increase in hunting licenses, desired more revenue for the Division's program of restocking the field and woods of Kentucky with more game and pointed out that the person who is financially able to hunt in three or more counties in the state is also able to pay a little more for the privilege of hunting, thereby helping to improve the sport. The person who hunts only in one county will not be affected by the change, other than to pay an additional fifteen cents.

The non-resident hunting license will be increased from $10.50 to $15.50. The fishing license, both resident and non-resident will not be affected by the change.

Program Launched By State Agencies

Purpose Is To Interest 4-H Club Members In Conservation

Conservation of the natural resources — soil, forests, minerals, water, game and fish—is now to be brought to more than 40,000 rural boys and girls engaged in 4-H club work in Kentucky. This educational conservation program is being made possible through the efforts of the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, the Kentucky Division of Game and Sportsmen, comprising 99 game and fish clubs throughout the state.

The purpose of this program is to interest the 4-H club members in the schools of this state in a broad educational program of conservation of game birds, song and insectivorous birds, fur-bearing animals, soils and forestry.

J. W. Whitehouse, state leader of 4-H club work in Kentucky, with headquarters at the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky; S. A. Wakefield, Assistant Director of the Division of Game and Fish, and Dennis Gooch, President of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen met both in Frankfort and Somerset, recently and worked out a county conservation plan and made a list of suggestions for the local game and fish clubs in setting up such a program in a county. The suggestions to the clubs are as follows:

1. Appoint a committee to work with the County Agent in setting up a program for the county.

2. Use this program in its present form or modify it to suit local conditions.

3. Visit each 4-H club in the county, explain the program and create an interest in it among the 4-H members.

4. Give junior membership in the county organization to all 4-H club members who carry out a number of activities which total 450 or more points.

5. Sponsor a banquet for all club members who do the required amount of work and present Junior membership cards to each member.

6. Provide transportation to the State Conservation Camp to one or more boys 15 years of age or older who have done outstanding work in the county conservation program. (The state camp is located on Harrod's Creek near Prospect, Ky.)

7. Please notify J. W. Whitehouse, State Leader of 4-H Club Work, Experiment Station, Lexington, if your club adopts this or a similar program for 4-H club members in 1940 and send a copy of your county plan.

Rowan County auto drivers are warned by County Court Clerk, Vernon Alfrey to procure their new 1940 tags before the first of March. This is the deadline and arrests will be made if motorists drive their cars on their old tags after that date, Alfrey stated.

"The sale of tags in this county is somewhat slow and we would like to avoid that last minute rush," Alfrey said.

Careful Study Urged For Banks

on that loan for twelve months.

"The Federal Trade Commission recently ordered motor car manufacturers to cease using the term 6 per cent in their advertisements for the sale of automobiles on the installment plan when the 6 per cent interest was actually deducted in advance, because it did not represent the true interest rate charged purchasers of cars.

"Under Senator Gibson's proposed amendment the same conditions objected to by the Federal Trade Commission may occur in the making of loans.

"This whole subject of smaller loans, which farmers and merchants especially require from time to time, is so important to thousands of citizens all over Kentucky it should be given the most careful study and consideration."

Daddy Dear Dad, I wonder if you can really see the loneliness that you feel...

The loneliness we go through each day. As we patiently wait to hear you...

Some kind word to help a friend. Whose troubles you tried so hard to mend.

And the emptiness in your office chair. It doesn't seem possible it could look so bare.

People call but I always say to them. You'll have to wait 'til 'Prexy' comes in.

They wait for you, "Big Shot," as patiently as the boys at the mill and mom and me.

Some people tell me that you are gone. To a place you called "The Great Beyond."

But they're as wrong as they can be. For you'll always be with me in spirit.

And you'll tell me things I ought to do. The things which I am dependent on you.

Remember the thoughts to me you've conveyed. "I wanta leave this world 'on full dress parade."

I hope you were pleased, dad, and that you did see The friends that were gathered in your memory.

Some knew you as Colonel, some said "Captain" and called you Mayor but all said "My Friend."

I called you "Sweetheart," but always my dad. For you were the best a girl ever had.

I'll cherish your memory as long as I live. And heed all advice to me you did give.

To "Watch your step, honey, and keep in the clear." And I promise to do it for you, daddy dear.
