Magoon, Beriah ... From the bench he was elected to the state senate in 1850.

In 1855 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the office of lieutenant-governor, but at the next gubernatorial election was made governor for the term of four years. At the beginning of the secession movement in 1860, he wrote to commissioners from Alabama who were seeking Kentucky's co-operation with the other southern states, advising that the slave states agree on amendments to the United States Constitution that would meet with the approbation of southern Democrats. In his message to the state legislature in Feb., 1861, he recommended the speedy calling of a convention of the border states to determine their attitude in the impending crisis. When, on April 15, 1861, Pres. Lincoln called for 75,000 men to suppress insurrection, Gov. Magoffin replied that "Kentucky would furnish no troops for the wicked purpose of subdividing her sister southern states." He issued a proclamation May, 20, warning the citizens of the state from taking any part in hostilities on either side and forbidding either the United States or the Confederate government to undertake any occupation of state territory or to invade Kentucky soil with a hostile force; but recruiting for the Union service was carried on at Camp Dick Robinson, in Garrard County and at other places. He labored earnestly to stop the war and to have Kentucky act the part of mediator and peace maker between the north and south. In August, 1861, he sent letters to Pres. Lincoln and Pres. Davis, in which he declared the neutrality of Kentucky and requested the former to withdraw natural troops from the state. When Gen. Leoidas Polk occupied and fortified Hickman and Columbus, the legislature passed a resolution directing the governor to demand the withdrawal of the Confederate troops. He promptly vetoed this resolution, but it was passed over his head, and he accordingly issued the proclamation.
Magog,Harri

Then, shortly after, the legislature passed resolutions inviting Gen. Robert Anderson of Fort Sumter fame, to organize a volunteer force and expel the Confederate invaders and asking that the governor call out the state militia and place Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden in command, he again exercised the right of veto, and again without avail. Early in 1862 the legislature disfranchised those and took other measures to commit Kentucky to the Union side. These acts also were vetoed by the governor and were passed over his veto.

August, 1862, he called an extra session of the legislature and tendered his resignation.

He died at his home in Harrodsburg, Ky., Feb. 28, 1865.
The Buzzard Rocks and Caves

One of the most picturesque, and natural phenomena is to be found about 8 miles south of Salyersville, in Magoffin County and can be reached by railroad from Paintsville or by highway by way of Salyersville and Royalton. The natural beauty and convenient camping grounds that they afford lures many native admirers, especially the youthful campers. The rocks are high and secluded, being hidden by heavy timber, but easily accessible from either direction. They form the top of the hill in layers with trees and various green, grassy spots on their broad flat top and is ideal for the hunter or nature lover. They are in a square formation and in one side are found two large natural caves, greatly resembling large open rooms, with a trail leading into each, and one smaller compartment that is thought to have to have been built by Indians, or some primitive race; both arrowheads and stone hatchets have been found in it, and also has a small closet like annex that could have been used as a store room. These caves show all signs of early habitation, probably by Indians.

The caves are located on Gun Creek, a tributary of Licking River, and rise approximately 500 feet above the valley floor, affording a splendid panoramic outlook of the surrounding country.

The writer of this article has spent many nights of his youth in the interior of the caves and knows it to be a very pleasant place to spend a night or nights in sublime happiness, and would be a delightfully interesting place for visiting tourists.

2. How Royalton, Kentucky got its name.

Years ago before Kentucky was so thickly settled there was a big saw mill came to Royalton, Kentucky, which then didn't have a name. The mill was called "The Big Mill" or Dawkins Lumber Company. Right away houses sprang up all around. There was grocery stores, a school and a bank (which is gone now). One day the Governor of Kentucky came to see this fair growing town, which now is a wide spot in the road, and when he looked it over he said, "well boys, you have a royal little town here." So from that the place was called Royalton. I don't remember who the Governor was but my great uncle told me this and he should know he lived in Royalton all his life even before that was the places name.

The Origin of Magoffin Co. Place Names compiled by Nina Arnett
Georgetown College, Spring, 1962 (copy loaned to me by her sister, Mrs. Connie A. Wireman, 4/20/1979)

1. Twin Lick for the "presence of two identical licks"
   - Rock Lick named for its location "at the site of a large rock."
   - Panther Lick (pron. "Painters Lick")
   - Salt Lick for the large salt spring "where deer came to lick"
   (these from interviews with Mrs. T.L. Shepherd, Mrs. Berta Hopkins, Mr. J.I. Stephens, May, 1962) (P. 2)

2. Lick Branch, the site of a sulphur spring.
   - Sulphur Spring on Howard Branch. A large sulphur spring at its mouth. "A barrel was sunk into the ground at its location and in the 19th and early 20th centuries, people came there to drink this water." (interviews with M&M Leck Shepherd & Dona Risner, 5/1962) (P. 2)

3. Bear Tree for a tree that Dan'l. Boone is alleged to have carved "D. Boone killed a bar." (P. 4 from MAGOFFINS FIRST CENT.)

4. Beetree for the bee trees in area. (P. 5 from interview with Arvel W. Arnett, 5/1962)

5. Pigpen on Puncheon Creek "Formerly the mt. people allowed their hogs to run loose. They built a common corral and every spring they ran all the hogs into it so each man could pick out his own hogs and mark them. The location where a certain man brought his drove of hogs in order to let them eat the mast found there, is the origin of Pigpen...He built a huge pigpen to allow the hogs to become familiar with this environment so they would stay there after they were turned out of the pen. Mast is a term used for wild food for hogs such as beechnuts, acorns, and chestnuts," (sic) (Pp. 5-6 from interviews with Dona Risner & Arvel W. Arnett, 5/1962).

6. Brushy Fork named for profusion of underbrush. (Ibid., P. 6)

7. Grassy Creek for hill "covered by a peculiar grass only seen there." (Ibid.)

8. Boardtree Creek. "These are any trees from which (mt. people) rive shingies for rooftops. In this area only the red and white oaks are suitable for this purpose." (P. 6 from interview with Arvel W. Arnett, 5/62)

9. Bubby Hollow (on Buck Creek) for the abundance of so-called bubby bushes. (P. 7 from interview with W.H. Wireman, 5/1962)

10. Cisco named for Capt. T.S. Cisco, vet. of WWI. (P. 8 from interview with J.I. Stephens, 5/1962)

11. Trace Fork of Licking Creek: Before 1860 was owned by one man. Then 40,000 acres of virgin timber. He is said to have traded it for a flintlock hog rifle and a hound dog with which he took off for the west. (P. 9 from interview with Arvel W. Arnett and MF Arnett, 5/62)

12. Puncheon Creek or Puncheoncamp: for old log house with puncheon floor. May have been a camp for hunters. (ibid) (P. 10 from interview Dona Risner & Arvel W. Arnett)
13. Gun Creek for an old flintlock hog rifle found on its banks. (P. 10 from interview with Mrs. Berta Hopkins, 5/62)

14. Half-a-Bushel Branch of Buck Creek for half a bushel of ginseng found there. (P. 10 from interview with W.H. Wireman, 5/62)

15. Logville for a logging camp. (Pp. 10-11 from ibid.)

16. Mine Fork for several mines there. (P. 11 from interview with J.I. Stephens and Arvel W. Arnett)

17. Tiptop at the head of Oakley Creek for a mine at the top of that creek. (Ibid.)

18. Open Fork for the open space.

20. Ivyton for the profusion of ivy there. (Ibid.)

21. State Road Fork for one of the first state maintained roads. (Ibid).

22. Negro Branch allegedly named for ex-slaves who had lived there for a time after being freed. (Ibid.-P. 12)

23. Alum Cave Fork for deposits of mineral alum there. (P. 12 from interview with Mrs. Berta Hopkins) and brushy

24. Hall's Half an Acre = c. ½ acre of barren, rock strewn/ground. (Ib.)

25. Half a Mountain "is named because Licking R. runs around both sides of a small mt. at the mouth of the creek, leaving it cut off from the mt. chain. This is the (site) of one of the battles in...the C.W." (P. 13 from interview with M.F. Arnett, 5/62)

26. Swampton for the swampy land.

Pond Branch (Buck Cr.) for several ponds.
Shanty Branch (Buck) for a small shanty there for several generations (Ib. from interview with W.H. Wireman)
