After four hours of debate the House of Representatives at Washington passed and sent to the Senate Tuesday a new naval expansion bill authorizing expenditure of $64,000,000 in the next two years to add twenty-one warships, twenty-two auxiliary vessels and 1,011 fighting planes to the fleet.

Federal Order Sets New Camp At Georgetown

Morehead is one of six lowest to lose CCC camps in Kentucky under tentative plans announced today by the Civilian Conservation Corps in an Associated Press release. It was learned that the Morehead Camp would be abandoned March 31.

The local camp is located off of route 50 one mile east of Morehead.

This was announced by CCC Director J. J. McEntee in Washington after Representative Johnson (D-Ohio), disclosed he had been informed by McEntee that it was planned to reduce the number of CCC camps in action from 1,500 to 1,227 to meet President Roosevelt's budget recommendations.

McEntee advised him the CCC would discontinue 273 camps permanently on March 31 (including five in Kentucky) and that 160 others (including one in Kentucky) would be closed for seasonal or other reasons not related to economy and re-establish them in new locations, re-opening old ones and open some new ones.

However, the CCC might revise its program if it should be voted an appropriation larger or smaller than that recommended in the budget, it was learned in Washington.

McEntee announced that under the new plan the new camp at Morehead which would be situated near Georgetown, that the Russellville camp would be closed for seasonal reasons and that the Morehead, Nigh (Pike county), Elizabethtown and Seebree and in Mammoth Cave national park.

Both Frank L. Linkenberry, Kentucky state supervisor of CCC selections, and George Goodman, state WPA administrator, said they had not been advised of the proposed new setup.

Senate Passes Bill To Aid Farmers

Purpose To Encourage Direct Dealing Between Producer And Consumer

Bills to create a markets division in the Agriculture Department and, sponsors said, to eliminate "leakages" in credit union operation were among nineteen passed by the Senate and sent to the Governor Tuesday.

The markets division, promised by Governor Johnson in his campaign, would be financed by a $15,000,000 appropriation voted earlier in the session.

It would be required to aid the farmers in setting up co-operatives, gather and disseminate information affecting marketing and prices, and encourage creation of public markets and "direct dealing between producer and consumer."

The credit union measures would limit membership in such organizations to persons having "mutual friendships" such as those in the same occupation or profession, and would:

Increase from $50 to $200 the amount of unsecured loan of its members. Exempt credit unions from the restrictions against assignment of wages, thus allowing them to take wage assignments for the life of a loan instead of for only ninety days as now.

Bates who was elected to Congress in the Eighth district in 1938 was allotted $1,780 by Greenup fiscal court—$60 for listing and registering voters, and $1,675 for services to the county board of election commissioners in eleven elections and primaries.

The county attorney sued for the recovery, claiming nothing was due Bates. Greenup Circuit Court cut the allowance to $1,074. The Court of Appeals held Bates was due $84 for the listing and registering and $375—$25 for (Continued on Page 3)

Breck-Ashland Tilt Thriller From Start As Cats Win 32-27

Large Attendance At 16th Regional Tournament

A gallant quietness went down to defeat 32-27 in the regional high school tournament held in the Morehead College gymnasium this past weekend as Ashland bested Breck's sharpshooters to win the regional trophy and win a trip to the state tournament starting in Lexington today.

Breck was ahead but once during the entire game. At the start Judd sank a crisp which was quickly overcome by Hilton, Ashland guard. The Tomcats were up 7-5 at the end of the first quarter, 17-13 at the half-way mark, 28-17 at the end of the third frame.

A desperate rally in the last quarter was staved off and Sloan iced the game for the Cats with a minute to go by sinking a long shot while the score was 32-27. The Thibaults battled until the final whistle blew.

In previous games Coach Bobby Laughtin's lads had whipped Catlettsburg 25-20 and McKell 30, 27 while the Tomcats were winning their way to the finals by beating Morehead and Camargo.

Preparations Made For Spring Term "Jump" At M.S.T.C.

President Babb Points Out Cold Weather Cause Of Slight Drop

Preparations are being made at Morehead State Teachers College for a "boom," spring enrollment with every indication pointing toward a large gain when the session starts on April 1.

President H. A. Babb pointed out that the cold inclement weather of late January caused the closing of many county schools with the result that teachers who normally matriculate at Morehead for the second semester of work were forced to "make up" the lost time.

A variety of courses aimed to meet the needs of the teacher have been arranged for the period from April 1 to May 31, according to Dean W. H. Vaughan. Requests for additional information relative to the spring enrollment should be addressed to his office.

Dean Vaughan also called attention to the fact that Morehead State College as well as the other state teachers colleges in Kentucky will have but one session of summer school this year. It will convene for eight weeks rather than for two separate sessions of five weeks each, the dean set out.

Courses in Art, biology, education, English, Geography, health, History, home economics, music, political science and psychology will be offered for the spring semester. Approximate expenses for the spring term run $68.25, Dean Vaughan said.

CHEAP MONEY COSTLY

"In the long run," said a small town banker, "it will be the Government which suffer most from its cheap money policy, for it is rapidly succeeding in killing off thrift, the real backbone of its security. Nothing can do more than excessively cheap money to destroy the incentive to save and invest in productive undertakings. And nothing can work a heavier burden on those millions of people who depend for all or part of their livelihood on a little accumulated capital interested in securities or mortgages. The 'big fellow' is hit least by cheap money if you have enough capital, even an extremely low interest return will bring you an adequate income. It is the 'little fellow' who, with a few thousand dollars' savings, who bears the brunt of it.

From the point of view of our national economy, cheap money seems to have proven itself an almost unmitigated evil. It has forced banks to pare interest on deposit to the point of non-existence—the banks can't pay a rate of interest they are unable to earn. And it has driven an abnormal amount of money out of industry and non-productive channels, such as government bonds. Why should a man take a chance on a venture in which he may lose it, that more and more industries try go begging for the capital which would produce jobs, opportunities and new wealth for the people.

No nation can remain great when the incentive to save and invest is destroyed. No nation can maintain its place in the sun when government policies virtually force money out of productive uses. No nation can go ahead when the little capital saved over arduous years, through a working man's labor and sacrifice, produces a diminishing return. Any person, the millions of ordinary Americans who would normally be saving and investing, and abnormally cheap money has been among the most damaging.

WILD LIFE OF KENTUCKY
 by Roger Barbour
 MOREHEAD STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

The readers are probably all aware that Dr. Wilfred A. Wetler was fatally injured in an automobile accident last December 20, 1939. As a result of that accident, Kentucky has lost one of her foremost naturalists.

At the time of the accident there were enough wildlife articles written to run until the present time. That supply of articles is now exhausted. It would be unfortunate, indeed, to let the series to cease when it really only is beginning. It is my intention to continue the work, knowing, of course, that I cannot hope to write as good articles as were written by Dr. Wetler. However, I feel that in a measure I can uphold the standards set by Dr. Wetler, since I have been trained by him and by other competent naturalists.

- Dr. Wetler planned to write articles on the following subjects:
1. The Opossum.
 2. Kentucky Life Zones.
 3. Salamanders.
 4. Places of Interest.
 5. Game Fishes.
 6. Hellgramites.
 7. Hillside Farming.
 8. Evergreen Plants.
 9. Termites.
 10. Pollinating Insects.
- The plan at present is to write articles on these subjects and continue the series with articles of the writer's choosing.
- The opossum is one of the most widely known native animals of Kentucky, yet there is more misunderstanding current about it than almost any other animal. Practically everyone knows the animal on sight, but few have more than a passing acquaintance with it. This is very unfortunate, because the opossum is one of our most interesting mammals. Zoologists have long been at a

Wildlife Exhibit Is Being Prepared For Display

The Wildlife Exhibit of the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish is being prepared for display before a number of county fairs of young and old people throughout the state during the coming summer and fall months at the county fairs and tobacco festivals. Major James Brown, director of the Division, stated today.

The exhibit has been displayed by the state at the fairs during the past three years and has created widespread interest wherever shown.

This wildlife display is being worked over and will contain numerous new mounted specimens of wild birds and animals in addition to several live birds and animals which have been acquired recently, especially for the display.

Billy Lee, Conservation officer of the division, in charge of the display, urges all county fair secretaries who desire this exhibit to write in the date on which their county fair is to be held. This will make booking of fairs much easier and will eliminate controversial issues.

Airmarking is New State Problem

An interesting sign is the "traffic guide of the airways." Giving the name of a town, an arrow pointing north, and another arrow telling the direction and distance to the nearest airport, these signs show the pilot by day where he is—whether or not he is "on course," or whether he has wandered from his route, or is temporarily lost or confused. The signs are painted in bright yellow paint on roof-tops in letters ten or fifteen feet high. Prompt correction of navigational errors, by means of these markers, often prevents serious consequences.

Many states have tackled the problem of adequate airmarking, and many different procedures have been followed. These take the form of voluntary or compulsory markings, paid for by the town, or relief projects locally or state sponsored. Of course, there is always the problem of maintenance.

Several years ago the W.P.A. tried to mark Kentucky, but the project was never completed. We need airmarking now worse than we ever have because there are more people flying. Many of the signs put up at the time the work was done have been painted over by this time—or if they are still there, need to be freshened up a bit.

Flying an airplane cross country without air markers is comparable to driving a car on a trip without the aid of a road sign. It is not only extremely confusing at times, but often ends in disaster for the pilot.

We always have been recognized in other states as being a very hospitable people. This hospitality should be extended to those who choose to travel by plane. Airmarking our state is a good way to show our welcome to the air man and women of the country.

1940 Fishing Season Opens With Bang In Warren Co.

The 1940 fishing season opened with a bang in Warren county, near Bowling Green, last week when B. J. Stewart hooked and landed an 18 1/4 pound fighting "muskie."

It was the first muskellunge caught in that section this year and was landed after a ten-minute battle. The fish measured 42 inches in length and was lured to its doom with a pin-tail spinner.

Stewart was fishing at Graham Springs, a small stream fed by cold springs with a length of approximately 1-2 mile, and emptying into the Barren river four miles from Bowling Green.

Several other muskies broke water along the stream after Stewart landed his prize but he only had the one strike.

Green river, Barren river and Drake's creek in southwestern Kentucky afford good muskie fishing while Kinniconick creek, North fork of Triplett creek, Little Sandy river, Tygarts creek, Red river and upper Licking river in Northeastern Kentucky offer splendid muskie fishing in that section of the state.

Hogs Are Hogs Regardless

In one respect at least the farmer has the edge on the manufacturer, merchant or business man of the city. Through marketing cooperative organizations, the farmers, by group action, can dispose of their products quickly and at a maximum price.

A single manufacturer, on the other hand, must maintain his own salesman, and they must be better salesmen than those of his competitor next door. He must train them and furnish them transportation on the gamble that they will sell enough goods to reimburse all costs and leave a little profit. He must always be on guard against the possibility of a competitor thinking up a new "model" that might overnight leave him without a market for his product.

Marketing cooperatives are the modern farmer's "salesmen." The farmer does not have to worry about new models. Hogs are hogs. They have not changed materially since the days of King Tut. Neither have cows and the milk they give.

But the job of "selling" which the marketing co-ops do, is not simple just because there are no new models to contend with. Their business is to help the farmer maintain ready markets and stable distribution for time-honored necessities of life—not automobiles, face cream and luxury gadgets, but the products of America's farms.

Class one railroads in 1939 had a net railway operating income of $588,800,993, or a return of 2.26 percent on their property investment.

MIRACLE OF COTTON FILMED IN COLOR

"THREADS OF A NATION" FOLLOWS COTTON FROM FIELDS TO FASHIONS

The miracle of cotton from the fleecy white bolls on the Southern plantation to midday's latest fashions, has just been filmed in natural color and is being released to motion picture theatres throughout the country. It is called "The Threads of a Nation."

The ten minute reel depicts not only the magic transformation of cotton from raw material to queenly raiment, but also shows the historical growth of the immense cotton empire of the South upon which millions of persons depend for livelihood.

Featured are the intricate machines—ginning, weaving, dyeing and printing—whose almost human ingenuity and artist's genius clothed the nation. The picture is the life story of personal garments and useful fabrics, first blooming in endless fields, then spun into colorful threads, woven into fetching patterns, dyed with beautiful colors and printed in gay designs. So far flung are the processes of cotton manufacture that it took nearly six months to make this ten minute "short."

Popular in treatment throughout, "The Threads of a Nation" is the first of a series of screen entertainments recording the cultural and economic attainments of the cotton textile industry during the past few decades. The film gives a background for a clear understanding of cotton's essential usefulness to the consumer and the economic significance of one of America's basic commodities.

Twenty-Six Arrests For Game And Fish Law Violations

The Conservation officers of the Division of Game and Fish made twenty-six arrests during the month of January for Game and Fish law violation and received twelve convictions. The officers checked only 266 licenses during the month. This decided decline in numbers of licenses checked was due to the snow and bitter cold Kentucky experienced during the month.
