Drive Launched To Incorporate Part Of West Morehead

Final Action On Matter Planned By Council At Tuesday Meeting

A movement to incorporate West Morehead into the city limits of Morehead was launched Monday evening at a special meeting of the Morehead city council.

A number of citizens appeared before council members and asked that this be incorporated and made a part of the city.

Many other citizens in the community, who have made numerous complaints of alleged road-house rowdiness have proposed to the council incorporation so as to provide police protection.

The amount to be incorporated is still a matter of conjecture, the council Monday going over the proposition and deferring it to the regular meeting Tuesday.

Under State laws as presented at the council meeting if the city passes an ordinance incorporating the section, any citizen residing therein may file an injunction against it in Circuit Court.

It has been estimated that the proposed area has a population of about 400 people.

If the section is incorporated it will be necessary to lay gas and sewer lines into the section at an estimated cost of $12,000.

The NYA program is not only a work program but also a training program for these youths.

This work is sponsored by the National Youth Administration and the Rowan County Board of Education.

Docket Light At June Term

Trial Of Clellie Lambert For Foster Murder Scheduled Third Day

Unless a number of civil cases come up for hearing, the June term of Rowan Circuit Court, which opens Monday, June 21, will last less than a week, court attaches said today.

The criminal docket is the lightest yet in the history of the court, while there appears few cases on the civil and equity dockets that are ready for trial.

Outstanding on the criminal docket, from a standpoint of local interest, is the case against Clellie Lambert, charged with the mystery murder of Bill Foster five years ago.

Registration for participation in the August 6 Primary closed Tuesday and brought with it a rush of last-minute voters.

The previous week Democrats registered 20 and Republicans 12, according to Mr. Alfrey.

Rowan county has now approximately 5,300 registered voters, although a number of those who have died or changed residence were stricken from the list by the purgation law.

William H. Kees wrote the court's opinion, which reversed the section, any citizen residing therein may file an injunction against it in Circuit Court.

Noe Heard By MSTC Grads

Topic Of Address In Morehead Chapter "The Abundant Life"

A man lives "abundantly" according to the extent to which he opens his life to the opportunities of the world," James T. C. Noe, of Sewell, Calif., former head teacher of the University of Kentucky Department of Education, told the Grading class of Morehead State Teachers College in the commencement address here Thursday.

For the abundance life, a man's relations to the world's opportunities should be "both to give and to receive, to be acted for, according to his limitations of ability, the most possible for himself and his fellow man," the speaker continued.

Professor Noe, a native of Spring Creek, Ky., outlined his conception of the benefits of a college education.

He has learned or had it confirmed while here, he said, "that love is the chief virtue of the world and that hate is destructive of good and an abomination of God."

He has learned that wisdom and understanding are more precious than riches and much fine gold.

He has learned that a man who works in his own sweat and blood is a man of honor.

County Gives Majority To Dr. Sparks

Carrying 12 Precincts, Republican Receives 138 Here Over Bates

Carrying twenty precincts Dr. J. C. Sparks scored a majority of 138 votes over Joe B. Bates in Saturday's special Congressional election.

The figures, with four delayed precincts, are as follows: Bates 1,048; Sparks 1,186.

About 40 percent of Rowan County's total registration came out to vote.

Bates carried Morehead No. 1, precinct 22; Pine Grove, 4; Brushy No. 8; precinct 37; Wagner 42; Morehead No. 27; Farmers number 11; precinct 8; Lewis 15; and Morehead number 18; precinct 38.

Dr. Sparks won in 38ers number 10; 27; precinct 22; Howtown, 9; Morehead number 7; 32; Halde man 1; Cranston 9; McKenzie 10; Dry Creek 57; Hayes 10; Morehead Number 19; 31; and Brushy number 20 by 29.

Teachers Employed For Emergency Districts Here

Board Of Education Also Votes To Re-entitle Glenwood School

Teachers for the twenty-two emergency sub-district schools were employed at a meeting of the Rowan County Board of Education.

Mabel Alfrey, attendance officer, presented the 1928-9 census to the Board which showed a slight increase over the last year.

A motion was passed that the Glenwood district be discontinued and consolidated with the Haldeman district.

The rules and regulations for the school buses prepared by the Superintendent were approved by the Board.

The State Board of Education approved the application for the twenty-two of Rowan County Emergency sub-districts.

Among the features of the Folk Song Festival at the Trapish Farm of "Ivan Thomas" on the Mayo farm, which attracted thousands of visitors, will be a song heard as a tribute to Bill Dawson, who died last week.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN

Congressional leaders today expressed the hope that adjournment would adjourn Saturday. However, it may carry to Tuesday.

Joe Bates Is Elected To Congress

(Continued From Page One) rolling up a majority of a thousand or more in Lewis County, but only carried it 344, far below normal G. O. P. strength. Elliott and Lawrence counties, which had been claimed by Republicans by fairly large majorities, failed to mail G. O. P. strength. Elliott had Sparks formerly practiced medicine in both of these counties. He carried Lawrence, which is about even on registration, 296 votes, but lost Elliott, where the vote was tight, by 295.

this person, Frank Eden was later tried for the murder and acquitted, the Commonwealth failing to prove that he had anything to do with the crime.

The Lambert case is scheduled for the third day, and the selection of the jury is expected to start at that time.

Also slated for trial on the third day is Orville Fouch, charged with cutting and wounding Clarence Williams.

Among the more important appearances cases are: Floyd Lambert and Lloyd Lambert, giving liquor to a minor, 1st day.

George Brooks and Lizzie Brooks, breach of the peace, 1st day.

Lydie Howard, obtaining money under false pretenses, 3rd day.

Tom Wages, Ted Wages, Frank Ingram, and Harold Ingram, confederating and banding together, petit larceny and willful assault, 3rd day.

Barkley To Open Drive

There will be a distinct difference between the Barkley and Chandler opening. Free box lunches, ice cream and cold drinks will be served by Governor Chandler to all who come to hear him and a great effort will be made to have a large crowd. Senator Barkley will not give a free dinner nor free drinks, depending on his popularity and oratory, which has twice carried him to the position of key-note at the national Democratic convention, to attract his crowd.

Hon. John Young Brown started a speech-making tour this week in Western Kentucky in behalf of Senator Barkley. Brown declared that President Roosevelt didn't want Chandler as Senator and that was the reason Roosevelt went to Kentucky to speak for Barkley. "If Chandler were in Washington without Dan Talbott it would be like Charlie McCarthy without Ed Bergen," he declared.

An unbiased poll conducted during the last week showed that Barkley was leading Chandler nearly three to one among the farmers of Kentucky.

Procedure Given On SS Claims

(Continued From Page One) after the administration has been closed without reopening the estate, and this incurs additional cost to the persons entitled to the benefit.

The Social Security Board certifies to the United States Treasury the payment of 3 1/2 per cent of wages earned by a deceased wage-earner to his nearest kin or estate. The wages must be earned in covered employment since January 1, 1937. Lump-sum payments in the same percentage are also being paid to wage-earners who reach the age of 65.

To date, according to Mr. Vaughan, more than half of the lump-sum payments have been the result of death claims, the actual number up to May 1 throughout the United States being 72,000 death claims and 62,000 "live" claims.

The only other business transacted was the allowing of claims and other routine business that came before the Board.

CLOVER PILLOWS

It is not too soon to remember that a flat pillow filled with dried clover heads will bring from 50 cents to $1 at the city gift shops, representing a much larger profit than if the clover were threshed for seed. Nor is it too early to watch for the various pine trees that put on the finest cones. The largest ones are always in demand, and both large and small cones are unique additions to the miniature garden. They stimulate shrubs and trees better than the caeli, and have the advantage of being a new artistic idea.

The country has an abundance of novelties that bring a breath of hill and valley to the city dweller, for which he is willing to pay.

WHAT NO ARGUMENT?

There was nary an argument at the counting of votes at the courthouse Saturday in the special election.

Anytime that you get such fellows as Vernon Alfrey, Dr. A. F. Ellington, Jim Nickell, Bill Carter, Ben McBrayer, Bill Lane, Mike Flood and Jack Wilson together without an argument of some sort you've really accomplished something.

"TOSNLI DAY" FOR MARCHEDIANS

Saturday was, more or less, reunion for a lot of Marchedians at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington. Margaret Sue Carretto, Embury Hodge, Phillip Ray Kaeze, Mrs. Walter Hodge and daughter Faye Hodge, and a nephew, Jeff Carretto, all needed to have their teeth re-moved. So they got together and decided to make a convenient party of it. All except Phillip Ray Kaeze were operated on Saturday. Phillip Ray has his removed Friday.

And, all of them except Mrs. Hodge were in the same room at the hospital.

It was a tonsil picnic for the kiddies.

Their only regret is that they haven't two or three more tonsils to remove and have another such party.

ELECTRIC COOKERY IS So Much Cleaner

It Doesn't Heat Up Your Kitchen. It Saves Time and Work in Preparing Meals. It Retains Food Flavors and Neutralizes Elements With Practically No Advantages. It is Automatic in Operation. It is Dependable and Economical.

Electric cookery is much cleaner than any other method because it does not produce a sticky smudge to blacken pots and pans and make your kitchen walls, woodwork and curtains grimy.

The range cooking units, or "burners," made of wire coils or metal tubes, are heated without flame by the electric current flowing through them.

Because it is so much cleaner, electric cookery will give you a lot of scouring, scrubbing and laundry work.

Let us give you a very interesting free demonstration of electric cookery and explain how easily you can enjoy its many advantages. We sell Hopwood and Vesting ranges and local dealers sell other standard makes.

MARCONI

They Tried To Shoot Marconi For Inventing Radio

It was my good fortune, before he died, to spend an hour with a man who has had a profound effect on your life. He changed the world in which you live. He made it possible for you to send a message around the earth in one-seventh of a second. He also made it possible for you to sit in your home, turn a dial on your radio and hear the President speak from the White House, or listen to some famous orchestra playing the enchanting strains of the "Blue Danube."

As I sat talking to this soft-spoken, modest, unassuming man, it was hard for me to realize that I was in the presence of one of the most distinguished men on earth. I asked him how he first came to work with radio, and he said it was largely because, as a young man, he wanted to do some sort of work that would enable him to travel all over the earth. He told me that he had been experimenting with electrical waves and devising his life to wireless telegraphy, he would have an opportunity to get out under the sky and travel to far off lands. He said he could never have stood the confinement of working in some small shop.

While he was still a very young man, Marconi was able to send wireless messages across the room in his own home; then, finally, he sent messages a distance of two miles. He was greatly excited. His father told him he was wasting his time but a few years later, young Marconi sold some of his patents to the British Government for a quarter of a million dollars and his father was immensely impressed.

In 1901, Marconi believed that the great dream of his life was about to come true, so he rushed across the Atlantic Ocean, confident he would be able to receive messages in America from his sending station in England.

Landing in Newfoundland, Marconi sent up a kite to act as an aerial. He listened—listened for hours, waiting breathlessly for the signals that were supposed to come from his station in Cornwall, England. But none came, there wasn't a sound. Tragically disappointed, he believed that his experiment was a failure, that the great dream of his life had been blasted.

Then suddenly, he heard a faint click. Then another. Then another. Yes, that was it. There it was, the signal they had agreed upon. The three dots which stood for the letter S in the alphabet used by telegraph operators. Flushed with excitement Marconi knew that his achievement, was momentous history. He longed to rush out and shout the news from the house-tops. But should he? No. He feared people wouldn't believe him so for forty-eight hours he shared his secret with no one. Then gathering courage, he cabled a sensation. Newspapers on five continents featured the story, and it set the scientific world seething with excitement.

And how old was Marconi when he did all this? Only twenty-seven. Immediately, he began getting letters, he cabled a sensation. Newspapers on five continents featured the story, and it set the scientific world seething with excitement.

Sally Irene And Mary Is Cozy Feature

A certain Hollywood barber, knowing Gregory's taste as a penchant for being immaculately groomed, very nearly went to a psychiatrist recently when his favorite movie hero came in an explicity asked for a half-shave and half-shave.

That was on a Tuesday. On Wednesday the barber, confident that no film hero's fobies could last more than 24 hours, was all braced to do a complete overhaul as Ratoff eased into the chair. Again half a shave plus.

Thursday came and went. And Friday, And Saturday.

By Monday the barber was half groggy from half-shaving. After all, if a thing like this got around, all Hollywood would be ordering half-shaves. It might result in a demand for half-prices and worst of all:

Half tips!

So the barber carefully arrived at the subject of how come this new wrinkle of half-shave and 50 per cent of a hair-cut?

Ratoff burst into a snuff and realizing for the first time the awful possibilities of such a situation, carefully explained to the terrified tonsorialist that he had an infant's scalp in 20th Century Fox's new musical smash, "Sally, Irene and Mary" is his newest picture, Ratoff explained. (Tell a barber something at 9 a. m. and by midnight every customer will have heard of it.)

"Alke Faye, Tony Martin, and Fred Allen head the cast," continued Gregory. "Also there are Jimmy Durante, Jimmy Davis, Marjorie Weaver and Louise Lovick. Of course, I, too, am in the picture."

"In one scene I am being shaved just as a lot of excitement starts. I jump from the barber chair with only half of my hair cut and half of my face shaved. It is very funny scene, I mean!"

"We have been shooting this sequence for several days, now, and that's why I have to order a half-shave and half-hair-cut."

The barber was considerably relieved but when Ratoff didn't tell the pate-pruner and beard-burnisher is that "Sally, Irene and Mary" opens at the Cozy Theatre Sunday, June 12.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Jess of whether one looks forward to a life beyond the grave or believes that death is the ultimate end of the philosophical mind is ready for it when it comes.

A considerable group of scientific workers is engaged in studying the phenomenon of death and its causes. They agree that death is general painless. Even sudden and violent death is usually only a surprising shock. The lower forms of life do not fear death, for they are unable to imagine it.

Greatly as mankind dreads death, however, the human spirit rises above fear when facing death in their and his own rights and liberties. Men have died from the beginning of things for their beliefs and ideas. That is, in thinking the greatest of all differences between mankind and the beasts.

IMMORTALITY Human Eye

One universal human inquiry to which science has so far offered no answer is: Does life go on beyond the grave? The survival of the spirit of the soul, in one form or another is a belief shared by the most primitive races, and taught by all religions. Yet none has ever come back to prove it, though many have pretended and some have honestly believed that they have seen or talked with disembodied spirits.

I have read what many believers in Spiritualism have written. I have attended many Spiritualist meetings and seances. I have never read or seen any evidence that was convincing to me of communication with the spirits of the dead.

Nearly every one of the famous "mediums" has been exposed as a palpable fraud and trickster. It seems probable to me that the belief in a future life is generally accepted because the human ego cannot easily bear the thought of annihilation. And I am satisfied that if there is a life after death, it is on plane with which the living can have no communication.

KENTUCKY IS 146 YEARS OLD

Kentucky was 146 years old June 1.

On June, 1 1792, the Bluegrass state was admitted to the union but there was no special observance of the anniversary.

Noted for its thoroughbred horses, beautiful women, and whiskey, the state was in the limelight, notably because of the trial at London where 66 defendants are on trial on charges of conspiring to prevent coal miners from organizing Harlan county, long a labor trouble spot.

Parade Of Counties

FAYETTE COUNTY

Fayette County, the last of the Virginia triplets, was born in 1780 and at the time of its birth comprised the eastern third of the state. The commonwealth of Virginia named this great section of Eastern Kentucky as a testimonial of gratitude to the General Lafayette—that noble, generous, Democratic Frenchman who was the friend of the thirteen colonies. Lexington, the capital of Fayette, was named for that battle in Massachusetts where was "fired the shot that was heard round the world." Other towns, too, bear his name and romantic names that thrill the student of world history and cause each Kentuckian to prout with pride, such as Boone Station and Athens. It might be called a "land flowing with milk and honey." Here the men from the hills of Carolina and Virginia highlands. Daniel Boone crossed a barrier of mountains to land and explore this region and revealed it to induce others to return with him to the promised land at the end of the Wilderness Trail. Thus the men of the hills first felt the enchantment of the bluegrass plains. The good rich earth lay many feet deep. The trees of the forest grew to great dimensions, and scattered throughout the country were many dense "cane breaks." The abundance of game and the richness of water and soil smiled their gentle welcome to the pioneers.

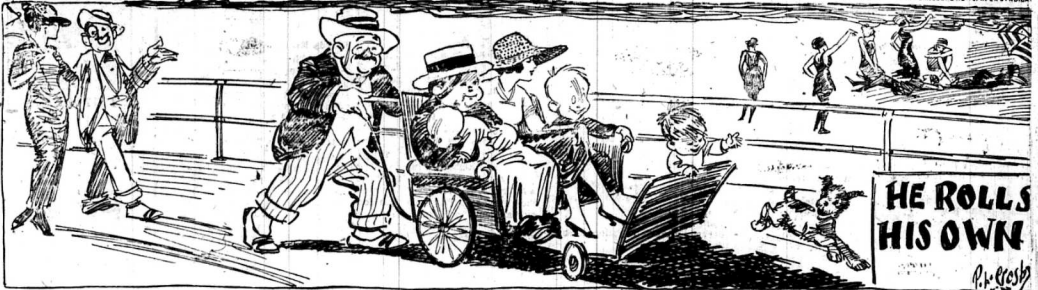

It was through Fayette County that George Rogers Clark passed on his mission of conquest of the great West. It was here that Henry Clay grew to fame and Abraham Lincoln married Mary Todd. In Lexington the parents of Mark Twain were married. As the ribbon of Kentucky history unfolds, the majestic figures of its great men, Daniel Boone, James Harrod, William McConnell, cast their shadows over Fayette County. As you stand in the streets of Lexington you may say "Along these streets passed the humble and the great." Among the latter are Henry Clay, LeFayette, Cassius Clay, J. C. Breckinridge, Professor C. S. Rafinesque, Colonel James Morrison, William Taylor Barry, a member of Jackson's cabinet and minister to Spain, General John Hunt Morgan, Colonel William Preston, and a host of others who have led the state and nation in a glorious manner.

There is a thrill in the story of Fayette County's men of yesterday, and the story of her fine citizenship of today. The citizens of today, too, deserve a tribute.

Fayette County is the central county of the world-famous Bluegrass Region of Kentucky. Since June, 1775, its population has grown to more than 70,000, while its area decreased from one third of the area of the state to its present area of 269 square miles. It is about 11 miles broad from east to west and about 25 miles long from north to south. This little site is situated in the waters of Elkhorn Creek and Kentucky River. Its county neighbors are Scott, Bourbon, Clark, Madison, Jessamine, and Woodford. It is a gentle rolling table land or plain of an average elevation of about 650 feet. The surface with its rich limestone soils possesses an ideal drainage system, since all the streams rise and flow from the center of the county and empty into the Kentucky River.

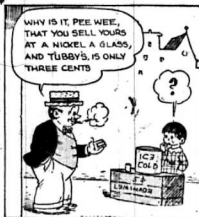

The rich fertile lands of Fayette and its surrounding counties still cast their spell over the whole state. The forests of yesterday have been supplanted by the bluegrass farms with their fields of bluegrass, pastures teeming with hooded stock, and rich cultivated lands with heavy yields of corn and tobacco. Some one has called this county the "center of the garden of Kentucky," as rich and productive as any land the sun ever shone on. Most of the land of Fayette County is in farms and in cultivation. Livestock, corn and tobacco are her wealth, but by

Sign of Decay Empire flourish till they become commercial, and then they are scattered abroad to the four winds.

Fayette County is as important part of the Kentucky of beauty and of memory. It is a leading link in education, in industry, in agriculture, and in transportation. It is famous for its fine Burley tobacco and is known throughout the world as the home of the finest thoroughbred horse-breeding establishments and many country estates. SAVE 25% ON YOUR TIRES. REPLACE YOUR SMOOTH WORN TIRES AND BE SAFE. LAST year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 40,000 men, women and children and nearly a quarter more were injured. More than 23,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding.

FIRESTONE CAN GIVE YOU SUCH A HIGH QUALITY TIRE AT SUCH A NEW LOW PRICE. Because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible more extra values at low prices.

Long Mileage - Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches that give full protection against skidding. Blowout Protection - Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process. Every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber which counteracts interleaf friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts. Puncture Protection - Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread that protect against punctures.

Build them with safe money-saving CONCRETE. MODERN pavements are urgently needed NOW on over-crowded main highways. Reconstruction or widening with concrete to present day standards will reduce congestion and driving time - cut down the accident rate - save vast sums in maintenance - insure community progress. Why You're Safe on Concrete. Concrete provides an even, dependable surface, sure traction rain or shine, utmost visibility at night - qualities vital to the protection of you and your family while on the road.

Whose "Ox Is Gored"

In 1935 the Rowan County News opposed the assessment of state employees for campaign purposes, especially in a primary campaign. In 1938, the Rowan County News is still consistent. We still oppose the assessment of state and federal employees for campaign purposes in a primary.

In 1935, the Rowan County News was supporting Governor A. B. Chandler in his race for the nomination. At that time the now Governor as well as his supporters fought desperately with every weapon at their command, to overcome the handicap of the "machine" which had been built up. Evidently in the minds of the powers at Frankfort, it depends entirely on who gets the benefit of the assessments and the support.

"Weed-cutters" is 1935 were as poison to the present state administration. But judgments of highways and byways at present, they present the aroma of roses in 1938. Post-palpaters are an innovation that have been seen recently, and glorified weed-cutters in the shape of traffic checkers have during the past few weeks made their appearance. All of which goes to show that it all depends on whose "ox is gored," whether or not such extra jobs are justified.

Perhaps the most amusing thing that has happened lately in regard to the extravagant claims of accomplishment by the present administration, occurred in Frankfort last Saturday when the new bridge across the Kentucky was dedicated with due pomp and ceremony. The state administration, in line with other extravagant claims they are making, assumed all credit for the construction of the bridge, not withstanding the fact that the contract was let during the previous administration, and not withstanding the fact that the Federal government had furnished a major portion of the funds used.

Following the ceremony, at which by the way there were no federal representatives, a hand bill was found in every car gathered for the "I Love Me" celebration.

The hand bill referred unto Caesar the things which were Caesars, but gave due credit to others who were responsible for the work. It stated that Governor Laffoon and the previous Legislature were responsible for the arrangements, that the Federal Government at the request and insistence of Senator Alben W. Barkley had put up 73 percent of the funds required. It stated that in the construction of the highway from Louisville to Shelbyville, the Federal government and Senator Barkley were responsible for over 60 percent of the money used, and emphasized the fact that in the construction of every highway in the state, Federal funds were responsible for a large proportion of the costs.

Action Is Needed

The News last week expressed itself vigorously against the overnight blooming out of whiskey stores throughout Morehead, which appeared by July 6 when the new State law would have prohibited the sale outside the city limits.

Since that time a number of citizens have, more or less, united in protesting against the same thing that the News editorially started a fight against. We are unacquainted with all the methods that can be used to combat this menace which appears very near our doorsteps. We do know that the state laws specifies that the city has the right to "enforce and control" the sale of liquor within its confines.

We offer to the City Council, which will meet in regular session next Tuesday, the suggestion that the City Attorney render a report as to just what can be done so far as regulating this traffic and take the best applicable steps in the matter.

The City apparently has the right to limit the number of stores and if they act according to the wishes of the majority of the people they will pass an ordinance to that effect.

The Cost Of Pain

The Morehead State Teachers College, as rumor goes, purchased less than a quarter of a cent of stock put on the goal posts at Jayne Stadium. This point cost $1800. It has been estimated that this money might have been put to better use by placing lights at the east end of the campus where the New Men's Hall is and where everything except the steering wheels have been stolen from automobiles during the last month.

Tampering With Old Age Pensions Started

With each passing day supporters of Senator Alben W. Barkley are raising their estimate of the size of the majority that the Senator will receive over Governor Chandler in the August primary. It seems to be an admitted fact from most political observers that Barkley has gained ground steadily throughout the campaign.

If the American Institute of Public Opinion poll, which called the Presidential election to the State two years ago, is correct, Barkley's majority should go above the 100,000 mark. Some of the more optimistic Barkley adherents are claiming the election by a majority of 200,000, this seems far too great. However, if the Senator continues to gain ground it may be nearer this figure than the 100,000 mark.

Although they have made no public statement as to where their support will go it seems that the Louisville Courier-Journal, the strongest newspaper in Kentucky, will support Senator Barkley. That Chandler political meetings this summer and don't happen to have transportation you might call the headquarters of the State Highway Department. It could furnish you with a driver free of charge and might even supply you with a State car and State gasoline to take you to the speaking.

State Patrolman Serves As Chauffeur.
Emma Guy Cromwell, Mrs. Albert Kallenbrun, Mrs. E. C. Moore and Mrs. Bert Dakley went from Frankfort to Morehead Sunday to attend Governor Chandler's political speech at Harlan on Monday. They had the services of a State patrolman as driver on the 400-mile trip. Governor Chandler himself used a state automobile and a State highway patrolman as driver to go to and from the Harlan meeting.

The Chandler Administration is preparing to play politics with the old-age pensions. To get a true picture of what is planned it is necessary to review briefly what happened last year.

The State's Old Age Assistance Appropriation for the year beginning last July 1 and ending June 30, 1938, was $2,500,000. This was matched with a 400 million of Federal funds.

From Pension Rolls
Last November Governor Chandler discovered that there were 42,000 names on the old-age rolls. The funds were being depleted so rapidly that they would have been exhausted before now.

To avoid this the Governor issued orders that the rolls be gone over, and the least worthy names be eliminated. The Governor's orders that the rolls be cut to approximately 33,000 names.

The appropriation for the new year beginning July 1 is $3,000,000. Out of this the State must care for old age pensions, child welfare and an help for the blind. More than two months ago the Chandler Administration began plans to put 15,000 more persons on the old-age rolls beginning July 1. This would get the checks to them before the first of August and a week or so before primary elections.

Reduction Predicted During November
If $2,500,000 would not support 42,000 persons on the old-age rolls this fiscal year neither will $3,000,000 support 50,000 persons on the old-age rolls through the next fiscal year.

The extra 15,000 pensioners will go on in August and by November when the elections are being held the lopping off process will start all over again and thousands of names will be stricken. Those who really deserve relief will get less than they deserve so that money they are entitled to can be scattered among a greater number of persons for political purposes.

W. C. Burrow, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was in Harlan Monday distributing campaign literature to the crowd gathered for "Chandler Appreciation Day." Mr. Burrow's pamphlet found fault with Senator Barkley for obtaining a job for his son-in-law with the Finance Commission.

Chandler Kin Hold State Jobs
It is probably all a part of the great and good politics, but Mr. Burrow neglected to tell the voters that Governor Chandler has a son-in-law in the pay-roll, too. One of them is employed at the Oldham County Reformatory. One is scattered around holding State jobs.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON
The situation in Washington as the last regular session of the 75th Congress comes to an end can best be described as one of utter confusion, with both Administration forces and those of the Opposition torn by internal dissensions and divided councils. Politically, there exists a state of chaos, out of which there is little chance of order emerging until after the November elections.

By their votes for Senators, Representatives, Governors and other state officials on November first the American people, in theory at least, will chart the course which they desire the Federal Government to follow. How far this Fall's elections will be a clear-cut cross-section of public opinion is, of course, undecidable.

Present Day Voting
If everyone who is entitled to vote actually went to the polls and voted on election day there would be no question about the will of the people, which is, in fact as well as in theory, the only basis upon which the Government is based. But even in the quadrennial national elections no more than two thirds of the eligible voters have ever taken the trouble to register their personal choices on men and issues, and the majority of the actual elections is a very rare occurrence indeed for as many as half of the voters fail to turn out.

Only when there are sharply defined local issues and hard fought local campaigns, either for state offices or for representatives in Congress, do most voters bother to go to the polls except in Presidential years. That is one of the differences between a democratic form of government and an authoritarian government. In the lands of the dictators voters are compelled, under penalty, to go to the polls on election day and cast their votes.

To make certain that they vote "right" the ballots in Italy, under Mussolini, give the voters no choice. They contain the names of Fascist candidates and no others, and every citizen is obliged to vote in political circles. The President's idea is to impose a Federal tax of $5 every two years on every citizen eligible to vote at elections for Federal officers, and to refund the tax at election time to every voter who casts his or her ballot for Presidential elections, Senator or Representative in Congress. That this plan would be effective in bringing to the polls a very much larger proportion of voters than now exercise their right of suffrage is considered certain. No one would refuse to pay such a tax levied by Federal authority, but the certainty of getting the $5 back by merely going to the polls and voting would be a strong inducement, especially, it is held, to the eligible women voters, who are not yet taking as active a part in public life as the men.

That Congress has power under the Constitution to levy such a tax and to announce its refund, in view of such conditions is believed by many of those in Congress who have given consideration to the subject. The Constitution, however, contains no express provision for such a direct tax, except in proportion to the decennial census enumeration. A tax on all persons over 21 would be levied, in direct proportion to the census count, and so Constitutional.

Washington.
While frequently differing with his views on public questions, we have always admired his straightforward manner and sincerity of purpose; his tireless energy, his unflinching loyalty to friends which has indeed been one of his outstanding virtues, and his courteous treatment of his constituents at all times, regardless of how busy he might be. Fred Minson has always been the type of man who never forgets the "folks back home" and his record as a member of Congress has been a most enviable one.

We congratulate Judge Vinson and feel sanguine his record on the bench will equal that made while representing this district in Congress.—M. Sterling Advocate.

No remains have been found of which it can be said with certainty that they belonged to the first type of primitive man. There is positive proof, however, that intelligent man beings, fire builders and tool-users, have inhabited the earth for more than 20,000 years, possibly for as long as 100,000 years.

TODAY and TOMORROW
FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

LIFE origination
How life began on earth is a question the answer to which scientists and philosophers have been searching for hundreds of years. To the millions who take literally the Biblical account of the Creation it is no puzzle. Among other opinions are divided between two theories of the origin of life.

Swed Arrhenius, a Swedish scientist, put forth the theory that life first came to earth in the form of organisms borne from some other planet, by meteorites. A vast amount of scientific research has failed either to prove or disprove the theory.

The generally accepted belief of scientists is that life originated right here on the earth, by the mechanical combination of non-living elements. This theory is born out by study of the extremely simple structure of the lowest forms of life. Now a Russian bio-chemist, Dr. Oparin, has come out with a book in which he shows how it was possible, in the earth's beginning, for the building which is present life, including man, from the primordial slime which was the earliest form of living matter, is now in all living matter, and with the stars, to combine with water to form hydrocarbons, the simplest of all organic compounds, and for those to combine with other elements to form the living matter, from which all higher forms of life, including humanity, have descended.

EVOLUTION Primalordial Slime
The theory of the evolution of all life, as it is known to us, is a theory which has been accepted by scientists. Science has traced the process step by step, almost to the appearance on earth of human beings as we are today.

In the evolutionary progress many forms of life arose which were unable to survive, and their fossil remains are found all over the globe. Among these were many human-like creatures, while many kinds of apes with almost human characteristics succeeded in surviving until the present day.

No remains have been found of which it can be said with certainty that they belonged to the first type of primitive man. There is positive proof, however, that intelligent man beings, fire builders and tool-users, have inhabited the earth for more than 20,000 years, possibly for as long as 100,000 years.

DEATH Its Phenomenon
The instinct to live is deep-seated in the human mind. "All that a man hath will he give for his life," is one of the basic truths written in the Bible. To the young death seems an awful thing to contemplate; and it is, for the young who have so much ahead of them to live for. As age comes on, the prospect of death diminishes. Regard-for some years, He applied his mechanical ingenuity to the invention of a pump like device by means of which all kinds of tissues can be kept alive and experiments can be made upon them to discover what makes them grow, what retards their growth, and how various disease signs and injurious substances affect them.

Out of these and other experiments scientists are beginning to learn as much about death as about life. High hopes are being held that eventually, ways will be found to prevent, healthy human life far beyond its present limits.
