Cracker Barrel Comments

(By Woody Hinton)

The new Citizens Bank reminds me of a combination Cocktail Bar and high fashion beauty parlor combined. Mr. Lane, the cashier has been so accustomed to wading in and out of the old bank building that on the opening day he had on his overalls. I noticed Miss Pruda when she stepped out the door that through the habit she jumped about four feet, which is the width of that water hole in front of the old bank. I only had one request to make—and that was to move the wall in the old building that I had to hang the cold checks I get on. I don't need one for mine, they send them back. Hazel Daugherty the wife of the president had them change those gold letters on the outside. They had some upside down. Mark Logan was the first one to spit on the floor. I wrote the first cold check. Doug Bellamy tried to make the first loan. Dr. Black was in having his balance checked to see that they had not looked any of his money in moving. The owner of the Eagles Nest was in to get a tree pencil and fill his fountain pen. Dan Parker of the Playhouse was in to get a pencil and on going out helped himself to a blotter. A lot of the above is true, a lot of it is not. I am sure my readers and I join THE NEW CITIZENS BANK in wishing them all the success in the bigger and better Morehead. Good luck.

Seventeen were jailed in the city last week-end. I understand a man is wanted for the west end of the city to do prancing. His qualifications are that he must be large enough to wear a large dark overcoat with plenty of pockets and work on Sunday. Man who formerly had this job has gone to the east end of Morehead. Simpson Logan, the old seaman is in the Marine hospital at New Orleans. Drop him a line. Herbert Conant was in to President the day after the Chase field robbery; to have a bill passed to make it illegal to rob any and all places of business while the proprietor is sleeping. Well had I been elected your Senator I would have worked on getting M. S. Boyne Highway up Dry Creek. The Hero of the Chase. The James Rose Viaduct. The Fox Creek Bridge. The Higher Gas Pressure Improvement Association of Morehead. As I was not elected, don't you guys come around crying on my shoulders. Go to Van and J. J. Thomas.

Ed Hall Named As Street Dep't. Head by Council

At a special meeting of the Morehead City Council held in the city hall Tuesday, March 5, Ed Hall was named head of the street cleaning department. Hall plans to work the city prisoners on the streets of the town. Mayor C. B. Daugherty appointed John Palmer, Curt Brock and J. L. Boggess as city tax supervisors. They will be in session March 13 at the City Hall, according to Mayor Daugherty and will hear any cases of appeal from citizens at that time.

"Plans are just being formulated for the dance and as yet no orchestra has been chosen," says Greenholtz, "but in keeping with our tradition we will try to make this dance the largest and best of the semester."

Morehead, Ashland To Meet Friday At 8 O'clock

Winding up basketball exclusive of the gate meet in high school circles is the 16th regional tournament scheduled to start Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Morehead and Ashland meet in what might be according to dopsters, the upset of the tournament. Picked Teams Win In District Tourney Held At Grayson

Results ran very much to form in Eastern Kentucky's four district tournaments last week, the notable exceptions being at Mt. Sterling, where a pair of dark horse entries, Trapp and Camargo, sent the favorites out of action and won themselves a trip to the regional at Morehead scheduled to start here today. At Ashland, the Tomcats and Catlettsburg's Wildcats, were the survivors as expected, and at Grayson, favored Breckinridge and Morehead came through intact. McKell and Raceland, highly regarded teams in the Fullerton meet, had little difficulty in getting to the finals. The four district championship games afforded only one close score, that when Trapp rallied in the last frame to down Camargo 28-26 with Guard Chism setting the scoring pace for the winning club.

Chandler A Candidate

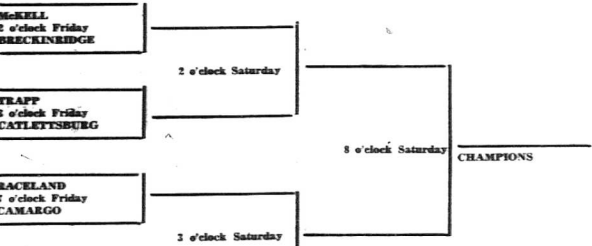

Senator A. B. Chandler, while in Kentucky last week for a brief visit, filed his notification papers with the Secretary of State for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky to fill out the unexpired term of Senator M. M. Logan, deceased, which position he now holds by virtue of appointment by Governor Keen Johnson.

Bathing Beauties To Parade; Water Carnival March 15

Every Girl Eligible To Compete For Queen

A bathing queen will be selected from the cream of Morehead's plebeians March 15, when the annual parade of beauties march in the Senft natatorium. Miss Estel Robinson, chairman of the Social committee, who is sponsoring the Water Carnival, asks that all the names of contestants be filed with her by March 12.

Each member of the audience is given a ballot at the door, the winner to be chosen by popular vote.

The requirements for contestants, according to Miss Robinson, are good looks, good posture, and a "figure." Every girl is eligible, and may represent her home town, county, or organization or club on the campus.

The first Water Carnival, held the week of the Winter festival, in February, 1938, was reignited over by Gladys Allen, Morehead blonde. Thelma Strong and Martha Lewis, Jackson and Ashland, respectively, came in for second and third positions. Last year's queen and alternate were the two Paintsville girls, Tommy Jean Kirk, and Marjorie Thomas, while another blonde from Morehead, Frances Pearl, ran them a close race to place third.

As the second feature at the aquatic celebration mermaids and mermen dive in the spotlight in charge of the water sports will be Earl King Senft, Louise Caudill and Nell Walters. Mermaids suddenly burst forth in bloom, their arms and legs forming intricate petals and designs. Diving is always a highlight of the program, while races are termed essentials.

The Water Carnival opens at seven o'clock, and the admission will be twenty-five cents, Miss Robinson said.

KENTUCKY WILDLIFE

FEED WINTER BIRDS

In the southern half of the United States the problem of obtaining food is not often of importance to the birds spending the winter with us. Occasionally, however, heavy snows make food inaccessible for several days in succession. A bird defending a section under such conditions will do much good in preventing hardships among the feathered creatures. Furthermore a constantly operated feeding station, will attract birds to your yard and make your environs a bird haven providing you prevent predation by cats as well. During the time when food is scarce the opportunity of winning the trust and friendship of birds at hand. Birds which have learned to find food at your station during inclement weather will continue to feed there, and if a resident species, will in all likelihood nest near you.

The question naturally, arises concerning types of food and location of the station. A mixture of various foods will attract a variety of species. Chick scratch grain which can be purchased from your grocer or feed store is good all round food and seed eaters. Certain birds are partial to sunflower seeds and the additions of these may make your table more attractive. The insect-eaters will be attracted by suet. A large piece of suet placed in a wire soap dish and fastens to a tree will bring woodpeckers, nuthatches, chickadees and many others. You may scatter feed upon the ground or you may construct a shelf with a roof protecting the station from wind, rain, and snow. It is even possible to build a shelf on your window ledge so that you may watch your visitors from your armchair. It may take some time for the birds to discover the station but once they have learned to come the number of visitors will constantly increase and your efforts, then, will be repaid many times over by the pleasure you will receive in making the intimate acquaintances of your feathered guests.

EVERGREEN PLANTS

woody species and the dying to the ground of those herbaceous plants which grow from the roots a second year. Numerous small plants remain green during the winter with us. Occasionally, however, heavy snows make food inaccessible for several days in succession. A bird defending a section under such conditions will do much good in preventing hardships among the feathered creatures. Furthermore a constantly operated feeding station, will attract birds to your yard and make your environs a bird haven providing you prevent predation by cats as well. During the time when food is scarce the opportunity of winning the trust and friendship of birds at hand. Birds which have learned to find food at your station during inclement weather will continue to feed there, and if a resident species, will in all likelihood nest near you.

The heath family contributes a number of evergreens. Mountain laurel and rhododendron are among the larger plants which bear green leaves at this period. Two other heaths are equally interesting. The first of these, trailing arbutus, is sought after for its blossoms, which have a fragrance much loved by those who know the plant. The other, wintergreen or mountain tea, is a favorite of the youngster who likes to chew the leaves for the flavor. The red berried which are abundant at this season are also edible and contain the wintergreen taste. Another red-berried evergreen, though not a heath, is often found growing with arbutus and wintergreen. It is known as partridge berry for the ruffled grouse is fond of the fruit. This plant is trailing and vine-like with small opposite leaves and is often found in the mosses along the mountain brook or hanging from the rocks in a shady glen.

Among the ferns there are many evergreens, particularly those which might be called rock ferns. The lobed and ebony spleenworts will be found growing on the rock cliffs wherever a bit of soil can be found. Waik fern, which received its name because of the tip of the frond roots readily and starts a new plant grows in shaded places on hillsides or in the valleys. The Christmas fern and marginal and spiny shield ferns are common large evergreen ferns.

Numerous other species also remain green in winter. Two of these, hepatica and wild ginger, are early bloomers in spring flowers which are familiar to nearly everyone. It is possible to mention only a few evergreens which are not covered by the above list it is apparent that there are many species which remain evergreen. The winter hiker could spend an enjoyable afternoon in the woods adding to the list of which I have given you.

From the effects of the different plant food elements one can easily tell which of these is lacking in the soil and work toward supplying that one and not have to buy those that are not needed in the growth of farm crops.

The Citizens Bank Marches Ahead

Last week we carried an announcement about the opening of the Citizens Bank in their new quarters in the Cecil building, on Main Street.

This week we should like to congratulate them—a nod for that matter—all the good citizens of Morehead.

Our city has registered a growth of several hundred with the last few years. A jump of several hundred here is equivalent to a larger city's doubling its population.

All of this, if you please, in the middle of a depression while many other towns were static.

Since the flood of July 5 over a quarter of a million dollars has been expended in building enterprise in this county.

To us this growth, this spirit of re-building and inability to admit defeat shows the spirit of the greater portion of Moreheadians. And so to the directors of the citizens bank, to its president and to its customers—congratulations. And may Morehead prosper that you may prosper!

Rowan Shows Largest Number Matriculating

106 Students Are Listed By Registrar From Rowan; Carter Second

A hundred and six students are registered from Rowan County, Morehead State Teachers College, according to a report from the registrar's office. This group leads with the largest number of students enrolled for the second semester, while Carter tops Morgan by one student, sixty-one and sixty students, respectively. Johnson county leads by a majority of one over Boyd, Greenup and Floyd counties, are in the show with over thirty students each.

Twenty-five students are registered as "out-of-the-state," representing Arizona, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Indiana, Ohio, and Tennessee.

The list of counties represented and the number of students enrolled from each are:

- Anderson, 1; Bracken, 3; Bourbon, 3; Bath, 23; Boyd, 41; Boyle, 8; Breathitt, 8; Campbell, 12; Caldwell, 1; Clark, 2; Carter, 61; Elliott, 26; Floyd, 31; Fleming, 12; Fayette, 1; Franklin, 2; Grant, 1; Greenup, 34; Harlan, 5; Hopkins, 2; Johnson, 42; Jefferson, 3; Knott, 12; Knox, 1; Letcher, 19; Lawrence, 29; Lewis, 9; Lee, 1; Laurel, 1; Lincoln, 1; Leslie, 1; Morgan, 60; Magoffin, 4; Martin, 15; Montgomery, 8; Menifee, 10; Mason, 2; McCracken, 2; Nicholas, 4; Pulaski, 4; Powell, 7; Perry, 13; Pike, 9; Russell, 1; Rowan, 106; Scott, 2; Taylor, 2; Wolf, 9; Wayne, 2; Whitley, 5; Out-of-state, 25, and incomplete registrations, 5.

Farmers Will Soon Face Soil Problems

Rowan Land Rich In Nitrogen And Phosphorus

(By Carl Wade)

Many farmers will soon be faced with the problem of buying commercial fertilizer in a short while. Fertilizer is expensive to some people and to others it is a money making factor.

First let us look into the soil and see what is in a soil for plant growth. According to Cir. No. 145 from the University of Kentucky, Rowan county has the following analysis per acre of soil: Nitrogen 1960 pounds, Phosphorus 650 pounds, and potassium 19600 pounds. The amount of nitrogen seems to be a plenty but the point is all the amount present is not available at one time. From Cir. No. 54 Kentucky, we find that two per cent of the Nitrogen is available, one per cent of the phosphorus and one-fourth of one per cent in potassium. Using the figures above we find that there would be 196 pounds of nitrogen available in one year, 65 of P₂O₅ and approximately 50 pounds of potassium. To buy the above amount of fertilizer in commercial it would require an application of 1300 pounds of 2-8-6 to supply the amount of Nitrogen and would exceed the potassium a little. Now some farmers will apply 100 pounds of fertilizer to the acre and say it did not help any, that is true, because it only played a 13th part in the production of the crop.

Now let us see what is needed in the soil to produce a crop that is to be grown this year, according to Cir. No. 54.

- Crop Requirements
- Corn 50—Nitrogen 75 lbs.—Phosphorus 11 lbs.—Potassium 26 lbs.—Tobacco 1000 lbs.—Nitrogen 25 lbs.—Phosphorus 2.5 lbs.—Potassium 25 lbs.—Wheat 25 bu.—Nitrogen 43 lbs.—Phosphorus 8 lbs.—Potassium 30 lbs.—Clover hay 2 ton—Nitrogen 80 lbs.—Phosphorus 7 lbs.—Potassium 60 lbs.

Using these figures above one can determine just what is required to produce a crop that is satisfactory, and know what to add and how much.

To be yet more successful one should know the effects of the three plant food element in the soil. Taking Nitrogen first:

- 1. Encourages growth of foliage.
- 2. Gives plant dark color.
- 3. Makes plumper grains.
- 4. Enters into the formation of protein.
- 5. Improves succulence of green plants, such as lettuce.
- Bad effects:
- 6. Delays maturity and endangers the crop of fruit.
- 7. May weaken straw and cause grain to lodge.
- 8. May lower the quality of the grain and fruits.
- 9. May decrease the resistance to diseases.

Phosphorus and what it does to the plant:

- 1. Hastens maturity.
- 2. Encourages stronger and more roots.
- 3. Enters into protein formation.
- 4. Fills out the grain properly.
- 5. Assists plants in cell division.
- 6. Help break down starches from insoluble to soluble form.
- 7. Aids in respiration of the plant.
- 8. Decrease the ratio of straw to grain.

Potassium and its effects on the plant:

- 1. Aids in the formation of starch, especially that in the stem and in the leaves.
- 2. Aids in the formation of protein.

High Spots on Record-Breaking Run

Signs of the times in a motor age—these highway markers tell the story of a two-year, 100,000-mile truck test run recently completed by Chevrolet. In Canada, Mexico and every state of the Union, the truck operated on all types of highways and under every conceivable weather hazard, setting a new world for sustained and certified automotive operation, under the sanction and official observation of the American Automobile Association. The unit carried a 4,590-pound "payload." An average of 15.1 miles per gallon of fuel was maintained throughout the 100,000 miles, at an average operating speed of 33.07 miles per hour. Oil mileage was correspondingly high—1,072 miles per quart.

The 62nd All-District team was as follows: Horton and Crisp, Sandy Hook, Carter, Olive Hill, Judd and Johnson, Breckinridge; Barker and Tackett, Morehead, and Phillips, Grayson. Three boys whose play was equally deserving were Butcher, Morehead; Bracket, Olive Hill, and Helwig, Breck.

I just sit in my old rocking chair
And smoke my Indian Pipe.
