FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Brian Eisert, a Morehead State University junior majoring in music education, has been selected as the winner of the 10th annual A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music Performance Competition.

The award includes a $1,000 cash prize and the privilege of performing at MSU's Academic Awards Convocation on Sunday, May 4.

For the Gallaher Competition, Eisert performed Minoru Miki's "Marimba Spiritual." Accompanied by Nathan Lavy, Sandusky, Ohio, senior percussionist, he will perform the same music for the convocation.

A dedicated percussionist since the eighth grade, Eisert enjoyed the opportunity to perform with his fellow classmates. To prepare for the performance, he condensed a piece of music, originally written for three parts, into a composition he would present with an accompanist.

A three-year member of the MSU Percussion Ensemble, Eisert studies percussion with Frank Oddis, associate professor of music. A Jefferson County native, he is the son of Don and Nola Eisert of Louisville and a graduate of Male High School.

Named for the late Ashland businessman, the A. Frank Gallaher Memorial Music Performance Competition was endowed in 1987 by the family and friends, according to Dr. Christopher Gallaher, chair of MSU's Department of Music. The award competition is open only to current juniors.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Professional Food Service Management, Inc. (PFM), Morehead State University's food service contract holder since 1989, has a new identity--Chartwells.

"We don't anticipate much change in the day-to-day handling of Chartwells' campus operations," said Mike Walters, MSU assistant vice president for fiscal services. "The regional and local management personnel is still the same," Walters added. Michael A. Ray is the food service director for Chartwells at MSU.

"What this does mean is that Chartwells will have additional resources available to it which could increase the profitability of its various campus operations," Walters said. Currently, Chartwells serves more than 1,000 college and university accounts.

Chartwells is the higher education food service division of the Compass Group which is based in the United Kingdom. With strong marketing positions in the UK, Continental Europe and the United States and emerging markets in South American and Asia, Compass operates in more than 40 companies worldwide and has revenues of approximately $5 billion.

The purchase of PFM by the Compass Group in August 1996 marked the international food service organization's entry in the higher education food service market. The name change from PFM to Chartwells occurred earlier this spring.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---"Manager friendly!" That's how Morehead State University's College of Business describes its MBA degree program.

The program is offered not only on the main campus, but at selected sites throughout the region via distance learning. Distance learning methods include two-way interactive video and Internet.

"We've done everything we can to make this program accessible to as many people as possible," said Dr. Sheryl Kae, MSU assistant professor of management who serves as MBA program coordinator.

"In revising the curriculum, we've also added three specialty options to the regular MBA program," Dr. Kae said. This spring we launched both a Bank Management option as well as a Human Resources Administration option and this fall we will add a Health Care Administration option, she noted.

Each option requires the student to take 12 elective hours in the specialty area in addition to the regular MBA core courses.

Consisting of four banking/financial markets courses, the Bank Management option is a "virtual" option with four electives offered only on Internet: Advanced Bank Management, Financial Markets, Financial Services Marketing and Asset and Liability Management.

The virtual option, which is targeted at bank employees who wish to advance in the industry, offers students the chance to obtain the necessary courses without leaving home or disrupting their career or family life.

The Human Resources Administration option is designed to enhance the professional skills of those working in human resources or personnel areas of business. Offered through a combination of interactive video and Internet courses, the option consists of courses in Compensation and Benefits, Human Resource Topics, Industrial Relations and Women and Men in Management.

MBA

Offered for the first time this fall, the Health Care Administration option will allow current health care professionals as well as students wishing to work in the health care industry to advance their careers.

The curriculum for this option was designed with the aid of the college's Health Care Advisory Board, which is composed of health care professionals from MSU's service region.

The courses for this specialty option currently include Health Care Organization and Management, Trends in Health Care Delivery, Health Care Finance and Accounting and Problems and Policies in Health Care Management. Health care professionals also will be teaching courses in this option.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Three Morehead State University faculty members who have distinguished themselves in their fields have been recognized by their colleagues as recipients of the University's most prized faculty awards.

Dr. Donald Flatt, professor of history, whose goal is to inspire his students to reach their intellectual potential, was named the 1996-97 Distinguished Teacher. The award was originally established by the MSU Alumni Association in 1964.

Dr. Ronald L. Mitchelson, professor of geography and chair of the Department of Geography, Government and History, who studies the geography of movement of people, goods, services, resources and capital, was selected as the 1996-97 Distinguished Researcher.

Dr. Christopher S. Gallaher, professor of music and chair of the department, who remains active outside the classroom in his field as a composer and arranger, has earned the 1996-97 Distinguished Creative Productions Award.

The awards were announced at the University's 13th annual Academic Awards Convocation held Sunday, May 4, in Button Auditorium. The event launched a week-long tribute to scholastic excellence campuswide.

A member of the faculty for 35 years, Dr. Flatt is known by his colleagues as a generous man who puts the needs of the institution ahead of his own personal interests. "Teaching is in my blood," the historian said. He also believes a professor would have to try hard to make history boring. Specializing in American history, Dr. Flatt often brings in guest speakers to make a historical period come alive for his students. He recently received the first Outstanding Teacher Award given by MSU's Greek Councils.

Dr. Flatt, who served for eight years as department chair, not only teaches his students, but also counsels them and serves as a mentor for younger faculty members in his department. He also has conducted student study tours in Great Britain and France.

A frequent contributor of columns and feature articles to newspapers in the region, he also has conducted numerous oral history interviews; presented papers at professional meetings and written for scholarly publications. Dr. Flatt has written two books: "Footsteps Across the Commonwealth," a tribute to MSU President and Mrs. Adron Doran upon their retirement; and "A Light to the Mountains," a history of MSU from 1887 to 1997 to be published later this year.

A participant in six Hofstra Presidential Forums, Dr. Flatt is a member of numerous historical and honor societies, including the Filson Club and the Disciples of Christ Historical Society. He served on the Kentucky Preservation Board and the Kentucky Bicentennial Commission. A Church of Christ lay minister for more than 30 years, he earned his A.B. and M.A. degrees from MSU and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Kentucky.

(MORE)

Dr. Mitchelson, who came to MSU in 1992, conducts research in the general area of spatial interaction and quantitative analysis. A recognized authority in this field nationwide, he has been published in several refereed journals, including the Annals of the Association of American Geographers, Economic Geography, Geographic Review and the Southeastern Geographer. He also serves as a referee for several professional publications. Dr. Mitchelson has had 40 abstracts published in conjunction with presentations at national and regional meetings and has contributed chapters to five books.

His research has been supported by such institutions as the U.S. Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of State, U.S. Department of Transportation, U.S. Forest Service, the Appalachian Regional Commission, Kentucky Heritage Council and several Eastern Kentucky development districts. Dr. Mitchelson's total for funded research since 1979 is more than $600,000.

The co-director of MSU's Center for Community and Economic Development, Dr. Mitchelson also is involved in several applied research projects in the region. These include rural comprehensive planning, space-time issues in transportation of hazardous materials, an information system to inventory and monitor the state's forest resources.

He is working with others across the state on the development of a new Kentucky Atlas. Dr. Mitchelson and a former MSU faculty member are developing an Electronic Kentucky Atlas.

Dr. Mitchelson earned the B.A. degree magna cum laude from the State University of New York-Buffalo. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he received a graduate fellowship to attend Ohio State University where he earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. A member of the Governor's Appalachian Task Force, he served as state geographer in 1994-95.

Dr. Gallaher, who joined the faculty in 1972, is committed to balancing his time among teaching, creative endeavors and service. A musician and educator, he has nearly 40 compositions and arrangements currently in print which are performed frequently throughout the United States and Europe each year. He also has more than 400 unpublished arrangements written for ensembles ranging in size from eight to 22 members.

Currently completing an original work entitled "Music for Flute and Piano," Dr. Gallaher has had compositions recently premiered at the Kentucky Music Educators Conference, the International Conference of Tubist and Universal Brotherhood Association (TUBA) and the College Conservatory of Music of the University of Cincinnati. He has several other works in progress for various instruments, including flute, trumpet, oboe, and piano. In April, he finished the first movement of a piece entitled "Music for Trumpet Alone ('Almost')." .

Department chair since 1985, he has performed with many major entertainment stars, including the Henry Mancini Orchestra, Bob Hope, Johnny Mathis, Doc Severinsen, Mel Torme, Liza Minelli, Elvis Presley, Jay Leno, Rich Little, Steve Martin and Dionne Warwick. Dr. Gallaher has produced an arrangement for the 1977 Miss America Pageant winner, Susan Perkins (Miss Ohio). He was arranger, conductor and/or performer for five commercial recordings.

Dr. Gallaher earned his A.B. degree from MSU, the M.M. and Ph.D. degrees in music theory from Indiana University. His post-doctorate work includes a music administrators seminar at Westminster Choir College and a workshop conducted by the Indiana University Center on Philanthropy. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Morehead State University will hold its 1997 Spring Commencement at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, May 17, in the Academic-Athletic Center. More than 700 undergraduate and graduate students are candidates for degrees to be conferred by MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin.

The University also will award honorary Doctor of Musical Arts degrees to two country music stars from Eastern Kentucky, Tom T. Hall and Ricky Skaggs, who have achieved distinction in their art and brought a high degree of visibility to MSU's service region.

Tom T. Hall, a native of Carter County, has built an international reputation as a singer, songwriter and author. Recognized with major awards from the Country Music Association and the Grammys, he is a member of the Songwriters Hall of Fame and has recorded 34 albums and performed worldwide with his band, The Storytellers.

His songs have been recorded by such artists as Perry Como, Loretta Lynn, Willie Nelson and Alan Jackson. A recording artist in his own right, he has one of the most enduring and recognizable voices on the country music airways. Aside from his efforts in the music world, he has written several books and has involved himself in a wide range of other professional and personal endeavors.

Ricky Skaggs, a Lawrence County native, has succeeded the late Bill Monroe as the dominant figure in bluegrass music. When invited to join the Grand Ole Opry in 1982, he was the youngest member of that acclaimed troupe of country music performers in Nashville. Winner of four Grammys and eight CMA awards, he was the CMA 1985 Entertainer of the Year.

From a performance on the Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs TV show to appearances with such artists as Ralph Stanley, Keith Whitley, J.D. Crowe, Emmylou Harris, Vince Gill and Alison Krauss, Skaggs has worked with many of country music's legends. The singer, arranger and record producer also helped to bring country music back to its roots.

The student speaker will be Daniel W. Sharp of Morehead, a graduating senior in the College of Science and Technology. A dean's list student, he will receive his B.S. degree in mathematics and computer programming with honors.

An MSU Presidential Scholarship recipient, he has been active in the Academic Honors Program and was the 1995-96 president of the Academic Honors Student Association. He has made several presentations at state, regional and national honors conferences.

(MORE)

He has been active in the University's Leadership Development Program, Eagle Red Carpet Society, Soccer Club and Phi Kappa Phi honor society. A past president of the Gateway Soccer Officials Association, he is a U.S. Soccer Federation referee, Grade 8, eligible to officiate at adult and youth-level matches, and is a Kentucky High School Athletic Association approved referee for high school-level soccer matches. Additionally, he has served as a peer adviser and student telecounselor admissions representative.

The SGA "Senior of the Month" in January, he was recognized this spring by the Department of Mathematics as its Outstanding Student in Mathematics and Computer Programming. The son of Bill and Betty Sharp of Morehead, he will join IBM in Lexington this August as a programmer after studying abroad this summer.

Also to be honored will be a faculty and a staff member who are recipients of the University's Distinguished Service Awards, given to those exemplifying the highest ideals of citizenship and service.

Dr. Donald Flatt, professor of history and the 1996-97 Distinguished Teacher Award recipient, will serve as grand marshal with Dr. Frances Helphinstine, professor of English, assisting as faculty marshal.

Serving as student marshals will be John Lott III of Newton, N.C., and Robert Spradling of Clearfield, representing Graduate and Extended Campus Programs; Marcia Smith of Olive Hill and Randolph Lillard of Union, College of Science and Technology; Jennifer Adams of Mt. Sterling and Erin Greenwood of Hebron, College of Business; Jeremy Johnson of Louisville and Kevin Maynard of West Liberty, College of Education and Behavioral Sciences, and Susan Britsch of Lexington and Erica Ellerbusch of Mt. Vernon, Ill. Caudill College of Humanities.

Once the degrees have been conferred, the new alumni will be inducted into the MSU Alumni Association by its president, H. Jack Webb.

A reception for graduates and their families, sponsored by the MSU Alumni Association, will be hosted by MSU President and Mrs. Eaglin immediately following the ceremony.

On Friday, May 16, the Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences will conduct a pinning ceremony for graduates of the nursing programs at 7:30 p.m. in Button Auditorium. MSU's Department of Military Science will conduct a commissioning ceremony at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 17, in the Commonwealth Room, Adron Doran University Center.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Whether you're just starting out, need a refresher or have been riding a motorcycle for some time and want to be an instructor, Morehead State University is offering a RiderCourse that is right for you.

To promote Motorcycle Awareness Month in May, MSU's Community Development and Continuing Education Program, in conjunction with the Kentucky Motorcycle Program, will offer basic and advanced courses.

For beginning cyclists, there is "Riding and Street Skills" (RSS). Appropriate for all ages, the course will include classroom instruction in on-cycle maneuvers in a controlled off-street environment. Tips on how to safely operate a cycle, beginning with the proper mounting technique and gradually working up to swerving and emergency braking techniques, also will be included.

Concluding the course will be a knowledge test and an on-cycle skills evaluation.

A 20-hour program, the beginning class will meet on Friday evening from 6 to 10 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. It will be offered May 23-25 and June 13-15.

Participants must be at least 16 years of age to register. Those under 18 must have a waiver signed by a parent or guardian before taking the course.

For the more knowledgeable rider, there is the "Experienced RiderCourse" (ERC) which allows participants the opportunity to fine tune their street skills. Classroom instruction offers mental strategies necessary to reduce risk. Individuals who have a current motorcycle license, have access to a street legal cycle and some riding experience fall in this category. Participants may bring a rider to serve as a passenger.

A one-day course, the ERC will be taught from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on June 7 and June 21.

The cost is $85 for the beginning course and $50 for the advanced class. Early registration is encouraged because of limited class size. The instructors are certified by the Kentucky Motorcycle Program.

New instructors also are needed for various locations in the state. If you know of someone who possesses the qualifications of a good instructor, have them contact the Kentucky Motorcycle Program.

Additional information and registration are available by calling (606) 783-2077.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---WMKY 90.3 F.M., listener-supported radio from Morehead State University, wrapped up its 1997 Spring Fund Drive with a record number of pledges.

The drive raised the most money of any spring fund drive in the station's 32-year history. The station received more than 300 pledges, including over 200 gifts from new donors and more than $9,000 in gifts during the on-air drive.

"The drive was phenomenal," said Angela Mullins, WMKY's development and promotion director. "I never doubted the level of support for public radio in our region, but I also didn't expect to be overwhelmed with calls like we were." Calls were received from all over Northeast Kentucky, as well as from areas such as Blue Creek, Ohio, and Williamson, W. Va.

"This will certainly be a boost for our community support numbers for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting," said Dr. Janet Kenney, MSU Department of Communications chair and acting station manager. "The station must meet new criteria to receive federal funding beginning fiscal year 1998 and community support is one of the standards measured," she said.

"We'd like to thank everyone who made a gift and remind listeners who didn't call in that it is never too late," Mullins said. "I know a few people may have just forgotten or may have been worried about taxes."

To make a contribution, contact Mullins at (606) 783-2394 or 1-800-286-WMKY.

The awards will be given by MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin at the commencement ceremony which begins at 10:30 a.m. in the Academic-Athletic Center. Established in 1992, the service awards are designed to recognize University employees who exemplify the highest ideals of citizenship and service.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Pride in the rich heritage and bright future of Eastern Kentucky and Morehead State University was in full display Saturday (May 17) as the University conferred more than 700 undergraduate and graduate degrees on the candidates who included two country music superstars from Eastern Kentucky.

Carter County native Tom T. Hall and Lawrence County native Ricky Skaggs received honorary Doctor of Musical Arts degrees during MSU's 1997 Spring Commencement.

Hall, who in his early years was a disc jockey at WMOR Radio in Morehead, expressed his thanks to "what I consider my hometown University" and said that he wanted to acknowledge that there were "some 700 stars here today," referring to the graduates.

Choking back tears, Skaggs said he was receiving his award in honor of two special people--his father who passed away in December and the late bluegrass musician Bill Monroe. "There's a lot of pride and honor in Kentuckians," Skaggs said.

Presenting the honorary degrees was L.M. "Sonny" Jones, chair of the University's Board of Regents, while MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin conferred the students' degrees.

The student speaker, Daniel W. Sharp of Morehead, tied his remarks to the theme for MSU's celebration of its 75th anniversary as a public institution, "Rich Heritage, Bright Future."

"We are at the same time part of both the rich heritage and bright future of MSU," Sharp, told his classmates. "Each of us has added to the heritage of the University and left an impression on the school that will not be soon forgotten," said Sharp, who received his B.S. degree in mathematics and computer programming with honors.

During commencement ceremonies, MSU's executive vice president for academic affairs, Dr. John C. Philley was presented with resolutions from both of Kentucky's legislative bodies citing his leadership, stewardship and service as an academician and scientist. Dr. Philley is retiring after 37 years at MSU. Making the presentations on behalf of their legislative colleagues were Sen. Walter Blevins and Rep. John Will Stacy.

Also, Dr. Eaglin presented two MSU Distinguished Service Awards to individuals who exemplify the highest ideals of citizenship and service. This year's recipients were Dr. Frances Helphinstine, professor of English, and Shirley Hamilton, director of community development.

Following the conferring of degrees, MSU's newest alumni were inducted into the Alumni Association by Jones, past president of the MSU Alumni Association. The new graduates join more than 40,000 alumni nationwide and abroad.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Kelly Kulick had played several sports while growing up in Union, N.J., and hoped to be able to play either basketball or softball in college.

Almost as an afterthought, 13 years ago, her grandfather William Kulick taught her to bowl. She bowled just for fun at first, then got involved in some bowling leagues and eventually found out about college bowling from a friend. Now a sophomore at Morehead State University, Kulick has been named 1996-97 Female Collegiate Bowler of the Year.

"At first I was shocked, then honored," she said. "Not only was I recognized by other coaches, but also by my peers. It's something I've wanted."

A double major in physical education and health, Kulick averaged 207 points per contest to leading MSU's women's team to a national ranking that reached as high as number one. The team placed sixth at nationals this year when Kulick was slowed by illness.

"We started out strong, but kind of died out at the end," Kulick said of the season. "It was a productive season. Our goal was to win the title."

In addition to being named bowler of the year, Kulick received a $1,000 scholarship, will be featured in an article in "Bowlers' Digest" and was named first team All-American and team most valuable player.

Kulick got into college bowling because she believed she could further her career with it, and eventually hopes to make it into the professional bowling tour. She will be eligible to apply after averaging 185 or better for two years in professional leagues.

Already there is talk of her going professional now, but that talk doesn't come from her. She doesn't believe she is quite prepared. "Physically, yes; mentally, no," she said. "There's lots of pressure (to go professional).

"There are several things you need to advance to the professional level. First, you need to be on top of your game. You also need to keep in shape--bowling is a sport and you have to be in top physical condition. Finally, you don't need to worry about beating your opponents; you need to beat the pins."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Habitat for Humanity is known for providing affordable housing to hundreds of families across America. For the six Morehead families who will get new homes this year, it will mean not only physical shelter but intellectual enrichment as well.

In a special effort, the Morehead Area Habitat for Humanity will add a literacy component to this summer's Jimmy Carter Work Project. Local people will buy books and magazine subscriptions and build bookcases for the Habitat families' new homes.

"Habitat has always been interested in enhancing the quality of life for families, not just providing shelter," said the Rev. Don Mantooth, president of the local Habitat chapter and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Morehead. "This seemed like a logical extension that would involve people who might not normally get directly involved in the building process." Morehead is the first chapter to include this type of project as a part of Habitat, according to Mantooth.

The collection of new books and money for this part of the project will be coordinated by Dr. Melinda Willis and Dr. Adele Moriarty, assistant professors of education at Morehead State University.

"The availability of literature in the home not only provides opportunities for learning and enjoyment for mature readers but also plays an important role in nurturing literacy in young children," Dr. Willis said. "Early exposure to an environment rich in written language is a great first step toward the development of the ability to read and future academic success," she added.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the project may do so by dropping off the new books at these locations: Morehead United Methodist Church, First Baptist Church, St. Alban's Episcopal Church, Word of Life Full Gospel Fellowship, Jesus Our Savior Catholic Church, First Presbyterian Church, First Christian Church, The Church of Christ, First Church of God, Johnson First Church of God, the Book Haven and 401 L Ginger Hall on the MSU campus. Those making purchases at Book Haven will receive a 20 percent discount on books for this project.

Rev. Mantooth is coordinating the building of the bookcases with lumber donated by Harold White Lumber, Inc.

If you would like to make a contribution to purchase books or magazine subscriptions, make check payable to Morehead Area Habitat for Humanity and send to PO Box 180, Morehead, KY 40351. Please note on the check that it is for books.

Additional information on Habitat's 1997 building blitz, which will take place June 15-22 in Morehead, is available by calling (606) 784-8408.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOREHEAD, Ky.---To many people in Eastern Kentucky who love public radio, Larry Netherton was synonymous with WMKY 90.3 FM.

During his more than 30-year career at the public radio station, located on the campus of Morehead State University, Netherton wore a variety of hats, including that of WMKY's general manager for 21 of those years.

"I have always loved radio," Netherton said. "I was a fanatic about it when I was a kid. I loved listening to the classic old programs."

Natives of Warren County, Netherton and his wife Mary Jo, MSU associate professor of French, married in 1962 and both attended Western Kentucky University. "We reversed roles," he said. "I worked and put her through school." He took classes part-time and worked at Southern States.

Al Temple, whom Netherton described as "an institution in the Kentucky Broadcasters Association," was well known locally, and Netherton knew his voice from the radio. Whenever he would come into the Southern States store, the two would talk. He eventually gave Netherton the opportunity to announce ball games on a local commercial radio station. There were no courses of study at that time in radio or broadcast journalism, Netherton said, and the only way to learn radio was through practical experience.

When Mary Jo received a job offer at Breckinridge School, the couple moved to Morehead. Netherton finished his studies at MSU, earning a bachelor's degree in 1967 and a master's in 1968, studying psychology, sociology, and political science.

When WMKY signed on in 1965, Netherton was there. During the four-hour broadcast day, he did news and sports. Most of the programs were student-oriented since they were practically the only audience; the station's power was 10 watts, and because of the terrain there were even places on campus where it couldn't be picked up at all.

"Don Holloway was the real visionary behind WMKY," said Netherton. "He got the station on track to increase power. He also began teaching the first courses in radio on this campus." (Holloway was WMKY's first station manager.)

Long before National Public Radio (NPR), WMKY was interested in news and public affairs programming. Netherton feels this interest has consistently been one of the station's strengths. When "All Things Considered," NPR's evening news program, debuted in 1971, WMKY began airing the program. In April 1972, the station began its own morning magazine, called "New Day," which Netherton described as an ambitious undertaking. "There was a host for three hours, and a separate co-host for each hour. An original co-host for the first hour was Carl Haight, who is now the general manager of WFLE in Flemingsburg," Netherton said. Other students who worked on "New Day" include Liz Everman, TV news anchor at WLKY in Louisville and Mike Cresham who later managed WHAS in Louisville. The show continued until NPR added its own morning news program, "Morning Edition."

"We have always capitalized on NPR's Kentucky connection," Netherton said with a smile. Louisville native Bob Edwards hosts "Morning Edition," and Ashland's Noah Adams hosts "All Things Considered."

And now there's a new Kentucky voice, that of Steve Inskeep who graduated from MSU in 1990 and whose voice was often heard on WMKY when he was a student. Inskeep became a full-time NPR employee several months ago after having many of his freelance reports carried on "All Things Considered."

"It's very rewarding seeing students develop and succeed professionally," Netherton said. "Many students have excellent story ideas. Their coursework is valuable, but the practical experience they get at the station is equally valuable." He said that WMKY's students are now working in radio from Alaska to Nicaragua, while others have gone into law, engineering, and university teaching.

Netherton said that working with students has been the highlight of his years at the station; another is the contribution of volunteers. "Public radio has always had volunteers, and probably always will," he said. Netherton mentioned Dr. John Modaff, MSU associate professor of speech, whose "My Turn" commentaries have earned national recognition, and Harvey Pennington, Glenn Buckner, and Steve Young, MSU professor of education, whose "Friends and Folk" has aired for more than six years, as but a few of the outstanding volunteers who have helped the station grow in diversity and outreach.

In fall of 1996, Larry Netherton retired from WMKY to take up new challenges. Beginning with the 1997 spring semester, Netherton joined the faculty of the Department of Communications.

"It's exciting to get back to teaching," he said, noting that at some point many of WMKY's staff have taught radio courses.

WMKY is now an administrative unit in the Department of Communications. "Larry Netherton negotiated the vicissitudes of more than 20 years in public radio to leave a human legacy of people who worked for him and with him at WMKY and who are the richer for it," said Dr. Janet Kenney, chair of the department. "Larry was a teacher in his role as manager, and there are students across the country who are now professionals in broadcasting and related fields who can attest to the efficacy of his teaching."

High praise for Netherton also came from his peers in broadcasting. Francis Nash, general manager of WGOH-WUGO Radio in Grayson, described him as "one of the most respected managers in the state, not only because of his longevity but because of his commitment and his ability to work well with people. Larry has made a tremendous contribution to the understanding of public radio in the area as well as to the cooperation between public radio stations and commercial radio stations," he said.

The Nethertons are the parents of Ashley, a student at Hanover College. She is majoring in biology with an eye toward working in genetics.

"For 30 years Larry Netherton has been a great part of WMKY, and WMKY has been a great part of him," Dr. Modaff said in a commentary last fall. "If loving something is a crime, Larry no doubt would plead guilty. If you see him, thank him for his excesses. Thanks Larry!"

MOREHEAD, Ky.---A throng of some 40,000 people filled the street, a sea of humanity ready to flood the city in the 100th Annual Boston Marathon. Near the front, just behind the group that contained the world's most elite runners and the highest seeds in the race, was Scott Sears, a Morehead State University graduate student.

The cue was given and they were off. Sears looked in front of him and saw Moses Tanui, the eventual champion of the race, just a few steps ahead. "For a runner, it was the equivalent of playing against Michael Jordan," he said.

Two hours, 53 minutes and 26.2 kilometers later, Sears crossed the finish line in 1,300th place. "I finished alongside Bill Rogers, one of America's best runners in the 70s," he said. "It was a great experience."

For some people, running 26.2 kilometers would be far less than enjoyable. For Sears, it was a rush.

The race was not without its repercussions. "I was in bad shape for about a week," he said. "I couldn't walk down steps, so I had to sit and scoot down. It's the worst I've been after any race." Then he smiled and said, "Someday I'll run it again."

According to Sears, he first got the idea to run the Boston Marathon from Dan Lindsey, MSU's cross country coach, who had previously participated in the race. After graduation, Sears began training for the marathon. In order to qualify, he completed the Columbus Marathon in two hours, 46 minutes--24 minutes faster than the minimum qualifying time. After the required phone calls and paper work, he was headed to Boston.

Sears gained his love for running while growing up in Milford, Ohio, outside Cincinnati. His high school coach, Dave Neimeyer, was an influential figure in his life.

Now, after four years of running cross country for MSU, Sears is a graduate assistant for the cross country and track teams. He plans on getting a master's degree in physical education and eventually coaching on the college level.

Sears

2-2-2-2-2

Sears said his view of running has changed over the years. Early in his life, he would race and determine his success according to the place in which he finished. "Now I run for time, not placing," he said. "I realize you have to run for yourself."

His desire to coach is a direct result of his experiences. "I just want to give back to other students a little of what has been given to me," he said.

Pleased with the direction his life has taken, Sears said he needs to place credit where credit is due. "I owe a lot to MSU. It's been great. Coach Lindsey has been great. Things have really worked out."
